6 Then he called for Solomon his son and charged him to build a house for Yahweh, the God of Israel. 7 David said to Solomon, "My son, as for me, it was in my heart to build a house to the name of Yahweh my God. 8 But the word of Yahweh came to me, saying, 'You have shed blood abundantly and have made great wars. You shall not build a house to my name, because you have shed much blood upon the earth in my sight. 9 Behold, a son shall be born to you, who shall be a man of rest. I will give him rest from all his enemies all around; for his name shall be Solomon, and I will give peace and quietness to Israel in his days.[c] 10 He shall build a house for my name. He shall be my son, and I will be his father; and I will establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel forever.' 11 Now, my son, may Yahweh be with you, so that you may prosper and build the house of Yahweh your God, as he has spoken concerning you. 12 May Yahweh give you wisdom and understanding as he makes you ruler over Israel, so that you will keep the law of Yahweh your God. 13 Then you will prosper, if you are careful to do the statutes and the ordinances which Yahweh commanded Moses concerning Israel. Be strong and courageous. Do not be afraid, nor be dismayed. 14 Now see, in my affliction I have prepared for the house of Yahweh about 3,750 tons of gold and 37,500 tons of silver,[d] and bronze and iron beyond weighing, for it is in abundance. I have also prepared timber and stone, and you may add to them. 15 There are also workmen with you in abundance, cutters and workers of stone and timber, and all kinds of men who are skillful in every kind of work. 16 There is no counting the gold, silver, bronze, and iron. Get up and begin the work, and may Yahweh be with you." 17 David also commanded all the princes of Israel to help Solomon his son, saying, 18 "Is not Yahweh your God with you? And has he not given you rest on every side? For he has delivered the inhabitants of the land into my hand, and the land is subdued before Yahweh and before his people. 19 Now set your heart and your soul to seek Yahweh your God. Arise therefore and build the sanctuary of Yahweh God, to bring the ark of the covenant of Yahweh and the holy vessels of God into the house that is to be built for the name of Yahweh."

Notes

- a (22:1) This verse identifies Ornan's threshing floor as the site of the temple; compare 2 Chronicles 3:1.
- b (22:4) Sidonians, of Sidon ("fishing"); Tyrians, of Tyre (14:1).
- c (22:9) Solomon (Hebrew Shelomoh) sounds like shalom, "peace."
- d (22:14) Hebrew "a hundred thousand talents of gold and a million talents of silver": about 3,750 tons (3,400 metric tons) of gold and 37,500 tons (34,000 metric tons) of silver. The figures are enormous, perhaps intentionally hyperbolic; compare 29:4, 7.

Chapter 23

1 When David was old and full of days, he made Solomon his son king over Israel.[a] 2 And he assembled all the princes of Israel, and the priests and the Levites. 3 The Levites were numbered from thirty years old and upward, and their number, counted head by head, was thirty-eight thousand men.[b] 4 "Of these," David said, "twenty-four thousand shall oversee the work of the house of Yahweh, six thousand shall be officers and judges, 5 four thousand shall be gatekeepers, and four thousand shall praise Yahweh with the instruments that I made for praise."[c] 6 David divided them into divisions corresponding to the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

7 Of the Gershonites: Ladan and Shimei.[d] 8 The sons of Ladan: Jehiel the chief, and Zetham, and Joel, three.[e] 9 The sons of Shimei: Shelo-moth, Haziel, and Haran, three. These were the heads of the fathers' houses of Ladan.[f] 10 And the sons of Shimei: Jahath, Zina, Jeush, and Beriah. These four were the sons of Shimei.[g] 11 Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the second; Jeush and Beriah, however, had few sons, and therefore they were reckoned as one father's house, one assignment.[h] 12 The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four. 13 The sons of Amram: Aaron and Moses. And Aaron was separated, that he should sanctify the most holy things, he and his sons forever, to burn incense before Yahweh, to minister to him, and to bless in his name forever. 14 But as for Moses the man of God, his sons were named among the tribe of Levi. 15 The sons of Moses: Gershom and Eliezer. 16 The sons of Gershom: Shebuel the chief.[i] 17 The sons of Eliezer: Rehabiah the chief. Eliezer had no other sons, but the sons of Rehabiah were very many.[j] 18 The sons of Izhar: Shelomith the chief.[k]
19 The sons of Hebron: Jeriah the chief, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.[l] 20 The sons of Uzziel: Micah the chief, and Isshiah the second.[m] 21 The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli: Eleazar and Kish. 22 Eleazar died having no sons, only daughters; and their kinsmen, the sons of Kish, married them. 23 The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jeremoth, three.[n] 24 These were the sons of Levi after their fathers' houses, even the heads of the fathers' houses of those who were enrolled, by the number of names counted head by head, who did the work for the service of the house of Yahweh, from twenty years old and upward.[o] 25 For David said, "Yahweh, the God of Israel, has given rest to his people, and he dwells in Jerusalem forever. 26 So the Levites will no longer need to carry the tabernacle or any of its vessels for its service." 27 For by the last words of David the sons of Levi were numbered from twenty years old and upward. 28 Their office was to be at the side of the sons of Aaron for the service of the house of Yahweh, in the courts and in the chambers, in the cleansing of everything holy, and in any work for the service of the house of God; 29 also for the showbread, for the fine flour for a grain offering, for the unleavened wafers, for the baked offering, for the offering mixed with oil, and for all measures of quantity and size. 30 They were to stand every morning to thank and praise Yahweh, and likewise at evening, 31 and whenever burnt offerings were presented to Yahweh on Sabbaths, at new moons, and at the festivals, in the numbers prescribed for them, always before Yahweh. 32 So they took responsibility for the tent of meeting and the holy place, and for assisting their relatives, Aaron's descendants, in serving Yahweh's house.

Notes

- a (23:1) Compare 1 Kings 1:1–40, where Solomon is made king amid a struggle for succession; Chronicles does not narrate that struggle.
- b (23:3) Numbers 4:3 sets the age at thirty; Numbers 8:24 at twenty-five. In verses 24 and 27 of this chapter the age is twenty, as in 2 Chronicles 31:17 and Ezra 3:8. Verse 27 explains the change as David's last instruction.
- c (23:5) Hebrew "that I made"; the Septuagint reads "that he made."
- d (23:7) Ladan (6:17 and Exodus 6:17 Libni), perhaps "for pleasure"; Shimei, see 4:26.
- e (23:8) Jehiel, see 15:18; Zetham, "olive tree"; Joel, see 4:35.
- f (23:9) Some think Shimei here should be Jehiel, as Shimei's sons follow in verse 10. Shelomoth, "peaceful"; Haziel, "God sees"; Haran, perhaps "mountaineer."
- g (23:10) Jahath, see 4:2; Zina (verse 11 Zizah; the Septuagint reads Ziza here), uncertain; Jeush, see 1:35; Beriah, see 7:23.
- h (23:11) Or "a single class for duty."
- i (23:16) Shebuel (24:20 Shubael), perhaps "return, O God." Gershom, see 6:16.
- j (23:17) Rehabiah, "Yahweh has enlarged"; Eliezer, see 15:24.
- k (23:18) Shelomith (24:22 Shelomoth), "peaceful."
- l (23:19) Jeriah, "Yahweh sees"; Amariah, see 6:7; Jahaziel, see 12:4; Jekameam, "may the people rise."
- m (23:20) Micah, see 5:5; Isshiah, see 12:6.
- n (23:23) Mahli, see 6:19; Eder, "flock"; Jeremoth, "heights."
- o (23:24) See note on verse 3.

Chapter 24

1 The divisions of the sons of Aaron were these. The sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.[a] 2 But Nadab and Abihu died before their father and had no children, so Eleazar and Ithamar served as priests.[b] 3 David, with Zadok of the sons of Eleazar and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, divided them according to their offices in their service.[c] 4 More leaders were found among Eleazar's descendants than among Ithamar's, so they were organized this way: sixteen family heads from Eleazar's descendants and eight from Ithamar's, by their families. 5 They divided them by lot, the one sort with the other; for there were officers of the sanctuary and officers of God both of the sons of Eleazar and of the sons of Ithamar. 6 Shemaiah the son of Nethanel the scribe, one of the Levites, recorded them in the presence of the king, the princes, Zadok the priest, Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and the heads of the fathers' houses of the priests and of the Levites: one father's house being drawn for Eleazar, and one drawn for Ithamar.[d]

7 The first lot came forth to Jehoiarib, the second to Jedaiah,[e] 8 the third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim,[f] 9 the fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Mijamin,[g] 10 the seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abijah,[h] 11 the ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah,[i] 12 the eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim,[j] 13 the thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeab,[k] 14 the fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer,[l] 15 the seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Happizzez,[m] 16 the nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezkel,[n] 17 the twenty-first to Jachin, the twenty-second to Gamul,[o] 18 the twenty-third to Delaiah, the twenty-fourth to Maaziah.[p] 19 This was the order of their service for entering Yahweh's house, following the procedure set for them by their ancestor Aaron, just as Yahweh, the God of Israel, had commanded him.
20 And of the rest of the sons of Levi: of the sons of Amram, Shubael; of the sons of Shubael, Jehdeiah.[q] 21 Of Rehabiah: of the sons of Rehabiah, Isshiah the chief. 22 Of the Izharites, Shelomoth; of the sons of Shelo-moth, Jahath. 23 The sons of Hebron:[r] Jeriah the chief, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, Jekameam the fourth. 24 The sons of Uzziel, Micah; of the sons of Micah, Shamir.[s] 25 The brother of Micah, Isshiah; of the sons of Isshiah, Zechariah. 26 The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Jaaziah: Beno.[t] 27 The sons of Merari: of Jaaziah, Beno, Shoham, Zaccur, and Ibri.[u] 28 Of Mahli: Eleazar, who had no sons. 29 Of Kish, the sons of Kish: Jerahmeel.[v] 30 The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the sons of the Levites by their fathers' houses. [31] These likewise cast lots even as their brothers the sons of Aaron, in the presence of David the king, Zadok, Ahimelech, and the heads of the fathers' houses of the priests and of the Levites, the head of each father's house the same as his younger brother.

Notes

- a (24:1) Nadab, see 2:28; Abihu, "he is my father"; Eleazar, see 6:3; Ithamar, "island of palms."
- b (24:2) See Leviticus 10:1–2.
- c (24:3) Ahimelech, "my brother is king." Compare 18:16, where the Hebrew reads Abimelech.
- d (24:6) Hebrew "one father's house taken for Eleazar, and taken, taken for Ithamar"; the Septuagint reads "one to Eleazar, and one to Ithamar." Shemaiah, see 3:22; Nethanel, see 2:14.
- e (24:7) Jehoiarib (9:10 Jehoiarib), "Yahweh contends"; Jedaiah, see 4:37. The Maccabees were of the course of Jehoiarib (1 Maccabees 2:1).
- f (24:8) Harim, "consecrated"; Seorim, "barley."
- g (24:9) Malchijah, "Yahweh is king"; Mijamin, "from the right hand."
- h (24:10) Hakkoz, "the thorn"; Abijah, "Yahweh is father." Zechariah the father of John the Baptist belonged to the division of Abijah (Luke 1:5).
- i (24:11) Jeshua, "Yahweh is salvation"; Shecaniah, "Yahweh has dwelt."
- j (24:12) Eliashib, see 3:24; Jakim, see 8:19.
- k (24:13) Huppah, "canopy"; Jeshebeab, perhaps "father's dwelling."
- l (24:14) Bilgah, "cheerfulness"; Immer, "lamb."
- m (24:15) Hezir, "swine"; Happizzez, "the shattering."
- n (24:16) Pethahiah, "Yahweh opens"; Jehezkel, "God strengthens" (the same name as Ezekiel).
- o (24:17) Jachin, "he establishes"; Gamul, "weaned."
- p (24:18) Delaiah, see 3:24; Maaziah, "Yahweh is a refuge."
- q (24:20) Shubael, see 23:16; Jehdeiah, "Yahweh rejoices."
- r (24:23) "Of Hebron" and "the chief" are supplied from 23:19; the Hebrew reads "And my sons: Jeriah."
- s (24:24) So the Hebrew margin (Qere); the written text (Ketiv) reads Shamur. Shamir, "thorn."
- t (24:26) Jaaziah, "Yahweh strengthens"; Beno, "his son." The Hebrew of verses 26–27 is uncertain; beno may mean "his son" rather than a name.
- u (24:27) Shoham, "onyx"; Zaccur, see 4:26; Ibri, "Hebrew."
- v (24:29) Jerahmeel, see 2:9; Kish, see 23:21.

Chapter 25

1 David and the army commanders also set aside for service some of the descendants of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, who were to prophesy with the music of lyres, harps, and cymbals. The list of men who did this service was:[a] 2 Of the sons of Asaph: Zaccur, Joseph, Nethaniah, and Asharelah, the sons of Asaph, under the hand of Asaph, who prophesied at the king's order.[b] 3 Of Jeduthun, the sons of Jeduthun: Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshaiah, Shimei,[c] Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, six, under the direction of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied with the lyre in giving thanks and praising Yahweh.[d] 4 Of Heman, the sons of Heman: Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth.[e] 5 All these were sons of Heman, the king's seer in the words of God, to lift up his horn;[f] and God gave Heman fourteen sons and three daughters. 6 They were all under the direction of their father for song in the house of Yahweh with cymbals, harps, and lyres, for the service of the house of God.
Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman were under the direction of the king.
7 Their number, with their brothers who were trained in singing to Yahweh, all who were skilled, was two hundred and eighty-eight. 8
They cast lots for their duties, small and great alike, teacher as well as pupil.
9 The first lot fell for Asaph to Joseph;[g] the second to Gedaliah, he and his brothers and his sons, twelve; 10 the third to Zaccur, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 11 the fourth to Izri, his sons and his brothers, twelve;[h] 12 the fifth to Nethaniah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 13 the sixth to Bukkiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 14
the seventh to Jesharelah, his sons and his brothers, twelve;[i] 15 the eighth to Jeshaiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 16 the ninth to Mattaniah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 17 the tenth to Shimei, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 18 the eleventh to Azarel, his sons and his brothers, twelve;[j] 19 the twelfth to Hashabiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 20 the thirteenth, Shubael, his sons and his brothers, twelve;[k] 21 the fourteenth, Mattithiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 22 the fifteenth, to Jeremoth, his sons and his brothers, twelve;[l]

23 the sixteenth, to Hananiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 24
the seventeenth, to Joshbekashah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 25 the eighteenth, to Hanani, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 26
the nineteenth, to Mallothi, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 27 the twentieth, to Eliathah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 28 the twenty-first, to Hothir, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 29 the twenty-second, to Giddalti, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 30 the twenty-third, to Mahazioth, his sons and his brothers, twelve; 31 the twenty-fourth, to Romamti-ezer, his sons and his brothers, twelve.[m]

Notes

- a (25:1) Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, see 6:33, 39; 16:41. Here their music is called prophecy (compare 2 Kings 3:15).
- b (25:2) Zaccur, see 4:26; Joseph, "may he add"; Nethaniah, "Yahweh has given"; Asharelah (verse 14 Jesharelah), perhaps "upright toward God."
- c (25:3) Shimei is supplied from verse 17; the Hebrew and the Septuagint list five names but say "six."
- d (25:3) Gedaliah, "Yahweh is great"; Zeri (verse 11 Izri), perhaps "balm"; Jeshaiah, "Yahweh saves"; Hashabiah, see 6:45; Mattithiah, see 9:31.
- e (25:4) Bukkiah, "flask of Yahweh"; Mattaniah, see 9:15; Uzziel, see 4:42; Shebuel (verse 20 Shubael), see 23:16; Jerimoth (verse 22 Jeremoth), see 7:7; Hananiah, "Yahweh is gracious"; Hanani, "gracious." The remaining names, read together, form a short prayer: "Be gracious to me, Yah, be gracious to me; you are my God (Eliathah); I have magnified (Giddalti) and I have exalted (Romamti) help (ezer); sitting in hardship (Joshbekashah), I have spoken (Mallothi); he has given abundantly (Hothir) visions (Mahazioth)."
- f (25:5) Hebrew "to lift up the horn," an idiom for giving strength or honor.
- g (25:9) The Hebrew gives no number for Joseph; the total of 288 (verse 7) implies twelve for each of the twenty-four lots.
- h (25:11) Izri, see Zeri, verse 3.
- i (25:14) Jesharelah, see verse 2 (Asharelah).
- j (25:18) Azarel (verse 4 Uzziel), see 12:6.
- k (25:20) Shubael, see verse 4 (Shebuel).
- l (25:22) Jeremoth, see verse 4 (Jerimoth).
- m (25:31) The twenty-four musical courses parallel the twenty-four priestly courses of chapter 24.

Chapter 26

1 As for the divisions of the gatekeepers: of the Korahites, Meshelemiah the son of Kore, of the sons of Asaph.[a] 2 Meshelemiah had sons: Zechariah the firstborn, Jediael the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth,[b] 3 Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Eliehoenai the seventh.[c] 4 Obed-edom had sons: Shemaiah the firstborn, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, Sachar the fourth, Nethanel the fifth,[d] 5 Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peullethai the eighth; for God blessed him.[e] 6 Also to Shemaiah his son were sons born who ruled over their fathers' house, for they were mighty men of valor. 7 The sons of Shemaiah were Othni, and Rephael, and Obed, and Elzabad, whose brothers were strong men, Elihu, and Semachiah.[f] 8 All these were of the sons of Obed-edom; they and their sons and their brothers were able men with strength for the service, sixty-two of Obed-edom. 9 Meshelemiah had sons and brothers, able men, eighteen. 10 Hosah, of the sons of Merari, had sons: Shimri the chief (for though he was not the firstborn, his father made him chief),[g] 11 Hilkiah the second, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth. All the sons and brothers of Hosah were thirteen.[h]

12 Of these were the divisions of the gatekeepers, by their chief men, having charges like their brothers, to minister in the house of Yahweh. 13 They cast lots, small and great alike, by their fathers' houses, for each gate. 14 Eastward the lot fell to Shelemiah. Then for Zechariah his son, a wise counselor, they cast lots, and his lot came out northward.[i] 15 To Obed-edom southward, and to his sons the storehouse.[j] 16 To Shuppim and Hosah westward, by the gate of Shallecheth, at the causeway going up, guard beside guard.[k] 17 Eastward were six Levites, northward four a day, southward four a day, and for the storehouse two and two. 18 For the Parbar westward, four at the causeway and two at the Parbar.[l] 19 These were the divisions of the doorkeepers, of the sons of the Korahites and of the sons of Merari.

20 Of the Levites, Ahijah was over the treasures of the house of God and over the treasures of the dedicated things.[m] 21 The sons of Ladan, the sons of the Gershonites belonging to Ladan, the heads of the fathers' houses belonging to Ladan the Gershonite: Jehieli.[n] 22 The sons of Jehieli: Zetham, and Joel his brother, over the treasures of the house of Yahweh. 23 Of the Amramites, the Izharites, the Hebronites, and the Uzzielites: 24 Shebuel the son of Gershom, the son of Moses, was ruler over the treasures. 25 His brothers: from Eliezer came Rehabiah his son, and Jeshaiah his son, and Joram his son, and Zichri his son, and Shelomoth his son.[o] 26 This Shelomoth and his brothers were over all the treasures of the dedicated things which King David and the heads of the fathers' houses, the officers of thousands and of hundreds, and the commanders of the army had dedicated.[p] 27 Out of the spoil taken in the wars they dedicated things to strengthen the house of Yahweh. 28 Also all that Samuel the seer, and Saul the son of Kish, and Abner the son of Ner, and Joab the son of Zeruiah had dedicated, everything dedicated was in the care of Shelomoth and his brothers.[q] 29 Of the Izharites, Chenaniah and his sons were appointed to outside duties over Israel, as officers and judges.[r] 30 From the Hebronites: Hashabiah and 1,700 of his relatives, capable men, were responsible for Israel west of the Jordan in all of Yahweh's work and in the king's service.[s] 31 Of the Hebronites, Jerijah was chief of the Hebronites, according to their generations by fathers' houses. In the fortieth year of the reign of David they were sought out, and mighty men of valor were found among them at Jazer of Gilead.[t] 32 King David appointed him and his brothers, two thousand seven hundred able men, heads of fathers' houses, over the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of the Manassites, for every matter pertaining to God and for the affairs of the king.

Notes

- a (26:1) Meshelemiah (verse 14 Shelemiah; 9:21), "Yahweh repays"; Kore, see 9:19. "Asaph" is perhaps a copying error for Ebiasaph (9:19).
- b (26:2) Zechariah, see 9:21; Jediael, see 7:6; Zebadiah, see 8:15; Jathniel, "God gives."
- c (26:3) Elam, see 8:24; Jehohanan, "Yahweh is gracious"; Eliehoenai, "my eyes are toward Yahweh."
- d (26:4) Obed-edom, see 13:13; Shemaiah, see 3:22; Jehozabad, "Yahweh has given"; Joah, see 6:21; Sachar, see 11:35; Nethanel, see 2:14.
- e (26:5) Ammiel, see 3:5; Issachar, see 12:32; Peullethai, "wage of Yahweh." The blessing recalls 13:14.
- f (26:7) Othni, perhaps "my strength"; Rephael, "God heals"; Obed, see 2:12; Elzabad, see 12:12; Elihu, see 12:20; Semachiah, "Yahweh sustains."
- g (26:10) Hosah, see 16:38; Shimri, see 4:37.
- h (26:11) Hilkiah, see 6:13; Tebaliah, "Yahweh has immersed."

- i (26:14) Shelemiah, see verse 1.
- j (26:15) Hebrew "the house of the gatherings," a storehouse.
- k (26:16) The Hebrew "Shuppim" may be a copying repetition of the last word of verse 15. Shallecheth, "casting out."
- l (26:18) Parbar, perhaps "colonnade" or "court"; the meaning is uncertain.
- m (26:20) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "their brothers." Ahijah, see 2:25.
- n (26:21) Jehieli, a family name from Jehiel (23:8).
- o (26:25) Joram, "Yahweh is exalted"; Zichri, see 8:19.
- p (26:26) Shelomoth (Hebrew written text Shelomith), see 23:9.
- q (26:28) Abner, "father of light"; Ner, see 8:33. Samuel, "name of God" or "heard by God."
- r (26:29) Chenaniah, see 15:22.
- s (26:30) Hashabiah, see 6:45. Hebrew "beyond the Jordan westward," as seen from the east; that is, west of the Jordan.
- t (26:31) Jerijah (23:19 Jeriah), "Yahweh sees"; Jazer, "he helps."

Chapter 27

1 Here is the roster of the Israelites: the heads of families, the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and their officers who served the king in everything about the divisions that were on duty month by month through the whole year. Each division had 24,000 men:[a] 2 Over the first division for the first month (in March–April) was Jashobeam the son of Zabdiel; in his division were twenty-four thousand.[b] 3 He was of the children of Perez, the head of all the captains of the host for the first month. 4 Over the division of the second month (in April–May) was Dodai the Ahohite, with his division, and Mikloth was the leader; in his division were twenty-four thousand.[c] 5 The third army commander, for the third month (May–June), was Benaiah son of Jehoiada the priest, the chief. His division had 24,000.[d] 6
This Benaiah was a warrior among the Thirty and was in command of the Thirty. His division was led by his son Ammizabad.[e] 7 The fourth commander, for the fourth month (June–July), was Joab's brother Asahel, and after him his son Zebadiah. His division had 24,000.[f] 8 The fifth commander, for the fifth month (in July–August), was Shamhuth the Izrahite; in his division were twenty-four thousand.[g] 9 The sixth commander, for the sixth month (August–September), was Ira son of Ikkesh from Tekoa. His division had 24,000. 10 The seventh commander, for the seventh month (September–October), was Helez from Pelon, a descendant of Ephraim. His division had 24,000. 11 The eighth commander, for the eighth month (October–November), was Sibbecai from Hushah, a Zerahite. His division had 24,000.[h] 12 The ninth, for the ninth month (in November–December), was Abiezer the Anathothite, of the Benjaminites; in his division were twenty-four thousand. 13

The tenth, for the tenth month (in December–January), was Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zerahites; in his division were twenty-four thousand. 14 The eleventh commander, for the eleventh month (January–February), was Benaiah from Pirathon, a descendant of Ephraim.
His division had 24,000. 15 The twelfth commander, for the twelfth month (February–March), was Heldai from Netophah, of the family of Othniel. His division had 24,000.[i] 16 Furthermore, over the tribes of Israel: of the Reubenites, Eliezer the son of Zichri was ruler; of the Simeonites, Shephatiah the son of Maacah;[j] 17 of Levi, Hashabiah the son of Kemuel; of Aaron, Zadok;[k]
18 of Judah, Elihu, of the brothers of David; of Issachar, Omri the son of Michael;[l] 19 of Zebulun, Ishmaiah the son of Obadiah; of Naphtali, Jerimoth the son of Azriel;[m] 20 of the sons of Ephraim, Hoshea the son of Azaziah; of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Joel the son of Pedaiah;[n] 21 of the half-tribe of Manasseh in Gilead, Iddo the son of Zechariah; of Benjamin, Jaasiel the son of Abner;[o] 22 of Dan, Azarel the son of Jeroham. These were the princes of the tribes of Israel.[p] 23 David did not count those who were twenty years old or younger, since Yahweh had promised to make Israel as numerous as the stars in the sky. 24 Joab the son of Zeruiah began to count them, but did not finish; and for this there came wrath on Israel; neither was the number put into the account of the chronicles of King David.[q] 25 Over the king's treasuries was Azmaveth the son of Adiel; and over the storehouses in the country, in the cities, in the villages, and in the towers was Jonathan the son of Uzziah.[r] 26 Over those who did the work of the field, tilling the ground, was Ezri the son of Chelub.[s] 27 Shimei from Ramah was over the vineyards, and Zabdi from Shepham was in charge of the wine stored from the vineyards.[t] 28 Baal-hanan from Geder was in charge of the olive and sycamore-fig trees in the foothills, and Joash was in charge of the oil supplies.[u] 29 Over the herds that grazed in Sharon was Shitrai the Sharonite; and over the herds in the valleys was Shaphat the son of Adlai.[v] 30 Obil the Ishmaelite was in charge of the camels, and Jehdeiah from Meronoth was in charge of the donkeys.[w] 31 Jaziz the Hagrite was in charge of the flocks. All these were officials over King David's property.[x]

32 Jonathan, David's uncle, was a counselor, a man of understanding and a scribe; and Jehiel the son of Hachmoni attended the king's sons.[y] 33 Ahithophel was the king's counselor, and Hushai the Archite was the king's friend.[z] 34 After Ahithophel came Jehoiada the son of Benaiah, and Abiathar; and Joab was commander of the king's army.[aa]

Notes

- a (27:1) The months in this chapter are numbered from the spring new year (Nisan); because the calendar was lunar, each month spans parts of two of ours.
- b (27:2) Jashobeam, see 11:11; Zabdiel, "gift of God." Perez, see 2:4.
- c (27:4) Hebrew "Dodai the Ahohite and his division, and Mikloth the leader"; perhaps read "Eleazar the son of Dodai" (11:12). Dodai, "beloved"; Mikloth, see 8:32.
- d (27:5) Or "the son of Jehoiada, the chief priest." Benaiah, see 11:22.
- e (27:6) Ammizabad, "my people has given."
- f (27:7) Asahel was killed by Abner before David reigned over all Israel (2 Samuel 2:23), so this list may reflect a time when his son Zebadiah held the post in his name.
- g (27:8) Shamhuth, perhaps "desolation" (11:27 Shammoth the Harorite); Izrahite, perhaps a Zerahite of Judah.
- h (27:11) Zerahites, of Zerah (2:4).
- i (27:15) Heldai (11:30 Heled), "mole" or "enduring"; Othniel, "lion of God" or "God is my strength."
- j (27:16) Eliezer, see 15:24; Zichri, see 8:19; Shephatiah, see 3:3; Maacah, see 2:48. Gad and Asher are not listed; Levi and Aaron are counted separately.
- k (27:17) Kemuel, "God raises up."
- l (27:18) The Septuagint reads Eliab, David's eldest brother (2:13). Elihu, see 12:20; Omri, see 7:8; Michael, see 5:13.
- m (27:19) Ishmaiah, see 12:4; Obadiah, see 12:9; Jerimoth, see 7:7; Azriel, see 5:24.
- n (27:20) Hoshea, "salvation"; Azaziah, see 15:21; Pedaiah, see 3:18.
- o (27:21) Iddo, see 6:21; Jaasiel, see 11:47; Abner, see 26:28.
- p (27:22) Azarel, see 12:6; Jeroham, see 6:27.
- q (27:24) See chapter 21. "Chronicles" here is Hebrew "the account of the days."
- r (27:25) Adiel, see 4:36; Uzziah, "Yahweh is strength."
- s (27:26) Ezri, "my help"; Chelub, see 4:11.

- t (27:27) Ramathite, of Ramah (“height”); Zabdi, see 8:19; Shiphmite, perhaps of Shepham (Numbers 34:10).
- u (27:28) Shephelah, “lowland,” the foothills west of Judah. Baal-hanan, “the Lord is gracious”; Gederite, of Geder; Joash, see 12:3.
- v (27:29) Sharon, “plain”; Shitrai, perhaps “officer”; Shaphat, see 3:22; Adlai, uncertain.
- w (27:30) Obil, “camel driver”; Ishmaelite, of Ishmael (“God hears”); Jehdeiah, see 24:20; Meronothite, of Meronoth.
- x (27:31) Jaziz, perhaps “he moves”; Hagrite, see 5:10.
- y (27:32) Or “nephew”; Hebrew dod, “uncle” or “beloved.” Jonathan, see 2:32; Jehiel, see 15:18; Hachmoni, “wise.”
- z (27:33) Ahithophel, “brother of folly”; Hushai, “quick”; Archite, of the Archites (Joshua 16:2). See 2 Samuel 15:12, 32–37.
- aa (27:34) Jehoiada, see 11:22; Abiathar, see 15:11; Joab, see 2:16.

Chapter 28

1 David summoned to Jerusalem all of Israel’s officials: the tribal leaders, the commanders of the divisions serving the king, the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and those in charge of all the king’s and his sons’ property and livestock, as well as the palace officials, the warriors, and every brave fighter. 2 Then David the king stood up on his feet and said, “Hear me, my brothers and my people!
As for me, it was in my heart to build a house of rest for the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, and for the footstool of our God, and I had made ready to build it.[a] 3 But God told me, ‘You will not build a house for my name, since you are a warrior and have shed blood.’ 4 Yet Yahweh, the God of Israel, selected me from my whole family to be king over Israel for all time. He chose Judah as leader, and from Judah’s clan he chose my father’s family; and among my father’s sons, he was pleased to make me king over all of Israel. 5 And of all my sons (for Yahweh has given me many sons) he has chosen Solomon my son to sit on the throne of the kingdom of Yahweh over Israel.[b] 6 He said to me, ‘Solomon your son, he shall build my house and my courts; for I have chosen him to be my son, and I will be his father. 7 I will establish his kingdom forever, if he is constant to do my commandments and my ordinances, as at this day.’ 8 Now therefore, in the sight of all Israel, the assembly of Yahweh, and in the hearing of our God, keep and seek out all the commandments of Yahweh your God, that you may possess this good land and leave it as an inheritance to your children after you forever.

9 "You, Solomon my son, know the God of your father, and serve him with a perfect heart and with a willing mind; for Yahweh searches all hearts and understands every purpose of the thoughts. If you seek him, he will be found of you; but if you forsake him, he will cast you off forever. 10 Take heed now, for Yahweh has chosen you to build a house for the sanctuary. Be strong and do it."
11 Then David gave his son Solomon the plans for the temple porch, its buildings, its storerooms, its upper rooms, its inner rooms, and the room for the atonement cover;[c] 12 and the pattern of all that he had in mind[d] for the courts of the house of Yahweh, for all the chambers around, for the treasuries of the house of God, and for the treasuries of the dedicated things; 13 also for the divisions of the priests and the Levites, for all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh, and for all the vessels of service in the house of Yahweh; 14 of gold by weight for all the vessels of gold for every kind of service, and of silver by weight for all the vessels of silver for every kind of service; 15 the weight of gold for the lampstands and their lamps of gold, by the weight of each lampstand and its lamps; and for the lampstands of silver, silver by weight for each lampstand and its lamps, according to the use of each lampstand; 16 and the weight of gold for each of the tables for the bread of the Presence, and silver for the silver tables; 17 and pure gold for the forks, the basins, and the cups; and for the golden bowls, gold by weight for each bowl; and for the silver bowls, silver by weight for each bowl; 18 and for the altar of incense, refined gold by weight; and gold for the pattern of the chariot, the cherubim that spread their wings and covered the ark of the covenant of Yahweh.[e] 19 "All this," said David, "he made clear to me in writing from the hand of Yahweh, all the works of this pattern."[f]
20 Then David said to Solomon his son, "Be strong and courageous, and do it. Do not be afraid or dismayed, for Yahweh God, my God, is with you. He will not leave you nor forsake you, until all the work for the service of the house of Yahweh is completed. 21 Behold, there are the divisions of the priests and the Levites for all the service of the house of God; and there shall be with you in all kinds of work every willing, skillful man, for any manner of service; also the captains and all the people will be entirely at your command."

Notes

- a (28:2) The ark as God's footstool: compare Psalms 99:5; 132:7.
- b (28:5) The kingdom is called "the kingdom of Yahweh"; compare 17:14; 29:23.
- c (28:11) Hebrew "the house of the covering" (kapporet), the gold lid of the ark (Exodus 25:17–22).
- d (28:12) Hebrew "that was with him by the spirit," or "that he had by the Spirit."
- e (28:18) The cherubim are pictured as God's chariot throne; compare Ezekiel 1; 10.
- f (28:19) Or "All this he made clear to me in writing, because the hand of Yahweh was upon me." The Hebrew is difficult.

Chapter 29

1 King David said to all the assembly, "Solomon my son, whom alone God has chosen, is young and inexperienced, and the work is great; for the palace is not for man but for Yahweh God.[a] 2 With all my strength I have provided for the house of my God: gold for the gold objects, silver for the silver, bronze for the bronze, iron for the iron, and wood for the wooden objects; and also onyx, stones for setting, antimony and stones of many colors, every kind of precious stone, and large amounts of marble.[b] 3 Moreover, because I delight in the house of my God, I have a treasure of my own of gold and silver, and I give it to the house of my God, over and above all that I have provided for the holy house: 4 about 112 tons of gold, of the gold of Ophir, and about 262 tons of refined silver, for overlaying the walls of the houses,[c] 5 gold for gold objects and silver for silver objects, and for all the work the craftsmen will do. Now who is willing to give himself today to Yahweh by contributing?"[d]

6 Then the family heads, the tribal leaders of Israel, the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and the officials in charge of the king's work gave willingly. 7 They gave for the service of the house of God about 188 tons of gold and about 185 pounds in gold coins,[e] about 375 tons of silver, about 675 tons of bronze, and about 3,750 tons of iron.[f] 8 Anyone who owned precious stones gave them to the treasury of Yahweh's house, under the care of Jehiel the Gershonite.[g] 9 Then the people rejoiced, for they offered willingly, because with a perfect heart they offered willingly to Yahweh. David the king also rejoiced with great joy.

10 Therefore David blessed Yahweh in the presence of all the assembly, and David said: "Blessed are you, Yahweh, the God of Israel our father, forever and ever.[h] 11 Yours, Yahweh, is the greatness, the power, the glory, the victory, and the majesty; for all that is in the heavens and in the earth is yours. Yours is the kingdom, Yahweh, and you are exalted as head over all.[i] 12 Riches and honor come from before you, and you are ruler over all. In your hand is power and might; it is in your hand to make great, and to give strength to everyone. 13 Now therefore, our God, we thank you, and praise your glorious name.
14 "But who am I, and what is my people, that we should be able to offer so willingly as this? For all things come from you, and of your own we have given you. 15 We are foreigners and temporary residents in your sight, just as our ancestors all were. Our days on earth are like a shadow that passes, and nothing remains.[j] 16 Yahweh our God, all this store that we have prepared to build you a house for your holy name comes from your hand, and is all your own. 17 My God, I know that you examine the heart and take pleasure in honesty. In the honesty of my heart I have given all these things willingly, and now I have seen with joy your people here giving willingly to you.
18 Yahweh, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, our fathers, keep this forever in the inclinations of the thoughts of the heart of your people, and direct their heart toward you. 19 Give my son Solomon a wholehearted desire to keep your commands, your statutes, and your decrees, to carry out all of them, and to build the palace for which I have made these preparations."
20 Then David said to all the assembly, "Now bless Yahweh your God."
And all the assembly blessed Yahweh, the God of their fathers, and bowed down and worshiped Yahweh and the king.[k] 21 On the next day they offered sacrifices to Yahweh and offered burnt offerings to Yahweh: a thousand bulls, a thousand rams, and a thousand lambs, with their drink offerings, and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel. 22

They ate and drank before Yahweh on that day with great gladness. And they made Solomon the son of David king a second time, and anointed him to Yahweh to be prince, and Zadok to be priest.[l] 23 Then Solomon sat on the throne of Yahweh as king in place of David his father; and he prospered, and all Israel obeyed him. 24 All the officials and the mighty men, and also all the sons of King David, pledged their allegiance to Solomon the king.[m] 25 Yahweh magnified Solomon exceedingly in the sight of all Israel, and bestowed on him such royal majesty as had not been on any king before him in Israel.
26 Thus David the son of Jesse reigned over all Israel. 27 The time that he reigned over Israel was forty years: he reigned seven years in Hebron and thirty-three years in Jerusalem.[n] 28 He died at a good old age, full of days, riches, and honor; and Solomon his son reigned in his place. 29 Now the acts of King David, first and last, are written in the records of Samuel the seer, in the records of Nathan the prophet, and in the records of Gad the seer,[o] 30 with all his reign and his might, and the times that went over him, and over Israel, and over all the kingdoms of the lands.

Notes

- a (29:1) Hebrew birah, "citadel" or "palace," a late word used here of the temple.
- b (29:2) The identity of several of these stones is uncertain. "Antimony" (Hebrew pukh) was used as eye paint; others take it as a dark or inlay stone.
- c (29:4) Hebrew "three thousand talents of gold … seven thousand talents of refined silver": about 102 metric tons of gold and 238 metric tons of silver. Ophir, a land famous for gold, perhaps in southern Arabia or east Africa.
- d (29:5) Hebrew "to fill his hand," an idiom for consecration.
- e (29:7) Hebrew "ten thousand darics," about 84 kilograms. The daric (Hebrew 'adarkon) was a Persian gold coin of about 8.4 grams, first minted under Darius I (about 515 B.C.). Its mention here is an anachronism: the writer gives the value in the currency of his own day. Some take the word as drachmas.
- f (29:7) Hebrew "five thousand talents … ten thousand talents of silver, eighteen thousand talents of bronze, and a hundred thousand talents of iron": about 170 metric tons of gold, 340 metric tons of silver, 612 metric tons of bronze, and 3,400 metric tons of iron.
- g (29:8) Jehiel, see 23:8.
- h (29:10) Verses 10–13 are often called David's prayer. The doxology added to the Lord's Prayer in some late manuscripts of Matthew 6:13 echoes verse 11.
- i (29:11) Or "and you are exalted over all as head."

- j (29:15) Or “and there is no hope.”
- k (29:20) Bowing before the king is an act of honor, not of worship as given to God; the same Hebrew verb is used for both.
- l (29:22) “A second time” refers back to 23:1. Compare 1 Kings 1:32–40, where Solomon is anointed by Zadok and Nathan.
- m (29:24) Hebrew “gave a hand under Solomon.”
- n (29:27) Compare 2 Samuel 5:4–5 and 1 Kings 2:11, where David reigned seven years and six months in Hebron.
- o (29:29) Hebrew “in the words of Samuel the seer.” These sources may be the books of Samuel or other prophetic records.

2 Chronicles

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 Solomon the son of David strengthened himself in his kingdom, and Yahweh his God was with him and made him exceedingly great.[a] 2 Solomon spoke to all Israel, to the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, to the judges, and to every leader in all Israel, the heads of the fathers' houses. 3 Solomon and the whole assembly with him went to the high place at Gibeon, because God's tent of meeting was there, the one that Moses the servant of Yahweh had made in the desert.[b] 4
But the ark of God David had brought up from Kiriath-jearim to the place that David had prepared for it, for he had pitched a tent for it in Jerusalem.[c] 5 And the bronze altar that Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, had made was there before the tabernacle of Yahweh; and Solomon and the assembly sought it.[d] 6 Solomon went up there to the bronze altar before Yahweh, which was at the tent of meeting, and offered a thousand burnt offerings on it.
7 In that night God appeared to Solomon and said to him, "Ask what I shall give you." 8 Solomon said to God, "You have shown great steadfast love to David my father, and have made me king in his place.
9 Now, Yahweh God, may the promise you made to my father David come true, for you have made me king over a people as countless as the dust of the earth. 10 Give me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people; for who can judge this great people of yours?" 11 God said to Solomon, "Since this was your desire, and you did not ask for riches, wealth, or honor, or for the death of those who hate you, or even for a long life, but asked for wisdom and knowledge to govern my people, over whom I have made you king, 12 Wisdom and knowledge are granted to you. On top of that, I will give you riches, wealth, and honor, more than any king before you has had or any king after you will have." 13 So Solomon came from the high place at Gibeon, from before the tent of meeting, to Jerusalem; and he reigned over Israel.[e] 14 Solomon collected chariots and horsemen. He had 1,400 chariots and 12,000 horsemen, which he kept in the chariot cities and near himself in Jerusalem.[f] 15 The king made silver and gold in Jerusalem as common as stones, and he made cedars as plentiful as the sycamore-fig trees of the Shephelah.[g] 16 Solomon's horses were imported from Egypt and from Kue; the king's traders bought them from Kue at a price.[h] 17 A chariot imported from Egypt cost about 15 pounds of silver, and a horse about 3¾ pounds. They were also sold on to all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Aram.[i]

Notes

- a (1:1) Verses 1–13 parallel 1 Kings 3:4–15. Solomon, from shalom, "peace." David, "beloved."
- b (1:3) Gibeon, "hill." Chronicles explains why Solomon worshiped at Gibeon: the tent of meeting was there (1 Chronicles 16:39; 21:29). Moses, perhaps Egyptian "born," associated in Exodus 2:10 with Hebrew "drawn out."
- c (1:4) Kiriath-jearim, "city of forests." Jerusalem, perhaps "foundation of Shalem" or "city of peace." See 1 Chronicles 13; 15.
- d (1:5) Bezalel, "in the shadow of God"; Uri, "my light" or "fiery"; Hur, perhaps "white" or "noble." The Hebrew vowels read "he had put" (sam) before the tabernacle; the Septuagint reads "was there" (sham), with the same consonants. "Sought it" may mean "sought him," that is, Yahweh.
- e (1:13) Hebrew "to the high place." The Septuagint reads "from the high place," as the context requires.
- f (1:14) Verses 14–17 parallel 1 Kings 10:26–29; compare 2 Chronicles 9:25–28.
- g (1:15) The Shephelah ("lowland") is the foothill region west of Judah.
- h (1:16) Egypt, Hebrew Mitsrayim. Kue is probably Cilicia in southeastern Asia Minor. Some interpreters read "Muzri," a land in Asia Minor, for "Egypt" in these verses.
- i (1:17) Hebrew "six hundred of silver … a hundred and fifty," probably shekels: about 6.9 kilograms and 1.7 kilograms. Hittites, descendants of Heth; Aram, perhaps "highland," here the Aramean kingdoms of Syria.

Chapter 2

1 Solomon purposed to build a house for the name of Yahweh, and a royal house for himself.[a] 2 Solomon counted out seventy thousand men to bear burdens, eighty thousand men to quarry stone in the hill country, and three thousand six hundred to oversee them.[b]

3 Solomon sent this message to Huram king of Tyre: “Deal with me as you dealt with my father David, to whom you supplied cedar for building the house where he would live.[c] 4 Behold, I am about to build a house for the name of Yahweh my God, to dedicate it to him, to burn before him incense of sweet spices, for the continual showbread, and for burnt offerings morning and evening, on the Sabbaths, on the new moons, and at the appointed feasts of Yahweh our God. This is for Israel forever. 5 The house that I build is great, for our God is greater than all gods. 6 Yet who can build a house for him, when the heavens, even the highest heavens, cannot hold him? Who am I to build him a house, other than a place for burning incense in his presence? 7 Now therefore send me a man skillful to work in gold, in silver, in bronze, in iron, and in purple, crimson, and blue, who knows how to engrave engravings, to be with the skilled men who are with me in Judah and Jerusalem, whom David my father provided.[d] 8 Send me also cedar trees, cypress trees, and algum trees out of Lebanon, for I know that your servants know how to cut timber in Lebanon; and behold, my servants will be with your servants,[e] 9 even to prepare me timber in plenty; for the house that I am about to build shall be great and wonderful. 10 Behold, to your servants, the woodcutters who cut the timber, I will give about 120,000 bushels of crushed wheat, about 120,000 bushels of barley, about 120,000 gallons of wine, and about 120,000 gallons of oil.”[f] 11 Huram king of Tyre wrote a letter in reply to Solomon: “It is because Yahweh loves his people that he has made you their king.” 12 Huram also said, “Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who made the heavens and the earth, who has given King David a wise son, endowed with discretion and understanding, who will build a house for Yahweh and a royal house for himself. 13 I am now sending you Huram-abi,[g] a skilled man with great understanding, 14 His mother belonged to the tribe of Dan, and his father was a Tyrian. He is trained to work in gold, silver, bronze, and iron, in stone and wood, and in purple, blue, and crimson thread and fine linen. He can do any kind of engraving and can carry out any design given to him, working with your craftsmen and those of my lord, your father David.[h] 15 Now let my lord send his servants the wheat, barley, olive oil, and wine that he promised. 16 We will cut as many trees from Lebanon as you need and float them in rafts down the sea to Joppa, and you can haul them up to Jerusalem."[i]

17 Solomon took a count of all the foreigners living in Israel, following the census his father David had taken, and the total was 153,600.[j] 18 He made seventy thousand of them bearers of burdens, eighty thousand quarriers in the hill country, and three thousand six hundred overseers to make the people work.

Notes

- a (2:1) In Hebrew, 2:1 is 1:18, and 2:2–18 are 2:1–17. Verses 1–18 parallel 1 Kings 5:1–18 (Hebrew 5:15–32).
- b (2:2) First Kings 5:16 gives three thousand three hundred overseers. Adding the chief officers (8:10 two hundred fifty; 1 Kings 9:23 five hundred fifty), both books reach a total of 3,850.
- c (2:3) Huram, a form of Hiram (as in Kings), perhaps "my brother is exalted." Tyre, "rock."
- d (2:7) Judah, associated with "praise" (Genesis 29:35).
- e (2:8) Lebanon, "white," from its snow-capped mountains. Algum is an unidentified fine wood; 1 Kings 10:11 has almug.
- f (2:10) Hebrew gives 20,000 cors each of crushed wheat and barley, and 20,000 baths each of wine and oil. A cor is about 6 bushels (220 liters), and a bath about 6 gallons (22 liters), so the totals are about 4,400,000 liters each of wheat and barley, and 440,000 liters each of wine and oil. First Kings 5:11 lists twenty thousand cors of wheat and twenty cors of beaten oil (the Septuagint of Kings has twenty thousand baths).
- g (2:13) Huram-abi, "Huram is my father," or "Huram my master craftsman"; 1 Kings 7:13 calls him Hiram.
- h (2:14) First Kings 7:14 says his mother was a widow of the tribe of Naphtali. She may have been of Danite descent living in Naphtali, or the traditions differ. Dan, "judge."
- i (2:16) Joppa, "beautiful," the port of modern Jaffa.
- j (2:17) Compare 1 Chronicles 22:2.

Chapter 3

1 Solomon began building Yahweh's house in Jerusalem on Mount Moriah, the place where Yahweh had shown himself to his father David. It was at the site David had prepared, the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite.[a] 2 He began to build on the second day of the second month (in April–May), in the fourth year of his reign.[b] 3 These are the foundations that Solomon laid for building the house of God:

the length, by the old standard of measure, was ninety feet, and the breadth thirty feet.[c] 4 The porch in front of the house was thirty feet long, matching the breadth of the house, and its height was a hundred and eighty feet; and he overlaid it inside with pure gold.[d] 5 The great house he paneled with cypress wood, overlaid it with fine gold, and carved palm trees and chains on it.[e] 6 He adorned the house with precious stones for beauty; and the gold was gold of Parvaim.[f] 7 He overlaid also the house, the beams, the thresholds, and its walls, and its doors, with gold; and engraved cherubim on the walls.
8 He built the Most Holy Place. It was 30 feet long, matching the width of the temple, and 30 feet wide. He covered it with about 22½ tons of fine gold.[g] 9 The weight of the nails was about a pound and a quarter of gold. He overlaid the upper rooms with gold.[h] 10 In the room of the most holy place he made two cherubim of sculptured work, and they overlaid them with gold.[i] 11 The wings of the cherubim together were thirty feet long: one wing of the first, seven and a half feet, touched the wall of the house, and its other wing, seven and a half feet, touched the wing of the other cherub.[j] 12 And one wing of the other cherub, seven and a half feet, touched the wall of the house, and its other wing, seven and a half feet, joined the wing of the first cherub.
13 The wings of these cherubim spread out thirty feet. They stood on their feet, facing the house.[k] 14 He made the veil of blue, purple, and crimson yarn and fine linen, and worked cherubim on it.[l] 15 In front of the house he made two pillars about fifty-two feet high, and the capital on the top of each was seven and a half feet.[m] 16 He made chains in the inner sanctuary and put them on the tops of the pillars; and he made a hundred pomegranates and put them on the chains.[n] 17 He set up the pillars in front of the temple, one on the right hand and the other on the left; and called the name of the one on the right hand Jachin, and the name of the one on the left Boaz.[o]

Notes

- a (3:1) Moriah, perhaps "Yahweh provides" or "seen by Yahweh"; only here and in Genesis 22:2 ("the land of Moriah"), linking the temple site with the place of Isaac's offering. Ornan, see 1 Chronicles 21:15; Jebusite, of Jebus ("trodden place"), the old name of Jerusalem. Verses 1–17 parallel 1 Kings 6–7.

- b (3:2) Hebrew "in the second month, on the second"; the second "on the second" is lacking in the Septuagint and may be a copying error. The second month is Ziv (1 Kings 6:1), later Iyyar, counting from the spring new year. First Kings 6:1 dates this to the 480th year after the exodus.
- c (3:3) Hebrew "the length in cubits after the first measure was sixty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits," about 27 by 9 meters, taking a cubit as 18 inches (45 centimeters). "The first measure" was probably an older, longer cubit of about 20.5 inches (52 centimeters), which would give about 102 by 34 feet. Compare 1 Kings 6:2, which also gives a height of thirty cubits.
- d (3:4) Hebrew "twenty cubits ... a hundred and twenty," about 9 and 54 meters. Some Greek manuscripts and the Syriac read "twenty cubits" for the height; 1 Kings 6:3 gives no height for the porch.
- e (3:5) "Great house" is the main hall (the holy place).
- f (3:6) Parvaim, an unidentified source of gold, perhaps in Arabia.
- g (3:8) Hebrew "six hundred talents," about 20 metric tons, taking a talent as about 75 pounds (34 kilograms). Each dimension here is twenty cubits (about 9 meters).
- h (3:9) Hebrew "fifty shekels," about 575 grams.
- i (3:10) The meaning of the Hebrew word for "sculptured work" (tsa'atsu'im) is uncertain.
- j (3:11) Hebrew "twenty cubits ... five cubits": about 9 meters, and 2.3 meters for each wing. Compare 1 Kings 6:23–28, where the cherubim are of olive wood, ten cubits high.
- k (3:13) Or "toward the main hall."
- l (3:14) First Kings does not mention the veil at this point, but describes doors of olive wood (1 Kings 6:31–32).
- m (3:15) Hebrew "thirty-five cubits ... five cubits," about 16 meters and 2.3 meters. First Kings 7:15, 2 Kings 25:17, and Jeremiah 52:21 give eighteen cubits (about 27 feet; 8.1 meters) for each pillar; thirty-five may be their combined length, or a different measure. First Kings 7:16 gives the capitals as five cubits; 2 Kings 25:17 gives three.
- n (3:16) Hebrew "in the inner sanctuary" (baddevir); many scholars emend to "like a necklace" (karabid), since the chains were on the pillars outside.
- o (3:17) Jachin, "he establishes"; Boaz, perhaps "in him is strength."

Chapter 4

1 He made an altar of bronze, thirty feet long, thirty feet broad, and fifteen feet high.[a]

2 Then he made the Sea of cast metal, fifteen feet from brim to brim, round all about; its height was seven and a half feet, and a line of forty-five feet measured its circumference.[b] 3 Beneath it, all around, were figures of oxen encircling it, ten to every foot and a half, surrounding the Sea; the oxen were in two rows, cast together with it.[c] 4 It stood on twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, three toward the west, three toward the south, and three toward the east; and the Sea was set on them above, and all their hind parts were toward the center. 5 Its thickness was about three inches, and its brim was made like the brim of a cup, like the flower of a lily; it could hold about eighteen thousand gallons.[d] 6 He also made ten basins for washing, and set five on the right and five on the left. In them they rinsed what was used for the burnt offering, but the Sea was for the priests to wash in.

7 He made the ten lampstands of gold as prescribed for them, and set them in the temple, five on the right and five on the left.[e] 8 He made ten tables and placed them in the temple, five on the right and five on the left; and he made a hundred basins of gold.[f] 9 He made the court of the priests and the great court, and doors for the court, and overlaid their doors with bronze. 10 He set the Sea at the right side of the house, to the southeast.
11 Huram also made the pots, the shovels, and the basins. So Huram completed the work that he did for King Solomon on the house of God:[g] 12 the two pillars, the two bowl-shaped tops on the pillars, and the two networks covering the bowls on top of the pillars; 13 and the 400 pomegranates for the two networks, with two rows of pomegranates on each network covering the bowl-shaped tops on the pillars. 14
He made the stands, and the basins on the stands;[h] 15 the one Sea, and the twelve oxen under it. 16 Huram-abi made the pots, shovels, forks, and all the related tools from polished bronze for King Solomon, for Yahweh's house.[i] 17 In the plain of the Jordan the king cast them, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zeredah.[j] 18 Solomon made all these utensils in very great quantity, for the weight of the bronze was not sought out.
19 Solomon made all the furnishings for God's house: the gold altar, and the tables for the bread of the Presence,[k] 20 and the lampstands with their lamps of pure gold, to burn according to the ordinance in front of the inner sanctuary; 21 the flowers, the lamps, and the tongs, of gold, of the most perfect gold; 22 the snuffers, the basins, the dishes for incense, and the fire pans, of pure gold; and as for the entrance of the house, its inner doors to the most holy place and the doors of the house, the main hall, were of gold.[l]

Notes

- a (4:1) Hebrew "twenty cubits long, twenty cubits broad, and ten cubits high," about 9 by 9 by 4.5 meters. This altar is not described in the standard text of 1 Kings 7, though 1 Kings 8:64 and 9:25 mention it. Verses 2–5 parallel 1 Kings 7:23–26.
- b (4:2) Hebrew "ten cubits ... five cubits ... thirty cubits": about 4.5 meters across, 2.3 meters high, and 13.5 meters around. The round figure thirty for the circumference is an approximation.
- c (4:3) Hebrew "ten in a cubit." First Kings 7:24 has "gourds" (peqaʿim) instead of "oxen" (beqarim); the two Hebrew words look alike.
- d (4:5) Hebrew "a handbreadth" (about 7.5 centimeters) and "three thousand baths" (about 66,000 liters). First Kings 7:26 gives two thousand baths (about 12,000 gallons; 44,000 liters). Chronicles may include the capacity to the brim, or the figures reflect different measures.
- e (4:7) Compare Exodus 25:31–40; 1 Kings 7:49 also has ten lampstands.
- f (4:8) Or "bowls" for sprinkling.
- g (4:11) Huram, see 2:3. Verses 11–22 parallel 1 Kings 7:40–50. Hebrew "Huram" here and "Huram-abi" in verse 16; Kings has Hiram.
- h (4:14) Hebrew "he made the stands, and he made the basins"; compare 1 Kings 7:43.
- i (4:16) Hebrew "Huram his father"; see 2:13.
- j (4:17) Jordan, "descender." Succoth, "booths." Zeredah (1 Kings 7:46 Zarethan), perhaps "cooling."
- k (4:19) Hebrew "bread of the face"; see 1 Chronicles 9:32.
- l (4:22) Or "the hinges of the doors"; compare 1 Kings 7:50.

Chapter 5

1 Thus all the work that Solomon did for the house of Yahweh was finished. And Solomon brought in the holy things of David his father, the silver, the gold, and all the vessels, and put them in the treasuries of the house of God.[a]

2 Then Solomon assembled in Jerusalem the elders of Israel and all the tribal heads, the family leaders of the Israelites, to bring up Yahweh's covenant ark from the city of David, which is Zion.[b] 3 And all the men of Israel assembled before the king at the feast in the seventh month (in September–October).[c] 4 All the elders of Israel came, and the Levites took up the ark.[d] 5 They brought up the ark, the tent of meeting, and all the holy vessels that were in the tent; the priests, the Levites, brought them up.[e] 6 King Solomon and the entire community of Israel who had assembled with him stood in front of the ark and sacrificed so many sheep and cattle that no one could record or count them. 7 Then the priests brought the ark of the covenant of Yahweh to its place, into the inner sanctuary of the house, the most holy place, beneath the wings of the cherubim. 8 For the cherubim spread out their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubim covered the ark and its poles from above. 9 The poles were so long that the ends of the poles were seen from the ark in front of the inner sanctuary, but they could not be seen from outside; and it is there to this day.[f] 10

There was nothing in the ark except the two tablets Moses had placed there at Horeb, where Yahweh made a covenant with the Israelites
after they came out of Egypt.[g] 11 Now when the priests came out of the holy place (for all the priests who were present had consecrated themselves, without keeping to their divisions,[h] 12 and the Levitical singers, all of them, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, with their sons and brothers, arrayed in fine linen, having cymbals and stringed instruments and harps, stood at the east end of the altar, and with them a hundred and twenty priests blowing trumpets),[i] 13 it came to pass, when the trumpeters and the singers were as one, to make one sound heard in praising and thanking Yahweh, and when they raised the sound with trumpets and cymbals and instruments of song, and praised Yahweh, "For he is good, for his steadfast love endures forever," that the house, the house of Yahweh, was filled with a cloud,[j] 14 so that the priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud, for the glory of Yahweh filled the house of God.

Notes

- a (5:1) Verses 1–14 parallel 1 Kings 7:51–8:11.
- b (5:2) Zion, perhaps "fortress" or "dry place."

- c (5:3) Hebrew “at the feast; it was the seventh month,” the month Ethanim (1 Kings 8:2), later Tishri, counting from the spring new year. The feast is Booths (compare 7:8–10).
- d (5:4) First Kings 8:3 reads “the priests took up the ark.” Chronicles names the Levites, in keeping with 1 Chronicles 15:2.
- e (5:5) The Septuagint and 1 Kings 8:4 read “the priests and the Levites.”
- f (5:9) Hebrew “it is there”; the Septuagint and 1 Kings 8:8 read “they are there.”
- g (5:10) Horeb, “dry” or “desolate,” another name for Mount Sinai.
- h (5:11) Verses 11b–13a are not in 1 Kings 8:10–11. Compare 1 Chronicles 24.
- i (5:12) Asaph, “he gathers”; Heman, “faithful”; Jeduthun, perhaps “praising.” See 1 Chronicles 25.
- j (5:13) This refrain appears also at 7:3, 6; 20:21; compare 1 Chronicles 16:34; Psalm 136.

Chapter 6

1 Then Solomon said, “Yahweh has said that he would dwell in thick darkness.[a] 2 But I have built you a lofty house, an established place for your dwelling forever.”[b] 3 Then the king turned his face and blessed all the assembly of Israel, while all the assembly of Israel stood. 4 And he said, “Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who spoke with his mouth to David my father, and with his hands has fulfilled it, saying, 5 ‘Since the day that I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no city among all the tribes of Israel to build a house in, that my name might be there;
neither did I choose any man to be leader over my people Israel;[c] 6 but I have chosen Jerusalem, that my name might be there, and I have chosen David to be over my people Israel.’ 7 Now it was in the heart of David my father to build a house for the name of Yahweh, the God of Israel. 8 But Yahweh said to David my father, ‘Since it was in your heart to build a house for my name, you did well that it was in your heart. 9 However, you will not be the one to build the temple.
Your own son, born to you, will build the temple for my name.’ 10 Now Yahweh has established his word that he spoke; for I have risen in the place of David my father and sit on the throne of Israel, as Yahweh promised, and I have built the house for the name of Yahweh, the God of Israel. 11 And there I have set the ark, in which is the covenant of Yahweh that he made with the people of Israel.”

12 Then he stood before the altar of Yahweh in the presence of all the assembly of Israel and spread out his hands. 13 Solomon had made a bronze platform measuring seven and a half feet in length and width and four and a half feet in height, and set it in the center of the courtyard. Standing on it, he then knelt in front of the whole assembly of Israel and spread out his hands toward heaven,[d] 14 and said, "Yahweh, God of Israel, there is no God like you in heaven or on earth. You keep your covenant and show faithful love to your servants who live in your presence with all their heart. 15 who have kept with your servant David my father what you promised him. You spoke with your mouth, and with your hand you have fulfilled it, as at this day. 16 So now, Yahweh, God of Israel, carry out the promise you made to your servant David my father when you said, 'There will always be a man from your line in my presence, seated on the throne of Israel, provided that your sons take care to walk in my law as you have walked before me.'[e] 17 So now, Yahweh, God of Israel, let the word that you spoke to your servant David come true.
18 "But will God indeed dwell with man on the earth? Behold, the heavens and the highest heavens cannot contain you, how much less this house that I have built![f] 19 Even so, pay attention to your servant's prayer and request, Yahweh my God, and hear the cry and the prayer that your servant offers to you. 20 May your eyes be open day and night toward this temple, the place you said you would put your name, and may you hear the prayer your servant offers toward this place. 21 Hear the requests of your servant and your people Israel when they pray toward this place. Hear from your home in heaven, and when you hear, pardon them.
22 "If a man sins against his neighbor, and an oath is laid on him to make him swear, and he comes and swears before your altar in this house,[g] 23 then hear from heaven, and act, and judge your servants, requiting the wicked, to bring his way upon his own head, and justifying the righteous, to give him according to his righteousness.
24 "If your people Israel are defeated before an enemy because they have sinned against you, and they turn back and confess your name and pray and plead before you in this house, 25 then hear from heaven and forgive the sin of your people Israel, and bring them back to the land that you gave to them and to their fathers.

26 “When the heavens are shut up and there is no rain because they have sinned against you, if they pray toward this place and confess your name and turn from their sin, because you afflict them, 27 then listen in heaven and forgive the sin of your servants, your people Israel. Teach them the right path to follow, and send rain on the land you gave your people as their possession.
28 “If there is famine in the land, if there is pestilence, blight, or mildew, locust or grasshopper; if their enemies besiege them in the land of their gates; whatever plague, whatever sickness there is,[h] 29 whatever prayer, whatever plea is made by any man or by all your people Israel, who shall know every man his own plague and his own sorrow, and shall spread out his hands toward this house, 30 then listen from heaven, where you live, and forgive. Treat each one as his actions deserve, since you know his heart (you alone know the human heart), 31 that they may fear you, to walk in your ways all the days that they live on the face of the land that you gave to our fathers.
32 “Also concerning the foreigner, who is not of your people Israel, when he comes from a far country for your great name’s sake, and your mighty hand, and your outstretched arm; when they come and pray toward this house, 33 hear from heaven, your dwelling place, and act on everything the foreigner asks of you. Then all the peoples of the earth will know your name and honor you as your own people Israel do, and they will recognize that this temple I have built is called by your name.
34 “If your people go out to battle against their enemies, by whatever way you send them, and they pray to you toward this city that you have chosen and the house that I have built for your name, 35 then hear from heaven their prayer and their supplication, and maintain their cause.
36 “When they sin against you (for no one is without sin) and you become angry and hand them over to an enemy, who takes them captive to a country far or near, 37 yet if they come to their senses in the land where they are carried captive, and turn again and make supplication to you in the land of their captivity, saying, ‘We have sinned, we have done wrong, we have acted wickedly,’ 38 and if they return to you with all their heart and soul in the land of their captivity where they were taken, and pray facing the land you gave their ancestors, the city you chose, and the temple I have built for your name, 39 then listen from heaven, where you live, to their prayer and requests, uphold their cause, and forgive your people who have sinned against you. 40 Now, my God, let, I beg you, your eyes be open, and let your ears be attentive to the prayer that is made in this place.[i] 41 “And now arise, Yahweh God, to your resting place, you and the ark of your might. Let your priests, Yahweh God, be clothed with salvation, and let your faithful ones rejoice in what is good.[j] 42 Yahweh God, do not turn away the face of your anointed one. Remember the steadfast love for David your servant.”[k]

Notes

- a (6:1) Verses 1–39 parallel 1 Kings 8:12–50.
- b (6:2) Hebrew zevul, “exalted dwelling” or “princely house.”
- c (6:5) First Kings 8:16 lacks the words “and I chose no man … but I have chosen Jerusalem, that my name might be there,” though the Septuagint of Kings has a similar clause about choosing Jerusalem.
- d (6:13) Hebrew “five cubits long, five cubits broad, and three cubits high,” about 2.3 by 2.3 by 1.4 meters. This verse is not in 1 Kings 8.
- e (6:16) First Kings 8:25 reads “to walk before me.” Chronicles stresses the law.
- f (6:18) Or “the heavens and the heavens of heavens.” Chronicles adds “with man” (compare 1 Kings 8:27).
- g (6:22) Hebrew “and he lays an oath on him to cause him to swear.”
- h (6:28) Or “in any of their cities.” Hebrew “in the land of their gates.”
- i (6:40) Verses 40–42 differ from the ending of Solomon’s prayer in 1 Kings 8:50–53. Verses 41–42 are drawn from Psalm 132:8–10, 1.
- j (6:41) Hebrew hasidim, “those who are faithful” or “godly ones.”
- k (6:42) Or “Remember the deeds of steadfast love of David your servant.” Compare Isaiah 55:3; Psalm 132:1.

Chapter 7

1 When Solomon had finished praying, fire came down from heaven and consumed the burnt offering and the sacrifices, and the glory of Yahweh filled the house.[a] 2 The priests could not enter the house of Yahweh, because the glory of Yahweh had filled the house of Yahweh.

3 When all the Israelites saw the fire come down and Yahweh's glory fill the temple, they knelt with their faces to the ground on the pavement, worshiped, and thanked Yahweh: "He is good; his faithful love lasts forever."
4 Then the king and all the people offered sacrifice before Yahweh.[b] 5
King Solomon offered a sacrifice of twenty-two thousand oxen and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep. So the king and all the people dedicated the house of God. 6 The priests stood at their posts, and the Levites with the instruments for the music of Yahweh that King David had made for giving thanks to Yahweh, "for his steadfast love endures forever," whenever David offered praise by their hand; and the priests opposite them blew trumpets, and all Israel stood. 7 And Solomon consecrated the middle of the court that was before the house of Yahweh, for there he offered the burnt offerings and the fat of the peace offerings, because the bronze altar that Solomon had made was not able to receive the burnt offering, the grain offering,
and the fat.
8 So Solomon kept the feast at that time seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great congregation, from the entrance of Hamath to the Brook of Egypt.[c] 9 On the eighth day they held a closing assembly, having observed the dedication of the altar for seven days and the festival for seven days.[d] 10 On the twenty-third day of the seventh month (in September–October) he sent the people away to their tents, rejoicing and glad of heart for the good that Yahweh had done for David and for Solomon and for Israel his people.[e] 11 Thus Solomon finished the house of Yahweh and the king's house.
And all that came into Solomon's heart to make in the house of Yahweh and in his own house, he prosperously carried out.[f] 12 Then Yahweh appeared to Solomon at night and said, "I have heard your prayer, and I have chosen this place for myself as a temple for sacrifices. 13 If I close the sky so that no rain falls, or order locusts to eat up the land, or send a plague on my people,[g] 14 and my people who are called by my name humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and heal their land. 15 Now my eyes will be open and my ears attentive to the prayer of this place. 16 For now I have chosen and sanctified this house, that my name may be there forever; and my eyes and my heart shall be there perpetually. 17 As for you, if you walk before me as your father David did, doing all that I have commanded and keeping my statutes and rulings, 18 I will make your royal throne secure, just as I promised your father David: 'You will never lack a man to rule in Israel.'[h] 19 But if you turn away and abandon the laws and commands I gave you, and go off to serve and worship other gods,[i] 20 I will uproot Israel from my land that I gave them, and I will cast out of my sight this temple that I consecrated for my name. I will make it an object of ridicule and mockery among all peoples. 21 And this house, which was exalted, everyone passing by it will be appalled and will say, 'Why has Yahweh done thus to this land and to this house?'[j] 22 Then they will say, 'Because they forsook Yahweh, the God of their fathers, who brought them out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold on other gods and bowed down to them and served them; therefore he has brought all this evil upon them.'"

Notes

- a (7:1) Fire from heaven is not mentioned in 1 Kings 8:54; compare 1 Chronicles 21:26; Leviticus 9:24.
- b (7:4) Verses 4–10 parallel 1 Kings 8:62–66.
- c (7:8) Lebo-hamath, "entrance of Hamath," the northern limit of the land; Hamath, "fortress." The Brook of Egypt is probably the Wadi el-Arish, the southern limit.
- d (7:9) The feast is Booths, which began on the fifteenth of the seventh month (Leviticus 23:34–36); the dedication of the altar was held the week before.
- e (7:10) The seventh month is Ethanim (1 Kings 8:2), later Tishri, counting from the spring new year. First Kings 8:66 says "on the eighth day he sent the people away"; Chronicles counts the final assembly before their departure the next day.
- f (7:11) Verses 11–22 parallel 1 Kings 9:1–9.
- g (7:13) Verses 13–15 are not in 1 Kings 9.
- h (7:18) First Kings 9:5 reads "a man on the throne of Israel." Compare Micah 5:2.
- i (7:19) "You" here is plural, addressing Solomon and the people.
- j (7:21) Hebrew "which was high." Some propose reading "will become a heap of ruins" (compare 1 Kings 9:8).

Chapter 8

1 At the end of twenty years, in which Solomon had built the house of Yahweh and his own house,[a] 2 Solomon built the cities that Huram had given to Solomon, and caused the children of Israel to dwell there.[b] 3 Solomon went to Hamath-zobah and took it by force.[c] 4 He built Tadmor in the wilderness and all the store cities that he built in Hamath.[d] 5 He also built Beth-horon the upper and Beth-horon the lower, fortified cities, with walls, gates, and bars,[e] 6 Baalath, all the storage cities Solomon owned, all the cities for his chariots and horsemen, and everything else Solomon wanted to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon, and throughout his territory.[f] 7 All the people who were left of the Hittites, the Amorites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites, who were not of Israel,[g] 8
Their descendants who remained in the land after them, whom the Israelites had not wiped out, were drafted by Solomon for forced labor, and so they are to this day. 9 Yet of the Israelites Solomon made no slaves for his work. They were his soldiers, his chief officers, and the commanders of his chariots and horsemen. 10 These were the chief officers of King Solomon, two hundred and fifty, who ruled over the people.[h]
11 Solomon moved Pharaoh's daughter from the city of David to the palace he had built for her, saying, "My wife must not live in David's house, since David was king of Israel and the places where the ark of Yahweh has come are holy."[i] 12 Then Solomon offered burnt offerings to Yahweh on the altar of Yahweh that he had built before the porch, 13 even as the duty of every day required, offering according to the commandment of Moses on the Sabbaths, on the new moons, and the appointed feasts three times a year: the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the Feast of Weeks, and the Feast of Booths.[j] 14 Following the instructions of his father David, he assigned the priests' divisions to their service, the Levites to lead praise and to assist the priests according to each day's duties, and the gatekeepers by their divisions at every gate, as David the man of God had ordered. 15 And they did not turn aside from the king's command to the priests and Levites concerning any matter, or concerning the treasuries. [16] So all the work of Solomon was carried out from the day the foundation of the house of Yahweh was laid until it was finished.

The house of Yahweh was complete.[k] [17] Then Solomon went to Ezion-geber and to Eloth on the seashore in the land of Edom.[l] [18] Huram sent him ships, and servants who knew the sea, through his own men. They sailed with Solomon's servants to Ophir and brought back about 17 tons of gold to King Solomon.[m]

Notes

- a (8:1) Verses 1–18 parallel 1 Kings 9:10–28.
- b (8:2) First Kings 9:10–14 says Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities in Galilee, which displeased him. Chronicles may describe their return, or follows a different tradition.
- c (8:3) Hamath-zobah, Hamath in the region of Zobah ("station"). No campaign of Solomon is recorded in Kings.
- d (8:4) Tadmor, "palm," later Palmyra in the Syrian desert. First Kings 9:18 has Tamar (Ketiv), a town in the southern wilderness of Judah, with Qere Tadmor.
- e (8:5) Beth-horon, "house of the hollow."
- f (8:6) Baalath, "lady," a town of Dan (Joshua 19:44).
- g (8:7) Hittites, see 1:17; Amorites, "westerners" or "mountain dwellers"; Perizzites, "villagers"; Hivites, perhaps "tent villagers"; Jebusites, see 3:1.
- h (8:10) First Kings 9:23 gives five hundred fifty. See 2:2 note.
- i (8:11) Pharaoh, Egyptian "great house," the title of Egypt's king. The reason given here is not in 1 Kings 9:24.
- j (8:13) Compare Exodus 23:14–17; Deuteronomy 16:16. Booths, Hebrew Sukkot.
- k (8:16) Hebrew "until its finishing"; the Septuagint reads "until Solomon finished the house of the Lord."
- l (8:17) Ezion-geber, perhaps "backbone of a strong man"; Eloth (Elath), "terebinths"; Edom, "red."
- m (8:18) Hebrew "four hundred and fifty talents," about 15.3 metric tons. First Kings 9:28 gives four hundred twenty talents. Kings says Solomon built a fleet and Hiram sent sailors (9:26–27). Ophir, see 1 Chronicles 29:4.

Chapter 9

[1] When the queen of Sheba heard about Solomon's fame, she came to Jerusalem to test him with hard questions. She arrived with a very large caravan, with camels carrying spices, a great amount of gold, and precious stones. She came to Solomon and talked with him about everything on her mind.[a] [2] Solomon told her all her questions, and there was nothing hid from Solomon which he did not tell her. [3] When the queen of Sheba saw the wisdom of Solomon, the house that he had built, 4 the food of his table, the seating of his officials, the standing of his ministers and their apparel, his cupbearers and their apparel, and his ascent by which he went up to the house of Yahweh, there was no more breath in her.[b] 5 She told the king, "The report I heard in my own country about your achievements and your wisdom was true. 6 I did not trust their words until I came and saw it with my own eyes. Not even half of your great wisdom was told to me. You are greater than the report I heard. 7 Blessed are your men, and blessed are these your servants who stand continually before you and hear your wisdom![c] 8 Praise Yahweh your God, who delighted in you and placed you on his throne to rule for Yahweh your God. Because your God loves Israel and wants them to last forever, he has made you their king, to carry out justice and righteousness."[d] 9 She gave the king about four and a half tons of gold, and spices in great abundance, and precious stones;

neither was there ever such spices as those the queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon.[e] 10 Moreover the servants of Huram and the servants of Solomon, who brought gold from Ophir, brought algum wood and precious stones. 11 And the king made from the algum wood steps for the house of Yahweh and for the king's house, and lyres and harps for the singers; none like them had been seen before in the land of Judah.[f] 12 King Solomon gave the queen of Sheba everything she wanted and asked for, in addition to what she had brought him. Then she and her servants left and returned to her own country.[g] 13 The weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was about twenty-five tons of gold,[h] 14 not counting what the traders and merchants brought. All the kings of Arabia and the governors of the land also brought gold and silver to Solomon.[i] 15 King Solomon made two hundred large shields of beaten gold; about fifteen pounds of beaten gold went into each large shield.[j] 16 And he made three hundred small shields of beaten gold; about seven and a half pounds of gold went into each shield. The king put them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon.[k] 17 The king also made a great throne of ivory and overlaid it with pure gold. 18 There were six steps to the throne, with a footstool of gold, which were fastened to the throne, and stays on either side

by the place of the seat, and two lions standing beside the stays;[l] 19 and twelve lions stood there on the one side and on the other upon the six steps; there was not the like made in any kingdom. 20 All King Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the House of the Forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; silver was not counted as anything in the days of Solomon. 21 For the king's ships went to Tarshish with the servants of Huram; once every three years the ships of Tarshish came, bringing gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks.[m]

22 Thus King Solomon excelled all the kings of the earth in riches and in wisdom. 23 And all the kings of the earth sought the presence of Solomon to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart. 24 They brought every man his tribute: vessels of silver and vessels of gold, clothing, weapons, spices, horses, and mules, so much year by year.[n] 25 Solomon had 4,000 stalls for horses and chariots and 12,000 horsemen, whom he kept in the chariot cities and near himself in Jerusalem.[o] 26 He ruled over all the kings from the River to the land of the Philistines and to the border of Egypt.[p] 27 The king made silver as common in Jerusalem as stones, and he made cedars as plentiful as the sycamore-fig trees of the Shephelah. 28 And horses were brought for Solomon from Egypt and from all lands.

29 Now the rest of the acts of Solomon, first and last, are they not written in the words of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer concerning Jeroboam the son of Nebat?[q] 30 Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel forty years. 31 And Solomon slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of David his father; and Rehoboam his son reigned in his place.[r]

Notes

- a (9:1) Verses 1–12 parallel 1 Kings 10:1–13. Sheba, probably in southwest Arabia (modern Yemen).
- b (9:4) Or "his burnt offerings that he offered at the house of Yahweh"; 1 Kings 10:5 has "his burnt offering." The Hebrew here, 'aliyyato, means "his ascent" or "his upper chamber."
- c (9:7) The Septuagint of Kings reads "your wives" for "your men" in 1 Kings 10:8; the Hebrew words are similar.

- d (9:8) First Kings 10:9 reads “on the throne of Israel”; Chronicles speaks of the throne as God’s own.
- e (9:9) Hebrew “a hundred and twenty talents,” about 4.1 metric tons.
- f (9:11) Or “paths” or “stairs”; the Hebrew (mesillot) is uncertain. First Kings 10:12 has “supports” or “railings” (mis‘ad).
- g (9:12) The Hebrew text is difficult; it may mean “besides what she had brought in exchange.”
- h (9:13) Verses 13–28 parallel 1 Kings 10:14–29. Hebrew “six hundred and sixty-six talents,” about 22.6 metric tons.
- i (9:14) Arabia, “steppe” or “desert.”
- j (9:15) Hebrew “six hundred of beaten gold,” probably shekels: about 6.9 kilograms.
- k (9:16) Hebrew “three hundred of gold,” probably shekels: about 3.45 kilograms. First Kings 10:17 has “three minas of gold,” about 1.7 kilograms if a mina is fifty shekels. On the House of the Forest of Lebanon see 1 Kings 7:2–5.
- l (9:18) First Kings 10:19 describes a rounded top to the throne instead of the footstool. The Hebrew words are not alike.
- m (9:21) First Kings 10:22 reads “the king had a fleet of ships of Tarshish,” probably large seagoing ships; Chronicles has the ships go to Tarshish (perhaps Tartessus in Spain). “Peacocks” may be baboons; the meaning of the Hebrew (tukkiyyim) is uncertain.
- n (9:24) Or “myrrh” for “weapons”; the Hebrew (nesheq) is uncertain.
- o (9:25) First Kings 4:26 (Hebrew 5:6) gives forty thousand stalls; many think four thousand original. Compare 1:14; 1 Kings 10:26.
- p (9:26) The River is the Euphrates. Philistines, perhaps “wanderers” or “immigrants.”
- q (9:29) Compare 1 Kings 11:41, which cites “the book of the acts of Solomon.” Nathan, “he has given”; Ahijah, “brother of Yahweh”; Shilonite, of Shiloh; Iddo, perhaps “timely” or “adorned”; Jeroboam, perhaps “the people contends” or “may the people increase”; Nebat, “he has looked.” Chronicles omits the account of Solomon’s wives and the revolts of 1 Kings 11.
- r (9:31) Rehoboam, “the people is enlarged.”

Chapter 10

1 Rehoboam went to Shechem, for all Israel had come to Shechem to make him king.[a] 2 And when Jeroboam the son of Nebat heard of it (for he was in Egypt, where he had fled from King Solomon), Jeroboam returned from Egypt.[b] 3 They sent and called him, and Jeroboam and all Israel came and spoke to Rehoboam, saying, 4 “Your father made our burden heavy. Now ease the harsh labor and the heavy burden your father placed on us, and we will serve you." [5] He said to them, "Return to me after three days." So the people went away.

[6] Then King Rehoboam consulted with the old men who had stood before Solomon his father while he was alive, saying, "How do you advise me to answer this people?" [7] They told him, "If you are kind to these people, satisfy them, and give them a favorable answer, they will be your servants forever." [8] But he rejected the advice the elders had given him and consulted the young men who had grown up with him and were serving him. [9] He said to them, "What counsel do you give, that we may return answer to this people, who have spoken to me, saying, 'Make the yoke that your father put on us lighter'?" [10] The young men who had grown up with him spoke to him, saying, "Thus you shall tell the people who spoke to you, saying, 'Your father made our yoke heavy, but make it lighter for us'; thus you shall say to them, 'My little finger is thicker than my father's loins.[c] [11] And now, whereas my father laid on you a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke. My father disciplined you with whips, but I will discipline you with scorpions.'"[d]
[12] So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as the king had said, "Return to me on the third day." [13] And the king answered them harshly; King Rehoboam forsook the counsel of the old men, [14] and spoke to them according to the counsel of the young men, saying, "My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to it. My father disciplined you with whips, but I will discipline you with scorpions." [15] So the king did not listen to the people, for it was brought about by God, that Yahweh might establish his word, which he spoke by Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam the son of Nebat.[e]
[16] When all Israel saw that the king did not listen to them, the people answered the king, saying, "What portion have we in David? We have no inheritance in the son of Jesse. To your tents, each man, O Israel! Now see to your own house, David." So all Israel went to their tents.[f] [17] But as for the people of Israel who lived in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them. [18] King Rehoboam sent out Hadoram, who was in charge of forced labor, but the Israelites stoned him to death. King Rehoboam hurried to get into his chariot and escape to Jerusalem.[g] 19 So Israel rebelled against the house of David to this day.

Notes

- a (10:1) Verses 1–19 parallel 1 Kings 12:1–19. Rehoboam, see 9:31. Shechem, "shoulder" or "ridge."
- b (10:2) First Kings 12:2 reads "Jeroboam stayed in Egypt"; the Hebrew words for "returned" and "stayed" are similar (wayyashov, wayyeshev). Chronicles assumes the account of Jeroboam in 1 Kings 11:26–40, which it does not include.
- c (10:10) Hebrew "than my father's loins," that is, his waist.
- d (10:11) "Scorpions" may be whips tipped with barbs or metal points.
- e (10:15) Ahijah, see 9:29; compare 1 Kings 11:29–39.
- f (10:16) Jesse, perhaps "Yahweh exists" or "gift."
- g (10:18) Hadoram, perhaps "Hadad is exalted"; 1 Kings 12:18 has Adoram, and 1 Kings 4:6 Adoniram.

Chapter 11

1 When Rehoboam reached Jerusalem, he gathered the families of Judah and Benjamin, 180,000 chosen soldiers, to fight against Israel and bring the kingdom back to Rehoboam.[a] 2 But the word of Yahweh came to Shemaiah the man of God, saying,[b] 3 "Say to Rehoboam the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, 4 'Thus says Yahweh: You shall not go up or fight against your brothers. Return every man to his house, for this thing is from me.'" So they listened to the words of Yahweh and turned back from going against Jeroboam.

5 Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and built cities for defense in Judah.[c] 6 He built Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa,[d] 7 Beth-zur, Soco, Adullam,[e] 8 Gath, Mareshah, Ziph,[f] 9 Adoraim, Lachish, Azekah,[g] 10 Zorah, Aijalon, and Hebron, which are fortified cities in Judah and in Benjamin.[h] 11 He fortified the strongholds and put captains in them, with stores of food, oil, and wine. 12 And in every city he put shields and spears and made them very strong. So he held Judah and Benjamin.

13 The priests and Levites throughout Israel took their stand with him from all their regions. 14 For the Levites left their pasture lands and their possession and came to Judah and Jerusalem; for Jeroboam and his sons cast them off, that they should not execute the priest's office to Yahweh; 15 He appointed his own priests for the high places, for the goat idols, and for the calves he had made.[i] 16 And after them, out of all the tribes of Israel, those who had set their hearts to seek Yahweh, the God of Israel, came to Jerusalem to sacrifice to Yahweh, the God of their fathers. 17 They strengthened the kingdom of Judah and made Rehoboam the son of Solomon secure for three years, for they walked for three years in the way of David and Solomon.

18 Rehoboam took as wife Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the son of David, and of Abihail the daughter of Eliab the son of Jesse.[j] 19 She bore him sons: Jeush, Shemariah, and Zaham.[k] 20 After her he took Maacah the daughter of Absalom, and she bore him Abijah, Attai, Ziza, and Shelomith.[l] 21 Rehoboam loved Maacah the daughter of Absalom above all his wives and his concubines (for he took eighteen wives and sixty concubines, and fathered twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters). 22 And Rehoboam appointed Abijah the son of Maacah as chief, as leader among his brothers, for he intended to make him king. 23 He dealt wisely, and dispersed of all his sons throughout all the lands of Judah and Benjamin, to every fortified city; and he gave them food in abundance, and he sought for them many wives.[m]

Notes

- a (11:1) Verses 1–4 parallel 1 Kings 12:21–24. Benjamin, "son of the right hand" or "son of the south."
- b (11:2) Shemaiah, "Yahweh has heard."
- c (11:5) Verses 5–23 have no parallel in Kings.
- d (11:6) Bethlehem, "house of bread"; Etam, perhaps "place of birds of prey"; Tekoa, perhaps "trumpet blast."
- e (11:7) Beth-zur, "house of rock"; Soco, perhaps "thorny" or "branches"; Adullam, perhaps "refuge."
- f (11:8) Gath, "winepress"; Mareshah, "summit"; Ziph, perhaps "refining" or "flowing."
- g (11:9) Adoraim, perhaps "two mounds"; Lachish, meaning uncertain; Azekah, perhaps "hoed ground."
- h (11:10) Zorah, perhaps "hornet"; Aijalon, "place of deer"; Hebron, "association" or "alliance."
- i (11:15) Hebrew seʿirim, "goats" or "hairy ones," goat-shaped demons; compare Leviticus 17:7. On the calves see 1 Kings 12:28–33.
- j (11:18) The Ketiv reads "son of Jerimoth"; the Qere, "daughter of Jerimoth." Mahalath, perhaps "sickness" or "lyre" (compare the Psalm titles); Jerimoth, "heights";

Abihail, “my father is strength”; Eliab, “my God is father.” Jerimoth is not among David’s sons in 1 Chronicles 3.

- k (11:19) Jeush, “he comes to help”; Shemariah, “Yahweh keeps”; Zaham, perhaps “loathing.”
- l (11:20) Hebrew “daughter” may mean “granddaughter”; 13:2 calls Abijah’s mother Micaiah the daughter of Uriel. Maacah, perhaps “oppression” or “dull”; Absalom, “father of peace” (1 Kings 15:2 Abishalom); Abijah, “Yahweh is my father” (1 Kings 15:1 Abijam); Attai, perhaps “timely”; Ziza, “abundance”; Shelomith, “peaceful.”
- m (11:23) Hebrew “and he asked for a multitude of wives.”

Chapter 12

1 When the kingdom of Rehoboam was established and he was strong, he forsook the law of Yahweh, and all Israel with him.[a] 2 In the fifth year of King Rehoboam, because they had been unfaithful to Yahweh, Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem[b] 3 with 1,200 chariots and 60,000 horsemen. The troops who came with him from Egypt were beyond counting: Libyans, Sukkiim, and Cushites.[c] 4 He took the fortified cities which belonged to Judah, and came to Jerusalem.
5 Then Shemaiah the prophet came to Rehoboam and to the princes of Judah who had gathered at Jerusalem because of Shishak, and said to them, “Thus says Yahweh: You forsook me, so I also have forsaken you into the hand of Shishak.” 6 Then the princes of Israel and the king humbled themselves and said, “Yahweh is righteous.” 7 When Yahweh saw that they humbled themselves, the word of Yahweh came to Shemaiah, saying, “They have humbled themselves; I will not destroy them, but I will grant them deliverance in a little while, and my wrath shall not be poured out on Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak.[d] 8 Nevertheless they shall be his servants, so that they may know my service and the service of the kingdoms of the lands.”
9 Shishak king of Egypt marched against Jerusalem. He carried off the treasures of Yahweh’s house and of the royal palace; he took everything. He also took the gold shields that Solomon had made,[e] 10 King Rehoboam made bronze shields to replace them and entrusted them to the officers of the guard on duty at the palace entrance.[f] 11
And whenever the king went into the house of Yahweh, the runners came and carried them and brought them back to the guardroom of the runners. 12 And when he humbled himself, the wrath of Yahweh turned from him, so as not to destroy him completely. Moreover, conditions were good in Judah.[g]

13 King Rehoboam established himself firmly in Jerusalem and continued as king. Rehoboam was 41 years old when he became king, and he ruled 17 years in Jerusalem, the city Yahweh had chosen from all the tribes of Israel as the place to put his name. His mother's name was Naamah, an Ammonite.[h] 14 He did that which was evil, because he did not set his heart to seek Yahweh.

15 Now the acts of Rehoboam, first and last, are they not written in the words of Shemaiah the prophet and of Iddo the seer, in the matter of genealogies? There were wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam continually.[i] 16 And Rehoboam slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of David, and Abijah his son reigned in his place.

Notes

- a (12:1) Verses 1–16 expand 1 Kings 14:21–31.
- b (12:2) Shishak (Egyptian Sheshonq I) founded Egypt's Twenty-second Dynasty; his own inscription at Karnak lists towns he took in Judah and Israel, about 925 B.C.
- c (12:3) Libyans, Hebrew Lubim; Sukkiim, perhaps Libyan troops (Egyptian Tjukten) or "tent dwellers"; Cushites, people of Cush, the upper Nile region (Nubia).
- d (12:7) Or "some deliverance." Hebrew "as a little, deliverance."
- e (12:9) First Kings 14:26 adds "all the shields of gold."
- f (12:10) Hebrew "the runners," the royal guard.
- g (12:12) Or "and in Judah there were good things." Compare 19:3.
- h (12:13) Naamah, "pleasant"; Ammonite, of Ammon ("people" or "kinsman"). Verses 13–14 parallel 1 Kings 14:21–22.
- i (12:15) Hebrew "to be enrolled by genealogy"; the sense is uncertain.

Chapter 13

1 In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam, Abijah began to reign over Judah.[a] 2 He ruled three years in Jerusalem. His mother was Micaiah, the daughter of Uriel from Gibeah. Abijah and Jeroboam were at war.[b] 3 Abijah joined battle with an army of valiant men of war, four hundred thousand chosen men; and Jeroboam set the battle in array against him with eight hundred thousand chosen men, mighty men of valor.[c]

4 Then Abijah stood up on Mount Zemaraim, which is in the hill country of Ephraim, and said, "Hear me, Jeroboam and all Israel![d]

5 Ought you not to know that Yahweh, the God of Israel, gave the kingdom over Israel to David forever, to him and to his sons, by a covenant of salt?[e] 6 Yet Jeroboam son of Nebat, who served Solomon son of David, stood up and rebelled against his master. 7 and worthless men gathered about him, scoundrels, and they prevailed against Rehoboam the son of Solomon, when Rehoboam was young and fainthearted and could not stand against them.[f] 8 And now you plan to resist the kingdom of Yahweh, which is in the hands of David's descendants. You are a huge crowd, and you have with you the golden calves that Jeroboam made as your gods. 9 Didn't you drive out the priests of Yahweh, the descendants of Aaron, and the Levites, and appoint your own priests like the peoples of other countries?
Anyone who comes to be ordained with a young bull and seven rams becomes a priest of what are not gods.[g] 10 But as for us, Yahweh is our God, and we have not forsaken him. We have priests ministering to Yahweh who are sons of Aaron, and Levites at their work. 11 They offer to Yahweh every morning and every evening burnt offerings and incense of sweet spices, and set out the showbread on the pure table, and tend the golden lampstand with its lamps to burn every evening;
for we keep the charge of Yahweh our God, but you have forsaken him. 12 See, God is with us as our leader, and his priests are here with their trumpets to sound the battle call against you. People of Israel, do not fight against Yahweh, the God of your ancestors, because you will not win."
13 But Jeroboam caused an ambush to come about behind them; so they were before Judah, and the ambush was behind them. 14 And when Judah turned, behold, the battle was before and behind them.
They cried to Yahweh, and the priests blew the trumpets. 15 Then the men of Judah gave a shout; and as the men of Judah shouted, God struck Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah. 16 The children of Israel fled before Judah, and God delivered them into their hand. 17 Abijah and his people struck them with a great blow, and five hundred thousand chosen men of Israel fell slain.[h] 18 So the Israelites were defeated at that time, and the people of Judah won, because they depended on Yahweh, the God of their ancestors. 19 And

Abijah pursued Jeroboam and took cities from him: Bethel with its villages, Jeshanah with its villages, and Ephron with its villages.[i] 20 Jeroboam did not regain strength again in the days of Abijah; and Yahweh struck him down, and he died.[j]

21 But Abijah grew strong. He took fourteen wives and fathered twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters. 22 The rest of the acts of Abijah, his ways and his sayings, are written in the study of the prophet Iddo.[k]

Notes

- a (13:1) Verses 1–2 parallel 1 Kings 15:1–2, 6–7. Kings calls him Abijam and judges him harshly (15:3); Chronicles records his speech and victory.
- b (13:2) Micaiah, "who is like Yahweh?"; Uriel, "God is my light"; Gibeah, "hill." The Septuagint and 1 Kings 15:2 read Maacah, as in 11:20.
- c (13:3) These numbers, and those of verse 17, are very large; Hebrew 'eleph, "thousand," may in such lists denote a military unit.
- d (13:4) Zemaraim, perhaps "two wool-heaps"; Ephraim, "doubly fruitful."
- e (13:5) A covenant of salt is a lasting, unbreakable covenant; compare Numbers 18:19.
- f (13:7) Hebrew "young and tender of heart."
- g (13:9) "To fill his hand" is the idiom for ordaining a priest.
- h (13:17) See verse 3 note.
- i (13:19) Bethel, "house of God"; Jeshanah, "old." The Ketiv reads Ephron; the Qere, Ephrain. Ephron, "fawn-like."
- j (13:20) First Kings 14:20 says Jeroboam reigned twenty-two years; he outlived Abijah (1 Kings 15:9). "He died" here may anticipate his later death.
- k (13:22) Hebrew midrash, "study," "commentary," or "record."

Chapter 14

1 So Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David; and Asa his son reigned in his place. In his days the land was quiet for ten years.[a] 2 Asa did what was good and right in the eyes of Yahweh his God.[b] 3 He removed the foreign altars and high places, smashed the sacred pillars, and cut down the Asherah poles.[c] 4 and commanded Judah to seek Yahweh, the God of their fathers, and to do the law and the commandment. 5 He also removed the high places and incense altars from every city of Judah, and the kingdom enjoyed peace under him.[d] 6 He built fortified cities in Judah while the land was at peace. No one fought against him in those years, since Yahweh gave him rest. 7 And he said to Judah, “Let us build these cities and surround them with walls and towers, gates and bars. The land is still before us, because we have sought Yahweh our God; we have sought him, and he has given us rest on every side.” So they built and prospered.

8 Asa had an army that bore bucklers and spears: out of Judah three hundred thousand, and out of Benjamin, that bore shields and drew bows, two hundred and eighty thousand; all these were mighty men of valor. 9 Zerah the Cushite came out against them with an army of a thousand thousands and three hundred chariots, and he came as far as Mareshah.[e] 10 Then Asa went out to meet him, and they set the battle in array in the Valley of Zephathah at Mareshah.[f] 11 And Asa cried to Yahweh his God and said, “Yahweh, there is none besides you to help, between the mighty and him who has no strength. Help us, Yahweh our God, for we rely on you, and in your name we have come against this multitude. Yahweh, you are our God; let not man prevail against you.” 12 So Yahweh struck the Cushites before Asa and before Judah, and the Cushites fled. 13 Asa and the people who were with him pursued them as far as Gerar, and so many of the Cushites fell that none remained alive, for they were broken before Yahweh and before his army. The men of Judah carried away very much plunder.[g] 14 And they struck all the cities around Gerar, for the dread of Yahweh was on them. They plundered all the cities, for there was much plunder in them. 15 They also attacked the camps of the herdsmen and carried off many sheep and camels. Then they went back to Jerusalem.

Notes

- a (14:1) In Hebrew, 14:1 is 13:23, and 14:2–15 are 14:1–14. Asa, perhaps “healer.” Verses 1–3 parallel 1 Kings 15:8–11.
- b (14:2) Hebrew “in the eyes of.”
- c (14:3) Asherim, wooden poles or trees honoring the goddess Asherah.
- d (14:5) Hebrew hammanim, perhaps incense stands; older versions, “sun images.” First Kings 15:14 and 2 Chronicles 15:17 say the high places were not removed; Chronicles may distinguish idolatrous shrines from high places used for Yahweh, or Judah from Israel.
- e (14:9) Zerah, “rising” or “dawning”; Cushite, see 12:3. Hebrew “a thousand thousand(s)”; see 13:3 note.

- f (14:10) Zephathah, “watchtower.” The Septuagint reads “in the valley north of Mareshah,” reflecting a different reading of the same consonants.
- g (14:13) Gerar, “lodging place.” Or “so that they could not recover.”

Chapter 15

1 The Spirit of God came upon Azariah the son of Oded,[a] 2 and he went out to meet Asa and said to him, “Hear me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin: Yahweh is with you while you are with him. If you seek him, he will be found by you; but if you forsake him, he will forsake you. 3 For a long time Israel was without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without law.[b] 4 But when in their distress they turned to Yahweh, the God of Israel, and sought him, he was found by them. 5 In those times there was no peace to him who went out nor to him who came in, but great troubles were on all the inhabitants of the lands. 6 Nation was crushed by nation, and city by city, for God troubled them with every kind of distress. 7 But you, be strong, and do not let your hands be slack, for there is a reward for your work.”
8 When Asa heard these words, the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he took courage and put away the abominations out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken from the hill country of Ephraim; and he renewed the altar of Yahweh that was before the porch of Yahweh.[c] 9 He gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and those who sojourned with them out of Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon; for they fell to him out of Israel in abundance when they saw that Yahweh his God was with him.[d] 10 They were gathered at Jerusalem in the third month (in May–June) of the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa.[e] 11 They sacrificed to Yahweh on that day, from the plunder that they had brought, seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep. 12 And they entered into a covenant to seek Yahweh, the God of their fathers, with all their heart and with all their soul, 13 and that whoever would not seek Yahweh, the God of Israel, should be put to death, whether small or great, whether man or woman. 14
They swore an oath to Yahweh with a loud voice, with shouting, with trumpets, and with horns. 15 And all Judah rejoiced over the oath, for they had sworn with all their heart and had sought him with their whole desire, and he was found by them; and Yahweh gave them rest all around.

16 King Asa even removed his mother Maacah from her position as queen mother, because she had made a disgusting image of Asherah. Asa chopped down her image, ground it up, and burned it in the Kidron Valley.[f] 17 But the high places were not taken away out of Israel; yet the heart of Asa was perfect all his days.[g] 18 He brought into the house of God the things that his father had dedicated and that he himself had dedicated, silver, gold, and vessels. 19 There was no more war to the thirty-fifth year of Asa's reign.[h]

Notes

- a (15:1) Azariah, "Yahweh has helped"; Oded, perhaps "restorer."
- b (15:3) This may describe the time of the judges, or be a general warning; compare Hosea 3:4.
- c (15:8) Hebrew "and the prophecy, Oded the prophet"; the words "Azariah the son of" may have dropped out (compare verse 1). The Septuagint also reads "Oded" (Brenton "Adad").
- d (15:9) Manasseh, "causing to forget"; Simeon, "hearing."
- e (15:10) The third month, later Sivan, counting from the spring new year; the Feast of Weeks fell in this month. The covenant oath (Hebrew shevuʿah) may play on Shavuʿot, "Weeks."
- f (15:16) Verses 16–18 parallel 1 Kings 15:13–15. Maacah, see 11:20; she was Asa's grandmother (1 Kings 15:2, 10, "mother" in the wider sense). Kidron, perhaps "dark" or "turbid."
- g (15:17) Compare 14:5 note.
- h (15:19) First Kings 16:8 places the death of Baasha (16:1) in Asa's twenty-sixth year. The thirty-fifth and thirty-sixth years (here and 16:1) may be counted from the division of the kingdom, or the numbers may have been miscopied.

Chapter 16

1 In the thirty-sixth year of the reign of Asa, Baasha king of Israel went up against Judah and built Ramah, so that he might not allow anyone to go out or come in to Asa king of Judah.[a] 2 Then Asa brought out silver and gold from the treasuries of the house of Yahweh and of the king's house, and sent to Ben-hadad king of Aram, who lived in Damascus, saying,[b] 3 "There is a treaty between me and you, as there was between my father and your father. Behold, I am sending you silver and gold. Go, break your treaty with Baasha king of Israel, that he may withdraw from me." 4 Ben-hadad listened to King Asa, and sent the commanders of his armies against the cities of Israel; and they struck Ijon, Dan, Abel-maim, and all the store cities of Naphtali.[c] 5 When Baasha heard of it, he stopped building Ramah and let his work cease. 6 Then Asa the king took all Judah, and they carried away

the stones of Ramah and the timber of it, with which Baasha had built;
and he built Geba and Mizpah with them.[d] 7 At that time Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah and said to him, "Because you relied on the king of Aram, and did not rely on Yahweh your God, the army of the king of Aram has escaped out of your hand.[e] 8 Were not the Cushites and the Libyans a huge army with chariots and very many horsemen? Yet because you relied on Yahweh, he gave them into your hand. 9 For the eyes of Yahweh run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to show himself strong on behalf of those whose heart is wholly true to him. You have done foolishly in this, for from now on you will have wars." 10 Then Asa was angry with the seer and put him in the stocks, for he was in a rage with him because of this. And Asa oppressed some of the people at the same time.[f]
11 The acts of Asa, first and last, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.[g] 12 In the thirty-ninth year of his reign Asa was diseased in his feet, and his disease became very severe; yet even in his disease he did not seek Yahweh, but the physicians.[h] 13 Asa died in the forty-first year of his reign and was laid to rest with his ancestors. 14 They buried him in his own tomb, which he had hewn out for himself in the city of David, and laid him in the bed which was filled with sweet odors and various kinds of spices prepared by the perfumers' art; and they made a very great burning for him.[i]

Notes

- a (16:1) Verses 1–6 parallel 1 Kings 15:16–22. Baasha, meaning uncertain; Ramah, "height." See 15:19 note.
- b (16:2) Ben-hadad, "son of Hadad," the storm god; Aram, see 1:17; Damascus, meaning uncertain.
- c (16:4) Ijon, perhaps "ruin"; Abel-maim, "meadow of waters" (1 Kings 15:20 Abel-beth-maacah); Naphtali, "my wrestling."
- d (16:6) Geba, "hill"; Mizpah, "watchtower."

- e (16:7) Hanani, “gracious.” Verses 7–10 are not in Kings.
- f (16:10) Hebrew “the house of the stocks.”
- g (16:11) Compare 1 Kings 15:23–24.
- h (16:12) Or “but sought the physicians”; perhaps a play on Asa’s name if it means “healer.”
- i (16:14) The fire was a burning of spices in his honor, not a cremation; compare 21:19; Jeremiah 34:5.

Chapter 17

1 Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his place and strengthened himself against Israel.[a] 2 He placed forces in all the fortified cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of Judah and in the cities of Ephraim that Asa his father had taken. 3 Yahweh was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the earlier ways of his father David, and did not seek the Baals,[b] 4 but sought the God of his father and walked in his commandments, and not according to the deeds of Israel. 5 Therefore Yahweh established the kingdom in his hand. All Judah brought tribute to Jehoshaphat, and he had riches and honor in abundance. 6 His heart was lifted up in the ways of Yahweh; and moreover he took away the high places and the Asherim out of Judah.[c] 7 In the third year of his reign he sent his princes, Ben-hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, Nethanel, and Micaiah, to teach in the cities of Judah;[d] 8 and with them the Levites Shemaiah, Nethaniah, Zebadiah, Asahel, Shemiramoth, Jehonathan, Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, as well as the priests Elishama and Jehoram.[e] 9 They taught in Judah, having the book of the law of Yahweh with them. They went about through all the cities of Judah and taught among the people.
10 Fear of Yahweh came over all the kingdoms of the lands around Judah, so they did not go to war against Jehoshaphat. 11 Some of the Philistines brought Jehoshaphat gifts and silver as tribute. Arabs also brought him flocks: 7,700 rams and 7,700 male goats. 12 Jehoshaphat grew great exceedingly; and he built castles and store cities in Judah.
13 and he had much work in the cities of Judah; and he had men of war, mighty men of valor, in Jerusalem. 14 This is the muster of them by their fathers’ houses: Of Judah, the captains of thousands: Adnah the captain, and with him three hundred thousand mighty men of valor;[f] 15 and next to him Jehohanan the captain, and with him two hundred and eighty thousand;[g] 16 and next to him Amasiah the son of Zichri, who offered himself willingly to Yahweh, and with him

two hundred thousand mighty men of valor.[h] 17 Of Benjamin: Eliada, a mighty man of valor, and with him two hundred thousand armed with bow and shield;[i] 18 and next to him Jehozabad, and with him a hundred and eighty thousand ready for war.[j] 19 These were those who served the king, besides those whom the king had put in the fortified cities throughout all Judah.

Notes

- a (17:1) Jehoshaphat, "Yahweh has judged." Compare 1 Kings 15:24; 22:41–50.
- b (17:3) The Septuagint and some Hebrew manuscripts lack "David," giving "the earlier ways of his father," that is, Asa. Baals, local forms of the god Baal ("lord, owner").
- c (17:6) Hebrew "his heart was high," here in a good sense, "he took courage." Contrast 20:33.
- d (17:7) Ben-hail, "son of strength" (or read "his princes, men of valor"); Obadiah, "servant of Yahweh"; Zechariah, "Yahweh remembers"; Nethanel, "God has given"; Micaiah, see 13:2.
- e (17:8) Shemaiah, see 11:2; Nethaniah, "Yahweh has given"; Zebadiah, "Yahweh has bestowed"; Asahel, "God has made"; Shemiramoth, perhaps "name of heights"; Jehonathan, "Yahweh has given"; Adonijah, "my lord is Yahweh"; Tobijah, "Yahweh is good"; Tob-adonijah, "good is my lord Yahweh"; Elishama, "God has heard"; Jehoram, "Yahweh is exalted."
- f (17:14) Adnah, "pleasure." The total of verses 14–18 (1,160,000) is very large; see 13:3 note.
- g (17:15) Jehohanan, "Yahweh is gracious."
- h (17:16) Amasiah, "Yahweh carries"; Zichri, "remembered."
- i (17:17) Eliada, "God knows."
- j (17:18) Jehozabad, "Yahweh has bestowed."

Chapter 18

1 Now Jehoshaphat had riches and honor in abundance, and he made a marriage alliance with Ahab.[a] 2 After some years he went down to Ahab in Samaria. Ahab slaughtered sheep and oxen in abundance for him and for the people who were with him, and urged him to go up against Ramoth-gilead.[b] 3 Ahab king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat king of Judah, "Will you go with me to Ramoth-gilead?" He answered him,

"I am as you are, and my people as your people; we will be with you in the war."
4 And Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, "Inquire first, I pray you, for the word of Yahweh." 5 Then the king of Israel gathered the prophets together, four hundred men, and said to them, "Shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear?" They said, "Go up, for God will give it into the hand of the king." 6 But Jehoshaphat said, "Is there not here another prophet of Yahweh, that we may inquire of him?" 7 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "There is yet one man by whom we may inquire of Yahweh, but I hate him, for he never prophesies good concerning me, but always evil. He is Micaiah the son of Imla." And Jehoshaphat said, "Let not the king say so."[c] 8 Then the king of Israel called an officer and said, "Bring quickly Micaiah the son of Imla."[d] 9 Now the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah were sitting each on his throne, clothed in their robes; they sat at the threshing floor at the entrance of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets were prophesying before them.[e] 10 Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah made himself horns of iron and said, "Thus says Yahweh: 'With these you shall push the Arameans until they are consumed.'"[f] 11 All the prophets prophesied so, saying, "Go up to Ramoth-gilead and prosper, for Yahweh will give it into the hand of the king."
12 The messenger who went to call Micaiah spoke to him, saying, "Behold, the words of the prophets declare good to the king with one mouth. Let your word, I pray you, be like one of theirs, and speak good." 13 And Micaiah said, "As Yahweh lives, what my God says, that will I speak." 14 When he had come to the king, the king said to him, "Micaiah, shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear?" And he said, "Go up and prosper; they shall be given into your hand." 15 The king said to him, "How many times shall I adjure you that you speak to me nothing but the truth in the name of Yahweh?" 16 And he said, "I saw all Israel scattered on the mountains, as sheep that have no shepherd. And Yahweh said, 'These have no master; let them return each to his house in peace.'" 17 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "Did I not tell you that he would not prophesy good concerning me, but evil?" 18 Micaiah continued, "Therefore listen to the word of Yahweh: I saw Yahweh sitting on his throne, with all the host of heaven standing on his right and on his left. 19 Yahweh asked, 'Who will lure Ahab king of Israel into attacking Ramoth-gilead and dying there?' One suggested one thing, and another suggested something else. 20 Then a spirit stepped forward, stood in front of Yahweh, and said, 'I will lure him.' 'How?' Yahweh asked.[g] 21 'I will go out and become a lying spirit in the mouths of all his prophets,' he said. Yahweh said, 'You will lure him, and you will succeed. Go and do it.' 22 Now therefore, behold, Yahweh has put a lying spirit in the mouth of these your prophets, and Yahweh has spoken evil concerning you."

23 Then Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah came near and struck Micaiah on the cheek and said, "Which way did the Spirit of Yahweh go from me to speak to you?" 24 And Micaiah said, "Behold, you shall see on that day, when you go into an inner chamber to hide yourself." 25 And the king of Israel said, "Take Micaiah, and carry him back to Amon the governor of the city and to Joash the king's son,[h] 26 and say, 'Thus says the king: Put this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I return in peace.'"[i] 27 Micaiah said, "If you ever come back safely, Yahweh has not spoken through me." He added, "Listen, all you peoples!"[j]
28 So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead. 29 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "I will disguise myself and go into the battle, but you put on your robes." So the king of Israel disguised himself, and they went into the battle. 30 Now the king of Aram had ordered his chariot commanders, "Do not fight with anyone, small or great, except the king of Israel." 31 When the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, they said, "It is the king of Israel." So they turned about to fight against him. But Jehoshaphat cried out, and Yahweh helped him; God drew them away from him.[k] 32 When the captains of the chariots saw that it was not the king of Israel, they turned back from pursuing him. 33 But a certain man drew his bow at random and struck the king of Israel between the joints of the armor. So he said to the driver of the chariot, "Turn your hand and carry me out of the army, for I am badly wounded."[l] 34 The battle grew fierce that day, and the king of Israel held himself up in his chariot facing the Arameans until evening; and about the time of the going down of the sun he died.[m]

Notes

- a (18:1) Ahab, "father's brother." The marriage was of Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat to Athaliah daughter of Ahab (21:6; 22:2). Chapter 18 closely parallels 1 Kings 22:1–35.
- b (18:2) Samaria, "watch post"; Ramoth-gilead, "heights of Gilead."
- c (18:7) Micaiah, "who is like Yahweh?"; Imla, "he fills."
- d (18:8) The Ketiv spells the name Micaihu, a longer form.
- e (18:9) Or "in an open place." Zedekiah (next verse) and the prophets performed before the two kings.
- f (18:10) Zedekiah, "Yahweh is righteousness"; Chenaanah, perhaps "merchant" or "Canaanitess."
- g (18:20) Hebrew "With what?"
- h (18:25) Amon, "faithful" or "master workman"; Joash, perhaps "Yahweh has given."
- i (18:26) That is, meager prison rations.
- j (18:27) The same words open the book of the prophet Micah (Micah 1:2). They are absent from the Septuagint of 1 Kings 22:28 but present in Hebrew Kings and here.
- k (18:31) "And Yahweh helped him; God drew them away" is not in 1 Kings 22:32.
- l (18:33) The Ketiv reads "your hands," the Qere "your hand." Hebrew "out of the camp."
- m (18:34) First Kings 22:35–38 adds that the blood ran into the chariot and that dogs licked it up at Samaria.

Chapter 19

1 And Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned to his house in Jerusalem in peace. 2 But Jehu the son of Hanani the seer went out to meet him and said to King Jehoshaphat, "Should you help the wicked and love those who hate Yahweh? Because of this, wrath has gone out against you from Yahweh.[a] 3 Nevertheless, there are good things found in you, in that you have removed the Asheroth out of the land, and have set your heart to seek God."[b] 4 Jehoshaphat dwelt at Jerusalem. And he went out again among the people, from Beersheba to the hill country of Ephraim, and brought them back to Yahweh, the God of their fathers.[c] 5 He appointed judges in the land in all the fortified cities of Judah, city by city,[d] 6 He told the judges, "Think about what you are doing, because you are judging on behalf of Yahweh, not people, and he is with you whenever you give a verdict. 7 So let the fear of Yahweh be on you. Act carefully, for Yahweh our God does not tolerate injustice, partiality, or bribes."

8 Moreover in Jerusalem Jehoshaphat appointed some of the Levites and priests and heads of fathers' houses of Israel, to give judgment for Yahweh and to decide disputes. And they returned to Jerusalem.[e] 9 He commanded them, "This is how you must act: in the fear of Yahweh, faithfully, and wholeheartedly. 10 Whenever any controversy comes to you from your brothers who dwell in their cities, between blood and blood, between law and commandment, statutes and ordinances, you shall warn them, that they not be guilty toward Yahweh, and so wrath come upon you and upon your brothers. This do, and you shall not be guilty.[f] 11 And behold, Amariah the chief priest is over you in all matters of Yahweh; and Zebadiah the son of Ishmael, the ruler of the house of Judah, in all the king's matters; and the Levites will be officers before you. Deal courageously, and may Yahweh be with the good."[g]

Notes

- a (19:2) Jehu, "Yahweh is he"; Hanani, see 16:7.
- b (19:3) Asheroth, plural of Asherah; see 14:3 note.
- c (19:4) Beersheba, "well of seven" or "well of the oath." Jehoshaphat's name, "Yahweh has judged," suits his judicial reform (verses 5–11).
- d (19:5) Compare Deuteronomy 16:18–20; 17:8–13.
- e (19:8) The Septuagint reads "to judge the inhabitants of Jerusalem," a different vocalization of "they returned" (Hebrew vayyashuvu, read as yoshvei, "inhabitants of").
- f (19:10) "Between blood and blood," that is, cases of homicide and bloodshed.
- g (19:11) Amariah, "Yahweh has said"; Zebadiah, see 17:8; Ishmael, "God hears."

Chapter 20

1 After this the children of Moab and the children of Ammon, and with them some of the Meunites, came against Jehoshaphat to battle.[a] 2 Some people came and told Jehoshaphat, "A huge army is coming against you from beyond the sea, from Aram. They are already at Hazazon-tamar" (that is, En-gedi).[b] 3 Jehoshaphat was frightened and resolved to seek Yahweh, and he announced a fast throughout Judah.

4 And Judah gathered together to seek help from Yahweh; from all the cities of Judah they came to seek Yahweh.
5 And Jehoshaphat stood in the assembly of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of Yahweh, before the new court, 6 and said, "O Yahweh, the God of our fathers, are not you God in heaven? And are not you ruler over all the kingdoms of the nations? Power and might are in your hand, so that none is able to withstand you. 7 Did you not, our God, drive out the inhabitants of this land before your people Israel, and give it forever to the seed of Abraham your friend?[c] 8 And they have dwelt in it and have built you a sanctuary in it for your name, saying, 9 'If evil comes upon us, the sword, judgment, or pestilence, or famine, we will stand before this house and before you, for your name is in this house, and cry to you in our affliction, and you will hear and save.'[d] 10 Now here are the men of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir.
When Israel came from Egypt you did not allow them to invade these nations, so Israel turned away from them and did not destroy them.[e] 11 behold, they reward us by coming to cast us out of your possession, which you have given us to inherit. 12 O our God, will you not judge them? For we have no might against this great company that comes against us; neither know we what to do, but our eyes are upon you." 13 And all Judah stood before Yahweh, with their little ones, their wives, and their children. 14 Then the Spirit of Yahweh came upon Jahaziel the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, in the midst of the assembly.[f] 15 and he said, "Hearken, all Judah, and you inhabitants of Jerusalem, and you King Jehoshaphat: Yahweh says this to you,
'Do not be afraid, and do not be dismayed by reason of this great multitude, for the battle is not yours but God's. 16 Go down against them tomorrow. They will come up by the pass of Ziz, and you will find them at the end of the ravine, east of the desert of Jeruel.[g] 17 You shall not need to fight in this battle. Set yourselves, stand still, and see the salvation of Yahweh with you, O Judah and Jerusalem.' Fear not, nor be dismayed; tomorrow go out against them, for Yahweh is with you."[h]

18 Then Jehoshaphat bowed his head with his face to the ground, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell down before Yahweh, worshiping Yahweh. 19 And the Levites, of the sons of the Kohathites and of the sons of the Korahites, stood up to praise Yahweh, the God of Israel, with a very loud voice.[i] 20 Early in the morning they set out for the desert of Tekoa. As they went, Jehoshaphat stood and said, "Listen to me, people of Judah and residents of Jerusalem: Trust in Yahweh your God and you will stand firm; trust in his prophets and you will succeed."[j] 21 When he had taken counsel with the people, he appointed those who should sing to Yahweh and praise the splendor of holiness, as they went out before the army, and say, "Give thanks to Yahweh, for his steadfast love endures forever."[k] 22 And when they began to sing and to praise, Yahweh set ambushes against the men of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir, who had come against Judah, and they were struck down. 23 For the children of Ammon and Moab stood up against the inhabitants of Mount Seir, utterly to slay and destroy them; and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, everyone helped to destroy another. 24 When Judah came to the watchtower of the wilderness, they looked upon the multitude; and behold, they were dead bodies fallen to the earth, and there were none that escaped. 25 When Jehoshaphat and his people came to take the plunder of them, they found among them in abundance goods and corpses and precious things, which they stripped off for themselves, more than they could carry away; and they were three days in taking the plunder, it was so much.[l]
26 On the fourth day they assembled in the Valley of Beracah, for there they blessed Yahweh. Therefore the name of that place has been called the Valley of Beracah to this day.[m] 27 Then they returned, every man of Judah and Jerusalem, with Jehoshaphat at their head, returning to Jerusalem with joy, for Yahweh had made them rejoice over their enemies. 28 They came to Jerusalem with psalteries and harps and trumpets, to the house of Yahweh. 29 And the fear of God came on all the kingdoms of the countries when they heard that Yahweh had fought against the enemies of Israel. 30 So the realm of Jehoshaphat was quiet, for his God gave him rest all around.

31 Thus Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah. He was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.[n] 32 He walked in the way of Asa his father and departed not from it, doing that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh. 33 However, the high places were not taken away; neither as yet had the people set their hearts on the God of their fathers.[o] 34 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, first and last, behold, they are written in the words of Jehu the son of Hanani, which are recorded in the book of the kings of Israel.
35 After this Jehoshaphat king of Judah joined himself with Ahaziah king of Israel, who did very wickedly.[p] 36 And he joined himself with him to make ships to go to Tarshish; and they made the ships in Ezion-geber.[q] 37 Then Eliezer the son of Dodavahu of Mareshah prophesied against Jehoshaphat, saying, "Because you have joined yourself with Ahaziah, Yahweh has broken up your works." And the ships were wrecked and were not able to go to Tarshish.[r]

Notes

- a (20:1) Hebrew "some of the Ammonites," which repeats the Ammonites just named; the Septuagint reads "Minaeans," that is, Meunites (compare 26:7). Moab, see 1 Chronicles 1:46 note; Ammon, "people."
- b (20:2) Hebrew and Septuagint "from Aram"; many scholars read "from Edom" (the Hebrew letters d and r are easily confused), since the invaders came from the south around the Dead Sea ("the sea"). Hazazon-tamar, perhaps "gravel bed of the palm"; En-gedi, "spring of the young goat."
- c (20:7) Compare Isaiah 41:8; James 2:23.
- d (20:9) Compare Solomon's prayer, 6:28–30.
- e (20:10) Seir, "hairy" or "shaggy," the hill country of Edom. Compare Deuteronomy 2:4–19.
- f (20:14) Jahaziel, "God sees"; Benaiah, "Yahweh has built"; Jeiel, meaning uncertain; Mattaniah, "gift of Yahweh"; Asaph, "gatherer."
- g (20:16) Ziz, perhaps "blossom"; Jeruel, perhaps "founded by God." Hebrew "before," that is, facing east.
- h (20:17) Compare Exodus 14:13.
- i (20:19) Kohathites, from Kohath ("assembly"?); Korahites, from Korah ("baldness").

- j (20:20) Tekoa, perhaps “trumpet blast.” “Believe … be established” plays on two forms of the Hebrew verb ’aman; compare Isaiah 7:9.
- k (20:21) Or “in holy attire.” “Steadfast love,” Hebrew hesed.
- l (20:25) Hebrew “corpses” (pegarim); some scholars read “garments” (begadim), which differs by one letter. The Septuagint reads “cattle and furniture and spoils.”
- m (20:26) Beracah, “blessing.”
- n (20:31) Verses 31–34 parallel 1 Kings 22:41–45. Azubah, “forsaken”; Shilhi, perhaps “sent.”
- o (20:33) First Kings 22:43 says the people still sacrificed and burned incense on the high places. Compare 17:6, where Jehoshaphat removed high places; the two statements may concern different kinds of shrines or stages of the reign.
- p (20:35) Ahaziah, “Yahweh has grasped.” Or “and he (Jehoshaphat) did very wickedly in doing so.”
- q (20:36) Tarshish, a distant western port; compare 9:21 note. First Kings 22:48–49 says Jehoshaphat built “ships of Tarshish” (a type of large seagoing ship) to go to Ophir for gold, and that he refused Ahaziah’s offer to partner in the venture. Chronicles may have read “ships of Tarshish” as ships going to Tarshish; Ezion-geber lay on the Red Sea, not the Mediterranean. Ezion-geber, perhaps “backbone of a man.”
- r (20:37) Eliezer, “God is help”; Dodavahu, “beloved of Yahweh.” This prophecy is not in Kings.

Chapter 21

1 Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Jehoram his son reigned in his place.[a] 2 He had brothers, the sons of Jehoshaphat: Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariahu, Michael, and Shephatiah; all these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel.[b] 3 Their father gave them many gifts of silver, gold, and valuables, along with fortified cities in Judah, but he gave the kingdom to Jehoram because he was the firstborn. 4 When Jehoram had risen up over the kingdom of his father and had made himself strong, he killed all his brothers with the sword, and also some of the princes of Israel.
5 Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.[c] 6 He walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab, for he had the daughter of Ahab as wife; and he did that which was evil in the sight of Yahweh. 7 Yet Yahweh would not destroy the house of David, because of the covenant that he had made with David, and since he had promised to give a lamp to him and to his sons forever.[d] 8 In his days Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah and made a king over themselves. 9

Then Jehoram passed over with his captains and all his chariots with him; and he rose up by night and struck the Edomites who had surrounded him and the captains of the chariots.[e] 10 So Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah to this day. At that same time Libnah also revolted from under his hand, because he had forsaken Yahweh, the God of his fathers.[f] 11 Moreover, he made high places in the hill country of Judah, and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit fornication, and led Judah astray.[g] 12 A letter came to Jehoram from the prophet Elijah: "This is what Yahweh, the God of your ancestor David, says: 'You have not walked as your father Jehoshaphat did, or as Asa king of Judah did,[h] 13 but have walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and have made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit fornication, as the house of Ahab did, and also have killed your brothers of your father's house, who were better than you, 14 behold, Yahweh will strike with a great blow your people, your sons, your wives, and all your goods, 15 and you shall have great sickness by disease of your bowels, until your bowels fall out by reason of the sickness, day by day.'" 16 And Yahweh stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines and of the Arabians who are near the Cushites;[i] 17 They invaded Judah, broke into it, and carried off everything of value found in the king's palace, along with his sons and his wives. The only son left to him was Jehoahaz, his youngest.[j] 18 And after all this Yahweh struck him in his bowels with a disease for which there was no healing. 19 In the course of time, at the end of two years, his bowels came out because of his disease, and he died in severe pain. His people made no burning for him, like the burning for his fathers.[k] 20 He was thirty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem eight years; and he departed without being desired. They buried him in the city of David, but not in the sepulchres of the kings.[l]

Notes

- a (21:1) Jehoram, "Yahweh is exalted"; also Joram. Verses 1 and 5–10 parallel 2 Kings 8:16–22.

- b (21:2) Azariah, "Yahweh has helped" (twice, in slightly different Hebrew forms); Jehiel, "God lives"; Michael, "who is like God?"; Shephatiah, "Yahweh has judged." "King of Israel" here means king of Judah, the true Israel in Chronicles' view; the Septuagint reads "king of Judah."
- c (21:5) Jehoram may have reigned for some years alongside his father (compare 2 Kings 1:17; 3:1; 8:16).
- d (21:7) Hebrew "a lamp," a living descendant on the throne; compare 1 Kings 11:36.
- e (21:9) Second Kings 8:21 says Joram went over to Zair, and that his army fled home; the outcome was an escape, not a victory.
- f (21:10) Libnah, "whiteness," a town in the Shephelah near Philistia.
- g (21:11) The Septuagint reads "in the cities of Judah." "Commit fornication," that is, be unfaithful to Yahweh by idolatry.
- h (21:12) Elijah, "my God is Yahweh." Elijah is not otherwise linked with Jehoram of Judah, and 2 Kings 2–3 seems to place Elijah's departure before Jehoram's reign (Elisha is active under Jehoshaphat, 2 Kings 3:11). The letter may have been written beforehand, or Elijah may have lived into the early years of Jehoram's coregency; the matter is debated.
- i (21:16) Cush, see 12:3.
- j (21:17) Jehoahaz, "Yahweh has grasped," the same elements as Ahaziah (22:1) in reverse order.
- k (21:19) Hebrew "in severe diseases." On the burning, see 16:14 note.
- l (21:20) Not in the tombs of the kings: this detail is not in Kings (compare 2 Kings 8:24).

Chapter 22

1 The people of Jerusalem made Ahaziah, Jehoram's youngest son, king in his place, because the raiding party that came with the Arabs to the camp had killed all the older sons. So Ahaziah son of Jehoram became king of Judah.[a] 2 Ahaziah was forty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Athaliah, the granddaughter of Omri.[b] 3 He also walked in the ways of the house of Ahab, for his mother was his counselor in doing wickedly. 4 He did that which was evil in the sight of Yahweh, as did the house of Ahab; for they were his counselors after the death of his father, to his destruction. 5 He also followed their advice and went with Joram son of Ahab king of Israel to fight Hazael king of Aram at Ramoth-gilead. The Arameans wounded Joram.[c] 6 And he returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds that they had given him at Ramah, when he fought against Hazael king of Aram. And Azariah the son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to see Jehoram the son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he was sick.[d]

7 Now the destruction of Ahaziah was of God, in that he went to Joram; for when he had come, he went out with Jehoram against Jehu the son of Nimshi, whom Yahweh had anointed to cut off the house of Ahab.[e] 8 And when Jehu was executing judgment on the house of Ahab, he found the princes of Judah and the sons of Ahaziah's brothers who served Ahaziah, and he killed them.[f] 9 He sought Ahaziah, and they caught him (now he was hiding in Samaria), and they brought him to Jehu and slew him; and they buried him, for they said, "He is the son of Jehoshaphat, who sought Yahweh with all his heart." And the house of Ahaziah had no power to hold the kingdom.[g]
10 Now when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the royal seed of the house of Judah.[h] 11 But Jehoshabeath, the king's daughter, took Ahaziah's son Joash and secretly carried him off from among the princes who were being killed. She put him and his nurse in a bedroom. In this way Jehoshabeath, daughter of King Jehoram and wife of Jehoiada the priest (she was Ahaziah's sister), hid him from Athaliah, so that Athaliah could not kill him.[i] 12 He was with them hidden in the house of God six years, and Athaliah reigned over the land.

Notes

- a (22:1) Ahaziah, "Yahweh has grasped"; also called Jehoahaz (21:17). Verses 1–6 parallel 2 Kings 8:24–29.
- b (22:2) Hebrew "forty-two," which is impossible if his father died at forty (21:20). Second Kings 8:26 reads "twenty-two," and the Septuagint here reads "twenty." Athaliah, "Yahweh is exalted"; Omri, meaning uncertain. Hebrew "daughter," in the wider sense; she was Ahab's daughter (21:6).
- c (22:5) Hazael, "God sees."
- d (22:6) Ramah, short for Ramoth-gilead. Hebrew "Azariah"; the Septuagint and 2 Kings 8:29 read "Ahaziah," which is surely meant (compare verses 1, 7). Jezreel, "God sows."
- e (22:7) Jehu, see 19:2; Nimshi, perhaps "weasel." Compare 2 Kings 9–10.
- f (22:8) Second Kings 10:12–14 calls them "the brothers of Ahaziah" and gives their number as forty-two.
- g (22:9) Second Kings 9:27–28 says that Ahaziah, wounded near Ibleam, fled to Megiddo and died there, and that his servants carried him to Jerusalem for burial.

Chronicles summarizes differently; the accounts may reflect different sources or stages of his flight.

- h (22:10) Verses 10–12 parallel 2 Kings 11:1–3.
- i (22:11) Jehoshabeath, "Yahweh is an oath" (2 Kings 11:2 Jehosheba); Joash, see 18:25; Jehoiada, "Yahweh knows." That she was the wife of Jehoiada is stated only in Chronicles.

Chapter 23

1 In the seventh year Jehoiada strengthened himself and took the captains of hundreds into covenant with him: Azariah the son of Jeroham, Ishmael the son of Jehohanan, Azariah the son of Obed, Maaseiah the son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the son of Zichri.[a] 2 They traveled through Judah and gathered the Levites from every town of Judah, together with the heads of the families of Israel, and they came to Jerusalem. 3 And all the assembly made a covenant with the king in the house of God. And Jehoiada said to them, "Behold, the king's son shall reign, as Yahweh spoke concerning the sons of David. 4 This is the thing that you shall do: a third part of you that come in on the Sabbath, of the priests and of the Levites, shall be porters of the thresholds,[b] 5 and a third part shall be at the king's house, and a third part at the Gate of the Foundation; and all the people shall be in the courts of the house of Yahweh.[c] 6 But let none come into the house of Yahweh, save the priests and they that minister of the Levites; they shall come in, for they are holy; but all the people shall keep the charge of Yahweh.[d] 7 The Levites are to surround the king, each with his weapons in hand. Anyone who enters the temple must be put to death. Stay close to the king wherever he goes."

8 So the Levites and all Judah did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded. They each took his men, those who were to come in on the Sabbath, with those who were to go out on the Sabbath, for Jehoiada the priest did not dismiss the divisions. 9 And Jehoiada the priest delivered to the captains of hundreds the spears and the large and small shields that had been King David's, which were in the house of God. 10 And he set all the people, every man with his weapon in his hand, from the right side of the house to the left side of the house, along the altar and the house, around the king. 11 Then they brought out the king's son and put the crown on him and gave him the testimony, and made him king; and Jehoiada and his sons anointed him, and they said, "Long live the king!"[e]

12 When Athaliah heard the noise of the people running and praising the king, she came to the people into the house of Yahweh. 13 She looked and saw the king standing by his pillar at the entrance, with the officers and trumpeters beside him. All the people of the land were rejoicing and blowing trumpets, and singers with musical instruments led the praise. Athaliah tore her clothes and cried out, "Treason! Treason!"[f] 14 Jehoiada the priest brought out the captains of hundreds who were set over the army, and said to them, "Bring her out between the ranks; and whoever follows her, let him be slain with the sword." For the priest said, "Slay her not in the house of Yahweh." 15 So they made way for her; and she went to the entrance of the Horse Gate to the king's house, and they slew her there.[g]
16 And Jehoiada made a covenant between himself and all the people and the king, that they should be Yahweh's people. 17 All the people went to the house of Baal and broke it down, and broke his altars and his images in pieces, and slew Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars.[h] 18 Jehoiada appointed the offices of the house of Yahweh under the hand of the priests the Levites, whom David had distributed in the house of Yahweh, to offer the burnt offerings of Yahweh, as it is written in the law of Moses, with rejoicing and with singing, as David had ordained. 19 He stationed the gatekeepers at the gates of the house of Yahweh, so that no one who was unclean in anything should enter. 20 He took with him the commanders of hundreds, the nobles, the rulers of the people, and all the people of the land, and they escorted the king down from Yahweh's house through the Upper Gate to the palace, where they seated the king on the royal throne. 21 So all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet; and they had slain Athaliah with the sword.

Notes

- a (23:1) Chapter 23 parallels 2 Kings 11:4–20; Chronicles names the five captains and gives a larger role to the Levites. Azariah, see 15:1; Jeroham, "he is shown compassion"; Ishmael, see 19:11; Jehohanan, see 17:15; Obed, "servant"; Maaseiah,

"work of Yahweh"; Adaiah, "Yahweh has adorned"; Elishaphat, "God has judged"; Zichri, see 17:16.

- b (23:4) Hebrew "of the thresholds," that is, the temple entrances.
- c (23:5) Second Kings 11:6 reads "the Gate of Sur."
- d (23:6) That is, stay in the outer courts as Yahweh requires.
- e (23:11) "The testimony," perhaps a copy of the covenant law (compare Deuteronomy 17:18), or a royal document.
- f (23:13) Hebrew "Conspiracy! Conspiracy!"
- g (23:15) Hebrew "made two sides for her," that is, made way for her or seized her.
- h (23:17) Mattan, "gift."

Chapter 24

1 Joash was seven years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zibiah of Beersheba.[a] 2 And Joash did what was right in the eyes of Yahweh all the days of Jehoiada the priest. 3 Jehoiada took for him two wives, and he fathered sons and daughters.
4 After this Joash decided to restore the house of Yahweh.[b] 5 He called together the priests and Levites and said, "Go out to the towns of Judah and every year collect money from all Israel for the repair of your God's house. Hurry!" But the Levites did not hurry. 6 The king called for Jehoiada the chief, and said to him, "Why have you not required of the Levites to bring in out of Judah and out of Jerusalem
the tax of Moses the servant of Yahweh, and of the assembly of Israel, for the tent of the testimony?"[c] 7 For the sons of Athaliah, that wicked woman, had broken into the house of God, and had also used all the holy things of the house of Yahweh for the Baals.[d] 8 At the king's order a chest was made and placed outside the gate of Yahweh's house.
9 They announced throughout Judah and Jerusalem that the people were to bring Yahweh the levy that Moses the servant of God had imposed on Israel in the desert. 10 All the princes and all the people rejoiced, and brought in, and cast into the chest, until they had made an end. 11 Whenever the chest was brought to the king's officers by the hand of the Levites, and when they saw that there was much money, the king's scribe and the chief priest's officer came and emptied the chest, and took it and carried it to its place again. Thus they did day by day, and gathered money in abundance. 12 The king and Jehoiada gave the money to the men in charge of the work on Yahweh's house. They hired stonemasons and carpenters to restore it, and also metal-workers in iron and bronze to repair it. 13 So the workmen wrought, and the work of repairing went forward in their hands; and they set up the house of God in its state, and strengthened it. 14 When they had finished, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehoiada, of which were made vessels for the house of Yahweh, vessels to minister and to offer, and spoons, and vessels of gold and silver. And they offered burnt offerings in the house of Yahweh continually all the days of Jehoiada.[e]

15 But Jehoiada grew old and full of days, and he died; he was a hundred and thirty years old at his death.[f] 16 And they buried him in the city of David among the kings, because he had done good in Israel, and toward God and his house.

17 Now after the death of Jehoiada the princes of Judah came and paid homage to the king. Then the king listened to them. 18 And they forsook the house of Yahweh, the God of their fathers, and served the Asherim and the idols. And wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem for this guilt of theirs. 19 Yet he sent prophets among them to bring them back to Yahweh. These testified against them, but they would not give ear. 20 Then the Spirit of God clothed Zechariah the son of Jehoiada the priest; and he stood above the people and said to them, "God says this: 'Why do you disobey the commandments of Yahweh, so that you cannot prosper? Because you have forsaken Yahweh, he has also forsaken you.'"[g] 21 They conspired against him, and stoned him with stones at the commandment of the king in the court of the house of Yahweh. 22 Thus Joash the king remembered not the kindness which Jehoiada his father had done to him, but slew his son. And when he died, he said, "Yahweh look upon it and require it."[h]

23 At the turn of the year the army of the Arameans came up against Joash. They came to Judah and Jerusalem and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people, and sent all their spoil to the king of Damascus.[i] 24 Although the Aramean army had come with only a few men, Yahweh handed over a much larger army to them, because Judah had abandoned Yahweh, the God of their ancestors. So judgment was carried out on Joash. 25 When they were departed from him (for they left him very sick), his own servants conspired against him for the blood of the sons of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him on his bed, and he died. They buried him in the city of David, but they buried him not in the sepulchres of the kings.[j] 26 Those who conspired against him were Zabad the son of Shimeath the Ammonitess, and Jehozabad the son of Shimrith the Moabitess.[k] 27 The account of his sons, the many prophecies against him, and the rebuilding of God's house is written in the commentary on the book of the kings. His son Amaziah succeeded him as king.[l]

Notes

- a (24:1) Joash, also Jehoash; see 18:25. Zibiah, "gazelle." Verses 1–14 parallel 2 Kings 12:1–16, which describes the collection somewhat differently.
- b (24:4) Hebrew "it was in the heart of Joash."
- c (24:6) Compare Exodus 30:12–16, the half-shekel tax (about 0.2 ounce, 5.7 grams of silver).
- d (24:7) Hebrew "her sons"; perhaps her followers. Or "had broken up the house of God."
- e (24:14) Hebrew "spoons," small vessels or pans for incense. Second Kings 12:13 says the money was not used for vessels; Chronicles may refer to the surplus after repairs.
- f (24:15) Jehoiada's age (130) exceeds that of Moses and Aaron.
- g (24:20) Hebrew "clothed himself with Zechariah"; compare Judges 6:34. Zechariah, see 17:7. Jesus appears to refer to this martyrdom in Matthew 23:35 and Luke 11:51, where Matthew calls him "son of Barachiah" (compare Zechariah 1:1).
- h (24:22) Or "May Yahweh see and avenge." Jehoiada was Zechariah's father. Compare 2 Kings 12:17–18, which describes the Aramean threat and tribute.
- i (24:23) That is, in the spring, when kings went to war (1 Chronicles 20:1).
- j (24:25) Hebrew "sons"; the Septuagint reads "son." Second Kings 12:20–21 places his death at the house of Millo.
- k (24:26) Zabad, "he has bestowed" (2 Kings 12:21 Jozacar, "Yahweh has remembered"); Shimeath, "hearing"; Jehozabad, see 17:18; Shimrith, "guardian" (2 Kings 12:21 Shomer, "guardian," a man's name). Ammonitess and Moabitess are not in Kings.
- l (24:27) The Ketiv and Qere differ slightly in spelling the word for "many." Amaziah, "Yahweh is strong."

Chapter 25

1 Amaziah was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.[a] 2 He did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, yet not with a perfect heart. 3 Now when the kingdom was established to him, he slew his servants who had slain the king his father. 4 But he did not put their children to death, but did according to that which is written in the law in the book of Moses, as Yahweh commanded, saying, "The fathers shall not die for the children, nor shall the children die for the fathers; but every man shall die for his own sin."[b]
5 Moreover Amaziah gathered Judah together and ordered them according to their fathers' houses, under captains of thousands and captains of hundreds, all Judah and Benjamin. He numbered them from twenty years old and upward, and found them three hundred thousand chosen men, able to go forth to war, that could handle spear and shield. 6 He hired also a hundred thousand mighty men of valor out of Israel for about three and three-quarter tons of silver.[c] 7 But there came a man of God to him, saying, "O king, let not the army of Israel go with you; for Yahweh is not with Israel, with all the children of Ephraim. 8 But if you will go, do it, be strong for the battle; God will cast you down before the enemy, for God has power to help and to cast down."[d] 9 Amaziah said to the man of God, "But what about the silver I have given to the Israelite troops?" The man of God replied, "Yahweh is able to give you much more than that." 10 Then Amaziah separated them, the troops that had come to him out of Ephraim, to go home again. And their anger was greatly kindled against Judah, and they returned home in fierce anger.
11 Amaziah took courage and led forth his people, and went to the Valley of Salt, and smote of the children of Seir ten thousand.[e] 12 And the children of Judah carried away alive another ten thousand, and brought them to the top of the rock, and cast them down from the top of the rock, so that they all were broken in pieces.[f] 13 But the men of the troops whom Amaziah sent back, that they should not go with him to battle, fell upon the cities of Judah, from Samaria even to Beth-horon, and smote of them three thousand, and took much plunder.[g] 14 When Amaziah came home after defeating the Edomites, he brought back the gods of the people of Seir and set them up as his own gods.

He bowed down to them and burned incense to them. 15 Therefore the anger of Yahweh was kindled against Amaziah, and he sent to him a prophet, who said to him, "Why have you sought after the gods of the people, which have not delivered their own people out of your hand?" 16 And as he talked with him, the king said to him, "Have we made you of the king's counsel? Forbear; why should you be smitten?" Then the prophet forbore, and said, "I know that God has determined to destroy you, because you have done this and have not hearkened to my counsel."[h]
17 Then Amaziah king of Judah took counsel and sent to Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, "Come, let us look one another in the face."[i] 18 And Joash king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, "The thistle that was in Lebanon sent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, saying, 'Give your daughter to my son as wife'; and there passed by a wild beast that was in Lebanon and trod down the thistle.[j] 19 You say, 'See, I have smitten Edom,' and your heart lifts you up to boast. Abide now at home; why should you meddle to your hurt, that you should fall, even you, and Judah with you?"[k] 20 But Amaziah would not hear; for it was of God, that he might deliver them into the hand of their enemies, because they had sought after the gods of Edom. 21 So Joash king of Israel went up, and he and Amaziah king of Judah looked one another in the face at Beth-shemesh, which belongs to Judah.[l] 22 And Judah was put to the worse before Israel, and they fled every man to his tent. 23 And Joash king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, at Beth-shemesh, and brought him to Jerusalem, and broke down the wall of Jerusalem from the gate of Ephraim to the corner gate, six hundred feet.[m] 24 And he took all the gold and silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom, and the treasures of the king's house, and the hostages, and returned to Samaria.[n]

25 Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah lived after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel fifteen years. 26 Now the rest of the acts of Amaziah, first and last, behold, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel? 27 Now from the time that Amaziah turned away from following Yahweh, they made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem; and he fled to Lachish, but they sent after him to Lachish and slew him there.[o] 28 And they brought him upon horses and buried him with his fathers in the city of Judah.[p]

Notes

- a (25:1) Amaziah, see 24:27; Jehoaddan, "Yahweh is delight." Verses 1–4 parallel 2 Kings 14:1–6; verses 17–28 parallel 2 Kings 14:8–20.
- b (25:4) Deuteronomy 24:16.
- c (25:6) About 3.75 tons (3,400 kilograms) of silver. Hebrew "a hundred talents"; a talent was about 75 pounds or 34 kilograms. Verses 5–16 are not in Kings.
- d (25:8) The Hebrew is difficult; some read "if you go thinking to be strong for the battle, God will cast you down."
- e (25:11) The Valley of Salt, probably south of the Dead Sea; compare 2 Kings 14:7, which says Amaziah also took Sela ("rock").
- f (25:12) "The rock," Hebrew sela', perhaps the Edomite stronghold Sela (2 Kings 14:7).
- g (25:13) Beth-horon, "house of the hollow."
- h (25:16) The play on words: "counsel" (Hebrew ya'ats) runs through verses 16–17.
- i (25:17) Joash king of Israel, also Jehoash; Jehoahaz, see 21:17; Jehu, see 19:2. The Ketiv has an extra word, "to you" or "go," differing from the Qere.
- j (25:18) Lebanon, "white," for its snowy peaks.
- k (25:19) Hebrew "You say, 'Behold, you have smitten Edom'"; compare 2 Kings 14:10.
- l (25:21) Beth-shemesh, "house of the sun."
- m (25:23) Hebrew "four hundred cubits," about 600 feet or 180 meters; a cubit was about 18 inches or 45 centimeters.
- n (25:24) Obed-edom, "servant of Edom"; a family of gatekeepers (1 Chronicles 26:15). This detail is not in Kings.
- o (25:27) Lachish, meaning uncertain.
- p (25:28) The Septuagint, and 2 Kings 14:20, read "in the city of David."

Chapter 26

1 All the people of Judah took Uzziah, who was sixteen years old, and made him king in the place of his father Amaziah.[a] 2 He built Eloth and restored it to Judah, after the king slept with his fathers.[b]

3 Uzziah was sixteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jecoliah of Jerusalem.[c] 4 He did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that his father Amaziah had done. 5 He set himself to seek God in the days of Zechariah, who had understanding in the vision of God; and as long as he sought Yahweh, God made him to prosper.[d]
6 He went forth and warred against the Philistines, and broke down the wall of Gath, the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod; and he built cities in the country of Ashdod and among the Philistines.[e] 7 God helped him against the Philistines, and against the Arabians who dwelt in Gur-baal, and the Meunim.[f] 8 The Ammonites gave tribute to Uzziah, and his name spread abroad even to the entrance of Egypt, for he became exceedingly strong. 9 Moreover Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the corner gate, at the valley gate, and at the turning of the wall, and fortified them. 10 He also built towers in the desert and dug many cisterns, since he owned large herds in the foothills and on the plain. He employed farmers and vinedressers in the hills and in the fertile fields, because he loved farming.[g] 11 Moreover Uzziah had an army of fighting men that went out to war by bands, according to the number of their muster made by Jeiel
the scribe and Maaseiah the officer, under the hand of Hananiah, one of the king's captains.[h] 12 The whole number of the heads of fathers' houses, mighty men of valor, was two thousand six hundred. 13 Under their hand was an army, three hundred and seven thousand five hundred, that made war with mighty power, to help the king against the enemy. 14 Uzziah prepared for them, for all the army, shields and spears and helmets and coats of mail and bows and stones for slinging. 15 And in Jerusalem he made engines, invented by skilful men, to be on the towers and on the battlements, to shoot arrows and great stones. And his name spread far abroad, for he was marvelously helped till he was strong.[i] 16 But when he was strong, his heart was lifted up, so that he did corruptly, and he trespassed against Yahweh his God; for he went into the temple of Yahweh to burn incense upon the altar of incense.[j] 17

And Azariah the priest went in after him, and with him eighty priests of Yahweh, who were valiant men.[k] 18 They withstood Uzziah the king and said to him, "It pertains not to you, Uzziah, to burn incense to Yahweh, but to the priests the sons of Aaron, who are consecrated to burn incense. Go out of the sanctuary, for you have trespassed; neither shall it be for your honor from Yahweh God."[l] 19 Then Uzziah was wroth; and he had a censer in his hand to burn incense. And while he was wroth with the priests, a skin disease broke forth in his forehead before the priests in the house of Yahweh, beside the altar of incense.[m] 20 And Azariah the chief priest and all the priests looked upon him, and behold, he was diseased in his forehead, and they thrust him out quickly from there; yes, he himself also hasted to go out, because Yahweh had smitten him. 21 And Uzziah the king was diseased in his skin to the day of his death, and dwelt in a separate house, being so diseased; for he was cut off from the house of Yahweh. And Jotham his son was over the king's house, judging the people of the land.[n]

22 Now the rest of the acts of Uzziah, first and last, Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, wrote.[o] 23 So Uzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of burial which belonged to the kings; for they said, "He is diseased in his skin." And Jotham his son reigned in his place.[p]

Notes

- a (26:1) Uzziah, "Yahweh is my strength"; called Azariah ("Yahweh has helped") in 2 Kings 14:21; 15:1–7 and 1 Chronicles 3:12. Verses 1–4 parallel 2 Kings 14:21–22; 15:2–3.
- b (26:2) Eloth, also Elath, "terebinths" or "palms," at the head of the Gulf of Aqaba.
- c (26:3) Jecoliah, "Yahweh is able." The Ketiv and Qere differ slightly in spelling the name.
- d (26:5) Zechariah, see 17:7. Hebrew "in the seeing of God"; the Septuagint and some Hebrew manuscripts read "in the fear of God," which differs by vowels and one letter.
- e (26:6) Gath, "winepress"; Jabneh, "he builds" (later Jamnia); Ashdod, meaning uncertain.
- f (26:7) Gur-baal, perhaps "dwelling of Baal"; the Septuagint reads "on the rock." Meunim, compare 20:1 note; the Septuagint reads "Minaeans." The Ketiv and Qere differ in spelling "Arabians."

- g (26:10) Hebrew "the Shephelah," the low hills west of Judah. Or "for he loved the land."
- h (26:11) Jeiel, see 20:14 (Ketiv Jeuel); Maaseiah, see 23:1; Hananiah, "Yahweh has been gracious."
- i (26:15) Perhaps catapults, or protective structures on the walls from which archers and slingers could shoot.
- j (26:16) Verses 16–21 expand on 2 Kings 15:5, which does not give the cause of the disease.
- k (26:17) Azariah, see 15:1.
- l (26:18) Compare Numbers 16:40; 18:1–7.
- m (26:19) Hebrew tsara'at, a term for various skin diseases (not necessarily modern leprosy), which made a person ritually unclean (Leviticus 13). Older versions, "leprosy."
- n (26:21) Hebrew "a house of freedom," perhaps a house of quarantine or release from duties; the Ketiv and Qere differ in spelling. Jotham, "Yahweh is perfect."
- o (26:22) Isaiah, "Yahweh is salvation"; Amoz, "strong." Compare Isaiah 1:1; 6:1. This writing is not otherwise known.
- p (26:23) Hebrew "He is diseased" (metsora'). Compare 2 Kings 15:7.

Chapter 27

1 Jotham was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jerushah the daughter of Zadok.[a] 2 He did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that his father Uzziah had done; however, he did not enter into the temple of Yahweh. And the people still did corruptly.[b] 3 He built the upper gate of the house of Yahweh, and on the wall of Ophel he built much.[c] 4 Moreover he built cities in the hill country of Judah, and in the forests he built fortresses and towers. 5
He fought also with the king of the children of Ammon and prevailed against them. And the children of Ammon gave him the same year about three and three-quarter tons of silver, and sixty thousand bushels of wheat, and sixty thousand of barley. So much did the children of Ammon pay him, both the second year and the third.[d] 6 So Jotham became mighty, because he ordered his ways before Yahweh his God.
7 Now the rest of the acts of Jotham, and all his wars and his ways, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.
8 He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. 9 And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David; and Ahaz his son reigned in his place.[e]

Notes

- a (27:1) Jerushah, "possessed"; Zadok, "righteous." Chapter 27 parallels 2 Kings 15:32–38.
- b (27:2) That is, he did not presume to burn incense as Uzziah had (26:16).
- c (27:3) Ophel, "swelling" or "hill," the fortified ridge south of the temple.
- d (27:5) About 3.75 tons (3,400 kilograms) of silver, and about 60,000 bushels (2,200,000 liters) each of wheat and barley. Hebrew "a hundred talents ... ten thousand cors"; a cor was about 6 bushels or 220 liters.
- e (27:9) Ahaz, "he has grasped."

Chapter 28

1 Ahaz was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. And he did not that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, like David his father,[a] 2 but he walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, and made also molten images for the Baals. 3 Moreover he burned incense in the valley of the son of Hinnom, and burned his children in the fire, according to the abominations of the nations whom Yahweh cast out before the children of Israel.[b] 4 He sacrificed also and burned incense in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.

5 Therefore Yahweh his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Aram; and they smote him and carried away of his a great multitude of captives and brought them to Damascus. And he was also delivered into the hand of the king of Israel, who smote him with a great slaughter.[c] 6 For Pekah the son of Remaliah slew in Judah a hundred and twenty thousand in one day, all valiant men, because they had forsaken Yahweh, the God of their fathers.[d] 7 And Zichri, a mighty man of Ephraim, slew Maaseiah the king's son, and Azrikam the ruler of the house, and Elkanah who was next to the king.[e] 8 The children of Israel carried away captive of their brothers two hundred thousand women, sons, and daughters, and took also much plunder from them, and brought the plunder to Samaria.

9 But a prophet of Yahweh was there, whose name was Oded; and he went out to meet the army that came to Samaria, and said to them,
"Behold, because Yahweh, the God of your fathers, was wroth with Judah, he has delivered them into your hand, and you have slain them in a rage that has reached up to heaven.[f] 10 And now you purpose to keep under the children of Judah and Jerusalem for bondmen and bondwomen to yourselves. But are there not with you, even with you, trespasses of your own against Yahweh your God? 11 Now hear me therefore, and send back the captives whom you have taken captive of your brothers; for the fierce wrath of Yahweh is upon you." 12 Then certain of the heads of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the son of Johanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, Jehizkiah the son of Shallum, and Amasa the son of Hadlai, stood up against those who came from the war,[g] 13 and said to them, "You shall not bring in the captives here; for you purpose that which will bring upon us a trespass against Yahweh, to add to our sins and to our trespass; for our trespass is great, and there is fierce wrath against Israel." 14 So the armed men left the captives and the plunder before the princes and all the assembly. 15 And the men who have been expressed by name rose up and took the captives, and with the plunder clothed all who were naked among them, and arrayed them, and shod them, and gave them to eat and to drink, and anointed them, and carried all the feeble of them upon donkeys, and brought them to Jericho, the city of palm trees, to their brothers. Then they returned to Samaria.[h]
16 At that time King Ahaz sent to the kings of Assyria to help him.[i] 17
For again the Edomites had come and smitten Judah and carried away captives. 18 The Philistines had also raided the towns in the foothills and the Negev of Judah. They captured Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, and Soco with their villages, and Timnah and Gimzo with their villages, and settled there.[j] 19 For Yahweh brought Judah low because of Ahaz king of Israel; for he had dealt wantonly in Judah and trespassed sorely against Yahweh.[k] 20 And Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria came to him and distressed him, but did not strengthen him.[l] 21 For Ahaz took away a portion out of the house of Yahweh, and out of the house of the king and of the princes, and gave it to the king of Assyria; but it did not help him.[m] 22 And in the time of his distress he trespassed yet more against Yahweh, this same King Ahaz. 23 For he sacrificed to the gods of Damascus, which smote him; and he said, "Because the gods of the kings of Aram helped them, so will I sacrifice to them, that they may help me." But they were the ruin of him and of all Israel.[n] 24 And Ahaz gathered together the vessels of the house of God, and cut in pieces

the vessels of the house of God, and shut up the doors of the house of Yahweh; and he made himself altars in every corner of Jerusalem.[o] 25 And in every city of Judah he made high places to burn incense to other gods, and provoked to anger Yahweh, the God of his fathers. 26
Now the rest of his acts and all his ways, first and last, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. 27 Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, even in Jerusalem, because they brought him not into the sepulchres of the kings of Israel; and Hezekiah his son reigned in his place.[p]

Notes

- a (28:1) Ahaz, see 27:9. Verses 1–4 parallel 2 Kings 16:1–4. On his age and his son Hezekiah's age (29:1), see 2 Kings 16:2 and 18:2; the figures are notoriously difficult to harmonize.
- b (28:3) Hinnom, meaning uncertain; the valley south of Jerusalem (later Gehenna). Hebrew "burned his sons"; 2 Kings 16:3 reads "made his son pass through the fire."
- c (28:5) Compare 2 Kings 16:5–6 and Isaiah 7:1–9, which describe the joint Aramean–Israelite attack (the Syro-Ephraimite war) without reporting a defeat in battle.
- d (28:6) Pekah, "opening (of the eyes)"; Remaliah, perhaps "Yahweh has adorned." Verses 6–15 are not in Kings; on the large numbers, see 13:3 note.
- e (28:7) Zichri, see 17:16; Maaseiah, see 23:1; Azrikam, "my help has arisen"; Elkanah, "God has created" or "acquired."
- f (28:9) Oded, see 15:1.
- g (28:12) Azariah, see 15:1; Johanan, "Yahweh is gracious"; Berechiah, "Yahweh blesses"; Meshillemoth, "recompense"; Jehizkiah, "Yahweh strengthens" (a form of Hezekiah); Shallum, "recompense"; Amasa, "burden"; Hadlai, "resting."
- h (28:15) Jericho, perhaps "moon city" or "fragrant." Compare Luke 10:30–37.
- i (28:16) Hebrew "kings"; the Septuagint reads "king." Compare 2 Kings 16:7, which names Tiglath-pileser.

- j (28:18) Negev, “south” or “dry land.” Aijalon, “place of deer”; Gederoth, “walls” or “sheepfolds”; Soco, “thorny”; Timnah, “portion”; Gimzo, perhaps “place of sycamores.”
- k (28:19) “King of Israel” here means king of Judah; compare 21:2 note. The Septuagint reads “king of Judah.”
- l (28:20) Tilgath-pilneser, the Chronicler’s spelling of Tiglath-pileser III of Assyria (reigned about 745–727 BC); Hebrew tukulti-apil-esharra, “my trust is the son of Esharra.” Second Kings 16:9 says he did help Ahaz by taking Damascus; Chronicles stresses that the help brought Judah no lasting good.
- m (28:21) Compare 2 Kings 16:8, 17–18.
- n (28:23) Second Kings 16:10–16 says Ahaz copied an altar he saw in Damascus.
- o (28:24) Second Kings 16:17–18 describes his removal of temple fixtures; the closing of the temple doors is reported only here (compare 29:3, 7).
- p (28:27) Second Kings 16:20 says Ahaz was buried with his fathers in the city of David. Hezekiah, “Yahweh strengthens.”

Chapter 29

1 Hezekiah began to reign when he was twenty-five years old, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother’s name was Abijah the daughter of Zechariah.[a] 2 He did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that David his father had done.
3 In the first year of his reign, in the first month (in March–April), he opened the doors of the house of Yahweh and repaired them.[b] 4 He brought in the priests and the Levites and gathered them together into the broad place on the east, 5 and said to them, “Hear me, you Levites! Sanctify now yourselves, and sanctify the house of Yahweh, the God of your fathers, and carry forth the filthiness out of the holy place.[c] 6 For our fathers have trespassed and done that which was evil in the sight of Yahweh our God, and have forsaken him, and have turned away their faces from the dwelling place of Yahweh, and turned their backs. 7 Also they have shut up the doors of the porch and put out the lamps, and have not burned incense nor offered burnt offerings in the holy place to the God of Israel. 8 Therefore the wrath of Yahweh was upon Judah and Jerusalem, and he has delivered them to be a terror, an astonishment, and a hissing, as you see with your eyes.[d] 9 For lo, our fathers have fallen by the sword, and our sons and our daughters and our wives are in captivity for this. 10 Now it is in my heart to make a covenant with Yahweh, the God of Israel, that his fierce anger may turn away from us. 11 My sons, be not now negligent;

for Yahweh has chosen you to stand before him, to minister to him,
and that you should be his ministers and burn incense."
12 Then the Levites arose: Mahath the son of Amasai and Joel the son of Azariah, of the sons of the Kohathites; and of the sons of Merari, Kish the son of Abdi and Azariah the son of Jehallelel; and of the Gershonites, Joah the son of Zimmah and Eden the son of Joah;[e] 13 and of the sons of Elizaphan, Shimri and Jeiel; and of the sons of Asaph, Zechariah and Mattaniah;[f] 14 and of the sons of Heman, Jehiel and Shimei; and of the sons of Jeduthun, Shemaiah and Uzziel.[g] 15 And they gathered their brothers and sanctified themselves, and went in,
according to the commandment of the king by the words of Yahweh, to cleanse the house of Yahweh. 16 And the priests went into the inner part of the house of Yahweh to cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of Yahweh into the court of the house of Yahweh; and the Levites took it to carry it out to the brook Kidron. 17 Now they began on the first day of the first month (in March–April) to sanctify, and on the eighth day of the month they came to the porch of Yahweh; and they sanctified the house of Yahweh in eight days, and on the sixteenth day of the first month
they made an end.[h]
18 Then they went in to Hezekiah the king within the palace and said,
"We have cleansed all the house of Yahweh, and the altar of burnt offering with all its vessels, and the table of showbread with all its vessels. 19 Moreover, all the vessels which King Ahaz in his reign cast away when he trespassed, we have prepared and sanctified; and behold, they are before the altar of Yahweh." 20 Then Hezekiah the king rose early and gathered the princes of the city, and went up to the house of Yahweh. 21 And they brought seven bullocks, seven rams, seven lambs, and seven he-goats, for a sin offering for the kingdom, for the sanctuary, and for Judah. And he commanded the priests the sons of Aaron to offer them on the altar of Yahweh. 22 So they killed the bullocks, and the priests received the blood and sprinkled it on the altar; and they killed the rams and sprinkled the blood on the altar; they killed also the lambs and sprinkled the blood on the altar. 23 And they brought near the he-goats for the sin offering before the king and the assembly, and they laid their hands upon them. 24 And the priests killed them, and they made a sin offering with their blood upon the altar, to make atonement for all Israel; for the king commanded that the burnt offering and the sin offering should be made for all Israel.[i] 25 And he set the Levites in the house of Yahweh with cymbals, with psalteries, and with harps, according to the commandment of David, and of Gad the king's seer, and of Nathan the prophet; for the commandment was of Yahweh by his prophets.[j] 26 And the Levites stood with the instruments of David, and the priests with the trumpets. 27 And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt offering upon the altar. And when the burnt offering began, the song of Yahweh began also, with the trumpets, together with the instruments of David king of Israel. 28 And all the assembly worshiped, and the singers sang, and the trumpeters sounded; all this continued until the burnt offering was finished. 29 And when they had made an end of offering, the king and all that were present with him bowed themselves and worshiped. 30 Moreover Hezekiah the king and the princes commanded the Levites to sing praises to Yahweh with the words of David and of Asaph the seer. And they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed their heads and worshiped.

31 Then Hezekiah answered and said, "Now you have consecrated yourselves to Yahweh; come near and bring sacrifices and thank offerings into the house of Yahweh." And the assembly brought in sacrifices and thank offerings, and as many as were of a willing heart brought burnt offerings.[k] 32 The number of the burnt offerings which the assembly brought was seventy bullocks, a hundred rams, and two hundred lambs; all these were for a burnt offering to Yahweh. 33 And the consecrated things were six hundred oxen and three thousand sheep. 34 But the priests were too few, so that they could not flay all the burnt offerings; wherefore their brothers the Levites helped them till the work was ended, and until the other priests had sanctified themselves; for the Levites were more upright in heart to sanctify themselves than the priests. 35 And also the burnt offerings were in abundance, with the fat of the peace offerings and with the drink offerings for every burnt offering. So the service of the house of Yahweh was set in order. 36 And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, because of that which God had prepared for the people; for the thing was done suddenly.

Notes

- a (29:1) Hezekiah, see 28:27. Abijah, "Yahweh is my father" (2 Kings 18:2 Abi); Zechariah, see 17:7. Compare 2 Kings 18:1–3. Chapters 29–31 are largely not in Kings.
- b (29:3) The first month, later Nisan, counting from the spring new year.
- c (29:5) Or "the impurity," anything defiling, such as idols or idol vessels.
- d (29:8) The Ketiv and Qere differ in spelling the word for "terror." Compare Jeremiah 29:18.
- e (29:12) Mahath, "snatching"; Amasai, "burden-bearer"; Joel, "Yahweh is God"; Azariah, see 15:1; Kohathites, see 20:19; Merari, "bitter"; Kish, perhaps "bow"; Abdi, "my servant"; Jehallelel, "he praises God"; Gershonites, from Gershon ("expulsion" or "sojourner"); Joah, "Yahweh is brother"; Zimmah, "purpose" or "plan"; Eden, "delight."
- f (29:13) Elizaphan, "God has hidden"; Shimri, "my guard"; Jeiel, see 20:14 (Ketiv Jeuel); Asaph and Mattaniah, see 20:14.
- g (29:14) Heman, "faithful"; Jehiel, see 21:2 (Ketiv Jehuel); Shimei, "heard"; Jeduthun, perhaps "praise"; Shemaiah, see 11:2; Uzziel, "God is my strength."
- h (29:17) The sixteenth day fell after the time appointed for Passover (fourteenth of the first month), which is why it was held in the second month (30:2).
- i (29:24) "All Israel" includes the northern tribes; compare 30:1.
- j (29:25) Gad, "fortune"; Nathan, "he has given." Compare 1 Chronicles 23–25.
- k (29:31) Hebrew "Now you have filled your hand," an idiom for ordination.

Chapter 30

1 Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of Yahweh at Jerusalem, to keep the Passover to Yahweh, the God of Israel.[a] 2 For the king had taken counsel, and his princes and all the assembly in Jerusalem, to keep the Passover in the second month (in April–May).[b] 3 For they could not keep it at that time, because the priests had not sanctified themselves in sufficient number, neither had the people gathered themselves together to Jerusalem. 4 And the thing was right in the eyes of the king and of all the assembly. 5 So they established a decree to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from

Beersheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the Passover to Yahweh, the God of Israel, at Jerusalem; for they had not kept it in great numbers in such sort as it is written.[c]
6 So the posts went with the letters from the king and his princes throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying, "You children of Israel, turn again to Yahweh, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, that he may return to the remnant that are escaped of you out of the hand of the kings of Assyria.[d] 7 And be not like your fathers and like your brothers, who trespassed against Yahweh, the God of their fathers, so that he gave them up to desolation, as you see. 8 Now be not stiffnecked, as your fathers were, but yield yourselves to Yahweh, and enter into his sanctuary, which he has sanctified forever, and serve Yahweh your God, that his fierce anger may turn away from you.[e] 9 For if you turn again to Yahweh, your brothers and your children shall find compassion before those who led them captive, and shall come again into this land; for Yahweh your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if you return to him."
10 So the posts passed from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh, even to Zebulun; but they laughed them to scorn and mocked them.[f] 11 Nevertheless certain men of Asher and Manasseh and of Zebulun humbled themselves and came to Jerusalem.[g] 12 Also in Judah was the hand of God to give them one heart, to do the commandment of the king and of the princes by the word of Yahweh.
13 And there assembled at Jerusalem much people to keep the feast of unleavened bread in the second month (in April–May), a very great assembly. 14 And they arose and took away the altars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for incense they took away and cast them into the brook Kidron. 15 Then they killed the Passover on the fourteenth day of the second month (in April–May). And the priests and the Levites were ashamed, and sanctified themselves, and brought burnt offerings into the house of Yahweh.[h] 16 And they stood in their place after their order, according to the law of Moses the man of God; the priests sprinkled the blood, which they received of the hand of the Levites. 17 For there were many in the assembly who had not sanctified themselves; therefore the Levites had the charge of killing the Passovers for everyone who was not clean, to sanctify them to Yahweh. 18 For a multitude of the people, even many of Ephraim and Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun, had not cleansed themselves, yet did they eat the Passover otherwise than it is written. For Hezekiah had prayed for them, saying, "The good Yahweh pardon everyone[i] 19 who sets his heart to seek God, Yahweh, the God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the purification of the sanctuary." 20 And Yahweh hearkened to Hezekiah and healed the people. 21 And the children of Israel that were present at Jerusalem kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness; and the Levites and the priests praised Yahweh day by day, singing with loud instruments to Yahweh.[j] 22 And Hezekiah spoke to the heart of all the Levites that had good understanding in the service of Yahweh. So they did eat throughout the feast for the seven days, offering sacrifices of peace offerings and making confession to Yahweh, the God of their fathers.[k] 23 And the whole assembly took counsel to keep another seven days; and they kept another seven days with gladness. 24 For Hezekiah king of Judah gave to the assembly for offerings a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep; and the princes gave to the assembly a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep; and a great number of priests sanctified themselves. 25 And all the assembly of Judah, with the priests and the Levites, and all the assembly that came out of Israel, and the sojourners that came out of the land of Israel and that dwelt in Judah, rejoiced. 26 So there was great joy in Jerusalem; for since the time of Solomon the son of David king of Israel there was not the like in Jerusalem. 27 Then the priests the Levites arose and blessed the people; and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to his holy dwelling place, even to heaven.

Notes

- a (30:1) Ephraim, see 13:4; Manasseh, see 15:9. Passover, Hebrew pesah.
- b (30:2) The second month, later Iyyar, counting from the spring new year. Numbers 9:6–13 permits a Passover in the second month for those who are unclean or far away.
- c (30:5) Dan, "judge." Or "for they had not kept it for a long time as it is written."

- d (30:6) Abraham, “father of a multitude”; Isaac, “he laughs”; Israel, “he strives with God.” The northern kingdom had fallen to Assyria (2 Kings 17).
- e (30:8) Hebrew “give the hand to Yahweh,” a gesture of submission.
- f (30:10) Zebulun, “dwelling” or “honor.”
- g (30:11) Asher, “happy.”
- h (30:15) Passover was the fourteenth day of the first month (Exodus 12:6); compare verse 2 note.
- i (30:18) Issachar, “there is reward.” The Septuagint joins “saying” to verse 19.
- j (30:21) The feast of unleavened bread, the fifteenth to the twenty-first of the month. Hebrew “with instruments of strength,” or read “with all their strength” (compare 1 Chronicles 13:8).
- k (30:22) Or “spoke encouragingly to.” Or “giving thanks to Yahweh.”

Chapter 31

1 Once all this was finished, all the Israelites who were present went out to the cities of Judah, broke the sacred pillars, cut down the Asherah poles, and tore down the high places and altars throughout Judah and Benjamin, and in Ephraim and Manasseh as well, until they had destroyed them all. Then all the Israelites went back to their own towns and properties.

2 And Hezekiah appointed the courses of the priests and the Levites after their courses, every man according to his service, both the priests and the Levites, for burnt offerings and for peace offerings, to minister, and to give thanks, and to praise in the gates of the camp of Yahweh.[a] 3 He appointed also the king’s portion of his substance for the burnt offerings, for the morning and evening burnt offerings, and the burnt offerings for the Sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the set feasts, as it is written in the law of Yahweh. 4 Moreover he commanded the people that dwelt in Jerusalem to give the portion of the priests and the Levites, that they might give themselves to the law of Yahweh. 5 And as soon as the commandment came abroad, the children of Israel gave in abundance the firstfruits of grain, new wine, and oil, and honey, and of all the increase of the field; and the tithe of all things they brought in abundantly. 6 And the children of Israel and Judah, that dwelt in the cities of Judah, they also brought in the tithe of oxen and sheep, and the tithe of dedicated things which were consecrated to Yahweh their God, and laid them by heaps. 7 In the third month (in May–June) they began to lay the foundation of the heaps, and finished them in the seventh month (in September–October).[b] 8 And when Hezekiah and the princes came and saw the heaps, they blessed Yahweh and his people Israel. 9 Then Hezekiah questioned with the priests and the Levites concerning the heaps. 10 And Azariah the chief priest, of the house of Zadok, answered him and said, "Since the people began to bring the offerings into the house of Yahweh, we have eaten and had enough, and have left plenty; for Yahweh has blessed his people, and that which is left is this great store."[c]

11 Then Hezekiah commanded to prepare chambers in the house of Yahweh, and they prepared them. 12 And they brought in the offerings and the tithes and the dedicated things faithfully; and over them Conaniah the Levite was ruler, and Shimei his brother was second.[d] 13 And Jehiel, Azaziah, Nahath, Asahel, Jerimoth, Jozabad, Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath, and Benaiah were overseers under the hand of Conaniah and Shimei his brother, by the appointment of Hezekiah the king and Azariah the ruler of the house of God.[e] 14 And Kore the son of Imnah the Levite, the porter at the east gate, was over the freewill offerings of God, to distribute the offerings of Yahweh and the most holy things.[f] 15 And under him were Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah, in the cities of the priests, in their office of trust, to give to their brothers by courses, as well to the great as to the small;[g] 16 besides those reckoned by genealogy of males, from three years old and upward, even everyone that entered into the house of Yahweh, as the duty of every day required, for their service in their offices according to their courses;[h] 17 and those reckoned by genealogy of the priests by their fathers' houses, and the Levites from twenty years old and upward, in their offices by their courses; 18 and those reckoned by genealogy of all their little ones, their wives, and their sons and their daughters, throughout all the congregation; for in their office of trust they sanctified themselves in holiness. 19 Also for the sons of Aaron the priests, who were in the fields of the pasture lands of their cities, in every city there were men that were mentioned by name, to give portions to all the males among the priests and to all that were reckoned by genealogy among the Levites.

20 And thus did Hezekiah throughout all Judah; and he wrought that which was good and right and faithful before Yahweh his God. 21 And in every work that he began in the service of the house of God, and in the law, and in the commandments, to seek his God, he did it with all his heart and prospered.

Notes

- a (31:2) "The camp of Yahweh," the temple precincts, recalling the wilderness camp.
- b (31:7) The third month, later Sivan, the time of the grain harvest and the Feast of Weeks; the seventh month, later Tishri, the time of the fruit harvest and the Feast of Booths. Counting from the spring new year.
- c (31:10) Azariah, see 15:1; Zadok, see 27:1.
- d (31:12) Conaniah, "Yahweh has established" (the Ketiv spells it Conaniahu); Shimei, see 29:14.
- e (31:13) Jehiel, see 21:2; Azaziah, "Yahweh is strong"; Nahath, "rest"; Asahel, see 17:8; Jerimoth, perhaps "heights"; Jozabad, "Yahweh has bestowed"; Eliel, "my God is God"; Ismachiah, "Yahweh supports"; Mahath, see 29:12; Benaiah, see 20:14.
- f (31:14) Kore, "partridge" or "one who calls"; Imnah, "good fortune."
- g (31:15) Eden, see 29:12; Miniamin, "from the right hand"; Jeshua, "Yahweh is salvation"; Shemaiah, see 11:2; Amariah, see 19:11; Shecaniah, "Yahweh dwells."
- h (31:16) The Hebrew and Septuagint read "three years"; some suggest "thirty years" (compare 1 Chronicles 23:3), since three-year-olds did not serve in the temple, but the phrase may refer to the families provided for.

Chapter 32

1 After these things and this faithfulness, Sennacherib king of Assyria came and entered into Judah and encamped against the fortified cities, and thought to win them for himself.[a] 2 And when Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib had come, and that he was purposed to fight against Jerusalem, 3 he took counsel with his princes and his mighty men to stop the waters of the springs which were outside the city; and they helped him. 4 So there was gathered much people together, and they stopped all the springs and the brook that flowed through the midst of the land, saying, "Why should the kings of Assyria come and find much water?"[b] 5 And he took courage and built up all the wall that was broken down, and raised it up to the towers, and another wall outside, and strengthened the Millo in the city of David, and made weapons and shields in abundance.[c] 6 And he set captains of war over the people, and gathered them together to him in the broad place at the gate of the city, and spoke to their heart, saying, 7 "Be strong and of good courage; be not afraid nor dismayed for the king of Assyria, nor for all the multitude that is with him; for there is a greater with us than with him.[d] 8 With him is an arm of flesh, but with us is Yahweh our God to help us and to fight our battles." And the people leaned upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

9 After this Sennacherib king of Assyria sent his servants to Jerusalem
(now he was before Lachish, and all his power with him), to Hezekiah king of Judah and to all Judah that were at Jerusalem, saying,[e] 10 "Thus says Sennacherib king of Assyria: 'On what do you trust, that you abide the siege in Jerusalem? 11 Does not Hezekiah persuade you, to give you over to die by famine and by thirst, saying, "Yahweh our God will deliver us out of the hand of the king of Assyria"? 12 Has not the same Hezekiah taken away his high places and his altars, and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, saying, "You shall worship before one altar, and upon it shall you burn incense"?[f] 13 Know you not what I and my fathers have done to all the peoples of the lands? Were the gods of the nations of the lands in any way able to deliver their land out of my hand? 14 Who was there among all the gods of those nations which my fathers utterly destroyed, that could deliver his people out of my hand, that your God should be able to deliver you out of my hand? 15 Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor persuade you after this manner, neither believe him; for no god of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out of my hand and out of the hand of my fathers. How much less shall your God deliver you out of my hand!'" 16 And his servants spoke yet more against Yahweh God and against his servant Hezekiah. 17 He wrote also letters to rail on Yahweh, the God of Israel, and to speak against him, saying, "As the gods of the nations of the lands, which have not delivered their people out of my hand, so shall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of my hand." 18 And they cried with a loud voice in the language of Judah to the people of Jerusalem that were on the wall, to frighten them and to trouble them, that they might take the city.[g] 19

And they spoke of the God of Jerusalem as of the gods of the peoples of the earth, which are the work of men's hands.
20 And Hezekiah the king and Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz prayed because of this, and cried to heaven.[h] 21 And Yahweh sent an angel, who cut off all the mighty men of valor, and the leaders and captains, in the camp of the king of Assyria. So he returned with shame of face to his own land. And when he had come into the house of his god, some of his own offspring slew him there with the sword.[i]
22 Thus Yahweh saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib the king of Assyria and from the hand of all others, and guided them on every side.[j] 23 And many brought gifts to Yahweh to Jerusalem, and precious things to Hezekiah king of Judah, so that he was exalted in the sight of all nations from then on.
24 In those days Hezekiah was sick unto death; and he prayed to Yahweh, and he spoke to him and gave him a sign.[k] 25 But Hezekiah rendered not again according to the benefit done to him, for his heart was lifted up; therefore there was wrath upon him, and upon Judah and Jerusalem. 26 Notwithstanding, Hezekiah humbled himself for the pride of his heart, both he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the wrath of Yahweh came not upon them in the days of Hezekiah.
27 And Hezekiah had exceedingly much riches and honor; and he provided himself treasuries for silver, and for gold, and for precious stones, and for spices, and for shields, and for all manner of goodly vessels; 28 storehouses also for the increase of grain and new wine and oil, and stalls for all manner of beasts, and flocks in folds.[l] 29 Moreover he provided himself cities, and possessions of flocks and herds in abundance; for God had given him very much substance. 30 This same Hezekiah also stopped the upper outlet of the waters of Gihon and brought them straight down on the west side of the city of David. And Hezekiah prospered in all his works.[m] 31 However, in the business of the ambassadors of the princes of Babylon, who sent to him to inquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him, to try him, that he might know all that was in his heart.[n]
32 Now the rest of the acts of Hezekiah and his good deeds, behold, they are written in the vision of Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz,

in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. 33 And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the ascent of the sepulchres of the sons of David; and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honor at his death. And Manasseh his son reigned in his place.[o]

Notes

- a (32:1) Sennacherib, Akkadian Sin-ahhe-eriba, "(the god) Sin has replaced the brothers," king of Assyria about 705–681 BC; his invasion was in 701 BC. Chapter 32 condenses 2 Kings 18:13–20:21 (compare Isaiah 36–39). Chronicles omits Hezekiah's tribute payment (2 Kings 18:14–16).
- b (32:4) Or "the kings of Assyria," referring to the Assyrian kings generally; the Septuagint reads "the king of the Assyrians."
- c (32:5) The Millo, "filling," probably terraced fill or a fortification; compare 1 Chronicles 11:8.
- d (32:7) Compare 2 Kings 6:16.
- e (32:9) Lachish, see 25:27.
- f (32:12) Compare 2 Kings 18:22. From Sennacherib's viewpoint Hezekiah's reform (31:1) had offended Yahweh.
- g (32:18) Hebrew "Judean" (yehudit), the Hebrew dialect of Judah; compare 2 Kings 18:26–28.
- h (32:20) Isaiah, see 26:22. Compare 2 Kings 19:14–19; Isaiah 37:14–20.
- i (32:21) Second Kings 19:35 gives the number struck as 185,000. Sennacherib was assassinated in 681 BC, about twenty years later (2 Kings 19:37 names the sons Adrammelech and Sharezer). The Ketiv and Qere differ in spelling "offspring" (literally "those who came out of his bowels").
- j (32:22) The Septuagint reads "gave them rest on every side"; the Hebrew "guided them" (vayyenahalem) may be a miscopying of "gave them rest" (vayyanah lahem).
- k (32:24) Compare 2 Kings 20:1–11; Isaiah 38, where the sign is the shadow going back on the steps.
- l (32:28) Hebrew "flocks for folds," perhaps "folds for flocks."
- m (32:30) Gihon, "gushing," the spring in the Kidron valley. This is the tunnel known today as Hezekiah's Tunnel (about 1,750 feet or 533 meters long), with the Siloam Inscription; compare 2 Kings 20:20.
- n (32:31) Compare 2 Kings 20:12–19; Isaiah 39. Babylon, Hebrew Babel, popularly linked with "confusion" (Genesis 11:9); Akkadian bab-ili, "gate of god." The wonder was the sign of verse 24.
- o (32:33) Or "in the upper part of the tombs." Manasseh, see 15:9.

Chapter 33

1 Manasseh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem.[a] 2 And he did that which was evil in the sight of Yahweh, after the abominations of the nations whom Yahweh cast out before the children of Israel. 3 He rebuilt the high places that his father Hezekiah had torn down, set up altars for the Baals, made Asherah poles, and worshiped all the stars of heaven and served them. 4 And he built altars in the house of Yahweh, of which Yahweh said, "In Jerusalem shall my name be forever." 5 And he built altars for all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of Yahweh. 6 He also made his children to pass through the fire in the valley of the son of Hinnom; and he practiced augury, and used enchantments, and practiced sorcery, and dealt with those who had familiar spirits and with wizards. He wrought much evil in the sight of Yahweh, to provoke him to anger.[b] 7 And he set the carved image of the idol, which he had made, in the house of God, of which God said to David and to Solomon his son, "In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, will I put my name forever;[c]

8 neither will I any more remove the foot of Israel from off the land which I have appointed for your fathers, if only they will observe to do all that I have commanded them, even all the law and the statutes and the ordinances by the hand of Moses." 9 And Manasseh seduced Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that they did evil more than did the nations whom Yahweh destroyed before the children of Israel.
10 And Yahweh spoke to Manasseh and to his people, but they gave no heed. 11 So Yahweh brought the commanders of the king of Assyria's army against them. They captured Manasseh with hooks, bound him in shackles, and took him to Babylon.[d] 12 And when he was in distress, he besought Yahweh his God, and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers. 13 And he prayed to him; and he was entreated of him and heard his supplication, and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kingdom. Then Manasseh knew that Yahweh, he is God.[e] 14 Now after this he built an outer wall to the city of David, on the west side of Gihon, in the valley, even to the entrance at the fish gate;
and he compassed Ophel about with it and raised it up to a very great height. And he put valiant captains in all the fortified cities of Judah.[f] 15 And he took away the foreign gods and the idol out of the house of Yahweh, and all the altars that he had built in the mount of the house of Yahweh and in Jerusalem, and cast them out of the city. 16 And he built up the altar of Yahweh, and offered thereon sacrifices of peace offerings and of thanksgiving, and commanded Judah to serve Yahweh, the God of Israel.[g] 17 Nevertheless the people still sacrificed in the high places, but only to Yahweh their God.

18 Now the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and his prayer to his God, and the words of the seers that spoke to him in the name of Yahweh, the God of Israel, behold, they are written among the acts of the kings of Israel.[h] 19 His prayer, and how God accepted his plea, and all his sin and unfaithfulness, and the sites where he built high places and set up Asherah poles and idols before he humbled himself, are written in the records of Hozai.[i] 20 So Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his own house; and Amon his son reigned in his place.[j] 21 Amon was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem.[k] 22 And he did that which was evil in the sight of Yahweh, as did Manasseh his father; and Amon sacrificed to all the carved images which Manasseh his father had made, and served them. 23 And he humbled not himself before Yahweh, as Manasseh his father had humbled himself; but this same Amon trespassed more and more. 24 And his servants conspired against him and put him to death in his own house. 25 But the people of the land struck down everyone who had conspired against King Amon, and they made his son Josiah king in his place.[l]

Notes

- a (33:1) Verses 1–10 parallel 2 Kings 21:1–10; verses 18–25 parallel 2 Kings 21:17–24.
- b (33:6) Hebrew "his sons"; 2 Kings 21:6 "his son." "Familiar spirits," Hebrew 'ov, a medium or the spirit of a dead person consulted by a medium; compare Deuteronomy 18:10–11.
- c (33:7) Second Kings 21:7 specifies "the carved image of Asherah."
- d (33:11) Or "with nose hooks," as Assyrian reliefs show captives led. Manasseh's captivity and repentance (verses 11–17) are not in Kings, which blames him for the exile (2 Kings 21:10–16; 24:3–4). Assyrian records name Manasseh as a vassal of Esarhaddon and Ashurbanipal; Babylon was then under Assyrian rule.
- e (33:13) A later Jewish composition, the Prayer of Manasseh, preserved in some Greek Bibles and the Apocrypha, claims to be this prayer.

- f (33:14) Gihon, see 32:30; Ophel, see 27:3.
- g (33:16) The Ketiv reads "and he prepared," the Qere "and he built."
- h (33:18) Hebrew "the words of the kings of Israel," that is, their records.
- i (33:19) Hozai, "my seers," or read "the seers" (hozim) by a slight change; the Septuagint reads "the seers." Asherim, see 14:3.
- j (33:20) Second Kings 21:18 adds "in the garden of his house, in the garden of Uzza." Amon, see 18:25.
- k (33:21) Compare 2 Kings 21:19–26.
- l (33:25) Josiah, "Yahweh supports" or "Yahweh heals."

Chapter 34

1 Josiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem.[a] 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, and walked in the ways of David his father, and turned not aside to the right hand nor to the left.
3 For in the eighth year of his reign, while he was yet young, he began to seek after the God of David his father; and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jerusalem from the high places, and the Asherim, and the carved images, and the molten images.[b] 4 And they broke down the altars of the Baals in his presence; and the incense altars that were on high above them he hewed down; and the Asherim and the carved images and the molten images he broke in pieces, and made dust of them, and strewed it upon the graves of those who had sacrificed to them.[c] 5 And he burned the bones of the priests upon their altars, and purged Judah and Jerusalem.[d] 6 And so did he in the cities of Manasseh and Ephraim and Simeon, even to Naphtali, in their ruins round about.[e] 7 He tore down the altars, ground the Asherah poles and idols to powder, and cut down all the incense altars throughout the land of Israel. Then he returned to Jerusalem.
8 Now in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purged the land and the house, he sent Shaphan the son of Azaliah, and Maaseiah the governor of the city, and Joah the son of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the house of Yahweh his God.[f] 9 And they came to Hilkiah the high priest and delivered the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Levites, the keepers of the threshold, had gathered from the hand of Manasseh and Ephraim, and of all the remnant of Israel, and of all Judah and Benjamin, and of the inhabitants of Jerusalem.[g] 10 And they delivered it into the hand of the workmen that had the oversight of the house of Yahweh; and the workmen that wrought in the house of Yahweh gave it to mend and repair the house; 11 even to the carpenters and to the builders gave they it, to buy hewn stone and timber for couplings, and to make beams for the houses which the kings of Judah had destroyed. 12 And the men did the work faithfully; and the overseers of them were Jahath and Obadiah, the Levites, of the sons of Merari; and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to set it forward; and others of the Levites, all that were skilful with instruments of music.[h] 13 Also they were over the bearers of burdens, and set forward all that did the work in every manner of service; and of the Levites there were scribes and officers and porters.

14 And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of Yahweh, Hilkiah the priest found the book of the law of Yahweh given by Moses.[i] 15 And Hilkiah answered and said to Shaphan the scribe, "I have found the book of the law in the house of Yahweh." And Hilkiah delivered the book to Shaphan. 16 And Shaphan carried the book to the king, and moreover brought the king word again, saying, "All that was committed to your servants, they are doing. 17 And they have emptied out the money that was found in the house of Yahweh, and have delivered it into the hand of the overseers and into the hand of the workmen." 18 And Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying, "Hilkiah the priest has delivered me a book." And Shaphan read therein before the king. 19 And it came to pass, when the king had heard the words of the law, that he tore his clothes. 20
And the king commanded Hilkiah, and Ahikam the son of Shaphan, and Abdon the son of Micah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah the king's servant, saying,[j] 21 "Go, inquire of Yahweh for me, and for those who are left in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book that is found; for great is the wrath of Yahweh that is poured out upon us, because our fathers have not kept the word of Yahweh, to do according to all that is written in this book."
22 So Hilkiah and they whom the king had commanded went to Huldah
the prophetess, the wife of Shallum the son of Tokhath, the son of

Hasrah, keeper of the wardrobe (now she dwelt in Jerusalem in the second quarter); and they spoke to her to that effect.[k] 23 She told them, "This is what Yahweh, the God of Israel, says: Tell the man who sent you to me, 24 Thus says Yahweh: Behold, I will bring evil upon this place and upon its inhabitants, even all the curses that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah. 25 Because they have forsaken me and have burned incense to other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands, therefore is my wrath poured out upon this place, and it shall not be quenched.'[l] 26 But to the king of Judah, who sent you to inquire of Yahweh, thus shall you say to him: 'Thus says Yahweh, the God of Israel: As touching the words which you have heard, 27 because your heart was tender, and you humbled yourself before God when you heard his words against this place and against its inhabitants, and have humbled yourself before me, and have torn your clothes and wept before me, I also have heard you, says Yahweh. 28 Behold, I will gather you to your fathers, and you shall be gathered to your grave in peace, neither shall your eyes see all the evil that I will bring upon this place and upon its inhabitants.'" And they brought the king word again.[m]

29 Then the king sent and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. 30 And the king went up to the house of Yahweh, and all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the priests and the Levites, and all the people, both great and small; and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant that was found in the house of Yahweh. 31 And the king stood in his place and made a covenant before Yahweh, to walk after Yahweh, and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes with all his heart and with all his soul, to perform the words of the covenant that were written in this book. 32 And he caused all that were found in Jerusalem and Benjamin to stand to it. And the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers. 33 And Josiah took away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Israel, and made all that were found in Israel to serve, even to serve Yahweh their God. All his days they departed not from following Yahweh, the God of their fathers.

Notes

- a (34:1) Josiah, see 33:25. Chapters 34–35 parallel 2 Kings 22:1–23:30, but Chronicles places the purge (verses 3–7) before the finding of the book, whereas Kings places it after (2 Kings 23:4–20).
- b (34:3) The eighth year, when he was about sixteen; the twelfth year, about 628 BC.
- c (34:4) Hebrew hammanim; see 14:5 note.
- d (34:5) Compare 1 Kings 13:2; 2 Kings 23:16, 20. The Ketiv spells "their altars" with a double plural ending.
- e (34:6) The Ketiv reads, obscurely, "in the mountain, their houses"; the Qere, "with their swords" or (by slight change) "in their ruins." The Septuagint reads "and the places round about them." The sense is uncertain.
- f (34:8) Shaphan, "rock badger"; Azaliah, "Yahweh has reserved"; Maaseiah, see 23:1; Joah, see 29:12; Joahaz, "Yahweh has grasped." The eighteenth year, about 622 BC.
- g (34:9) Hilkiah, "my portion is Yahweh." The Ketiv reads "and they returned to Jerusalem," the Qere "and the inhabitants of Jerusalem."
- h (34:12) Jahath, perhaps "he will snatch up"; Obadiah, see 17:7; Merari, see 29:12; Zechariah, see 17:7; Meshullam, "repaid" or "allied."
- i (34:14) Hebrew "by the hand of Moses"; probably all or part of Deuteronomy.
- j (34:20) Ahikam, "my brother has arisen"; Abdon, "servant" (2 Kings 22:12 Achbor, "mouse"); Micah, short for Micaiah; Asaiah, "Yahweh has made."
- k (34:22) Huldah, "weasel" or "mole"; Shallum, see 28:12; Tokhath, meaning uncertain (the Ketiv spells it Tovqehath; 2 Kings 22:14 Tikvah, "hope"); Hasrah (2 Kings 22:14 Harhas). "The second quarter," Hebrew mishneh, a newer district of Jerusalem.
- l (34:25) The Ketiv and Qere differ in the form of the verb "burned incense."
- m (34:28) Josiah died in battle (35:23–24), but "in peace" may mean before the disaster fell on Jerusalem, and buried in his own tomb.

Chapter 35

1 And Josiah kept a passover to Yahweh in Jerusalem; and they killed the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month (in March– April).[a] 2 And he set the priests in their offices and encouraged them to the service of the house of Yahweh. 3 And he said to the Levites that taught all Israel, which were holy to Yahweh, "Put the holy ark in the house which Solomon the son of David king of Israel built;
there shall no more be a burden upon your shoulders. Now serve Yahweh your God and his people Israel.[b] 4 And prepare yourselves

after your fathers' houses by your courses, according to the writing of David king of Israel and according to the writing of Solomon his son. 5 And stand in the holy place according to the divisions of the fathers' houses of your brethren the children of the people, and let there be for each a portion of a fathers' house of the Levites. 6 And kill the passover, and sanctify yourselves, and prepare for your brethren, to do according to the word of Yahweh by the hand of Moses."
7 And Josiah gave to the children of the people, of the flock, lambs and kids, all for the passover offerings, to all that were present, to the number of thirty thousand, and three thousand bullocks; these were of the king's substance. 8 And his princes gave for a freewill offering to the people, to the priests, and to the Levites. Hilkiah and Zechariah and Jehiel, the rulers of the house of God, gave to the priests for the passover offerings two thousand and six hundred small cattle, and three hundred oxen.[c] 9 Conaniah also, and Shemaiah and Nethanel, his brethren, and Hashabiah and Jeiel and Jozabad, the chiefs of the Levites, gave to the Levites for the passover offerings five thousand small cattle, and five hundred oxen.[d]
10 So the service was prepared, and the priests stood in their place, and the Levites by their courses, according to the king's commandment. 11 And they killed the passover, and the priests sprinkled the blood which they received of their hand, and the Levites flayed them. 12 And they removed the burnt offerings, that they might give them according to the divisions of the fathers' houses of the children of the people, to offer to Yahweh, as it is written in the book of Moses. And so did they with the oxen. 13 And they roasted the passover with fire according to the ordinance; and the holy offerings they boiled in pots and in caldrons and in pans, and carried them quickly to all the children of the people.[e] 14 And afterward they prepared for themselves and for the priests, because the priests the sons of Aaron were busied in offering the burnt offerings and the fat until night; therefore the Levites prepared for themselves and for the priests the sons of Aaron.
15 And the singers the sons of Asaph were in their place, according to the commandment of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the king's seer; and the porters were at every gate. They needed not to depart from their service, for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.[f] 16 So all the service of Yahweh was prepared the same day, to keep the passover and to offer burnt offerings upon the altar of Yahweh, according to the commandment of King Josiah. 17 And the children of Israel that were present kept the passover at that time, and the feast of unleavened bread seven days. 18 And there was no passover like that kept in Israel from the days of Samuel the prophet; neither did any of the kings of Israel keep such a passover as Josiah kept, and the priests, and the Levites, and all Judah and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.[g] 19 In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah was this passover kept.[h] 20 After all this, when Josiah had prepared the house, Neco king of Egypt went up to fight against Carchemish by the Euphrates; and Josiah went out against him.[i] 21 But he sent messengers to him, saying, "What have I to do with you, you king of Judah? I come not against you this day, but against the house with which I have war; and God has commanded me to make haste. Forbear from meddling with God, who is with me, that he destroy you not." 22 Nevertheless Josiah would not turn his face from him, but disguised himself, that he might fight with him, and hearkened not to the words of Neco from the mouth of God, and came to fight in the valley of Megiddo.[j] 23 And the archers shot at King Josiah; and the king said to his servants, "Take me away, for I am sore wounded." 24 So his servants took him out of the chariot and put him in the second chariot that he had, and brought him to Jerusalem; and he died, and was buried in the sepulchres of his fathers. And all Judah and Jerusalem mourned for Josiah.[k] 25 And Jeremiah lamented for Josiah; and all the singing men and singing women spoke of Josiah in their lamentations unto this day; and they made them an ordinance in Israel. And behold, they are written in the lamentations.[l] 26 Now the rest of the acts of Josiah and his good deeds, according to that which is written in the law of Yahweh, 27 and his acts, first and last, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.

Notes

- a (35:1) Josiah, see 33:25. The first month, Nisan (Abib), counted from the spring new year. Compare 2 Kings 23:21–23, which gives three verses to what Chronicles describes in nineteen.
- b (35:3) The ark had apparently been removed, perhaps under Manasseh or Amon; the reason is not stated.
- c (35:8) Hilkiah, see 34:9; Zechariah, see 17:7; Jehiel, "God lives." "Small cattle," that is, sheep and goats.
- d (35:9) Conaniah, "Yahweh has established" (the Ketiv spells it Conaniahu); Shemaiah, see 11:2; Nethanel, "God has given"; Hashabiah, "Yahweh has reckoned"; Jeiel, "God has swept away" or "treasured"; Jozabad, "Yahweh has given." Compare 31:12–15.
- e (35:13) Hebrew "boiled (bishshelu) the passover in fire," here meaning "cooked"; compare Exodus 12:8–9, which forbids boiling, and Deuteronomy 16:7.
- f (35:15) Asaph, "he has gathered"; Heman, "faithful"; Jeduthun, perhaps "praising."
- g (35:18) Second Kings 23:22 reads "from the days of the judges."
- h (35:19) About 622 BC, the same year the book was found (34:8).
- i (35:20) Neco II, pharaoh about 610–595 BC. Carchemish, "fortress of Chemosh" (?), on the Euphrates in northern Syria. In 609 BC Neco marched to support the last Assyrian king against Babylon; 2 Kings 23:29 says he went up "against (or to) the king of Assyria." Euphrates, Hebrew Perath.
- j (35:22) Megiddo, a city guarding the pass into the Jezreel plain. Compare 1 Esdras 1:28, which presents Neco's words as from Jeremiah; the Septuagint reads "the plain of Megiddo."
- k (35:24) Second Kings 23:29–30 says he died at Megiddo and was carried dead to Jerusalem.
- l (35:25) Jeremiah, perhaps "Yahweh exalts" or "Yahweh founds." This collection of laments is not the canonical book of Lamentations, though later tradition linked them.

Chapter 36

1 Then the people of the land took Jehoahaz the son of Josiah and made him king in his father's place in Jerusalem.[a] 2 Joahaz was twenty-three years old when he began to reign; and he reigned three months in Jerusalem.[b] 3 And the king of Egypt deposed him at Jerusalem, and fined the land about three and three-quarter tons of silver and seventy-five pounds of gold.[c] 4 And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim. And Neco took Joahaz his brother and carried him to Egypt.[d]

5 Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he began to reign; and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem; and he did that which was evil in the sight of Yahweh his God.[e] 6 Against him came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and bound him in fetters to carry him to Babylon.[f] 7 Nebuchadnezzar also carried of the vessels of the house of Yahweh to Babylon and put them in his temple at Babylon. 8 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, and his abominations which he did, and that which was found in him, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah; and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his place.[g] 9 Jehoiachin was eight years old when he began to reign; and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem; and he did that which was evil in the sight of Yahweh.[h] 10 And at the return of the year King Nebuchadnezzar sent and brought him to Babylon, with the goodly vessels of the house of Yahweh, and made Zedekiah his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem.[i] 11 Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he began to reign; and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem.[j] 12 And he did that which was evil in the sight of Yahweh his God; he humbled not himself before Jeremiah the prophet speaking from the mouth of Yahweh. 13 And he also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him swear by God; but he stiffened his neck and hardened his heart against turning to Yahweh, the God of Israel. 14 Moreover all the chiefs of the priests and the people trespassed very greatly after all the abominations of the nations; and they polluted the house of Yahweh which he had hallowed in Jerusalem.
15 And Yahweh, the God of their fathers, sent to them by his messengers, rising up early and sending, because he had compassion on his people and on his dwelling place; 16 but they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his words, and scoffed at his prophets, until the wrath of Yahweh arose against his people, till there was no remedy.
17 Therefore he brought upon them the king of the Chaldeans, who slew their young men with the sword in the house of their sanctuary, and had no compassion upon young man or virgin, old man or hoary head; he gave them all into his hand.[k] 18 And all the vessels of the house of God, great and small, and the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the king and of his princes, all these he brought to Babylon. 19 And they burned the house of God, and broke down the wall of Jerusalem, and burned all its palaces with fire, and destroyed all its goodly vessels.[l] 20 And those that had escaped from the sword he carried away to Babylon; and they were servants to him and his sons until the reign of the kingdom of Persia,[m] 21 to fulfil the word of Yahweh by the mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had enjoyed her sabbaths; for as long as she lay desolate she kept sabbath, to fulfil seventy years.[n]

22 Now in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of Yahweh by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accomplished, Yahweh stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, so that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it also in writing, saying,[o]

23 "This is what Cyrus king of Persia says: Yahweh, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has charged me with building him a house at Jerusalem in Judah. Whoever among you belongs to his people, may Yahweh your God be with him. Let him go up."[p]

Notes

- a (36:1) Jehoahaz, "Yahweh has grasped"; also called Shallum (1 Chronicles 3:15; Jeremiah 22:11). Verses 1–4 parallel 2 Kings 23:30–35, about 609 BC.
- b (36:2) Joahaz, a shorter form of Jehoahaz. Second Kings 23:31 adds that his mother was Hamutal of Libnah; the Septuagint adds the same here, with further material from Kings in verses 2–5.
- c (36:3) Hebrew "a hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold." A talent was about 75 pounds (34 kilograms); 100 talents ≈ 3.75 tons (3,400 kilograms).
- d (36:4) Eliakim, "God raises up"; Jehoiakim, "Yahweh raises up." Second Kings 23:34 says Joahaz died in Egypt.
- e (36:5) Compare 2 Kings 23:36–24:6, about 609–598 BC.
- f (36:6) Nebuchadnezzar, Akkadian Nabu-kudurri-usur, "Nabu, protect the heir," king of Babylon about 605–562 BC. Second Kings 24:6 says Jehoiakim "slept with his fathers," and does not mention his being taken to Babylon; compare Daniel 1:1–2. The Septuagint here adds material about his burial.
- g (36:8) Jehoiachin, "Yahweh establishes"; also called Jeconiah and Coniah (1 Chronicles 3:16; Jeremiah 22:24).
- h (36:9) Second Kings 24:8 reads "eighteen years old," which fits his having wives (2 Kings 24:15); "eight" here, also in the Septuagint, may be a copying error in which "ten" dropped out. "Ten days" is also not in Kings. In 597 BC.

- i (36:10) Zedekiah, "Yahweh is righteousness," originally named Mattaniah (2 Kings 24:17). Hebrew "brother" is used loosely for kinsman; 2 Kings 24:17 calls him Jehoiachin's uncle ("his father's brother," as the Septuagint reads here). First Chronicles 3:16 lists a Zedekiah as Jehoiachin's son or brother. "The return of the year," the spring.
- j (36:11) Compare 2 Kings 24:18–25:21; Jeremiah 52. Jerusalem fell in 587 or 586 BC.
- k (36:17) Chaldeans, the people of southern Mesopotamia who formed the Neo-Babylonian dynasty. The Ketiv spells the word with an extra letter.
- l (36:19) Second Kings 25:8–9 dates the burning to the seventh day of the fifth month (Ab, July–August); Jeremiah 52:12 the tenth day.
- m (36:20) Persia, Hebrew Paras. Babylon fell to Cyrus in 539 BC.
- n (36:21) Compare Jeremiah 25:11–12; 29:10; Leviticus 26:34–35, 43.
- o (36:22) Cyrus, Hebrew Koresh (Old Persian Kurush), Persian king about 559–530 BC; his first year over Babylon was 538 BC. Verses 22–23 are repeated, and continued, at Ezra 1:1–3.
- p (36:23) In the Hebrew canon Chronicles is usually the last book, so the Hebrew Bible ends on the summons to "go up."

Ezra

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 In the first year[a] of Cyrus[b] king of Persia, so that the word of Yahweh spoken by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled,[c] Yahweh stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, and he had a proclamation made throughout his whole kingdom, and also put it in writing: 2 "Thus says Cyrus king of Persia: Yahweh, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has charged me to build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah. 3 Whoever among you belongs to his people, may his God be with you; let that person travel to Jerusalem in Judah and rebuild the temple of Yahweh, Israel's God, who dwells in Jerusalem. 4 And everyone who is left, in any place where he lives as a foreigner, let the men of that place help him with silver and gold, with goods and with livestock, besides the freewill offering for the house of God that is in Jerusalem."
5 Then the heads of the fathers' houses of Judah and Benjamin rose up, with the priests and the Levites, everyone whose spirit God had stirred, to go up and build the house of Yahweh that is in Jerusalem.
6 All who were around them strengthened their hands with articles of silver, with gold, with goods, with livestock, and with costly gifts, besides all that was given as a freewill offering.
7 King Cyrus also released the vessels belonging to Yahweh's house that Nebuchadnezzar[d] had taken from Jerusalem and stored in the temple of his gods. 8 Cyrus king of Persia had them brought out through Mithredath[e] the treasurer, who tallied them for Sheshbazzar,[f]
the leader of Judah. 9 And this was their number: 30 gold basins,[g] 1,000 silver basins, 29 knives,[h] 10 thirty gold bowls, four hundred ten silver bowls of a second kind,[i] and a thousand other vessels. 11 All the articles of gold and of silver were 5,400. Sheshbazzar brought all these up when the exiles were brought up from Babylon to Jerusalem.[j]

Notes

- a (1:1) In the Hebrew Bible, Ezra and Nehemiah were counted as a single book, and the Masoretic notes treat them as one. In the Septuagint the two together form the book called Esdras B, or 2 Esdras (Ezra is chapters 1–10 and Nehemiah chapters 11–23); a different Greek book, Esdras A or 1 Esdras, retells 2 Chronicles 35–36, Ezra, and Nehemiah 7:73–8:12 and is placed with the Apocrypha in this translation. In the Latin Vulgate, Ezra is called 1 Esdras and Nehemiah 2 Esdras, while the Greek 1 Esdras is 3 Esdras. The first year of Cyrus as ruler of Babylon was 539–538 BC.
- b (1:1) Cyrus (Persian Kurush) is Cyrus II, "the Great," founder of the Persian Empire, who took Babylon in 539 BC. The meaning of the name is uncertain.
- c (1:1) See Jeremiah 25:11–12; 29:10. Verses 1–3a repeat 2 Chronicles 36:22–23.
- d (1:7) Nebuchadnezzar (Babylonian Nabû-kudurri-uṣur, "O Nabu, protect the heir") was king of Babylon 605–562 BC. He carried off the temple articles (2 Kings 24:13; 25:13–15). The written Hebrew text (ketiv) spells the name Nebuchadnezzor.
- e (1:8) Mithredath is a Persian name meaning "given by Mithra."
- f (1:8) Sheshbazzar is a Babylonian name, perhaps "O Shamash (or Sin), protect the father." Some identify him with Shenazzar (1 Chronicles 3:18) or with Zerubbabel (compare 3:8 and 5:16), but this is uncertain.
- g (1:9) The meaning of the Hebrew 'agarṭal is uncertain; perhaps a basin or large dish.
- h (1:9) The meaning of the Hebrew maḥalaphim is uncertain; perhaps knives, censers, or "replacement" vessels.
- i (1:10) Hebrew mishnim, perhaps "of second quality" or "matching"; the meaning is uncertain.
- j (1:11) The figures given in verses 9–10 add up to 2,499, not 5,400. Perhaps only the main items are listed, or some numbers were changed in copying. 1 Esdras (2:13–14) gives different figures and a total of 5,469.

Chapter 2

1 These are the people of the province who came back from captivity in exile, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had carried off to Babylon. Each returned to Jerusalem and Judah, to their own town.[a] 2 They came with Zerubbabel,[b] Jeshua,[c] Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, and Baanah.[d] The number of the men of the people of Israel: 3 the sons of Parosh, 2,172; 4 the sons of Shephatiah, 372; 5 the sons of Arah, 775; 6 the sons of Pahath-moab,[e] of the sons of Jeshua and Joab, 2,812; 7 the sons of Elam, 1,254;
8 the sons of Zattu, 945; 9 the sons of Zaccai, 760; 10 the sons of Bani, 642; 11 the sons of Bebai, 623; 12 the sons of Azgad, 1,222; 13 the sons of Adonikam,[f] 666; 14 the sons of Bigvai, 2,056; 15 the sons of Adin, 454;

16 the sons of Ater, of Hezekiah, 98; 17 the sons of Bezai, 323; 18 the sons of Jorah, 112; 19 the sons of Hashum, 223; 20 the sons of Gibbar, 95; 21 the men of Bethlehem, 123;[g] 22 the men of Netophah, 56; 23 the men of Anathoth, 128; 24 the people of Azmaveth, 42; 25 the people of Kiriath-arim,[h] Chephirah, and Beeroth, 743; 26 the people of Ramah and Geba, 621; 27 the men of Michmas, 122; 28 the men of Bethel and Ai, 223; 29 the people of Nebo, 52; 30 the people of Magbish, 156; 31 the sons of the other Elam, 1,254; 32 the sons of Harim, 320; 33 the people of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, 725; 34 the people of Jericho, 345; 35 the people of Senaah, 3,630.
36 The priests: the sons of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, 973; 37 the sons of Immer, 1,052; 38 the sons of Pashhur, 1,247; 39 the sons of Harim, 1,017.
40 The Levites: the sons of Jeshua and Kadmiel, of the sons of Hodaviah, 74.
41 The singers: the sons of Asaph, 128.
42 The sons of the gatekeepers: the sons of Shallum and Ater, Talmon and Akkub, Hatita and Shobai, totaling 139.
43 The temple servants:[i] the sons of Ziha, of Hasupha, of Tabbaoth, 44 the sons of Keros, of Siaha, of Padon, 45 the sons of Lebanah, of Hagabah, of Akkub, 46 the sons of Hagab, of Shalmai,[j] of Hanan, 47 the sons of Giddel, of Gahar, of Reaiah, 48 the sons of Rezin, of Nekoda, of Gazzam, 49 the sons of Uzza, of Paseah, of Besai, 50 the sons of Asnah, of Meunim, of Nephusim,[k] 51 the sons of Bakbuk, of Hakupha, of Harhur, 52 the sons of Bazluth, of Mehida, of Harsha, 53 the sons of Barkos, of Sisera, of Temah, 54 the sons of Neziah, and of Hatipha.
55 Of Solomon's servants:[l] the sons of Sotai, of Hassophereth, of Peruda, 56 the sons of Jaalah, of Darkon, of Giddel, 57 the sons of Shephatiah, of Hattil, of Pochereth-hazzebaim, and of Ami. 58 The temple servants together with the sons of Solomon's servants totaled 392.
59 And these went up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, and Immer, but they were unable to show their fathers' house and their lineage, whether they were of Israel: 60 the sons of Delaiah, of Tobiah, and of Nekoda, 652. 61 And from the priestly families: the descendants of Hobaiah, Hakkoz, and Barzillai (the last had married

one of the daughters of Barzillai from Gilead and was called by that name).[m] 62 These searched for their entry among those enrolled in the genealogies, but it was not found, and so they were barred from the priesthood as unclean. 63 The governor[n] told them that they were not to eat any of the most holy food until a priest should arise to consult the Urim and Thummim.[o]

64 The whole assembly together was 42,360,[p] 65 besides their male and female servants, who were 7,337. They also had 200 singing men and singing women. 66 Their horses were 736, their mules 245, 67 their camels 435, and their donkeys 6,720.

68 When they came to the house of Yahweh in Jerusalem, some of the heads of the fathers' houses made freewill offerings for the house of God, to set it up on its site. 69 According to their means they gave to the treasury for the work 61,000 gold darics (about 1,130 pounds of gold),[q] about 3 tons of silver,[r] and 100 priests' garments. 70 So the priests, the Levites, some of the people, the singers, the gatekeepers, and the temple servants lived in their towns, and all Israel in their towns.

Notes

- a (2:1) The list in verses 1–70 is repeated, with many small differences in names and numbers, in Nehemiah 7:6–73 and in 1 Esdras 5:7–45.
- b (2:2) Zerubbabel probably means "offspring of Babylon" (Babylonian zēr-Bābili). He was a grandson of King Jehoiachin (1 Chronicles 3:17–19).
- c (2:2) Jeshua is a later form of Joshua, "Yahweh saves." He is the high priest called Joshua in Haggai 1:1 and Zechariah 3:1.
- d (2:2) This Nehemiah and this Mordecai are not the Nehemiah and Mordecai of the books of Nehemiah and Esther. Nehemiah 7:7 has twelve leaders, adding Nahamani, and reads Azariah for Seraiah, Raamiah for Reelaiah, Mispereth for Mispar, and Nehum for Rehum.
- e (2:6) Pahath-moab means "governor of Moab."
- f (2:13) Adonikam means "my lord has arisen."
- g (2:21) Hebrew "the sons of Bethlehem." In verses 21–35 "sons of" a town means its people.
- h (2:25) Kiriath-arim is probably the same as Kiriath-jearim, "town of forests" (Nehemiah 7:29).
- i (2:43) Hebrew netinim, "those given," that is, people given (dedicated) to serve in the temple (compare 8:20).
- j (2:46) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Shamlai.

- k (2:50) Meunim and Nephusim follow the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Meinim and Nephisim.
- l (2:55) Perhaps sons of foreigners conscripted for royal service by Solomon (1 Kings 9:20–21).
- m (2:61) See 2 Samuel 17:27; 19:31–39.
- n (2:63) Hebrew Tirshatha, a Persian title, perhaps "His Excellency." In Nehemiah 8:9; 10:1 it is the title of Nehemiah.
- o (2:63) The Urim and Thummim (perhaps "lights and perfections") were objects kept in the high priest's breastpiece and used to learn the will of God (Exodus 28:30; Numbers 27:21).
- p (2:64) The figures in verses 3–60 add up to 29,818 (Nehemiah 7 gives 31,089). The difference may include women, or groups not listed by family, or may come from errors in copying.
- q (2:69) Hebrew darkemonim, either the Persian gold daric or the Greek drachma. A daric weighed about 0.3 ounce (8.4 grams), so 61,000 darics weighed about 512 kilograms.
- r (2:69) Hebrew "5,000 minas of silver." A mina was about 1¼ pounds (575 grams), so 5,000 minas is about 6,250 pounds (2,875 kilograms).

Chapter 3

1 When the seventh month (in September–October)[a] came, with the sons of Israel in the towns, the people assembled to Jerusalem like a single man. 2 Then Jeshua son of Jozadak[b] and his fellow priests, along with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel[c] and his relatives, set about building the altar of Israel's God, so they could present burnt offerings on it, following the instructions written in the Law of Moses, God's servant.
3 They erected the altar on its old foundation, since they feared the surrounding peoples, and they presented burnt offerings on it to Yahweh, every morning and evening.[d] 4 They celebrated the Festival of Booths[e] as prescribed, and presented the daily burnt offerings in the numbers the regulation required for each day, 5 and after that the regular burnt offering, the offerings for the new moons and for all the consecrated appointed feasts of Yahweh, and the offerings of everyone who brought a freewill offering to Yahweh. 6 From the first day of the seventh month (September–October) they began presenting burnt offerings to Yahweh, even though the temple's foundation had not yet been laid. 7 They paid money to stonemasons and carpenters, and supplied food, drink, and oil to the Sidonians and Tyrians so they would ship cedar timber from Lebanon across the sea to Joppa, with the authorization Cyrus king of Persia had granted them.

8 In the second year after they came to the house of God at Jerusalem, in the second month (in April–May),[f] Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak began, along with the remainder of their brothers, the priests and Levites and everyone who had come from the captivity to Jerusalem. They set the Levites twenty years old and upward to oversee the work on the house of Yahweh. 9 And Jeshua with his sons and his brothers, Kadmiel and his sons, the sons of Judah,[g] stood together to oversee those doing the work on the house of God, with the sons of Henadad, their sons and their brothers the Levites. 10 When the builders laid the temple's foundation, the priests, dressed in their robes, took their places with trumpets, and the Levites, Asaph's descendants, with cymbals, to praise Yahweh as King David of Israel had instructed. 11 And they sang to one another in praise and thanksgiving to Yahweh: "For he is good, for his steadfast love[h] toward Israel is forever." And all the people raised a great shout as they praised Yahweh, because the foundation of the house of Yahweh had been laid. 12 But many of the priests and Levites and heads of fathers' houses, the old men who had seen the first house, wept aloud when the foundation of this house was laid before their eyes, while many others shouted aloud for joy. 13 No one could tell the noise of the joyful shouting apart from the noise of the weeping among the people, for the people were shouting with a great shout, and the noise was heard from far away.

Notes

- a (3:1) Hebrew "the seventh month," Tishri, counted from the spring new year. Because the Hebrew months were lunar, it did not match a modern month exactly but fell in September–October. This was probably the autumn of 538 or 537 BC.
- b (3:2) Jozadak (also Jehozadak, 1 Chronicles 6:15) means "Yahweh is righteous."
- c (3:2) Shealtiel means "I have asked God." In 1 Chronicles 3:19 Zerubbabel is called a son of Pedaiah, Shealtiel's brother; he may have been a legal heir of Shealtiel.
- d (3:3) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has "he offered."
- e (3:4) Hebrew sukkot, "booths" or "shelters," celebrated from the fifteenth to the twenty-first day of the seventh month (Leviticus 23:33–43).

- f (3:8) Hebrew "the second month," Iyyar (earlier called Ziv), which fell in April–May. Solomon also began his temple in the second month (1 Kings 6:1).
- g (3:9) "Judah" (Hebrew Yehudah) may stand for Hodaviah (Hebrew Hodawyah) of 2:40, a name that looks similar in Hebrew.
- h (3:11) Hebrew ḥesed, faithful, loyal love, especially love that keeps a covenant.

Chapter 4

1 When the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the returned exiles[a] were building a temple for Yahweh, the God of Israel, 2 they approached Zerubbabel and the family heads and told them, "Let us join you in building, for we worship your God just as you do, and we have offered sacrifices to him[b] ever since Esarhaddon[c] king of Assyria settled us here." 3 But Zerubbabel, Jeshua, and the rest of the heads of the fathers' houses of Israel said to them, "It is not for you and us together to build a house for our God. We alone will build for Yahweh, the God of Israel, as King Cyrus, the king of Persia, commanded us." 4
Then the people of the land kept weakening the hands of the people of Judah and frightening them[d] from building. 5 They hired counselors against them to frustrate their plans all the days of Cyrus king of Persia, until the reign of Darius[e] king of Persia.
6 When Ahasuerus[f] began his reign, they drafted a written charge against the people living in Judah and Jerusalem. 7 In Artaxerxes' time,[g] Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel,[h] and their other colleagues[i] wrote to Artaxerxes king of Persia. The letter was written in Aramaic script and rendered in Aramaic.[j] 8 Rehum the commander[k] and Shimshai the scribe wrote a letter against Jerusalem to King Artaxerxes as follows:[l] 9 Rehum the commander and Shimshai the scribe, with the rest of their colleagues, the judges and the envoys, the officials, the Persians,[m] the people of Erech,[n] of Babylon, and of Susa (that is, the Elamites), 10 and the other peoples whom the great and illustrious Osnappar[o] deported and settled in Samaria's cities and elsewhere in the province west of the Euphrates.[p] And now 11 (this is a copy of the letter that they sent to him): "To King Artaxerxes, from your servants, the men of the province Beyond the River. And now 12 let it be known to the king that the Jews who came up from you to us have come to Jerusalem. They are rebuilding that rebellious and evil city.[q] They are finishing the walls and repairing the foundations. 13 The king should also know that if this city is rebuilt and its walls completed, they will refuse to pay tribute, duty, or tolls, and eventually the royal treasury will be diminished.[r] 14 Now, because we eat the salt of the palace[s] and it is not proper for us to see the king dishonored, we have therefore sent to inform the king, 15 so that someone may search the record book of your predecessors. There you will find and discover that this city has always been rebellious, damaging to kings and provinces, and that its people have fomented uprisings since ancient times. For this reason the city was destroyed. 16 We are informing the king that if this city is built and its walls completed, you will have no share left on that account in the province Beyond the River." 17 The king sent this reply: "To Rehum the commander, Shimshai the secretary, and their other colleagues living in Samaria and the rest of the province west of the Euphrates: Greetings. And now 18 the letter that you sent us has been read before me word for word.[t] 19 I issued a decree, and a search was made, and it was found that from ancient days this city has risen up against kings, and that rebellion and revolt have been carried on in it. 20 Powerful kings have ruled over Jerusalem and governed the whole province Beyond the River, and tribute, custom, and toll were paid to them. 21 Now issue a decree that these men be made to stop, and that this city not be rebuilt until a decree is issued by me. 22 Take care not to be negligent in acting on this. Why should the damage grow to the hurt of the kings?"

23 Then, as soon as the copy of King Artaxerxes' letter was read before Rehum and Shimshai the scribe and their associates, they hurried to Jerusalem, to the Jews, and stopped them by force and power. 24
Then the work on the house of God in Jerusalem stopped. It remained stopped until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.[u]

Notes

- a (4:1) Literally "the sons of the exile."
- b (4:2) So the traditional reading (qere), lo, "to him." The written text (ketiv) has lo', "not": "and we have not been sacrificing." The Septuagint supports "to him."
- c (4:2) Esarhaddon (Assyrian Ashur-aḫa-iddina, "Ashur has given a brother") was king of Assyria 681–669 BC (2 Kings 19:37). On the peoples settled in Samaria by the Assyrian kings, see 2 Kings 17:24–41.

- d (4:4) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a rarer form of the same word.
- e (4:5) Darius I, king of Persia 522–486 BC. The name (Persian Darayavaush) probably means "he who holds firm the good."
- f (4:6) Ahasuerus (Hebrew 'Aḥashwerosh) is the Persian Khshayarsha, known in Greek as Xerxes, king of Persia 486–465 BC (see Esther 1:1). Verses 6–23 gather together later opposition under Xerxes and Artaxerxes, arranged by topic. The account of the temple building resumes in verse 24, in the time of Darius.
- g (4:7) Artaxerxes I, king of Persia 465–424 BC. The name (Persian Artakhshassa) means "whose reign is through truth."
- h (4:7) Bishlam may be a name or a phrase meaning "in peace" or "with the approval of." Mithredath means "given by Mithra." Tabeel is Aramaic, "God is good."
- i (4:7) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has the singular, "associate."
- j (4:7) Literally "written in Aramaic and translated; Aramaic." The last word probably marks the change of language: from verse 8 the book is written in Aramaic (see the note there).
- k (4:8) Aramaic be'el-ṭe'em, literally "lord of decree," an official title, perhaps "commissioner" or "chancellor."
- l (4:8) From here through 6:18 the original text is in Aramaic, not Hebrew. Aramaic, a language closely related to Hebrew, was the common language of government in the Persian Empire. Ezra 7:12–26 is also in Aramaic.
- m (4:9) The Aramaic terms dinaye, apharsathkaye, ṭarpelaye, and apharsaye are uncertain. Some may be titles of officials and some the names of peoples.
- n (4:9) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a different form of the same word. Erech is the ancient Uruk in Babylonia.
- o (4:10) Osnappar is probably Ashurbanipal, king of Assyria 668–627 BC.
- p (4:10) Aramaic 'abar-nahara, the Persian province west of the Euphrates River, which included Syria and the land of Israel.
- q (4:12) The traditional reading (qere) differs from the written text (ketiv) in the spelling of three words in this verse, without a change in meaning.
- r (4:13) The Aramaic word 'appethom is uncertain; it is probably a Persian loanword meaning "in the end" or "revenue."
- s (4:14) That is, we are in the king's service and under obligation to him.
- t (4:18) Aramaic mepharash, "distinctly," or "in translation."
- u (4:24) 520 BC (compare Haggai 1:1; Zechariah 1:1).

Chapter 5

1 Now the prophets, Haggai[a] the prophet and Zechariah[b] the son of Iddo, prophesied to the Jews who were in Judah and Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel who was over them. 2 Then Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak rose up and started to build the house of God in Jerusalem, and with them were the prophets of God, supporting them.

3 At that time Tattenai,[c] the governor of the province Beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai[d] and their associates came to them and said to them, "Who gave you a decree to build this house and to complete this structure?"[e] 4 They also said to them,[f] "What are the names of the men who are constructing this building?" 5 But their God was watching over the Jewish elders, and the officials did not halt the work until a report could be sent to Darius and a written ruling returned.

6 This is a copy of the letter that Tattenai the governor of the province Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and his associates the officials[g] in the province Beyond the River sent to Darius the king. 7 They sent him a report, in which this was written: "To Darius the king, all peace. 8 Let it be known to the king that we went to the province of Judah, to the great God's house. It is being built of huge stones,[h] with timber laid in the walls. This work is being carried on with diligence and is prospering in their hands. 9 Then we asked those elders and spoke to them this way: 'Who gave you a decree to build this house and to complete this structure?' 10 We also asked for their names, so that we could report to you and record the names of the men leading them. 11 And this is the reply they gave us: 'We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and we are rebuilding the house that was built many years before, which a great king of Israel built and completed.[i] 12 But because our fathers provoked the God of heaven to anger, he gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, the Chaldean,[j] who destroyed this house and carried the people away to Babylon. 13 However, in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon, King Cyrus issued a decree that this house of God be rebuilt. 14 Also the vessels of gold and silver belonging to the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar had removed from the temple at Jerusalem and carried into the temple of Babylon, King Cyrus took out of the temple of Babylon, and they were handed over to a man named Sheshbazzar, whom he had appointed governor. 15 He said to him, “Take these articles. Go and put them in the temple in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be rebuilt on its site.” 16 So this Sheshbazzar came and set the foundations of God’s house in Jerusalem; and from then until now it has been in building and is not yet complete.’ 17 Now, if it seems good to the king, let a search be made in the royal treasure house there in Babylon, whether it is so that a decree was made by King Cyrus for building this house of God at Jerusalem. And let the king send us his decision about this.”

Notes

- a (5:1) Haggai means “festive,” perhaps because he was born on a feast day.
- b (5:1) Zechariah means “Yahweh remembers.” In Zechariah 1:1 he is the son of Berechiah, son of Iddo; here “son” means descendant.
- c (5:3) A Babylonian document from the reign of Darius names Tattannu as governor of Beyond the River, probably the same man.
- d (5:3) Shethar-bozenai is a Persian name of uncertain meaning.
- e (5:3) The Aramaic ’ushsharna is uncertain; perhaps the timberwork, the furnishings, or the whole structure. Also in verse 9.
- f (5:4) So the Septuagint. The Aramaic has “Then we told them,” which may be an early change of person in copying.
- g (5:6) The Aramaic apharsekaye is uncertain; perhaps “inspectors” or “officials.”
- h (5:8) Literally “stones of rolling,” stones so large that they had to be rolled into place.
- i (5:11) Solomon (1 Kings 6).
- j (5:12) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a different spelling.

Chapter 6

1 Then King Darius issued an order, and a search was conducted in Babylon, in the archive house,[a] where the treasures were kept. 2 And at Ecbatana,[b] the citadel in the province of Media, there was found a scroll, and in it was written: “A record: 3 In King Cyrus’s first year, Cyrus the king made a decree about the house of God in Jerusalem: Let the house be rebuilt as a place where sacrifices are offered, and let its foundations be retained.[c] Its height is to be about 90 feet and its width about 90 feet,[d] 4 with three courses of huge stones and one course of timber.[e] The expense is to be given from the king’s house.[f] 5 Also the vessels of gold and silver of God’s house, which Nebuchadnezzar removed from the temple at Jerusalem and carried to Babylon, are to be given back and taken back to the temple at Jerusalem, every one to its own place. You are to put them in the house of God."

6 "Now then, Tattenai, governor of the province west of the Euphrates, Shethar-bozenai, and your fellow officials of that province, stay away from that site. 7 Let the work on this house of God alone. Let the governor of the Jews and the elders of the Jews rebuild this house of God on its site. 8 And I make a decree regarding what you shall do with these elders of the Jews toward the building of this house of God: from the king's goods the expense shall be paid to these men exactly and without delay, namely from the tribute of the province Beyond the River, so that they are not hindered. 9 Whatever is needed, whether young bulls, rams, or lambs as burnt offerings for the God of heaven, or wheat, salt, wine, or oil, according to what the priests in Jerusalem ask for, must be handed over to them each day without delay, 10 so that they may offer sacrifices of pleasing aroma to the God of heaven and pray for the life of the king and his sons. 11 I further decree that if anyone alters this edict, a beam is to be torn from his house and he is to be hoisted up and fixed to it,[g] and his house is to be reduced to a heap of ruins for this offense. 12 May the God who has caused his name to dwell there overthrow any king or people that puts out a hand to change this or to destroy this house of God in Jerusalem. I, Darius, issue the decree. Let it be carried out with all diligence."
13 Then Tattenai, the governor of the province Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates acted with all diligence according to what Darius the king had sent. 14 And the elders of the Jews built and prospered through the prophesying of Haggai the prophet and Zechariah the son of Iddo. They finished their building by the command of the God of Israel and by the decree of Cyrus, Darius, and Artaxerxes king of Persia.[h] 15 This house was completed on the third day of the month Adar (February–March),[i] in the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king. 16 The people of Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the other returnees celebrated the dedication of this house of God with joy. 17 For the dedication of this house of God they presented a hundred bulls, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs, and twelve male goats as a purification offering[j] on behalf of all Israel, one for each of Israel's tribes. 18 They also stationed the priests by their divisions and the Levites by their groups for God's service in Jerusalem, following what is written in the book of Moses.[k] 19 On the fourteenth day of the first month (in March–April),[l] the returned exiles kept the Passover. 20 For the priests and the Levites had purified themselves as one; every one of them was clean. And they killed the Passover for all the sons of the exile, for their brothers the priests, and for themselves. 21 The Israelites who had come back from exile ate it, along with all who had joined them, having separated themselves from the impurity of the surrounding peoples to seek Yahweh, Israel's God. 22 And they kept the Feast of Unleavened Bread seven days with joy, for Yahweh had made them joyful and had turned the heart of the king of Assyria[m] toward them, so that he strengthened their hands in the work on the house of God, the God of Israel.

Notes

- a (6:1) Literally "the house of the books."
- b (6:2) Aramaic 'Aḥmetha, Ecbatana (modern Hamadan in Iran), a summer residence of the Persian kings.
- c (6:3) The meaning of the Aramaic mesobelin is uncertain; perhaps "retained," "raised," or "laid."
- d (6:3) Aramaic "sixty cubits … sixty cubits," about 27 meters. A cubit was about 18 inches (45 centimeters). The length is not given. Solomon's temple was 30 cubits high and 20 wide (1 Kings 6:2).
- e (6:4) So the Septuagint. The Aramaic has "a layer of new timber."
- f (6:4) Literally "from the house of the king."
- g (6:11) Or "fastened to it." The exact form of punishment is uncertain.
- h (6:14) Artaxerxes did not reign until after the temple was completed. He is probably named because he later supported the temple (7:15–24, 27).
- i (6:15) Aramaic "the month of Adar," the twelfth month of the spring-start calendar, a Babylonian month name used by the Jews after the exile. Because the months were lunar, Adar fell in February–March; the sixth year of Darius ended in early 515 BC, so the date was probably in March 515 BC. 1 Esdras 7:5 has "the twenty-third day."
- j (6:17) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a different spelling of the same word.

- k (6:18) The Aramaic section that began at 4:8 ends here. From verse 19 the text is again in Hebrew.
- l (6:19) Hebrew "the first month," called Nisan after the exile (Nehemiah 2:1; Esther 3:7). Because the Hebrew months were lunar, it fell in March–April. This was the spring of 515 BC.
- m (6:22) That is, the Persian king Darius, who now ruled the lands of the old Assyrian Empire.

Chapter 7

1 After these things, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persia, Ezra[a] son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah, 2 son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub, 3 son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth, 4 son of Zerahiah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki, 5 son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the chief priest.[b] 6
This Ezra went up from Babylon. He was a scribe skilled in the Law of Moses, which Yahweh the God of Israel had given, and the king granted him all he asked, because the hand of Yahweh his God was on him. 7 There went up also some of the sons of Israel, and of the priests, the Levites, the singers, the gatekeepers, and the temple servants, to Jerusalem in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king. 8 Ezra came to Jerusalem in the fifth month (in July–August),[c] which was in the seventh year of the king. 9 He had set out from Babylon on the first day of the first month (March–April),[d] and reached Jerusalem on the first day of the fifth month, since his God's gracious hand rested on him. 10 For Ezra had set his heart to study the Law of Yahweh and to do it, and to teach statutes and judgments in Israel.
11 This is a copy of the letter that King Artaxerxes gave to Ezra the priest, the scribe, a scholar in the words of the commandments of Yahweh and his statutes for Israel: 12 "Artaxerxes, king of kings,[e] to Ezra the priest, the scribe of the Law of the God of heaven: Peace in full.[f] And now 13 A decree is made by me that anyone in my kingdom of the people of Israel and its priests and Levites who offers himself freely to go to Jerusalem may go with you. 14 For you are sent by the king and his seven counselors to inquire about Judah and Jerusalem according to the Law of your God, which is in your hand, 15 and to carry the silver and gold that the king and his counselors have freely offered to the God of Israel, whose dwelling is in Jerusalem, [16] along with all the silver and gold you may collect throughout Babylon's province, and the voluntary gifts from the people and priests, given willingly for their God's house in Jerusalem. [17] With this money, therefore, you are to be careful to buy bulls, rams, and lambs, with their grain offerings and their drink offerings, and you are to offer them on the altar of the house of your God in Jerusalem. [18] As for the remaining silver and gold, you and your colleagues[g] may use it however you judge best, in line with your God's will. [19] The articles that have been given to you for the service of the house of your God, deliver them in full before the God of Jerusalem. [20] And whatever else is needed for the house of your God that falls to you to provide, you may provide it from the king's treasure house. [21] And I, Artaxerxes the king, make a decree to all the treasurers who are Beyond the River: whatever Ezra the priest, the scribe of the Law of the God of heaven, asks of you, let it be done with all diligence, [22] up to about 3¾ tons of silver, about 600 bushels of wheat, about 580 gallons of wine, and about 580 gallons of olive oil,[h] and salt without limit. [23] Whatever is commanded by the God of heaven, let it be done exactly for the house of the God of heaven, so that wrath does not come against the realm of the king and his sons. [24] We also inform you that it is not permitted to impose tribute, custom, or toll on any of the priests, the Levites, the singers, the gatekeepers, the temple servants, or other servants of this house of God. [25] And you, Ezra, using the wisdom your God has placed in your hand, appoint administrators and judges to govern all the people of the province west of the Euphrates, everyone who knows your God's laws. Whoever does not know them, you must teach. [26] Anyone who will not obey the law of your God and the law of the king, let judgment be carried out on him strictly, whether death, banishment,[i] confiscation of property, or imprisonment."[j]

[27] Blessed be Yahweh, our ancestors' God, who inspired the king to do such a thing, to glorify Yahweh's house in Jerusalem, [28] and who showed me faithful kindness in the presence of the king, his advisers, and all his mighty officers. I took courage because Yahweh my God's hand was on me, and I assembled Israel's leaders to travel with me.[k]

Notes

- a (7:1) Ezra means "help," probably short for Azariah, "Yahweh has helped." If this Artaxerxes is Artaxerxes I, Ezra came to Jerusalem in 458 BC (verse 7). Some scholars think the king is Artaxerxes II, which would place Ezra's arrival in 398 BC.
- b (7:5) The genealogy is shortened; compare 1 Chronicles 6:3–15, which lists more generations between Meraioth and Azariah.
- c (7:8) Hebrew "the fifth month," Av, which fell in July–August.
- d (7:9) Hebrew "the first month," Nisan. The journey of about 900 miles (1,450 kilometers) took four months.
- e (7:12) From here through verse 26 the original text is in Aramaic (see the note at 4:8). "King of kings" was a title of the Persian kings.
- f (7:12) The Aramaic gemir, "complete," is uncertain here; it may belong to the title ("the perfect scribe") or to the greeting.
- g (7:18) In this verse the traditional reading (qere) has the Aramaic forms of "you" and "your brothers"; the written text (ketiv) has Hebrew-like spellings.
- h (7:22) Aramaic "100 talents of silver, 100 cors of wheat, 100 baths of wine, and 100 baths of oil." A talent was about 75 pounds (34 kilograms), so 100 talents was about 3,400 kilograms; a cor (the same as a homer) was about 6 bushels (220 liters); a bath (the liquid measure equal to an ephah) was about 5.8 gallons (22 liters). Measures varied in different times and places.
- i (7:26) So the traditional reading (qere), sheroshi, literally "rooting out," probably banishment; some take it as flogging. The written text (ketiv) has a different spelling.
- j (7:26) The Aramaic section that began at verse 12 ends here. From verse 27 the text is again in Hebrew.
- k (7:28) From 7:27 through 9:15 Ezra speaks in the first person.

Chapter 8

1 These are the heads of their fathers' houses, and this is the genealogy of those who went up with me from Babylon in the reign of King Artaxerxes: 2 Of the sons of Phinehas, Gershom. Of the sons of Ithamar, Daniel. Of the sons of David, Hattush, 3 of the sons of Shecaniah.[a]
Of the sons of Parosh, Zechariah, and with him were registered 150 males. 4 Of the sons of Pahath-moab, Eliehoenai son of Zerahiah, and with him 200 males. 5 Of the sons of Zattu,[b] Shecaniah son of Jahaziel, and with him 300 males. 6 Of the sons of Adin, Ebed son of Jonathan, and with him 50 males. 7 Of the sons of Elam, Jeshaiah son of Athaliah, and with him 70 males. 8 Of the sons of Shephatiah, Zebadiah son of Michael, and with him 80 males. 9 Of the sons of Joab, Obadiah son of Jehiel, and with him 218 males. 10 Of the sons of Bani,[c] Shelomith son of Josiphiah, and with him 160 males. 11 Of the sons of Bebai, Zechariah son of Bebai, and with him 28 males. 12 Of the sons of Azgad, Johanan son of Hakkatan, and with him 110 males. 13 Of the sons of Adonikam, those who came last; these are their names: Eliphelet, Jeuel, and Shemaiah, and with them 60 males. 14 From the descendants of Bigvai: Uthai and Zaccur,[d] and seventy men with them.

15 I gathered them at the river that runs to Ahava,[e] and there we camped three days. When I reviewed the people and the priests, I found none of the sons of Levi there. 16 Then I sent for Eliezer, for Ariel, for Shemaiah, for Elnathan, for Jarib, for Elnathan, for Nathan, for Zechariah, and for Meshullam, heads, and for Joiarib and for Elnathan, men of understanding, 17 and I sent them[f] to Iddo, the leader at the place called Casiphia, and told them what to say to Iddo and his brothers[g] the temple servants at the place Casiphia, so that they would bring us ministers for the house of our God. 18 Because our God's gracious hand was upon us, they brought us a discerning man from the descendants of Mahli, who was Levi's son and Israel's grandson, Sherebiah[h] by name, together with his sons and brothers, eighteen in all; 19 and Hashabiah, together with Jeshaiah from Merari's descendants, with his relatives and their sons, twenty in all; 20 and of the temple servants, whom David and the officials had given to serve the Levites, 220 temple servants. All of them were designated by name.

21 There by the Ahava canal I proclaimed a fast, in order to humble ourselves in front of our God and ask him for a safe trip[i] for us, our children, and all our belongings. 22 I was embarrassed to request soldiers and cavalry from the king to shield us from enemies along the road, since we had told the king, "Our God's hand is good to everyone who seeks him, but his might and wrath are against all who abandon him." 23 So we fasted and asked our God about this, and he heard our prayer.

24 And I separated twelve of the chiefs of the priests, along with[j] Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten of their brothers with them. 25 Then I weighed out for them the silver, the gold, and the vessels, the contribution for our God's house that the king, his advisers, his officials, and all the Israelites present had given.[k] 26 I weighed out into their hands about 24 tons of silver, silver articles weighing about 3¾ tons, about 3¾ tons of gold,[l] 27 20 gold bowls worth 1,000 darics (about 18½ pounds of gold),[m] and two articles of fine polished bronze, as precious as gold. 28 And I said to them, "You are holy to Yahweh, and the articles are holy, and the silver and the gold are a freewill offering to Yahweh, the God of your fathers. 29 Guard them carefully until you weigh them out in Jerusalem, in the storerooms of Yahweh's house, in front of the chief priests, the Levites, and the family heads of Israel." 30 So the priests and the Levites took over the weighed silver and gold and the articles, to bring them to Jerusalem, to the house of our God.

31 Then we set out from the river Ahava on the twelfth day of the first month (in March–April)[n] to go to Jerusalem. The hand of our God was on us, and he rescued us from the hand of the enemy and from those lying in ambush along the road. 32 We came to Jerusalem and stayed there three days. 33 On the fourth day, in our God's house, the silver, gold, and vessels were weighed and handed to Meremoth son of Uriah the priest. Eleazar son of Phinehas was with him, along with the Levites Jozabad son of Jeshua and Noadiah son of Binnui. 34 All of it was by number and by weight, and all the weight was written down at that time.
35 Then the exiles who had returned from captivity presented burnt offerings to Israel's God: twelve bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and twelve male goats as a purification offering.
All of it was a burnt offering to Yahweh. 36 They also delivered the king's orders to the king's satraps[o] and to the governors of the province Beyond the River, and these supported the people and the house of God.

Notes

- a (8:3) Hattush was a descendant of Shecaniah (1 Chronicles 3:22). The verse division between verses 2 and 3 is uncertain; Shecaniah may also begin a new entry.
- b (8:5) "Zattu" is not in the Hebrew but is found in the Septuagint and 1 Esdras 8:32. The Hebrew has "Of the sons of Shecaniah, the son of Jahaziel."
- c (8:10) "Bani" is not in the Hebrew but is found in the Septuagint. The Hebrew has "Of the sons of Shelomith, the son of Josiphiah."

- d (8:14) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Zabbud.
- e (8:15) The place Ahava and its canal in Babylonia have not been identified.
- f (8:17) So the traditional reading (qere), "I commanded them"; the written text (ketiv) has "I sent them out."
- g (8:17) Hebrew "his brother, the temple servants" (with the traditional reading, qere, netinim). Some read "his brothers and the temple servants."
- h (8:18) Hebrew "and Sherebiah." Some take the Hebrew 'ish sekel, "a man of insight," as a name, Ish-sechel.
- i (8:21) Literally "a straight way."
- j (8:24) Hebrew "to Sherebiah." Sherebiah and Hashabiah were Levites (verses 18–19), so the preposition is probably "in addition to." 1 Esdras 8:54 reads "and."
- k (8:25) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a longer form of the same verb.
- l (8:26) Hebrew "650 talents of silver, silver articles of 100 talents, 100 talents of gold." A talent was about 75 pounds (34 kilograms), so 650 talents is about 48,750 pounds (22,100 kilograms), and 100 talents about 7,500 pounds (3,400 kilograms). The Hebrew may also mean "100 silver articles worth … talents," with a number missing.
- m (8:27) Hebrew "1,000 'adarkonim," Persian gold darics. A daric weighed about 0.3 ounce (8.4 grams), so 1,000 darics weighed about 8.4 kilograms.
- n (8:31) Hebrew "the first month," Nisan. Compare 7:9: the start of the journey from Babylon had been set for the first day of the month.
- o (8:36) Hebrew 'aḥashdarpenim, from the Persian title for the rulers of the great provinces of the empire.

Chapter 9

1 After these things had been done, the officials came to me and said,
"The people of Israel, the priests, and the Levites have not separated themselves from the peoples of the lands and their abominations, from the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites. 2 They have taken some of their daughters as wives for themselves and their sons, so the holy line[a] has blended with the surrounding peoples.
And in this faithlessness the officials and leaders have taken the lead."[b] 3 When I heard this, I tore my garment and my robe, pulled out hair from my head and beard, and sat down appalled. 4 Then everyone who trembled at the words of the God of Israel because of the unfaithfulness of the returned exiles assembled to me, and I sat appalled until the evening offering.[c] 5 And at the evening offering I rose from my humbling of myself,[d] with my garment and my robe torn, and I fell on my knees and spread out my hands to Yahweh my God, 6 and prayed, "My God, I am so ashamed and embarrassed that I cannot lift my face toward you, my God, because our wrongdoing has risen higher than our heads, and our guilt has grown as high as the heavens. 7 From the days of our fathers to this day we have been deep in guilt. Because of our iniquities we, our kings, and our priests have been handed over to the kings of the lands, to the sword, to captivity, to plunder, and to open shame,[e] as it is today. 8 But now, for a brief moment, Yahweh our God has been gracious, leaving us a surviving remnant and giving us a firm place[f] in his holy site, so that he might make our eyes shine and give us a small revival in our servitude. 9 We are slaves. Yet our God has not abandoned us in our bondage, but has shown us faithful kindness before the Persian kings, giving us relief so that we could rebuild our God's house and repair its ruins, and giving us a protective wall[g] in Judah and Jerusalem.

10 "And now, our God, what can we say after this? For we have forsaken your commandments, 11 which you commanded by your servants the prophets, saying, 'The land that you are going in to possess is a land made unclean by the impurity of the peoples of the lands, by their abominations, with which they have filled it from one end to the other with their uncleanness. 12 So now do not give your daughters in marriage to their sons, and do not accept their daughters for your sons, and never seek their peace or prosperity, so that you may be strong, enjoy the land's good things, and leave it to your children as an inheritance forever.'[h] 13 And after all that has come upon us for our evil deeds and for our great guilt, since you, our God, have held back punishment less than our iniquities deserved[i] and have given us a remnant such as this, 14 shall we again break your commandments and make marriages with the peoples of these abominations? Would you not be angry with us until you had consumed us, so that there would be no remnant and no one to escape? 15 O Yahweh, God of Israel, you are righteous, for we remain a remnant that has escaped, as it is today. Here we are before you in our guilt, though because of it no one can stand before you."

Notes

- a (9:2) Literally "the holy seed" (compare Isaiah 6:13).
- b (9:2) Literally "the hand of the officials and the leaders has been first."
- c (9:4) The evening offering was the grain offering (minḥah) made in the late afternoon. In later Jewish practice it was offered at about three in the afternoon (compare Acts 3:1).
- d (9:5) Or "from my fasting."
- e (9:7) Literally "to shame of face."
- f (9:8) Literally "a tent peg," a fixed and secure place.
- g (9:9) Hebrew gader, a stone wall or fence, here probably a picture of protection.
- h (9:12) Compare Deuteronomy 7:1–3; 23:6.
- i (9:13) Literally "have restrained (or reckoned) below our iniquities."

Chapter 10

1 While Ezra was praying and making confession, weeping and casting himself down before the house of God, there gathered to him out of Israel an exceedingly great assembly of men and women and children, and the people wept bitterly. 2 Then Shecaniah son of Jehiel, of the sons of Elam,[a] answered and said to Ezra, "We have acted unfaithfully toward our God and have taken foreign wives from the peoples of the land. Yet even now there is hope for Israel in spite of this. 3 Now then, let us cut a covenant with our God to put away all the wives and those born of them, according to the counsel of my lord[b] and of those who tremble at the commandment of our God, and let it be done according to the Law. 4 Get up, for this is your responsibility, and we are with you. Be strong and act." 5 Then Ezra got up and made the leading priests, the Levites, and all Israel swear that they would act according to this word. So they swore.
6 Then Ezra left the place before the house of God and went to the chamber of Jehohanan son of Eliashib. He went there[c] without eating bread or drinking water, for he was mourning over the unfaithfulness of the exiles. 7 A proclamation went out across Judah and Jerusalem to all the returned exiles to gather in Jerusalem, 8 and that if anyone did not come within three days, according to the decision of the officials and the elders, all his property would be forfeited[d] and he himself would be separated from the assembly of the exiles. 9 Within three days every man of Judah and Benjamin had come together at Jerusalem, on the twentieth day of the ninth month (November–December).[e] All the people sat in the square before God's house, shaking over this matter and because of the downpour. 10 And Ezra the priest rose and said to them, "You have been unfaithful and have married foreign women, adding to the guilt of Israel. 11 Now therefore make confession to Yahweh, the God of your fathers, and do his will. Separate yourselves from the peoples of the land and from the foreign women." 12 Then all the assembly answered with a loud voice, "It is so. As you have said, so we must do.[f] 13 But the crowd is large, and rain is falling in this season. We are unable to stay outside. Nor can this be settled in a day or two, for we have sinned greatly in this affair. 14 Let our officials represent the entire assembly, and let everyone in our towns who has married a foreign woman come at appointed times, together with each town's elders and judges, until our God's fierce wrath over this matter is averted from us." 15 Only Jonathan son of Asahel and Jahzeiah son of Tikvah opposed this,[g] supported by Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite. 16 The returned exiles followed through. Ezra the priest chose family heads[h] by clan, each identified by name. On the first day of the tenth month (December–January)[i] they convened to investigate the matter, 17 and by the first day of the first month (in March–April)[j] they had finished dealing with all the men who had married foreign women.

18 Among the sons of the priests who had married foreign women were found these: of the sons of Jeshua son of Jozadak and his brothers, Maaseiah, Eliezer, Jarib, and Gedaliah. 19 They pledged themselves[k] to send away their wives, and being guilty they offered a ram of the flock for their guilt. 20 Of the sons of Immer: Hanani and Zebadiah. 21 Of the sons of Harim: Maaseiah, Elijah, Shemaiah, Jehiel, and Uzziah. 22 Of the sons of Pashhur: Elioenai, Maaseiah, Ishmael, Nethanel, Jozabad, and Elasah. 23 And of the Levites: Jozabad and Shimei and Kelaiah (he is Kelita), Pethahiah, Judah, and Eliezer. 24 Of the singers: Eliashib. Of the gatekeepers: Shallum, Telem, and Uri.

25 And of Israel: of the sons of Parosh, Ramiah, Izziah, Malchijah, Mijamin, Eleazar, Malchijah,[l] and Benaiah. 26 Of the sons of Elam: Mattaniah, Zechariah, Jehiel, Abdi, Jeremoth, and Elijah. 27 Of the sons of Zattu: Elioenai, Eliashib, Mattaniah, Jeremoth, Zabad, and Aziza.

28 Of the sons of Bebai: Jehohanan, Hananiah, Zabbai, and Athlai. 29
Of the sons of Bani: Meshullam, Malluch, Adaiah, Jashub, Sheal, and Jeremoth.[m] 30 Of the sons of Pahath-moab: Adna, Chelal, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattaniah, Bezalel, Binnui, and Manasseh. 31 Of the sons of Harim: Eliezer, Isshijah, Malchijah, Shemaiah, Shimeon, 32 Benjamin, Malluch, and Shemariah. 33 Of the sons of Hashum: Mattenai, Mattat-tah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremai, Manasseh, and Shimei. 34 Of the sons of Bani: Maadai, Amram, Uel, 35 Benaiah, Bedeiah, Cheluhu,[n] 36 Vaniah, Meremoth, Eliashib, 37 Mattaniah, Mattenai, Jaasai,[o] 38 Bani, Binnui,[p]
Shimei, 39 Shelemiah, Nathan, and Adaiah, 40 Machnadebai, Shashai, Sharai, 41 Azarel, Shelemiah, and Shemariah, 42 Shallum, Amariah, and Joseph. 43 Of the sons of Nebo: Jeiel, Mattithiah, Zabad, Zebina, Jaddai,[q] Joel, and Benaiah. 44 All these had married foreign women,[r] and some of them had wives by whom they had children.[s]

Notes

- a (10:2) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has ʿolam, "forever," a scribal slip.
- b (10:3) Hebrew ʾadonai, probably "my lord," addressing Ezra. With different vowels the same letters read Adonai, "the Lord."
- c (10:6) Some interpreters, following 1 Esdras 9:2, read "he spent the night there," a small change in the Hebrew.
- d (10:8) Hebrew yoḥoram, "devoted," placed under a ban, so that it was taken from its owner and given over to God.
- e (10:9) Hebrew "the ninth month," Kislev, which fell in November–December, the season of the winter rains.
- f (10:12) So the traditional reading (qere), "your word"; the written text (ketiv) has the plural, "your words."
- g (10:15) Some take the phrase to mean "were appointed over this" rather than "stood against this."
- h (10:16) So the Hebrew, literally "And there were set apart Ezra the priest, men, heads…." 1 Esdras 9:16 and the Syriac, reading a slightly different Hebrew, have "Ezra the priest selected men…."
- i (10:16) Hebrew "the tenth month," Tevet, which fell in December–January.
- j (10:17) Hebrew "the first month," Nisan, of the following year.
- k (10:19) Literally "they gave their hand."
- l (10:25) The Septuagint has Hashabiah for this second Malchijah.
- m (10:29) So the written text (ketiv); the traditional reading (qere) has "and Ramoth."

- n (10:35) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Cheluhi.
- o (10:37) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has "and they did."
- p (10:38) The Hebrew reads "and Bani and Binnui"; the Septuagint has "and the sons of Banui and the sons of Semei." Many interpreters read "Of the sons of Binnui: Shimei."
- q (10:43) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Jaddau.
- r (10:44) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a different form of the verb.
- s (10:44) The Hebrew of this sentence is difficult: literally "and there were among them women, and they had set sons." 1 Esdras 9:36 reads "and they sent them away with their children."

Nehemiah

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The words of Nehemiah[a] son of Hacaliah. In the month of Chislev (November–December),[b] in the twentieth year,[c] I was in Susa the citadel.[d] 2 Hanani, one of my brothers, came with some men from Judah, and I asked them about the Jews who had escaped, those who had survived the captivity, and about Jerusalem. 3 And they said to me, "The survivors who remained from the captivity there in the province are in great trouble and disgrace. The wall of Jerusalem is broken through, and its gates have been burned with fire." 4 When I heard these words, I sat down and wept, and I mourned for days, and I kept fasting and praying before the God of heaven. 5 I said,
"Yahweh, God of heaven, great and awesome God, you keep your covenant and show faithful love to those who love you and obey your commands. 6 Please look at me and listen to the prayer your servant is praying to you today, day and night, for your servants the people of Israel. I confess the sins we Israelites have committed against you.
Both I and my family have sinned. 7 We have dealt very corruptly with you; we have not kept the commandments, the statutes, or the ordinances that you gave to your servant Moses. 8 Remember, please, the word that you commanded Moses your servant: 'If you act unfaithfully, I will scatter you among the peoples; 9 but if you turn back to me and obey my commands, then even if your scattered people are at the farthest reaches of the sky, I will gather them from there and bring them[e] to the place I have chosen as a dwelling for my name.'[f] 10 They are your servants and your people, whom you redeemed by your great power and by your strong hand. 11 Lord,[g] please listen to the prayer of your servant and to the prayer of all your servants who take joy in revering your name. Give your servant success today, and make this man show him mercy." At that time I was the king's cupbearer.[h]

Notes

- a (1:1) Nehemiah means "Yahweh comforts." In the Hebrew Bible, Ezra and Nehemiah were counted as one book. In the Septuagint they form a single book, Esdras B (2 Esdras), of which Nehemiah is chapters 11–23; in the Latin Vulgate, Nehemiah is called 2 Esdras (and sometimes the Second Book of Ezra), while Ezra is 1 Esdras.
- b (1:1) Hebrew Kislev, the ninth month, which fell in November–December. The written text (ketiv) spells it Kislo.
- c (1:1) The twentieth year of Artaxerxes I (2:1), that is, late 446 BC.
- d (1:1) Susa (Hebrew Shushan), the winter capital of the Persian kings, in south-western Iran. The "citadel" (birah) was the fortified royal quarter.
- e (1:9) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a variant spelling of the same verb.
- f (1:9) See Leviticus 26:33; Deuteronomy 4:27; 12:5; 30:1–4.
- g (1:11) Hebrew Adonai.
- h (1:11) The cupbearer tasted and served the king's wine and was a trusted official with close access to the king.

Chapter 2

1 In the month of Nisan (March–April),[a] in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes,[b] wine was set before him, and I took it and handed it to the king. I had never been sad in his presence before. 2 The king asked me, "Why do you look so sad, when you are not ill? This can only be sorrow of the heart." I was terrified. 3 And I answered the king, "May the king live forever! How could my face not be sad, when the city where my fathers are buried lies waste and its gates are eaten up with fire?" 4 The king said to me, "For what are you asking?" And I prayed to the God of heaven. 5 I answered the king, "If it please the king, and if your servant has gained your favor, send me to Judah, to the city where my ancestors are buried, so that I can rebuild it." 6 Then the king, with the queen[c] seated beside him, asked me, "How long will your trip take, and when will you come back?" It pleased the king to send me, so I named a time. 7 And I said to the king, "If it pleases the king, let letters be given me to the governors of the province Beyond the River,[d] that they may let me pass through until I come to Judah, 8 and a letter to Asaph, who keeps the king's park,[e] directing him to give me timber for beams for the gates of the citadel beside the temple, for the city wall, and for the house I am to occupy."

And the king gave me these things, because the good hand of my God was on me.
9 Then I came to the governors of the province Beyond the River and gave them the king's letters. Now the king had sent with me officers of the army and horsemen. 10 When Sanballat the Horonite[f] and Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite,[g] heard of it, it was a great evil in their eyes that a man had come to seek good for the sons of Israel.
11 So I came to Jerusalem and was there three days. 12 I got up during the night, along with a few men. I told no one what my God had put in my heart to do for Jerusalem. I took no animal except the one I was riding. 13 That night I went out through the Valley Gate toward the Dragon Spring[h] and the Dung Gate, examining the walls of Jerusalem, which were broken down,[i] and its gates, which had been destroyed by fire. 14 Then I passed on to the Fountain Gate and the King's Pool, but there was no space for the beast I rode to get through. 15 So I went up the valley[j] during the night, examining the wall. Then I turned back and came in again through the Valley Gate. 16 The officials had no knowledge of where I went or what I did, for up to then I had told nothing to the Jews, to the priests, nobles, and officials, or to the rest who were to do the work.
17 Then I told them, "You can see the trouble we are in: Jerusalem is a ruin, and its gates have been burned. Come, let us rebuild the wall of Jerusalem and put an end to our disgrace." 18 I told them how kindly my God's hand had been on me, and what the king had said to me. They answered, "Let's start building!" And they set their hands to the good work.
19 But Sanballat the Horonite, Tobiah the Ammonite official, and Geshem the Arab[k] heard about it and ridiculed and scorned us. "What are you doing?" they asked. "Are you rebelling against the king?"
20 I replied, "The God of heaven will make us prosper. We are his servants, and we will begin to build. But you have no share, claim, or historic right in Jerusalem."

Notes

- a (2:1) Hebrew Nisan, the first month, which fell in March–April; here spring 445 BC.

- b (2:1) Artaxerxes I Longimanus, king of Persia 465–424 BC.
- c (2:6) Hebrew shegal, a royal consort, perhaps the chief queen.
- d (2:7) The Persian province west of the Euphrates, which included Syria and Judah.
- e (2:8) Hebrew pardes, a Persian loanword for a park or enclosed royal woodland; it is the source of the word "paradise."
- f (2:10) Sanballat (Babylonian Sin-uballiṭ, "Sin [the moon god] has given life") was governor of Samaria, as the Elephantine papyri show. "Horonite" probably means from Beth-horon.
- g (2:10) Or "official." Tobiah means "Yahweh is good"; he was probably governor of Ammon, east of the Jordan.
- h (2:13) Or "Jackal Spring."
- i (2:13) So the traditional reading (qere), "which they were broken down"; the written text (ketiv) has a different form of the same verb.
- j (2:15) The Kidron Valley, east of the city.
- k (2:19) Geshem (Arabic Jashm) is known from an inscribed silver bowl as a king of Kedar, a powerful Arab confederation in the northern Arabian desert.

Chapter 3

1 Eliashib the high priest and his fellow priests set to work and rebuilt the Sheep Gate. They consecrated it and set up its doors, consecrating the wall as far as the Tower of the Hundred[a] and the Tower of Hananel. 2 Next to him the men of Jericho built. And next to them Zaccur son of Imri built.
3 The sons of Hassenaah built the Fish Gate. They laid its beams and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars. 4 At their hand Meremoth son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz, repaired. At his hand Meshullam son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabel, repaired. At his hand Zadok son of Baana repaired. 5 And next to them the Tekoites made repairs, but their nobles would not bend their necks to the work of their lords.[b] 6 Joiada son of Paseah and Meshullam son of Besodeiah repaired the Old Gate.[c] They laid its beams and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars. 7 And next to them Melatiah the Gibeonite and Jadon the Meronothite, the men of Gibeon and of Mizpah, made repairs, up to the seat of the governor of the province Beyond the River.[d] 8 At his hand Uzziel son of Harhaiah, of the goldsmiths, repaired; and at his hand Hananiah, a member of the perfumers, repaired. They left[e] Jerusalem whole up to the Broad Wall. 9 At their hand Rephaiah son of Hur, who governed half the district of Jerusalem, repaired. 10 At their hand Jedaiah son of Harumaph repaired, across from his house; and at his hand Hattush son of Hashabneiah repaired. 11 A second section, together with the Tower of the Ovens, was repaired by Malchijah son of Harim and Hasshub son of Pahath-moab. 12 At his hand Shallum son of Hallohesh, who governed half the district of Jerusalem, repaired, together with his daughters.

13 The Valley Gate was repaired by Hanun and the people living in Zanoah. They built it and hung its doors with their bolts and bars, and repaired 1,500 feet[f] of wall up to the Dung Gate.
14 Malchijah son of Rechab, ruler of the district of Beth-haccherem, repaired the Dung Gate. He rebuilt it and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars.
15 Shallun son of Col-hozeh, ruler of the district of Mizpah, repaired the Fountain Gate. He rebuilt it, covered it with a roof, and set up its doors[g] with their bolts and bars. He also repaired the wall of the Pool of Shelah[h] by the king's garden, as far as the stairs that descend from the City of David. 16 After him Nehemiah son of Azbuk, who governed half the district of Beth-zur, repaired up to a point across from David's tombs, to the pool that had been made, and to the House of the Warriors. 17 After him the Levites repaired: Rehum son of Bani; at his hand Hashabiah, who governed half the district of Keilah, repaired for his own district. 18 After him their brothers made repairs: Bavvai[i] son of Henadad, ruler of half the district of Keilah. 19 At his hand Ezer son of Jeshua, who governed Mizpah, repaired a second section, across from the way up to the armory at the Angle. 20 After him Baruch son of Zabbai[j] worked eagerly[k] on a second section, from the Angle to the doorway of the house of Eliashib the high priest. 21 After him Mere-moth son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz, repaired a second section, from the doorway of Eliashib's house to where Eliashib's house ended. 22 After him the priests, the men of the surrounding district,[l] made repairs. 23
After them Benjamin and Hasshub made repairs opposite their house.
After them Azariah son of Maaseiah, son of Ananiah, made repairs beside his own house. 24 After him Binnui son of Henadad repaired a second section, from Azariah's house up to the Angle and the corner.

25 Palal son of Uzai worked on the section opposite the Angle and the tower that stands out from the upper house of the king, beside the court of the guard. Next in line came Pedaiah son of Parosh 26 while the temple servants who lived on the Ophel[m] repaired up to a point across from the Water Gate toward the east and the tower that juts out. 27 After them the men of Tekoa repaired a second section, across from the great tower that juts out, up to the wall of the Ophel.
28 From above the Horse Gate the priests repaired, every man across from his own house. 29 After them Zadok son of Immer repaired across from his house; after him Shemaiah son of Shecaniah, keeper of the East Gate, repaired. 30 After him[n] Hananiah son of Shelemiah and Hanun, Zalaph's sixth son, repaired a second section. After him Meshullam son of Berechiah repaired across from his own room. 31
After him Malchijah, a member of the goldsmiths, repaired up to the house of the temple servants and the traders, across from the Muster Gate,[o] and up to the corner's upper room. 32 And between the upper room of the corner and the Sheep Gate the goldsmiths and the merchants made repairs.

Notes

- a (3:1) Hebrew the Tower of Hammeah. Its name may refer to its height of a hundred cubits (about 150 feet or 45 meters) or to a hundred steps.
- b (3:5) Or "their Lord."
- c (3:6) Or "the Jeshanah Gate," naming the town of Jeshanah, toward which it faced.
- d (3:7) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain; possibly "who were under the jurisdiction of the governor."
- e (3:8) The meaning of the Hebrew verb is uncertain; usually "left," here perhaps "paved" or "restored."
- f (3:13) Hebrew "a thousand cubits," about 1,500 feet or 450 meters.
- g (3:15) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has "and they set up."
- h (3:15) Shelah, "channel," is the pool fed by Hezekiah's tunnel, called Siloam (Shiloah) in Isaiah 8:6 and John 9:7.
- i (3:18) Some Hebrew manuscripts and the Septuagint and Syriac have Binnui (see verse 24).
- j (3:20) So the written text (ketiv); the traditional reading (qere) is Zaccai.
- k (3:20) Hebrew heḥerah, literally "burned," that is, with zeal. The word is uncertain and may have arisen by copying; the Septuagint lacks it.

- l (3:22) Hebrew kikkar, “circle,” the Jordan Valley around Jericho, or the region around Jerusalem.
- m (3:26) The Ophel (“swelling,” “hill”) was the ridge between the City of David and the temple mount.
- n (3:30) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has “after me.” Likewise in verse 31.
- o (3:31) Or “the Inspection Gate”; Hebrew the Miphkad Gate.

Chapter 4

1 When Sanballat heard that we were rebuilding the wall, he became furious and was deeply angered. He ridiculed the Jews,[a] 2 He spoke before his brothers and the army of Samaria and said, “What are these weak Jews up to? Will they leave it to themselves? Will they offer sacrifice? Will they be done in a day? Will they bring the stones back to life out of the rubbish heaps, burned stones at that?” 3 And Tobiah the Ammonite, standing beside him, said, “Let them build—if a fox climbed on that stone wall of theirs, it would break it down!”

4 Hear us, our God, for we are scorned! Bring their insults back on their own heads, and hand them over as spoil in a land where they are captives. 5 Do not cover over their guilt, and do not let their sin be wiped away before you, for they have insulted you in front of the builders.[b] 6 So we built the wall, and all the wall was joined together up to half its height, for the people had a heart to work.

7 But when it came to the ears of Sanballat and Tobiah, the Arabs, the Ammonites, and the Ashdodites that healing had come to the walls of Jerusalem and that the gaps had begun to close, their anger blazed. 8 And they all plotted together to come and fight against Jerusalem and to cause confusion in it. 9 And we prayed to our God, and because of them we posted a watch against them by day and by night.

10 Meanwhile the people of Judah were saying, “The laborers are growing weak, and there is so much rubble that we cannot work on the wall.” 11 And our enemies said, “They will not know or see until we come into their midst and kill them and stop the work.” 12 Then the Jews who lived near them kept coming and warning us again and again, “They will attack us from every place you turn.”[c] 13 So in the lowest parts of the space behind the wall, in the open places,[d] I stationed the people by their families, with their swords, their spears, and their bows. 14 After looking things over, I stood up and said to the nobles, the officials, and the rest of the people, "Do not be afraid of them. Remember the Lord,[e] who is great and awesome, and fight for your relatives, your sons and daughters, your wives, and your homes."

15 Once our enemies heard that we knew of it, and that God had broken up their plan, all of us went back[f] to the wall, every man to his own task. 16 From then on, half of my young men did the work while half of them held the spears, the shields, the bows, and the armor; and the officers stood behind all the house of Judah 17 who were building the wall. The men carrying loads did their work with one hand, while the other hand held a weapon. 18 Every builder worked with his sword fastened at his waist, and the trumpeter stood next to me. 19 Then I said to the nobles, the officials, and the rest of the people, "The work is large and spread out, and we are far apart from one another along the wall. 20 Wherever you hear the trumpet blast, gather to us at that spot. Our God will fight for us."
21 So we went on with the work, half of them holding spears, from first light until the stars appeared. 22 At that time I also told the people, "Every man and his servant must spend the night inside Jerusalem. Then they can serve as our guard at night and as workers by day."
23 So none of us—not I, not my brothers, not my young men, not the guardsmen behind me—took off our clothes; each one kept his weapon at his right hand.[g]

Notes

- a (4:1) In the Hebrew text, verses 1–6 of this chapter are numbered 3:33–38, and verses 7–23 are numbered 4:1–17. This translation follows the verse numbering of the standard English Bible. The Septuagint follows the Hebrew numbering.
- b (4:5) Or "they have hurled insults in front of the builders."
- c (4:12) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.
- d (4:13) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a variant spelling.
- e (4:14) Hebrew Adonai.
- f (4:15) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has "and we will return."
- g (4:23) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain; literally "each his weapon, the water."

Chapter 5

1 Then a great cry went up from the people and their wives against their brothers the Jews. 2 Some were saying, "We and our sons and daughters are many. We must get grain to eat so that we can survive."
3 Others said, "We are putting up our fields, vineyards, and houses as security to get grain during the famine." 4 Others said, "We have had to borrow silver to pay the king's tribute on our fields and vineyards. 5 We are the same flesh and blood as our fellow Israelites, and our children are as good as theirs. Yet we are forcing our sons and daughters into slavery. Some of our daughters are already enslaved, and we are powerless to stop it, because other men now own our fields and vineyards."
6 I was very angry when I heard their outcry and these words. 7
I thought it over and then brought charges against the nobles and officials. I told them, "You are charging interest[a] to your own people!"
I also called a large assembly against them 8 and I told them, "As far as was in our power, we have redeemed our brothers the Jews who were sold to the nations—and now you yourselves sell your brothers, so that they must be sold back to us?" They kept quiet and found nothing to answer. 9 And I said,[b] "What you do is not good. Should you not walk in the fear of our God, so that the nations, our enemies, have no cause to reproach us? 10 I too, and my brothers and my young men, have been lending them silver and grain. Let us give up this lending on interest. 11 Give back to them, today, their fields, vineyards, olive orchards, and houses, and the percentage[c] on the silver, grain, new wine, and oil that you have been charging them." 12 They answered,
"We will give it back and demand nothing of them; we will do just what you say." Then I summoned the priests and put the men under oath to keep this promise. 13 I shook out the front of my robe as well and said, "Thus may God shake out of his house and out of the fruit of his labor every man who does not carry out this word; thus may he be shaken out and left empty." And all the assembly said, "Amen," and praised Yahweh. And the people kept this word.
14 Furthermore, from the day I was appointed their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year until the thirty-second year of King Artaxerxes[d] (twelve years), neither I nor my relatives drew the governor's food allowance. 15 The governors before me had weighed down the people and taken bread and wine from them, as well as about a pound of silver.[e] Their young men also domineered over the people. But I did not act like that, because I feared God. 16 Instead, I devoted myself to the work on this wall. We bought no land, and all my servants were gathered there to work. 17 There were at my table, besides, 150 Jews and officials, not counting those who came to us from the surrounding nations. 18 What was made ready daily at my cost was one ox and six choice sheep, and fowl as well, and once every ten days a great supply of all kinds of wine. Even so, I never asked for the bread of the governor, because the labor weighed heavily on this people. 19 O my God, remember me for good, for all I have done for this people.

Notes

- a (5:7) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a variant spelling. The meaning is "lending on pledge," or "taking interest."
- b (5:9) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has "and he said."
- c (5:11) Hebrew "the hundredth," probably a charge of one percent a month, or twelve percent a year.
- d (5:14) From 445 to 433 BC.
- e (5:15) Hebrew "40 shekels of silver," about 1 pound (460 grams), probably a daily charge.

Chapter 6

1 When Sanballat, Tobiah, Geshem the Arab, and the rest of our enemies heard that I had rebuilt the wall and that not a gap remained in it (though I had not yet set up the doors in the gates), 2 Sanballat and Geshem sent me this message: "Come, let us meet with one another at Hakkephirim[a] in the plain of Ono." But they were planning to do me evil. 3 And I sent messengers to them, saying, "I am doing a great work and I cannot come down. Why should the work stop while I leave it and come down to you?" 4 They sent me word in this manner four times, and four times I answered them in the same manner. 5 Then a fifth time Sanballat sent his young man to me in the same way, carrying an unsealed letter. 6 It said: "A rumor is going around among the nations, and Gashmu[b] says it is true, that you and the Jews are plotting to rebel, and that this is why you are building the wall. According to these reports, you are going to become their king. 7 You have even appointed prophets to announce in Jerusalem about you, 'There is a king in Judah!' Now these reports will reach the king. So come now, and let us consult with each other." 8 I sent back to him, "Nothing has happened like what you are saying; you are making it up in your own mind." 9 They were all trying to scare us, thinking, "They will lose heart for the work, and it will never be finished." But now, strengthen my hands![c]

10 Then I went to the house of Shemaiah son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel, who was shut in. He said, "Let us meet at the house of God, inside the temple, and shut the temple doors; for they are coming to kill you—by night they are coming to kill you." 11 I replied, "Should a man like me flee? And who that is such as I could enter the temple and keep his life?[d] I will not go in." 12 Then I perceived that God had not sent him at all; he had spoken this prophecy against me because Tobiah and Sanballat had paid him. 13 He had been paid so that I would take fright, act this way, and sin; then they would have an evil report with which to reproach me. 14 Remember, my God, what Tobiah and Sanballat have done, and also the prophetess Noadiah and the rest of the prophets who kept trying to intimidate me.

15 So the wall was finished on the twenty-fifth day of the month Elul (August–September),[e] in fifty-two days. 16 When all our enemies heard, all the nations surrounding us were afraid and were greatly cast down in their own eyes, for they knew that this work had been done by our God. 17 Moreover, in those days the nobles of Judah sent many letters to Tobiah, and Tobiah's letters came to them. 18 For there were many in Judah sworn to him, since he was son-in-law to Shecaniah son of Arah, and Jehohanan his son had married the daughter of Meshullam son of Berechiah. 19 They also kept telling me of his good deeds, and they carried my words out to him. And Tobiah sent letters to frighten me.

Notes

- a (6:2) Or "in one of the villages."

- b (6:6) Gashmu is another form of the name Geshem.
- c (6:9) A brief prayer; the Hebrew does not name God here. The Septuagint reads "And now I strengthened my hands."
- d (6:11) Nehemiah was not a priest; for a layman to enter the temple building was forbidden (Numbers 18:7).
- e (6:15) Hebrew Elul, the sixth month, which fell in August–September; in 445 BC its twenty-fifth day fell about the beginning of October. Fifty-two days of work means the building began early in the fifth month, Av (July–August).

Chapter 7

1 When the wall was built and I had hung the doors, and the gatekeepers, the singers, and the Levites were appointed, 2 I put Jerusalem in the charge of Hanani my brother and of Hananiah, the commander of the citadel, for he was a faithful man who feared God beyond many.
3 And I said[a] to them, "The gates of Jerusalem must stay closed until the sun is hot; while the gatekeepers stand at their posts, have them close the doors and fasten them. And set watches drawn from those who live in Jerusalem, every man at his station and every man in front of his house." 4 Now the city was broad and large, with few people in it, and the houses had not been built.
5 And my God put it into my heart to bring together the nobles, the officials, and the people, to enroll them by their genealogy. I came upon the register of the genealogy of those who came up at the beginning, and I found in it this record:[b] 6 These are the people of the province who came back from captivity in exile, the ones King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon had deported.
They returned to Jerusalem and Judah, each to his own town. 7
They came with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah,[c] Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah.
The number of the men of the people of Israel: 8 the sons of Parosh,
2,172; 9 the sons of Shephatiah, 372; 10 the sons of Arah, 652; 11 the sons of Pahath-moab, of the sons of Jeshua and Joab, 2,818; 12 the sons of Elam, 1,254; 13 the sons of Zattu, 845; 14 the sons of Zaccai, 760; 15 the sons of Binnui, 648; 16 the sons of Bebai, 628; 17 the sons of Azgad, 2,322; 18 the sons of Adonikam, 667; 19 the sons of Bigvai, 2,067; 20 the sons of Adin, 655; 21 the sons of Ater, of Hezekiah, 98; 22 the sons of Hashum, 328; 23 the sons of Bezai, 324; 24 the sons of Hariph, 112; 25 the sons of Gibeon, 95; 26 the men of Bethlehem and Netophah, 188; 27 the men of Anathoth, 128; 28 the men of Beth-azmaveth, 42; 29 the men of Kiriath-jearim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, 743; 30 the men of Ramah and Geba, 621; 31 the men of Michmas, 122; 32 the men of Bethel and Ai, 123; 33 the men of the other Nebo, 52; 34 the sons of the other Elam, 1,254; 35 the sons of Harim, 320; 36 the sons of Jericho, 345; 37 the sons of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, 721; 38 the sons of Senaah, 3,930.

39 The priests: the sons of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, 973; 40 the sons of Immer, 1,052; 41 the sons of Pashhur, 1,247; 42 the sons of Harim, 1,017.

43 The Levites: the descendants of Jeshua, that is, of Kadmiel through the line of Hodevah, 74. 44 The singers: the sons of Asaph, 148. 45 The gatekeepers: the sons of Shallum and Ater, Talmon and Akkub, Hatita and Shobai, totaling 138.

46 The temple servants: the sons of Ziha, of Hasupha, of Tabbaoth, 47 the sons of Keros, of Sia, of Padon, 48 the sons of Lebana, of Hagaba, of Shalmai, 49 the sons of Hanan, of Giddel, of Gahar, 50 the sons of Reaiah, of Rezin, of Nekoda, 51 the sons of Gazzam, of Uzza, of Paseah, 52 the sons of Besai, of Meunim, of Nephushesim,[d] 53 the sons of Bakbuk, of Hakupha, of Harhur, 54 the sons of Bazlith, of Mehida, of Harsha, 55 the sons of Barkos, of Sisera, of Temah, 56 the sons of Neziah, and of Hatipha.

57 Of Solomon's servants: the sons of Sotai, of Sophereth, of Perida, 58 the sons of Jaala, of Darkon, of Giddel, 59 the sons of Shephatiah, of Hattil, of Pochereth-hazzebaim, and of Amon. 60 The temple servants together with the sons of Solomon's servants totaled 392.

61 And these went up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer, but they were unable to show their fathers' house and their lineage, whether they were of Israel: 62 the sons of Delaiah, of Tobiah, and of Nekoda, 642. 63 And from the priests: the descendants of Hobaiah, Hakkoz, and Barzillai (this man had married one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and taken their name). 64 These searched for their entry among those enrolled in the genealogies, but it was not found, and so they were barred from the priesthood as unclean. 65 The governor[e] told them that they were not to eat any of the most holy food until a priest should arise to consult the Urim and Thummim.

66 The whole assembly together was 42,360, 67 besides their male and female servants, who were 7,337. And they had 245 singing men and singing women. 68 Their horses were 736, their mules 245,[f] 69 their camels 435, and their donkeys 6,720.
70 Some of the family heads contributed to the work. The governor gave the treasury 1,000 gold darics (about 18½ pounds of gold),[g] 50 bowls, and 530 priestly garments. 71 Some of the family heads gave the treasury for the work 20,000 gold darics (about 370 pounds of gold)[h] and about 1⅓ tons of silver.[i] 72 And what the rest of the people gave was 20,000 gold darics (about 370 pounds of gold), about 1¼ tons of silver,[j] and 67 priests' garments.
73 The priests, Levites, gatekeepers, singers, some of the people, the temple servants, and all the rest of Israel settled in their own towns. When the seventh month (September–October)[k] arrived, the Israelites were living in their towns.

Notes

- a (7:3) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has "and he said."
- b (7:5) Verses 6–73 repeat Ezra 2:1–70 with many small differences in names and numbers.
- c (7:7) Ezra 2:2 has Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mispar, and Rehum for Azariah, Raamiah, Mispereth, and Nehum, and lacks Nahamani.
- d (7:52) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Nephushsim.
- e (7:65) Hebrew Tirshatha, a Persian title, perhaps "His Excellency." See Ezra 2:63.
- f (7:68) This verse is lacking in most Hebrew manuscripts; it is supplied from some manuscripts and from Ezra 2:66. As a result, verses 69–73 in this translation are numbered 68–72 in the Hebrew.
- g (7:70) Hebrew darkemonim, the Persian gold daric (or perhaps the Greek drachma). A daric weighed about 0.3 ounce (8.4 grams), so 1,000 darics weighed about 8.4 kilograms.
- h (7:71) That is, about 168 kilograms.
- i (7:71) Hebrew "2,200 minas of silver." A mina was about 1¼ pounds (575 grams), so 2,200 minas is about 2,750 pounds (1,265 kilograms).
- j (7:72) Hebrew "2,000 minas of silver," about 2,500 pounds (1,150 kilograms).
- k (7:73) Hebrew "the seventh month," Tishri, which fell in September–October; here the autumn of 445 BC.

Chapter 8

1 All the people assembled together in the square in front of the Water Gate. They asked Ezra the scribe to bring out the Book of the Law of Moses, which Yahweh had given to Israel.[a] 2 So on the first day of the seventh month (September–October),[b] Ezra the priest brought the Law before the assembly of men and women and everyone able to understand what they heard. 3 He read in it before the square in front of the Water Gate from first light until midday, before the men and women and all who could understand; and all the people listened closely to the Book of the Law. 4 Ezra the scribe stood on a wooden platform[c] made for this purpose. Beside him on his right stood Mattithiah, Shema, Anaiah, Uriah, Hilkiah, and Maaseiah; and on his left stood Pedaiah, Mishael, Malchijah, Hashum, Hashbaddanah, Zechariah, and Meshullam. 5 And Ezra opened the book in the sight of all the people, for he was above all the people, and as he opened it all the people stood. 6 And Ezra blessed Yahweh, the great God, and all the people answered, "Amen, Amen," lifting up their hands. And they bowed their heads and worshiped Yahweh with their faces to the ground. 7 Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, and Pelaiah—the Levites —were explaining the Law to the people, as the people stood in their places. 8 They read in the book, in the Law of God, distinctly,[d] and they gave the meaning, and made the reading understood.
9 Then Nehemiah the governor,[e] Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites who were teaching the people told everyone, "This day is holy to Yahweh your God. Do not mourn or weep." The people had all been weeping as they heard the words of the Law. 10 Nehemiah said,
"Go and enjoy rich food and sweet drinks, and send some to anyone who has nothing ready, since this day is holy to our Lord.[f] Do not be sad, for the joy of Yahweh is your strength." 11 The Levites, too, were quieting all the people and saying, "Hush, for the day is holy;
do not grieve." 12 Then all the people went off to eat and drink, to send portions to others, and to celebrate with great joy, because they had grasped the words that were explained to them.

13 On the second day, the heads of families from among all the people, together with the priests and Levites, gathered around Ezra the scribe to study the words of the Law. 14 And they found it written in the Law that Yahweh had commanded by Moses that the sons of Israel should dwell in booths during the feast of the seventh month,[g] 15 and that they were to announce and spread the word through all their towns and in Jerusalem: "Go out to the hill country and fetch boughs of olive and of wild olive, of myrtle and palm and other leafy trees, to make booths, as it is written." 16 So the people went out and brought branches and built themselves booths, each on his own roof, in their courtyards, in the courtyards of God's house, and in the squares by the Water Gate and the Gate of Ephraim. 17 So the whole assembly who had come back from the captivity made booths and dwelt in them; for since the days of Jeshua[h] son of Nun until that day the sons of Israel had not done it. And the joy was exceedingly great. 18 And day by day, from the first day to the last day, he read from the Book of the Law of God. They kept the feast seven days, and on the eighth day there was a solemn assembly, according to the rule.

Notes

- a (8:1) Nehemiah 7:73b–8:12 is retold in the Greek book 1 Esdras (9:37–55), which ends with this scene.
- b (8:2) Hebrew "the first day of the seventh month," the day of trumpet blasts (Leviticus 23:24), which later became the Jewish New Year (Rosh Hashanah).
- c (8:4) Hebrew "a tower of wood."
- d (8:8) Or "with interpretation," perhaps meaning that the Hebrew was explained or translated into Aramaic, the everyday language of the time.
- e (8:9) Hebrew Tirshatha, a Persian title; see Ezra 2:63.
- f (8:10) Hebrew Adonai.
- g (8:14) See Leviticus 23:33–43. The Feast of Booths (Sukkot, or Tabernacles) began on the fifteenth day of the seventh month (September–October).
- h (8:17) Jeshua is a later form of the name Joshua.

Chapter 9

1 On the twenty-fourth day of this month (in September–October)[a]
the sons of Israel gathered, fasting, wearing sackcloth, with dust upon them. 2 And the offspring of Israel separated themselves from all foreigners and stood and confessed their sins and the iniquities of their fathers. 3 And they stood up in their place and read from the Book of the Law of Yahweh their God for about three hours;[b] for another three hours they made confession and worshiped Yahweh their God.

4 On the stairs of the Levites stood Jeshua, Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, and they called out loudly to Yahweh their God. 5 Then the Levites, Jeshua, Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah, said, "Stand up and bless Yahweh your God from everlasting to everlasting. Blessed be your glorious name, which is exalted above all blessing and praise.
6 "You alone are Yahweh.[c] You made the heavens, even the highest heavens, with all their host; the earth and everything on it; the seas and everything in them. You give life to all of them, and the host of heaven bows down to you. 7 You are Yahweh God, who chose Abram, brought him out from Ur of the Chaldeans, and named him Abraham.[d] 8 You found his heart faithful toward you and cut a covenant with him to give the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Jebusites, and Girgashites—to give it to his seed. And you have fulfilled your words, because you are righteous.
9 "And you saw the affliction of our fathers in Egypt and heard their cry at the Red Sea,[e] 10 You gave signs and wonders against Pharaoh, against all his servants, and against all the people of his land, for you knew how proudly they dealt with them; and you made yourself a name that remains to this day. 11 And you divided the sea before them, so that they went through the midst of the sea on dry land, and you cast their pursuers into the depths, as a stone into mighty waters. 12 By a pillar of cloud you led them by day, and by a pillar of fire by night, to light for them the way in which they should go. 13 You came down on Mount Sinai and spoke with them from heaven. You gave them just rulings and true laws, and good decrees and commands. 14 You made your holy Sabbath known to them, and through your servant Moses you gave them commands, decrees, and a law. 15 When they were hungry you gave them bread from heaven, and when they were thirsty you brought them water from the rock. You told them to go in and take over the land you had promised with an oath to give them.

16 “But they, our fathers, behaved proudly; they hardened their necks and would not listen to your commandments. 17 They would not listen;
they did not call to mind your wonders that you had done among them, but hardened their necks and in their rebellion set up a head to go back to their bondage.[f] But you are a God of pardons, gracious and compassionate, long-suffering and great in steadfast love,[g] and you did not abandon them. 18 Even when they cast for themselves an image of a calf and said, ‘This is your God, who brought you up out of Egypt,’ and committed terrible blasphemies, 19 you did not abandon them in the desert, because of your great compassion. By day the pillar of cloud did not leave them but guided them on their path, and by night the pillar of fire lit up the way they were to go. 20 You gave your good Spirit to teach them. You did not hold back your manna from their mouths, and you gave them water when they were thirsty. 21 For forty years you fed them in the wilderness; they wanted for nothing. Their garments did not wear out, and their feet did not swell. 22 You gave them kingdoms and peoples and parceled them out as a border.[h] They took the land of Sihon—that is,[i] the land of the king of Heshbon—and the land of Og king of Bashan as their own. 23 You made their sons as many as the stars of the sky, and you brought them into the land of which you had told their fathers that they would go in to possess it.
24 So their descendants entered and took possession of the land. You subdued the Canaanites who lived there and handed them over to your people, along with their kings and the peoples of the land, to deal with as they wished. 25 They took strong cities and fertile ground, and came to own houses filled with every good thing, cisterns dug out, vineyards, olive groves, and fruit trees in plenty. They ate, were satisfied, grew fat, and reveled in your great goodness.
26 “Yet they disobeyed and rebelled against you; they threw your law behind their backs and killed your prophets, who testified against them to bring them back to you; and they committed great contempt.
27 So you handed them over to their foes, who oppressed them. In their time of distress they cried to you, and you heard from heaven, and in your great compassion you gave them saviors to save them out of the hand of their foes. 28 Yet as soon as they had relief, they went back to doing evil before you. So you abandoned them to their enemies, who ruled over them. Again they cried out to you, and from heaven you heard and delivered them, time after time, in your compassion.

29 You testified against them to bring them back to your law, but they acted proudly and would not listen to your commandments; they sinned against your ordinances, by which a man who does them shall live.[j] They turned away a defiant shoulder, hardened their necks, and would not listen. 30 For many years you put up with them and warned them by your Spirit through your prophets, but they would not pay attention. So you gave them into the hands of the peoples around them. 31 Yet in your abundant compassion you did not make a full end of them or abandon them, for you are a God gracious and compassionate.
32 "And now, our God, great, mighty, and awesome God, who keeps covenant and faithful love: do not let all the hardship that has come on us seem small to you, on our kings, our officials, our priests, our prophets, our ancestors, and all your people, from the time of the kings of Assyria until today. 33 You are in the right in all that has come on us; you have acted in faithfulness, while we have done wickedly.
34 Our kings, our officials, our priests, and our fathers have not done your law, nor heeded your commandments and the testimonies with which you warned them. 35 In their kingdom, with the great goodness you gave them, and in the broad and fertile land you put before them, they did not serve you, nor did they turn back from their evil deeds. 36 Look—today we are slaves, slaves in the very land you gave our fathers to eat its fruit and its good things. 37 Its plentiful harvest belongs to the kings whom you set over us because of our sins; they have power over our bodies and our cattle at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.
38 "For all this we are making a sure agreement and writing it, and on the sealed copy are our officials, our Levites, and our priests."[k]

Notes

- a (9:1) Hebrew "the twenty-fourth day of this month," the seventh month, Tishri, two days after the close of the Feast of Booths.

- b (9:3) Hebrew “a quarter of the day.” The daylight hours were about twelve, so a quarter was about three hours.
- c (9:6) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a shorter spelling of “you.” The Septuagint begins the verse “And Ezra said.”
- d (9:7) Abram means “exalted father”; Abraham was understood as “father of a multitude” (Genesis 17:5).
- e (9:9) Hebrew Yam Suph, “Sea of Reeds.”
- f (9:17) So the traditional Hebrew text. Some Hebrew manuscripts and the Septuagint read “in Egypt,” that is, “set up a head to return to their bondage in Egypt” (compare Numbers 14:4).
- g (9:17) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has “and steadfast love.”
- h (9:22) Or “allotted them as a boundary.”
- i (9:22) Or “and.”
- j (9:29) See Leviticus 18:5.
- k (9:38) In the Hebrew text this verse is 10:1, and 10:1–39 is numbered 10:2–40.

Chapter 10

1 On the seals were the names of[a] Nehemiah the governor, the son of Hacaliah, and Zedekiah, 2 Seraiah, Azariah, and Jeremiah, 3 Pashhur, Amariah, and Malchijah, 4 Hattush, Shebaniah, and Malluch, 5 Harim, Meremoth, and Obadiah, 6 Daniel, Ginnethon, and Baruch, 7 Meshullam, Abijah, and Mijamin, 8 Maaziah, Bilgai, and Shemaiah. These were the priests. 9 And the Levites: Jeshua son of Azaniah, Binnui of the sons of Henadad, Kadmiel; 10 and their relatives Shebaniah, Hodiah, Kelita, Pelaiah, and Hanan, 11 Mica, Rehob, and Hashabiah, 12 Zaccur, Sherebiah, and Shebaniah, 13 Hodiah, Bani, and Beninu. 14
The leaders of the people: Parosh, Pahath-moab, Elam, Zattu, and Bani, 15 Bunni, Azgad, and Bebai, 16 Adonijah, Bigvai, and Adin, 17
Ater, Hezekiah, and Azzur, 18 Hodiah, Hashum, and Bezai, 19 Hariph, Anathoth, and Nebai,[b] 20 Magpiash, Meshullam, and Hezir, 21 Meshez-abel, Zadok, and Jaddua, 22 Pelatiah, Hanan, and Anaiah, 23 Hoshea, Hananiah, and Hasshub, 24 Hallohesh, Pilha, and Shobek, 25 Rehum, Hashabnah, and Maaseiah, 26 Ahiah, Hanan, and Anan, 27 Malluch, Harim, and Baanah.

28 The rest of the people, including the priests, Levites, gatekeepers, singers, temple servants, and all who had separated themselves from the surrounding peoples to follow the Law of God, along with their wives and all their sons and daughters who were old enough to understand, 29 they hold fast with their brothers, their nobles, and come under a curse and an oath to walk in the Law of God given through Moses, God's servant, and to keep and perform every commandment of Yahweh our Lord,[c] with his ordinances and statutes. 30 We will not give our daughters to the peoples of the land or take their daughters for our sons. 31 If the peoples of the land bring wares or grain of any sort on the day of the Sabbath to sell, we will buy none of it from them on a Sabbath or holy day. We will also let the seventh year lie fallow and give up the claim on every debt.[d]

32 We also accept the responsibility of giving each year an eighth of an ounce of silver[e] toward the service of the house of our God: 33 for the bread of the Presence, for the continual grain offering and the continual burnt offering, for the Sabbaths, new moons, and set feasts, for the holy offerings and the sin offerings that make atonement for Israel, and for every task of the house of our God. 34 We have also cast lots among the priests, Levites, and people for the wood offering, to bring it to the house of our God at set times each year, by our family groups, to burn on the altar of Yahweh our God, as the Law prescribes. 35 We obligate ourselves to bring the firstfruits of our ground and the firstfruits of all fruit of every tree, year by year, to the house of Yahweh; 36 also to bring to the house of our God, to the priests who minister in the house of our God, the firstborn of our sons and of our livestock, as it is written in the Law, and the firstborn of our herds and of our flocks; 37 We will also bring the first batch of our dough[f] and our contributions, the fruit of every kind of tree, the new wine, and the oil to the priests, at the storerooms of the house of our God, and a tenth of our crops to the Levites, since the Levites collect the tithes in all the towns where we work the soil. 38 A priest, a descendant of Aaron, is to be with the Levites when they collect the tithes, and the Levites are to take a tenth of those tithes up to the house of our God, to the rooms of the storehouse. 39 For into the storerooms the sons of Israel and the sons of Levi are to bring the contribution of grain, new wine, and oil; there are the holy vessels, and the priests who serve, the gatekeepers, and the singers. We will not forsake the house of our God.

Notes

- a (10:1) Hebrew "Upon the sealed ones (were)."
- b (10:19) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Nobai.
- c (10:29) Hebrew Adonai, with the suffix "our."
- d (10:31) See Exodus 23:10–11; Deuteronomy 15:1–2.
- e (10:32) Hebrew "a third of a shekel," about ⅛ ounce (4 grams). Exodus 30:13 had required half a shekel.
- f (10:37) Or "dough."

Chapter 11

1 The leaders of the people settled in Jerusalem, and the rest of the people cast lots so that one in ten would come to dwell in Jerusalem the holy city and nine in ten in the towns. 2 And the people blessed all the men who willingly offered to live in Jerusalem.

3 These are the heads of the province who lived in Jerusalem; but in the towns of Judah each lived on his own property in their towns: Israel, the priests, the Levites, the temple servants, and the sons of Solomon's servants.[a] 4 Some of the people of Judah and Benjamin lived in Jerusalem. From Judah: Athaiah son of Uzziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalalel, a descendant of Perez; 5 and Maaseiah son of Baruch, son of Col-hozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, son of the Shilonite.[b] 6 All the sons of Perez who lived in Jerusalem were 468 valiant men.

7 And these are the sons of Benjamin: Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiah, 8 and after him Gabbai and Sallai,[c] 928. 9 Joel son of Zichri was overseer over them, and Judah son of Hassenuah was second in charge over the city.

10 Of the priests: Jedaiah son of Joiarib, Jachin, 11 Seraiah, son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, the official in charge of God's house, 12 and their brothers who did the work of the house, 822; and Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, 13 with his brothers, heads of fathers' houses, 242; and Amashsai son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer, 14 and their brothers, valiant warriors, 128. Their overseer was Zabdiel son of Haggedolim.[d]

15 And of the Levites: Shemaiah son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni; 16 Shabbethai and Jozabad, from the heads of the Levites, over the outer work for the house of God; 17 Mattaniah son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, the leader who started the thanksgiving prayer; Bakbukiah, who ranked second among his relatives; and Abda son of Shammua, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun.[e] 18 All the Levites in the holy city were 284.

19 The gatekeepers, Akkub, Talmon, and their brothers, who kept watch at the gates, were 172. 20 And the rest of Israel, and of the priests and the Levites, were in all the towns of Judah, each in his inheritance. 21 But the temple servants lived on the Ophel; and Ziha and Gishpa were over the temple servants.

22 The chief officer of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica, from the descendants of Asaph, the singers responsible for the service of God's house. 23 For there was a command from the king concerning them, and a settled provision for the singers, as each day required. 24 And Pethahiah son of Meshezabel, of the sons of Zerah son of Judah, was at the king's hand[f] in all matters concerning the people.

25 As for the villages with their fields, some of the people of Judah lived in Kiriath-arba[g] and its surrounding villages,[h] in Dibon and its villages, and in Jekabzeel and its villages, 26 and in Jeshua and in Moladah and Beth-pelet, 27 in Hazar-shual, in Beersheba and its villages, 28 in Ziklag, in Meconah and its villages, 29 in En-rimmon, in Zorah, in Jarmuth, 30 Zanoah, Adullam, and their villages; Lachish with its fields; and Azekah with its villages. They settled from Beersheba all the way to the Valley of Hinnom. 31 The Benjaminites lived from Geba onward,[i] in Michmash, Aija, and Bethel with its villages, 32 Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, 33 Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim, 34 Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat, 35 Lod, and Ono, the valley of craftsmen.[j] 36 And certain divisions of the Levites that were in Judah were joined to Benjamin.

Notes

- a (11:3) The list in verses 3–19 has a close parallel in 1 Chronicles 9:2–17, with many differences.
- b (11:5) Or "of the Shelanite," a descendant of Shelah son of Judah (Numbers 26:20).
- c (11:8) The Hebrew is uncertain; some read "and his brothers, valiant men."
- d (11:14) Or "son of the great ones," that is, of a leading family.
- e (11:17) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Jedithun.
- f (11:24) That is, the king's agent or adviser for the affairs of the Jews.
- g (11:25) The older name of Hebron (Genesis 23:2), "town of four" or "town of Arba."
- h (11:25) Hebrew "daughters." Likewise in verses 27, 28, 30, and 31.
- i (11:31) Or "The sons of Benjamin from Geba lived at Michmash…."
- j (11:35) Hebrew Ge-harashim.

Chapter 12

1 These are the priests and Levites who came up with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and with Jeshua: Seraiah, Jeremiah, and Ezra, 2 Amariah, Malluch, and Hattush, 3 Shecaniah, Rehum, and Meremoth, 4 Iddo, Ginnethoi, and Abijah, 5 Mijamin, Maadiah, and Bilgah, 6 Shemaiah, Joiarib, and Jedaiah, 7 Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, and Jedaiah. These were the leaders of the priests and their fellow priests in the time of Jeshua.
8 The Levites were Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, and Mattaniah; he and his brothers had charge of the thanksgiving songs.
9 Bakbukiah and Unni,[a] their brothers, stood across from them by divisions.[b]
10 Jeshua fathered Joiakim; Joiakim fathered Eliashib; and Eliashib fathered Joiada; 11 Joiada fathered Jonathan; and Jonathan fathered Jaddua.[c]
12 And in the days of Joiakim were priests, heads of fathers' houses:
of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah; 13 of Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan; 14 of Melicu,[d] Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joseph; 15 of Harim, Adna; of Meraioth, Helkai; 16 of Iddo,[e] Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meshullam; 17 of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin,[f] of Moadiah, Piltai; 18 of Bilgah, Shammua; of Shemaiah, Jehonathan; 19 of Joiarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi; 20 of Sallai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber; 21 of Hilkiah, Hashabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethanel.
22 As for the Levites in the days of Eliashib, Joiada, Johanan, and Jaddua, heads of fathers' houses were written down, and the priests

as well, up to the reign of Darius the Persian.[g] 23 The family heads of the descendants of Levi were recorded in the Book of the Chronicles up to the time of Johanan son of Eliashib. 24 The leaders of the Levites were Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeshua son of Kadmiel, along with their fellow Levites, who stood opposite them to give praise and thanks, one group answering the other, as David the man of God had commanded. 25 Mattaniah, Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, and Akkub were gatekeepers who guarded the storerooms at the gates. 26 These were in the days of Joiakim son of Jeshua, son of Jozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah the governor and of Ezra the priest, the scribe.
27 For the dedication of Jerusalem's wall they searched out the Levites wherever they lived and brought them to Jerusalem to keep the dedication joyfully, with songs of thanks and with music on cymbals, harps, and lyres. 28 And the sons of the singers gathered together from the surrounding district around Jerusalem and from the villages of the Netophathites, 29 and from Beth-gilgal and the fields of Geba and Azmaveth, since the singers had made villages for themselves around Jerusalem. 30 And the priests and the Levites purified themselves, and they purified the people and the gates and the wall.
31 I had the officials of Judah go up on top of the wall, and I set two large thanksgiving choirs in procession. One went along the top of the wall southward,[h] toward the Dung Gate; 32 And after them went Hoshaiah and half of the leaders of Judah, 33 and Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam, 34 Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, and Jeremiah, 35 and some of the priests' sons with trumpets: Zechariah son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph; 36 and his brothers, Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, and Hanani, with the musical instruments of David the man of God. And Ezra the scribe went before them. 37 At the Fountain Gate they climbed straight up the steps of the City of David, on the rising part of the wall above David's palace, and went on to the Water Gate on the east.
38 The second thanksgiving choir went northward,[i] with me following and half the people, on top of the wall, beyond the Tower of the Ovens to the Broad Wall, 39 over the Gate of Ephraim, past the Old Gate,[j] by the Fish Gate and Hananel's Tower and the Tower of the Hundred, to the Sheep Gate; and they took their stand at the Gate of the Guard. 40 So both choirs that gave thanks stood in the house of God, and I and half of the officials with me; 41 and the priests Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah, with trumpets; 42 and Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malchijah, Elam, and Ezer. And the singers sang aloud, with Jezrahiah as their leader. 43 On that day they offered great sacrifices and rejoiced, because God had given them great joy. The women and children rejoiced too, and the sound of Jerusalem's celebration was heard far away.

44 On that day men were appointed over the storerooms for the contributions, the firstfruits, and the tithes. They were to gather into them, from the fields around the towns, the portions required by the Law for the priests and Levites, because the people of Judah were pleased with the priests and Levites who served. 45 They performed the charge of their God and the charge of cleansing, and so did the singers and gatekeepers, as David and Solomon his son had commanded. 46 For in David's day, and Asaph's, long before, there were chiefs[k] over the singers, and songs of praise and thanks to God. 47 And all Israel in the days of Zerubbabel and in the days of Nehemiah gave the portions for the singers and the gatekeepers, as each day required. And they set apart that which was for the Levites, and the Levites set apart that which was for the sons of Aaron.

Notes

- a (12:9) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Unno.
- b (12:9) Or "by watches"; Hebrew "for watches."
- c (12:11) Jaddua was high priest about 330 BC, according to Josephus. The Jonathan of this verse is probably the Johanan of verses 22–23 (see the Elephantine papyri, which name a high priest Johanan about 410 BC).
- d (12:14) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Malluchi. Compare Malluch in verse 2.
- e (12:16) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Iddi.
- f (12:17) A name seems to have dropped out of the Hebrew text here.

- g (12:22) Probably Darius II, king of Persia 423–404 BC, though some think of Darius III (336–330 BC).
- h (12:31) Hebrew "to the right," that is, to the south for one facing east.
- i (12:38) Hebrew "to the front," perhaps "opposite"; the Septuagint and other ancient versions read "to the left," that is, to the north.
- j (12:39) Or "the Jeshanah Gate"; see 3:6.
- k (12:46) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has the singular, "a head."

Chapter 13

1 On that day the Book of Moses was read aloud to the people, and in it they found it written that an Ammonite or a Moabite must never come into the assembly of God, 2 because they had not met the Israelites with food and water, but had hired Balaam to curse them.
Yet our God turned the curse into a blessing.[a] 3 When the people heard the Law, they set apart from Israel everyone of foreign mixture.
4 Now before this, Eliashib the priest, who was appointed over the chambers of the house of our God, and who was related to Tobiah, 5 had made ready for him a great room, where before they used to store the grain offering, the frankincense, and the vessels, with the tithe of grain, new wine, and oil commanded for the Levites, singers, and gatekeepers, and the contributions due the priests. 6 I was not in Jerusalem while all this was happening, because in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon[b] I had gone back to the king. Some time later I asked the king for leave 7 When I came to Jerusalem I learned of the wrong Eliashib had done for Tobiah in fitting out a room for him in the courts of God's house. 8 It displeased me deeply, and I flung all of Tobiah's household goods out of the room. 9 At my command they purified the rooms, and I put back in them the vessels of God's house along with the grain offering and the frankincense.
10 I also learned that the Levites had not been given their share, so that the Levites and singers who did the work had each gone back to his own farm. 11 I rebuked the officials and asked, "Why has the house of God been neglected?" Then I gathered the Levites and singers and restored them to their posts. 12 And all Judah brought in the tithe of grain, new wine, and oil to the storerooms. 13 Over the storerooms

I put in charge Shelemiah the priest, Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah from the Levites, with Hanan son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah, to help them, since they were counted trustworthy; it fell to them to hand out shares to their brothers. 14 Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and do not wipe out my good deeds that I have done for the house of my God and for its services.

15 In those days I saw men in Judah treading the winepresses on the Sabbath, bringing in sheaves and loading donkeys with them, and with wine, grapes, figs, and every sort of burden, bringing them into Jerusalem on the Sabbath day. And I testified against them on the day they sold provisions. 16 Tyrians who lived there also brought in fish and every kind of merchandise and sold it on the Sabbath to the people of Judah, even in Jerusalem. 17 Then I confronted the nobles of Judah and said to them, "What is this evil thing that you are doing, profaning the Sabbath day? 18 Is this not what your fathers did, so that our God brought all this evil on us and on this city? And you add to the wrath on Israel by profaning the Sabbath!"

19 When the gates of Jerusalem grew shadowed before the Sabbath, I gave word and the doors were shut, and I ordered that they not be opened until the Sabbath was over. I set some of my young men over the gates so that no burden would come in on the Sabbath day. 20 The traders and the sellers of all sorts of wares then lodged outside Jerusalem, once and twice. 21 But I warned them and said to them, "Why are you lodging in front of the wall? If you do so again, I will lay hands on you." From that time on they did not come on the Sabbath. 22 And I told the Levites to purify themselves and come to keep the gates, so as to hallow the Sabbath day. For this, too, remember me, my God, and have pity on me as befits your abundant steadfast love.

23 In those days also I saw the Jews who had married women of Ashdod, Ammon, and Moab.[c] 24 Half of their children spoke Ashdodite, and none of them knew how to speak Judean,[d] only the tongue of one people or another. 25 I contended with them and cursed them; I struck some of the men and tore out their hair, and I put them under oath by God: "Do not give your daughters to their sons, and do not take any of their daughters for your sons or yourselves. 26 Didn't Solomon king of Israel sin because of women like these? Among the many nations there was no king like him. He was loved by his God, and God made him king over all Israel. Yet even he was drawn into sin by foreign women.[e] 27 And must we hear of you doing all this great evil, being faithless to our God by marrying foreign women?" 28 One of the sons of Joiada son of Eliashib the high priest was son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite, so I drove him away from me. 29 Remember them, O my God, because they have defiled the priesthood and the covenant of the priesthood and the Levites.

30 So I purified them from everything foreign and set up the duties for the priests and the Levites, each man in his task, 31 and I provided for the wood offering at appointed times, and for the firstfruits. Remember me, O my God, for good.

Notes

- a (13:2) See Deuteronomy 23:3–5; Numbers 22–24.
- b (13:6) That is, in 433–432 BC. The Persian king also bore the title king of Babylon.
- c (13:23) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) spells "Ashdodite" and "Ammonite" slightly differently.
- d (13:24) Hebrew "Jewish" (yehudit), the language of Judah, that is, Hebrew; compare 2 Kings 18:26.
- e (13:26) See 1 Kings 11:1–8.

Esther

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 It happened in the days of Ahasuerus[a]—this is the Ahasuerus who reigned from India as far as Cush,[b] over 127 provinces— 2 in those days, as King Ahasuerus was seated upon the throne of his kingdom, which was in Susa the citadel,[c] 3 in the third year of his rule[d] he gave a banquet for all his officials and attendants. Persia's and Media's military leaders, the nobles,[e] and the provincial governors were in his presence, 4 when for many days—180 days[f]—he made a show of the wealth of his glorious kingdom and the precious splendor of his greatness.
5 When these days were completed, the king held for all the people who were found in Susa the citadel, from great to small, a feast of seven days in the court of the garden of the king's palace. 6 There were hangings of white cotton and violet, held by cords of fine linen and purple to silver rings and pillars of marble; couches of gold and silver stood on a pavement of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl, and costly stone.[g] 7 Drinks were served in vessels of gold, the vessels each different from the other, and royal wine was plentiful, as befitted the king's bounty.[h] 8 And the drinking was by rule: no one was compelled, for so the king had ordered every officer of his household, to do as each man wished. 9 Queen Vashti[i] also held a feast for the women in the royal house that belonged to King Ahasuerus.
10 On the seventh day, when the king's heart was merry with wine,
he told Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha and Abagtha, Zethar and Carkas, the seven eunuchs[j] who served in the presence of King Ahasuerus, 11 to bring Queen Vashti before the king wearing the royal crown,[k] to show the peoples and the officials her beauty, for she was lovely to look at. 12 But Queen Vashti refused to come at the king's word sent by the eunuchs. Then the king was very angry, and his wrath burned within him.

13 So the king spoke to the wise men who knew the times—for this was the king's practice before all who knew law and judgment; 14 those closest to him were Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan, the seven princes of Persia and Media, who saw the king's face and sat first in the kingdom— 15 "According to law, what must be done to Queen Vashti, since she did not carry out the order of King Ahasuerus brought by the eunuchs?" 16 Then Memucan[l] said before the king and the princes, "Not against the king alone has Queen Vashti done wrong, but against all the princes and all the peoples in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus.
17 For word of what the queen did will reach every woman, so that they will look with scorn on their husbands, saying, 'King Ahasuerus ordered Queen Vashti brought into his presence, and she would not come.' 18 This very day the noble ladies of Persia and Media who have heard of the queen's deed will speak of it to all the king's princes, and there will be contempt and wrath enough. 19 If it pleases the king, let a royal word go out from him and be written among the laws of Persia and Media, so that it cannot pass away, that Vashti is not to come before King Ahasuerus again; and let the king give her royal position to a companion of hers who is better than she. 20 So when the king's decree that he makes is heard throughout all his kingdom, vast as it is, all wives will give honor to their husbands, from great to small."
21 The word pleased the king and the princes, and the king did as Memucan said. 22 And he dispatched letters to every one of the king's provinces, each province in its writing and each people in its tongue, that every man should rule in his household and speak the tongue of his own people.[m]

Notes

- a (1:1) Ahasuerus is the Hebrew form of the Persian name Khshayarsha, known in Greek as Xerxes; this is Xerxes I, king of Persia 486–465 BC. The Hebrew book of Esther never names God; its story tells of providence without speaking of it. The Greek (Septuagint) form of Esther includes six longer passages, with prayers and letters, that are not in the Hebrew. This translation follows the Hebrew; those Greek Additions to Esther will be given with the Apocrypha.

- b (1:1) That is, from the Indus valley to the upper Nile (ancient Nubia, modern Sudan).
- c (1:2) Susa (Hebrew Shushan), the winter capital of the Persian kings, in what is now southwestern Iran. "The citadel" is the fortified royal quarter of the city.
- d (1:3) That is, 483 BC.
- e (1:3) Hebrew partemim, a Persian loanword for nobles or men of the first rank.
- f (1:4) About six months.
- g (1:6) The identification of several of these materials is uncertain. Hebrew karpas ("cotton") is a Persian loanword.
- h (1:7) Hebrew "according to the hand of the king."
- i (1:9) Vashti is probably a Persian name meaning "the desired" or "the best." Greek historians name Xerxes' queen as Amestris; the relation of the two is debated.
- j (1:10) Or "officials." Hebrew saris can mean a court officer in general, but in Persian courts it usually meant a eunuch. The names of the eunuchs and princes in this book are Persian.
- k (1:11) Hebrew keter, a turban-like crown, a Persian word found in the Bible only in Esther.
- l (1:16) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has Momucan.
- m (1:22) The meaning of the last clause is uncertain; perhaps that the husband's language was to be spoken in a household of mixed peoples.

Chapter 2

1 Some time later, once King Ahasuerus's fury had cooled, he thought of Vashti, of what she had done, and of the decision made about her.
2 Then the king's young men who attended him said, "Let young virgins of fair appearance be sought for the king. 3 Let the king also name officials throughout his empire to collect every attractive young virgin into the harem at the citadel of Susa, under the supervision of Hegai,[a] the king's eunuch who guards the women; and let them be given beauty treatments. 4 And the girl who is good in the king's eyes, let her be queen in place of Vashti." The word was good in the king's eyes, and he did so.
5 There was a Jewish man in Susa the citadel whose name was Mordecai,[b] son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a Benjaminite, 6 who had been carried away from Jerusalem with the exiles taken with Jeconiah king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had carried away.[c] 7 He was raising Hadassah,[d] that is, Esther, his uncle's daughter, because she had lost both parents. The young woman had a lovely figure and a beautiful face, and Mordecai took her in as his own daughter after her father and mother died.

8 So when the king's word and his decree were heard, and when many young women were gathered to Susa the citadel into the custody of Hegai, Esther also was taken into the king's house, into the custody of Hegai, keeper of the women. 9 The girl was good in his eyes and won his favor, and he quickly provided her cosmetics and her portions, and seven chosen young women from the king's house, and he moved her and her young women to the best place in the house of the women. 10 Esther had not revealed her people or her birth, because Mordecai had instructed her that she must not reveal it. 11 Day by day Mordecai would walk up and down before the court of the women's house to find out how Esther fared and what was being done with her.

12 Now when each girl's turn came to go in to King Ahasuerus, after she had been treated under the regulations for the women for twelve months—for so the days of their beautifying were completed: six months with oil of myrrh and six months with spices and the women's cosmetics— 13 then in this way the girl went in to the king: whatever she asked for was given her to take with her from the house of the women to the king's house. 14 She went in at evening, and at dawn she came back to a different women's quarters under the care of Shaashgaz,[e] the king's eunuch who guarded the concubines. She could not return to the king unless he had taken delight in her and called her by name.

15 Now when it came the turn of Esther—daughter of Abihail, Mordecai's uncle, whom Mordecai had taken as a daughter—to go in to the king, she requested nothing beyond what Hegai, the king's eunuch who kept the women, told her. And Esther found favor in the sight of everyone who looked at her. 16 So Esther was taken to King Ahasuerus, into his royal house, in the tenth month, which is the month of Tevet (December–January),[f] in the seventh year of his reign. 17 And the king loved Esther more than all the women, and she won grace and favor before him more than all the virgins, so that he set the royal crown on her head and made her queen in place of Vashti. 18

Then the king gave a huge banquet for all his officials and attendants in honor of Esther. He also proclaimed a tax holiday[g] for the provinces and handed out gifts in keeping with a king's generosity.
19 When the virgins were assembled a second time, Mordecai sat in the gate of the king.[h] 20 Esther had not made known her kindred or her people, just as Mordecai had commanded her, for Esther did what Mordecai said, just as when she was brought up by him.
21 During those days, as Mordecai sat in the gate of the king, two of the king's eunuchs who guarded the threshold, Bigthan and Teresh, grew angry and plotted to strike at King Ahasuerus. 22 Mordecai learned of it and informed Queen Esther, and Esther reported it to the king, giving Mordecai's name as her source. 23 When the matter was investigated and found to be so, the two of them were hanged on a pole.[i] And it was written in the book of the chronicles in the king's presence.

Notes

- a (2:3) Hegai is a Persian name; in verse 8 it is spelled Hege.
- b (2:5) Mordecai is a Babylonian name, related to that of the god Marduk. A Persian official named Marduka appears in tablets from Persepolis of this period.
- c (2:6) That is, in 597 BC (2 Kings 24:10–17). The one carried away may be Kish, Mordecai's great-grandfather, rather than Mordecai himself.
- d (2:7) Hadassah is Hebrew for "myrtle." Esther is probably from the Persian for "star," though some connect it with the Babylonian goddess Ishtar.
- e (2:14) A Persian name.
- f (2:16) That is, at the turn of 479 to 478 BC, four years after Vashti was put aside (1:3).
- g (2:18) Perhaps a remission of taxes, or a holiday.
- h (2:19) That is, he held an office at the royal court; the gate complex was the seat of government business.
- i (2:23) Hebrew "on a tree" or "on wood"; probably impaled or displayed on a stake, the Persian manner of execution. Likewise throughout the book.

Chapter 3

1 After these things King Ahasuerus promoted Haman the son of Hammedatha the Agagite,[a] and lifted him up, and set his seat above all the princes who were with him. 2 And all the king's servants who were at the king's gate would bow down and do homage to Haman, for the king had so commanded concerning him. But Mordecai would not bow down or do homage. 3 And the king's servants in the king's gate asked Mordecai, "Why are you disobeying the order of the king?" 4 When they had said this[b] to him every day, and he paid them no heed, they reported it to Haman, to find out whether Mordecai's claims would hold, for he had let them know he was a Jew. 5 When Haman noticed that Mordecai would not kneel or bow to him, he was seething with rage. 6 Yet he scorned to lay a hand on Mordecai by himself, since they had made known to him Mordecai's people; and Haman set out to wipe out all the Jews, Mordecai's people, in the entire realm of Ahasuerus.

7 In the first month, which is the month of Nisan (March–April), in the twelfth year of King Ahasuerus,[c] they cast Pur[d]—that is, the lot —before Haman, from day to day and from month to month, to the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar (February–March).[e] 8 Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, "There is a certain people scattered and dispersed among the peoples in all the provinces of your kingdom. Their laws differ from those of every people, and they do not keep the king's laws, so it is not worth the king's while to let them be. 9 If the king approves, let an order be written to destroy them, and I will pay about 375 tons of silver[f] to the officials in charge, to be deposited in the royal treasury." 10 So the king took his signet ring from his hand and gave it to Haman the son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the adversary of the Jews. 11 And the king said to Haman,
"The silver is given to you, the people also, to do with them as is good in your eyes."
12 The king's secretaries were summoned on the thirteenth day of the first month,[g] and an order was written exactly as Haman instructed, addressed to the king's satraps, to the governors of every province, and to the officials of every people, in each province's own writing and each people's own language. It was drafted in King Ahasuerus's name and stamped with the king's signet ring. 13 Letters were sent by the hands of couriers to all the king's provinces, to destroy, to kill, and to annihilate all the Jews, from young to old, children and women, on one day, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar (February–March),[h] and to plunder their goods. 14 A copy of the text was to be proclaimed as law in each province and displayed to every people, so that they would be prepared for that day. 15 The couriers went out in haste by the king's word, and the law was given out in Susa the citadel. And the king and Haman sat down to drink, but the city of Susa was in confusion.

Notes

- a (3:1) Haman and Hammedatha are probably Persian names. "Agagite" recalls Agag king of Amalek, the foe of Saul son of Kish (1 Samuel 15); Mordecai is of the line of Kish (2:5).
- b (3:4) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a slightly different form of the same verb.
- c (3:7) That is, 474 BC.
- d (3:7) Pur is a Babylonian (Akkadian) word, puru, "lot." Its plural, Purim, gives the festival its name (9:24–26).
- e (3:7) The Hebrew is brief; the Septuagint adds that the lot fell on the thirteenth day of Adar (see verse 13).
- f (3:9) Hebrew "10,000 talents," about 340 metric tons; a talent was about 75 pounds (34 kilograms). Herodotus reckons the yearly revenue of the whole Persian empire at about 15,000 talents.
- g (3:12) The thirteenth of Nisan, in March–April, the day before Passover (Leviticus 23:5).
- h (3:13) That is, eleven months later, in 473 BC.

Chapter 4

1 Mordecai knew everything that had been done. He tore his garments, clothed himself in sackcloth and ashes, and went out through the city, crying a great and bitter cry. 2 He came only as far as before the gate of the king, since none might come within the gate of the king dressed in sackcloth. 3 And in every province, wherever the king's word and his law reached, there was great mourning among the Jews, with fasting and weeping and lamenting; many lay in sackcloth and ashes.

4 Esther's maids and eunuchs came and reported it to her, and the queen was in deep distress. She sent clothes for Mordecai to wear in place of his sackcloth, but he refused them. 5 So Esther summoned Hathach,[a] one of the king's eunuchs who had been assigned to serve her, and sent him to Mordecai to find out what was wrong and why.

6 Hathach went out to Mordecai, to the city square before the gate of the king. 7 And Mordecai told him all that had happened to him, and the exact sum of silver that Haman had promised to weigh out into the king's treasuries for the Jews,[b] to destroy them. 8 He also gave him a copy of the written law that had been given out in Susa for their destruction, to show it to Esther and explain it to her, and to charge her to go in to the king to plead with him and make request before him for her people.
9 Hathach came and told Esther the words of Mordecai. 10 Then Esther spoke to Hathach and gave him a message for Mordecai: 11 "Every royal official and every person in the provinces knows that anyone, man or woman, who approaches the king in the inner court without an invitation faces a single penalty: death, unless the king extends his golden scepter to spare that person's life. And I have not been invited into the king's presence for thirty days." 12 And they told Mordecai Esther's words.
13 Then Mordecai said to reply to Esther, "Do not imagine in your soul that in the king's house you will escape, more than all the Jews. 14 If you hold your peace at such a time as this, relief and rescue will rise up for the Jews from some other place,[c] while you and your father's family will be lost. And who knows if you have not reached the throne for just such a time?"
15 Then Esther said to reply to Mordecai, 16 "Go and assemble all the Jews to be found in Susa, and fast on my behalf; neither eat nor drink for three days, night and day. My maids and I will fast in the same way. Then I will go in to the king, which is not by the law. And if I am lost, I am lost." 17 So Mordecai went away and did everything Esther had commanded him.

Notes

- a (4:5) A Persian name.
- b (4:7) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) spells "the Jews" with an extra letter (hayyehudiyyim). The same difference occurs at 8:1, 8:7, 8:13, 9:15, and 9:18.
- c (4:14) Many interpreters, Jewish and Christian, have seen in "another place" a veiled reference to God, whom the book never names.

Chapter 5

1 On the third day Esther put on her royal robes and stood in the inner court of the king's house, opposite the king's house, while the king was sitting on his royal throne in the royal house, opposite the entrance of the house. 2 And when the king saw Queen Esther standing in the court, she won favor in his eyes, and the king held out to Esther the golden scepter that was in his hand. Then Esther drew near and touched the tip of the scepter. 3 The king asked her, "What is troubling you, Queen Esther? What do you want? Even if it is half my kingdom, you will have it." 4 Esther said, "If it pleases the king, let the king and Haman come today to the feast that I have prepared for him." 5 Then the king said, "Bring Haman quickly, to do as Esther has said." So the king and Haman came to the feast that Esther had prepared.
6 While they were drinking wine, the king asked Esther again, "What is your wish? You will have it. What do you want? Even half the kingdom will be granted." 7 Then Esther answered and said, "My petition and my request is this: 8 if the king looks on me with favor, and if it pleases him to grant my wish and fulfill my request, may the king and Haman come to a banquet that I will arrange for them;
tomorrow I will tell the king what I want." 9 That day Haman left in high spirits, cheerful of heart. But when he saw Mordecai at the palace gate, neither standing up nor flinching
in his presence, Haman was seething with anger at Mordecai. 10 Yet Haman held himself in check and went home, and he sent and brought his friends and Zeresh[a] his wife. 11 And Haman recounted to them the glory of his riches, the number of his sons, and all the ways the king had promoted him, and how he had lifted him up above the princes and the servants of the king. 12 And Haman went on, "Even Queen Esther brought nobody else besides me with the king to the feast she had made; and tomorrow, too, I am called to her with the king. 13 But none of this satisfies me, as long as I keep seeing Mordecai the Jew seated in the gate of the king." 14 Then Zeresh his wife and all his friends said to him, "Let a pole be made, 75 feet[b] high, and in the morning speak to the king, and let them hang Mordecai on it. Then go in merrily with the king to the feast." The word pleased Haman, and he had the pole made.

Notes

- a (5:10) A Persian name.
- b (5:14) Hebrew "fifty cubits," about 23 meters.

Chapter 6

1 On that night the king's sleep fled, and he ordered the book of memorable deeds, the chronicles, to be brought, and they were read before the king. 2 There it was found written that Mordecai had reported on Bigthana and Teresh, two eunuchs of the king who guarded the threshold, who had plotted to strike at King Ahasuerus. 3 The king asked, "What reward or recognition did Mordecai receive for this?" The king's attendants answered, "Nothing has been done for him." 4 The king said, "Who is out in the courtyard?" At that moment Haman was walking into the palace's outer courtyard to ask the king whether Mordecai could be hanged on the stake he had set up for him. 5 And the king's young men said to him, "Look, Haman is standing in the court." And the king said, "Let him come in." 6 So Haman entered, and the king put this question to him: "What is the right treatment for a man whom the king wishes to honor?" Haman reasoned privately, "Surely he means me. Whom would the king wish to honor more?" 7 And Haman said to the king, "For the man whom the king delights to honor, 8 let royal garments be brought in which the king has been clothed, and a horse on which the king has ridden, with a royal crown set on its head.[a] 9 Then give the robe and horse into the care of one of the king's noblest officials, and have him dress the man the king wishes to honor and parade him on the horse through the city square, shouting before him, 'So the king rewards the man he delights to honor!'" 10 Then the king said to Haman, "Hurry, take the clothing and the horse, as you have said, and do so to Mordecai the Jew who sits at the king's gate. Let nothing fall short of all that you have spoken." 11 So Haman took the robe and the horse, dressed Mordecai, and led him on the horse through the city square, shouting before him, "So the king rewards the man he delights to honor!"

12 Then Mordecai returned to the king's gate. But Haman hurried to his house, mourning, with his head covered. 13 Haman told his wife Zeresh and all his friends everything that had happened to him. His advisers and his wife Zeresh said to him, "If Mordecai, in front of whom your fall has begun, is of Jewish descent, you cannot defeat him; you are certain to be ruined before him." 14 They were still talking with him when the king's eunuchs came and hastily brought Haman to Esther's feast.

Notes

- a (6:8) Persian reliefs show royal horses with a crested headdress. Or "and on whose head a royal crown has been set," referring to the man.

Chapter 7

1 So the king and Haman came in to drink with Queen Esther. 2 On that second day, over their wine, the king once more asked Esther,
"What is your wish, Queen Esther? You will have it. What do you want? Even half the kingdom will be granted." 3 Queen Esther replied,
"If I have won your favor, my king, and if it seems good to you, spare my life; that is my wish, and spare my people; that is my request. 4 For I and my people have been sold off for destruction, for slaughter, and for annihilation. If we had been sold for bondmen and bondwomen, I would have kept still; such distress would not be worth the king's trouble."[a] 5 Then King Ahasuerus spoke and said to Queen Esther,
"Who is he, and where is he, whose heart has filled him to do this?"
6 And Esther said, "An adversary and an enemy—this evil Haman!"
Then Haman was terrified before the king and the queen.
7 And the king rose in his wrath from the wine feast and went into the palace garden, but Haman stayed to beg Queen Esther for his life, for he saw that evil had been determined against him by the king. 8 When the king came back from the palace garden to the room where they had been drinking, Haman had thrown himself onto the couch where Esther lay. The king exclaimed, "Would he even attack the queen while I am in the house?" The moment the words left the king's lips, they covered Haman's face. 9 Then Harbonah, one of the eunuchs attending the king, said, "There is also the stake Haman built for Mordecai, the man who spoke up to help the king; it is standing beside Haman's house, 75 feet[b] tall." The king ordered, "Hang him on it." 10 So they hanged Haman on the stake he had built for Mordecai, and the king's fury subsided.

Notes

- a (7:4) Or "for the enemy could not make good the king's loss." The Hebrew is uncertain.
- b (7:9) Hebrew "fifty cubits," about 23 meters.

Chapter 8

1 That same day King Ahasuerus presented Queen Esther with the estate of Haman, the enemy of the Jews.[a] Mordecai was brought before the king, since Esther had revealed how he was related to her. 2 And the king took off his signet ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it to Mordecai. And Esther set Mordecai over the house of Haman.

3 And once more Esther spoke before the king; she threw herself at his feet, weeping, and implored him to undo the evil of Haman the Agagite and the scheme he had laid against the Jews. 4 The king stretched the golden scepter toward Esther, and she got up and stood in the king's presence. 5 She said, "If it seems good to the king, and I have found favor with him, and the proposal strikes the king as proper and he is pleased with me, let an order be written to cancel the dispatches Haman son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, composed to wipe out the Jews throughout the king's provinces. 6 For how can I bear to look on the evil that will befall my people? And how can I bear to look on the destruction of my kindred?"

7 Then King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther and to Mordecai the Jew, "Look, I have given Esther the house of Haman, and they have hanged him on the pole because he stretched out his hand against the Jews. 8 You yourselves may now write what you think best about the Jews, in the king's name, and stamp it with the king's signet ring, because a decree issued in the king's name and marked with his ring cannot be reversed."

9 Then the king's scribes were summoned, at that time, in the third month—the month of Sivan (May–June)—on the twenty-third day.[b] And everything Mordecai ordered was written to the Jews, and to the satraps, governors, and provincial officials from India to Cush, 127 provinces, each province in its writing and each people in its tongue, and to the Jews in their own writing and tongue. 10 He wrote in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed it with the king's ring, and he sent letters by the hands of couriers on horseback, riding swift royal steeds bred from the stud.[c] 11 In them the king granted the Jews in each city the right to assemble and defend their lives, to destroy, slay, and wipe out any armed band of a people or province that should attack them, children and women,[d] and to take their goods as spoil, 12 on one day throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar (February–March). 13 A copy of the text was to be proclaimed as law in each province and displayed to every people, so that the Jews would be prepared[e] on that day to repay their enemies. 14 So the couriers, mounted on the swift royal steeds, went out hurried and pressed by the king's word. And the law was given out in Susa the citadel.
15 And Mordecai went out from the king's presence in royal garments of violet and white, wearing a great crown of gold and a robe of fine linen and purple; and the city of Susa cried out with joy. 16 For the Jews there was light and gladness and joy and honor. 17 In each and every province and city to which the king's word and his law came, the Jews had gladness and joy, feasting, and a good day. And many of the peoples of the land became Jews,[f] because dread of the Jews had come on them.

Notes

- a (8:1) For the spelling of "Jews" here and in verses 7 and 13, see the note on 4:7.
- b (8:9) That is, about two months after Haman's decree (3:12), in 474 BC.
- c (8:10) The terms for the horses are Persian loanwords whose exact meaning is uncertain.
- d (8:11) The phrase echoes Haman's decree (3:13). Some take "children and women" as the objects of the attack against the Jews rather than of their defense.
- e (8:13) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a variant spelling.

• f (8:17) Or “pretended to be Jews”; the Hebrew verb occurs only here.

Chapter 9

1 In the twelfth month—the month of Adar (February–March)—on the thirteenth day,[a] when the king’s command and law were due to be done, the day the foes of the Jews had hoped to overpower them, the reverse happened: the Jews themselves overpowered their haters. 2 In their cities in every province of King Ahasuerus the Jews assembled to strike at those who sought to harm them. Nobody stood against them, since dread of them had come on every people. 3 All the officials of the provinces and the satraps and the governors and the king’s administrators[b] supported the Jews, for the fear of Mordecai had fallen on them. 4 For Mordecai was great in the king’s house, and his fame went out through all the provinces; for the man Mordecai grew greater and greater. 5 The Jews struck down all their foes with the sword, slaughtering and destroying, and dealt as they willed with their haters. 6 In Susa the citadel the Jews killed and destroyed 500 men, 7 and Parshandatha and Dalphon and Aspatha[c] 8 and Poratha and Adalia and Aridatha 9 and Parmashta and Arisai and Aridai and Vaizatha, 10 the ten sons of Haman the son of Hammedatha, the adversary of the Jews. They killed them, but they did not lay their hands on the plunder.

11 On the same day the count of the slain in Susa the citadel came before the king. 12 The king said to Queen Esther, “In the citadel of Susa alone the Jews have killed and destroyed five hundred men, as well as Haman’s ten sons. What have they done in the rest of the royal provinces! Now what is your wish? It will be granted. What more do you ask? It will be done.” 13 And Esther said, “If it pleases the king, let it be granted to the Jews who are in Susa to do tomorrow also according to today’s law, and let the ten sons of Haman be hanged on the pole.”[d] 14 So the king commanded that it be done. A law was given out in Susa, and they hanged the ten sons of Haman. 15 And the Jews[e] in Susa assembled on the fourteenth of Adar as well and slew 300 men in Susa; but on the spoil they laid no hand.

16 The other Jews in the king's provinces assembled and defended their lives and had rest from their foes; they slew 75,000[f] of their haters, but on the spoil they laid no hand. 17 This was on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar; and on its fourteenth day they rested and made it a day of feasting and gladness. 18 But the Jews who were in Susa gathered on its thirteenth day and on its fourteenth, and on its fifteenth day they rested and made it a day of feasting and gladness.
19 That is why the Jews of the villages, who live in the rural towns,[g]
keep the fourteenth day of the month of Adar as a day of gladness and feasting, a holiday, and a day of sending portions to one another.
20 And Mordecai wrote these things down and sent letters to all the Jews who were in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, near and far, 21 to establish among them that they should keep the fourteenth day of the month of Adar and its fifteenth day,[h] year by year, 22 as the days when the Jews found relief from their enemies, and as the month when their grief was turned to joy and their mourning to a holiday;
they were to observe them as days of banqueting and joy, exchanging gifts of food and giving presents to the needy. 23 So the Jews accepted what they had begun to do and what Mordecai had written to them. 24
For Haman son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, who persecuted all the Jews, had planned to destroy the Jews and had thrown the Pur, that is, the lot, to crush[i] and destroy them. 25 But when it[j] came before the king, he commanded by letter that his evil plot which he had devised against the Jews should return on his own head, and that he and his sons should be hanged on the pole. 26 Therefore they called these days Purim, after the name of Pur.[k] Therefore, because of all the words of this letter, and of what they had seen concerning this and what had come upon them, 27 the Jews established and took on themselves[l] and on their offspring and on all who joined them, so that it should not pass away, that they would keep these two days according to what was written and at their appointed time, year by year; 28 and that these days should be remembered and kept in every generation, by every family, every province, and every city, and that these days of Purim should not pass away from among the Jews, nor the memory of them cease from their offspring.

29 And Queen Esther, Abihail's daughter, with Mordecai the Jew, wrote with all authority to make this second Purim letter binding. 30 And letters were sent to all the Jews, to the 127 provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus, words of peace and truth, 31 to make these days of Purim binding at their set times, as Mordecai the Jew and Queen Esther had made them binding on them, and as they had bound themselves and their descendants concerning their fasts and their cry of lament.[m] 32
The command of Esther confirmed these matters of Purim, and it was written in the book.

Notes

- a (9:1) In 473 BC.
- b (9:3) Hebrew "those who do the work that belongs to the king."
- c (9:7) The names of the ten sons of Haman in verses 7–9 are Persian. In Hebrew scrolls of Esther they are traditionally written in a column, each name on its own line, and they are read in one breath at the Purim reading.
- d (9:13) That is, their bodies were to be displayed publicly.
- e (9:15) For the spelling of "Jews" here and in verse 18, see the note on 4:7.
- f (9:16) The Septuagint has 15,000.
- g (9:19) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has a variant form of the word. To this day, Purim is kept on the 14th of Adar, but on the 15th ("Shushan Purim") in Jerusalem and other anciently walled cities.
- h (9:21) In the modern calendar these days fall in February or March.
- i (9:24) Or "to throw them into panic."
- j (9:25) Or "she," that is, Esther.
- k (9:26) Purim means "lots," the plural of pur (see 3:7). The festival falls on 14–15 Adar, in February or March.
- l (9:27) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) has the singular, "and he took on himself."
- m (9:31) The fast of Esther is kept on 13 Adar, the day before Purim.

Chapter 10

1 King Ahasuerus[a] laid tribute on the land and on the coastlands of the sea. 2 And all the acts of his power and his might, and the full account of the greatness of Mordecai, to which the king raised him, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia? 3 For Mordecai the Jew was second to King Ahasuerus, and great among the Jews, and pleasing to the multitude of his brothers.
He sought the good of his people and spoke peace to all his offspring.

Notes

- a (10:1) So the traditional reading (qere); the written text (ketiv) spells the name without one of its letters.

Job

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 In the land of Uz[a] there lived a man named Job.[b] He was blameless and upright, a man who revered God and kept away from evil. 2 There were born to him seven sons and three daughters. 3 His livestock was seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred female donkeys, and a very great body of servants; so that this man was greater than all the sons of the east.[c] 4
It was the custom of his sons to go and make a feast, each at his own house on his own day; and they would send and call their three sisters to eat and drink along with them. 5 When each round of feasting ended, Job would send for his children and set them apart. Early in the morning he would offer burnt offerings for every one of them, for Job thought, "Perhaps my children have sinned and cursed[d] God in their hearts." This was Job's regular practice.
6 Now there was a day when the sons of God[e] came to present themselves before Yahweh, and the Adversary[f] also came among them. 7 Yahweh said to the Adversary, "From where do you come?" Then the Adversary answered Yahweh and said, "From roaming through the earth and from walking to and fro in it." 8 And Yahweh said to the Adversary, "Have you set your heart upon my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a man blameless and upright, one who fears God and turns aside from evil?" 9 Then the Adversary answered Yahweh and said, "Is it for nothing that Job fears God? 10 Have you not hedged him about, and his house, and all that he has, on every side? The work of his hands you have blessed, and his livestock has burst out in the land. 11 But stretch out your hand now and touch all that he has, and surely he will bless[g] you to your face." 12 Yahweh said to the Adversary, "Very well: all that he has is under your control.

But you must not harm Job himself." So the Adversary left Yahweh's presence.

13 Now there was a day when his sons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their brother the firstborn, 14 and a messenger came to Job and said, "The oxen were plowing and the donkeys grazing beside them, 15 and Sabeans[h] fell upon them and took them, and the servants they struck with the edge of the sword; and I alone, only I, have escaped to tell you." 16 He was still speaking when another messenger arrived and reported, "Fire from God[i] dropped out of the sky, burning the sheep and servants and consuming them.
Only I got away to bring you the news." 17 He was still speaking when another came and reported, "Chaldean raiders in three bands charged the camels and took them. They struck down the servants with their swords. Only I got away to bring you the news." 18 While he was yet speaking, another came and said, "Your sons and your daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their brother the firstborn, 19
A mighty wind blew in from across the desert and hit all four corners of the house. It collapsed on the young people, and they are dead. I am the only one who escaped to tell you."

20 Then Job got up, tore his robe, and shaved his head. He threw himself on the ground and worshiped.

21 And he said,

"Naked I came out of my mother's womb,
and naked shall I return there.[j] Yahweh gave, and Yahweh has taken;
let the name of Yahweh be blessed."

22 Through all of this Job sinned not, nor did he lay anything unseemly[k] to God's charge.

Notes

- a (1:1) The location of Uz is uncertain; it was probably east or southeast of Israel, in or near Edom (compare Lamentations 4:21). The Septuagint's ending (see the note at 42:17) places it "on the borders of Idumea and Arabia" (Brenton).
- b (1:1) The meaning of the name Job (Hebrew ʾIyyov) is uncertain; proposals include "Where is the father?" and "one who is hostile."
- c (1:3) That is, the peoples east of Israel, in the Syrian and Arabian desert.

- d (1:5) Hebrew "blessed," used here and in 1:11, 2:5, and 2:9 as a euphemism for "cursed"; scribes apparently avoided writing "curse God."
- e (1:6) Hebrew bene ha-ʾelohim, heavenly beings of the divine court; so also 2:1 and 38:7. The Septuagint reads "the angels of God" (Brenton).
- f (1:6) Hebrew ha-satan, "the satan," that is, "the adversary" or "the accuser." With the article it is a title or role in the heavenly court, not yet a personal name; so throughout chapters 1–2. The Septuagint reads "the devil" (Brenton).
- g (1:11) Hebrew "bless"; see the note at 1:5.
- h (1:15) The Sabeans were probably raiders from Sheba in southern Arabia; the Septuagint reads "the spoilers" (Brenton).
- i (1:16) Or "a terrible fire," probably lightning.
- j (1:21) That is, to the earth, pictured as the mother of all (compare Psalm 139:15), or to the grave.
- k (1:22) Or "nor did he charge God with wrongdoing"; Hebrew tiflah, "unseemliness."

Chapter 2

1 Again there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before Yahweh, and the Adversary also came among them to present himself before Yahweh. 2 And Yahweh said to the Adversary, "From where do you come?" Then the Adversary answered Yahweh and said, "From roaming through the earth and from walking to and fro in it." 3 Yahweh said to the Adversary, "Have you set your heart upon my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a man blameless and upright, one who fears God and turns aside from evil? And he still holds fast his integrity, although you incited me against him to swallow him up for no cause." 4 Then the Adversary answered Yahweh and said, "Skin for skin![a] All that a man has he will give for his life. 5 But stretch out your hand now and touch his bone and his flesh, and surely he will bless[b] you to your face." 6 And Yahweh said to the Adversary, "Look, he is in your hand; only spare his life."

7 So the Adversary went out from the presence of Yahweh and struck Job with grievous sores[c] from the sole of his foot to his crown. 8 And he took for himself a potsherd to scrape himself with, while he sat in the midst of the ashes.[d]

9 Then his wife said to him, "Do you still hold fast your integrity? Bless[e] God, and die."[f] 10 But he said to her, "You speak as one of the foolish women speaks. Shall we indeed receive the good from God, and the evil we shall not receive?" In all this Job did not sin with his lips.

11 When Job's three friends heard about all the trouble that had come on him, each one set out from his own home: Eliphaz from Teman, Bildad from Shuah, and Zophar from Naamah.[g] They agreed together to go and offer him sympathy and comfort. 12 And when they lifted up their eyes from afar and did not recognize him, they lifted up their voices and wept; and they tore each his robe and sprinkled dust upon their heads toward the heavens. 13 And they sat with him upon the ground seven days and seven nights, and none spoke a word to him, for they saw that his pain was very great.

Notes

- a (2:4) Probably a proverb from barter: a man will give up one hide to save another, or any possession to save his own skin. The exact sense is uncertain.
- b (2:5) Hebrew "bless"; see the note at 1:5.
- c (2:7) Hebrew shekhin ra'; perhaps boils or a skin disease; the exact illness cannot be identified.
- d (2:8) The Septuagint reads "and sat upon a dung-heap outside the city" (Brenton, modernized).
- e (2:9) Hebrew "bless"; see the note at 1:5.
- f (2:9) The Septuagint has a much longer speech here, in which Job's wife laments their lost children and her own wandering "from place to place and house to house," ending "but say some word against the Lord, and die" (Brenton, modernized).
- g (2:11) Eliphaz perhaps means "God is fine gold" (uncertain); Teman was a region of Edom. Bildad perhaps means "Bel has loved" or "son of Hadad" (uncertain); Shuah was a son of Abraham and Keturah (Genesis 25:2). Zophar perhaps means "sparrow" or "twitterer" (uncertain); Naamah's location is unknown. The Septuagint calls them "Eliphaz the king of the Temanites, Bildad sovereign of the Shuhites, Zophar king of the Minaeans" (Brenton, modernized).

Chapter 3

1 After this Job opened his mouth and cursed his day. 2 And Job answered and said:

3 "Perish the day wherein I was to be born,
  and the night which said, 'A male has been conceived!'
4 That day—let it be darkness!
  Let not God above seek after it,
  nor light shine upon it.

5 Let darkness and deep shadow[a] claim it as their own;
let a cloud settle upon it;
let the blackenings of the day[b] terrify it.
6 As for that night, let deep darkness take it!
May it not be counted among the days of the year
or enter into the tally of the months.
7 Look, let that night be barren;
let no shout of joy come into it.
8 Let those who curse the day lay a curse on it,
those who are skilled to rouse up Leviathan.[c] 9 Let the stars of its twilight be dark;
let it wait for light, but have none,
nor let it see the eyelids of the dawn,
10 because it did not shut the doors of my mother's womb,
nor hide trouble from my eyes.
11 "Why did I not die from the womb,
come out from the belly and breathe my last?
12 Why did knees receive me?
And why breasts, that I should suck?
13 For by now I would be lying down at rest;
I would be asleep; it would be repose for me,
14 with kings and counselors of the earth,
who rebuilt ruins[d] for themselves, 15 or with princes who had gold,
who filled their houses with silver.
16 Or like a hidden stillbirth I would not be,
like infants who never saw light.
17 There the wicked cease from troubling,
and there the weary in strength are at rest.
18 Together the prisoners are at ease;
they hear not the voice of the taskmaster.
19 The small and the great are there,
and the slave is free from his master.

20 “Why is light given to him who is in misery,
and life to the bitter of soul,
21 They long for death, but it does not come;
they dig for it more eagerly than for buried treasure, 22 who rejoice to exultation
and are glad when they find a grave?
23 Why is light given to a man whose way is hidden,
whom God has hedged in?
24 For my sighing comes before my bread,[e]
and my groanings are poured out like water.
25 For the thing I feared has come upon me,
and what I dreaded comes to me.
26 I am not at ease, nor am I quiet, nor have I rest; but turmoil comes.”

Notes

- a (3:5) Hebrew tsalmawet, traditionally “shadow of death”; many scholars read it as tsalmut, “deep darkness.” So throughout Job.
- b (3:5) Hebrew kimrire yom, a rare word; perhaps eclipses or the darkenings of the day, or “bitterness of the day” (uncertain).
- c (3:8) Leviathan is a sea monster of ancient Near Eastern myth, a symbol of chaos (compare 41:1; Psalm 74:14; Isaiah 27:1). Some scholars, by a slight change, read “those who curse the sea (yam).” The Septuagint reads “he that is ready to attack the great sea monster” (Brenton, modernized: “the great whale”).
- d (3:14) Or “built tombs” (perhaps pyramids); the Hebrew is uncertain. The Septuagint reads “who gloried in their swords” (Brenton).
- e (3:24) Or “in place of my bread,” or “at the sight of my food.”

Chapter 4

1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:
2 “If one ventures a word to you, will you be wearied?
Yet who can hold back from speaking?
3 Look, you have instructed many,
and slack hands you have made strong.
4 The one who was stumbling your words have lifted up,
and knees that bowed you have made firm.
5 But now it has come to you, and you are wearied;
it touches you, and you are dismayed.

6 Is not your fear of God your confidence,
and your hope the blamelessness of your ways?
7 “Recall, I beg you: what guiltless man has perished?
And where have upright men been cut off?
8 Even as I have observed: plowers of wickedness,
and sowers of mischief—the same they harvest.
9 By the breath of God they perish,
and by the blast of his anger they are consumed.
10 The roar of the lion and the voice of the fierce lion, and the teeth of the young lions—they are broken.[a] 11 The old lion perishes for want of prey,
and the cubs of the lioness are scattered.
12 “Now to me a word came stealing,
and my ear received a whisper of it.
13 Amid disquieting thoughts from visions of the night,
when deep sleep falls upon men,
14 dread came upon me, and trembling,
and the multitude of my bones it made to shake.
15 Then a spirit[b] glided past my face;
the hair of my flesh stood on end.
16 It stood there, yet I could not make out its shape.
A form was in front of my eyes,
and in the stillness I heard a voice:
17 ‘Shall mortal man be just in the sight of God?[c]
Or shall a man be clean in the sight of the one who made him?
18 Look, in his servants he puts no trust,
and to his angels he charges error.[d]
19 How much more those who dwell in houses of clay, whose foundation is in the dust,
who are crushed sooner than the moth!
20 Between morning and evening they are beaten to pieces;
without anyone heeding, they perish forever.
21 Is not their tent-cord[e] pulled up within them?
They die, and not in wisdom.’

Notes

- a (4:10) Five different Hebrew words for lion appear in 4:10–11 (ʾaryeh, shaḥal, kefir, layish, and lavi); their exact distinctions are uncertain.
- b (4:15) Or "a wind" or "a breath."
- c (4:17) Hebrew Eloah, a poetic singular of Elohim; it occurs about forty times in Job and is translated "God." Or "more righteous than God … more pure than his Maker."
- d (4:18) Hebrew toholah, found only here (a hapax legomenon); the meaning is uncertain, perhaps "error" or "folly."
- e (4:21) Or "their excellence"; the Hebrew yeter can mean a tent-cord or what is left over.

Chapter 5

1 "Cry out, then! Is there one to answer you?
To which among the holy ones[a] would you turn?
2 Surely resentment slays the foolish,
and envy puts the gullible to death.
3 With my own eyes I saw a fool striking root,
and at once I pronounced his homestead cursed.
4 His sons are far from safety;
they are crushed in the gate, and there is none to deliver.
5 His harvest the hungry eat up,
and even from among thorns they take it,[b]
and the thirsty[c] pant after their wealth.
6 For mischief springs not up out of the dust,
nor from the soil does misery sprout;
7 but man is born to trouble,
as the sons of Resheph[d] fly upward.
8 "But I—I would inquire of God,
and before God I would lay my case,
9 who does great things beyond searching out,
wonders without number;
10 who gives rain upon the face of the earth
and sends waters upon the face of the fields; 11 to set the lowly up on high,
and mourners are raised to safety.

12 He frustrates the plans of the crafty,
so that their hands achieve nothing lasting.[e] 13 He takes the wise in their own craftiness,[f]
and the counsel of the twisted is swept headlong.
14 By day they meet with darkness,
and at noon they grope as in the night.
15 He rescues the needy from the sword in their mouth
and from the grip of the powerful.
16 So the poor has hope,
and injustice shuts her mouth.
17 "Happy is the one whom God corrects!
So do not despise the instruction of Shaddai.[g] 18 For he wounds, but he binds up;
he smites, and his hands heal.
19 In six troubles he will deliver you,
and in seven no evil shall touch you.
20 In famine he redeems you from death,
and in war from the hand of the sword.
21 You will be sheltered from the lash of the tongue,
and you will have no fear when destruction comes.
22 At destruction and at hunger you shall laugh,
and of the beasts of the earth you shall not be afraid.
23 For with the stones of the field you shall be in covenant,
and the beasts of the field shall be at peace with you.
24 You shall know your tent to be in peace;
you shall visit your pasture-place and find nothing gone astray.
25 You shall know your seed to be numerous,
your offspring as the herbage of the ground.
26 You shall come to the grave in ripe old age,[h] as a sheaf goes up in its season.
27 Look, this we have searched out; so it is.
Hear it, and know it for yourself."

Notes

- a (5:1) That is, heavenly beings.
- b (5:5) The Hebrew of this line is obscure.

- c (5:5) So several ancient versions (Aquila, Symmachus, the Syriac, and the Vulgate, reading tseme'im); the Hebrew word tsammim is uncertain, often taken as "a snare."
- d (5:7) Resheph was a Canaanite god of plague and fire; "the sons of Resheph" may be sparks or birds of prey. Or "as sparks fly upward." The Septuagint reads "the vulture's young seek the high places" (Brenton).
- e (5:12) Hebrew tushiyyah, a word of uncertain meaning found mostly in Job and Proverbs: "success," "sound wisdom," or "lasting result."
- f (5:13) Quoted in 1 Corinthians 3:19.
- g (5:17) Hebrew Shaddai, a divine name traditionally rendered "the Almighty"; its meaning is uncertain (see the note at Genesis 17:1). It occurs 31 times in Job and is kept as a name throughout.
- h (5:26) Hebrew kelaḥ, found only here and in 30:2; the meaning "full vigor" or "ripe age" is a guess from context.

Chapter 6

1 Then Job answered and said:
2 "O that my vexation were but weighed,
and my calamity laid with it in the balances!
3 For now it would be heavier than the sand of the seas;
therefore my words have been rash.[a] 4 The arrows of Shaddai are lodged in me,
and my spirit drinks in their poison;
God's terrors are lined up against me.
5 Does the wild donkey bray over the grass,
or does the ox low over its fodder?
6 Can what is tasteless be eaten without salt,
or is there any flavor in the slime of the purslane?[b]
7 My soul refuses to touch them;
they are like sickness in my food.[c] 8 "O that my request might come,
and that God would grant my hope, 9 that it would please God to crush me,
that he would let loose his hand and cut me off!
10 Then this would still be my comfort,
and I would leap for joy[d] in pain that does not spare, that I have not hidden the words of the Holy One.

11 What is my strength, that I should wait?
And what is my end, that I should prolong my life?
12 Is my strength the strength of stones,
or is my flesh bronze?
13 Is not my help within me gone,
and sound wisdom[e] driven away from me?
14 "To one who is fainting, kindness is owed from his friend, even if he forsakes the fear of Shaddai.[f] 15 My brothers have dealt deceitfully like a wadi,
like the channels of wadis that pass away, 16 which are dark with ice,
where the snow hides itself;
17 at the time they are scorched, they vanish;
when it is hot, they are extinguished from their place.
18 Caravans swerve from off their way;
up into the empty waste they go, and perish.
19 The caravans out of Tema have looked for them;
on them the companies of Sheba set their hope.
20 They are ashamed because they trusted;
they come there and are confounded.
21 For now you have become nothing;[g]
you see a terror, and are afraid.
22 Did I say, 'Give to me,'
or, 'From your wealth offer a bribe for me,' 23 or, 'Deliver me from the hand of the foe,'
and, 'From the hand of the ruthless ransom me'?
24 "Teach me, and I will be silent;
and make me understand how I have erred.
25 How forceful are upright words!
But what does your reproving reprove?
26 Do you intend to reprove words,
while the speeches of one in despair are for the wind?
27 Over an orphan you would even throw the lot,
and over your companion you would haggle.

28 But now, be pleased to look at me;
for to your faces I will surely not lie.
29 Turn back, I pray; let there be no injustice;
turn back again; my righteousness is still in it.
30 Is there injustice on my tongue?
Can my palate not discern calamities?

Notes

- a (6:3) Hebrew laʿu, a rare verb; perhaps "wild" or "stammering."
- b (6:6) Hebrew ḥallamut, found only here; perhaps the juice of a mallow or purslane plant, or the white of an egg (so the Targum and many interpreters). The identification is uncertain.
- c (6:7) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- d (6:10) Hebrew saledah, found only here; the meaning "leap" or "exult" is uncertain (perhaps "recoil").
- e (6:13) Hebrew tushiyyah; see the note at 5:12.
- f (6:14) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.
- g (6:21) The Hebrew is difficult: the written text has lo, "not," and the scribal reading is lo, "to it." Many read "For now you have become like it," that is, like the dried-up wadi. The Septuagint reads "But you also have come to me without pity" (Brenton, modernized).

Chapter 7

1 "Has not man a time of hard service upon earth,
and are not his days like the days of a hired laborer?
2 As a servant pants for shade,
as a hireling looks for the pay of his work,
3 so I have been allotted months of emptiness,
and nights of trouble have been appointed to me.
4 When I lie down I say, 'At what hour may I rise?'
But the evening drags on,[a]
and I am glutted with restless turnings till the twilight of dawn.
5 My flesh is clothed with worms and clods of dust;
my skin hardens and then runs again.
6 Swifter are my days than the shuttle of a weaver,
and they are spent with no hope remaining.[b]
7 "Remember that my life is a breath;
my eye will not again see good.

8 The eye that sees me now will not see me again;
you will search for me, and I will not be here.
9 As a cloud fades and goes away,
so he who goes down to Sheol[c] does not come up.
10 He shall not return again to his house,
nor shall his place know him anymore.
11 "Therefore I also will not restrain my mouth;
I will speak in the distress of my spirit;
I will complain in the bitterness of my soul.
12 Am I Sea, or am I Dragon,[d]
that over me you post a watch?
13 When I say, 'My bed will comfort me,
my couch will ease my complaint,' 14 then you terrify me with dreams
and affright me with visions, 15 so that my soul would choose strangling,
death rather than these bones of mine.
16 I loathe it; I would not live forever.
Leave me alone, for my days are a breath.
17 "What is man, that you should make so much of him,
and that you should set your heart upon him, 18 and visit him every morning,
and test him every moment?
19 How long will you not look away from me,
nor let me alone till I swallow my spittle?
20 If I have sinned, how have I harmed you,
you who watch over humanity?
Why have you made me your target?
Why have I become a weight to myself?[e]
21 And why do you not pardon my transgression and take away my iniquity?
For now I shall lie down in the dust;
and you will seek me diligently, but I shall not be."

Notes

- a (7:4) Hebrew middad, uncertain; perhaps "the evening stretches out."
- b (7:6) Hebrew tiqwah, "hope," also means "thread" or "cord" (Joshua 2:18); a wordplay with the weaver's shuttle.
- c (7:9) Sheol is the Hebrew name for the realm of the dead.
- d (7:12) Hebrew tannin, a sea dragon of ancient myth; compare 3:8.
- e (7:20) So the standard Hebrew text; an ancient scribal tradition (one of the "corrections of the scribes") and the Septuagint read "a burden to you" (Brenton, modernized).

Chapter 8

1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:
2 "How long will you go on talking like this?
  Your words are a blustering wind.
3 Does God pervert justice,
  or does Shaddai pervert what is right?
4 If your sons have sinned against him,
  he has sent them away into the hand of their transgression.
5 If you yourself will seek God earnestly and make supplication to Shaddai, 6 if you are pure and honest,
  he will surely rise up on your behalf
  and restore your rightful home.
7 And though your beginning was small,
  your latter end would grow very great.
8 "For ask, I pray, of the former generation,
  and set yourself to what their fathers searched out.
9 For we are of yesterday and know nothing,
  because our days upon earth are a shadow.
10 Shall not they instruct you, speak to you,
  and from out of their heart bring forth words?
11 Does the papyrus[a] rise up without a swamp?
  Does the rush grow tall without water?
12 While it is yet in its green shoot, not cut down,
  before any other grass it withers.
13 Such is the fate of everyone who forgets God;
  the hope of the godless comes to nothing.

14 His confidence is cut off,[b] and his trust is a spider's house.[c] 15 He leans upon his house, but it does not stand;
he grasps hold of it, but it does not endure.
16 He is a well-watered plant before the sun,
and over his garden his shoots go forth.
17 Over a heap of stones his roots are entwined;
he gazes upon a house of stones.[d]
18 If he is swallowed up from his place,
then it will deny him: 'I never saw you.'
19 Look, this is the joy of his way,[e]
and from the dust others will spring up.
20 "See, God spurns not the man of integrity,
nor does he grasp the hand of doers of evil.
21 Yet once more he will fill your mouth with laughing,
and your lips with a joyful shout.
22 Those who hate you shall be clothed with shame,
and the tent of the wicked shall be no more."

Notes

- a (8:11) Hebrew gome', the papyrus plant of the Nile marshes.
- b (8:14) Hebrew yaqot, found only here; the meaning is uncertain, perhaps "is a gossamer thread" or "is cut off."
- c (8:14) That is, a spider's web.
- d (8:17) Or "he lives among stones"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- e (8:19) That is, ironically, this is how his "joy" ends.

Chapter 9

1 Then Job answered and said:
2 "Truly I know that it is so;
but how can a man be in the right with God?
3 Should one desire to go to law with him,
not once in a thousand times could he reply to him.
4 He is wise in heart and mighty in strength;
who has hardened himself against him and been unharmed?
5 He shifts mountains before they realize it,
and in his anger he turns them over.

6 who shakes the earth out of its place,
and its pillars tremble;
7 who speaks to the sun, and it does not rise,
and sets a seal upon the stars;
8 who alone stretches out the heavens
and treads upon the heights[a] of the sea; 9 who made the Bear, Orion, and the Pleiades,[b]
and the chambers of the south;
10 who does great things beyond searching out,
and wonders without number.
11 He goes by beside me, and I behold him not;
he sweeps on, and I have no perception of him.
12 He seizes, and who can make him give it back?
Who shall say to him, 'What is this you do?'
13 "God turns not back his wrath;
under him the allies of Rahab[c] lay bowed.
14 How much less shall I answer him,
choosing my words with him?
15 Though I were in the right, I could not answer;
to my judge I would have to plead for mercy.
16 Should I call and he answer me,
I could not trust that my voice had his ear.
17 For he crushes me with a tempest
and multiplies my wounds without cause.
18 He does not allow me to draw my breath again,
but sates me with bitter things.
19 If it is a matter of strength, look, he is mighty!
And if of justice, who will summon me?[d]
20 Were I in the right, my mouth itself would declare me guilty;
were I without blame, it would show me crooked.
21 I am blameless; I do not regard myself;
I loathe my life.
22 It is all one; therefore I say,
'The blameless and the wicked he brings to an end.'

23 When a scourge kills suddenly,
he mocks at the despair of the innocent.
24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked;
the faces of its judges he covers.
If it is not he, then who is it?
25 "My days are swifter than a runner;
they flee away; they see no good.
26 They have slipped by like boats of reed,[e]
like an eagle that swoops upon its food.
27 If I say, 'I will forget my complaint,
I will put off my sad face and be cheerful,'
28 I shrink in fear from all my pains;
I know you will not count me guiltless.
29 I shall be condemned;
why then do I labor in vain?
30 If I wash myself with snow
and cleanse my hands with lye,[f] 31 even then into the ditch you would dip me, and my garments would find me loathsome.
32 For he is not a human being like me, that I could answer him,
that the two of us could go to court together.
33 Between us no umpire[g] stands,
to rest his hand upon the two of us.
34 Let him take his rod away from me,
and let not dread of him terrify me.
35 Then I would speak and not fear him;
for I am not so in myself.

Notes

- a (9:8) Hebrew "the backs" (bamote), which may mean the waves or the back of the sea monster; compare 3:8.
- b (9:9) The identification of these constellations (Hebrew 'ash, kesil, and kimah) is uncertain; compare 38:31–32 and Amos 5:8. The Septuagint reads "the Pleiades, and Hesperus, and Arcturus" (Brenton, modernized).
- c (9:13) Rahab is a mythic sea monster representing chaos (compare 26:12; Psalm 89:10; Isaiah 51:9), not the woman of Jericho; the names are spelled differently in Hebrew. The Septuagint reads "the sea monsters under heaven" (Brenton, modernized: "the whales").

- d (9:19) The Hebrew may be quoting God's reply; many read "who can summon him?" The Septuagint reads "who then shall resist his judgment?" (Brenton). The line is uncertain.
- e (9:26) Light boats made of papyrus reeds (Isaiah 18:2).
- f (9:30) Hebrew bor, a cleansing agent made from plant ash.
- g (9:33) Or "umpire" or "mediator"; Hebrew mokiaḥ. Some Hebrew manuscripts read "O that there were an arbiter between us"; compare the Septuagint, "Would that our mediator were present" (Brenton, modernized).

Chapter 10

1 "My soul is weary of my life;
I will give free course to my complaint;
I will speak in the bitterness of my soul.
2 I will say to God, 'Do not condemn me;
make me know why you contend with me.
3 Is it good to you that you oppress,
that you despise the toil of your hands
and shine upon the counsel of the wicked?
4 Have you eyes of flesh,
or do you see as a man sees?
5 Are your days like a mortal's days,
or your years like those of a human being,
6 that you seek after my iniquity
and search for my sin,
7 knowing as you do that I am not in the wrong,
and that from your hand no one can rescue?
8 " 'Your hands shaped me and made me,
all of me round about; yet you would swallow me up?
9 Remember, I pray, that you made me like clay;
and to the dust will you return me?
10 Did you not pour me out like milk
and curdle me like cheese?
11 With skin and flesh you clothed me,
and with bones and sinews you knit me together.

12 Life and steadfast love you have granted me,
and your care has watched over my spirit.
13 Yet these things you kept concealed in your heart;
I am aware that this was your intent:
14 if I sinned, you would watch me
and would not acquit me of my iniquity.
15 If I am guilty, I am doomed!
Even if I am innocent, I dare not raise my head, filled as I am with shame and drenched in misery.
16 And should it lift itself up, like a lion you would hunt me,
and again you would show yourself wonderful against me.
17 You renew your witnesses against me
and increase your vexation toward me;
changes and a host are with me.[a] 18 " 'Why then did you bring me out from the womb?
I would have breathed my last, and no eye would have seen me.
19 I would have been as though I had not been,
carried from the belly to the grave.
20 Are not my days few? Then cease,[b] and let me alone, that I may brighten a little, 21 before I go, and return not,
to the land of darkness and deep shadow, 22 a land of gloom like thick darkness,[c]
of deep shadow without any order,
where the light is as thick darkness.' "

Notes

- a (10:17) Or "relays of troops come against me"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- b (10:20) So the written Hebrew text; the scribal reading is "Cease, then, and set me alone."
- c (10:22) Hebrew ʿefatah, a rare word for deep darkness.

Chapter 11

1 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:
2 "Shall a multitude of words go unanswered,
and shall a man of lips[a] be counted in the right?

3 Shall your babble make men hold their peace,
and shall you mock with none to put you to shame?
4 For you say, ‘Spotless is my doctrine,
and in your sight I am pure.’
5 But O that God would speak,
and open his lips against you,
6 and declare to you the secrets of wisdom!
For sound wisdom[b] is double-sided.
Know then that God exacts of you less than your iniquity deserves.[c]
7 “The searching out of God—can you attain it?
The utmost bound of Shaddai—can you arrive at it?
8 Heights of the heavens—what can you do?
Deeper than Sheol—what can you know?
9 Longer than the earth is its measure,
and broader than the sea.
10 If he passes through and shuts up,
or calls an assembly, who can turn him back?
11 For he knows worthless men;
he sees iniquity, and will he not take note of it?
12 But an empty-headed man will gain understanding when a wild donkey’s colt is born a man.[d] 13 “If you yourself set your heart aright
and spread out your palms toward him—14 if iniquity is in your hand, put it far away,
and let not wrong dwell in your tents—15 surely then you shall lift up your face without blemish;
you shall be firmly set, and shall not fear.
16 For you shall forget trouble;
like waters that have flowed past you shall remember it.
17 And brighter than noonday your life shall rise;
its darkness shall be like the morning.
18 And you shall trust, because there is hope;
you shall search about you[e] and lie down in safety.

19 You shall lie down, and none shall make you afraid;
and many shall court your favor.
20 But the eyes of the wicked shall fail;
refuge has perished from them,
and their hope is the breathing out of the soul."

Notes

- a (11:2) That is, a man full of talk.
- b (11:6) Hebrew tushiyyah; see the note at 5:12.
- c (11:6) Or "God causes some of your iniquity to be forgotten."
- d (11:12) Or "when a wild donkey is born tame"; the proverb is uncertain.
- e (11:18) Or "you shall dig" (that is, set up your tent); the Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 12

1 Then Job answered and said:
2 "Doubtless you are the people,
and with you wisdom will die!
3 But I too have a mind, as well as you;
I fall not beneath you;
and who knows not such things as these?
4 A laughingstock to his friend I am become,
one who called upon God and he answered him;
a laughingstock is the righteous, the blameless man.
5 For misfortune there is contempt, in the thought of one at ease;
it is ready for those whose feet slip.[a] 6 At peace stand the tents of plunderers, and secure are they who rouse God to anger,
he that carries a god in his own fist.[b]
7 "But ask the animals, and they will instruct you,
or the birds of the sky, and they will inform you;
8 or speak to the earth,[c] and it will teach you,
or let the fish of the sea explain it to you.
9 Which of all these knows not that it is Yahweh's[d] hand that has wrought this?
10 In his hand is the soul of every living thing,
and the breath of all flesh of man.

11 Is it not the ear that tries out words,
even as the mouth tastes its meat?
12 With the aged is wisdom,
and length of days is understanding.
13 “With him are wisdom and might;
his are counsel and understanding.
14 See, he tears down, and it shall not be built;
he shuts in a man, and there shall be no opening.
15 See, he holds back the waters, and they dry up;
he sends them out, and they overturn the land.
16 With him are strength and sound wisdom;[e]
the one led astray and the one who leads astray are his.
17 He leads counselors away stripped,
and of judges he makes fools.
18 The bond of kings he loosens,
and binds a waistcloth on their loins.
19 He leads priests away stripped,
and overthrows the long-established.
20 He takes away the speech of the trusted,
and the discernment of the elders he removes.
21 He pours contempt upon nobles,
and the girdle of the mighty he slackens.
22 He uncovers deep things out of darkness and brings deep shadow out to the light.
23 He makes nations great, and destroys them;
he spreads nations abroad, and leads them away.
24 He takes away the heart of the chiefs of the people of the land,
and makes them wander in a trackless waste.
25 They grope in the dark without light,
and he makes them stagger like a drunken man.

Notes

- a (12:5) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.
- b (12:6) Or “whom God has brought into his hand”; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- c (12:8) Or “the plants of the earth.”

- d (12:9) This is the only place in the poetic dialogue (3:1–42:6) where the name Yahweh appears outside the headings of the divine speeches; some Hebrew manuscripts read "God" (Eloah). Compare Isaiah 41:20.
- e (12:16) Hebrew tushiyyah; see the note at 5:12.

Chapter 13

1 "See, all this my eye has seen;
my ear has heard and understood it.
2 What you know, I also know;
I fall not beneath you.
3 But I would speak to Shaddai,
and to argue my case with God I desire.
4 But you are plasterers of lies;
physicians of no worth are you all.
5 O that you would keep utterly silent,
and it would be accounted wisdom to you!
6 Hear now my argument,
and to the pleas of my lips give heed.
7 Will you speak wrong on God's behalf,
and for him speak deceit?
8 Will you show him partiality?
Will you plead the case for God?
9 Will it be good when he searches you out?
Or as one mocks a man, will you mock him?
10 Reprove you he surely shall,
if you favor faces in secret.
11 Will not his loftiness strike terror into you,
and the fear of him fall heavy on you?
12 Your memorable sayings are proverbs of ashes;
your defenses are defenses of clay.
13 "Be silent before me, and I will speak;
then let come upon me what may.
14 Why should I take my flesh in my teeth and put my life in my palm?[a]

15 See, he will slay me; I have no hope;[b]
yet my ways I will argue to his face.
16 This too shall be my salvation,
that no godless man shall come before him.
17 Listen closely to my words,
and let my declaration be in your ears.
18 See now, I have set my case in order;
I know that I shall be found in the right.
19 Who is he that will contend with me?
For then I would be silent and breathe my last.
20 "Only two things do not do to me;
then from your face I will not hide myself:
21 Remove your palm far off from me,
and let no dread of you affright me.
22 Then call, and I will answer;
or let me speak, and do you reply to me.
23 How many are my iniquities and sins?
Make me know my transgression and my sin.
24 For what cause do you hide your face and reckon me your foe?[c] 25 Will you harass a leaf blown about,
and chase after withered chaff?
26 For you write bitter things against me,
and make me inherit the iniquities of my youth.
27 You fasten my feet in shackles and keep close watch on all my ways;
you draw a line[d] around the soles of my feet.
28 And he[e] wastes away like a rotten thing,
like a garment that the moth has eaten.

Notes

- a (13:14) That is, why should I risk my life?
- b (13:15) So the written Hebrew text (lo', "not"). The scribal reading (lo, "in him") gives the familiar sense, "Though he slay me, yet I will hope in him." The line is a well-known crux.
- c (13:24) Hebrew 'oyev, a play on Job's name, 'Iyyov.

- d (13:27) Or “you draw a line”; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- e (13:28) That is, man; this verse may belong after 14:2.

Chapter 14

1 “Man, born of woman,
  is short of days and sated with trouble.
2 Like a flower he comes forth and withers;
  he flees like the shadow and does not stay.
3 And upon such a one do you open your eyes,
  and bring me[a] into judgment with you?
4 Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?
  Not one!
5 Since his days are fixed,
  and the count of his months rests with you,
  and you have set limits he cannot go beyond,
6 look away from him, that he may cease,
  until he finds pleasure, like a hireling, in his day.
7 “For there is hope for a tree:
  if it is cut down, it will sprout again,
  and its tender shoot will not cease.
8 Though its root grow old in the earth,
  and its stump die in the dust, 9 at the scent of water it will bud
  and put forth a branch like a young plant.
10 But a man dies and is laid low;
  a man breathes his last, and where is he?
11 Waters fail from a lake,
  and a river dries up and is parched;
12 so a man lies down and rises not up;
  until the heavens be no more they shall not wake,
  nor be stirred up from their slumber.
13 “O that you would hide me in Sheol, conceal me until your anger turns back,
  appoint me a set time and remember me!

14 If a man dies, shall he live again?
All the days of my hard service I would wait,
until my relief[b] should come.
15 You would call, and I would answer you;
for the work of your hands you would long.
16 For then my steps you would count,
yet not lie in wait over my sin.
17 Sealed up in a bag would be my transgression,
and you would plaster over my iniquity.
18 "Yet a mountain falling wears away to nothing,
and a crag is shifted out of its place;
19 waters wear away the stones;
their torrents wash away the soil of the earth;
so you destroy the hope of man.
20 You overpower him forever, and he passes on;
you change his face and send him away.
21 His sons come to honor, and he knows it not;
they are brought low, but he perceives it not of them.
22 Only his own flesh upon him feels pain,
and his own soul within him mourns."

Notes

- a (14:3) The Septuagint (Brenton: "caused him to enter into judgment"), Syriac, and Vulgate read "him."
- b (14:14) Hebrew ḥalifah, "change," "renewal," or "relief" (as of a guard).

Chapter 15

1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:
2 "Should a wise man answer with windy knowledge,
and fill his belly with the east wind?
3 Should he argue with talk that profits not,
or with words by which he does no good?
4 But you, you are making void the fear of God,
and curtailing devotion before God.
5 For your iniquity instructs your mouth,
and you choose the tongue of the crafty.

6 Your own mouth condemns you, not mine;
your own lips speak against you.
7 "Were you the first man to be born?
Or before the hills were you brought forth?
8 Did you hearken in God's secret council?
Have you drawn off wisdom for yourself alone?
9 What do you know that we know not?
What do you understand that is not with us?
10 Gray heads and old men alike are with us,
men greater in days than your own father.
11 Are the consolations of God too small for you,
and a word dealt gently with you?
12 Why does your heart sweep you off,
and wherefore do your eyes wink,[a] 13 that you turn your spirit against God
and let words go forth from your mouth?
14 What is man, that he should be clean,
or one born of woman, that he should be righteous?
15 See, in his holy ones he puts no trust,
and the heavens are not clean in his eyes;
16 how much less one who is abominable and corrupt,
a man who drinks injustice like water!
17 "I will declare it to you; hearken to me;
what I have beheld I will relate, 18 what wise men have told,
and their fathers did not conceal, 19 to whom alone the land was given,
and no stranger passed among them:
20 All the days of the wicked man he writhes in pain,
and the number of years laid up for the ruthless.
21 A sound of terrors is in his ears;
in peace the destroyer comes upon him.
22 He has no faith that he will escape the darkness;
the sword is waiting for him.

23 He wanders abroad for bread—'Where is it?'[b]
He knows that a day of darkness is ready at his hand.
24 Straits and distress put him in dread;
they overpower him, as a king equipped for the charge.[c] 25 Because he stretched out his hand against God and played the mighty man against Shaddai, 26 running against him with outstretched neck,[d]
with the thick bosses of his shields;
27 Though his face is covered with fat
and his waist bulges with flesh, 28 and dwelt in cities laid waste,
in houses none should inhabit,
which were destined to become heaps;
29 he shall not be rich, nor shall his wealth endure,
nor shall their possessions[e] bend to the earth.
30 He shall not depart out of darkness;
the flame shall dry up his shoot,
and by the breath of his[f] mouth he shall pass away.
31 Let him not trust in emptiness, deceiving himself,
for emptiness shall be his recompense.
32 Before his day it shall be fulfilled,
and his palm branch shall not be green.
33 Like a vine he shall drop his unripe grapes,
and like an olive cast off his flowers.
34 For barren is the band of the profane,
and fire eats the tents where bribes are taken.
35 They conceive mischief and bring forth iniquity,
and their belly prepares deceit."

Notes

- a (15:12) Hebrew razam, found only here; the meaning is uncertain, perhaps "wink" or "flash."
- b (15:23) Or, by a slight change following the Septuagint, "He is appointed as food for the vulture"; Brenton: "he has been appointed to be food for vultures."
- c (15:24) Hebrew kidor, found only here; the meaning "onset" or "attack" is uncertain.

- d (15:26) Or "with stiff neck."
- e (15:29) Hebrew minlam, found only here; the meaning is uncertain.
- f (15:30) That is, God's.

Chapter 16

1 Then Job answered and said:
2 "Many such things have I heard;
troublesome comforters are you all.
3 Is there an end to windy words?
Or what provokes you, that you answer?
4 I too could speak as you do,
if your soul were in my soul's place;
I could join words together against you
and shake my head at you.
5 I could strengthen you with my mouth,
and the solace of my lips would hold back your pain.
6 "If I speak, my pain is not held back;
and if I forbear, what departs from me?
7 But now he has wearied me;
you have made desolate all my company.
8 And you have shriveled me up;[a] it is become a witness;
and my leanness rises up against me; it testifies to my face.
9 His anger has torn me and borne a grudge against me;
he has gnashed upon me with his teeth;
my adversary sharpens his eyes against me.
10 They have gaped upon me with their mouth;
with reproach they have struck my cheeks;
together they mass themselves against me.
11 God delivers me up to the unjust
and casts me into the hands of the wicked.
12 I was at ease, and he shattered me;
he seized me by the neck and dashed me to pieces;
he set me up as his target;

13 his archers[b] encircle me.
He cuts open my kidneys without mercy
and pours out my bile on the earth.
14 He breaches me, breach after breach;
like a warrior he rushes at me.
15 Sackcloth have I sewn upon my skin,
and have thrust my horn[c] into the dust.
16 My face is red with weeping,
and on my eyelids is deep shadow, 17 although there is no violence in my hands,
and my prayer is pure.
18 "Earth, do not cover my blood,
and let my cry find no place to rest.
19 Even now, see, my witness is in the heavens,
and he who vouches for me is on high.[d] 20 My interpreters[e] are my friends;
to God my eye drips tears,
21 that someone would plead for a man before God
as a person pleads for a friend.
22 For a few years more shall come,
and on a path of no return I shall go.

Notes

- a (16:8) Hebrew qamat, a rare word; perhaps "seized" or "shriveled."
- b (16:13) Or "his arrows"; Hebrew rabbav, a rare word.
- c (16:15) That is, my strength or dignity.
- d (16:19) Hebrew sahed, an Aramaic word for "witness" found only here in the Hebrew Bible. Who this witness is—God himself, or a heavenly advocate—is debated; compare 9:33 and 19:25.
- e (16:20) Or "My scorners"; Hebrew melitsay can mean either.

Chapter 17

1 "My breath is spent; my days are snuffed out;
for me the burial places wait.
2 Surely mockers are with me,
and on their provocation my eye must dwell.

3 Lay down, I pray, a pledge for me with yourself;
who else is there that will strike hands with me?[a] 4 For you have hidden their heart from understanding;
therefore you will not exalt them.
5 He who denounces friends for a share of spoil—
the eyes of his children shall fail.
6 But he has made me a byword of the peoples,
and one in whose face men spit.
7 Dim has my eye grown for grief,
and my limbs are all as a shade.
8 Upright men are aghast at this,
and the guiltless rouses himself against the profane.
9 But the just man keeps hold of his path,
and the clean of hands adds strength to strength.
10 But as for you all, come back now, I pray;
I shall not find a wise man among you.
11 "Gone by are my days; snapped are my purposes,
the cherished wishes[b] of my heart.
12 Night they turn into day;
'Light is close at hand,' they say, before the face of darkness.
13 If I hope for Sheol as my house,
if in the darkness I spread out my couch, 14 if I say to the pit,[c] 'You are my father,'
to the worm, 'My mother and my sister,' 15 where then is my hope?
And my hope—who shall see it?
16 Shall it go down to the gates of Sheol?
Shall we sink down together into the dust?"

Notes

- a (17:3) That is, who will stand surety for me?
- b (17:11) Hebrew morashe, "possessions"; here perhaps "cherished desires."
- c (17:14) Or "to corruption"; Hebrew shaḥat. With this verse begin the surviving fragments of the Aramaic Targum of Job from Qumran Cave 11 (11QtgJob), which is reported to preserve portions of 17:14–42:11 and to end at 42:11.

Chapter 18

1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:
2 “How long will you set snares[a] for words?
Consider, and afterward we will speak.
3 Why are we reckoned as cattle,
counted unclean[b] in your eyes?
4 You who tear yourself in your anger,
for your sake shall the earth be forsaken,
or the rock be moved out of its place?
5 “Indeed, the lamp of the wicked shall be quenched,
and no spark of his fire shall glow.
6 The light grows dark in his tent,
and his lamp above him is put out.
7 His mighty strides are cramped,
and his own counsel casts him down.
8 For he is thrust into a net by his own feet,
and upon a mesh he walks.
9 A gin grips him by the heel;
a trap holds him fast.
10 A noose for him is hidden in the ground,
and a trap for him upon the path.
11 Terrors on every side affright him
and chase him at his heels.
12 His strength is famished,
and calamity is ready at his side.
13 It eats away the members of his skin;
death’s firstborn[c] eats up his limbs.
14 He is plucked out of his tent, his safe place,
and they make him march to the king of terrors.
15 What is none of his dwells in his tent;[d]
burning sulfur is scattered across his home.
16 Beneath, his roots dry up,
and above, his branch withers.

17 The memory of him is lost from the land,
and no name is his in the open places.
18 They thrust him from light into darkness
and chase him out of the world.
19 He has neither offspring nor descendant among his people,
nor any survivor where he sojourned.
20 At his day those of the west are appalled,
and those of the east are seized with horror.[e] 21 Surely such are the dwellings of the unrighteous, and this is the place of him who knows not God."

Notes

- a (18:2) Hebrew qintse, found only here; the meaning is uncertain, perhaps "ends" or "snares."
- b (18:3) Or "stupid"; Hebrew nitminu, of uncertain meaning.
- c (18:13) Probably a deadly disease, personified as death's eldest son.
- d (18:15) Or "Nothing of his dwells in his tent"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- e (18:20) Or "Those who come after are appalled at his day, and those who went before are seized with horror."

Chapter 19

1 Then Job answered and said:
2 "How long will you torment my soul
and crush me with words?
3 Ten times over now you have insulted me;
without shame you deal hardly with me.[a] 4 And even if in truth I have erred,
my error lodges with me.
5 If indeed you will magnify yourselves against me
and argue my disgrace against me, 6 then know that it is God who has dealt crookedly with me and has thrown his net round about me.
7 "I cry out, 'Violence!' but get no reply;
I call for help, but there is no justice.
8 My way he has walled up, and I cannot pass,
and upon my paths he sets darkness.

9 My glory he has stripped from me
and taken the crown from my head.
10 He breaks me down on every side, and I am gone,
and my hope he has pulled up like a tree.
11 He has kindled his anger against me
and counts me as one of his adversaries.
12 His troops come on together;
they have built up their way against me
and encamp round about my tent.
13 "My brothers he has put far from me,
and those who know me are wholly estranged from me.
14 My kinsmen have failed,
and my intimate friends have forgotten me.
15 The guests in my house and my maidservants count me a stranger;
a foreigner I have become in their eyes.
16 I call to my servant, and he gives no answer;
with my own mouth I must entreat him.
17 My breath is strange to my wife, and I am loathsome to the sons of my own womb.[b] 18 Even young children despise me;
when I rise, they speak against me.
19 All the men of my counsel abhor me,
and those whom I loved have turned against me.
20 To my skin and to my flesh my bone cleaves, and I have escaped by the skin of my teeth.[c] 21 Have pity on me, have pity on me, O you my friends,
for the hand of God has touched me!
22 Why do you pursue me as God does,
and are not satisfied with my flesh?[d]
23 "O that my words were now written!
O that they were inscribed in a book, 24 with a pen of iron and lead
forever cut into the rock!

25 But I—I know that my redeemer[e] lives,
and at the last[f] he will stand up upon the dust.[g] 26 And after my skin has been thus stripped off,
yet from my flesh[h] I shall see God, 27 whom I myself shall see for myself, and my own eyes shall behold, and not a stranger.[i]
My kidneys[j] are spent within my bosom.
28 If you should say, 'How shall we hound him?'
and, 'The root of the trouble lies in him,'[k] 29 be afraid of the sword for yourselves;
for wrath brings the punishments of the sword,
that you may know there is a judgment."[l]

Notes

- a (19:3) Hebrew tahkeru, found only here; the meaning is uncertain, perhaps "wrong" or "stun."
- b (19:17) That is, my own brothers, born of the same womb as I. The Septuagint reads "I entreated the sons of my concubines" (Brenton, modernized).
- c (19:20) The meaning of this proverbial phrase is uncertain; it may mean "with nothing at all left."
- d (19:22) That is, by slandering me (compare the Aramaic idiom "eat pieces of" for accusing).
- e (19:25) Hebrew goʾel, the next of kin who buys back a relative's property, frees him from slavery, or avenges his blood (Leviticus 25:25; Numbers 35:19; Ruth 4:1–6); hence "vindicator" or "champion." Whether Job means God himself or another heavenly figure (compare 9:33; 16:19) is debated. Verses 25–27 are among the most difficult in the book; nearly every line is uncertain.
- f (19:25) Or "as the last"; Hebrew ʾaḥaron.
- g (19:25) Or "upon the earth," or "over my dust" (that is, my grave). The Septuagint reads verses 25–26a: "For I know that he is eternal who is about to deliver me, and to raise up upon the earth my skin that endures these sufferings" (Brenton, modernized).
- h (19:26) Or "apart from my flesh" (that is, after death) or "in my flesh"; the Hebrew preposition min can mean either "from (within)" or "without."
- i (19:27) Or "and not as a stranger."
- j (19:27) The kidneys were thought of as the seat of the emotions; that is, my heart faints with longing.
- k (19:28) So many Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint, and the Vulgate; most Hebrew manuscripts read "in me."

- l (19:29) Hebrew shaddun, of uncertain meaning; some read "that there is a Judge" or "that there is Shaddai."

Chapter 20

1 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:
2 "Therefore my disquieting thoughts make me answer,
because of the haste that is within me.
3 Reproof that insults me I hear,
and out of my understanding a spirit answers me.
4 Is this not known to you from ancient days,
from the time man was set on the earth,
5 that the triumphing of the wicked is short,
and the joy of the godless but for a moment?
6 Though his height mount up to the heavens,
and his head reach to the clouds,
7 like his own dung he shall perish forever;
those who saw him shall say, 'Where is he?'
8 Like a dream he flies away, and they find him not;
he is chased away like a vision of the night.
9 The eye that glimpsed him does so no more,
nor does his place behold him any longer.
10 His sons shall seek the favor of the poor,[a]
and his own hands shall give back his wealth.
11 His bones were full of his youthful vigor,
but with him it shall lie down in the dust.
12 "Though evil be sweet in his mouth,
though he hide it under his tongue, 13 though he spare it and will not let it go,
but hold it back within his palate, 14 his food is turned in his bowels;
it is the venom of cobras within him.
15 Wealth he has gulped down, and he shall spew it up;
out of his belly God shall drive it.
16 He sucks the poison of cobras;
the tongue of the viper[b] slays him.

17 He shall not gaze upon the brooks,
the torrents running with honey and curds.
18 He gives back the gain of his toil and does not swallow it;
from the profit of his trading he gets no enjoyment.
19 For the poor he has oppressed and abandoned;
a house he seized, though he did not build it.
20 "Because he knew no quiet in his belly,
he shall not escape with what he desires.
21 There was nothing left that he did not devour;
therefore his prosperity shall not endure.
22 In the fullness of his plenty he shall be in straits;
every hand of the wretched shall come upon him.
23 To fill his belly to the full,
God[c] shall send the burning of his anger upon him
and rain it upon him as his food.[d] 24 He shall flee from the iron weapon;
a bow of bronze shall pierce him through.
25 He draws it, and it comes out from his back;
the flashing blade, out from his liver;
upon him are terrors.
26 All darkness is laid up for his treasures;
a fire not blown upon shall devour him;
it shall consume what is left in his tent.
27 The heavens shall reveal his iniquity,
and the earth shall rise up against him.
28 The increase of his house shall depart,
flowing away in the day of his[e] anger.
29 This is the portion of a wicked man from God,
and the heritage appointed to him by God."

Notes

- a (20:10) Or "The poor shall oppress his sons."
- b (20:16) Hebrew ʾefʿeh, a poisonous snake; the exact species is uncertain.
- c (20:23) Hebrew "he."
- d (20:23) Hebrew biletumo, of uncertain meaning; perhaps "into his flesh" or "as his food."

- e (20:28) That is, God's.

Chapter 21

1 Then Job answered and said:
2 "Hear, O hear my word,
and let this be your consolation.
3 Bear with me, and I will speak;
and after I have spoken, mock on.
4 As for me, is my complaint against man?
And why should I not be impatient?
5 Turn to me and be appalled,
and lay your hand upon your mouth.
6 When I call it to mind, I am thrown into dismay,
and a shuddering takes hold of my flesh.
7 "Why do the wicked live on,
grow old, yes, grow mighty in power?
8 Their offspring are established in their sight with them,
and their descendants before their eyes.
9 Their houses are at peace, without fear,
and no rod of God is upon them.
10 Their bull breeds and does not fail;
their cow calves and does not miscarry.
11 They send out their little ones like a flock,
and their children dance about.
12 They lift up their voices to timbrel and lyre
and rejoice at the sound of the pipe.
13 They spend their days in prosperity,
and in a moment they go down to Sheol.[a] 14 Yet they say to God, 'Depart from us!
We have no desire for the knowledge of your ways.
15 What is Shaddai, that we should serve him?
And what does it profit us if we entreat him?'
16 See, is not their prosperity in their own hand?
The counsel of the wicked is far from me.

17 “How often is the lamp of the wicked put out,
and does their calamity come upon them?
How often does he apportion pains in his anger?
18 How often are they as stubble in the face of the wind,
as chaff whirled off by the tempest?
19 You say, ‘God stores up his iniquity for his sons.’
Let him repay it to the man himself, that he may know it!
20 Let his own eyes see his destruction,
and let him drink of the wrath of Shaddai.
21 For what does he care for his house after him,
when the number of his months is cut off?
22 Shall anyone teach God knowledge,
seeing that he judges those on high?
23 One dies in his full strength,
wholly at ease and secure, 24 his pails[b] full of milk
and the marrow of his bones moist.
25 And another dies with a bitter soul,
having never eaten of good things.
26 Alike they lie down in the dust,
and the worm covers them.
27 “See, I know your thoughts,
and the schemes by which you would wrong me.
28 For you say, ‘Where is the house of the prince?
And where is the tent in which the wicked dwelt?’
29 Have you never inquired of the wayfarers?
Do you not acknowledge their signs, 30 that the wicked are spared on the day of disaster
and rescued on the day of wrath?[c]
31 Who declares his way to his face?
And for what he has done, who repays him?
32 When he is carried to the graves,
watch is kept over his tomb.

33 Sweet to him are the clods of the valley;
and after him all mankind draws on,
as before him there were without number.
34 How then do you comfort me with emptiness,
when of your answers there remains only faithlessness?”

Notes

- a (21:13) Or “in peace they go down to Sheol.”
- b (21:24) Hebrew ʿatinav, found only here; the meaning is uncertain: perhaps “his pails” or “his haunches.” The Septuagint reads “his inwards are full of fat” (Brenton, modernized).
- c (21:30) That is, they are rescued; or “from the day of wrath they are led away.”

Chapter 22

1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:
2 “Can a man be of use to God?
Surely the wise man is of use to himself.
3 Is it any delight to Shaddai if you are righteous,
or gain to him if you make your ways blameless?
4 Is it for your fear of him that he reproves you,
that he enters with you into judgment?
5 Is not your evil great,
and is there no end to your iniquities?
6 For you have taken pledges of your brothers for nothing and stripped the naked of their clothing.
7 No water have you given the weary to drink,
and from the hungry you have withheld bread.
8 The man of arm[a]—his was the land,
and the favored of face dwelt in it.
9 Widows you have sent away empty,
and the arms of the fatherless were crushed.
10 Therefore snares are round about you,
and sudden dread affrights you, 11 or a darkness, that you see nothing,
and a mass of waters overwhelms you.

12 “Is not God in the height of the heavens?
And see the summit[b] of the stars, how high they are!
13 And you say, ‘What does God know?
Can he judge through the thick cloud?
14 Clouds are a covering to him, so that he sees not,
and on the vault[c] of the heavens he walks about.’ 15 Will you keep to the ancient path
which men of iniquity have trodden, 16 who were snatched away before their time,
whose foundation was poured out as a river, 17 who said to God, ‘Depart from us,’
and, ‘What can Shaddai do to them?’[d] 18 Yet he filled their houses with good—but the counsel of the wicked is far from me.
19 The righteous see and are glad,
and the innocent laughs them to scorn:
20 ‘Truly cut off are those who rose against us,[e]
and their leavings the flame has eaten.’
21 “Come to terms with him, I pray, and be at peace;
thereby good shall come to you.
22 Receive, I pray, instruction from his mouth,
and lay up his words in your heart.
23 If you return to Shaddai, you shall be built up;
if you remove iniquity far from your tents, 24 and lay your gold ore in the dust,
and the gold of Ophir[f] among the stones of the wadis, 25 then Shaddai shall be your gold ore
and silver in heaps[g] for you.
26 For then in Shaddai you shall delight
and lift up your face to God.
27 You shall entreat him, and he shall hear you,
and your vows you shall pay.
28 You shall decree a thing, and it shall be established for you,
and upon your ways light shall shine.

29 When they are brought low, you shall say, ‘Lift up!’[h] and the one of downcast eyes he will save.
30 He will deliver even one who is not innocent;
he shall be delivered through the cleanness of your hands.

Notes

- a (22:8) That is, the man of power.
- b (22:12) Hebrew “head.”
- c (22:14) Hebrew ḥug, the circle or dome of the heavens.
- d (22:17) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint (“What will the Lord do to us?” Brenton) and Syriac read “to us.”
- e (22:20) Hebrew qimanu, found only here; the meaning is uncertain.
- f (22:24) Ophir was a land famed for fine gold, perhaps in southern Arabia or East Africa; its location is unknown. The Septuagint reads “Sophir” (Brenton).
- g (22:25) Hebrew toʿafot, a rare word; perhaps “heaps” or “choice silver.”
- h (22:29) Or “it is pride”; the Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.

Chapter 23

1 Then Job answered and said:
2 “Still today my complaint is defiance;[a]
his[b] hand lies heavy over my sighing.
3 O that I knew where I might find him,
that I might come even to his dwelling place!
4 I would set my cause in order before him
and fill my mouth with arguments.
5 I would know the words with which he would answer me,
and understand what he would say to me.
6 Would he contend with me in the greatness of his power?
No; he would surely give heed to me.
7 There a just man might argue it out with him,
and I should go free from my judge for all time.
8 “See, I go forward, and he is not there,
and backward, and I do not perceive him;
9 on the left hand, when he works, I behold him not;
he turns aside to the right hand, and I see him not.[c] 10 But he knows the way that is with me;
when he has tried me, I shall come forth as gold.

11 My foot has held fast to his steps;
his way I have kept and not turned aside.
12 From the commandment of his lips I have not departed;
more than my own portion[d] I have treasured the words of his mouth.
13 But he is one,[e] and who can turn him?
What his soul desires, that he does.
14 For he will complete what is appointed for me,
and many such things are with him.
15 Therefore I am dismayed at his presence;
when I consider, I am in dread of him.
16 For God has made my heart faint,
and Shaddai has dismayed me;
17 Yet I am not silenced by the darkness,
by the gloom that covers my face.[f]

Notes

- a (23:2) Hebrew meri, "rebellion"; the Syriac, Targum, and Vulgate read mar, "bitter."
- b (23:2) So the Septuagint ("his hand has been made heavy upon my groaning," Brenton) and Syriac; the Hebrew reads "my hand."
- c (23:9) "Forward," "backward," "left," and "right" may also be read as "east," "west," "north," and "south."
- d (23:12) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint (Brenton) and Vulgate read "in my bosom."
- e (23:13) Or "he is unchangeable"; perhaps, by a slight change, "he has chosen."
- f (23:17) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain; or "Yet I am not silenced by the darkness, by the thick darkness that covers my face."

Chapter 24

1 "Why are times of judgment not stored up by Shaddai?
Why do those who know him never witness his days?[a]
2 Some remove landmarks;
they seize flocks and pasture them.
3 The donkey of the fatherless they drive away;
they take the widow's ox for a pledge.
4 They push the needy out of the way;
the lowly of the earth are made to hide, all of them alike.

5 See, like wild donkeys in the wilderness
they go forth to their toil, seeking eagerly for food;
the desert yields bread for their children.
6 In the field they reap his fodder,[b]
and they glean the vineyard of the wicked.
7 Naked they pass the night, without clothing,
and they have no covering in the cold.
8 With the downpour of the mountains they are drenched,
and for lack of shelter they hug the rock.
9 They snatch the fatherless from the breast,
and against the poor they take a pledge.
10 Naked they go about, without clothing,
and hungry, they carry the sheaves.
11 Within their walls[c] they crush out the olives;
the vats they tread, and go thirsty.
12 Out of the city the dying make their moan,
and the wounded soul shouts for aid;
yet God lays no charge of folly.[d] 13 "These are among those who rebel against the light;
they do not know its ways
nor stay in its paths.
14 At the light the murderer rises;
he kills the poor and needy,
and in the night he is like the thief.
15 The eye of the adulterer also watches for the twilight, saying, 'No eye shall see me,'
and he puts a covering on his face.
16 In darkness men break through into houses;
by daytime they seal themselves in;
light they know not.
17 For to all of them deep shadow is morning,
for they are familiar with the terrors of deep shadow.

18 “Swift is he[e] upon the face of the waters;
cursed is their portion in the land;
he turns not toward the way of the vineyards.
19 As drought and heat carry off melted snow,
so Sheol carries off those who have sinned.
20 The womb forgets him; the worm feeds sweetly on him;
he is no longer remembered,
and iniquity is broken like a tree.
21 He feeds upon[f] the barren woman who does not bear,
and to the widow he does no good.
22 Yet God[g] by his might draws out the life of the strong;
up they rise, when they had no trust that they would live.
23 He grants them to be secure, and they lean on it,
but his eyes are over their ways.
24 Raised up for a little, then they are not;
they are laid low, gathered in like everyone else;
like the tops of the ears of grain they are lopped.
25 If this is not so, who can prove me wrong and show that my words are worthless?”

Notes

- a (24:1) The arrangement of chapters 24–27 is disputed. In their present form, some speeches seem to be missing or out of place (Bildad’s third speech in chapter 25 is very short, and Zophar has no third speech), and parts of 24:18–25 and 27:13–23 sound more like the friends than like Job. Many scholars rearrange these chapters; this translation follows the traditional order.
- b (24:6) Hebrew belilo, “his fodder,” or, by a different division of the letters, “at night”; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- c (24:11) Hebrew shurotam, a rare word; perhaps the terrace walls of the olive groves.
- d (24:12) So the Hebrew (tiflah); the Syriac reads “gives no heed to their prayer.”
- e (24:18) Verses 18–24 are difficult, and many take them as Job quoting his friends’ view (“You say …”).
- f (24:21) Or “He wrongs”; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- g (24:22) Hebrew “he.”

Chapter 25

1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

2 “Dominion and dread are with him;
he makes peace in his high places.
3 Can his bands be counted?
And over whom does his light not rise?
4 How then can a man be righteous with God?
Or how can one born of woman be clean?
5 See, even the moon—it does not shine,
and the stars are not clean in his eyes;
6 How much less a mortal, who is a maggot,
a human being, who is a worm!”[a]

Notes

- a (25:6) Bildad’s third speech is unusually short; some scholars think part of it is preserved in 26:5–14 (see the note at 24:1).

Chapter 26

1 Then Job answered and said:
2 “What help you have given to the powerless!
What rescue to an arm with no might!
3 How you have counseled him who has no wisdom,
and plentifully made known sound wisdom![a] 4 With whose aid have you spoken words,
and whose spirit has gone out from you?
5 “The shades[b] writhe
beneath the waters and their inhabitants.
6 Naked is Sheol before him,
and Abaddon[c] has no covering.
7 He spreads the north over the empty place;
he suspends the earth on nothingness.
8 He binds up the waters in his thick clouds,
and the cloud is not torn beneath them.
9 He shuts in the face of the full moon[d]
and spreads out over it his cloud.
10 A circle he has traced on the surface of the waters,
where light and darkness meet.

11 The pillars of the heavens tremble
and are astounded at his rebuke.
12 By his power he stilled[e] the sea,
and by his understanding he struck down Rahab.[f] 13 By his breath the heavens are made fair;[g]
his hand has pierced the fleeing serpent.[h] 14 See, these are the outskirts of his ways;
and how faint a whisper of a word we hear of him!
But the thunder of his mighty deeds—who can understand?"

Notes

- a (26:3) Hebrew tushiyyah; see the note at 5:12.
- b (26:5) Hebrew repha'im, the shades of the dead. The Septuagint reads "Shall giants be born from under the water?" (Brenton).
- c (26:6) Abaddon, "destruction," is a poetic name for the realm of the dead (compare 28:22; 31:12; Revelation 9:11).
- d (26:9) Or "his throne"; the Hebrew kisseh (throne) and keseh (full moon) are spelled alike.
- e (26:12) Or "stirred up."
- f (26:12) Rahab is a mythic sea monster representing chaos; see the note at 9:13. The Septuagint reads "by his wisdom the whale has been overthrown" (Brenton).
- g (26:13) Hebrew shifrah, found only here; perhaps "fair" or "clear."
- h (26:13) Or "the gliding serpent," as in Isaiah 27:1, where it describes Leviathan. The Septuagint reads "by a command he has slain the apostate dragon" (Brenton).

Chapter 27

1 And Job again took up his discourse[a] and said:
2 "As God lives, who has taken away my right,
and Shaddai, who has made my soul bitter, 3 as long as my breath is in me,
and the spirit of God is in my nostrils,
4 my lips shall not speak injustice,
nor shall my tongue utter deceit.
5 Far be it from me that I should declare you in the right;
till I breathe my last I will not put away my integrity from me.
6 To my righteousness I cling and will not loosen my grip;
my heart shall not taunt me for one of my days.

7 “May my enemy be treated like the wicked,
my opponent like the unjust.
8 For what is the hope of the godless when he is cut off,
when God takes away his soul?
9 Will God hear his cry
when distress comes upon him?
10 Will he take delight in Shaddai?
Will he call upon God at all times?
11 I will teach you concerning the hand of God;
what is with Shaddai I will not conceal.
12 See, all of you have seen it yourselves;
why then have you become altogether vain?
13 “This is the portion of a wicked man with God,[b] and the heritage of oppressors, which they receive from Shaddai:
14 If his sons are multiplied, it is for the sword,
and his offspring shall not be satisfied with bread.
15 Those who survive him shall be buried by the plague,[c]
and his widows shall not weep.
16 Though he heap up silver like dust
and prepare clothing like clay, 17 he may prepare it, but the righteous shall wear it,
and the innocent shall divide the silver.
18 He builds his house like the moth,[d]
like a booth that a watchman makes.
19 Rich he lies down, but he shall not be gathered;[e]
he opens his eyes, and he is not.
20 Terrors overtake him like waters;
by night a whirlwind steals him away.
21 The east wind lifts him, and away he goes;
it whirls him from his place.
22 It hurls itself upon him[f] and does not spare;
he flees headlong from its hand.
23 It claps its palms against him
and whistles him out of his place.

Notes

- a (27:1) Hebrew mashal, a proverb, parable, or poem; so also 29:1.
- b (27:13) Many scholars think 27:13–23 belongs to the missing third speech of Zophar (see the note at 24:1), since it repeats the friends' teaching about the fate of the wicked (compare 20:29).
- c (27:15) Hebrew "by death," probably pestilence (compare Jeremiah 15:2).
- d (27:18) Hebrew ʿash, "moth"; some read ʿakkavish, "spider" (compare 8:14). The Septuagint has both: "like moths, and like a spider's web" (Brenton, modernized).
- e (27:19) Or, following the Septuagint ("shall not continue," Brenton) and Syriac, "but he shall do so no more."
- f (27:22) Or "He (God) hurls at him."

Chapter 28

1 "Surely there is a source[a] for silver,
and a place for gold, which men refine.
2 Iron is taken out of the dust,
and stone is poured out as copper.
3 Man sets a limit to darkness,
and out to every far edge he explores
for ore in gloom and deep shadow.
4 He breaks open a shaft away from where men sojourn;[b]
forgotten by the foot,
they hang far from men; they swing to and fro.
5 The earth—out of it comes bread,
but beneath it is turned up as by fire.
6 Its stones are the place of sapphire,[c]
and it has dust of gold.
7 A path no bird of prey knows,
nor has the falcon's[d] eye seen it.
8 Proud animals[e] have never walked on it,
and no lion has prowled there.
9 Against the flint man puts forth his hand;
he overturns mountains by the roots.
10 In the rocks he cuts out channels,
and his eye sees every precious thing.
11 He dams up the streams so they do not flow,
and brings hidden things out into the light.

12 “But wisdom—where shall it be found?
And where is the place of understanding?
13 Man does not know its worth,[f]
nor is it found in the land of the living.
14 The abyss says, ‘It is not within me,’
and the sea says, ‘It is not beside me.’
15 Choice gold[g] shall not be paid for it,
nor silver weighed as the cost of it.
16 It cannot be valued with the gold of Ophir,
with precious onyx[h] or sapphire.
17 Gold and glass[i] cannot equal it,
nor can vessels of fine gold be its exchange.
18 Coral and crystal[j] are not worth mentioning;
the acquiring of wisdom is above that of pearls.[k] 19 The topaz[l] of Cush[m] shall not match it;
with refined gold it shall not be weighed.
20 “Wisdom, then—from where does it come?
And where is the place of understanding?
21 It is hidden from the eyes of all living and concealed from the birds of the heavens.
22 Abaddon and Death declare,
‘With our ears we heard a report of it.’
23 God discerns the road to it,
and it is he who knows where it dwells.
24 For he looks to the ends of the earth and sees under all the heavens, 25 When he gave the wind its weight
and measured out the waters, 26 when he made a decree for the rain
and a way for the thunderbolt, 27 then he saw it and declared it;
he established it, and searched it out also.

28 And to man he said,
'See, the fear of the Lord[n]—that is wisdom,
and to turn aside from evil is understanding.' "

Notes

- a (28:1) Hebrew motsa', "a place of going out," that is, a mine.
- b (28:4) The Hebrew of this verse is obscure; it seems to describe miners let down by ropes into a shaft.
- c (28:6) Hebrew sappir, probably lapis lazuli rather than the modern sapphire; so also 28:16. The Septuagint reads "sapphire" (Brenton).
- d (28:7) Hebrew 'ayyah, a bird of prey, perhaps a falcon or kite; the identification is uncertain.
- e (28:8) Hebrew bene shaḥats, "sons of pride," perhaps wild beasts of the larger kinds; the phrase occurs only here and in 41:34.
- f (28:13) Hebrew "its value"; the Septuagint reads "its way" (Brenton).
- g (28:15) Hebrew segor, a rare word for gold, perhaps "closed (refined) gold."
- h (28:16) Hebrew shoham, a precious stone of uncertain identification: onyx, carnelian, or lapis lazuli have been suggested. The ancient names of precious stones in this passage cannot be identified with certainty. The Septuagint reads "gold of Sophir, with the precious onyx and sapphire" (Brenton).
- i (28:17) Hebrew zekhukhit, found only here, probably glass, then a costly material. The Septuagint reads "crystal" (Brenton).
- j (28:18) Hebrew ra'mot and gavish, both uncertain; perhaps "coral" and "crystal" (or "jasper"). The Septuagint reads "Coral and fine pearl" (Brenton).
- k (28:18) Hebrew peninim, perhaps pearls, red coral, or rubies; uncertain.
- l (28:19) Hebrew pitdah, probably topaz or chrysolite (peridot), which came from an island in the Red Sea; uncertain. The Septuagint reads "the topaz of Ethiopia" (Brenton).
- m (28:19) That is, the upper Nile region (Ethiopia and Sudan).
- n (28:28) Hebrew 'Adonai; this is its only occurrence in Job. Some Hebrew manuscripts are reported to read YHWH ("Yahweh").

Chapter 29

1 And Job again took up his discourse and said:
2 "O that I were as in the months of old,
as in the days when God watched over me,
3 when his lamp shone over my head,
and by his light I walked through darkness,
4 as I was in the days of my autumn,[a]
when the counsel[b] of God was upon my tent,

5 when Shaddai was still with me,
and my young men[c] were round about me, 6 when my steps were washed with curds,
and the rock poured out for me streams of oil!
7 When I went out to the gate of the city,
when I set up my seat in the square, 8 the young men saw me and hid themselves,
and the aged rose and stood;
9 princes refrained from speaking and laid their hand upon their mouth;
10 the voice of the nobles was hushed,
and their tongue cleaved to their palate.
11 For the ear heard, and called me blessed,
and the eye saw, and bore witness for me, 12 because I delivered the poor who cried out,
and the fatherless who had none to help him.
13 The blessing of him who was perishing came upon me,
and the widow's heart I made to sing for joy.
14 Righteousness I put on, and it clothed me;
like a robe and a turban was my justice.
15 Eyes I was to the blind,
and feet to the lame was I.
16 A father I was to the needy,
and the cause of him I knew not I searched out.
17 And I broke the jaws of the unrighteous
and made him drop the prey from his teeth.
18 "Then I thought, 'In my nest I shall breathe my last,
and as the sand[d] I shall multiply days.
19 My root is spread out to the waters,
and the dew lodges all night on my branch.
20 My glory is fresh with me,
and my bow is renewed in my hand.'
21 "To me they listened and waited,
and kept silence for my counsel.

22 After my word they did not speak again,
and my speech dropped upon them.
23 They waited for me as for the rain,
and they opened their mouths wide as for the spring rain.
24 When they lost hope, I smiled at them,
and they never dimmed the brightness of my face.[e] 25 I chose their way and sat as chief,
and dwelt like a king among the troops,
like one who comforts mourners.

Notes

- a (29:4) That is, my prime; the season of harvest and fullness.
- b (29:4) Hebrew sod, "council" or "intimate friendship"; some read, by a slight change, "when God protected my tent."
- c (29:5) Or "my children."
- d (29:18) Or "as the phoenix"; Hebrew ḥol, "sand," was understood by some ancient Jewish interpreters as the name of the long-lived phoenix. The Septuagint reads "as the stem of a palm tree" (Brenton, modernized).
- e (29:24) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.

Chapter 30

1 "But now they laugh at me,
men younger in days than I,
whose fathers I would have disdained
to set with the dogs of my flock.
2 Indeed, what was the strength of their hands to me,
men in whom vigor[a] had perished?
3 Through want and hard famine they are gaunt;
they gnaw the dry ground,
the gloom[b] of waste and desolation.
4 They pluck saltwort[c] by the bushes,
and the roots of the broom tree[d] are their food.
5 From the community they are driven out;
men shout after them as after a thief.
6 In the gullies of the wadis they must dwell,
in holes of the earth and of the rocks.

7 Among the bushes they bray;
under the nettles[e] they huddle together.
8 Sons of a fool, yes, sons of no name,
they have been whipped out of the land.
9 "And now I am become their song;
I am a byword to them.
10 They abhor me; they keep far from me;
from my face they do not withhold spittle.
11 Because he[f] unstrung my cord and humbled me,
before me they have thrown off the bridle.
12 On my right hand the rabble[g] rises up;
they thrust away my feet
and cast up against me their ways of destruction.
13 They break up my path;
they promote my calamity;
no one helps them.[h] 14 As through a broad gap they come on;
amid the ruin they come rolling in.
15 Terrors are rolled upon me;
my nobility is chased off as by the wind,
and my welfare is gone by like a cloud.
16 "And now my soul is poured out within me;
days of affliction have taken hold of me.
17 By night my bones are pierced within me,
and my gnawing pains take no rest.
18 With great force God grabs my clothing;[i]
he grips me like the neck of my tunic.
19 He has cast me into the mire,
and I am become like dust and ashes.
20 I cry out to you, but you do not answer;
I stand up, but you merely stare at me.[j]
21 You are turned to be cruel to me;
with the might of your hand you persecute me.

22 You raise me up into the wind; you make me ride upon it;
and you melt me away in the crash of the tempest.[k] 23 For I know that you will bring me to death,
to the house appointed for all living.
24 "Yet does a man not put out his hand when falling into ruin,
or in his disaster raise a cry for this?[l]
25 Did I not weep for those in hard times?
Was I not sorrowful for the poor?
26 For I looked for good, and evil arrived;
I waited for light, and gloom arrived.
27 My inward parts boil and are not still;
days of affliction confront me.
28 I go about blackened, but not by the sun;
I stand up in the assembly and cry for help.
29 I am become a brother to jackals
and a companion to ostriches.[m] 30 My skin grows black and falls from me,
and my bones burn with heat.
31 My lyre is turned into mourning,
and my flute into the sound of weepers.

Notes

- a (30:2) Hebrew kelaḥ; see the note at 5:26.
- b (30:3) Hebrew ʾemesh, usually "yesterday"; here perhaps "gloom" or "by night." The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.
- c (30:4) Hebrew malluaḥ, found only here; probably the salty orache (saltbush), eaten by the very poor. The identification is uncertain.
- d (30:4) Hebrew rotem, the white broom, a desert shrub whose roots are bitter; perhaps the roots were burned for warmth rather than eaten.
- e (30:7) Hebrew ḥarul, perhaps nettles, chickling vetch, or wild mustard; uncertain.
- f (30:11) That is, God. So the scribal reading; the written Hebrew text has "I have loosed."
- g (30:12) Hebrew firḥaḥ, found only here; the meaning is uncertain, perhaps "brood" or "rabble."
- h (30:13) Or "with no one to restrain them"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- i (30:18) So the Septuagint ("my disease has taken hold of my garment," Brenton, modernized); the Hebrew reads "my garment disguises itself." The verse is uncertain.

- j (30:20) So the Hebrew; one Hebrew manuscript and the Vulgate are reported to read "you do not look at me."
- k (30:22) The written and the scribal readings of the last word differ (tushiyyah, teshu'ah); the line is uncertain.
- l (30:24) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.
- m (30:29) Hebrew benot ya'anah, traditionally "ostriches," though some think "owls" or "eagle-owls"; jackals and ostriches both have mournful cries. The Septuagint reads "a brother of monsters, and a companion of ostriches" (Brenton).

Chapter 31

1 "A covenant I made with my eyes;
how then could I gaze upon a virgin?
2 And what would be the portion from God above,
and the heritage from Shaddai on high?
3 Is not ruin for the wicked,
and misfortune for those who work wickedness?
4 Does he not see my ways
and number all my steps?
5 "If I have walked with falsehood, and my foot has hastened to deceit—
6 let me be weighed in a just balance, and let God know my integrity—7 if my steps have strayed from the road,
and my heart has followed after my eyes,
or any stain has stuck to my palms,
8 then let me sow, and another eat,
and let my offspring[a] be rooted out.
9 "If my heart has been lured toward a woman,
and at my neighbor's doorway I lay in ambush, 10 then let my wife grind for another,
and let others bow down upon her.
11 For that would be a lewd deed;
that would be an iniquity for the judges.
12 For it is a fire that eats down to Abaddon,
and it would tear out by the roots all my produce.

13 “If I have despised the cause of my manservant or my maidservant when they contended with me,
14 what then shall I do when God rises up?
When he visits, what shall I answer him?
15 Did not he who made me in the womb make him,
and did not One fashion us in the womb?
16 “If I have withheld the poor from their desire,
or caused the eyes of the widow to fail, 17 or have eaten my morsel by myself,
and the fatherless has not eaten of it—18 for from my youth he grew up with me as with a father, and from my mother’s womb I guided her[b]— 19 if I have seen one dying for want of garments,
or a poor man with nothing to cover him, 20 if his loins have not blessed me,
and he was not warmed with the fleece of my sheep, 21 if I have lifted my hand against the fatherless
because I saw my help in the gate, 22 then let my shoulder blade fall from the shoulder,
and my arm be broken from its socket.[c] 23 For disaster from God terrified me,
and before his majesty I was helpless.
24 “If I have made gold my confidence,
or called fine gold my trust, 25 if I have rejoiced because my wealth was great,
and because my hand had found much,
26 if I have looked at the light[d] when it shone,
or the moon moving in splendor, 27 and my heart was secretly drawn away,
and my hand threw a kiss from my mouth,[e] 28 that too would be an iniquity for the judges,
for I would have denied God above.
29 “If I have been glad at the downfall of him who hated me,
or lifted myself up because evil had found him—

30 but I have not let my palate sin
by asking for his life with a curse—31 if the people of my household have never said,
'Is there anyone who did not get his fill of Job's meat?' 32 the sojourner has not lodged in the street;
my doors I have opened to the traveler[f]— 33 if I have covered my transgressions like Adam,[g]
by hiding my iniquity in my bosom, 34 because I feared the crowd,
or the scorn of clans frightened me,
and so I kept quiet and stayed inside—
35 O that I had one to hear me!
Here is my mark;[h] let Shaddai answer me!
And the scroll that my adversary has written—36 surely on my shoulder I would bear it;
I would bind it on myself as crowns.
37 The number of my steps I would declare to him;
like a prince I would draw near to him.
38 "If my land cries out against me,
and its furrows weep together, 39 if I have eaten its yield without payment,
or caused the soul of its owners to breathe out, 40 let thorns come up instead of wheat,
and stinking weeds[i] instead of barley."
The words of Job are ended.

Notes

- a (31:8) Or "my crops."
- b (31:18) That is, the widow. The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.
- c (31:22) Hebrew qanah, "reed," here the upper arm bone.
- d (31:26) That is, the sun.
- e (31:27) An ancient gesture of worship toward the sun or moon.
- f (31:32) So the ancient versions; the Hebrew reads "to the road."
- g (31:33) Or "as men do"; Hebrew 'adam.
- h (31:35) Hebrew taw, the last letter of the Hebrew alphabet, written as a cross-shaped mark; here, Job's signature on his sworn statement.

- i (31:40) Hebrew bo'shah, found only here; some noxious weed, perhaps cockle. The identification is uncertain.

Chapter 32

1 So these three men ceased to answer Job, because he was righteous in his own eyes. 2 Then the anger of Elihu[a] the son of Barachel[b] the Buzite,[c] of the family of Ram, was kindled. Against Job his anger was kindled, because he declared himself righteous rather than God.
3 And against his three friends his anger was kindled, because they had found no answer, and yet had condemned Job.[d] 4 Now Elihu had waited to speak to Job, because they were older in days than he. 5 And when Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of the three men, his anger was kindled.

6 And Elihu the son of Barachel the Buzite answered and said:

"Young am I in days,
and you are very old;
therefore I held back and was afraid to declare my knowledge to you.
7 I said, 'Let days speak,
and let the multitude of years make wisdom known.'
8 But truly it is a spirit in man,
and the breath of Shaddai, that makes them understand.
9 It is not the many in years[e] who are wise,
nor the aged who understand what is right.
10 Therefore I say, 'Listen to me;
let me declare my knowledge, I also.'
11 "Look, I waited while you spoke;
I listened to your arguments while you hunted for words.
12 Yes, I gave you my close attention,
and see, there was none who refuted Job,
none among you who answered his words.
13 Beware lest you say, 'We have found wisdom;
God may vanquish him, not man.'

14 He has not directed his words against me,
and with your speeches I will not answer him.
15 “They are dismayed; they answer no more;
words have departed from them.
16 And must I tarry, since silent they are,
since idle they stand, replying no further?
17 I too will answer my share;
I too will declare my knowledge.
18 For I am full of words;
the spirit within my belly constrains me.
19 Inside, I am like wine with no outlet,
like new wineskins about to burst.
20 Let me speak, that I may find relief;
let me open my lips and answer.
21 Let me not, I pray, show partiality to any man,
nor use flattering titles toward any man.
22 For I do not know how to give flattering titles;
else my Maker would soon take me away.

Notes

- a (32:2) Elihu means “He is my God.” He is the only speaker in the book whose name is a clearly Israelite one.
- b (32:2) Barachel means “God blesses.”
- c (32:2) Buz was a son of Nahor, Abraham’s brother (Genesis 22:21); compare Jeremiah 25:23. The Septuagint adds “of the country of Ausis” (Uz) (Brenton).
- d (32:3) So the standard Hebrew text. According to an ancient Jewish tradition this is one of the “corrections of the scribes,” and the original read “and so had condemned God,” that is, by failing to answer they had in effect put God in the wrong.
- e (32:9) So the Septuagint, Syriac, and Vulgate; the Hebrew reads “the great.”

Chapter 33

1 “But now hear, O Job, my speech,
and to all my words give ear.
2 See now, I have opened my mouth;
my tongue in my palate speaks.

3 Upright of heart are the sayings I utter;
plain knowledge my lips shall pour forth.
4 The Spirit of God has made me,
and the breath of Shaddai gives me life.
5 If you are able, answer me;
set your words in order before me; take your stand.
6 See, I am toward God as you are;
from clay I too was nipped off.[a] 7 See, dread of me need not terrify you,
nor my pressure[b] be heavy upon you.
8 "Surely you have spoken in my ears,
and the sound of your words I heard:
9 'Clean am I, without transgression;
pure[c] am I, and there is no iniquity in me.
10 See, he finds occasions[d] against me;
he counts me as his enemy.
11 In the stocks he sets fast my feet;
over every path of mine he keeps watch.'
12 Lo, herein you are not just—so I reply—
for mightier than mortal is God.
13 Why do you contend against him,
saying that he answers none of man's[e] words?
14 Once God utters it, yes, twice,
yet it is unheeded by man:
15 in a dream, a vision of the night,
when deep sleep falls upon men,
in slumberings upon the bed;
16 then he uncovers the ears of men and seals their instruction,[f] 17 to turn man aside from his deed
and to conceal pride from a man; 18 he keeps back his soul from the pit,
and his life from passing over by the javelin.[g]

19 “He is also chastened with pain upon his bed,
and with continual strife in his bones, 20 till his very life abhors food,
and his appetite the choicest dish.
21 His flesh is consumed away from sight,
and his bones, once unseen, are laid bare.
22 And his soul draws near to the pit,
and his life to those who bring death.[h] 23 Should there stand by him a messenger,
an interpreter,[i] one out of a thousand,
to make plain to a man his uprightness,
24 and he is gracious to him and says,
‘Deliver him from going down to the pit;
I have found a ransom,’ 25 let his flesh become fresher[j] than a child’s;
let him return to the days of his youthful vigor.
26 To God he entreats, and finds favor with him;
with gladness he gazes upon his face,
and to the mortal he gives back his just standing.
27 Before men he chants and declares,
‘Sin I did, and twisted the straight,
yet no like return was dealt me.[k]
28 He has ransomed my soul from going down to the pit,
and my life will see the light.’
29 “See, all these things God works,
twice, three times, with a man, 30 to bring his soul back from the pit,
so that the light of life may shine on him.
31 Attend, O Job; hearken to me;
hold your peace while I talk.
32 If you have words, answer me;
speak, for I desire to justify you.
33 If not, then hearken to me;
keep still, and wisdom I shall impart.”

Notes

- a (33:6) That is, pinched off, as a potter takes a piece of clay.
- b (33:7) Hebrew ʾekef, found only here; perhaps "pressure" or "burden."
- c (33:9) Hebrew ḥaf, found only here; "clean" or "innocent."
- d (33:10) Or "pretexts"; Hebrew tenuʾot, a rare word.
- e (33:13) Hebrew "his"; perhaps "answers for none of his own deeds."
- f (33:16) Or "frightens them with warnings"; the Septuagint reads "he scares them with such fearful visions" (Brenton); the Hebrew is uncertain.
- g (33:18) Or "crossing the river (of death)"; Hebrew shelaḥ can mean a weapon or a channel.
- h (33:22) Or "to the angels of death," or "to the place of the dead."
- i (33:23) Hebrew melits, an interpreter or spokesman; compare 16:20. The Septuagint reads "Though there should be a thousand messengers of death, not one of them shall wound him" (Brenton).
- j (33:25) Hebrew rutafash, found only here; the meaning "grow fresh" is a guess from context.
- k (33:27) Or "it was not worth it for me."

Chapter 34

1 Then Elihu answered and said:
2 "Hear my words, you wise men,
and you who know, give ear to me;
3 for the ear tests words
as the palate tastes food.
4 Let us choose for ourselves what is right;
let us know among ourselves what is good.
5 For Job has said, 'I am righteous,
and God has taken away my right;
6 though in the right, I am reckoned false;
past healing is my wound,[a] though there is no offense in me.'
7 What man is like Job,
who drinks up scoffing like water,
8 and goes in company with the workers of iniquity and walks with men of wickedness?
9 For he has said, 'A person gains nothing
by delighting in God.'

10 “Therefore, you men of heart,[b] hear me:
far be it from God that he should do wickedness,
and from Shaddai that he should do wrong.
11 For he repays people for what they do
and brings upon each the results of his own conduct.
12 Surely, of a truth, God will not do wickedly, and Shaddai will not pervert justice.
13 Who entrusted the earth into his keeping?
Who set in place[c] the entire world?
14 If he should set his heart upon himself,[d]
and gather to himself his spirit and his breath, 15 all living creatures would die together,
and humanity would go back to dust.
16 “If you have understanding, hear this;
listen to the sound of my words.
17 Shall even one who hates justice govern?
And will you condemn the Righteous Mighty One, 18 who says to a king, ‘Worthless one!’
to nobles, ‘Wicked man!’
19 who lifts not the face of rulers,
nor sets the wealthy ahead of the lowly,
since every one is wrought by his hands?
20 They die in an instant, in the middle of the night;
people are shaken and pass away,
and the powerful are removed without a human hand.
21 For his eyes are upon the ways of a man,
and he sees all his steps.
22 There is no darkness nor deep shadow
where the workers of iniquity may hide themselves.
23 God does not need to examine anyone further before bringing him to judgment.
24 He shatters the mighty without inquiry
and sets others in their place.

25 Because he knows what they do,
he overthrows them in the night, and they are crushed.
26 As wicked men he strikes them
in the place where all can see,[e] 27 because they turned aside from following him
and did not consider any of his ways, 28 so that they caused the cry of the poor to come to him,
and the cry of the afflicted he heard.
29 If he stays silent, who can condemn him?
If he hides his face, who can see him,
whether nation or individual alike?
30 that a godless man should not reign,
that there be no snares for the people.[f]
31 "For has a man ever said unto God,
'I bore my correction; no more will I transgress;
32 what I do not see, teach me;
if I have done iniquity, I will do it no more'?
33 Shall he repay on your terms, because you reject it?
For you must choose, and not I;
therefore speak what you know.
34 Men of understanding will tell me so,
and every sage who gives me a hearing:
35 'Job speaks without knowledge,
and his words are without insight.'
36 Would that Job were tried to the end,
because of his answers like men of iniquity!
37 For he adds rebellion to his sin;
he claps his hands[g] among us and multiplies his words against God."

Notes

- a (34:6) Hebrew "my arrow," that is, the wound made by God's arrow (compare 6:4).
- b (34:10) That is, men of understanding; so also 34:34.
- c (34:13) Hebrew lacks "on him."
- d (34:14) Or "If he should set his mind on it"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- e (34:26) Hebrew "in the place of the onlookers."

- f (34:30) The Hebrew of verses 29–33 is very obscure.
- g (34:37) A gesture of scorn.

Chapter 35

1 Then Elihu answered and said:
2 “Do you count this to be just?
You say, ‘My righteousness is more than God’s,’
3 that you ask, ‘What advantage is it to you?[a]
What profit is mine more than if I had sinned?’
4 I will answer you with words,
and your friends with you.
5 Look to the heavens, and see;
and behold the clouds, which are higher than you.
6 Should you sin, how do you strike at him?
Be your rebellions many, what harm is that to him?
7 Be you just, what gift is that to him?
What does he take out of your hand?
8 To a man like you your wrongdoing reaches,
to a mortal your uprightness.
9 “Because of the multitude of oppressions they cry out;
they call for help because of the arm of the mighty.
10 Yet none asks, ‘Where is God who fashioned me,
who grants songs in the night season, 11 who teaches us more than the beasts of the earth,
and makes us wiser than the birds of the heavens?’
12 So they cry aloud, and he gives no reply,
by reason of the haughtiness of the evil.
13 Surely God does not hear an empty cry,
nor does Shaddai regard it.
14 How much the less when you claim you behold him not,
that your plea lies before him, and you wait upon him!
15 And now, since his wrath has not visited,
and he takes little note of folly,[b] 16 Job opens his mouth in vain;
he multiplies words without knowledge.”

Notes

- a (35:3) That is, to Job himself, "you" referring to himself in quoting his complaint; or, "to me."
- b (35:15) Hebrew pash, found only here; the meaning is uncertain, perhaps "folly" or "transgression."

Chapter 36

1 And Elihu continued and said:
2 "Bear with me a little, and I will show you,
for there are yet words to say on God's behalf.
3 I will bring my knowledge from far away
and credit my Maker with justice.
4 For truly my words are not false;
one perfect in knowledge is with you.
5 "See, God is mighty, and does not despise any;
mighty in strength of heart.
6 The ungodly he lets not live,
but to the lowly he grants justice.
7 He does not withdraw his eyes from the righteous,
but with kings upon the throne
he seats them forever, and they are exalted.
8 Should they lie bound in chains,
held fast by the ropes of misery, 9 then he declares to them their work
and their transgressions, that they have behaved proudly.
10 He opens their ear to discipline
and commands that they return from iniquity.
11 If they obey and serve him,
they will finish their days in prosperity
and their years in pleasure.
12 But if they do not listen, they pass over by the javelin[a]
and breathe their last without knowledge.
13 "The godless in heart store up anger;
even when he binds them, they do not call for help.
14 Their soul dies in youth,
and their life among the cult prostitutes.[b]

15 He delivers the afflicted by his affliction and opens their ear by oppression.
16 He drew you also from the jaws of trouble
to a wide place unhemmed,
and your table was laden with richness.[c] 17 But you are full of the judgment of the wicked;
judgment and justice take hold of you.
18 Take care lest fury lure you to mockery,
and let not a great bribe lead you astray.
19 Can your outcry set you beyond trouble,
or every effort of your might?
20 Do not long for the night,
when peoples are cut off in their place.
21 Watch yourself; turn not toward evil,
since that you prefer above affliction.
22 "See, God is exalted in his power;
who is a teacher like him?
23 Who has appointed him his way?
Or who can say, 'You have done wrong'?
24 Remember to magnify his work,
of which men have sung.
25 All mankind has looked upon it;
man beholds it from afar.
26 See, God is great, and we know him not;
the number of his years is past searching out.
27 For he draws up the drops of water;
they distill rain from his mist, 28 which the clouds pour down
and shower upon mankind abundantly.
29 Can anyone understand the spreading of the clouds,
the crashings of his pavilion?
30 See, he spreads his light about him
and covers the roots[d] of the sea.

31 For thereby he rules the nations;
plentiful food he bestows.
32 He covers his hands with the lightning
and commands it to strike the mark.
33 Its crashing declares concerning him;
the cattle also, concerning what rises.[e]

Notes

- a (36:12) Or "cross the river (of death)"; see the note at 33:18.
- b (36:14) Hebrew qedeshim, men who served as prostitutes at pagan shrines; the sense here is that their lives end in shame.
- c (36:16) The Hebrew of verses 16–20 is very obscure.
- d (36:30) Or "the depths."
- e (36:33) The Hebrew of this verse is very obscure. The Septuagint reads "The Lord will declare concerning this to his friend: but there is a portion also for unrighteousness" (Brenton).

Chapter 37

1 "Yes, at this my heart quakes
and springs up from its seat.
2 Hear, O hear the rumbling of his voice,
and the murmur that goes out from his mouth.
3 He sends it out under the whole sky,
and his lightning to the ends of the earth.
4 After that comes the sound of a roar;
he thunders with his majestic voice,
and he holds back none of the lightning[a] once his voice is heard.
5 God thunders wondrously with his voice;
he does great things, and we cannot know them.
6 For he bids the snow, 'Come down upon the earth,' likewise the shower of rain, his torrents of strong rain.
7 He seals up the hand of every man,
that all men whom he made may know it.[b] 8 Then the beast goes into its lair
and remains in its dens.
9 Out of its chamber comes the storm,
and cold from the scattering winds.[c]

10 By the breath of God ice is given,
and the breadth of the waters is frozen fast.
11 He loads the thick cloud with moisture;
the cloud scatters his lightning.
12 They turn round and round by his guidance,
to do whatever he commands them
upon the face of the habitable world.
13 Whether for correction, or for his land,
or for steadfast love, he causes it to come.
14 "Give ear to this, O Job;
stand still and consider the wonders of God.
15 Know you how God charges them,
and makes the lightning of his cloud blaze out?
16 Do you know the balancings[d] of the clouds,
the wonders of him who is perfect in knowledge, 17 you whose clothes grow warm
when the land lies hushed beneath the south wind?
18 Can you join him in spreading out the sky,
hard as a mirror of cast metal?
19 Teach us what we shall say to him;
we cannot set our case in order because of darkness.
20 Should he be told I want to speak?
Would anyone ask to be swallowed up?
21 Now no one can look at the sun,
brilliant as it is in the sky,
once the wind has passed and swept the clouds away.
22 Out of the north comes golden splendor;[e]
about God is awesome majesty.
23 Shaddai—beyond our finding is he;
exalted in might;
and justice and plentiful uprightness he does not wrong.
24 Hence mortals hold him in awe;
none of the wise in heart does he regard."[f]

Notes

- a (37:4) Hebrew "them."
- b (37:7) Or "that all men may know his work"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- c (37:9) Hebrew mezarim, "scatterers," perhaps the north winds; uncertain.
- d (37:16) Hebrew miflese, found only here; perhaps "spreadings" or "balancings."
- e (37:22) Or "golden light." The Septuagint reads "From the north come the clouds shining like gold" (Brenton).
- f (37:24) Or "all the wise of heart cannot see him."

Chapter 38

1 Then Yahweh answered Job out of the whirlwind[a] and said:
2 "Who is this that darkens counsel
by words without knowledge?
3 Gird up now your loins like a man;[b]
I will question you, and you shall make it known to me.
4 "Where were you when I founded the earth?
Declare it, if you have understanding.
5 Who fixed its measurements—surely you know!
Or who stretched the line upon it?
6 Upon what were its footings settled,
or who set down its cornerstone,
7 when the morning stars sang together
and all the sons of God[c] shouted for joy?
8 "Or who shut in the sea with doors,
when it burst forth from the womb and went out, 9 when I made the cloud its garment
and thick darkness its swaddling band, 10 and broke for it my boundary
and set bars and doors, 11 and decreed, 'To here you may come, but not beyond;
here your swelling waves must halt'?
12 "Have you, in your days, commanded the morning,
or caused the dawn to know its place, 13 so that it grasps the edges of the earth
and shakes the wicked out of it?
14 It is changed like clay under the seal,
and things stand out like a garment.[d]

15 And from the wicked their light is withheld,
and the uplifted arm is broken.
16 “Have you entered into the springs of the sea,
or walked in the recesses of the deep?
17 Have the gates of death been revealed to you,
or have you seen the gates of deep darkness?
18 Have you comprehended the breadth of the earth?
Declare, if you know it all.
19 “Where is the way to where light dwells,
and darkness, where is its place, 20 that you might lead it to its border
and know the roads to its dwelling?
21 You know, for you were born then,
and the number of your days is great![e] 22 “Have you entered the storehouses of the snow,
or have you seen the storehouses of the hail, 23 which I have reserved for the time of distress,
for the day of battle and war?
24 By what way is the light[f] parted,
or the east wind scattered upon the earth?
25 “Who carved a course for the flooding rain,
a road for the thunder’s bolt, 26 to bring rain on a land where no man is,
on the wilderness in which there is no human being, 27 to satisfy the waste and desolate ground,
and to make the tender grass spring forth?
28 Is there a father for the rain?
Who sired the dewdrops?
29 From whose womb came the ice?
And the hoarfrost of heaven, who has given it birth?
30 The waters hide themselves as if turned to stone,
and the face of the deep is locked fast.
31 “Can you bind the bonds of the Pleiades,[g]
or loosen the cords of Orion?[h]

32 Can you lead forth the Mazzaroth[i] in its season, or guide the Bear[j] with its children?
33 Do you know the statutes of the heavens?
Can you establish their rule upon the earth?
34 "Can you raise your voice to the clouds
so that a deluge of water covers you?
35 Can you send forth lightnings, that they may go and say to you, 'Here we are'?
36 Who has put wisdom in the ibis,[k] or given understanding to the rooster?
37 Who by wisdom counts the clouds?
Who tips over the jars of heaven,
38 when the dust runs into a mass
and the clods cleave fast together?
39 "Can you hunt the prey for the lion,
or satisfy the appetite of the young lions, 40 as they couch within their lairs,
or lurk in ambush in the thicket?
41 Who readies for the raven its prey,
when to God its nestlings call
and stray about without food?

Notes

- a (38:1) Or "storm."
- b (38:3) Or "like a warrior"; Hebrew gever.
- c (38:7) The Septuagint reads "all my angels praised me with a loud voice" (Brenton). See the note at 1:6.
- d (38:14) The image is of the dawn bringing the shapes of the earth into relief, as a seal impresses clay. The Septuagint reads very differently: "Or did you take clay of the ground, and form a living creature…?" (Brenton, modernized).
- e (38:21) Irony: Yahweh grants Job, in jest, the age of creation itself.
- f (38:24) Or "lightning."
- g (38:31) Hebrew kimah, a cluster of stars, generally identified as the Pleiades; Brenton's Septuagint has "Pleias." Compare 9:9.
- h (38:31) Hebrew kesil, "fool," generally identified as Orion, pictured as a giant bound in the sky. The identifications of these constellations are traditional, not certain.

- i (38:32) Hebrew mazzarot, found only here; perhaps the constellations of the zodiac, or a particular star or constellation (compare mazzalot, 2 Kings 23:5). The Septuagint keeps "Mazuroth" and adds "the evening star with his rays" (Brenton).
- j (38:32) Hebrew ʿayish, perhaps the Great Bear (Ursa Major) with its "children," the stars of its tail; others suggest Aldebaran or the Hyades. Compare 9:9.
- k (38:36) Hebrew tuḥot and sekhvi ("rooster") are both rare and uncertain; others render "in the inward parts… to the mind." The ibis (sacred to the Egyptian god of wisdom) and the rooster (heralding the dawn) were both regarded as weather-wise birds. The Septuagint reads "who has given to women skill in weaving, or knowledge of embroidery?" (Brenton).

Chapter 39

1 "Do you know the time when the mountain goats[a] give birth?
  Do you watch over the calving of the does?[b]
2 Can you reckon the months they complete,
  or know the season of their bearing,
3 when they crouch, bring forth their young,
  and cast out their labor pains?
4 Their young ones grow strong; they grow up in the open field;
  they go forth and do not return to them.
5 "Who sent out the wild donkey[c] free?
  Who has loosed the bonds of the swift donkey,
6 to whom I gave the steppe as dwelling,
  and the salt waste as his abode?
7 It scorns the noise of the town
  and does not hear a driver's shouts.
8 He ranges the mountains as his pasture
  and searches after every green thing.
9 "Will the wild ox[d] consent to be your servant?
  Will he lodge beside your feeding trough?
10 Can you bind the wild ox in the furrow with his rope?
  Or will he harrow the valleys after you?
11 Will you trust him because his strength is great,
  and leave to him your labor?
12 Will you trust him to haul in your seed
  and heap it upon your threshing floor?

13 “The ostrich[e] flaps its wings with joy,
but are its feathers and plumage like the stork’s?[f] 14 For she abandons her eggs upon the ground and leaves them to warm in the dust, 15 forgetting that a foot may crush them,
and the wild beast trample them.
16 She deals harshly with her young, as if they were not hers;
though her labor be in vain, she has no fear, 17 since God has deprived her of wisdom
and allotted her no discernment.
18 When she rouses herself to flee aloft,[g]
she laughs at the horse and his rider.
19 “Is it you who grant the horse his strength?
Is it you who robe his neck with a mane?[h]
20 Do you make him leap like the locust?
The splendor of his snorting is terror.
21 It paws[i] the ground in the valley and rejoices in its power;
it charges out to face the weapons.
22 At fear he scoffs, undaunted;
from the sword he turns not away.
23 Upon him rattles the quiver,
the flashing spear and the javelin.
24 Quivering and raging he devours the distance;
when the horn blows he will not hold still.
25 At each blast of the horn he cries, ‘Hurrah!’
From far off he scents the fight,
the captains’ thunder and the battle cry.
26 “Does the hawk[j] take flight by your wisdom
and stretch his wings toward the southland?
27 Is it at your command that the eagle[k] mounts up and makes his nest on high?
28 On the cliff he dwells and lodges,
on the tooth of the crag and the stronghold.

29 From there he spies out the prey;
his eyes behold it afar off.
30 His young ones also suck up blood, and where the slain are, there is he."

Notes

- a (39:1) Hebrew yaʿale salaʿ, "climbers of the rock," probably the Nubian ibex. Brenton's Septuagint has "wild goats of the rock."
- b (39:1) Hebrew ʾayyalot, female deer; Brenton has "hinds."
- c (39:5) Hebrew pereʾ, and in the next line ʿarod (found only here in the Hebrew Bible), both names for the wild ass or onager, a swift, untamable desert animal.
- d (39:9) Hebrew reʾem, the aurochs or wild ox (now extinct), a powerful horned animal; the Septuagint has monokerōs, rendered "unicorn" by Brenton and other older English versions.
- e (39:13) Hebrew renanim, found only here, "cries" or "shrieking ones," generally taken as the ostrich, which fits the description that follows. The Septuagint reads "The peacock has a beautiful wing: if the stork and the ostrich conceive…" (Brenton). The identification is probable but not certain.
- f (39:13) Or "are they the pinions of the kindly one?" Hebrew ḥasidah (stork) sounds like ḥesed, "steadfast love." The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- g (39:18) The meaning of the Hebrew verb is uncertain.
- h (39:19) Hebrew raʿmah, found only here; perhaps "thunder," "quivering," or "a mane." Brenton's Septuagint has "terror."
- i (39:21) Hebrew "They paw."
- j (39:26) Hebrew nets, a falcon or hawk; the hawk's southward migration may be in view.
- k (39:27) Hebrew nesher, which can refer to the eagle or the griffon vulture; verse 30 suits the vulture.

Chapter 40

1 And Yahweh answered Job and said:
2 "Shall a faultfinder contend with Shaddai?
He who argues with God, let him answer it."
3 Then Job answered Yahweh and said:
4 "See, I am of small account; what shall I answer you?
My hand I lay upon my mouth.
5 Once I have spoken, and I will not answer;
twice, and I will proceed no further."
6 Then Yahweh answered Job out of the whirlwind and said:

7 “Gird up now your loins like a man;
I will question you, and you shall make it known to me.
8 Will you even annul my justice?
Will you condemn me, that you may be righteous?
9 Do you have an arm like God’s,
or a voice that thunders like his?
10 “Deck yourself now with majesty and dignity;
clothe yourself with splendor and honor.
11 Let loose the floods of your wrath;
behold each proud one, and bring him down.
12 Look on everyone who is proud, and bring him low,
and tread down the wicked where they stand.
13 Hide them in the dust together;
bind their faces in the hidden place.
14 Then I also will acknowledge to you that your own right hand can save you.
15 “Behold now Behemoth,[a] whom I made along with you;
like cattle he feeds on grass.
16 See now, his strength is in his loins,
and his power in the muscles of his belly.
17 He stiffens his tail like a cedar;
the sinews of his thighs[b] are knit together.
18 His bones are tubes of bronze,
his limbs like bars of iron.
19 “It ranks first among God’s works;[c]
only its Maker can approach it with his sword.
20 For the mountains bring forth produce for him,
where all the beasts of the field play.
21 Under the lotus trees[d] he lies,
in the covert of the reed and the marsh.
22 The lotus trees cover him with their shade;
the willows of the brook surround him.
23 If the river surges, it is not alarmed;
it stays calm even if the Jordan[e] rushes up to its mouth.

24 Can he be seized while he watches,
or his snout be pierced with a trap?

Notes

- a (40:15) Hebrew behemot, the plural of behemah, "beast," used here as an intensive: "the Beast" par excellence. The description best suits the hippopotamus, though some see the elephant or a mythical creature. The Septuagint reads "But now look at the wild beasts with you" (Brenton, modernized). The identification is uncertain.
- b (40:17) Hebrew paḥad, here probably "thighs" (an Aramaic sense); found in this sense only here. Some take it as "testicles."
- c (40:19) Or "the chief of God's works." The Septuagint reads "This is the chief of the creation of the Lord; made to be played with by his angels" (Brenton).
- d (40:21) Hebrew tse'elim, found only here and in verse 22; probably the thorny lotus (Ziziphus lotus). Brenton's Septuagint has "trees of every kind, by the papyrus, and reed, and bulrush."
- e (40:23) That is, any great river in flood.

Chapter 41

1 "Can you draw out Leviathan[a] with a fishhook,[b]
or press down his tongue with a cord?
2 Can you put a rush rope in his nose,
or pierce his jaw with a hook?
3 Will he plead with you at length?
Will he address you gently?
4 Will he make a covenant with you,
that you take him for a servant forever?
5 Will you play with it as with a bird
or keep it on a leash for your girls?
6 Will partners haggle over him?
Will they parcel him out among the traders?
7 Can you stuff his hide with barbs,
or his skull with fish-spears?
8 Set your hand on him once;
think of the fight—you will do it no more!
9 "See, the hope of a man is disappointed;[c] is he not laid low even at the sight of him?

10 No one is fierce enough to stir it up.
Who, then, can stand against me?
11 Who has given me something first, so that I must repay?[d]
Everything under all the heavens belongs to me.
12 "I will not stay silent about its limbs,
its great strength, or its graceful build.
13 Who can strip off his outer garment?
Who can come within his double coat of mail?[e]
14 Who can open the doors of his face?
Round about his teeth is terror.
15 His back is ranks of shields,[f]
sealed up tight together.
16 One is so near to another that no air can come between them.
17 Each to its fellow is joined;
they grip one another and will not be parted.
18 His sneezings flash forth light,
and his eyes are like the eyelids of the dawn.[g] 19 From his mouth burning torches stream;
fiery sparks spring out.
20 From his nostrils smoke pours,
as from a seething pot over kindled reeds.
21 Its breath sets coals ablaze,
and flames shoot from its mouth.
22 In his neck abides strength,
and before him dances dismay.
23 The folds of its flesh are tightly joined,
firm on it and immovable.
24 His heart is firm as a stone,
firm as the nether millstone.
25 At his rising the mighty[h] take fright;
at the crashing they lose themselves.
26 The sword that strikes it is useless,
as are the spear, the dart, and the javelin.[i]

27 He counts iron as straw,
and bronze as rotten wood.
28 No arrow drives him off;
sling stones become chaff to him.
29 Clubs are counted as stubble;
he laughs at the rattle of the javelin.
30 Beneath him are jagged shards;
like a threshing sledge he sprawls in the mud.
31 He makes the deep boil like a pot;
he makes the sea like a pot of ointment.
32 It leaves a gleaming trail behind it;
you would think the deep had turned white-haired.
33 Upon earth there is not his like,
a creature made without fear.
34 He beholds everything that is high;
he is king over all the sons of pride."[j]

Notes

- a (41:1) Hebrew livyatan; see the note at 3:8. Here the description is often thought to draw on the crocodile, but it is enlarged with features of the mythic sea dragon (fire-breathing, verses 18–21), and the identification remains uncertain. The Hebrew and the Septuagint (Brenton) number 41:1–8 as 40:25–32, and 41:9–34 as 41:1–26. Brenton's Septuagint begins with the question whether one can catch the serpent with a hook (Brenton, modernized).
- b (41:1) Or "a hook."
- c (41:9) Hebrew "his hope is false," that is, the hope of anyone who would attack him.
- d (41:11) The Hebrew of verses 10–11 is difficult; some manuscripts and the Septuagint have a third-person sense, "who can stand before him… who has confronted him and come away safe?" (reported). Compare Romans 11:35.
- e (41:13) So the Septuagint, "who can enter within the fold of his breastplate?" (Brenton); the Hebrew reads "his double bridle," perhaps referring to the jaws.
- f (41:15) Or "His pride is his rows of shields." The Hebrew ga'avah, "pride," and gav, "back," differ by vowels only.
- g (41:18) The Septuagint reads "At his sneezing a light shines, and his eyes are as the appearance of the morning star" (Brenton).
- h (41:25) Or "the gods."
- i (41:26) Hebrew shiryah, found only here; perhaps "javelin" or "coat of mail."

- j (41:34) Hebrew bene-shaḥats, also at 28:8; probably the proud beasts of prey. The Septuagint reads “and he is king of all that are in the waters” (Brenton).

Chapter 42

1 Then Job answered Yahweh and said:
2 “I know that you can do all things,
and that no purpose of yours can be thwarted.
3 ‘Who is this that hides counsel without knowledge?’
Therefore I declared what I did not understand, things too wonderful for me, which I did not know.
4 ‘Listen, and I will speak;
I will question you, and you will inform me.’
5 By the hearing of the ear I had heard of you,
but now my eye sees you;
6 therefore I despise myself,[a]
and I repent[b] upon dust and ashes.”
7 After Yahweh had said these things to Job, Yahweh said to Eliphaz the Temanite, “I am angry with you and your two friends, because you have not spoken what is right about me, as my servant Job has. 8 So now take seven bulls and seven rams for yourselves, and go to Job my servant, and offer up for yourselves a burnt offering. And Job my servant will intercede for you, for his prayer I will accept, so as not to treat you as your folly deserves; because you have not spoken rightly concerning me, as has Job my servant.” 9 So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went and did as Yahweh had told them, and Yahweh accepted Job.
10 And Yahweh turned the captivity[c] of Job when he prayed for his friends. And Yahweh gave to Job twice as much as all that he had before. 11 Then all his brothers and sisters and all his former acquaintances came to see him, and they shared a meal with him in his house. They felt sorry for him and consoled him over all the calamity that Yahweh had brought on him. Each one gave him a piece of money[d] and a gold ring.[e]
12 And Yahweh blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning. And he had fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand female donkeys. 13 He had also seven sons[f] and three daughters. 14 And he called the name of the first Jemimah,[g] and the name of the second Keziah,[h] and the name of the third Keren-happuch.[i] 15 And in all the land no women were found so fair as the daughters of Job. And their father gave them an inheritance among their brothers. 16 And after this Job lived a hundred and forty years,[j] and saw his sons, and his sons' sons, four generations. 17 And Job died, old and full of days.[k]

Notes

- a (42:6) Or "I reject (my words)," or "I melt away"; the Hebrew verb has no stated object. The Septuagint reads "Wherefore I have counted myself vile, and have fainted" (Brenton). This verse is a well-known crux.
- b (42:6) Or "I am comforted," or "I relent concerning dust and ashes," that is, concerning my mortal condition or my mourning. The Hebrew niḥamti can bear several senses.
- c (42:10) Or "restored the fortunes."
- d (42:11) Hebrew qesitah, a unit of money or weight of unknown value, found elsewhere only in Genesis 33:19 and Joshua 24:32; the Septuagint has "a lamb" (Brenton), and some ancient versions also take it as a lamb. The Qumran Aramaic Targum of Job (11QtgJob) is reported to end in this verse.
- e (42:11) Or "a nose ring" or "earring." The Septuagint reads "four drachms' weight of gold, even of unstamped gold" (Brenton).
- f (42:13) The Hebrew form shivʿanah is unusual; some Jewish interpreters took it to mean "twice seven," that is, fourteen sons.
- g (42:14) Jemimah probably means "dove"; the Septuagint has "Day" (Brenton).
- h (42:14) Keziah means "cassia," a fragrant spice; the Septuagint has "Casia" (Brenton).
- i (42:14) Keren-happuch means "horn of eye-paint," a container for the cosmetic used to darken the eyelids; the Septuagint has "Amalthæa's horn" (Brenton), the horn of plenty.
- j (42:16) The Septuagint reads "And Job lived after his affliction a hundred and seventy years: and all the years he lived were two hundred and forty" (Brenton).
- k (42:17) The Septuagint adds a long postscript (Brenton, modernized): "And it is written that he will rise again with those whom the Lord raises up. This man is described in the Syriac book as living in the land of Ausis, on the borders of Idumea and Arabia, and his name before was Jobab. And having taken an Arabian wife, he fathered a son whose name was Ennon. And he himself was the son of his father Zare, one of the sons of Esau, and of his mother Bosorrha, so that he was the fifth from Abraham. And these were the kings who reigned in Edom, which country he also ruled over: first, Balac the son of Beor, and the name of his city was Dennaba; and after Balac, Jobab, who is called Job; and after him Asom, who was governor out of the country of Thaeman; and after him Adad the son of Barad, who destroyed Madiam in the plain of Moab, and the name of his city was Gethaim. And his friends who came to him were Eliphaz, of the children of Esau, king of the Thaemanites; Baldad, sovereign of the Sauchaeans; Sophar, king of the Minaeans." This addition identifies Job with Jobab of Genesis 36:33 and is not part of the Hebrew text.

Psalms

Old Testament

Chapter 1

Book One (Psalms 1–41)

1 Blessed is the man[a]
who does not walk in the counsel of the wicked,
nor stand in the way of sinners,
nor sit in the seat of scoffers;
2 but his delight is in the law[b] of Yahweh,
and on his law he meditates[c] day and night.
3 He will be like a tree planted beside streams of water,
which yields its fruit in its time;
its leaf also does not wither,
and whatever he does prospers.
4 Not so the wicked!
They are like the chaff that the wind drives away.
5 Therefore the wicked will not stand in the judgment,
nor sinners in the assembly of the righteous.
6 For Yahweh knows the way of the righteous,
but the way of the wicked will perish.

Notes

- a (1:1) Or "Happy is the one." Hebrew 'ashre, "O the happiness of," opens Psalm 1 and closes Psalm 2 (2:12), so that the two psalms frame an introduction to the whole Psalter. "The man" here stands for any person who lives this way.
- b (1:2) Hebrew torah, "instruction, teaching": God's word as a whole, not only the commandments.
- c (1:2) Hebrew hagah, to murmur or recite in a low voice; reading aloud and pondering.

Chapter 2

1 Why do the nations rage,[a]
and the peoples mutter empty plans?

2 The kings of the earth take their stand,
and the rulers plot together
against Yahweh and against his anointed one:[b] 3 "Let us tear their bonds apart,
and cast their ropes away from us!"
4 The One enthroned in the heavens laughs;
the Lord[c] mocks them.
5 Then he will speak to them in his anger,
and terrify them in his fury:
6 "But I—I have set my king
on Zion, my holy mountain."
7 I will tell of the decree:
Yahweh said to me, "You are my son;
today I have become your father.[d]
8 Ask it of me, and I will give you the nations for your heritage, and the farthest ends of the earth for your own.
9 You will break them with a rod of iron;[e]
you will smash them like a potter's jar."
10 Now therefore, you kings, be wise;
be warned, you judges of the earth.
11 Serve Yahweh with fear,
and rejoice with trembling.
12 Kiss the son,[f] lest he be angry and you perish on the way,
for his anger is quickly kindled.
Blessed are all who take refuge in him.

Notes

- a (2:1) Or "gather in tumult." Acts 4:25–26 quotes verses 1–2 from the Greek.
- b (2:2) Hebrew mashiakh, "anointed one," the king anointed with oil; the word from which "Messiah" comes. The New Testament reads this psalm of Christ (Acts 13:33; Hebrews 1:5; 5:5).
- c (2:4) Hebrew Adonai, "Lord, Master," a title of God distinct from the divine name Yahweh. It is rendered "Lord" throughout this translation.
- d (2:7) Hebrew "I have begotten you," the language of the king's installation as God's son (compare 2 Samuel 7:14).

- e (2:9) The Septuagint, reading the same consonants with other vowels, has "You will shepherd them with a rod of iron," the form quoted in Revelation 2:27; 12:5; 19:15.
- f (2:12) The Hebrew is difficult. "Son" here is bar, the Aramaic word (Hebrew uses ben, as in verse 7). Some take the line as "Kiss purely," or "Do homage in purity"; the Septuagint has "Take hold of instruction," and the Latin Vulgate (Jerome) "Embrace discipline," though Jerome elsewhere rendered "worship purely." Kissing the hand or feet was a sign of submission to a king.

Chapter 3

A psalm of David, when he fled from Absalom his son.

1 Yahweh, how many enemies I have!
So many stand against me,
2 many are saying of my soul,
"There is no salvation for him in God."
Selah[b]
3 But you, Yahweh, are a shield around me,
my glory, and the one who lifts up my head.
4 With my voice I cry to Yahweh,
and he answers me from his holy mountain.
Selah
5 I lay down and slept;
I woke, for Yahweh sustains me.
6 I will not be afraid of ten thousands of people who have set themselves against me all around.
7 Arise, Yahweh! Save me, my God!
For you have struck all my enemies on the jaw;
you have shattered the teeth of the wicked.
8 Salvation belongs to Yahweh;
your blessing be upon your people!
Selah

Notes

- a (3 title) See 2 Samuel 15–18. In the Hebrew Bible a psalm's title is counted as verse 1 (or verses 1–2), so the Hebrew verse numbers of titled psalms usually run one higher than the English numbers used here.
- b (3:2) Selah occurs 71 times in the Psalms and three times in Habakkuk 3. Its meaning is unknown; it is probably a musical or liturgical direction, perhaps calling for a pause, an interlude, or a raising of the voice. The Septuagint renders it diapsalma, "interlude."

Chapter 4

For the choir leader: with stringed instruments. A psalm of David.

1 Answer me when I call, my righteous God!
When I was in trouble, you gave me room;[c]
have mercy on me and listen to my prayer.
2 You sons of men,[d] how long will my honor be turned to shame?
How long will you love emptiness and seek after lies?
Selah
3 Know that Yahweh has set apart the faithful one[e] for himself;
Yahweh hears when I call to him.
4 Tremble,[f] and do not sin;
speak within your hearts on your beds, and be still.
Selah
5 Offer sacrifices of righteousness,
and put your trust in Yahweh.
6 Many are asking, "Who will let us see something good?"
Yahweh, lift the light of your face over us.
7 You have put gladness in my heart,
more than when their grain and new wine abound.
8 I will lie down in peace and fall asleep,
for you alone, Yahweh, keep me living securely.

Notes

- a (4 title) Hebrew lamnatseakh, perhaps "for the leader," "for the director of music"; it heads 55 psalms. The Septuagint takes it as "for the end."
- b (4 title) Hebrew neginot.
- c (4:1) Hebrew "you made room for me."
- d (4:2) Or "You people of rank"; Hebrew bene 'ish, which may mean men of standing.
- e (4:3) Hebrew khasid, one devoted to God and loyal in covenant love (khesed).
- f (4:4) Or "Be angry." The Septuagint has "Be angry, and do not sin," quoted in Ephesians 4:26.

Chapter 5

For the choir leader: for the flutes. A psalm of David.

1 Give ear to my words, Yahweh;
consider my sighing.[b]
2 Listen to the sound of my cry, my King and my God, for to you I pray.
3 Yahweh, in the morning you hear my voice;
in the morning I lay my case before you[c] and keep watch.
4 For you are not a God who takes pleasure in wickedness;
evil cannot dwell with you.
5 The arrogant cannot stand in your sight;
you hate all who do evil.
6 You destroy those who speak lies;
the man of bloodshed and deceit Yahweh abhors.
7 But as for me, by the greatness of your covenant love[d] I will come into your house;
in awe of you I will bow down toward your holy temple.
8 Yahweh, because of my enemies who watch for me, guide me in your righteousness;
level your road in front of me.
9 For there is no truth in their mouth;
within them is ruin;
their throat is a grave left open;
with their tongue they speak smoothly.[e]
10 Hold them guilty, O God;
let them fall by their own schemes.
For their many transgressions thrust them out,
for they have rebelled against you.
11 But let all who shelter in you be glad;
let them sing for joy forever, and cover them,
that the lovers of your name may exult in you.
12 For you bless the righteous, Yahweh;
you surround him with favor as with a shield.

Notes

- a (5 title) Hebrew nekhilot, probably "flutes"; the meaning is uncertain.
- b (5:1) Or "my murmuring," "my meditation."

- c (5:3) Or "I prepare a sacrifice for you"; the verb is used of setting out an offering or arranging words.
- d (5:7) Hebrew khesed, God's loyal, covenant-keeping love and kindness; a key word of the Psalms (it occurs about 130 times), rendered "covenant love" in this translation.
- e (5:9) Paul quotes this line in Romans 3:13.

Chapter 6

For the choir leader: with stringed instruments, on the eighth. A psalm of David.

1 Yahweh, do not correct me in anger or punish me in fury.
2 Be gracious to me, Yahweh, for I am languishing;
heal me, Yahweh, for my bones are shaken.
3 My soul also is greatly shaken;
but you, Yahweh—how long?
4 Turn, Yahweh, rescue my soul;
save me because of your covenant love.
5 No one in death remembers you;
in the grave[b] who can praise you?
6 I am weary with my groaning;
every night I flood my bed;
I drench my couch with my tears.
7 My eye is wasted with sorrow;
it has grown old because of all my adversaries.
8 Depart from me, all you workers of iniquity,
for Yahweh has heard the sound of my weeping.
9 Yahweh has heard my plea;
Yahweh accepts my prayer.
10 All my enemies will be ashamed and greatly shaken;
they will turn back and be put to shame in a moment.

Notes

- a (6 title) Hebrew 'al hasheminit, perhaps an instrument of eight strings, or a lower octave; the meaning is uncertain. This is the first of seven psalms that the church has long called the Penitential Psalms (6, 32, 38, 51, 102, 130, 143).
- b (6:5) Sheol is the Hebrew name for the realm of the dead, the grave or underworld.

Chapter 7

A shiggaion of David, which he sang to Yahweh concerning the words of Cush, a Benjaminite.

1 Yahweh my God, in you I take refuge;
save me from all who pursue me, and deliver me,
2 lest like a lion they tear my soul apart,
dragging me off, with none to deliver.
3 Yahweh my God, if I have done this,
if there is wrong in my hands,
4 if I have paid back evil to the one at peace with me,
or stripped my adversary without cause,
5 let the enemy pursue my soul and overtake it,
and trample my life to the ground,
and lay my glory in the dust.
Selah
6 Rise up, Yahweh, in your anger;
stand tall against the rage of my enemies;
wake up on my behalf;[c] you have ordered justice.
7 Let the assembly of the peoples gather around you,
and over it return on high.
8 Yahweh is the judge of the nations;
vindicate me, Yahweh, as my righteousness deserves,
and by the innocence I have.
9 Let the evil of the wicked come to an end,
but establish the righteous—
you who test hearts and minds,[d] O righteous God.
10 My shield is with God,
who saves the upright in heart.
11 God is a righteous judge,
and a God who is indignant every day.
12 If a man does not repent, God will sharpen his sword;
he has bent his bow and made it ready.
13 He has prepared for himself weapons of death;
he makes his arrows fiery shafts.

14 Look, the wicked man conceives iniquity;
he is pregnant with mischief and gives birth to lies.
15 He digs a pit and scoops it out,
and falls himself into the hole he made.
16 His mischief returns upon his own head,
and his violence comes down on his own skull.
17 I will give thanks to Yahweh for his righteousness, and I will sing praise to the name of Yahweh, the Most High.[e]

Notes

- a (7 title) Hebrew shiggayon, a term of uncertain meaning, perhaps a lament or an impassioned song (compare Habakkuk 3:1).
- b (7 title) Cush is otherwise unknown; perhaps an ally of Saul from Saul's tribe of Benjamin.
- c (7:6) Or "awake, my God"; the Septuagint has "awake, O Lord my God."
- d (7:9) Hebrew "hearts and kidneys," the seat of thought and of the deepest feelings.
- e (7:17) Hebrew Elyon, "Most High," a title of God (compare Genesis 14:18–22).

Chapter 8

For the choir leader: on the gittith. A psalm of David.

1 Yahweh, our Lord,[b]
how majestic is your name in all the earth!
You have set your splendor above the heavens.[c]
2 Out of the mouths of children and infants
you have founded strength because of your foes,
to silence the enemy and the avenger.[d]
3 When I look at your heavens, the work of your fingers,
the moon and the stars, which you have set in place,
4 what is a human being, that you think of him,
and the son of man,[e] that you look after him?
5 Yet you have made him only a little less than God,[f]
and with glory and honor you crown him.
6 You make him ruler over the works of your hands;
you have put all things under his feet:
7 sheep and oxen, all of them,
and also the beasts of the field,

[8] the birds of the sky and the fish of the sea,
all that travel the paths of the seas.
[9] Yahweh, our Lord,
how majestic is your name in all the earth!

Notes

- a (8 title) Hebrew 'al haggittit, perhaps an instrument or tune from Gath, or a song for the winepress (Hebrew gat); the meaning is uncertain.
- b (8:1) Here "Lord" is Hebrew 'adon, "master, sovereign," the ordinary word for a lord, used here of God.
- c (8:1) The Hebrew of this line is difficult; literally perhaps "which, give your splendor upon the heavens."
- d (8:2) The Septuagint has "you have prepared praise," the form quoted in Matthew 21:16.
- e (8:4) Or "what is a human being… and a mortal." Hebrew 'enosh and ben 'adam are both words for humankind. Hebrews 2:6–8 reads verses 4–6 of Jesus.
- f (8:5) Hebrew 'elohim, which can mean God or heavenly beings; the Septuagint has "angels," as quoted in Hebrews 2:7.

Chapter 9

For the choir leader: on Muth-labben. A psalm of David.

[1] I will give thanks to Yahweh with my whole heart;
I will recount all your wonderful deeds.
[2] I will be glad and exult in you;
I will sing praise to your name, O Most High.
[3] When my enemies turn back,
they stumble and perish before you.
[4] For you have maintained my right and my cause;
you sit on the throne, a righteous judge.
[5] You have rebuked the nations; you have destroyed the wicked;
you have blotted out their name forever and ever.
[6] The enemy has come to an end in ruins forever;
you have uprooted their cities;
the very memory of them has perished.
[7] But Yahweh is seated as king forever;
he has set up his throne for judgment.
[8] And he will judge the world in righteousness;
he will judge the peoples with equity.

9 Yahweh will be a high refuge for the crushed,
a high refuge in times of distress.
10 And those who know your name will trust in you,
for you, Yahweh, have not forsaken those who seek you.
11 Sing praises to Yahweh, who dwells in Zion!
Tell among the peoples his deeds!
12 For the one who requires blood remembers them;
he has not forgotten the outcry of the humble.[b]
13 Have mercy on me, Yahweh!
Look at how my haters make me suffer;
you raise me up from the gates of death, 14 that I may recount all your praises,
in the gates of the daughter of Zion[c]
I will rejoice in your salvation.
15 The nations have sunk down into the pit they dug;
their own foot is caught in the net they hid.
16 Yahweh has made himself known; he has executed judgment;
the wicked is snared in the work of his own hands.
Higgaion.[d] Selah
17 The wicked shall turn back to Sheol,
all the nations who forget God.
18 For the needy will not always be forgotten,
nor the hope of the afflicted[e] perish forever.
19 Arise, Yahweh! Let not man prevail;
let the nations be judged before you.
20 Put them in fear, Yahweh;
let the nations know that they are but men.
Selah

Notes

- a (9 title) Hebrew 'al-mut labben, perhaps "on the death of the son," the name of a tune; the meaning is uncertain. Psalms 9 and 10 together form a single acrostic poem, each pair of verses beginning with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet, though the pattern is broken in places. Psalm 10 has no title, and the Septuagint and Vulgate treat 9–10 as one psalm (their Psalm 9); from there until Psalm 147 their numbering runs one behind the Hebrew (see the note on the numbering at the end of the book).

- b (9:12) So the qere; the ketiv has “the afflicted.” The two Hebrew words, ʿaniyyim and ʿanawim, are often interchanged in the Psalms.
- c (9:14) That is, the city of Jerusalem, pictured as a young woman.
- d (9:16) Hebrew higgayon, perhaps a musical interlude or a meditative murmur (compare 19:14; 92:3).
- e (9:18) So the qere; the ketiv has “the humble.”

Chapter 10

1 Why, Yahweh, do you stand far off?
Why do you hide yourself in times of trouble?
2 The wicked in their pride chase down the poor;
may they be trapped by the plots they have made.
3 For the wicked boasts of the desire of his soul,
and the greedy one curses and spurns Yahweh.[a] 4 In his haughtiness the wicked does not seek him;
“There is no God” is the sum of all his schemes.
5 His ways are firm at all times;
your judgments are high above, out of his sight;
he scoffs at all his adversaries.
6 He says in his heart, “I will not be moved;
throughout all generations I will not meet adversity.”
7 His mouth is full of cursing and deceit and oppression;[b]
under his tongue are mischief and iniquity.
8 He sits in ambush near the villages;
in secret places he kills the innocent;
his eyes spy out the helpless.
9 He lies in wait in secret like a lion in his thicket;
he lies in wait to seize the afflicted;
he seizes the afflicted when he draws him into his net.
10 He crouches, he bows down,
and the helpless fall by his might.[c] 11 He says in his heart, “God has forgotten;
he has hidden his face; he will never see it.”
12 Arise, Yahweh! O God, raise your hand;
do not forget the lowly.[d]

13 Why do the wicked reject God and tell themselves, "You will not hold me accountable"?
14 But you have seen it, for you observe trouble and sorrow,
and take it in hand;
the helpless entrusts himself to you;
you have always helped the orphan.
15 Break the arm of the wicked and evil person;
search out his evil until nothing of it is left.
16 Yahweh is King forever and ever;
the nations have perished from his land.
17 Yahweh, you have heard the longing of the meek;
you will make their hearts firm and turn your ear to them 18 to give justice to the orphan and the crushed, so that mortals made from the earth will never again strike terror.

Notes

- a (10:3) Or "and blesses the greedy one, and spurns Yahweh." The Hebrew is uncertain; "curses" translates "blesses," which may be a scribal euphemism.
- b (10:7) Paul quotes this line in Romans 3:14.
- c (10:10) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.
- d (10:12) So the qere; the ketiv has "the afflicted."

Chapter 11

For the choir leader. Of David.

1 I take refuge in Yahweh.
How can you tell me,
"Fly away[b] to your mountain like a bird"?
2 Look, the wicked draw their bows;
they have fitted their arrows to the strings
to shoot from the shadows at people with honest hearts.
3 When the foundations are torn down,
what can the righteous do?
4 Yahweh is in his holy temple;
Yahweh—his throne is in the heavens;
his eyes behold, his eyelids examine the children of man.

5 Yahweh puts the righteous to the test,
but the wicked and the lover of violence his soul hates.
6 On the wicked he will rain snares;[c]
fire and sulfur and a scorching wind will be the portion of their cup.
7 For Yahweh is righteous and loves acts of righteousness;
the upright shall gaze upon his face.

Notes

- a (11 title) Or "By David," "For David," or "Belonging to David." The Hebrew preposition le- in the titles can mark authorship, dedication, or a collection associated with David.
- b (11:1) So the qere; the ketiv has a plural verb, "Flee, you people."
- c (11:6) Or, with a slight change, "coals of fire."

Chapter 12

For the choir leader: on the eighth. A psalm of David.

1 Save, Yahweh, for the godly one is no more;
the faithful have vanished from among the children of man.
2 Each one speaks falsehood with his neighbor;
with smooth lips and a double heart they speak.
3 May Yahweh cut off all smooth lips,
the tongue that talks of great things,
4 those who say, "By our tongue we shall be strong;
our lips are with us—who is lord over us?"
5 "Because the afflicted are plundered, because the needy groan,
now I will arise," says Yahweh;
"I will set him in the safety for which he longs."[a] 6 The words of Yahweh are pure words, silver refined in a furnace on the ground,[b]
purified seven times.
7 You, Yahweh, will protect them;
you will keep them[c] safe from this generation forever.
8 On every side the wicked prowl,
when vileness is exalted among the children of man.

Notes

- a (12:5) Or "that he pants for"; or "from the one who puffs at him." The Hebrew is uncertain.

- b (12:6) The meaning of the Hebrew phrase is uncertain.
- c (12:7) Or “guard us” (so some Hebrew manuscripts and the Septuagint).

Chapter 13

For the choir leader. A psalm of David.

1 How long, Yahweh? Will you forget me forever?
How long will you hide your face from me?
2 How long must I take counsel in my soul,
with sorrow in my heart all the day?
How long shall my enemy be exalted over me?
3 Look on me and answer me, Yahweh my God;
give light to my eyes, lest I sleep the sleep of death,
4 lest my enemy say, “I have overcome him,”
lest my foes rejoice because I am shaken.
5 But as for me, I have trusted in your covenant love;
my heart shall rejoice in your salvation.
6 I will sing to Yahweh,
because he has dealt generously with me.

Chapter 14

For the choir leader. Of David.

1 The fool[b] has said in his heart, “There is no God.”
They act corruptly; their deeds are detestable;
not one of them does good.
2 Yahweh looks down from heaven on the children of man,
to see whether there is anyone who understands,
anyone who seeks after God.
3 All have gone astray; all alike have turned rotten;
no one does good,
no, not one.[c]
4 Do all the workers of iniquity have no knowledge,
who eat up my people as they eat bread,
and do not call upon Yahweh?
5 There they shall be in terror, terror indeed,
for God is in the company of the righteous.

6 You would put to shame the plans of the afflicted,
but Yahweh is his refuge.
7 Oh, that the salvation of Israel would come out of Zion!
When Yahweh restores the fortunes of his people,
let Jacob rejoice, let Israel be glad.

Notes

- a (14 title) Psalm 14 appears again, with small differences, as Psalm 53, where God (Elohim) stands in place of Yahweh.
- b (14:1) Hebrew nabal, one who is morally and spiritually senseless, not merely unintelligent (compare Nabal in 1 Samuel 25:25).
- c (14:3) Paul quotes verses 1–3 in Romans 3:10–12. Some Septuagint manuscripts add here the lines that Paul quotes in Romans 3:13–18.

Chapter 15

A psalm of David.

1 Yahweh, who may sojourn in your tent?
Who may dwell on your holy mountain?
2 The one who walks blamelessly and does what is right,
and speaks truth in his heart;
3 who does not slander with his tongue,
nor does evil to his companion,
nor takes up a reproach against his neighbor;
4 who despises those who are vile in his eyes
but gives honor to those who fear Yahweh;
who keeps his promise even when it hurts him;
5 who does not lend his money at interest,[a]
nor take a bribe against the innocent.
He who does these things shall never be moved.

Notes

- a (15:5) Lending at interest to a fellow Israelite in need was forbidden by the law (Exodus 22:25; Leviticus 25:35–37; Deuteronomy 23:19–20).

Chapter 16

A miktam of David.

1 Preserve me, O God, for in you I take refuge.

2 I said[b] to Yahweh, "You are my Lord;
I have no good apart from you."
3 As for the saints who are in the land,
they are the majestic ones, and all my delight is in them.[c]
4 The sorrows of those who hurry after another god shall be multiplied;
I will not pour out their drink offerings of blood,
nor take their names upon my lips.
5 Yahweh is my allotted portion and my cup;
you hold fast my lot.
6 My measured portion has fallen to me in lovely places;
indeed, my heritage is beautiful to me.
7 I will bless Yahweh, who gives me counsel;
even in the nights my inmost being[d] instructs me.
8 I have set Yahweh always before me;
because he is at my right hand, I shall not be moved.
9 So my heart rejoices and my glory[e] is glad;
my body too shall rest secure.
10 For you will not leave my soul in the grave
or let your loyal one[f] see the pit.[g] 11 You make me know the path of life;
with your face there is joy in full;
at your right hand, delights forever.

Notes

- a (16 title) Hebrew miktam, a term of uncertain meaning, used in the titles of Psalms 16 and 56–60; perhaps "inscription" or "epigram."
- b (16:2) So the Septuagint and some Hebrew manuscripts; most Hebrew manuscripts have "You said," addressed to the soul.
- c (16:3) The Hebrew of verses 3 and 4 is difficult, and the sense is uncertain.
- d (16:7) Hebrew "my kidneys."
- e (16:9) Or "my soul"; the Septuagint has "my tongue," as quoted in Acts 2:26.
- f (16:10) So the qere and many Hebrew manuscripts, with the ancient versions; the ketiv has "your faithful ones."
- g (16:10) Or "see corruption." The Septuagint has "corruption," the form quoted in Acts 2:27 and 13:35, where Peter and Paul apply verses 8–11 to the resurrection of Jesus.

Chapter 17

A prayer of David.

1 Hear my just cause, Yahweh; attend to my cry!
Give ear to my prayer, which comes from honest lips!
2 Let my sentence go out from before you;
may your eyes see the things that are right.
3 You have probed my heart and examined me in the night;
you have refined me and found no wrong;
I have purposed that my mouth shall not overstep.
4 As for the deeds of men, by the word of your lips
I have kept myself from the ways of the violent.
5 My steps have held fast to your paths;
my feet have not slipped.
6 I call upon you, for you will answer me, O God;
incline your ear to me; hear my words.
7 Show the wonders of your covenant love,
you who save by your right hand
those who seek refuge from their adversaries.
8 Keep me as the pupil of the eye;[a] hide me in the shadow of your wings 9 from the wicked who assault me,
my deadly enemies who surround me.
10 They have closed up their unfeeling heart;[b]
with their mouth they speak arrogantly.
11 They have tracked us down; now they have surrounded us;[c]
they set their eyes to cast us to the ground.
12 He is like a lion that longs to rend its prey,
like a young lion crouching in secret places.
13 Arise, Yahweh, confront him, bring him down!
Deliver my soul from the wicked by your sword, 14 from men by your hand, Yahweh,
from men of the world whose portion is in this life.
You fill their belly with what you have stored up;[d]

their sons are satisfied,
and they leave what remains to their little ones.
15 But I, in righteousness I shall see your face;
when I wake, your form will satisfy me.

Notes

- a (17:8) Hebrew "as the little man, the daughter of the eye," referring to the small reflection one sees in another's pupil.
- b (17:10) Hebrew "their fat."
- c (17:11) So the qere; the ketiv has "surrounded me."
- d (17:14) So the qere ("your treasured things"); the ketiv has a different spelling of the same word. The sense of the verse is uncertain: it may describe the punishment stored up for the wicked, or the good things God gives his own.

Chapter 18

For the choir leader. Of David the servant of Yahweh, who spoke to Yahweh the words of this song on the day when Yahweh delivered him from the hand of all his enemies and from the hand of Saul. He said:

1 I love you, Yahweh, my strength.[b]
2 Yahweh is my rock and my fortress and my deliverer,
my God, my rock, in whom I take refuge,
my shield, and the horn[c] of my salvation, my high tower.
3 I call upon Yahweh, who is worthy to be praised,
and I am saved from my enemies.
4 The ropes of death wrapped around me;
the floods of destruction[d] overwhelmed me with terror;
5 the ropes of Sheol coiled about me;
the traps of death came upon me.
6 In my distress I called on Yahweh,
and to my God I cried out;
he heard my voice out of his temple,
and my cry for help before him reached his ears.
7 Then the earth shook and trembled;
the roots of the mountains quaked
and were shaken, for his anger blazed.

8 Smoke rose from his nostrils,
and fire from his mouth consumed;
coals were kindled by it.
9 He bowed the heavens and came down;
thick darkness was under his feet.
10 He rode on a cherub and flew;
he soared on the wings of the wind.
11 He made darkness his covering, his canopy around him,
dark waters, thick clouds of the skies.
12 Out of the brightness in front of him
his dense clouds moved on,
with hail and burning coals.
13 Yahweh also thundered in the heavens,
and the Most High uttered his voice,
hailstones and coals of fire.[e] 14 He shot his arrows and scattered them;[f]
lightning bolts he hurled and threw them into confusion.
15 Then the channels of water were seen,
and the foundations of the world were laid bare
at your rebuke, Yahweh,
at the blast of the breath of your nostrils.
16 He reached down from on high, he took me;
he drew me out of many waters.
17 He delivered me from my strong enemy,
and from those who hated me, for they were too mighty for me.
18 They confronted me in the day of my calamity,
but Yahweh was my support.
19 He led me out into a wide, open place;
he rescued me because he took pleasure in me.
20 Yahweh dealt with me according to my righteousness;
according to the cleanness of my hands he repaid me.
21 For I have kept the ways of Yahweh,
and have not wickedly departed from my God.

22 For all his judgments were before me,
and his statutes I did not put away from me.
23 I was without fault before him,
and I kept myself from wrongdoing.
24 So Yahweh has repaid me according to my righteousness,
according to the cleanness of my hands in his sight.
25 To the loyal you show yourself loyal;
to the man of integrity you show yourself whole; 26 to the pure you prove yourself pure,
but to the twisted you prove yourself crafty.
27 For a lowly people you save,
but proud eyes you humble.
28 For you light my lamp;
Yahweh my God lights up my darkness.
29 For by you I rush upon a raiding band,
and by my God I leap over a rampart.
30 This God—his way is blameless;
the word of Yahweh is tested;
he is a shield to all who take refuge in him.
31 For who is God, except Yahweh?
And who is a rock, except our God?—
32 It is God who wraps me in strength and makes my path without fault.
33 He makes my feet like a doe's feet
and makes me stand firm on the heights.
34 He teaches my hands to fight,
and my arms can draw a bow of bronze.
35 You have given me the shield of your salvation,
and your right hand has upheld me,
and your gentleness[g] has made me great.
36 You have widened the ground beneath my steps,
and my ankles have not slipped.
37 I chased my enemies and caught up with them;
I did not turn around till I had finished them.

38 I struck them through, so that they could not rise;
they fell under my feet.
39 You wrapped me in strength for the fight;
you made my attackers kneel beneath me.
40 You made my enemies show me their backs,
and I wiped out those who hated me.
41 They cried for help, but there was none to save;
they cried to Yahweh, but he did not answer them.
42 I ground them like dust before the wind;
I poured them out like mire in the streets.
43 You rescued me from the quarrels of the people;
you set me at the head of nations;
a people I did not know became my servants.
44 At the mere report of me they submit;
sons of foreigners come fawning to me.
45 The sons of foreigners wither away
and come quaking from their fortresses.
46 Yahweh lives! Blessed be my rock, and exalted be the God of my salvation—47 the God who gives me vengeance
and subdues peoples under me, 48 who delivers me from my enemies;
yes, you lift me up above those who rise against me;
you rescue me from the man of violence.
49 Therefore I will give thanks to you among the nations, Yahweh,
and sing praises to your name.[h]
50 Great salvation he gives[i] to his king,
and shows covenant love to his anointed,
to David and to his offspring forever.

Notes

- a (18 title) This psalm appears also, with many small differences, in 2 Samuel 22.
- b (18:1) This line is not found in 2 Samuel 22.
- c (18:2) The horn, the weapon and pride of a strong animal, is a picture of strength and victory.

- d (18:4) Hebrew beliyya'al, "worthlessness," here perhaps a name for the underworld.
- e (18:13) This line is lacking in 2 Samuel 22:14, in some Hebrew manuscripts, and in the Septuagint; it may have been repeated from verse 12.
- f (18:14) That is, the enemies.
- g (18:35) Or "your humility," that is, your stooping down; or, as in 2 Samuel 22:36, "your answering."
- h (18:49) Paul quotes this verse in Romans 15:9.
- i (18:50) So the qere; the ketiv has "He is a tower of salvation," as in the qere of 2 Samuel 22:51.

Chapter 19

For the choir leader. A psalm of David.

1 The heavens declare the glory of God,
and the sky[a] announces what his hands have made.
2 Each day gushes forth speech to the next,
and each night makes knowledge known to the next.
3 There is no speaking and there are no words;
no voice of theirs is heard.
4 Yet their line goes out into all the earth,[b]
and their sayings to the farthest edge of the world.
There he has pitched a tent for the sun,
5 and it is like a bridegroom coming out of his canopy;
like a champion it rejoices to run its path.
6 Its rising is from the end of the heavens,
and its circuit to their other end,
and there is nothing hidden from its heat.
7 The law of Yahweh is perfect, restoring the soul;
the testimony of Yahweh is sure, making wise the simple;
8 the precepts of Yahweh are right, rejoicing the heart;
the commandment of Yahweh is pure, enlightening the eyes;
9 The fear of Yahweh is pure and lasts forever;
the decisions of Yahweh are true and completely right.
10 They are worth more than gold,
even a great deal of pure gold;

they are sweeter than honey,
than honey dripping from the comb.
11 Also by them your servant is made wary;
in the keeping of them there is great reward.
12 Who can discern his own errors?
Clear me from hidden faults.
13 Hold back your servant also from willful sins;
do not let them gain mastery over me!
Then I will be whole
and clean of grave transgression.
14 Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in your sight,
Yahweh, my rock and my redeemer.

Notes

- a (19:1) Hebrew raqia‘, the vault or dome of the sky (Genesis 1:6–8).
- b (19:4) Or “their sound.” The Septuagint has “their sound,” the form quoted in Romans 10:18.

Chapter 20

For the choir leader. A psalm of David.

1 May Yahweh answer you in the day of trouble!
May the name of the God of Jacob set you on high!
2 May he send you aid out of the holy place
and uphold you out of Zion!
3 May he call to mind all your gifts of grain and accept as rich your burnt offering!
Selah
4 May he grant you your heart’s desire and fulfill all your plans!
5 We will sing for joy when you win,
and raise our flags in the name of our God.
May Yahweh grant everything you ask!
6 Now I know that Yahweh saves his anointed;
he will answer him from his holy heaven
with the saving might of his right hand.

7 Some trust in chariots and some in horses,
but we will call upon the name of Yahweh our God.
8 They have buckled and fallen,
but we have stood up and hold our ground.
9 Yahweh, save the king![a]
May he answer us in the day we call.

Notes

- a (20:9) Or, following the Septuagint, "Yahweh, save the king, and answer us in the day we call."

Chapter 21

For the choir leader. A psalm of David.

1 The king shall be glad in your strength, Yahweh,
and how exceedingly he shall rejoice in your salvation![a] 2 The longing of his heart you have given him,
and the request of his lips you have not withheld.
Selah
3 You meet him with rich blessings
and place a crown of pure gold on his head.
4 Life he asked of you; you gave it to him,
length of days forever and ever.
5 Great is his glory through your salvation;
splendor and majesty you lay upon him.
6 For you make him a blessing forever;
you make him glad with joy in your presence.
7 For the king trusts in Yahweh, and through the covenant love of the Most High he shall not be shaken.
8 Your hand will find out all your enemies;
your right hand will find out those who hate you.
9 You will make them like a blazing oven
when you appear.[b]
Yahweh will swallow them up in his wrath,
and fire will consume them.

10 You will wipe their descendants off the earth and their children from among humanity.
11 Though they plan evil against you,
though they devise a scheme, they will not succeed.
12 For you will make them turn their backs;
you will aim at their faces with your bowstrings.
13 Be exalted, Yahweh, in your strength!
We will sing and make music to your might.

Notes

- a (21:1) So the qere; the ketiv has a different form of the same verb.
- b (21:9) Hebrew "at the time of your face."

Chapter 22

For the choir leader: on "The Doe of the Dawn." A psalm of David.

1 My God, my God, why have you abandoned me?[b]
Why do you stay so far from helping me,
far from my cries of pain?[c]
2 O my God, I cry in the daytime, and you do not hear,
and in the night season, and I am not silent.
3 But you are holy,
you who inhabit the praises of Israel.
4 Our fathers trusted in you;
they trusted, and you set them free.
5 To you they cried and were set free;
in you they trusted and were not put to shame.
6 But I am a worm, and no man,
a reproach of men and despised of the people.
7 All who see me mock me;
they curl their lips; they wag their heads:
8 "He trusted himself to Yahweh;[d] let him deliver him;
let him rescue him, seeing he delights in him!"
9 Yet you are the one who drew me from the womb;
you made me trust at my mother's breasts.
10 On you I was cast from birth;[e]
from my mother's womb you have been my God.

11 Be not far from me, for trouble is close at hand,
for there is none to help.
12 Many bulls encircle me;
strong bulls of Bashan[f] surround me.
13 They open wide their mouths at me,
a lion tearing and roaring.
14 I am poured out like water,
and all my bones are out of joint;
my heart is like wax;
it has melted within my breast.[g]
15 My strength is dried up like a potsherd,
and my tongue clings to my jaws,
and you have brought me into the dust of death.
16 Dogs surround me;
a pack of wicked men has encircled me;
they have pierced my hands and feet.[h] 17 I may tell all my bones;
they look and stare upon me.
18 they divide my garments among them,
and for my clothing they cast lots.[i] 19 But you, Yahweh, do not be far off!
O my strength, come quickly to my help!
20 Deliver my soul from the sword,
my only life[j] from the power of the dog!
21 Save me from the lion's mouth!
Even from the horns of the wild oxen you have answered me.[k]
22 I will declare your name to my brothers;
in the midst of the assembly I will praise you:[l]
23 Those who fear Yahweh, praise him!
Jacob's whole family, give him glory;
be in awe of him, every child of Israel!
24 For he has not despised nor abhorred
the affliction of the afflicted one;

he has not hidden his face from him,
but when he cried to him, he heard.
25 My praise shall be of you in the great congregation;
I will pay my vows before those who fear him.
26 The humble shall eat and be satisfied;
those who seek Yahweh shall praise him.
May your hearts live forever!
27 All the ends of the earth shall remember and turn to Yahweh, and all the families of the nations shall bow down before you.[m] 28 For kingship belongs to Yahweh,
and he rules over the nations.
29 All the rich of the earth will eat and bow down;
before him will kneel everyone headed for the dust,
even the one unable to preserve his own life.[n]
30 Offspring shall serve him;
it shall be told of the Lord to the generation to come.[o] 31 They will come and declare his righteousness to a people not yet born, saying that he has done this.

Notes

- a (22 title) Hebrew ’ayyelet hashshakhar, probably the name of a tune.
- b (22:1) Jesus cried these words from the cross, in Aramaic (Matthew 27:46; Mark 15:34).
- c (22:1) Hebrew “my roaring.”
- d (22:8) Hebrew “Roll it on Yahweh,” that is, commit your cause to him. Compare Matthew 27:43.
- e (22:10) Hebrew “from the womb.”
- f (22:12) Bashan, the fertile highlands east of the Sea of Galilee, was famous for its cattle (Amos 4:1).
- g (22:14) Hebrew “within my inward parts.”
- h (22:16) So some Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint (“they dug”), the Syriac, and Jerome (“they bound” or “they pierced”). A Dead Sea Scroll fragment of this psalm from Nahal Hever (5/6HevPs) reads a verb (ka’aru) that may mean “they dug” or “they pierced.” The Masoretic Text reads ka’ari, “like a lion,” which would give “like a lion, my hands and my feet,” a line that lacks a verb and is hard to construe. The difference in the Hebrew is a single letter (waw or yod), which look alike in many scripts. The New Testament gospels do not quote this line, but they describe the crucifixion in words drawn from this psalm (verses 1, 7–8, 18).

- i (22:18) See John 19:24 and Matthew 27:35.
- j (22:20) Hebrew "my only one," that is, my precious life.
- k (22:21) The sudden "you have answered me" marks the turn from lament to praise. The Septuagint has "and my lowliness from the horns of unicorns."
- l (22:22) Quoted in Hebrews 2:12.
- m (22:27) So the Hebrew; some Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint, and the Syriac have "before him."
- n (22:29) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult; "the prosperous" is literally "the fat ones."
- o (22:30) Or "to the next generation." The Hebrew may also be read, with the Septuagint, "and my offspring shall serve him."

Chapter 23

A psalm of David.

1 Yahweh is my shepherd;
I shall not be in want.
2 In grassy pastures he makes me lie down;
beside quiet waters he leads me.[a] 3 He renews my life.
He leads me along straight paths[b]
because of his name.
4 Yes, though I walk through the valley of deep darkness,[c]
I will fear no evil, for you are beside me;
your rod and your staff are a comfort to me.
5 You spread a table before me
in the presence of my adversaries;
you anoint my head with oil;
my cup overflows.
6 Surely goodness and covenant love shall pursue me
all the days of my life,
and I shall dwell[d] in the house of Yahweh
for length of days.

Notes

- a (23:2) Hebrew "waters of rest."
- b (23:3) Or "in paths of righteousness."

- c (23:4) Or “the valley of the shadow of death.” The Hebrew tsalmawet was understood by ancient translators as “shadow of death”; many scholars read it as “deep darkness.”
- d (23:6) So the Septuagint; the Hebrew vowels read “I shall return to.”

Chapter 24

Of David. A psalm.

1 The earth is Yahweh’s, and all that fills it,
the world and those who dwell in it,
2 for he has founded it upon the seas
and set it firm upon the rivers.
3 Who shall go up the mountain of Yahweh?
And who shall stand in his holy place?
4 The one with clean hands and a pure heart, who has not lifted up his soul[a] to what is false
and has not sworn deceitfully.
5 He will receive blessing from Yahweh
and righteousness from the God of his salvation.
6 Such is the generation of those who seek him,[b]
who seek your face, O God of Jacob.[c]
Selah
7 Lift up your heads, you gates!
Rise up, you ancient doors,
so the King of glory may enter.
8 Who is this King of glory?
Yahweh, strong and mighty,
Yahweh, mighty in battle!
9 Lift up your heads, O you gates;
lift them up, you everlasting doors,
and the King of glory shall come in.
10 Who is he, this King of glory?
Yahweh of Armies[d]—
he is the King of glory!
Selah

Notes

- a (24:4) So the qere and many manuscripts; the ketiv has “my soul,” that is, “has not taken my name in vain” (compare Exodus 20:7).
- b (24:6) So the qere; the ketiv is singular.
- c (24:6) So the Septuagint and Syriac; the Hebrew lacks “God of.”
- d (24:10) Hebrew YHWH tseba’ot, often rendered “the LORD of hosts.” The “armies” are the hosts of heaven, the angels and stars, and also the armies of Israel.

Chapter 25

Of David.

1 To you, Yahweh, I lift up my soul.
2 My God, I put my trust in you;
  let me not be put to shame;
  let my enemies not triumph over me.
3 No one who waits for you will be put to shame;
  those who betray without reason will be shamed.
4 Make me know your ways, Yahweh;
  teach me your paths.
5 Guide me in your truth and teach me,
  for you are my saving God;
  I wait for you all day.
6 Remember your mercy, Yahweh, and your covenant love,
  for they have been from of old.
7 Do not remember the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions;
  remember me according to your covenant love,
  for your goodness’ sake, Yahweh.
8 Yahweh is good and just;
  so he teaches sinners the right way.
9 The meek he will guide in judgment,
  and the meek he will teach his way.
10 All the paths of Yahweh are covenant love and faithfulness for those who keep his covenant and his testimonies.
11 For your name’s sake, Yahweh,
  pardon my iniquity, for it is great.
12 Who is the man who fears Yahweh?
  Him will he instruct in the way that he should choose.

13 His soul shall abide in prosperity,
and his offspring shall inherit the land.
14 The friendship[b] of Yahweh belongs to those who fear him,
and to them he reveals his covenant.
15 My eyes are ever toward Yahweh,
for he will bring my feet out of the net.
16 Turn yourself to me and have mercy on me,
for I am desolate and afflicted.
17 The troubles of my heart have grown wide;[c]
bring me out of my distresses.
18 Look upon my affliction and my pain,
and forgive all my sins.
19 See how many are my enemies,
and with what violent hatred they hate me.
20 Guard my soul and deliver me;
let me not be put to shame, for I take refuge in you.
21 May integrity and uprightness preserve me,
for I wait for you.
22 Redeem Israel, O God,
out of all his troubles.

Notes

- a (25 title) This psalm is an acrostic: each verse begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet, with small irregularities (the letter waw lacks a verse, and qof is replaced). Verse 22 stands outside the pattern.
- b (25:14) Or "the secret counsel," "the intimate circle."
- c (25:17) Or, with a different division of the Hebrew words, "Relieve the troubles of my heart."

Chapter 26

Of David.

1 Clear my name, Yahweh, for I have lived with integrity,
and I have trusted Yahweh without wavering.
2 Examine me, Yahweh, and try me;
test my heart and my mind.[a] 3 For your covenant love is before my eyes,
and I have walked in your truth.

4 I have not sat with deceitful men,
nor will I go in with pretenders.
5 I hate the assembly of evildoers,
and with the wicked I will not sit.
6 I will wash my hands in innocence,
and so will I go about your altar, Yahweh, 7 that I may make the voice of thanksgiving heard and tell of all your wondrous works.
8 Yahweh, I have loved the dwelling of your house and the place where your glory resides.
9 Do not gather my soul with sinners,
nor my life with bloodthirsty men, 10 in whose hands is wickedness,
and their right hand is full of bribes.
11 But as for me, I will walk in my integrity;
redeem me and have mercy on me.
12 My foot stands in an even place;
in the congregations I will bless Yahweh.

Notes

- a (26:2) Hebrew "my kidneys and my heart." "Test" follows the qere; the ketiv has a different form of the verb.

Chapter 27

Of David.

1 Yahweh is my light and my salvation;
whom shall I fear?
Yahweh is the stronghold of my life;
of whom shall I be afraid?
2 When evildoers draw near to me to devour my flesh,
my adversaries and my enemies,
it is they who stumble and fall.
3 Though an army encamp against me,
my heart shall not fear;
though war rise up against me,
even then I will be confident.

4 One thing I have asked of Yahweh, that will I seek:
that I may dwell in the house of Yahweh
all the days of my life,
to behold the beauty of Yahweh
and to inquire[a] in his temple.
5 For in the day of trouble he shall hide me in his pavilion;
in the secret of his tent he shall hide me;
he shall set me up upon a rock.
6 Now my head will be raised above the enemies around me,
and I will offer joyful sacrifices in his tent;
I will sing and make music to Yahweh.
7 Hear, Yahweh, when I cry with my voice;
have mercy also on me and answer me.
8 My heart says of you, "Seek my face."[b]
Your face, Yahweh, is what I seek.
9 Hide not your face far from me;
put not your servant away in anger;
you have been my help;
leave me not, neither forsake me,
O God of my salvation.
10 For my father and my mother have forsaken me,
but Yahweh will take me in.
11 Teach me your way, Yahweh,
and lead me on a level path
because of those who lie in wait for me.
12 Do not hand me over to what my enemies want,
for false witnesses have stood up against me
and are breathing out violence.
13 I believe that I shall see the goodness of Yahweh
in the land of the living![c]
14 Wait for Yahweh;
be strong, and let your heart take courage;
wait for Yahweh!

Notes

- a (27:4) Or "to meditate," "to seek guidance."
- b (27:8) Hebrew "To you my heart said, 'Seek my face.'" The sense is uncertain.
- c (27:13) The Hebrew begins with a word, "unless," marked by the Masoretes as doubtful; read with it, "If I had not believed that I would see…" The word is lacking in the Septuagint.

Chapter 28

Of David.

1 To you, Yahweh, I cry out.
My rock, do not ignore me;
if you say nothing to me,
I will become like those who descend to the pit.
2 Hear the voice of my supplications
when I cry to you,
when I lift up my hands
toward your holy inner sanctuary.[a] 3 Do not pull me away along with the wicked,
the workers of evil,
who talk of peace with their neighbors
but carry malice in their hearts.
4 Repay them for what they have done
and for their evil deeds;
repay them for the work of their hands;
give them what they deserve.
5 Because they do not regard the works of Yahweh
or the work of his hands,
he will tear them down and not build them up.
6 Praise be to Yahweh,
for he has listened to my cry for mercy.
7 Yahweh is my strength and my shield;
I trusted him with my heart, and he helped me;
so my heart is full of joy,
and I will thank him with my song.
8 Yahweh is strength to his people,[b]
and he is the saving strength of his anointed.

9 Save your people, and bless your inheritance;
shepherd them also, and lift them up forever.

Notes

- a (28:2) Hebrew debir, the innermost room of the temple, the Most Holy Place.
- b (28:8) So some Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint, and the Syriac; most Hebrew manuscripts have "their strength."

Chapter 29

A psalm of David.

1 Ascribe to Yahweh, you sons of God,[a] ascribe to Yahweh glory and strength.
2 Ascribe to Yahweh the glory due his name;
worship Yahweh in the splendor of holiness.[b] 3 The voice of Yahweh is over the waters;
the God of glory thunders,
Yahweh, over many waters.
4 The voice of Yahweh is powerful;
the voice of Yahweh is full of majesty.
5 The voice of Yahweh breaks the cedars;
Yahweh breaks the cedars of Lebanon.
6 He makes them also to skip like a calf,
Lebanon and Sirion[c] like a young wild ox.
7 The voice of Yahweh splits flames of fire.
8 The voice of Yahweh shakes the wilderness;
Yahweh shakes the wilderness of Kadesh.
9 The voice of Yahweh makes the hinds to calve[d]
and strips the forests bare,
and in his temple everyone says, "Glory!"
10 Yahweh sat enthroned over the flood;[e]
Yahweh sits enthroned as King forever.
11 May Yahweh give strength to his people!
May Yahweh bless his people with peace!

Notes

- a (29:1) Hebrew bene 'elim, "sons of gods," the heavenly beings around God's throne.

- b (29:2) Or “in holy attire.”
- c (29:6) Sirion is the Sidonian name for Mount Hermon (Deuteronomy 3:9).
- d (29:9) Or, with a slight change, “twists the oaks.”
- e (29:10) Hebrew mabbul, used elsewhere only of Noah’s flood (Genesis 6–11).

Chapter 30

A psalm. A song at the dedication of the house. Of David.

1 I will lift you up, Yahweh, for you raised me from the depths,
and you refused to let my enemies rejoice over me.
2 Yahweh my God, I cried to you,
and you have healed me.
3 Yahweh, you have brought up my soul from Sheol;
you have kept me alive, so that I did not go down to the pit.[b] 4 Sing praises to Yahweh, you his faithful ones,
and give thanks to his holy name.[c]
5 His anger lasts only a moment,
but his kindness lasts a lifetime.
Crying may stay for the night,
but joy arrives in the morning.
6 As for me, I said in my prosperity,
“I shall never be moved.”
7 Yahweh, by your favor you made my mountain stand strong;
you hid your face; I was dismayed.
8 To you, Yahweh, I cried,
and to the Lord I pleaded for mercy:
9 “What gain is there in my blood
when I go down to the pit?
Shall the dust praise you?
Shall it declare your truth?
10 Hear, Yahweh, and be gracious to me!
Yahweh, be my helper!”
11 You have turned my mourning into dancing for me;
you have loosed my sackcloth and clothed me with gladness, 12 so that my glory[d] may sing praise to you and not be silent.
Yahweh my God, I will give thanks to you forever!

Notes

- a (30 title) Perhaps the temple, or David's palace; Jewish tradition has used this psalm at Hanukkah, the feast of the rededication of the temple.
- b (30:3) So the qere; the ketiv has "from among those who go down to the pit."
- c (30:4) Hebrew "to the remembrance of his holiness."
- d (30:12) That is, my soul, or my whole being.

Chapter 31

For the choir leader. A psalm of David.

1 In you, Yahweh, I have taken refuge;
let me never be ashamed;
deliver me in your righteousness.
2 Bow down your ear to me;
rescue me speedily!
Be my strong rock,
a fortress to save me.
3 For you are my crag and my fortress;
therefore for your name's sake lead me and guide me.
4 Pull me out of the net that they have hidden for me,
for you are my stronghold.
5 Into your hand I commit my spirit;[a]
you have redeemed me, Yahweh, God of truth.
6 I hate those who cling to worthless idols,[b]
but I trust in Yahweh.
7 I will be glad and rejoice in your covenant love,
for you have seen my affliction;
you have known the distresses of my soul,
8 and you have not shut me up in the hand of the enemy;
you have set my feet in a broad place.
9 Have pity on me, Yahweh, for I am in distress;
my eyes are worn out from sorrow,
and so are my soul and body.
10 For my life is spent with sorrow,
and my years with sighing;
my strength fails because of my iniquity,[c]
and my bones waste away.

11 Because of all my foes I have become a reproach,
above all to my neighbors,
and a fear to those who know me;
those who see me outside run from me.
12 I am forgotten like a dead man, out of mind;
I have become like a broken vessel.
13 For I have heard the whispering of many—terror on every side!—
while they plot together against me,
they scheme to take away my life.
14 But I trusted in you, Yahweh;
I said, "You are my God."
15 My times are in your hand;
deliver me from the hand of my enemies and from those who persecute me!
16 Let your face shine on your servant;
save me for your covenant love's sake.
17 Yahweh, let me not be ashamed, for I call upon you;
let the wicked be ashamed;
let them be silent in Sheol.
18 Let the lying lips be struck dumb,
which speak arrogantly against the righteous
in pride and contempt.
19 How abundant is the good
that you keep in store for those who fear you,
that you carry out in front of all people
for those who find refuge in you!
20 You hide them in the secret of your presence
from the schemes of men;
you keep them secretly in a booth
from the strife of tongues.
21 Blessed be Yahweh,
for he has shown me his marvelous covenant love
in a besieged city.

22 As for me, I said in my alarm,
"I am cut off from before your eyes."
Nevertheless you heard the voice of my supplications
when I cried to you.
23 Love Yahweh, all you his faithful ones!
Yahweh preserves the faithful and repays in full the one who acts proudly.
24 Be strong, and let your heart take courage,
all you who hope in Yahweh!

Notes

- a (31:5) Jesus spoke these words as he died (Luke 23:46).
- b (31:6) Hebrew "vanities of emptiness." So the Septuagint and some Hebrew manuscripts; the Masoretic Text has "I hate."
- c (31:10) The Septuagint and Syriac have "because of my affliction."

Chapter 32

Of David. A Maskil.

1 Blessed is the one whose transgression is forgiven,
whose sin is covered.[b]
2 Blessed is the man to whom Yahweh does not count iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no deceit.
3 When I kept silent, my bones wasted away
through my groaning all day long.
4 For day and night your hand was heavy upon me;
my moisture was turned into the drought of summer.[c]
Selah
5 I admitted my sin to you and did not cover up my guilt;
I said, "I will confess my rebellion to Yahweh,"
and you forgave the guilt of my sin.
Selah
6 Therefore let everyone who is faithful pray to you at a time when you may be found;[d] surely in the flood of great waters
they shall not reach him.

7 You are my shelter;
you protect me from trouble;
you surround me with songs of rescue.
Selah
8 I will instruct you and teach you in the way you should go;
I will counsel you with my eye upon you.
9 Do not be like the horse or like the mule, without understanding, whose trappings must be bit and bridle to hold them in,
or they will not come near you.
10 Many are the sorrows of the wicked,
but covenant love surrounds the one who trusts in Yahweh.
11 Be glad in Yahweh and celebrate, you righteous, and sing for joy, all you who are honest in heart!

Notes

- a (32 title) Hebrew maskil, a term of uncertain meaning found in thirteen psalm titles; perhaps "a skillful psalm" or "an instructive psalm" (compare verse 8, "I will instruct you," from the same root).
- b (32:1) Verses 1–2 are quoted in Romans 4:7–8.
- c (32:4) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.
- d (32:6) Hebrew "at a time of finding." The sense is uncertain.

Chapter 33

1 Shout for joy in Yahweh, O you righteous!
Praise is fitting for the upright.
2 Give thanks to Yahweh with the lyre;
make music to him with the ten-stringed harp!
3 Sing to him a new song;
play skillfully with a loud shout.
4 For the word of Yahweh is upright,
and all his work is done in faithfulness.
5 He loves righteousness and justice;
the earth is full of the covenant love of Yahweh.
6 By the word of Yahweh the heavens came to be,
and all their array by the breath of his mouth.
7 He piles up the sea's waters like a mound;[a]
he stores the oceans in vaults.

8 Let all the earth fear Yahweh;
  let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him.
9 For he spoke, and it was;
  he commanded, and it stood firm.
10 Yahweh brings the counsel of the nations to nothing;
  he frustrates the devices of the peoples.
11 The plans of Yahweh last forever,
  the purposes of his heart through every generation.
12 Blessed is the nation whose God is Yahweh,
  the people he has chosen as his heritage!
13 Yahweh looks down from heaven;
  he beholds all the children of man;
14 from the place of his dwelling he gazes
  on all the inhabitants of the earth, 15 he who fashions the hearts of them all and discerns all their deeds.
16 No king is saved by the size of his army;
  a mighty man is not delivered by great strength.
17 A horse is a false hope for safety;
  for all its great strength it will not deliver.
18 Behold, the eye of Yahweh is on those who fear him,
  on those who hope in his covenant love, 19 to deliver their soul from death
  and to keep them alive in famine.
20 Our soul waits for Yahweh;
  he is our help and our shield.
21 For our heart shall rejoice in him,
  because we have trusted in his holy name.
22 Let your covenant love, Yahweh, rest upon us,
  just as we have hoped in you.

Notes

- a (33:7) Or, with the ancient versions, “as in a skin bottle.”

Chapter 34

Of David, when he disguised his sanity before Abimelech, who drove him away, and he departed.

1 I will bless Yahweh at all times;
his praise shall continually be in my mouth.
2 My soul shall make its boast in Yahweh;
let the humble hear and be glad.
3 Oh, magnify Yahweh with me,
and let us exalt his name together!
4 I sought Yahweh, and he answered me
and delivered me from all my terrors.
5 Those who looked to him were radiant,[b]
and their faces were never ashamed.
6 This poor man cried, and Yahweh heard him
and saved him out of all his troubles.
7 The angel of Yahweh encamps around those who fear him,
and he rescues them.
8 Taste and see that Yahweh is good![c]
Blessed is the man who takes refuge in him!
9 Fear Yahweh, you his saints,
for there is no want to those who fear him.
10 The young lions suffer want and hunger,
but those who seek Yahweh shall not lack any good thing.
11 Come, you children, listen to me;
I will teach you the fear of Yahweh.
12 Who is the man who desires life
and loves many days, that he may see good?[d] 13 Keep your tongue from evil
and your lips from speaking deceit.
14 Turn away from evil and do good;
seek peace and pursue it.
15 The eyes of Yahweh are toward the righteous,
and his ears are open to their cry.

16 The face of Yahweh is against those who do evil,
to cut off the memory of them from the earth.
17 The righteous cry,[e] and Yahweh hears and delivers them out of all their troubles.
18 Yahweh is close to those of a broken heart
and saves such as are of a crushed spirit.
19 Many are the afflictions of the righteous,
but Yahweh delivers him out of them all.
20 He keeps all his bones;
not one of them is broken.[f]
21 Evil shall slay the wicked,
and those who hate the righteous shall be held guilty.
22 Yahweh redeems the soul of his servants;
none of those who take refuge in him shall be held guilty.

Notes

- a (34 title) This psalm is an acrostic, each verse beginning with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet; the letter waw is lacking, and verse 22 stands outside the pattern (as in Psalm 25). The title recalls 1 Samuel 21:10–15, where the king of Gath is named Achish; Abimelech may have been a royal title among the Philistines (compare Genesis 20; 26).
- b (34:5) So the Hebrew; some Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint, and the Syriac have "Look to him and be radiant, and your faces shall not be ashamed."
- c (34:8) Compare 1 Peter 2:3.
- d (34:12) Verses 12–16 are quoted in 1 Peter 3:10–12.
- e (34:17) Hebrew "They cry."
- f (34:20) Compare John 19:36.

Chapter 35

Of David.

1 Contend, Yahweh, with those who contend with me;
fight against those who fight against me!
2 Take hold of shield and buckler
and rise up for my help!
3 Draw out the spear and the battle-ax[a] against my pursuers!
Say to my soul, "I am your salvation!"
4 Let those who seek my life
be confounded and put to shame!

Let those who plot my harm
be turned back and brought to confusion!
5 May they be as chaff before the wind,
the angel of Yahweh thrusting them on!
6 Let their way be dark and slippery,
with the angel of Yahweh pursuing them!
7 For they hid their net for me in a pit without cause;
without cause they dug for my soul.
8 Let ruin come upon him when he does not know it;
let his own net that he has hidden catch him;
into that very ruin let him fall!
9 Then my soul will rejoice in Yahweh,
exulting in his salvation.
10 All my bones will say,
"Yahweh, who is like you?
You deliver the poor from someone stronger than they are,
the poor and needy from the one who plunders them."
11 Malicious witnesses rise up;
they ask me of things that I do not know.
12 They paid me back evil for good,
leaving my soul forlorn.[b]
13 But as for me, when they were sick, my clothing was sackcloth;
I humbled my soul with fasting;
and my prayer returned into my own bosom.[c]
14 I walked around as if mourning a friend or brother;
I bent low in grief,
like someone weeping for his mother.
15 But in my limping they were glad and came together;
the smiters gathered against me,
and I did not know it;
they tore and did not cease;
16 like godless jesters mocking for a cake,[d]
they ground their teeth at me.

17 Lord, how long will you just watch?
Save my soul from their destruction,
my precious life[e] from these lions!
18 I will give you thanks in the great congregation;
among a mighty people I will praise you.
19 Do not let my enemies gloat over me without cause, or those who hate me for no reason exchange knowing glances.[f] 20 For they do not speak peace,
but they devise deceitful words
against those who are quiet in the land.
21 Yes, they opened their mouth wide against me and said, "Aha, aha, our eye has seen it!"
22 You have seen, Yahweh; do not keep silent!
Lord, be not far from me!
23 Rouse yourself, awake for my justice,
for my cause, my God and my Lord!
24 Declare me right, Yahweh my God, by your righteousness,
and do not let them gloat over me!
25 Let them not say in their heart, "Aha, so would we have it!"
Let them not say, "We have devoured him."
26 Let them be ashamed and confounded together
who rejoice at my calamity!
Let them be clothed with shame and dishonor
who magnify themselves against me!
27 May those who want to see me vindicated
sing for joy and be glad;
may they always say,
"Yahweh is great; he takes pleasure in his servant's well-being!"
28 Then my tongue will utter your righteousness,
your praise, the whole day through.

Notes

- a (35:3) Or "and close the way."
- b (35:12) Hebrew "bereavement to my soul."
- c (35:13) Perhaps meaning that he prayed with his head bowed upon his chest, or that his prayer was in vain.

- d (35:16) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.
- e (35:17) Hebrew "my only one," as in Psalm 22:20.
- f (35:19) Compare John 15:25, "They hated me without a cause."

Chapter 36

For the choir leader. Of David, the servant of Yahweh.

1 Transgression speaks to the wicked deep within his heart;[a]
there is no fear of God before his eyes.[b] 2 For he flatters himself in his own eyes that his iniquity will not be found out and hated.
3 The words of his mouth are wickedness and deceit;
he has ceased to act wisely and to do good.
4 He devises mischief on his bed;
he sets himself on a way that is not good;
he does not reject evil.
5 Your covenant love, Yahweh, reaches to the heavens,
your faithfulness to the clouds.
6 Your righteousness is like the mountains of God;
your judgments are a great deep;
man and beast you preserve, Yahweh.
7 How precious is your covenant love, O God!
The children of man take refuge in the shadow of your wings.
8 They shall be filled to the full with the fatness of your house, and you will make them drink of the river of your delights.[c] 9 For with you is the fountain of life;
in your light we see light.
10 Continue your covenant love to those who know you,
and your righteousness to the upright in heart!
11 Let not the foot of the proud come upon me,
nor the hand of the wicked drive me away.
12 There the workers of iniquity have fallen;
they are thrust down and cannot rise.

Notes

- a (36:1) So some Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint, and the Syriac; most Hebrew manuscripts have “my heart.” Hebrew “An oracle of transgression to the wicked.”
- b (36:1) Quoted in Romans 3:18.
- c (36:8) Hebrew ʿadanekha, from the same root as “Eden.”

Chapter 37

Of David.

1 Do not fret yourself because of evildoers,
nor be envious of those who work unrighteousness!
2 For like the grass they will soon wither
and fade like the green herb.
3 Trust in Yahweh and do good;
dwell in the land and feed on faithfulness.[b] 4 Take delight in Yahweh,
and he will give you the requests of your heart.
5 Roll your way onto Yahweh;
trust in him, and he will act.
6 He will make your righteousness go forth as the light,
and your just cause as the noon.
7 Be quiet before Yahweh and wait for him patiently;
do not be upset by people who succeed in their ways,
by those who carry out evil plans!
8 Leave off from anger and let go of wrath!
Do not fret yourself; it tends only to evil.
9 For evildoers shall be cut off,
but those who wait for Yahweh shall inherit the land.
10 For yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be;
yes, you shall diligently consider his place, and it shall not be.
11 But the meek shall inherit the land[c]
and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace.
12 The wicked schemes against the just and gnashes on him with his teeth.
13 but the Lord laughs at him,
for he sees that his day is coming.

14 The wicked have drawn the sword and bent their bow to bring down the poor and needy,
to slay those whose way is upright;
15 their sword shall enter their own heart,
and their bows shall be broken.
16 Better is the little that the righteous has
than the abundance of many wicked.
17 For the arms of the wicked shall be broken,
but Yahweh upholds the righteous.
18 Yahweh knows the days of the upright,
and their inheritance shall be forever.
19 they will not be put to shame in the evil time;
in the days of famine they will have plenty.
20 But the wicked shall perish;
and the enemies of Yahweh shall be as the glory of the pastures;[d]
they shall be consumed; into smoke they shall be consumed away.
21 The wicked borrows and pays not back again,
but the righteous shows mercy and gives.
22 for those blessed by him[e] shall inherit the land,
but those cursed by him shall be cut off.
23 The steps of a man are established by Yahweh
when he delights in his way; 24 though he falls, he shall not be cast headlong,
for Yahweh holds his hand.
25 I was young and now I am old,
yet I have never seen the righteous abandoned
or their children begging for bread.
26 All the day long he is gracious and lends,
and his children become a blessing.
27 Depart from evil and do good,
and dwell forevermore.
28 For Yahweh loves justice;
he will not forsake his faithful ones.

They are preserved forever,[f]
but the children of the wicked shall be cut off.
29 The righteous shall inherit the land
and dwell upon it forever.
30 The righteous man's mouth murmurs wisdom,
and his tongue speaks what is just.
31 The law of his God is in his heart;
his steps do not slip.
32 The wicked keeps watch on the righteous and seeks to kill him.
33 Yahweh will not leave him in his hand,
nor condemn him when he is judged.
34 Wait for Yahweh and keep his way,
and he will exalt you to inherit the land;
you will see it when the wicked are cut off.
35 I have seen the wicked in great power, spreading himself like a green tree in its native soil.[g] 36 Yet he passed away,[h] and lo, he was not;
yes, I sought him, but he could not be found.
37 Mark the blameless and behold the upright,
for there is a future[i] for the man of peace.
38 But transgressors shall be destroyed together;
the future of the wicked shall be cut off.
39 The salvation of the righteous is from Yahweh;
he is their stronghold in the time of trouble.
40 And Yahweh shall help them and deliver them;
he shall deliver them from the wicked and save them,
because they trust in him.

Notes

- a (37 title) This psalm is an acrostic: every second verse, roughly, begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet, so that each letter introduces a stanza of about two verses.
- b (37:3) Or "and befriend faithfulness," or "and you shall feed securely."
- c (37:11) Compare Matthew 5:5.
- d (37:20) Or "like the burning of furnaces." The Hebrew is uncertain.

- e (37:22) That is, by Yahweh.
- f (37:28) The ayin stanza appears here; the Septuagint has “The lawless shall be driven out,” which some take to preserve the letter.
- g (37:35) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint has “like the cedars of Lebanon.”
- h (37:36) So the Septuagint, Syriac, and Vulgate; the Hebrew has “he passed away” in some manuscripts and “one passed by” in others.
- i (37:37) Or “posterity.”

Chapter 38

A psalm of David, for the memorial offering.

1 Yahweh, do not punish me in your anger
or discipline me in your fury.
2 For your arrows stick fast in me,
and your hand presses me down.
3 There is no soundness in my flesh because of your indignation;
there is no health in my bones because of my sin.
4 My guilt has risen over my head;
it weighs on me like a load too heavy to carry.
5 My wounds reek and are rotten
because of my foolishness.
6 I am bent and bowed down greatly;
all the day I go about mourning.
7 For my loins are filled with burning,
and there is no soundness in my flesh.
8 I am feeble and utterly crushed;
I groan because of the turmoil of my heart.
9 Lord, all my desire is before you,
and my groaning is not hidden from you.
10 My heart pounds; my strength is gone;
even the light of my eyes has left me.
11 My loved ones and my friends stand aloof from my plague,
and my kinsmen stand far off.
12 Those who seek my life lay snares;
those who seek my hurt speak of ruin
and meditate on treachery all day long.

13 But I am like the deaf; I hear nothing, like the dumb, who opens not his mouth.
14 Thus I am as a man who hears not,
in whose mouth are no reproofs.
15 But for you, Yahweh, I wait;
it is you who will answer, Lord my God.
16 For I said, “Let them not rejoice over me,
who magnify themselves against me when my foot slips!”
17 For I am ready to stumble,
and my pain is ever before me.
18 For I will declare my iniquity;
I am troubled over my sin.
19 But my enemies are vigorous; they are strong,[b]
and many are those who hate me wrongfully.
20 They also who render evil for good are my adversaries, because I follow what is good.[c] 21 Do not forsake me, Yahweh!
My God, be not far from me!
22 Make haste to help me,
Lord, my salvation!

Notes

- a (38 title) Hebrew lehazkir, “to bring to remembrance.” The same word appears in the title of Psalm 70; it may refer to the memorial portion of the grain offering (Leviticus 2:2).
- b (38:19) Hebrew “my enemies are living.” A Dead Sea Scroll (4QPs-a) reads “without cause,” matching the parallel line.
- c (38:20) So the qere; the ketiv has a different form of the same word.

Chapter 39

For the choir leader: for Jeduthun. A psalm of David.

1 I said, “I will take heed to my ways,
that I do not sin with my tongue;
I will keep a bridle on my mouth
while the wicked is before me.”

2 I was mute with silence;
I held my peace, to no avail,[b]
and my sorrow was stirred up.
3 My heart was hot inside me;
in my musing a fire was kindled;
then I spoke out with my tongue:
4 “Yahweh, cause me to know my end,
and the measure of my days, what it is,
that I may know how frail I am.
5 Look, you have made my days only a few inches long,[c]
and my lifespan is nothing in your sight.
Truly every human being, though secure, is only a breath.
Selah
6 Surely every man walks about as a phantom;
surely they are in an uproar for nothing;
he heaps up riches and knows not who shall gather them.
7 “And now, Lord, what do I wait for?
My hope is in you.
8 Rescue me from all my transgressions;
do not set me up as the taunt of the fool.
9 I was dumb; I opened not my mouth,
because you did it.
10 Remove your stroke from me;
I am consumed by the blow of your hand.
11 When with rebukes you correct a man for iniquity,
you make his beauty consume away like a moth;
surely every man is a breath.
Selah
12 “Hear my prayer, Yahweh,
and listen to my cry;
do not stay silent when I weep;
for I am a foreigner living with you,
a stranger like all my ancestors.
13 Turn your gaze from me, that I may brighten, before I go hence and be no more.”

Notes

- a (39 title) So the qere; the ketiv spells the name Jedithun. Jeduthun was one of David's chief musicians (1 Chronicles 16:41–42; 25:1). The name is also in the titles of Psalms 62 and 77.
- b (39:2) Hebrew "away from good."
- c (39:5) A handbreadth is about 7.5 centimeters (3 inches). Hebrew hebel, "breath, vapor," is the word rendered "vanity" in Ecclesiastes.

Chapter 40

For the choir leader. Of David. A psalm.

1 I waited patiently for Yahweh;
he inclined to me and heard my cry.
2 He brought me up out of a horrible pit,[a]
out of the miry clay,
and set my feet upon a rock
and established my goings.
3 And he has put a new song in my mouth,
praise to our God;
many shall see it and fear
and shall trust in Yahweh.
4 Blessed is the man who makes Yahweh his trust,
and does not regard the proud,
nor such as turn aside to lies.
5 Many, Yahweh my God, are the wonders you have done,
and your thoughts toward us;
none can be set in order beside you;
if I would declare and speak of them,
they are more than can be numbered.
6 Sacrifice and offering you did not desire;
ears you have opened for me;[b]
burnt offering and sin offering you have not required.
7 Then I said, "Lo, I come;
in the scroll of the book it is written of me:
8 I delight to do your will, O my God;
yes, your law is within my inmost parts."

9 I have preached righteousness in the great congregation;
lo, I have not held back my lips,
Yahweh, you know.
10 I have not kept your righteousness hidden in my heart;
I have told of your faithfulness and rescue;
I have not kept your steadfast love and truth
secret from the great assembly.
11 As for you, Yahweh, you will not withhold your mercy from me;
your covenant love and your truth will ever preserve me!
12 For evils without number have compassed me about;
my iniquities have taken hold of me, so that I cannot look up;
they are more than the hairs of my head,
and my heart forsakes me.
13 Be pleased, Yahweh, to deliver me![c]
Yahweh, make haste to help me!
14 Let them be ashamed and confounded together
who seek after my soul to destroy it;
let them be driven backward and put to shame
who wish me evil.
15 Let them be desolate as a reward for their shame
who say to me, "Aha, aha!"
16 Let all who seek you rejoice and be glad in you;
let such as love your salvation
say continually, "Yahweh be magnified!"
17 But I am poor and needy;
yet the Lord thinks of me.
You are my help and my deliverer;
make no delay, O my God.

Notes

- a (40:2) Or "the pit of tumult."
- b (40:6) Hebrew "ears you have dug for me." The Septuagint has "but a body you have prepared for me," the reading quoted in Hebrews 10:5–7.
- c (40:13) Verses 13–17 appear again, with small differences, as Psalm 70.

Chapter 41

For the choir leader. A psalm of David.

1 Blessed is he who considers the poor!
Yahweh will deliver him in the time of trouble;
2 Yahweh will preserve him and keep him alive,
and he shall be blessed upon the earth;[a]
and you will not hand him over to the will of his enemies.
3 Yahweh will strengthen him upon the bed of languishing;
you will make all his bed in his sickness.[b] 4 As for me, I said, "Yahweh, be gracious to me;
heal my soul, for I have sinned against you!"
5 My enemies speak evil of me:
"When shall he die and his name perish?"
6 And if one comes to see me, he speaks emptiness;
his heart gathers iniquity to itself;
when he goes outside, he tells it.
7 All who hate me whisper together against me;
against me they devise my hurt.
8 "A thing of ruin,"[c] they say, "clings fast to him;
and now that he lies down he shall rise up no more."
9 Even my close friend, whom I trusted,
the one who shared my bread,
has raised his heel against me.[d]
10 But you, Yahweh, be gracious to me,
and raise me up, that I may repay them!
11 This is how I know you are pleased with me:
my enemy has not won a victory over me.
12 And as for me, you uphold me in my integrity and set me before your face forever.
13 Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel,
from everlasting to everlasting!
Amen and Amen.[e]

Notes

- a (41:2) So the qere; the ketiv has "and may he be called blessed."

- b (41:3) Hebrew "all his bed you turn over in his illness."
- c (41:8) Hebrew "a thing of Belial," that is, of worthlessness or ruin.
- d (41:9) Hebrew "the man of my peace." Quoted by Jesus of Judas in John 13:18.
- e (41:13) This doxology closes Book One of the Psalms (Psalms 1–41). Each of the five books ends with a similar blessing (41:13; 72:18–19; 89:52; 106:48), and Psalm 150 closes the whole.

Chapter 42

Book Two (Psalms 42–72)

For the choir leader. A Maskil of the sons of Korah.

1 As a deer longs for streams of water,
so my soul longs for you, O God.
2 My soul thirsts for God, for the living God.
When shall I come and appear before the face of God?
3 My tears have been my food by day and night,
while people keep asking me all day,
"Where is your God?"
4 These things I call to mind, and I pour out my soul within me:
how I used to go with the crowd and walk at their head to the house of God
with the voice of joy and praise,
a throng keeping holy day.
5 Why are you bowed down, O my soul,
and why do you moan within me?
Hope in God, for I shall again praise him,
the salvation of his presence.[b]
6 O my God, my soul is bowed down within me;
therefore I remember you from the land of the Jordan
and of the Hermons, from Mount Mizar.[c] 7 Deep calls out to deep
at the thunder of your cataracts;
all your breakers and your billows
have swept over me.
8 By day Yahweh commands his covenant love,
and in the night his song is with me,
a prayer to the God of my life.

9 I say to God, my rock,
"Why have you forgotten me?
Why must I walk in mourning
under the oppression of the enemy?"
10 As with a shattering in my bones,[d] my foes revile me, saying to me every day,
"Where is your God?"
11 Why are you bowed down, O my soul,
and why do you moan within me?
Hope in God, for I shall again praise him,
the salvation of my face and my God.

Notes

- a (42 title) Book Two of the Psalms (Psalms 42–72). In much of this collection (Psalms 42–83, the so-called Elohistic Psalter) the divine name Yahweh is used far less often and the general word "God" (Elohim) far more often than elsewhere; compare Psalm 14 with Psalm 53, and Psalm 40:13–17 with Psalm 70. The sons of Korah were a guild of Levitical singers and gatekeepers descended from Korah (Numbers 26:11; 1 Chronicles 9:19; 2 Chronicles 20:19). Psalms 42–49, 84–85, and 87–88 bear their name. Many Hebrew manuscripts treat Psalms 42 and 43 as a single psalm; they share a refrain (42:5, 11; 43:5).
- b (42:5) Hebrew "the salvations of his face." Some Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint, and the Syriac join the first word of verse 6 to this verse and read "the salvation of my face, and my God," as in verse 11 and 43:5.
- c (42:6) Mount Mizar, "the little mountain," is otherwise unknown; the setting is the headwaters of the Jordan below Mount Hermon.
- d (42:10) Or "like a sword in my bones." The Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 43

1 Vindicate me, O God, and plead my cause against an unfaithful nation;
from the man of deceit and injustice
deliver me!
2 For you are the God of my refuge;
why have you cast me off?
Why do I walk in mourning
under the oppression of the enemy?

3 Send out your light and your truth; let them lead me;
let them bring me to your holy mountain
and to your dwelling places!
4 Then I will go to God's altar,
to God, my greatest joy,
and I will praise you with the harp,
God, my God.
5 Why are you bowed down, O my soul,
and why do you moan within me?
Hope in God, for I shall again praise him,
the salvation of my face and my God.

Chapter 44

For the choir leader. Of the sons of Korah. A Maskil.

1 O God, we have heard with our ears;
our fathers have recounted to us
the work you did in their days,
in the days of old:
2 With your hand you dispossessed the nations
and planted our fathers;
you brought harm on the peoples and sent our fathers spreading out.[a] 3 For it was not by their sword that they took the land in possession, and it was not their arm that gave them victory,
but your right hand, your arm,
and the light of your face,
for you favored them.
4 You are my King, O God;
command victories[b] for Jacob!
5 Through you we push back our adversaries;
through your name we trample those who rise up against us.
6 For I will not rely on my bow,
and my sword will not give me victory.
7 But you have saved us from our adversaries
and have put to shame those who hate us.

8 All day long we have boasted in God,
and we will praise your name forever.
Selah
9 Yet you have spurned us and disgraced us
and do not go out with our armies.
10 You make us retreat before the adversary,
and those who hate us plunder at will.
11 You have handed us over like sheep for eating and have scattered us among the nations.
12 You sell your people for a trifle,
and you gain nothing by their price.
13 You have made us the reproach of our neighbors,
the derision and mockery of those around us.
14 You have made us a byword among the nations,
a shaking of the head among the peoples.
15 My dishonor is before me every day,
and the shame of my face has covered me, 16 because of the voice of the one who reproaches and blasphemes,
because of the enemy who takes revenge.
17 All this has befallen us,
and still we have not forgotten you
or dealt falsely with your covenant.
18 Our heart has not turned back,
nor have our steps strayed from your path, 19 that you should have crushed us in the haunt of jackals[c]
and covered us over with deep darkness.
20 If we had forgotten the name of our God
or spread out our hands to a foreign god, 21 would not God search this out?
For he knows the secrets of the heart.
22 But for your sake we are slain all the day long;
we are reckoned as sheep for slaughter.[d]
23 Wake up! Why do you sleep, Lord?
Rouse yourself! Do not cast us off forever!

24 Why is your face hidden?
Why have you forgotten our misery and our oppression?
25 For our soul is sunk down to the dust;
our belly clings to the ground.
26 Arise and help us!
Redeem us because of your covenant love!

Notes

- a (44:2) Or "but them you set free."
- b (44:4) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint and Syriac have "You are my King and my God, who commands victories."
- c (44:19) So the Hebrew; some manuscripts read "sea monster."
- d (44:22) Quoted in Romans 8:36.

Chapter 45

For the choir director: set to "Lilies." Of the sons of Korah. A Maskil. A love song.

1 My heart is stirred by a noble word;
I speak what I have composed for the king;
my tongue is the pen of a nimble writer.
2 You are the most handsome of men;
gracious words flow from your lips;
for this God has blessed you forever.
3 Strap your sword upon your thigh, O mighty one,
your splendor and your majesty!
4 In your splendor, ride out in triumph
for the sake of truth, humility and justice;[c]
let your right hand show you fearsome deeds.
5 Your arrows are sharp in the heart of the king's enemies;
peoples fall beneath you.
6 Your throne, O God, endures forever and ever.[d]
A scepter of equity is the scepter of your kingdom.
7 You have loved righteousness and hated wickedness.
Therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness beyond your companions.

8 Myrrh and aloes and cassia scent all your garments;
out of ivory palaces strings make you glad.
9 Princesses are among your honored guests;
the queen stands at your right in gold from Ophir.
10 Listen, daughter; consider and bend your ear:
forget your own people and the house of your father, 11 so shall the king long for your beauty.
He is your lord; bow before him.
12 The daughter of Tyre comes bearing a present;
the wealthy among the people entreat your favor.
13 The princess is entirely splendid inside the palace;[e]
her dress is woven with gold.
14 In robes of many colors she is brought to the king;
the maidens who follow her, her companions,
are brought in to you.
15 With gladness and rejoicing they are led along;
they enter the palace of the king.
16 Your sons shall take the place of your fathers;
you shall make them rulers over all the land.
17 I will cause your name to be remembered in all generations;
therefore peoples will praise you forever and ever.

Notes

- a (45 title) Hebrew shoshannim, probably the name of a tune (also in the titles of Psalms 60, 69, and 80).
- b (45 title) A song for a royal wedding, addressed to the king (verses 2–9) and to his bride (verses 10–15).
- c (45:4) The Hebrew is unusual; perhaps "for truth and humble righteousness."
- d (45:6) So the Hebrew, the Septuagint, and other ancient versions, which address the king as "God" ('elohim). Hebrews 1:8–9 quotes verses 6–7 in this form of the Son. Other proposed renderings are "Your throne is God's, forever and ever," "Your divine throne endures forever," or "Your throne is like God's throne," but the direct address is the most natural reading of the Hebrew.
- e (45:13) Hebrew "within."

Chapter 46

For the choir leader. Of the sons of Korah. According to Alamoth. A song.

1 God is our refuge and strength,
a help in troubles, readily found.
2 Therefore we will not fear though the earth be changed,
though the mountains slip into the heart of the seas,
3 though its waters roar and churn,
though the mountains shake with its surging.
Selah
4 A river's streams make glad the city of God,
the sacred home of the Most High.
5 God is in her midst; she shall not be moved;
God will help her at the turning of the morning.
6 Nations raged; kingdoms tottered;
he gave forth his voice; the earth melted.
7 Yahweh of Armies is with us;
the God of Jacob is our high fortress.
Selah
8 Come, see the works of Yahweh,
how he has brought desolations on the earth.
9 He ends wars all over the earth;
he breaks bows and shatters spears;
he sets the wagons[b] on fire.
10 "Be still, and know that I am God.
I will be exalted among the nations;
I will be exalted in the earth!"
11 Yahweh of Armies is with us;
the God of Jacob is our high fortress.
Selah

Notes

- a (46 title) Hebrew 'alamot, perhaps "young women," that is, for soprano voices (compare 1 Chronicles 15:20).
- b (46:9) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint has "shields."

Chapter 47

For the choir leader. Of the sons of Korah. A psalm.

1 Clap your hands, all you peoples!
  Shout to God with a ringing cry!
2 For Yahweh, the Most High, is fearsome,
  a great King over the whole earth.
3 He subdues peoples under us,
  and nations under our feet.
4 He selects our inheritance for us,
  the pride of Jacob, his beloved.
  Selah
5 God has gone up with a shout,
  Yahweh with the blast of a trumpet.[a] 6 Sing praises to God, sing praises!
  Sing praises to our King, sing praises!
7 For God is the King of all the earth;
  sing praises with a skillful psalm![b]
8 God reigns over the nations;
  God sits on his holy throne.
9 The nobles of the peoples are gathered as the people of the God of Abraham;
  for the shields[c] of the earth belong to God;
  he is highly exalted.

Notes

- a (47:5) Hebrew shofar, a ram's horn.
- b (47:7) Hebrew maskil; see the note on Psalm 32 title.
- c (47:9) That is, the rulers.

Chapter 48

A song. A psalm of the sons of Korah.

1 Great is Yahweh and greatly to be praised in the city of our God, his holy mountain.
2 Majestic in height, the delight of the whole earth, is Mount Zion, the remote heights of the north,[a]
  the city of the great King.
3 God, in her strongholds,
  has shown himself a sure defense.

4 For behold, the kings assembled;
they came on together.
5 They saw, and so they were astounded;
they were terrified; they hurried away.
6 Trembling seized them there,
anguish like that of a woman in labor, 7 as when the east wind
shatters the ships of Tarshish.
8 What we heard, we have now seen in the city of Yahweh of Armies,
in the city of our God;
God will keep it secure forever.
Selah
9 We have pondered your covenant love, O God,
in the midst of your temple.
10 Like your name, O God,
your praise extends to the ends of the earth;
righteousness fills your right hand.
11 Let Mount Zion be glad!
Let the daughters of Judah rejoice
because of your judgments!
12 Walk about Zion; go all around her;
count her towers;
13 mark well her ramparts;
pass through her citadels,
that you may tell it to the generation to come, 14 that this is God,
our God forever and ever.
He will guide us beyond death.[b]

Notes

- a (48:2) Hebrew tsaphon, "north," also the name of the sacred mountain of Canaanite myth (Mount Zaphon); the psalm claims for Zion the honor others gave to Zaphon.

- b (48:14) Hebrew ‘al-mut, “over death” or “to death.” The Septuagint and some Hebrew manuscripts read ‘olamot, “forever.” The phrase may also be a musical direction belonging with the title of the next psalm (compare Psalm 9 title).

Chapter 49

For the choir leader. Of the sons of Korah. A psalm.

1 Hear this, all you peoples!
Give ear, all inhabitants of the world,
2 both low and high,[a]
rich and poor together!
3 My mouth will speak wisdom,
and my heart’s reflection will bring understanding.
4 I will turn my ear to a proverb;
I will open my riddle with the lyre.
5 Why should I be afraid when times are bad,
when the wrongdoing of those who chase me surrounds me,[b] 6 men who rely on their possessions and glory in the greatness of their riches?
7 None of them can by any means redeem his brother,[c]
nor give God a ransom for him, 8 for the ransom of their soul is costly,
and it fails forever,
9 that he should go on living forever
and not see corruption.
10 Everyone can see that even the wise die;
fools and the senseless perish alike
and leave their riches to others.
11 Their tombs[d] are their houses forever,
their dwellings from generation to generation;
they call their lands by their own names.
12 Man in his splendor does not remain;
he is like the beasts that perish.
13 This is the way of those who are foolish in their confidence,
and of those after them who approve their sayings.
Selah

14 Like sheep they are appointed for Sheol;
death shall shepherd them,
and the upright shall rule over them in the morning.
Their form shall waste away in Sheol,
far from any lofty dwelling.[e] 15 But God will ransom my soul from the grasp of Sheol,
for he will receive me.
Selah
16 Do not be afraid when a man grows rich,
when the glory of his house increases.
17 For when he dies, he can take nothing with him;
his splendor will not follow him down.
18 Though while he lived he blessed his soul—
and men praise you when you do well for yourself—19 he shall go to the company of his fathers;
they shall never see the light.
20 Man in his splendor, yet without understanding,
is like the beasts that perish.

Notes

- a (49:2) Hebrew "both sons of man and sons of a man."
- b (49:5) Hebrew "the iniquity of my heels."
- c (49:7) Or "Truly no one can ransom a brother." Some Hebrew manuscripts read "Surely a man cannot ransom himself."
- d (49:11) So the Septuagint and Syriac; the Hebrew has "their inward thought."
- e (49:14) The second half of this verse is very difficult in Hebrew.

Chapter 50

A psalm of Asaph.

1 The Mighty One, God, Yahweh,[b] speaks and summons the earth
from the rising of the sun to its setting.
2 Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty,
God shines forth.

3 Our God comes and will not stay silent;
fire devours before him,
and round about him the storm rages.
4 He calls to the heavens above
and to the earth, to judge his people:
5 “Assemble to me my godly ones,
those who sealed a covenant with me by sacrifice!”
6 The heavens declare his righteousness,
for God himself is judge!
Selah
7 “Listen, my people, and I will speak;
Israel, I will testify against you.
I am God, your God.
8 I do not reprove you for your sacrifices,
nor for your burnt offerings, ever before me.
9 I will not take a bull from your house or he-goats from your folds.
10 For every creature of the woods belongs to me,
and the beasts on a thousand hills.
11 I know every bird of the mountains,
and all that moves in the field is mine.
12 If I were hungry, I would not tell you,
for the world and its fullness are mine.
13 Do I eat the flesh of bulls
or drink the blood of goats?
14 Offer thanksgiving as your sacrifice to God,
and keep your vows to the Most High,
15 and call upon me in the day of trouble;
I will rescue you, and you shall glorify me.”
16 But to the wicked man God says:
“What business have you reciting my statutes
or taking my covenant into your mouth?
17 For you loathe instruction
and fling my words behind your back.

18 When you see a thief, you go along with him,
and with adulterers you take your share.
19 Your mouth you let loose for evil,
and your tongue weaves deceit.
20 You sit and speak against your brother;
you slander your own mother's son.
21 These things you did, and I held my peace;
you imagined I was altogether such a one as you.
But I will reprove you and set it all in order before your eyes.
22 "Think about this, you who forget God,
or I will rip you to pieces, with no one to rescue you!
23 He who brings thanksgiving as his offering gives me glory;
and to him who keeps to the right way
I will show the salvation of God!"

Notes

- a (50 title) Asaph was a Levite whom David appointed over the temple singers (1 Chronicles 15:17; 16:5; 25:1), and the name came to be borne by a guild of singers descended from him (Ezra 2:41). Psalms 50 and 73–83 bear his name.
- b (50:1) Hebrew 'el 'elohim YHWH, three names of God set side by side, as in Joshua 22:22.

Chapter 51

For the choir leader. A psalm of David, when Nathan the prophet came to him after he had gone in to Bathsheba.

1 Be gracious to me, O God, according to your covenant love;
according to the greatness of your compassion
wipe away my transgressions.
2 Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity and make me clean from my sin!
3 For I know my transgressions,
and my sin is before me at all times.
4 You alone are the one I have sinned against;
I have done what is evil in your sight,
so you are right in what you say
and fair in your judgment.[b]

5 Behold, in iniquity I was brought forth,
and in sin my mother conceived me.
6 Behold, you take pleasure in truth in the inner being,
and in the secret place you teach me wisdom.
7 Cleanse me with hyssop,[c] and I shall be clean;
wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.
8 Let me hear gladness and joy;
let the bones you have crushed rejoice.
9 Turn your face away from my sins,
and wipe out all my iniquities.
10 Create a clean heart in me, O God,
and make a steadfast spirit new within me.
11 Do not thrust me from your presence,
and do not remove your Holy Spirit from me.
12 Return to me the joy of your salvation,
and hold me up with a willing spirit.
13 Then I will teach transgressors your ways,
and sinners will turn back to you.
14 Rescue me from bloodguilt, O God,
O God of my salvation,
and my tongue will sing for joy of your righteousness.
15 Lord, open my lips,
and my mouth will declare your praise.
16 You take no pleasure in sacrifice, or I would offer one;
a burnt offering does not please you.
17 The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit;
a broken and crushed heart, O God, you will not despise.
18 In your good pleasure do good to Zion;
build up the walls of Jerusalem.
19 Then you will delight in right sacrifices,
in burnt offering and whole offering;
then bulls will be offered on your altar.

Notes

- a (51 title) See 2 Samuel 11–12. In Hebrew the title is counted as verses 1–2, so Hebrew verse numbers in this psalm are two higher than the English.

- b (51:4) Quoted from the Septuagint in Romans 3:4, "that you may be justified in your words and prevail when you are judged."
- c (51:7) Hyssop, a small bushy plant, was used to sprinkle water and blood in rites of cleansing (Exodus 12:22; Leviticus 14:4–7; Numbers 19:18).

Chapter 52

For the choir leader. A Maskil of David, when Doeg the Edomite came and told Saul, "David has come to the house of Ahimelech."

1 Why do you glory in evil, O mighty man?
The covenant love of God endures all the day.[b]
2 Your tongue plots destruction,
like a sharpened razor, you worker of deceit.
3 You love evil more than good,
lying more than speaking what is right.
Selah
4 You love all words that devour,
O tongue of deceit.
5 God will likewise break you down forever;
he will snatch you and tear you from your tent
and root you out of the land of the living.
Selah
6 The righteous shall see it and fear,
and they shall laugh at him, saying,
7 "See, here is the man who would not make God his stronghold,
but trusted in his great riches
and grew strong in his destruction!"[c]
8 But as for me, I am like a flourishing olive tree in the house of God;
I trust in the covenant love of God forever and ever.
9 I will give you thanks forever for what you have done;
I will wait on your name, for it is good,
in the presence of your faithful ones.

Notes

- a (52 title) See 1 Samuel 21:1–9; 22:9–19. In Hebrew the title is counted as verses 1–2.
- b (52:1) Hebrew "the khesed of God is all the day." The Syriac has "against the godly."

- c (52:7) Or "in his desire," with the Syriac and Targum.

Chapter 53

For the choir leader: according to Mahalath. A Maskil of David.

1 The fool has said in his heart, "There is no God."
They are corrupt; they commit abominable injustice;
there is no one who does good.
2 God looks down from heaven
upon the children of man,
to see if there is any who understands,
who seeks after God.
3 Every one of them has turned back; together they have become rotten;
there is none who does good,
not even one.
4 Have they no knowledge, those workers of iniquity,
who devour my people as they devour bread,
and do not call upon God?
5 They were terrified there,
although there was nothing to be afraid of![b]
God has scattered the bones of those camped around you;
you put them to shame, because God has rejected them.
6 If only Israel's rescue would come from Zion!
When God brings his people back from captivity,[c]
Jacob will celebrate and Israel will be glad.

Notes

- a (53 title) Hebrew mahalat, a word of uncertain meaning, perhaps the name of a tune or a term meaning "sickness" or "sorrow" (also in Psalm 88). This psalm is nearly identical to Psalm 14, but uses "God" (Elohim) where Psalm 14 has "Yahweh," and verse 5 differs.
- b (53:5) Compare Psalm 14:5–6, which reads differently.
- c (53:6) Or "brings back the captivity of his people," as in Psalm 14:7.

Chapter 54

For the choir leader: with stringed instruments. A Maskil of David, when the men of Ziph came and told Saul, "David is hiding with us, is he not?"

1 O God, by your name save me,
and by your power defend my cause.
2 O God, hear my prayer;
give ear to the words of my mouth.
3 For strangers[b] have stood up against me,
and violent men hunt for my life;
they have not set God in front of them.
Selah
4 Behold, God is my helper;
the Lord is the upholder of my life.[c] 5 He will turn back the evil on my enemies;[d]
by your truth make an end of them.
6 With a freewill offering I will sacrifice to you;
I will give thanks to your name, Yahweh, for it is good.
7 For he has delivered me out of all distress,
and my eye has gazed upon my enemies.

Notes

- a (54 title) Hebrew neginot. See 1 Samuel 23:19; 26:1. In Hebrew the title is counted as verses 1–2.
- b (54:3) Some Hebrew manuscripts and the Targum have "arrogant men," as in Psalm 86:14.
- c (54:4) Or "the Lord is among those who uphold my life."
- d (54:5) So the qere; the ketiv has "The evil will return to my enemies."

Chapter 55

For the choir leader: with stringed instruments. A Maskil of David.

1 Listen to my prayer, O God,
and do not hide yourself from my plea!
2 Attend to me and answer me;
I am restless in my complaint, and I moan,
3 at the shouting of the enemy,
at the oppression by the wicked;
for they drop disaster on me
and attack me in rage.
4 My heart writhes within me;
the terrors of death have fallen upon me.

5 Fear and trembling come into me,
and horror has wrapped me round.
6 And I said, "Oh, that I had wings like a dove!
I would fly off and find rest.
7 Yes, I would wander far off
and stay in the desert.
Selah
8 I would make haste to my place of escape from the raging wind and tempest."
9 Swallow them up, Lord; split their speech;[a]
for I have seen violence and quarreling in the city.
10 Day and night they make the rounds on its walls,
and wickedness and trouble are in its midst;
11 ruin is within it;
oppression and fraud never leave its marketplace.
12 For it was not an enemy who reproached me;
that I could endure;
it was not one who hated me who lifted himself against me;
from him I could have hidden.
13 But it was you, a man of my own rank,
my close friend, whom I knew well.
14 We used to share sweet counsel together;
we walked with the throng in the house of God.
15 Let death come upon them by surprise;
let them go down alive to Sheol![b]
For evil is in their dwelling, in their very midst.
16 But I call to God,
and Yahweh will save me.
17 Evening and morning and noon
I complain and groan,
and he hears my voice.
18 He has ransomed my soul in peace
from the war against me,
for many are against me.

19 God will hear and answer them,
he who sits enthroned of old,
Selah
those who have no changes and who have no fear of God.
20 That man[c] put forth his hands against those at peace with him;
he broke his covenant.
21 His talk was smoother than cream,
but his heart was set on war;
his words were gentler than oil,
but they were swords out of their sheaths.
22 Throw your burden[d] on Yahweh, and he will sustain you;
he will never let the righteous be shaken.
23 But you, O God, will bring them down into the pit of destruction;
men of blood and deceit
shall not live out half their days.
But I will trust in you.

Notes

- a (55:9) Compare Genesis 11:1–9.
- b (55:15) Compare Numbers 16:30–33. "Let death come upon them by surprise" follows the qere; the ketiv has "Desolations be upon them."
- c (55:20) Hebrew "He."
- d (55:22) Or "what he has given you." Compare 1 Peter 5:7.

Chapter 56

For the choir leader: according to "The Silent Dove of Distant Places." A Miktam of David, when the Philistines laid hold of him at Gath.

1 Have mercy on me, O God, for man would swallow me up;
the fighter presses me all the day.
2 My watchful foes would swallow me up all day long,
for many are those who war against me proudly.[c]
3 On the day I am afraid,
I put my trust in you.

4 In God I praise his word;
in God I have put my trust; I will not be afraid.
What can flesh do to me?
5 All day long they twist my words;
all their plans are against me for evil.
6 They band together; they lie in ambush;
they watch my heels,
as they have waited for my life.
7 Because of their iniquity, cast them out;[d]
in anger bring down the peoples, O God!
8 You have tallied my wanderings;
place my tears in your flask.
Are they not recorded in your book?
9 Then shall my enemies be turned back on the day I call;
this I know: God is on my side.
10 In God, whose promise I praise,
in Yahweh, whose promise I praise,
11 I have put my trust in God and will not be afraid.
What can a mere human do to me?
12 Your vows are upon me, O God;
I will render thank offerings to you.
13 For you have delivered my soul from death,
yes, my feet from stumbling,
that I may walk before God
in the light of the living.

Notes

- a (56 title) Hebrew yonat 'elem rehoqim, probably the name of a tune. See 1 Samuel 21:10–15.
- b (56 title) Hebrew miktam, a term of uncertain meaning (also in the titles of Psalms 16 and 57–60).
- c (56:2) Or "O Most High."
- d (56:7) Hebrew "For iniquity, deliverance for them?" The text is difficult.

Chapter 57

For the choir leader: "Do Not Destroy." A Miktam of David, when he fled from Saul, in the cave.

1 Pity me, God, pity me,
for my soul runs to you for safety;
I will find safety under your wings
until the disaster is over.
2 I cry out to God Most High,
to God who brings about his purpose for me.
3 He will send from heaven and save me;
he will shame the one who tramples on me.
Selah
God will send out his covenant love and his faithfulness!
4 My soul is in the midst of lions;
I lie down among those who breathe fire,
the children of man, whose teeth are spears and arrows,
whose tongues are sharp swords.
5 Be exalted, O God, above the heavens!
Let your glory be over all the earth!
6 They spread a net for my feet;
my soul was bent low;
they dug a pit before me,
and into the middle of it they themselves have fallen.
Selah
7 My heart is firm, O God, my heart is firm!
I will sing and make music!
8 Wake up, my glory![b]
Wake up, lute and harp!
I will rouse the dawn!
9 I will give thanks to you, Lord, among the peoples;
I will sing your praise among the nations.
10 For your covenant love is great, reaching to the heavens,
and your faithfulness to the clouds.

11 Be exalted, O God, above the heavens!
Let your glory be over all the earth!

Notes

- a (57 title) Hebrew 'al-tashhet, probably the name of a tune (also in the titles of Psalms 58, 59, and 75). See 1 Samuel 22:1; 24:3. Verses 7–11 appear again as Psalm 108:1–5.
- b (57:8) That is, my soul, or my whole being.

Chapter 58

For the choir leader: "Do Not Destroy." A Miktam of David.

1 Do you indeed speak righteousness, you gods?[a]
Do you judge uprightly the sons of men?
2 No, in your hearts you devise wrongs;
on the earth your hands deal out violence.
3 The wicked go astray from the womb;
liars, they wander off from birth.
4 Their poison is like a snake's poison,
like a deaf adder that stops up its ear,
5 so that it does not hear the voice of the charmers,
of the cunning enchanter.
6 O God, shatter their teeth in their mouth;
break out the jaw teeth of the young lions, Yahweh!
7 Let them flow away like waters that run off;
when he bends his bow, let his arrows be blunted.[b] 8 Let them be like the snail that melts away as it goes,
like a stillborn child that never sees the sun.
9 Before your pots can feel the heat of the thorns,
whether green or burning, may he sweep them away![c]
10 The righteous will rejoice when he sees vengeance;
he will bathe his feet in the blood of the wicked.
11 And mankind will say, "Surely there is a reward for the righteous;
surely there is a God who judges on earth."

Notes

- a (58:1) Hebrew 'elem, "silence," probably to be read 'elim, "gods," that is, rulers or heavenly beings who are set over the nations (compare Psalm 82).
- b (58:7) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

• c (58:9) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 59

For the choir leader: "Do Not Destroy." A Miktam of David, when Saul sent and they guarded the house to put him to death.

1 Rescue me from my enemies, O my God;
set me high above those who rise against me;
2 rescue me from those who work iniquity,
and save me from men of blood.
3 For behold, they lie in wait for my life;
fierce men band together against me,
not for my transgression nor for my sin, Yahweh,
4 for no guilt of mine they run and make ready.
Rouse yourself to meet me, and see!
5 You, Yahweh, God of Armies, God of Israel, arise to visit all the nations;
show no mercy to any wicked traitors.
Selah
6 They come back at nightfall;
they snarl like a dog
and go all around the city.
7 Look, they spew out with their mouths,
with swords in their lips—
"for who," they say, "will hear us?"
8 But you, Yahweh, will laugh at them;
you will mock all the nations.
9 O my Strength, I will keep watch for you,[b]
for God is my high tower.
10 My God, who is faithful to me, will come to meet me;[c]
God will let me see my enemies defeated.
11 Do not kill them, or my people may forget;
make them wander by your power and bring them down,
O Lord, our shield!

12 For the sin of their mouth, the word of their lips,
may they be trapped in their pride,
and for the curses and falsehood they tell.
13 Finish them off in wrath; finish them, so they are gone,
and let them know to the ends of the earth
that God is ruler in Jacob.
Selah
14 They come back at nightfall;
they snarl like a dog
and go all around the city.
15 They wander up and down for food,
and if they are not filled, they stay all night.[d] 16 But I will sing about your power;
in the morning I will joyfully sing about your steadfast love.
You have been my stronghold
and my place of safety when I was in trouble.
17 O my Strength, to you I will make music,
for God is my high tower,
the God who shows me covenant love.

Notes

- a (59 title) See 1 Samuel 19:11–17.
- b (59:9) So some Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint, and the Targum (compare verse 17); most Hebrew manuscripts have "his strength."
- c (59:10) So the qere; the ketiv has "The God of my covenant love."
- d (59:15) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint and Vulgate read "and grumble."

Chapter 60

For the choir leader: set to "Lily of the Testimony." A Miktam of David, to be taught, when he made war with Aram-naharaim and Aram-zobah, and Joab came back and slew 12,000 of Edom in the Valley of Salt.

1 O God, you have rejected us and broken through our defenses;[c]
you have been angry. Restore us again!
2 You have made the land quake; you have split it open;
mend its cracks, for it totters.
3 You have shown your people harsh things;
you have made us drink a wine of reeling.

4 You have given a banner to those who fear you,
to be raised up because of the truth.[d]
Selah
5 That your beloved ones may be delivered,
save with your right hand and answer us![e]
6 God has spoken in his holiness:[f]
"I will exult; I will divide up Shechem
and measure out the Valley of Succoth.
7 Gilead is mine; Manasseh is mine;
Ephraim is the helmet on my head;
Judah is my scepter.
8 Moab is the basin I wash in;
over Edom I throw my sandal;[g]
over Philistia I raise my shout."
9 Who will bring me into the strong city?
Who will guide me to Edom?
10 Is it not you, O God, who have cast us off?
You, O God, who no longer go out with our armies?
11 Give us help against the adversary,
for vain is the deliverance of man!
12 With God we shall do valiantly;
it is he who will trample our adversaries.

Notes

- a (60 title) Hebrew shushan ʻedut, probably the name of a tune. In Hebrew the title is counted as verses 1–2.
- b (60 title) See 2 Samuel 8:3–14 and 1 Chronicles 18:3–13, where Abishai is credited with 18,000. Verses 5–12 appear again as Psalm 108:6–13.
- c (60:1) Hebrew "broken us."
- d (60:4) Or "that they may flee to it from the bow." The Hebrew is uncertain.
- e (60:5) So the qere; the ketiv has "answer me."
- f (60:6) Or "in his sanctuary."
- g (60:8) A gesture of taking possession (compare Ruth 4:7).

Chapter 61

For the choir leader: on stringed instruments. Of David.

1 Hear my crying, O God;
give heed to my prayer.
2 From the far end of the earth I call to you
as my heart grows faint.
Lead me to a rock too high for me,
3 for you have been my shelter,
a strong tower against the enemy.
4 Let me be a guest in your tent forever!
Let me shelter under the cover of your wings!
Selah
5 For you, O God, have listened to my vows;
you have given me the heritage of those who fear your name.
6 Add days to the days of the king;
may his years be as generation upon generation!
7 May he sit enthroned before God forever;
appoint covenant love and faithfulness to guard him!
8 So will I sing praise to your name forever,
as I fulfill my vows day after day.

Chapter 62

For the choir leader: according to Jeduthun. A psalm of David.

1 Truly my soul is silent[a] before God alone;
from him comes my salvation.
2 He alone is my rock and my salvation,
my high fortress; I shall not be greatly shaken.
3 How long will you assault a man,
all of you, to batter him down,
as you would a leaning wall, a tottering fence?
4 They only plan to thrust him from his high place;
they take pleasure in falsehood.
With their mouths they bless,
but inwardly they curse.
Selah
5 My soul, be silent before God alone,
for my hope comes from him.

6 He alone is my rock and my salvation,
my high fortress; I shall not be shaken.
7 Upon God rests my salvation and my glory;
my rock of strength, my refuge, is in God.
8 Trust in him at every time, O people;
pour out your hearts before him;
God is a refuge for us.
Selah
9 Men of low birth are only a breath;
men of high birth are a lie;
put on the scales, they go up;
together they weigh less than a breath.
10 Put no trust in extortion;
set no vain hope on robbery;
if riches increase, do not set your heart on them.
11 Once God has spoken;
twice I have heard this:
that power belongs to God,
12 and to you, Lord, belongs covenant love.
For you repay each one according to his deeds.[b]

Notes

- a (62:1) Or "waits in stillness." The word recurs in verse 5.
- b (62:12) Compare Matthew 16:27; Romans 2:6.

Chapter 63

A psalm of David, while he was in the desert of Judah.

1 O God, you are my God; earnestly I search for you;
my soul is thirsty for you;
my body longs for you,
as in a parched and weary land where no water is.
2 Thus I have gazed on you in the holy place,
to see your might and your glory.
3 Because your covenant love is better than life,
my lips shall praise you.

4 Therefore I will bless you all my life;
I will raise my hands in your name.
5 My soul shall be satisfied as with fat and rich food,
and my mouth shall praise you with songs of joy on my lips, 6 when I call you to mind upon my bed
and think on you through the watches of the night;
7 for you have been my help,
and in the shadow of your wings I sing for joy.
8 My soul holds fast to you;
your right hand keeps hold of me.
9 But those who hunt my life to ruin it will go down to the lowest parts of the earth;
10 they shall be given over to the power of the sword;
they shall be a portion for jackals.
11 But the king will celebrate in God;
all who take oaths in his name will exult,
while the mouths of liars are shut.

Notes

- a (63 title) See 1 Samuel 22:5; 23:14; 2 Samuel 15:23–28.

Chapter 64

For the choir leader. A psalm of David.

1 God, listen to me as I lament;
protect my life from the terror of the enemy.
2 Hide me from the secret plotting of evildoers,
from the throng of those who do iniquity, 3 who whet their tongue like a sword
and fit their arrows, bitter words, to the bow, 4 to shoot in secret at the upright;
all at once they shoot at him and are not afraid.
5 They strengthen themselves in an evil plan;
they talk of laying snares in secret;
they think, "Who will see them?"[a]

6 They search out injustices, saying,
"We have perfected a well-planned scheme!"
For the inward mind and heart of a man are deep.
7 But God will shoot his arrow at them;
suddenly they will be wounded.
8 They will be made to stumble, their own tongues turned against them;
all who see them will shake their heads.
9 And all men will be afraid;
they will declare the work of God
and consider wisely what he has done.
10 The righteous one will rejoice in Yahweh
and take refuge in him.
All the upright in heart will glory!

Notes

- a (64:5) So the Hebrew; some manuscripts and the Syriac have "see us."

Chapter 65

For the choir leader. A psalm of David. A song.

1 Praise waits for you,[a] O God, in Zion,
and to you shall vows be paid.
2 You who listen to prayer,
all flesh will come before you.
3 Deeds of iniquity overpower me;
our transgressions you cover over.
4 Happy is the man whom you choose and draw near to live in your courts!
We will be filled with the goodness of your house,
your holy temple.
5 You answer us with fearsome acts of justice,
God our savior,
the hope of everyone across the earth
and of those on distant seas;
6 who by his strength set the mountains firm,
being girded with might;

7 who stills the roaring of the seas,
the roaring of their waves,
and the tumult of the peoples,
8 Those who dwell at the earth's far edges stand in awe of your wonders;
the gateways of morning and evening you make to sing for joy.
9 You care for the land and give it water;
you make it very fertile;
God's stream is full of water;
you supply grain for the people,
for this is how you prepare the soil.
10 You drench its furrows,
you level its ridges,
you soften it with showers,
and you bless its growth.
11 You crown the year with your goodness;
your tracks overflow with abundance.[b] 12 The wilderness grasslands drip with plenty,
and the hills are wrapped in rejoicing;
13 the meadows put on flocks like a garment;
the valleys wrap themselves in grain;
they shout for joy; yes, they sing.

Notes

- a (65:1) So the Hebrew vowels ("silence is praise to you"); the Septuagint has "Praise is fitting for you."
- b (65:11) Hebrew "drip with fatness," the image of the wheel ruts of God's chariot spilling plenty as it passes.

Chapter 66

For the choir leader. A song. A psalm.

1 Raise a shout to God, all the earth!
2 Sing out the glory of his name;
make his praise glorious!

3 Say to God, “How fearsome are your works!
Because of your great strength your enemies feign obedience to you.
4 The whole earth worships you;
they sing to you;
they sing out your name.”
Selah
5 Come and look at the works of God,
fearsome in his dealings with the children of man.
6 He turned the sea into dry ground;
they passed through the river on foot.[a]
There we rejoiced in him, 7 He rules forever by his might;
his eyes watch over the nations;
let the rebels not raise themselves up.[b]
Selah
8 O peoples, bless our God;
make the voice of his praise heard, 9 who keeps our soul alive
and has not let our feet be shaken.
10 For you, O God, have tested us;
you have refined us as silver is refined.
11 You led us into the snare;
you put heavy affliction on our loins;
12 you made men ride over our heads;
through fire and through water we went;
then you led us out into abundance.[c]
13 I will come into your house with burnt offerings;
I will pay you my vows,
14 the vows my lips spoke
and my mouth promised when I was in distress.
15 Burnt offerings of fatlings I will bring you,
with the sweet smoke of rams;
bulls with goats I will prepare.
Selah

16 Come and listen, all you who fear God,
and I will tell what he has done for my soul.
17 I called out to him with my mouth,
and his praise was under my tongue.
18 If I had cherished iniquity in my heart,
the Lord would not have listened.
19 But God has indeed heard me;
he has paid attention to my prayer.
20 Blessed be God,
who has not turned away my prayer
or withdrawn his covenant love from me!

Notes

- a (66:6) Compare Exodus 14:21–22; Joshua 3:14–17.
- b (66:7) So the qere; the ketiv has a different form of the verb.
- c (66:12) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint, Syriac, and Jerome have "to a place of refreshment."

Chapter 67

For the choir leader: on stringed instruments. A psalm. A song.

1 May God be gracious to us and bless us and make his face shine upon us,[a]
Selah
2 so that your way may become known on earth,
your saving power among all the nations.
3 Let the peoples give thanks to you, O God;
let all the peoples give thanks to you!
4 Let the nations be glad and sing aloud,
for you will judge the peoples in uprightness
and guide the nations on the earth.
Selah
5 Let the peoples give thanks to you, O God;
let all the peoples give thanks to you!
6 The earth has yielded its harvest;
God, our God, blesses us.

7 God will bless us,
and all the ends of the earth will fear him.

Notes

- a (67:1) Echoing the priestly blessing of Numbers 6:24–26.

Chapter 68

For the choir leader. Of David. A psalm. A song.

1 God rises up; his enemies scatter;
those who hate him run from his face.[a] 2 As smoke is blown away, so blow them away;
as wax melts at the fire,
so let the wicked perish before God.
3 But let the righteous be glad and exult before God;
let them be jubilant with joy.
4 Sing to God; make music to his name;
build up a highway for him who rides through the deserts;[b]
Yah is his name;[c] exult before him.
5 Father of the fatherless and defender of widows is God in his holy dwelling.
6 God gives the lonely a home to live in;
he leads out the prisoners into prosperity,
but the rebellious live in a sun-scorched land.
7 O God, when you went out before your people,
when you strode through the wasteland,
Selah
8 the earth trembled; the heavens poured down before the face of God, the One of Sinai,[d]
before the face of God, the God of Israel.
9 You shed abroad a generous rain, O God;
your inheritance was weary, and you restored it.
10 Your company of creatures[e] settled there;
out of your bounty, O God, you made ready for the afflicted.
11 The Lord gives the word;
the women who bring the news are a great army:[f]

12 “Kings of armies flee, they flee!”
The woman who stays at home divides the plunder.
13 Even as you lie among the sheep pens,[g]
a dove’s wings are plated with silver,
her pinions with a greenish gleam of gold.
14 As Shaddai[h] scattered the kings in it,
it was snowing on Zalmon.[i] 15 A mountain of God is Bashan’s mountain;
a mountain of many summits is Bashan’s mountain!
16 Why do you look with envy, you many-peaked mountains,
on the mount that God desired for his dwelling?
Yes, Yahweh will dwell there forever.
17 God’s chariots number twenty thousand, thousands repeated;
the Lord is in their midst; Sinai is in holiness.[j] 18 You went up to the height; you led captives captive;
you received gifts among men,
even among the rebellious, that Yah God might dwell there.[k] 19 Blessed be the Lord, who carries us[l] day by day,
the God who is our salvation.
Selah
20 Our God is a God of saving acts, and to Yahweh the Lord belong the ways out from death.
21 Surely God will crush the heads of his enemies,
the hairy crown of him who walks on in his guilt.
22 The Lord has said, “From Bashan I will bring back;
I will bring back from the deep places of the sea,
23 that you may strike your foot in blood,[m]
and the tongues of your dogs may have their share of the enemy.”
24 Your processions are seen, O God,
the processions of my God, my King, into the sanctuary:
25 singers in front, musicians last,
between them young women playing tambourines:
26 “In the great assemblies bless God, bless Yahweh, you who are from Israel’s fountain!”

27 There is little Benjamin, in front, ruling over them;
there are the leaders of Judah with their crowd,
the leaders of Zebulun and the leaders of Naphtali.
28 Your God has commanded your strength;[n]
show your strength, O God, you who have acted for us.
29 Because of your temple above Jerusalem,
kings will bring gifts to you.
30 Rebuke the beast among the reeds,[o]
the herd of bulls with the calves of the peoples, trampling those who delight in silver;[p]
scatter the peoples who take pleasure in war.
31 Envoys will come from Egypt;
Cush[q] will hurry to stretch out her hands to God.
32 Kingdoms of the earth, sing to God;
make music to the Lord,
Selah
33 to him who rides in the heavens, the ancient heavens;
see, he sends out his voice, a voice of power.
34 Ascribe power to God;
his splendor rests over Israel,
and his might is in the clouds.
35 You are awe-inspiring, God, in your sanctuary;
the God of Israel gives power and strength to his people.
Praise God!

Notes

- a (68:1) Compare Numbers 10:35, the cry when the ark set out.
- b (68:4) Or "extol him who rides on the clouds." Hebrew ʿarabot, "desert plains"; compare verse 33.
- c (68:4) Yah is the short form of the name Yahweh; compare Exodus 15:2.
- d (68:8) Or "even Sinai quaked." Compare Judges 5:4–5.
- e (68:10) Hebrew khayyah, "living things," perhaps here "your flock" or "your people."
- f (68:11) The Hebrew participle is feminine; compare Exodus 15:20; 1 Samuel 18:6.
- g (68:13) The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain; compare Judges 5:16.
- h (68:14) Shaddai, traditionally "the Almighty."

- i (68:14) Zalmon is a hill near Shechem (Judges 9:48), or "it snowed in the darkness." The verse is obscure.
- j (68:17) Or "the Lord has come from Sinai into the holy place," with a slight change to the Hebrew.
- k (68:18) Ephesians 4:8 quotes this line in the form "gave gifts to men," agreeing with the Aramaic Targum and the Syriac.
- l (68:19) Or "who bears our burdens."
- m (68:23) So the Hebrew ("crush"); the Septuagint and Syriac have "dip your foot."
- n (68:28) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint, Syriac, and some Hebrew manuscripts have "Command your strength, O God."
- o (68:30) Probably Egypt, pictured as a crocodile or hippopotamus.
- p (68:30) Or "until each one submits with bars of silver." The Hebrew is very difficult.
- q (68:31) The upper Nile region, south of Egypt.

Chapter 69

For the choir leader: according to "Lilies." Of David.

1 Rescue me, O God,
for the waters have reached my throat.[a] 2 I have sunk in deep mud,
and there is no foothold;
I have come into the depths of the waters,
and the flood sweeps over me.
3 I am weary from calling out; my throat is dry;
my eyes fail as I wait for my God.
4 There are more people who hate me for nothing[b]
than hairs on my head;
my attackers, my lying enemies, are strong.
Must I repay
what I never took?
5 You, O God, know my foolishness,
and my guilty deeds are not concealed from you.
6 Let none who wait for you be ashamed on my account,
Lord Yahweh of Armies;
let none who seek you be humiliated on my account,
O God of Israel.

7 For your sake I have endured insult;
disgrace has covered my face.
8 I have become a stranger to my brothers,
a foreigner to the sons of my mother.
9 Zeal for your house has eaten me up,[c]
and the scorn of those who scorn you has fallen on me.[d] 10 When I wept, with my soul in fasting, that became a reproach against me.
11 When I made sackcloth my clothing,
I became a byword to them.
12 Those who sit at the gate talk about me,
and drunkards make songs about me.
13 But as for me, my prayer is to you, Yahweh,
at a time of favor.
O God, in the abundance of your covenant love,
answer me with your sure salvation.
14 Pull me out of the mud, and do not let me sink;
let me be rescued from those who hate me
and from the deep waters.
15 Do not let the flood overwhelm me or the deep swallow me up or the pit shut its mouth on me.
16 Answer me, Yahweh, for your covenant love is good;
in the greatness of your compassion turn to me.
17 Do not hide your face from your servant,
for I am in distress; quickly answer me.
18 Come near to my soul and redeem it;
ransom me because of my enemies.
19 You know the insults I bear,
my shame and my dishonor;
all my adversaries are in your sight.
20 Insults have broken my heart, and I am sick;
I looked for pity, but there was none,
for comforters, but I found no one.

21 They put poison[e] in my food,
and for my thirst they gave me sour wine to drink.[f] 22 Let their table before them become a trap,
and for those at ease, a snare.[g]
23 Let their eyes grow dark so they cannot see,
and make their loins shake without ceasing.
24 Pour out your fury on them,
and let the heat of your anger catch them.
25 Let their camp become a ruin;
let no one live in their tents.[h]
26 For they persecute the one you have struck,
and they recount the pain of those you have wounded.
27 Add guilt to their guilt;
let them have no share in your righteousness.
28 Let them be blotted from the book of life;
let them not be written down with the righteous.
29 But I am lowly and in sorrow;
let your saving help, O God, set me on high.
30 I will praise the name of God in a song
and glorify him with thanksgiving.
31 This will please Yahweh better than an ox,
a young bull with horns and split hoofs.
32 The lowly have seen and rejoice;
you seekers of God, may your heart live.
33 For Yahweh listens to the needy
and does not scorn his own who are captive.
34 Let heaven and earth praise him,
the seas and everything that moves in them.
35 For God will save Zion
and rebuild the cities of Judah,
and they shall live there and possess it; 36 the children of his servants will inherit it,
and those who love his name will live there.

Notes

- a (69:1) Hebrew nephesh, here in its basic sense of “throat” or “neck.”
- b (69:4) Quoted in John 15:25.
- c (69:9) Quoted in John 2:17.
- d (69:9) Quoted in Romans 15:3.
- e (69:21) Hebrew rosh, a bitter, poisonous plant; the Septuagint has “gall.”
- f (69:21) Compare Matthew 27:34, 48; John 19:28–29.
- g (69:22) Or “and their peace offerings a snare.” Verses 22–23 are quoted in Romans 11:9–10, following the Septuagint.
- h (69:25) Quoted in Acts 1:20.

Chapter 70

For the choir leader. Of David. For a memorial offering.

1 O God, hurry to rescue me!
Yahweh, hurry to help me!
2 Let them be shamed and put to confusion
who seek after my life!
Let them be driven back and humiliated
who take pleasure in my hurt!
3 Let those who cry, “Aha, aha!”
be turned back as the wage of their shame.
4 May all who seek you
be glad and rejoice in you!
May those who love your salvation always say, “God is great!”
5 But I am afflicted and needy;
hurry to me, O God!
You are my help and the one who sets me free;
Yahweh, do not delay!

Notes

- a (70 title) Compare the title of Psalm 38. This psalm closely matches Psalm 40:13–17. In Hebrew numbering the title is verse 1, so the Hebrew has six verses.

Chapter 71

1 In you, Yahweh, I have found refuge;[a]
let me never be shamed.
2 By your righteousness rescue me and set me free;
bend your ear to me and save me.

3 Be a rock of dwelling for me,
where I may always come;
you have given the command to save me,
for you are my rock and my stronghold.
4 My God, rescue me from the hand of the wicked,
from the grasp of the unjust and the ruthless.
5 For you are my hope, Lord Yahweh,
my confidence from my youth.
6 On you I have leaned from birth;
you are the one who brought me from my mother's womb;[b]
my praise is always of you.
7 I have become like a portent to many,
but you are my strong refuge.
8 My mouth is full of your praise,
of your splendor all day long.
9 Do not throw me away when I am old;
do not abandon me as my strength fails.
10 For my enemies talk against me;
those who watch for my life plot together, 11 saying, "God has left him;
chase him and seize him,
for no one will rescue him." 12 O God, do not stay far from me;
my God, hurry to my help![c] 13 Let my accusers be shamed and consumed;
let those who seek my harm
be wrapped in insult and disgrace.
14 But I will always hope
and will praise you more and more.
15 My mouth will tell of your righteousness,
of your saving deeds all the day,
though their number is past my knowing.
16 I will come with the mighty acts of the Lord Yahweh;
I will make mention of your righteousness, yours alone.

17 O God, you have taught me since my youth,
and until now I proclaim your wonders.
18 And now, when I am old and gray-haired,
O God, do not forsake me,
till I declare your arm to this generation,
your power to everyone yet to come.
19 Your righteousness, O God, reaches the heights;
you have done great things;
O God, who is like you?
20 You who have shown me[d] many bitter troubles will make me live once more;
from the deeps of the earth
you will raise me up again.
21 You will increase my greatness
and turn again to comfort me.
22 I also will praise you with the harp
for your faithfulness, my God;
I will make music to you with the lyre,
O Holy One of Israel.
23 My lips will shout for joy when I make music to you,
and my soul, which you have redeemed.
24 My tongue will also tell of your righteousness all day,
for those who tried to hurt me
have been shamed and humiliated.

Notes

- a (71:1) This psalm has no title. Verses 1–3 closely follow Psalm 31:1–3.
- b (71:6) Or "who cut the cord," an uncertain Hebrew word.
- c (71:12) So the qere; the ketiv has a variant spelling.
- d (71:20) So the qere throughout this verse; the ketiv has "us."

Chapter 72

Of Solomon.

1 God, give your decisions to the king,
and your righteousness to the king's son.

2 May he judge your people with righteousness
and your afflicted ones with justice.
3 Let the mountains bear peace for the people,
and the hills, through righteousness.
4 May he do justice for the lowly among the people,
save the sons of the needy,
and break the oppressor in pieces.
5 May they fear you[b] while the sun endures,
and as long as the moon, through all generations.
6 May he be like rain falling on the mown field,
like showers that water the land.
7 Let the righteous flourish in his days,
and let there be much peace until the moon is gone.
8 May he rule from sea to sea,
and from the River[c] to the ends of the earth.
9 May the desert dwellers bow down before him,
and his enemies lick the dust.
10 May the kings of Tarshish and of the coastlands render tribute;
may the kings of Sheba and Seba
bring gifts.
11 May all kings fall down before him,
all nations serve him.
12 For he rescues the needy who cry out,
the afflicted, and the one who has no helper.
13 He will spare the poor and needy one and will save the souls of the needy.
14 From oppression and violence he redeems their lives,
and their blood is precious in his eyes.
15 So may he live, and may Sheba's gold be given him;
may they pray for him continually
and bless him all day long.
16 Let there be an abundance of grain in the land,
waving on the mountaintops;

let its fruit sway like Lebanon,
and let those of the city blossom like the grass of the earth.
17 May his name last forever;
may his fame[d] continue as long as the sun shines!
May every nation find blessing through him[e]
and call him fortunate!
18 Blessed be Yahweh God, the God of Israel,
who alone does wonders.
19 May his glorious name be praised forever;
may his glory fill the whole earth!
Amen and amen![f]
20 The prayers of David the son of Jesse are ended.[g]

Notes

- a (72 title) Or "For Solomon." A prayer for the king, closing Book Two.
- b (72:5) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint has "May he endure."
- c (72:8) The Euphrates.
- d (72:17) So the qere; the ketiv has a variant form, "sprout."
- e (72:17) Compare Genesis 12:3; 22:18.
- f (72:19) Verses 18–19 are the doxology that closes Book Two of the Psalms; compare 41:13; 89:52; 106:48; and Psalm 150.
- g (72:20) An editorial note closing an earlier collection of David's psalms; some psalms of David still follow (for example, 86, 101, 103, 108–110, 138–145).

Chapter 73

Book Three (Psalms 73–89)

A psalm of Asaph.

1 Surely God is good to Israel,
to those who are pure of heart.
2 But as for me, my feet had nearly turned aside;[b]
my steps had all but slid away.
3 For I grew jealous of the boastful
when I watched the wicked prosper.
4 For they have no pangs until their death;[c]
their bodies are sleek and fat.
5 They have no share in the toil of mortals;
they are not struck down as other people are.

6 So pride is their necklace;
violence wraps them like a robe.
7 Their eyes bulge out from fatness;[d]
the fancies of their hearts overflow.
8 They jeer and speak with malice;
from on high they talk of oppression.
9 They have set their mouths against the heavens,
and their tongues strut across the earth.
10 Therefore his people turn back to them,[e]
and they drain waters in full measure.[f] 11 And they say, "How does God know?
Is there knowledge with the Most High?"
12 Look at them: these are the wicked,
always at ease; they pile up wealth.
13 In vain, then, I have kept my heart pure and bathed my hands in innocence.
14 For I have been struck all day long,
and my rebuke comes every morning.
15 If I had said, "I will talk like this,"
I would have betrayed the generation of your children.
16 But when I set myself to understand this,
it was a weary task in my eyes,
17 until I entered the sanctuaries of God;[g]
then I perceived their end.
18 Truly you place them on slippery ground;
you hurl them down to ruin.
19 How suddenly they become a desolation,
swept away entirely by terrors!
20 Like a dream after one wakes, Lord,
so when you rouse yourself you will despise their phantoms.
21 When my heart was soured
and I was stabbed in my inward parts,[h]
22 I was stupid and did not understand;
I was a brute beast toward you.

23 Still, I am with you continually;
you hold me by my right hand.
24 You will lead me with your counsel,
and afterward you will receive me with glory.[i] 25 Whom do I have in heaven but you?
And besides you I want nothing on earth.
26 My flesh and my heart may waste away,
but God is the rock[j] of my heart and my portion forever.
27 For look: those far from you will be lost;
you silence all who go whoring away from you.
28 But as for me, nearness to God is my good;
I have made the Lord Yahweh my refuge,
that I may tell of all your works.

Notes

- a (73 title) Book Three of the Psalms begins here; it closes with the doxology at 89:52. Psalms 73–83 form a collection attributed to Asaph, a Levite singer appointed by David (1 Chronicles 15:17–19; 16:4–7; 25:1–2); compare Psalm 50. Psalms 84–85 and 87–88 belong to the sons of Korah.
- b (73:2) So the qere for both verbs; the ketiv has variant forms.
- c (73:4) Or, dividing the Hebrew differently, "they have no pangs; sound and fat is their body."
- d (73:7) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint and Syriac have "their iniquity comes out from fatness."
- e (73:10) So the ketiv; the qere has "he brings back his people here."
- f (73:10) The meaning of the Hebrew in this verse is uncertain.
- g (73:17) Or "the holy things of God."
- h (73:21) Hebrew "kidneys," the seat of the emotions.
- i (73:24) Or "take me to glory."
- j (73:26) Hebrew tsur, "rock."

Chapter 74

A Maskil of Asaph.

1 Why, O God, have you rejected us forever?
Why does your anger smoke against the sheep you pasture?
2 Remember your assembly, which you acquired long ago,
the tribe of your inheritance, which you redeemed,
Mount Zion, where you have made your dwelling.

3 Lift your steps toward the endless ruins,
everything the enemy has wrecked in the holy place.
4 Your foes have roared in the middle of your meeting place;
they have set up their own banners as signs.
5 They looked like men swinging axes upward into a thicket of trees.[b] 6 And now all its carved panels[c]
they smash with hatchet and hammers.
7 They have set your sanctuary on fire;
they have profaned the dwelling of your name, bringing it to the ground.
8 They said in their hearts, “Let us crush them altogether”;
they burned every meeting place of God in the land.
9 We do not see our signs;
there is no longer a prophet,
and none among us knows how long.
10 How long, O God, will the foe taunt?
Is the enemy to scorn your name forever?
11 Why do you hold back your hand, your right hand?
Take it out of the fold of your garment[d] and finish them off!
12 Yet God has been my King since long ago,
bringing rescue across the land.
13 You split the sea by your might;
you shattered the heads of the sea monsters on the waters.
14 You crushed the heads of Leviathan;[e]
you gave him as food to the people of the wilderness.[f] 15 You split open fountain and stream;
you made the ever-running rivers dry.
16 The day belongs to you, and the night is yours as well;
you established the moon[g] and the sun.
17 You fixed all the boundaries of the earth;
summer and winter you formed.
18 Remember this, Yahweh: the enemy taunts,
and a foolish people scorns your name.

19 Do not hand over your turtledove's soul to the wild beast;
do not forget forever the life of your poor.
20 Look to the covenant,
for the dark corners of the land are full of the haunts of violence.
21 Let not the downtrodden turn back in disgrace;
let the poor and needy praise your name.
22 Rise up, O God, argue your own case;
remember how the fool taunts you all day long.
23 Do not forget the clamor of your adversaries,
the din of those rising up against you, ascending continually.

Notes

- a (74 title) A lament over the destruction of the sanctuary, most likely by the Babylonians in 587 BC (2 Kings 25:8–9). On Maskil, see Psalm 32.
- b (74:5) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.
- c (74:6) So the qere; the ketiv has a variant spelling.
- d (74:11) So the qere; the ketiv has "your statute."
- e (74:14) A many-headed sea serpent, a picture of chaos; compare Job 41; Isaiah 27:1.
- f (74:14) Or "to the creatures of the desert."
- g (74:16) Hebrew "the light," probably the moon.

Chapter 75

To the director: set to "Destroy Not." A psalm of Asaph; a song.

1 To you, O God, we give thanks, we give thanks;
and near is your name;[a]
they recount your wonderful works.
2 "When I seize the appointed time,
I myself will judge with equity.
3 When the earth and all who live on it reel,
it is I who keep its pillars steady.
Selah
4 To the arrogant I say, 'Stop your boasting,'
and to the wicked, 'Do not lift up the horn;[b] 5 do not lift your horn on high,
or speak with an arrogant neck.'"

6 For promotion comes not from the east or the west or from the wilderness;[c]
7 but it is God who judges, bringing one low and lifting another up.
8 For Yahweh holds a cup in his hand;
the wine in it foams and is mixed with spices,
and he pours it out;
9 But I will declare it forever;
I will sing praises to the God of Jacob.
10 "All the horns of the wicked I will cut off, but the horns of the righteous will be raised high."

Notes

- a (75:1) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint has "we will call on your name."
- b (75:4) The horn is a picture of strength and pride; so also in verses 5 and 10.
- c (75:6) Or "not from the desert of the mountains."

Chapter 76

For the choir leader: with stringed instruments. A psalm of Asaph. A song.

1 In Judah God is known;
his name is great in Israel.
2 His shelter[a] has been set up in Salem,[b]
his lair in Zion.
3 There he shattered the fiery shafts of the bow,
the shield and sword and battle gear.
Selah
4 Radiant are you,
more majestic than the mountains of prey.[c] 5 The stouthearted were stripped of their spoil;
they sank into their sleep;
none of the men of war could find their hands.
6 At your rebuke, O God of Jacob,
both chariot and horse lay stunned.
7 You—you are to be feared!
Who can stand before you once your anger is roused?

8 From the heavens you made your judgment heard;
the earth was afraid and fell silent 9 when God rose up to judge,
to save all the humble of the earth.
Selah
10 Surely the wrath of man will praise you;
with the remnant of wrath you will gird yourself.[d] 11 Make vows to Yahweh your God and keep them;
let all around him bring tribute to the One to be feared, 12 who cuts short the breath of princes,
who is fearsome to the kings of the earth.

Notes

- a (76:2) Or "his booth," the image of a lion's thicket.
- b (76:2) An old name for Jerusalem; compare Genesis 14:18.
- c (76:4) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint has "the everlasting mountains."
- d (76:10) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 77

For the choir leader: according to Jeduthun. Of Asaph. A psalm.

1 My voice goes up to God, and I cry out;
my voice goes up to God, and he will listen to me.
2 When I was in trouble I looked for the Lord;
at night I reached out my hand and did not grow tired;
my soul refused to be comforted.
3 I think of God, and I groan;
I ponder, and my spirit faints.
Selah
4 You hold my eyelids open;
I am so troubled I cannot speak.
5 I consider the days long past,
the years of ages gone by.
6 I call to mind my song in the night;
I muse with my heart,
and my spirit searches:

7 “Will the Lord cast off for all time
and be favorable no more?
8 Has his covenant love come to an end for all time?
Is his promise at an end for all generations?
9 Has God forgotten to be gracious?
Has he in anger shut off his compassion?”
Selah
10 Then I said, “What hurts me most is that the right hand of the Most High is different now.”[b] 11 I will call to mind the deeds of Yah;[c]
yes, I will remember your wonders of old.
12 I will think over everything you have done
and reflect on your mighty deeds.
13 O God, your way is in holiness.
What god is great like our God?
14 You are the God who works wonders;
you have made your strength known among the peoples.
15 By your arm you have ransomed your people,
Jacob’s sons and Joseph’s.
Selah
16 The waters saw you, O God;
the waters saw you and writhed;
the very deeps trembled.
17 The clouds poured down water;
the skies gave a thundering voice;
your arrows flashed back and forth.
18 Your thunder’s voice rolled in the whirlwind;
lightnings lit the world;
the earth trembled and shook.
19 Your road was in the sea,
your paths in the mighty waters,
and your tracks could not be known.
20 You led your people like a flock
by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

Notes

- a (77 title) So the qere; the ketiv has "Jeduthun" spelled differently. Compare Psalm 39 and 62.
- b (77:10) Or "I will appeal to the years of the right hand of the Most High." The Hebrew is uncertain.
- c (77:11) So the qere ("I will make mention of the deeds of Yah"); Yah is the short form of the name Yahweh.

Chapter 78

A Maskil of Asaph.

1 My people, hear my instruction;[b]
listen closely to what I say.
2 I will open my mouth in a parable;
I will pour out riddles from long ago,[c]
3 things we have heard and known,
which our fathers have recounted to us.
4 We will not hide them from their descendants
but will tell the next generation
about the praiseworthy acts of Yahweh, his power,
and the wonders he has performed.
5 He set up a testimony in Jacob and placed a law in Israel,
which he commanded our fathers
to teach to their children, 6 so that a later generation might know them,
children not yet born,
and rise up and recount them to their own children,
7 that they might place their hope in God,
not forgetting the works of God,
but guarding his commands;
8 and that they should not be like their fathers,
a generation stubborn and defiant,
a generation whose heart was not steady,
whose spirit was not faithful to God.
9 The men of Ephraim, armed archers,[d]
turned back on the day of battle.

10 They did not keep God's covenant
and would not walk in his law.
11 They let his deeds slip from memory,
and the marvels he had let them see.
12 In the sight of their fathers he did marvels
in the land of Egypt, in the region of Zoan.[e] 13 He split the sea and let them pass through;
he made the waters stand up like a heap.
14 By day he led them with a cloud,
and all night long with the light of fire.
15 He split rocks in the wilderness
and gave them drink as from the great deep.
16 He brought streams out of the crag
and made waters flow down like rivers.
17 Yet they went on sinning still more against him,
defying the Most High in the desert.
18 They put God to the test in their hearts
by demanding the food they craved.
19 They spoke against God, saying,
"Can God lay out a table in the wilderness?
20 True, he struck the rock and waters gushed
and torrents overflowed;
but can he also give bread
or supply meat for his people?" 21 So when Yahweh heard, he was furious;
a fire was lit against Jacob,
and anger also rose against Israel, 22 because they did not believe in God
or trust his power to save.
23 Yet he gave orders to the skies above
and opened the doors of heaven; 24 he rained manna on them to eat and gave them the grain of heaven.

25 Mortals ate the bread of the mighty;[f]
he sent them food in abundance.
26 He roused the east wind across the sky and guided the south wind by his might;
27 He showered flesh on them like dust,
and birds on the wing like sea sand;
28 he let them fall in the middle of their camp,
all around their dwellings.
29 So they ate and were thoroughly filled,
for he gave them what they craved.
30 They had not yet turned from their lust;
their food was still in their mouths 31 the anger of God rose against them;
he killed the sturdiest of them
and struck down Israel's young men.[g] 32 In spite of all this they sinned again;
they did not believe in his wonders.
33 So he ended their days like a breath,
and their years in sudden terror.
34 Whenever he killed some, the rest would seek him;
they would turn back and search eagerly for God.
35 They remembered that God was their rock,
and God Most High their redeemer.
36 But they flattered him with their mouths
and lied to him with their tongues.
37 For their heart was not steadfast with him;
they kept no faith with his covenant.
38 Yet he, being compassionate,
covered over their guilt and did not destroy them;
again and again he held back his anger
and did not rouse all his wrath.
39 He remembered that they were only flesh,
a breath that passes and does not come back.

40 How often they defied him in the wilderness
and grieved him in the desert!
41 Again and again they put God to the test and grieved[h] Israel's Holy One.
42 They gave no thought to his hand,
to the day he redeemed them from the adversary, 43 when he set his signs in Egypt and his marvels in the region of Zoan.
44 He turned their rivers to blood,
so they could not drink from their streams.
45 He sent among them mixed swarms that ate them up,
and frogs that brought them ruin.
46 He handed their harvest to the caterpillar
and the fruit of their work to the locust.
47 He killed their vines with hail and their sycamore figs with frost.[i] 48 He handed over their cattle to the hail and their herds to bolts of fire.
49 He let loose on them his burning anger,
fury, indignation, and distress,
a band of messengers of disaster.
50 He leveled a road for his wrath;
he did not hold back their soul from death
but handed their life to pestilence.
51 He struck every firstborn son in Egypt,
the beginning of their vigor, in the tents of Ham.[j] 52 Then he brought out his people like sheep and guided them in the wilderness like a flock.
53 He led them in safety, and they were not afraid,
but the sea covered over their enemies.
54 He led them to the border of his holy place,
to this mountain, which his right hand acquired.

55 He drove out nations before them;
he allotted them a heritage by measuring line
and settled the tribes of Israel in their tents.
56 Yet they tested and defied God Most High and did not keep his testimonies.
57 They turned away and were faithless like their fathers;
they swerved like a bow that cannot be trusted.
58 They angered him with their high places;
they stirred his jealousy with their carved idols.
59 When God heard, he was furious
and utterly rejected Israel.
60 He forsook the tabernacle of Shiloh,[k]
the tent he had pitched among men, 61 and gave up his strength[l] to captivity,
his splendor into the hand of the foe.
62 He gave his people over to the sword
and was furious with his inheritance.
63 Fire devoured their young men,
and no marriage song was sung for their maidens.
64 Their priests fell by the sword,
and their widows could not weep.[m] 65 Then the Lord awoke like one who had slept,
like a mighty man shouting from wine.
66 He beat his foes back;
he gave them lasting disgrace.
67 He refused Joseph's tent
and did not select Ephraim's tribe, 68 but he chose the tribe of Judah,
Mount Zion, which he loves.
69 He built his sanctuary like the heights,[n]
like the earth, which he founded forever.
70 He chose David his servant
and took him from the sheep pens;

71 from following the ewes with lambs he brought him to be shepherd of Jacob his people,
and of Israel his heritage.
72 He shepherded them with integrity of heart and led them with skillful hands.

Notes

- a (78 title) A long teaching psalm recounting Israel's history from the exodus to David; compare Psalms 105 and 106.
- b (78:1) Hebrew torah, "instruction."
- c (78:2) Quoted in Matthew 13:35.
- d (78:9) Hebrew "armed ones, shooters of the bow."
- e (78:12) Tanis, a city in the eastern Nile delta.
- f (78:25) Or "the bread of angels," as in the Septuagint.
- g (78:31) Compare Numbers 11:31–34.
- h (78:41) Or "provoked" or "set limits for"; the meaning of the Hebrew verb is uncertain.
- i (78:47) The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain.
- j (78:51) Ham is a poetic name for Egypt (Genesis 10:6).
- k (78:60) Compare 1 Samuel 4; Jeremiah 7:12–14.
- l (78:61) The ark of the covenant; compare Psalm 132:8.
- m (78:64) Compare 1 Samuel 4:11, 19–22.
- n (78:69) Or "like the high heavens."

Chapter 79

A psalm of Asaph.

1 O God, the nations have invaded your inheritance;
they have made your holy temple unclean;
they have turned Jerusalem into heaps of rubble.
2 They have left the corpses of your servants
as food for the birds of the sky,
the flesh of your faithful ones for the beasts of the land.
3 Their blood they have spilled like water
on every side of Jerusalem,
with no one to bury them.
4 We are a reproach to those who live near us,
a joke and a scorn to those all about us.

5 How long, Yahweh? Will you be angry forever?
Will your jealousy go on burning like fire?
6 Pour out your fury on the nations that do not know you,
and on the realms that never call upon your name;
7 for they have eaten up Jacob
and laid his pasture waste.
8 Do not remember against us the sins of former days;[a] let your mercies hurry to meet us,
for we are laid very low.
9 Help us, God of our salvation,
for your name's glory;
deliver us and cover our sins
because of your name.
10 Why should the nations say,
"Where is their God?"
Let the avenging of your servants' shed blood
be made known among the nations before our eyes.
11 Let the groaning of the captive come before you;
by the greatness of your arm
spare those condemned to die.[b] 12 Pay back into the laps[c] of our neighbors sevenfold
the taunts with which they taunted you, Lord.
13 Then we, your people and the sheep you pasture,
will give you thanks forever;
to every generation we will tell your praise.

Notes

- a (79:8) Or "our former iniquities."
- b (79:11) Hebrew "the sons of death."
- c (79:12) Hebrew "bosom," the fold of a garment used as a pocket.

Chapter 80

For the choir leader: according to "Lilies." A testimony. Of Asaph. A psalm.

1 Shepherd of Israel, give ear,
you who lead Joseph like a flock!
You who are enthroned upon the cherubim,[a] shine out
2 before Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh!
Awaken your might
and come to save us!
3 Restore us, O God;
let your face shine, and we will be saved.[b]
4 Yahweh, God of Armies,
how long will you smolder at the prayer of your people?
5 You have fed them bread made of tears
and given them tears to drink by the measure.[c] 6 You make us a cause of strife to our neighbors,
and our enemies jeer among themselves.
7 God of Armies, restore us;
let your face shine, and we will be saved.
8 You brought a vine out of Egypt;
you drove out the nations and planted it.
9 You cleared the ground before it;
it struck deep roots and filled the land.
10 Its shade covered the mountains,
and its branches the mighty cedars.[d] 11 It stretched out its shoots as far as the Sea,
its tendrils to the River.[e] 12 Why have you torn down its walls,
so that all who pass along the road strip its fruit?
13 The boar from the forest gnaws it,
and whatever moves in the field feeds on it.
14 God of Armies, come back, we pray!
Look down from heaven and see;
take care of this vine,
15 the stock[f] that your right hand planted,
and the son you made strong for yourself.

16 It is burned with fire, cut down;
may they perish at the rebuke of your face!
17 Let your hand rest on the man at your right,
on the human being you made strong for yourself.
18 Then we will not turn away from you;
give us life, and we will call on your name.
19 Yahweh, God of Armies, restore us;
let your face shine, and we will be saved.

Notes

- a (80:1) The winged figures over the ark of the covenant; compare Exodus 25:18–22.
- b (80:3) This refrain recurs, growing fuller, in verses 7 and 19.
- c (80:5) Hebrew shalish, "a third," a measure of perhaps a third of an ephah.
- d (80:10) Hebrew "the cedars of God."
- e (80:11) The Mediterranean and the Euphrates.
- f (80:15) The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain.

Chapter 81

For the choir leader: on the Gittith. Of Asaph.

1 Shout for joy to God our strength;
raise a glad cry to the God of Jacob!
2 Lift up a song and strike the tambourine,
the sweet lyre together with the harp.
3 Blow the ram's horn at the new moon,
at the full moon, on the day of our feast.[b] 4 For it is a statute for Israel,
an ordinance of the God of Jacob.
5 He established it as a decree for Joseph
when he marched out against[c] the land of Egypt.
I heard a language I did not know:[d]
6 "I took the load off his shoulder;
his hands were freed from the basket.[e]
7 You called in trouble, and I rescued you;
I answered you from where the thunder hides;
I put you to the test at the waters of Meribah.[f]
Selah

8 Listen, my people, and I will give you a warning—
Israel, if only you would pay attention to me!
9 You must not have any foreign god among you;
you must not worship a strange god.
10 I am Yahweh your God,
who brought you up from the land of Egypt.
Open your mouth wide, and I will fill it.
11 "But my people did not heed my voice;
Israel would have none of me.
12 So I let them go in the stubbornness of their hearts,
to walk by their own schemes.
13 Oh, if my people would listen to me,
if Israel would walk in my ways,
14 how swiftly I would humble their enemies
and turn my hand against their foes!
15 Those who hate Yahweh would cringe before him,
and their doom[g] would last forever.
16 But he would feed you[h] with the best of the wheat, and I would fill you with honey out of the rock."

Notes

- a (81 title) See the title of Psalm 8.
- b (81:3) Probably the Feast of Booths in the seventh month (Leviticus 23:24, 34).
- c (81:5) Or "over."
- d (81:5) Or "I heard a language I did not know."
- e (81:6) The basket for carrying clay or bricks; compare Exodus 1:11–14.
- f (81:7) Meribah means "quarreling"; compare Exodus 17:1–7; Numbers 20:1–13.
- g (81:15) Hebrew "their time."
- h (81:16) Hebrew "him," that is, Israel.

Chapter 82

A psalm of Asaph.

1 God stands in the divine council;[a]
in the midst of the gods he gives judgment:
2 "How long will you judge unjustly
and show favor to the wicked?
Selah

3 Give justice to the weak and the fatherless;
uphold the right of the afflicted and the destitute.
4 Set free the weak and the poor;
snatch them from the grip of the wicked."
5 They neither know nor understand;
they walk about in darkness;
all the foundations of the earth are shaken.
6 "I said, 'You are gods,
sons of the Most High, all of you;
7 Yet you will die as mortals die
and fall like one of the rulers.'" 8 Rise up, O God, and judge the earth,
because all the nations are your inheritance!

Notes

- a (82:1) Hebrew ʿadat-ʾel, "the assembly of God" or "of El." The "gods" (elohim) of verses 1 and 6 are understood as the heavenly beings who were thought to rule the nations (compare Deuteronomy 32:8 in the Septuagint and Dead Sea Scrolls), or as human rulers and judges acting in God's name. Jesus quotes verse 6 in John 10:34–36.

Chapter 83

A song. A psalm of Asaph.

1 O God, do not stay silent;
do not hold back or be quiet, O God!
2 For look, your enemies are in an uproar;
those who hate you have raised their heads.
3 Against your people they plot cunningly;
they conspire against those you shelter.
4 They say, "Come, let us wipe them out as a nation,
so that the name of Israel is remembered no more!"
5 For they plot together with one heart;
against you they make a covenant:
6 the tents of Edom and the Ishmaelites,
Moab and the Hagrites,

7 Gebal[a] and Ammon and Amalek,
Philistia with those who live in Tyre;
8 Assyria too has joined them;
they have become the strong arm[b] of the children of Lot.[c]
Selah
9 Do to them as you did to Midian,
as to Sisera and Jabin at the Wadi Kishon,[d]
10 They perished at En-dor;
they became manure for the soil.
11 Make their nobles like Oreb and Zeeb,
all their princes like Zebah and Zalmunna, 12 who said, "Let us seize for ourselves
the pastures of God."
13 O my God, make them like a spinning wheel of thistle,[e] like straw driven by the wind.
14 As fire burns up a forest,
as a flame sets the mountains ablaze, 15 so chase them with your tempest
and terrify them with your storm.
16 Cover their faces with disgrace,
so that they may seek your name, Yahweh.
17 Let them be shamed and dismayed forever;
let them be humiliated and perish,
18 that they may know that you alone, whose name is Yahweh, are the Most High over all the earth.

Notes

- a (83:7) Probably Byblos on the Phoenician coast, or a region south of the Dead Sea.
- b (83:8) Hebrew "arm."
- c (83:8) Moab and Ammon (Genesis 19:36–38).
- d (83:9) Compare Judges 4–8.
- e (83:13) Or "tumbleweed"; Hebrew galgal, "wheel."

Chapter 84

For the choir leader: on the Gittith. Of the sons of Korah. A psalm.

1 How lovely are your dwelling places,
Yahweh of Armies!
2 My soul yearns, even wastes away,
for the courts of Yahweh;
my heart and my flesh cry out with joy
to the living God.
3 Even the sparrow has found a home,
and the swallow a nest for herself,
where she may set down her young—
at your altars, Yahweh of Armies,
my King and my God.
4 Happy are those who live in your house,
forever singing your praise!
Selah
5 Happy is the one whose strength is in you,
in whose heart are the highways to Zion.[a] 6 As they pass through the Valley of Baca,[b]
they make it a place of springs;
the early rain also wraps it in blessings.[c]
7 They walk on from strength to strength;
every one of them is seen before God in Zion.
8 Yahweh God of Armies, hear my prayer;
give ear, O God of Jacob!
Selah
9 Look on our shield, O God;[d] regard the face of your anointed one!
10 For one day in your courts is better than a thousand anywhere else.[e]
I would sooner stand at the threshold of the house of my God than make my home in the tents of wickedness.
11 For Yahweh God is a sun and shield;
Yahweh bestows grace and glory;
he does not keep back any good thing
from those who walk with integrity.

12 Yahweh of Armies,
happy is the person who trusts in you!

Notes

- a (84:5) Hebrew “the highways”; that is, the pilgrim roads to Jerusalem.
- b (84:6) Or “the valley of weeping” or “of balsam trees.”
- c (84:6) Or “pools,” with different vowels.
- d (84:9) Or “O God our shield, look.” The “shield” is the king; compare 89:18.
- e (84:10) Hebrew “than a thousand.”

Chapter 85

For the choir leader. Of the sons of Korah. A psalm.

1 Yahweh, you showed favor to your land;
you restored the fortunes[a] of Jacob.
2 You lifted the iniquity of your people;
all their sin you hid from view.
Selah
3 You gathered up all your wrath;
you turned away from your blazing anger.
4 Turn us back again, God of our salvation,
and put an end to your displeasure with us.
5 Will you be angry with us forever?
Will you stretch out your anger to every generation?
6 Will you not give us life once more,
so that your people may rejoice in you?
7 Show us your covenant love, Yahweh,
and give us your salvation.
8 Let me hear what God, Yahweh, will say,
for he will speak peace to his people, to his faithful ones;
only let them not go back to foolishness.
9 Surely his salvation is close to those who fear him,
that glory may make its home in our land.
10 Covenant love and faithfulness have met;
righteousness and peace have kissed.
11 Faithfulness sprouts up from the earth,
and righteousness gazes down from heaven.

12 Yes, Yahweh will give what is good,
and our land will give its harvest.
13 Righteousness will go ahead of him
and make his footsteps a road.[b]

Notes

- a (85:1) Or "brought back the captives."
- b (85:13) Or "and will set us on the way of his steps."

Chapter 86

A prayer of David.

1 Bend down your ear, Yahweh, and answer me,
for I am poor and in need.
2 Keep my soul, for I am faithful to you;[a] save your servant, you who are my God,
the one who trusts in you.
3 Be gracious to me, Lord,
for to you I call all day long.
4 Bring joy to the soul of your servant,
for to you, Lord, I lift up my soul.
5 For you, Lord, are good and forgiving,
rich in covenant love to all who call to you.
6 Hear my prayer, Yahweh;
listen to my plea for grace.
7 In the day of my trouble I call to you,
for you will answer me.
8 There is none like you among the gods, Lord,
and no works are like yours.
9 All the nations you have made will come and bow down before you, Lord,
and they will give glory to your name.
10 For you are great and do wonders;
you alone are God.
11 Teach me your way, Yahweh,
that I may walk in your truth;
make my heart single to fear your name.

12 I will thank you, Lord my God, with my whole heart,
and I will glorify your name forever.
13 For great is your covenant love toward me;
you have rescued my soul from the depths of Sheol.[b] 14 O God, insolent men have risen against me;
a gang of ruthless men seeks my life,
and they do not keep you before them.
15 But you, Lord, are a merciful and kind God,
patient and full of steadfast love and truth.[c] 16 Turn toward me and have mercy on me;
grant your strength to your servant,
and rescue the son of your handmaid.
17 Give me a token of your favor,
and my haters will see it and be ashamed,
for you, Yahweh, are the one who has aided and consoled me.

Notes

- a (86:2) Hebrew khasid, "one devoted to covenant love."
- b (86:13) The realm of the dead.
- c (86:15) Compare Exodus 34:6.

Chapter 87

Of the sons of Korah. A psalm. A song.

1 His foundation is on the holy mountains.[a]
2 Yahweh loves the gates of Zion above all the dwellings of Jacob.
3 Glorious things are said of you,
O city of God.
Selah
4 "I will record Rahab[b] and Babylon
among those who know me;
look, Philistia and Tyre, with Cush—
'This one was born there,' they say."
5 And of Zion it will be said,
"This one and that one were born in her,"
and the Most High himself will make her secure.

6 Yahweh records as he writes down the peoples,
"This one was born there."
Selah
7 Singers and dancers alike will say,
"All my springs are in you."

Notes

- a (87:1) The Hebrew of this brief psalm is compressed and in places obscure.
- b (87:4) A poetic name for Egypt; compare 89:10; Isaiah 30:7.

Chapter 88

A song. A psalm of the sons of Korah. For the choir leader: according to Mahalath Leannoth. A Maskil of Heman the Ezrahite.

1 Yahweh, God of my salvation,
by day I cry out, and by night before you.
2 Let my prayer come into your presence;
turn your ear to my crying!
3 For my soul is sated with troubles,
and my life has drawn near to Sheol.
4 I am reckoned among those who go down to the pit;
I am like a man without strength,
5 cast loose among the dead,
like the slain who lie in the grave,
whom you remember no longer,
for they are cut off from your hand.
6 You have put me in the lowest pit,
in dark places, in the depths.
7 Your fury lies heavy on me,
and you overwhelm me with all your breakers.
Selah
8 You have taken my friends far from me;
you have made me loathsome to them.
I am shut in and cannot get out;
9 my eye wastes away because of affliction.
Every day I call to you, Yahweh;
I spread out my hands to you.

10 Will you show wonders to the dead?
Will the departed[c] stand up and praise you?
Selah
11 Is your covenant love told in the grave,
or your faithfulness in Abaddon?[d] 12 Are your wonders known in the darkness, or your righteousness in the land of forgetting?
13 But I cry to you, Yahweh, for help;
in the morning my prayer comes before you.
14 Yahweh, why do you reject me?
Why do you keep your face hidden from me?
15 I have been afflicted and close to death since my youth;
I bear your terrors; I am helpless.[e]
16 Your burning anger has swept over me;
your terrors have destroyed me.
17 They surround me like water all day;
they close in on me together.
18 You have taken lover and companion far from me;
my closest friend is darkness.[f]

Notes

- a (88 title) Perhaps "on sickness, for affliction," or the name of a tune; the meaning is uncertain.
- b (88 title) Compare 1 Kings 4:31; 1 Chronicles 2:6; 15:19. This is the darkest of the laments; it ends without any word of hope.
- c (88:10) Hebrew rephaim, the dead in the underworld.
- d (88:11) "Destruction," a name for the place of the dead.
- e (88:15) The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain.
- f (88:18) Or "my companions are in darkness."

Chapter 89

A Maskil of Ethan the Ezrahite.

1 I will sing of the covenant love of Yahweh forever;
with my mouth I will make your faithfulness known to every generation.
2 For I said, "Covenant love is built up forever;
in the heavens you have fixed your faithfulness."

3 “I have cut a covenant with my chosen one;
I have sworn to David my servant:
4 ‘I will make your offspring secure forever
and build up your throne for all generations.’”
Selah
5 The heavens praise your wonders, Yahweh,
and your faithfulness in the gathering of the holy ones.
6 For who in the skies can be ranked with Yahweh?
Who among the sons of the gods[b] is like Yahweh,
7 a God feared in the assembly of the holy ones,
more awesome than all who stand around him?
8 Yahweh God of Armies,
who is mighty as you are, O Yah?[c]
Your faithfulness is all around you.
9 You rule the swelling of the sea;
when its waves rise, you calm them.
10 You broke Rahab[d] in pieces like a corpse;
by your mighty arm your foes were scattered.
11 The heavens are yours; the earth too is yours;
the world and everything in it, you founded them.
12 North and south—you made them;
Tabor and Hermon ring out with joy in your name.
13 Yours is an arm with might;
your hand is strong; your right hand is lifted high.
14 Righteousness and justice are the base of your throne;
covenant love and faithfulness go ahead of your face.
15 Blessed is the people that knows the shout of celebration;
Yahweh, they will walk in the light of your face.
16 In your name they rejoice all the day,
and in your righteousness they are lifted up.
17 For you are the splendor of their might,
and through your goodwill our horn[e] is exalted.
18 For our shield belongs to Yahweh,
our king to the Holy One of Israel.

19 Long ago you spoke by vision to your devoted ones[f] and said,
"I have given aid to a warrior;
I have exalted a man chosen out of the people.
20 I have found David my servant;
with my holy oil I have anointed him.
21 My hand will stay with him;
my arm also will make him strong.
22 No enemy will get the better of him;
no son of wickedness will humble him.
23 I will beat down his foes in front of him
and strike those who hate him.
24 My faithfulness and my covenant love will be with him,
and in my name his horn will be lifted high.
25 I will set his hand on the sea
and his right hand on the rivers.
26 He will cry to me, 'You are my Father,
my God, and the Rock of my salvation.'
27 And I will make him the firstborn, highest of the kings of the earth.
28 I will keep my covenant love for him forever,
and my covenant with him will stand firm.
29 I will establish his offspring for all time,
and his throne like the days of the heavens.
30 If his children forsake my instruction
and do not live by my rulings, 31 if they profane my decrees
and fail to observe my commands, 32 then I will punish their transgression with the rod and their iniquity with blows, 33 but I will not take away my covenant love from him[g]
or prove false to my faithfulness.
34 I will not violate my covenant
or change what has gone out from my lips.

35 Once for all I have sworn by my holiness;
I will not lie to David.
36 His offspring will endure forever,
and his throne like the sun before me.
37 Like the moon it will be established forever,
a faithful witness in the sky."
Selah
38 But now you have cast off and spurned;
you are full of wrath against your anointed.
39 You have renounced the covenant with your servant;
you have dragged his crown in the dust.
40 You have breached every one of his walls;
you have left his fortresses in ruins.
41 Everyone passing by on the road robs him;
to his neighbors he has become an object of scorn.
42 You have lifted high the right hand of his adversaries;
you have given all his enemies cause to rejoice.
43 You have even turned back the edge of his sword and have not held him up in battle.
44 You have ended his splendor
and hurled his throne to the ground.
45 You have cut short the days of his youth;
you have wrapped him in shame.
Selah
46 How long, Yahweh? Will you hide yourself forever?
Will your wrath keep burning like fire?
47 Remember how fleeting my life is!
For what emptiness you have created all the children of man!
48 What man can live and not see death?
Who can rescue his soul from the power of Sheol?
Selah
49 Lord, where are your covenant loves of old,
which you swore to David in your faithfulness?

50 Remember, Lord, how your servants are taunted, how I carry in my bosom the insults of all the many peoples, 51 with which your enemies taunt, Yahweh,
with which they taunt the footsteps of your anointed.
52 Blessed be Yahweh forever!
Amen and Amen.[h]

Notes

- a (89 title) Compare 1 Kings 4:31. The psalm celebrates God's covenant with David (2 Samuel 7:8–16) and then laments its apparent collapse.
- b (89:6) Or "the heavenly beings"; Hebrew bene ʾelim.
- c (89:8) Yah is the short form of the name Yahweh.
- d (89:10) A name for the sea monster of chaos, also used of Egypt; compare 87:4; Job 26:12.
- e (89:17) So the qere; the ketiv has "you raise our horn." The horn is a picture of strength.
- f (89:19) Many Hebrew manuscripts have "your faithful one."
- g (89:33) So the Hebrew; some manuscripts and versions read "I will not remove."
- h (89:52) This doxology closes Book Three of the Psalms; compare 41:13; 72:18–19; 106:48.

Chapter 90

Book Four (Psalms 90–106)

A prayer of Moses, the man of God.

1 Lord, you have been our home[b]
in generation after generation.
2 Before the mountains were born,
before you brought forth the earth and the world,
from everlasting to everlasting you are God.
3 You return mortals to dust[c]
and say, "Go back, children of Adam!"
4 For a thousand years in your eyes are like yesterday once it has gone by,
or like a watch in the night.[d]
5 You sweep them away; they are like a sleep,
like grass that springs up in the morning:
6 in the morning it blooms and springs up;
by evening it fades and dries out.

7 For we are spent by your anger;
by your fury we are terrified.
8 You have placed our iniquities in front of you,
our hidden sins in the light of your face.
9 For all our days slip away under your wrath;
we finish our years like a sigh.
10 Seventy years make up the days of our life,
or, given strength, eighty;[e]
yet the best of them[f] is labor and sorrow;
quickly it passes, and away we fly.
11 Who knows the power of your anger,
and your wrath, as the fear of you deserves?
12 Teach us, then, to count our days,
that we may bring home a heart of wisdom.
13 Return, Yahweh! How long?
Have pity on your servants!
14 Fill us in the morning with your covenant love,
so that we may sing for joy and be glad through all our days.
15 Give us gladness for as many days as you have afflicted us,
for as many years as we have seen evil.
16 Let your servants see what you do,
and their sons your majesty.
17 Let the kindness[g] of the Lord our God be on us,
and make the work of our hands secure for us—
yes, make the work of our hands secure!

Notes

- a (90 title) Book Four of the Psalms begins here and closes with the doxology at 106:48. This is the only psalm attributed to Moses; compare Deuteronomy 33:1. From Book Four onward the Septuagint and Vulgate number most psalms one lower than the Hebrew (see the note on Psalm 9).
- b (90:1) Or "refuge."
- c (90:3) Hebrew "to crushed matter"; compare Genesis 3:19.
- d (90:4) Compare 2 Peter 3:8. A night watch was about four hours.
- e (90:10) Hebrew "threescore years and ten, … fourscore."
- f (90:10) Or "their pride."
- g (90:17) Or "beauty."

Chapter 91

1 The one who lives in the hiding place of the Most High will rest under the shade of the Almighty.[a] 2 I will say to Yahweh, "My refuge and my fortress,
my God, in whom I trust."
3 For he will rescue you from the trap of the bird catcher and from the deadly plague.
4 He will shelter you under his pinions;
under his wings you will take cover;
his faithfulness is shield and wall.
5 You need not dread the horror that comes by night,
or the arrow flying by day,
6 nor the plague that stalks in the dark,
nor the destruction that ravages at noon.
7 A thousand may fall at your side,
ten thousand at your right hand,
but it will not come near you.
8 You will only look on with your eyes
and see the payment of the wicked.
9 Because you have made Yahweh your refuge,[b]
the Most High your dwelling, 10 no evil will be allowed to meet you,
no plague will approach your tent.
11 For he will give his angels orders about you,
to guard you in all your ways.
12 They will lift you up in their hands,
lest you bruise your foot on a stone.[c] 13 You will tread on lion and cobra;
you will trample the young lion and the serpent.
14 "Because he clings to me in love, I will rescue him;
I will set him on high, because he knows my name.
15 He will call on me, and I will answer him;
I will be with him in trouble;
I will rescue him and give him honor.

16 With length of days I will satisfy him
and let him see my salvation."

Notes

- a (91:1) Hebrew Shaddai. This psalm has no title; the Septuagint attributes it to David.
- b (91:9) Hebrew "You, Yahweh, are my refuge"; the second line says that the Most High has been made the dwelling place.
- c (91:12) Verses 11–12 are quoted in Matthew 4:6 and Luke 4:10–11.

Chapter 92

A psalm. A song for the Sabbath day.

1 It is good to give thanks to Yahweh,
to sing praise to your name, O Most High,
2 to declare your covenant love in the morning,
and your faithfulness through the nights,
3 on the ten-stringed instrument and the harp,
to the murmuring music of the lyre.
4 For you, Yahweh, have gladdened me by what you have done;
at the works of your hands I sing for joy.
5 How great are your works, Yahweh!
How very deep are your thoughts!
6 The senseless man does not know it,
and the fool cannot grasp this:
7 that though the wicked spring up like grass
and all evildoers blossom,
it is for their destruction forever.
8 But you, Yahweh, are on high forever.
9 For look, your enemies, Yahweh,
for look, your enemies will perish;
all evildoers will be scattered.
10 But you have raised my horn like that of the wild ox;
I am anointed with fresh oil.[a] 11 My eyes have looked on my foes;
my ears have heard the doom of the evildoers who rise against me.

12 The righteous will flourish like the palm tree
and grow tall like a cedar in Lebanon.
13 Those planted in Yahweh's house will thrive in the courtyards of our God.
14 They still bear fruit in old age;
they stay full of sap and green, 15 to proclaim that Yahweh is upright;
he is my rock, and there is no wrong in him.[b]

Notes

- a (92:10) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.
- b (92:15) So the qere; the ketiv has a variant spelling.

Chapter 93

1 Yahweh reigns;[a] he is robed in majesty;
Yahweh is robed; he has girded himself with strength.
Yes, the world is set firm; it will not be shaken.
2 Your throne has been firm from of old;
you are from everlasting.
3 The floods have lifted up, Yahweh,
the floods have lifted up their voice;
the floods lift up their pounding.
4 Mightier than the thunder of many waters,
mightier than the breakers of the sea,
is Yahweh on high!
5 Your testimonies stand utterly firm;
holiness is fitting for your house,
Yahweh, for endless days.

Notes

- a (93:1) Or "Yahweh has become king." Psalms 93 and 95–99 celebrate Yahweh's kingship.

Chapter 94

1 God of vengeance, Yahweh,
God of vengeance, shine out!

2 Lift yourself up, you judge of the earth;
pay back the arrogant as they have earned!
3 How long shall the wicked, Yahweh,
how long shall the wicked exult?
4 They pour out arrogant words;
all the evildoers boast.
5 They crush your people, Yahweh,
and oppress your inheritance.
6 They kill the widow and the foreigner,
and they murder the fatherless;
7 and they say, "Yah is not looking;
Jacob's God pays no attention."
8 Pay attention, you senseless among the people!
You fools, when will you become wise?
9 The one who set the ear in place—can he not hear?
The one who fashioned the eye—can he not see?
10 The one who corrects the nations—will he not punish?
The one who instructs mankind in knowledge—11 Yahweh knows the thoughts of man,
that they are a mere breath.[a] 12 Happy is the man whom you discipline, Yah,
and whom you teach from your law, 13 granting him quiet in evil days,
while a pit is being dug for the wicked.
14 For Yahweh will not cast off his people;
he will not abandon his inheritance;
15 for justice will turn back to what is right,
and everyone honest in heart will follow it.
16 Who will stand up on my side against those who do evil?
Who will take my part against the workers of wrong?
17 Had Yahweh not come to help me,
my soul would quickly have settled in the silent land.
18 When I said, "My foot is slipping,"
your covenant love, Yahweh, held me up.

19 When my anxious thoughts are many within me,
your comforts delight my soul.
20 Can a seat of ruin be your partner,
which frames mischief by decree?
21 They gang up on the soul of the righteous and declare innocent blood guilty.
22 But Yahweh has become my high fortress,
and my God the rock where I take refuge.
23 He will turn back their own iniquity on them
and wipe them out for their evil;
Yahweh our God will wipe them out.

Notes

- a (94:11) Quoted in 1 Corinthians 3:20.

Chapter 95

1 Come, let us sing for joy to Yahweh;
let us shout aloud to the Rock of our salvation!
2 Let us come before his face with thanksgiving;
let us shout to him with songs of praise!
3 For Yahweh is a great God,
and a great King above all gods.
4 The deep places of the earth lie in his hand;
the heights of the hills belong to him too.
5 The sea is his, for he made it,
and his hands formed the dry land.
6 Come, let us worship and bow low;
let us bend the knee before Yahweh, our Maker!
7 For he is our God,
and we are the people of his pasture,
the flock under his hand.
Today, if you would listen to his voice,
8 do not make your hearts stubborn as at Meribah,[a]
as that day at Massah[b] in the desert, 9 where your ancestors tested me
and put me on trial, though they had seen what I did.

10 For forty years I loathed that generation and said, “They are a people whose hearts go astray,
and they have not known my ways.”
11 So I swore in my anger,
“They shall not enter my rest.”

Notes

- a (95:8) “Quarreling.”
- b (95:8) “Testing.” Compare Exodus 17:1–7; Numbers 20:1–13. Verses 7–11 are quoted in Hebrews 3:7–11 and 4:3–7.

Chapter 96

1 Sing to Yahweh a new song;[a] sing to Yahweh, all the earth!
2 Sing to Yahweh; bless his name;
announce his salvation from day to day.
3 Tell of his glory among the nations,
his wonders among all the peoples.
4 For great is Yahweh, and highly to be praised;
he is to be feared above all gods.
5 For all the gods of the peoples are worthless idols,[b]
but Yahweh made the heavens.
6 Splendor and majesty are in front of him;
strength and beauty are in his sanctuary.
7 Give to Yahweh, families of the peoples,
give to Yahweh glory and strength!
8 Give to Yahweh the glory his name deserves;
bring an offering and come into his courts!
9 Bow down to Yahweh in the splendor of holiness;[c] tremble before him, all the earth!
10 Say among the nations, “Yahweh reigns!
Yes, the world is set firm; it will not be shaken;
he will judge the peoples with fairness.”
11 Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice;
let the sea thunder, and all that fills it;

12 let the fields exult, and everything in them!
Then all the trees of the forest will sing for joy 13 before Yahweh, for he comes,
for he comes to judge the earth.
He will judge the world in righteousness,
and the peoples in his faithfulness.

Notes

- a (96:1) Compare 1 Chronicles 16:23–33, which contains most of this psalm.
- b (96:5) Hebrew ʾelilim, "nothings," a wordplay on ʾelohim, "gods."
- c (96:9) Or "in holy attire."

Chapter 97

1 Yahweh reigns! Let the earth rejoice;
let the many coastlands be glad!
2 Clouds and thick darkness are around him;
righteousness and justice are the base of his throne.
3 Fire goes before him
and burns up his foes on every side.
4 His lightnings light up the world;
the earth sees and trembles.
5 The mountains melt like wax before Yahweh,
before the Lord of all the earth.
6 The heavens declare his righteousness,
and all the peoples see his glory.
7 Let all who serve carved images be put to shame,
who boast in worthless idols;
bow down to him, all you gods![a] 8 Zion has heard and rejoiced;
the daughters of Judah are glad because of your judgments, Yahweh.
9 For you, Yahweh, are Most High over all the earth;
you are exalted far above all gods.
10 You who love Yahweh, hate evil!
He guards the lives of his faithful ones;
he rescues them from the hand of the wicked.

11 Light has been sown[b] for the righteous one,
and gladness for those whose hearts are upright.
12 Rejoice in Yahweh, you righteous,
and give thanks to his holy name![c]

Notes

- a (97:7) The Septuagint has "all his angels"; compare Hebrews 1:6.
- b (97:11) So the Hebrew; one Hebrew manuscript and the ancient versions have "Light dawns."
- c (97:12) Hebrew "to the remembrance of his holiness."

Chapter 98

A psalm.

1 Sing to Yahweh a new song,
for he has done wonders!
His right hand and his holy arm
have won the victory for him.
2 Yahweh has made his salvation known;
before the eyes of the nations he has unveiled his righteousness.
3 He has remembered his covenant love and his faithfulness toward the house of Israel.
All the ends of the earth have witnessed
the saving work of our God.
4 Raise a shout to Yahweh, all the earth!
Burst out in joyful song and make music!
5 Play to Yahweh on the lyre,
on the lyre, with the voice of melody!
6 With trumpets and the sound of the shofar,
raise a shout before the King, Yahweh!
7 Let the sea thunder, and everything in it,
the world, and those who live there!
8 Let the rivers clap their hands;
let the mountains sing out together for joy
9 before Yahweh, for he comes to judge the earth.
He will judge the world in righteousness
and the peoples with equity.

Chapter 99

1 Yahweh is king; let the nations shake!
  He is seated between the cherubim; let the earth tremble!
2 Great is Yahweh in Zion;
  high is he above all the peoples.
3 Let them praise your name, great and awesome.
  Holy is he![a]
4 Mighty is the King who loves justice.[b]
  You have established fairness;
  you have done justice and righteousness in Jacob.
5 Exalt Yahweh our God
  and bow down at his footstool!
  Holy is he!
6 Moses and Aaron were among his priests,
  and Samuel among those who called on his name.
  They called to Yahweh, and he answered them.
7 He spoke to them from the pillar of cloud;
  they obeyed his laws and the rule he gave them.
8 Yahweh our God, you answered them;
  you were a God who forgave them,
  yet one who punished their misdeeds.
9 Exalt Yahweh our God,
  and bow down at his holy mountain,
  for Yahweh our God is holy!

Notes

- a (99:3) The refrain "Holy is he" recurs in verses 5 and 9.
- b (99:4) The Hebrew of this line is difficult.

Chapter 100

A psalm for giving thanks.

1 Shout to Yahweh, all the earth!
2 Serve Yahweh with gladness!
  Come into his presence with joyful singing!

3 Know that Yahweh is God!
He made us, and we are his;[b]
we are his people, the sheep he pastures.
4 Enter his gates with thanksgiving,
and his courts with praise!
Thank him; bless his name!
5 For Yahweh is good;
his covenant love lasts forever,
and his faithfulness through all generations.

Notes

- a (100 title) Or "for the thank offering."
- b (100:3) So the qere (lo, "his"); the ketiv (lo', "not") reads "and not we ourselves."

Chapter 101

Of David. A psalm.

1 I will sing of covenant love and justice;
to you, Yahweh, I will make music.
2 I will consider carefully the path that is blameless—
when will you visit me?
In my own house I will live
with a heart of integrity.
3 I will not set before my eyes anything worthless.
I hate the deeds of those who turn aside;
they will not cling to me.
4 A crooked heart will be far from me;
I will have nothing to do with evil.
5 Whoever slanders his neighbor in secret,
I will silence him.[a]
Whoever has haughty eyes and a swollen heart,
I will not put up with him.
6 My eyes will rest on the faithful in the land,
that they may dwell beside me;
the one whose path is blameless
will minister to me.

7 No one who practices deceit
will live inside my house;
no one who tells lies
will stand firm before my eyes.
8 Each morning I will silence
the wicked of this land, uprooting all evildoers
from the city of Yahweh.

Notes

- a (101:5) So the qere; the ketiv has a variant spelling of the same verb.

Chapter 102

A prayer of one who is afflicted, when he grows faint and pours out his lament before Yahweh.

1 Yahweh, hear my prayer;
let my cry for help reach you!
2 Do not turn your face away from me
in my day of trouble!
Bend your ear to me;
when I call, be quick to answer!
3 For my days vanish like smoke,
and my bones glow like a furnace.
4 My heart is struck down and dried up like grass;
I even forget to eat my bread.
5 Because of my loud groaning
my bones stick to my flesh.
6 I am like a desert owl,[a] like a little owl among the ruins.
7 I stay awake;
I am like a solitary bird on a rooftop.
8 My enemies insult me the whole day;
those who rage at me swear oaths by my name.
9 For I eat ashes as my bread
and mix tears into my drink,

10 because of your fury and your anger;
for you have lifted me up and thrown me away.
11 My days are like an evening shadow stretching out;
like grass I dry up.
12 But you, Yahweh, are enthroned forever;
your renown lasts through all generations.
13 You will rise and have compassion on Zion,
for it is time to show her favor;
the appointed time has come.
14 For your servants hold her stones dear
and pity her dust.
15 Nations will fear the name of Yahweh,
and all the kings of the earth your glory.
16 For Yahweh has built up Zion;
he has been seen in his glory.
17 He will turn to the prayer of the destitute
and will not despise their plea.
18 Let this be written down for a later generation,
so that a people yet to be created may praise Yah:
19 that he gazed down from his sanctuary on high;
Yahweh looked from heaven to the earth, 20 to hear the groans of prisoners,
to set free those condemned to die,
21 so that the name of Yahweh may be declared in Zion,
and his praise in Jerusalem, 22 when peoples gather together,
and kingdoms, to serve Yahweh.
23 He has humbled my strength on the road;[b]
he has shortened my days.
24 I say, "My God, do not take me away
in the middle of my days—
you whose years go on through all generations!
25 Long ago you founded the earth,
and the heavens are the work of your hands.[c]

[26] They will be destroyed, but you will last;
they will all wear out like a coat.
You will swap them like clothes,
and they will be gone;
[27] but you are he who is,
and your years have no end.
[28] The children of your servants will dwell secure,
and their offspring will be established before you."

Notes

- a (102:6) The identification of these birds is uncertain.
- b (102:23) So the qere; the ketiv reads "his strength."
- c (102:25) Verses 25–27 are quoted in Hebrews 1:10–12.

Chapter 103

Of David.

[1] Bless Yahweh, my soul,
and all that is within me, bless his holy name!
[2] Bless Yahweh, my soul,
and forget none of his kindnesses—
[3] who pardons every one of your iniquities,
who cures every one of your sicknesses, [4] who buys back your life from the pit,
who sets a crown on you of covenant love and compassion, [5] who satisfies your years[a] with good,
so that your youth is renewed like the eagle's.
[6] Yahweh does righteous deeds
and justice for all the oppressed.
[7] He made his ways known to Moses,
his deeds to the people of Israel.
[8] Yahweh is compassionate and gracious,
slow to anger and rich in covenant love.[b] [9] He will not always accuse,
nor will he hold on to his anger forever.
[10] He has not treated us as our sins deserve,
nor repaid us according to our iniquities.

11 For as high as the heavens are above the earth,
so mighty is his covenant love toward those who fear him;
12 as far as the sunrise is from the sunset,
so far has he removed our transgressions from us.
13 As a father has compassion on his children,
so Yahweh has compassion on those who fear him.
14 For he knows what we are made of;
he keeps in mind that we are dust.
15 Man—his days are like the grass;
like a wildflower, so he blossoms;
16 when the wind passes over it, it is gone,
and its place no longer recognizes it.
17 But the covenant love of Yahweh is from everlasting to everlasting on those who fear him,
and his righteousness to children's children, 18 for those who hold to his covenant
and keep his precepts in mind to do them.
19 Yahweh has set up his throne in the heavens,
and his kingdom rules over all.
20 Bless Yahweh, you his angels,
mighty in strength, who carry out his word,
obeying the voice of his word!
21 Bless Yahweh, all his hosts,
his ministers who carry out his desire!
22 Bless Yahweh, all his works,
in every place of his dominion!
Bless Yahweh, my soul!

Notes

- a (103:5) The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain; traditionally "your mouth."
- b (103:8) Compare Exodus 34:6.

Chapter 104

1 Bless Yahweh, my soul!
Yahweh my God, you are very great!
You are clothed with splendor and majesty,

2 wrapping yourself in light as in a robe,
stretching out the heavens like a tent curtain.
3 He sets the frame of his upstairs rooms on the waters;
he takes the clouds as his chariot;
he travels on the wings of the wind;
4 he makes the winds his messengers,
flames of fire his servants.[a] 5 He fixed the earth on its bases,
so that it will not totter, forever and ever.
6 You covered it with the deep as with a garment;
the waters stood above the mountains.
7 They fled from your rebuke;
they ran in haste at your thunder's voice.
8 The mountains rose, the valleys sank[b]
to the place you had appointed for them.
9 You set a boundary they may not cross,
so that they never again cover the earth.
10 You make springs gush out in the valleys;
they flow between the hills;
11 they give drink to every animal of the field;
the wild donkeys quench their thirst.
12 Beside them the birds of the heavens nest;
they sing among the branches.
13 From your upper rooms you water the mountains;
the earth is satisfied with the fruit of your work.
14 You cause grass to sprout for the livestock and plants for the labor of mankind,
so that bread comes out of the earth, 15 and wine that gladdens the heart of man,
oil to make his face shine,
and bread that strengthens the heart of man.
16 The trees of Yahweh drink their fill,
the cedars of Lebanon that he planted,

17 There the birds make their nests;
the stork lives in the junipers.
18 The high mountains are for the wild goats;
the rocks are a refuge for the rock badgers.[c] 19 He made the moon for the set times;[d]
the sun knows its hour for going down.
20 You bring darkness, and it is night,
when all the beasts of the forest prowl.
21 Young lions roar after prey
and ask God for their food.
22 The sun comes up, and they slip away
to lie down in their lairs.
23 Man goes out to his work
and to his labor until evening.
24 How many are your works, Yahweh!
In wisdom you have made them all;
the earth is full of your creatures.
25 There is the sea, great and wide,
teeming with creatures beyond number,
living things both small and great.
26 There ships go back and forth,
and Leviathan, whom you shaped to frolic there.[e] 27 All of them look to you to give them their food in its season.
28 You give to them, and they gather;
you open your hand, and they are filled with good.
29 When you hide your face, they panic;
when you remove their breath, they die
and go back to dust.
30 When you send out your Spirit,[f] they are created,
and you renew the face of the ground.
31 May the glory of Yahweh last forever;
may Yahweh rejoice in his works,

32 He looks on the earth, and it quakes;
he touches the mountains, and smoke rises!
33 All my life I will sing to Yahweh;
I will sing praise to my God while I live.
34 May my meditation be pleasing to him;
as for me, I rejoice in Yahweh.
35 Let sinners vanish from the earth,
and let the wicked be no more!
Bless Yahweh, my soul!
Hallelujah![g]

Notes

- a (104:4) Or "he makes his angels winds." Quoted in Hebrews 1:7.
- b (104:8) Or "They went up the mountains and went down into the valleys."
- c (104:18) Hebrew shephanim, the rock hyrax.
- d (104:19) Or "the appointed festivals."
- e (104:26) Or "to play with." Compare Job 41:5.
- f (104:30) Or "your breath."
- g (104:35) Hebrew hallelu-yah, "Praise Yah!" Yah is a short form of the name Yahweh. This is the first occurrence of the word in the Bible; it recurs in Psalms 105–106, 111–113, 115–117, 135, and 146–150, and in Revelation 19:1–6. CJT keeps the familiar transliteration "Hallelujah."

Chapter 105

1 Give thanks to Yahweh; call on his name;[a]
make his deeds known among the peoples!
2 Sing to him, make music to him;
ponder all his wonders!
3 Take pride in his holy name;
may the hearts that seek Yahweh rejoice!
4 Search for Yahweh and his strength;
seek his face always!
5 Remember the wonders he has worked,
his signs, and the judgments he has spoken, 6 you offspring of Abraham, his servant,
you children of Jacob, his chosen ones!

7 He is Yahweh our God;
his judgments are in all the earth.
8 He remembers his covenant forever,
the word he decreed for a thousand generations, 9 the covenant he made with Abraham,
his sworn promise to Isaac,
10 He made it firm for Jacob as an ordinance,
an everlasting covenant for Israel, 11 declaring, “The land of Canaan I give to you,
your allotted inheritance.”
12 When they were few in number,
a mere handful, and foreigners in it, 13 wandering from nation to nation,
from one kingdom to another people, 14 he let no one oppress them;
he rebuked kings on their account: 15 “Do not touch my anointed ones,
and do my prophets no harm!”
16 He called down a famine over the country and snapped every supply of bread.[b]
17 Ahead of them he had sent a man:
Joseph, sold into slavery.
18 They hurt his feet with shackles;
his neck[c] was put in iron, 19 until the time that his word came true;
the word of Yahweh tested him.
20 The king gave the order to loose him;
the one who ruled the peoples released him.
21 He made him lord over his household and ruler over all his possessions, 22 to bind his princes at his will
and to teach his elders wisdom.
23 Israel then entered Egypt;
Jacob stayed as an alien in Ham’s land.[d]

24 And God made his people very fruitful and made them stronger than their foes.
25 He turned their hearts to hate his people,
to deal craftily with his servants.
26 He sent Moses, his servant,
and Aaron, whom he had chosen.
27 They performed his signs among them,[e]
and wonders in the land of Ham.
28 He sent darkness and made it dark;
did they not rebel against his words?[f] 29 He turned their waters into blood and made their fish die.
30 Their land swarmed with frogs,
even in the rooms of their kings.
31 He spoke, and swarms of flies came,
and gnats throughout their territory.
32 He gave them hail in place of rain,
and flashes of fire throughout their land.
33 He battered their vines and their fig trees
and splintered the trees throughout their borders.
34 He spoke, and the locusts came,
young locusts without number,
35 which devoured all the vegetation in their land
and ate up the fruit of their ground.
36 He struck down every firstborn in their land,
the first fruits of all their vigor.
37 Then he brought Israel out with silver and gold,
and among his tribes no one stumbled.
38 Egypt was glad when they left,
for dread of Israel had fallen on them.
39 He stretched a cloud over them for a screen
and fire to give light by night.
40 They made a request, and he sent quail,
and filled them with heaven's bread.

41 He opened the rock, and water gushed out;
it ran through the dry land like a river.
42 For he remembered his holy word
to Abraham, his servant.
43 He led his people out rejoicing,
his chosen with songs of joy.
44 He gave them the lands of the nations, and they took possession of what the peoples had toiled for, 45 so that they might keep his statutes and observe his laws.
Hallelujah![g]

Notes

- a (105:1) Verses 1–15 appear also in 1 Chronicles 16:8–22.
- b (105:16) That is, the food supply.
- c (105:18) Hebrew nephesh, "his soul" or "his throat." So the qere; the ketiv has "his foot" in the previous line.
- d (105:23) A poetic name for Egypt; compare Genesis 10:6.
- e (105:27) Hebrew "They set among them the words of his signs."
- f (105:28) So the qere (and the Septuagint and Syriac omit "not": "they rebelled against his words"). The ketiv reads "his word." The sense of the line is debated.
- g (105:45) Hebrew hallelu-yah, "Praise Yah!" See the note on 104:35.

Chapter 106

1 Hallelujah![a]
Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good,
for his covenant love lasts forever!
2 Who can tell of the mighty deeds of Yahweh or make all his praise heard?
3 Happy are those who keep justice,
who do righteousness at all times!
4 Remember me, Yahweh, when you show favor to your people;
visit me with your salvation,
5 that I may see the prosperity of your chosen ones,
that I may rejoice in the gladness of your nation,
that I may boast along with your inheritance.

6 We have sinned, as our fathers did;
we have done wrong; we have acted wickedly.
7 Our fathers in Egypt
did not grasp your wonders;
they did not remember your abundant covenant love,
but rebelled at the sea, at the Red Sea.[b] 8 Yet he saved them for the sake of his name,
to make his might known.
9 He rebuked the Red Sea, and it became dry;
he guided them through the depths as if through open country.
10 He rescued them from those who hated them
and redeemed them from their enemy's grip.
11 The waters closed over their foes;
not a single one survived.
12 Then they believed his words;
they sang his praise.
13 How soon they forgot what he had done!
They would not wait for his plan.
14 In the wilderness they were seized with greed and tested God in the barren land.
15 So he granted their request,
yet he sent a wasting into their souls.
16 In the camp they grew jealous of Moses and of Aaron, the holy one of Yahweh.
17 The earth opened and swallowed Dathan
and covered the company of Abiram.
18 Fire blazed out among their company;
flame burned up the wicked.
19 They made a calf at Horeb
and bowed down to a cast image.
20 They traded away their Glory[c]
for the likeness of a grass-eating bull.
21 They forgot God, their Savior,
who had done great things in Egypt,

22 wondrous works in the land of Ham,
awesome deeds at the Red Sea.
23 So he said he would destroy them—
had not Moses, his chosen one,
stood in the breach before him,
to turn his wrath away from destroying them.
24 Then they scorned the desirable land;
they put no faith in his promise.
25 They muttered in their tents
and would not heed Yahweh's voice.
26 So he lifted his hand to them in an oath
to bring them down in the wilderness, 27 and make their offspring fall among the nations,
and scatter them throughout the lands.
28 They attached themselves to Baal of Peor
and ate offerings made to the dead.[d] 29 Their deeds provoked him to anger,
and plague burst out on them.
30 But Phinehas rose and stepped in to judge,
and the plague was held back.
31 It was credited to him as righteousness
for all generations, forever.
32 They angered him at the waters of Meribah,
and it went badly for Moses because of them, 33 because they made his spirit bitter,
and rash words came from his lips.
34 They did not destroy the peoples,
as Yahweh had commanded them, 35 but they intermingled with the nations
and adopted their ways.
36 They served their idols,
which became a snare to them.
37 They sacrificed their sons
and their daughters to demons.

38 They poured out innocent blood,
the blood of their sons and daughters,
whom they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan,
and the land was defiled with bloodshed.
39 So they became unclean by their deeds
and prostituted themselves in their practices.
40 Then the anger of Yahweh burned against his people,
and he loathed his own inheritance.
41 He gave them into the hand of the nations,
and those who hated them ruled over them.
42 Their enemies oppressed them,
and they were humbled under their power.
43 Many times he rescued them,
but they were rebellious in their plans
and sank low through their iniquity.
44 Yet he looked on their distress
when he heard their cry.
45 He called to mind his covenant for their sake and had a change of heart in his abundant covenant love.[e] 46 He made all their captors feel pity for them.
47 Save us, Yahweh our God!
Gather us out of the nations
to thank your holy name
and to take pride in praising you.
48 Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel,
from everlasting to everlasting!
And let all the people say, "Amen!"
Hallelujah![f]

Notes

- a (106:1) Hebrew hallelu-yah, "Praise Yah!" See the note on 104:35. Verses 1 and 47–48 appear also in 1 Chronicles 16:34–36.
- b (106:7) Hebrew Yam Suph, "Sea of Reeds," here and in verses 9 and 22.
- c (106:20) That is, God. An ancient scribal tradition records that the original reading was "my glory."

- d (106:28) Or “to lifeless gods.” Compare Numbers 25:1–9.
- e (106:45) So the qere (plural, “his many acts of covenant love”); the ketiv is singular.
- f (106:48) This doxology closes Book Four of the Psalms; compare 41:13, 72:18–19, and 89:52. Hebrew hallelu-yah, “Praise Yah!”

Chapter 107

Book Five (Psalms 107–150)

1 Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good,
for his covenant love lasts forever![a] 2 Let the redeemed of Yahweh say so,
those he redeemed from the grip of the foe 3 and gathered in from the lands,
from east and from west,
from north and from the sea.[b]
4 Some wandered in the wilderness, in the desert wastes;
they found no road to a city where they could settle.
5 Hungry and thirsty,
their souls grew faint within them.
6 Then they cried out to Yahweh in their trouble,
and he rescued them from their distress.
7 He led them by a straight path until they reached a city to live in.
8 Let them thank Yahweh for his covenant love,
for his wonders toward the children of Adam![c] 9 For he satisfies the thirsty soul,
and the hungry soul he fills with good things.
10 Some sat in darkness and deep gloom,[d]
prisoners in misery and chains, 11 because they had rebelled against God’s words and scorned the plan of the Most High.
12 So he humbled their hearts with hard labor;
they stumbled, and no one helped.
13 Then they cried out to Yahweh in their trouble,
and he saved them from their distress.

14 He brought them out of darkness and deep gloom
and tore their chains apart.
15 Let them thank Yahweh for his covenant love,
for his wonders toward the children of Adam!
16 For he has broken down gates of bronze and hacked through iron bars.
17 Some were fools in their rebellious ways
and suffered for their iniquities; 18 their appetite turned against all food,
and they drew near to death's gates.
19 Then they cried out to Yahweh in their trouble,
and he saved them from their distress.
20 He sent out his word and healed them
and rescued them from their pits.
21 Let them thank Yahweh for his covenant love,
for his wonders toward the children of Adam!
22 Let them bring thank offerings in sacrifice
and recount his works with shouts of joy!
23 Some went down to the sea in ships,
doing their trade on the mighty waters;
24 they saw the works of Yahweh,
his wonders in the deep.
25 For he spoke and raised up a stormy wind,
which lifted high the waves.
26 They rose to the sky; they plunged to the depths;
their courage melted in their peril.
27 They reeled and lurched like drunkards,
and all their skill was swallowed up.
28 Then they cried out to Yahweh in their trouble,
and he brought them out of their distress.
29 He made the gale grow calm,
and the sea's waves[e] fell silent.
30 They were glad when it grew quiet,
and he guided them to the harbor they longed for.

31 Let them thank Yahweh for his covenant love,
for his wonders toward the children of Adam!
32 Let them exalt him in the assembly of the people and praise him in the council of the elders!
33 He turns rivers into desert,
springs of water into thirsty ground, 34 a fruitful land into a salt flat,
because of the evil of those who live there.
35 He turns desert into pools of water,
parched land into springs.
36 There he settles the hungry, and they build a city to live in;
37 they sow fields and plant vineyards
and gather a fruitful harvest.
38 He blesses them so that they increase greatly,
and he keeps their livestock from growing few.
39 When they are diminished and brought low through oppression, trouble, and sorrow, 40 he heaps scorn on princes
and sends them wandering in pathless wastes;[f] 41 but he raises the poor up from misery
and multiplies their clans like sheep.
42 The upright look on and rejoice,
and every wrongdoer's mouth is stopped.
43 Whoever is wise, let him heed these things,
and let them consider the covenant love of Yahweh.

Notes

- a (107:1) Book Five of the Psalms begins here and runs to the closing doxology of Psalm 150. It contains the Songs of Ascents (120–134), the Hallel psalms (113–118), the acrostic Psalm 119, and the closing Hallelujah psalms (146–150).
- b (107:3) That is, from the south; the Hebrew has "from the sea."
- c (107:8) This refrain recurs in verses 15, 21, and 31.
- d (107:10) Or "the shadow of death," also in verse 14.
- e (107:29) Hebrew "their waves."
- f (107:40) Compare Job 12:21, 24.

Chapter 108

A song. A psalm of David.

1 My heart is steadfast, God;
I will sing and make music with all my being.[b]
2 Awake, harp and lyre!
I will awaken the dawn.
3 I will thank you among the peoples, Yahweh;
I will make music to you among the nations.
4 For your covenant love is great above the heavens,
and your faithfulness reaches to the clouds.
5 Be exalted above the heavens, God,
and let your glory be over all the earth!
6 That those you love may be rescued,
save with your right hand and answer me!
7 God has spoken in his holiness:[c]
"I will exult; I will divide up Shechem
and measure out the valley of Succoth.
8 Gilead is mine; Manasseh is mine;
Ephraim is the helmet on my head;
Judah is my scepter.
9 Moab is my washbasin;
on Edom I throw my sandal;
over Philistia I shout in triumph."
10 Who will lead me into the walled city?
Who will guide me as far as Edom?
11 Have you not rejected us, God?
You do not go out, God, with our armies.
12 Help us against the enemy,
for human help is useless.
13 With God we will act with valor,
and he will tread our enemies underfoot.

Notes

- a (108 title) This psalm combines 57:7–11 (verses 1–5) and 60:5–12 (verses 6–13), with small differences.
- b (108:1) Hebrew "even my glory."

- c (108:7) Or “in his sanctuary.”

Chapter 109

To the director. Of David. A psalm.

1 God whom I praise, do not keep silent!
2 For wicked and deceitful mouths
have opened against me;
they have spoken to me with lying tongues.
3 With words of hate they hem me in
and fight me for no reason.
4 My love they answer with accusation,
while I keep praying.[a] 5 They repay me evil for good,
and hatred for my love.
6 “Set a wicked man in authority over him;
let an accuser[b] take his place at his right side.
7 When he is tried, let him come out guilty;
let his prayer be counted as sin.
8 Let his days be few;
let another take his position.[c]
9 Let his children be fatherless
and his wife a widow.
10 Let his children wander and beg,
searching for food far from their ruined homes.[d] 11 Let the creditor seize all he has;
let strangers plunder the fruit of his toil.
12 Let no one extend covenant love to him,
nor anyone pity his fatherless children.
13 Let his descendants be cut off;
in the next generation let their name be wiped out.
14 Let the iniquity of his fathers be remembered before Yahweh, and let the sin of his mother not be wiped out.
15 Let them be before Yahweh continually,
that he may cut off their memory from the earth,

16 since he never thought to show covenant love,
but chased down the poor and the needy
and the crushed in heart, to kill them.
17 He loved cursing—let it fall on him!
Blessing gave him no pleasure—let it stay far from him!
18 He dressed himself in cursing as in a robe;
may it enter his body like water,
and his bones like oil!
19 Let it wrap him like his cloak,
like the sash he ties on day after day!”
20 May this be the reward of my accusers from Yahweh,
of those who speak evil against my life!
21 But you, Yahweh, my Lord, deal with me for the sake of your name;
because your steadfast love is good, deliver me!
22 For I am poor and needy,
and my heart is pierced within me.
23 Like an evening shadow I am slipping away;
I am brushed off like a locust.
24 Fasting has made my knees weak;
my flesh has wasted away, lean and bare.
25 I have become an object of scorn to them;
when they see me, they shake their heads.
26 Help me, Yahweh my God!
Save me according to your covenant love!
27 Let them know that your hand is in this;
you, Yahweh, have done it!
28 Let them curse, but you will bless!
They rose up, but they will be put to shame,
and your servant will be glad.
29 Let my accusers be clothed with disgrace;
let them wear their shame like a cloak!
30 With my mouth I will give great thanks to Yahweh;
in the midst of the crowd I will praise him.

31 For he stands at the right hand of the needy,
to save him from those who would condemn his soul.

Notes

- a (109:4) Hebrew "but I—prayer."
- b (109:6) Hebrew satan. Many interpreters take verses 6–19 as the curses spoken by the psalmist's enemies against him (note "they say" implied in verse 6 and "my accusers" in verse 20); others take them as the psalmist's own words.
- c (109:8) Quoted in Acts 1:20.
- d (109:10) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "let them be driven out of their ruins."

Chapter 110

Of David. A psalm.

1 The declaration of Yahweh to my lord:[a]
"Sit at my right hand,
until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet."
2 Yahweh will send out your mighty scepter from Zion:
"Rule in the midst of your enemies!"
3 Your people will volunteer on the day you muster your forces, in holy splendor;[b]
out of the womb of the dawn
you will have the dew of your youth.
4 Yahweh has sworn and will not change his mind:
"You are a priest forever
after the order of Melchizedek."[c] 5 The Lord is at your right side;
he will crush kings on the day he is angry.
6 He will execute judgment on the nations
and heap up the dead;
he will crush the head over a vast land.
7 From the stream beside the road he will drink,
and so he will raise his head high.

Notes

- a (110:1) Hebrew neʾum YHWH laʾdoni. The first is the divine name Yahweh; the second is ʾadoni, "my lord, my master," a title of honor used of kings and superiors

(not the divine title ʾAdonai). Traditional English Bibles print "The LORD said unto my Lord," hiding the difference. Jesus cites this verse to show that the Messiah is more than David's son (Matthew 22:41–45; Mark 12:35–37; Luke 20:41–44); see also Acts 2:34–35, 1 Corinthians 15:25, and Hebrews 1:13. Psalm 110 is the Old Testament passage most often quoted or alluded to in the New Testament.

- b (110:3) So many Hebrew manuscripts; others read "on the holy mountains." The Hebrew of this verse is difficult.
- c (110:4) Or "on account of Melchizedek." Compare Genesis 14:18–20; quoted in Hebrews 5:6, 6:20, and 7:17, 21.

Chapter 111

1 Hallelujah![a]
I will give thanks to Yahweh with my whole heart,
in the circle of the upright and in the assembly.
2 Great are the works of Yahweh, studied by all who delight in them.
3 Splendid and majestic is his work,
and his righteousness stands forever.
4 He has made his wonders to be remembered;
Yahweh is gracious and compassionate.
5 He gives food to those who fear him;
he remembers his covenant forever.
6 The might of his deeds he has made known to his people,
handing them the heritage of the nations.
7 The works of his hands are faithfulness and justice;
all his precepts are trustworthy.
8 They are upheld forever and ever,
carried out in faithfulness and uprightness.
9 He sent redemption to his people;
he has ordained his covenant forever.
Holy and awesome is his name!
10 The fear of Yahweh is the beginning of wisdom;[b] all who practice it have good insight.
His praise stands forever.

Notes

- a (111:1) Hebrew hallelu-yah, "Praise Yah!" (see 104:35). After the opening Hallelujah, Psalms 111 and 112 are matched acrostic poems: each of their twenty-two half-lines begins with the next letter of the Hebrew alphabet. The other acrostics in the Psalter are 9–10, 25, 34, 37, 119, and 145.

- b (111:10) Compare Proverbs 1:7; 9:10.

Chapter 112

1 Hallelujah![a]
  Happy is the man who fears Yahweh,
  who takes great delight in his commandments!
2 His offspring will be mighty in the land;
  the generation of the upright will be blessed.
3 Wealth and riches are in his house,
  and his righteousness stands forever.
4 For the upright a light rises in the dark—gracious, merciful, and just.
5 It goes well with the man who is generous and lends,
  who conducts his affairs with justice.
6 For he will never be shaken;
  the righteous will be remembered forever.
7 Evil tidings hold no terror for him;
  his heart stands steady, relying on Yahweh.
8 His heart is steady; he will not fear,
  until he looks in triumph on his foes.
9 He has scattered his gifts; he has given to the poor;[b] his righteousness stands forever;
  his horn will be lifted high in honor.
10 The wicked sees it and is vexed;
  he gnashes his teeth and wastes away;
  what the wicked long for comes to nothing.

Notes

- a (112:1) Hebrew hallelu-yah, "Praise Yah!" Like Psalm 111, this psalm is an acrostic; it describes the righteous person in terms Psalm 111 uses of God (compare 111:3, 4 with 112:3, 4).
- b (112:9) Quoted in 2 Corinthians 9:9.

Chapter 113

1 Hallelujah![a]
Praise, you servants of Yahweh,
praise the name of Yahweh!
2 Blessed be the name of Yahweh
from now on and forevermore!
3 From where the sun rises to where it sets,
let the name of Yahweh be praised!
4 Yahweh is high above all nations,
his glory above the heavens.
5 Who is like Yahweh our God,
who is seated on high,
6 who stoops down to look
on the heavens and the earth?
7 He lifts the lowly up out of the dust
and raises the poor from the refuse pile, 8 to seat them with princes,
with the princes of his people.
9 He gives the childless woman a home,
a joyful mother of children.
Hallelujah!

Notes

- a (113:1) Hebrew hallelu-yah, "Praise Yah!" Psalms 113–118 form the "Egyptian Hallel," sung at the great festivals and especially at Passover, when 113–114 were sung before the meal and 115–118 after it (compare Matthew 26:30; Mark 14:26).

Chapter 114

1 When Israel came out of Egypt,
the house of Jacob from a people of foreign speech,
2 Judah became his sanctuary,
Israel his dominion.
3 The sea saw and ran away;
the Jordan drew back.[a] 4 The mountains skipped like rams,
the hills like young sheep.

5 Sea, what made you run away?
Jordan, why did you draw back?
6 Mountains, that you skip like rams?
Hills, like young sheep?
7 Earth, writhe before the presence of the Lord,
before the presence of Jacob's God,
8 who turns the rock into a pool of water,
the flint into a flowing spring.[b]

Notes

- a (114:3) Compare Exodus 14:21–22 and Joshua 3:14–17.
- b (114:8) The Septuagint, Vulgate, and some Hebrew manuscripts join Psalms 114 and 115 as one psalm (see the note on Psalm 9).

Chapter 115

1 Not to us, Yahweh, not to us,
but to your name give glory,
because of your covenant love and your faithfulness!
2 Why should the nations say,
"Where, now, is their God?"
3 Our God is in the heavens;
he does whatever he pleases.
4 Their idols are silver and gold,
made by human hands.
5 They have a mouth, yet no speech;
they have eyes, yet no sight.
6 They have ears, yet no hearing;
they have a nose, yet no sense of smell.
7 They have hands, yet no touch;
they have feet, yet they never walk;
no sound comes from their throat.
8 Their makers will be just like them,
as will everyone who relies on them.[a] 9 Israel, trust in Yahweh!
He is their help and their shield.

10 House of Aaron, trust in Yahweh!
He is their help and their shield.
11 You who fear Yahweh, trust in Yahweh!
He is their help and their shield.
12 Yahweh has remembered us; he will bless—
he will bless the house of Israel;
he will bless the house of Aaron;
13 He will bless those who fear Yahweh,
both small and great.
14 May Yahweh give you increase,
you and your children!
15 May you be blessed by Yahweh,
the Maker of heaven and earth!
16 The heavens are the heavens of Yahweh,
but the earth he has given to the children of Adam.
17 The dead do not praise Yah,
nor do any who go down into silence.
18 But we will bless Yah
from now on and forevermore.
Hallelujah![b]

Notes

- a (115:8) Verses 4–8 are closely paralleled in 135:15–18.
- b (115:18) Hebrew hallelu-yah, "Praise Yah!" (see 104:35).

Chapter 116

1 I love Yahweh, because he hears
my voice and my pleas for mercy.
2 Because he has turned his ear to me,
I will call on him as long as I live.
3 The cords of death wrapped around me;
the anguish of Sheol[a] found me;
I found distress and grief.
4 Then I called on the name of Yahweh:
"Please, Yahweh, rescue my soul!"

5 Gracious is Yahweh, and righteous;
our God is compassionate.
6 Yahweh keeps watch over the simple;
I was laid low, and he rescued me.
7 Return, my soul, to your rest,
for Yahweh has dealt generously with you.
8 For you have rescued my soul from death,
my eyes from tears,
my feet from stumbling.
9 I will walk before Yahweh
in the land of the living.
10 I believed, even when I said,[b]
"I am greatly afflicted";
11 In my panic I said,
"Every human being is a liar."
12 What shall I give back to Yahweh
for all his benefits to me?
13 I will lift up the cup of salvation
and call on the name of Yahweh.
14 I will fulfill my vows to Yahweh
in the presence of all his people.
15 Precious in the eyes of Yahweh
is the death of his faithful ones.
16 Yahweh, truly I am your servant;
I am your servant, the son of your maidservant.
You have loosed my bonds.
17 To you I will bring a thank offering in sacrifice and invoke the name of Yahweh.
18 I will fulfill my vows to Yahweh
in the presence of all his people, 19 in the courts of the house of Yahweh,
in your midst, Jerusalem.
Hallelujah!

Notes

- a (116:3) The realm of the dead.
- b (116:10) Or "I believed, therefore I spoke." The Septuagint begins a new psalm here (its Psalm 115); quoted in 2 Corinthians 4:13.

Chapter 117

1 Praise Yahweh, all you nations!
Extol him, all you peoples![a] 2 For his covenant love toward us is mighty,
and the faithfulness of Yahweh endures forever.
Hallelujah!

Notes

- a (117:1) The shortest psalm and the shortest chapter in the Bible. Quoted in Romans 15:11.

Chapter 118

1 Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good;
his covenant love lasts forever!
2 Let Israel say,
"His covenant love lasts forever."
3 Let the house of Aaron say,
"His covenant love lasts forever."
4 Let those who fear Yahweh say,
"His covenant love lasts forever."
5 Out of my distress I called on Yah;
Yah answered me and set me in a wide place.[a] 6 Yahweh is for me; I will not fear.
What can man do to me?[b]
7 Yahweh is for me as my helper;
I will look in triumph on those who hate me.
8 It is better to take refuge in Yahweh
than to trust in man.
9 It is better to take refuge in Yahweh
than to trust in princes.
10 All the nations surrounded me;
in Yahweh's name I destroyed them!

11 They surrounded me, yes, surrounded me;
in the name of Yahweh I cut them off!
12 They surrounded me like bees;
they were extinguished like a fire of thorns;
in the name of Yahweh I cut them off!
13 I was thrust at hard, to make me fall,[c]
but Yahweh came to my help.
14 Yah is my strength and my song,
and he has become my salvation.[d] 15 A sound of glad shouts and salvation is in the tents of the righteous:
"The right hand of Yahweh does mighty things!
16 The right hand of Yahweh is lifted high;
the right hand of Yahweh does mighty things!"
17 I will not die, but I will live and tell of the works of Yah.
18 Yah has disciplined me severely,
but he has not handed me over to death.
19 Open for me the gates of righteousness;
I will go in through them and thank Yah.
20 This is the gate of Yahweh;
the righteous will go in through it.
21 I thank you that you answered me
and have become my salvation.
22 The stone that the builders rejected
has become the cornerstone.[e] 23 This has come from Yahweh;
it is wonderful in our eyes.
24 This is the day that Yahweh has made;
let us rejoice and be glad in it.
25 Please, Yahweh, save us![f]
Please, Yahweh, give us success!
26 Blessed is he who comes in the name of Yahweh![g]
We bless you from the house of Yahweh.

27 Yahweh is God,
and he has given us light.
Bind the festal sacrifice with cords,
up to the horns of the altar![h] 28 You are my God, and I will thank you;
my God, I will exalt you.
29 Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good;
his covenant love lasts forever!

Notes

- a (118:5) Hebrew merkhav-yah, "a broad place of Yah."
- b (118:6) Quoted in Hebrews 13:6.
- c (118:13) Hebrew "You pushed me hard"; the Septuagint and Syriac read "I was pushed."
- d (118:14) Quoted from Exodus 15:2; compare Isaiah 12:2.
- e (118:22) Hebrew "the head of the corner." Verses 22–23 are quoted in the New Testament: in Matthew 21:42, in Mark 12:10–11, in Luke 20:17, in Acts 4:11 and in 1 Peter 2:7.
- f (118:25) Hebrew hoshiʿah na, the source of the word "Hosanna" (Matthew 21:9; Mark 11:9–10; John 12:13).
- g (118:26) Quoted in Matthew 21:9; 23:39; Mark 11:9; Luke 13:35; 19:38; John 12:13.
- h (118:27) The meaning of this line is uncertain.

Chapter 119

א Aleph

1 Happy are the people of blameless conduct,[a]
who live by the instruction of Yahweh!
2 Happy are they who guard his testimonies,
who search for him with a whole heart,
3 who never practice wrongdoing,
but keep walking in his ways!
4 You have laid down your precepts
to be kept with care.
5 Oh, that my ways were steady
in keeping your statutes!
6 Then I would not be put to shame,
when I fix my eyes on all your commandments.

7 With uprightness of heart I will praise you while I learn the judgments of your righteousness.
8 Your statutes I will keep;
do not abandon me completely!

ב Beth

9 How can a young man keep his path pure?
By guarding it according to your word.
10 With all my heart I have sought you;
do not let me stray from your commandments!
11 Within my heart I have stored up your promise,
to keep me from sinning against you.
12 Blessed are you, Yahweh;
teach me your statutes!
13 With my lips I recount
all the judgments of your mouth.
14 In the way of your testimonies I rejoice
as much as in all riches.
15 On your precepts I will reflect and keep your paths before my eyes.
16 I will delight in your statutes;
I will not forget your word.

ג Gimel

17 Deal generously with your servant,
that I may live and keep your word.
18 Uncover my eyes, that I may see wonders out of your law.
19 I am only a stranger in the land;
do not conceal your commandments from me!
20 My soul is crushed with longing
for your judgments at all times.
21 You rebuke the arrogant, the cursed,
who stray from your commandments.
22 Roll scorn and contempt off me,
for I have kept your testimonies.

23 Even if princes sit and talk against me,
your servant will meditate on your statutes.
24 Your testimonies are what I delight in;
they are the men of my counsel.

ד Daleth

25 My soul lies stuck in the dust;
revive me as your word has said!
26 I told you my ways, and you answered me;
teach me your statutes!
27 Help me grasp the way of your precepts,
so that I may reflect on your wondrous works.
28 My soul weeps[b] from sorrow;
raise me up according to your word!
29 Keep the way of falsehood far from me,
and graciously give me your law!
30 I have chosen the way of faithfulness;
I have set your judgments before me.
31 I cling to your testimonies, Yahweh;
do not put me to shame!
32 I will run the way of your commandments,
for you enlarge my heart.

ה He

33 Yahweh, instruct me in the way your statutes go,
and I will guard it to the last.[c] 34 Give me understanding, and I will keep your law
and observe it with all my heart.
35 Lead me in the path of your commandments,
for I delight in it.
36 Bend my heart toward your testimonies and away from greedy profit!
37 Turn my eyes away from looking at worthless things;
give me life in your ways.[d]
38 Fulfill to your servant your promise,
which leads to the fear of you.

39 Turn away the disgrace that I dread,
for your judgments are good.
40 See how I yearn for your precepts!
Revive me by your righteousness!

ו Waw

41 Let your covenant love come to me, Yahweh,
your salvation according to your promise;
42 so that I can reply to those who mock me,
because I rely on your word.
43 Do not take the word of truth wholly out of my mouth,
for I hope in your judgments.
44 I will keep your law continually,
forever and ever.
45 I will go about at liberty,
because your precepts are what I seek.
46 I will speak of your testimonies before kings
and will not be put to shame.
47 I will delight in your commandments,
which I love.
48 I lift my hands toward your commandments, which I love,
and I reflect on your statutes.

ז Zayin

49 Remember the promise to your servant,
the one that gave me hope.
50 This is my comfort in my affliction:
your promise gives me life.
51 The arrogant utterly mock me,
but I do not turn aside from your law.
52 I remember your judgments from of old, Yahweh,
and I take comfort.
53 Hot indignation seizes me because of the wicked,
who forsake your law.
54 Your statutes have been my songs
in the house of my sojourning.

55 I remember your name in the night, Yahweh,
and I keep your law.
56 This has been my lot,
that I have kept your precepts.

ח Heth

57 My share is Yahweh;
I have said that I will keep your words.
58 With all my heart I have entreated your face;
show me grace as you have promised.
59 I have thought about my ways
and turned my steps back to your statutes.
60 I make haste without lingering to keep your commandments.
61 The cords of the wicked wrap around me,
but I do not forget your law.
62 At midnight I rise to thank you for your righteous judgments.
63 I am a companion of all who fear you,
of those who keep your precepts.
64 The earth, Yahweh, is full of your covenant love;
teach me your statutes!

ט Teth

65 You have dealt well with your servant,
Yahweh, according to your word.
66 Teach me good discernment and knowledge,
for I believe in your commandments.
67 Before I was afflicted I went astray,
but now I keep your promise.
68 You are good and do good;
teach me your statutes!
69 The arrogant smear me with lies,
but with all my heart I keep your precepts.
70 Their heart is thick like fat,
but I delight in your law.

71 It was good for me that I was afflicted,
so that I might learn your statutes.
72 The law of your mouth is better to me than thousands of pieces of gold and silver.

י Yod

73 Your hands have made and shaped me;
give me understanding, that I may learn your commandments.
74 Those who fear you will see me and rejoice,
because I hope in your word.
75 I know, Yahweh, that your judgments are righteous,
and that in faithfulness you have afflicted me.
76 May your covenant love be my consolation,
as you promised your servant.
77 Let your compassion come to me, that I may live,
for your law is my delight.
78 May the proud be ashamed for twisting things against me with lies;
I will reflect on your instructions.
79 May those who fear you come back to me,
even those who know[e] your testimonies.
80 May my heart be whole in your statutes,
so that shame never comes on me.

כ Kaph

81 My soul faints for your salvation;
I hope in your word.
82 My eyes grow dim waiting for your promise;
"When will you console me?" I say.
83 Though I am like a wineskin shriveled by smoke,
your statutes have not slipped my mind.
84 How many are the days of your servant?
When will you bring judgment on those who persecute me?
85 The arrogant have dug pits for me,
people who do not live by your law.
86 All your commandments are faithful;
they persecute me with lies; help me!

87 They almost wiped me from the earth,
yet I have not let go of your precepts.
88 In your covenant love give me life,
and I will keep the testimony of your mouth.

ל Lamedh

89 Forever, Yahweh,
your word stands firm in the heavens.
90 Your faithfulness lasts through all generations;
you established the earth, and it stands.
91 By your judgments they stand to this day,
for all things are your servants.
92 If your law had not been my delight,
I would have perished in my affliction.
93 Never will I forget your precepts,
for through them you have revived me.
94 I am yours; save me,
for I have sought your precepts.
95 The wicked wait to destroy me,
but I give thought to your testimonies.
96 I have seen a limit to all perfection,
but your commandment is boundless.

מ Mem

97 Oh, how I love your law!
It is my meditation all day long.
98 Your commandment gives me more wisdom than my foes,
for it is mine forever.
99 I have more insight than all my teachers,
for your testimonies are my meditation.
100 I understand more than the elders,
for I keep your precepts.
101 I hold back my feet from every evil path,
so that I may keep your word.
102 From your judgments I have not swerved,
for it is you who have instructed me.

103 How sweet your promises are to my taste,
sweeter than honey to my mouth!
104 From your precepts I gain understanding;
therefore I hate every false path.

נ Nun

105 A lamp to my feet is your word,
a light along my path.
106 I have taken an oath and will carry it out:
to keep the judgments of your righteousness.
107 I am suffering terribly;
Yahweh, revive me as you promised!
108 Accept, Yahweh, the freewill offerings of my mouth,
and teach me your judgments.
109 I carry my life in my hands continually,[f]
but your law I do not forget.
110 The wicked have laid a snare for me,
but from your precepts I have not wandered.
111 Your testimonies are my inheritance forever,
for they are the joy of my heart.
112 I have bent my heart to do your statutes forever, to the end.

ס Samekh

113 Those with a divided heart I hate;
your law is what I love.
114 You are my hiding place and my shield;
I hope in your word.
115 Away from me, you evildoers,
so that I may keep the commandments of my God!
116 Uphold me as you promised, so that I live,
and do not let my hope end in shame!
117 Support me, and I will be rescued;
I will keep my gaze on your statutes always.
118 You reject all who stray from your statutes,
for their deceitfulness is futile.

119 You remove the wicked of the earth like slag;
that is why I love your testimonies.
120 My flesh shudders for dread of you,
and I am afraid of your judgments.

ע Ayin

121 I have done what is just and right;
do not abandon me to my oppressors!
122 Guarantee your servant's welfare;
do not let the arrogant oppress me!
123 My eyes fail with watching for your salvation
and for your righteous promise.
124 Deal with your servant according to your covenant love,
and teach me your statutes.
125 I am your servant; give me understanding,
that I may know your testimonies!
126 It is time for Yahweh to act,
for your law has been broken.
127 Therefore I love your commandments
more than gold, more than fine gold.
128 Therefore I count all your precepts right in everything;[g]
I hate every false path.

פ Pe

129 Your testimonies are wonderful;
therefore my soul keeps them.
130 The unfolding of your words gives light;
it gives understanding to the simple.
131 I open my mouth wide and pant,
for I long for your commandments.
132 Turn toward me and show me grace,
as is right for those who love your name.
133 Make my steps firm by your promise,
and let no iniquity rule over me.
134 Ransom me from the oppression of men,
and I will keep your precepts.

135 Let your face shine on your servant,
and instruct me in your statutes.
136 My eyes pour down rivers of water
because your law goes unkept.

צ Tsadhe

137 Righteous are you, Yahweh,
and upright are your judgments.
138 In righteousness you have commanded your testimonies,
in utter faithfulness.
139 My zeal has worn me out,
for my adversaries have forgotten your words.
140 Your promise is well tested,
and your servant loves it.
141 Insignificant and scorned though I am,
I have not forgotten your precepts.
142 Your righteousness is an everlasting righteousness,
and your instruction is truth.
143 Trouble and anguish have found me,
but your commandments are my delight.
144 Your testimonies are righteous forever;
give me understanding, that I may live.

ק Qoph

145 I call with all my heart; answer me, Yahweh!
I will keep your statutes.
146 To you I call out—rescue me,
so that I may guard your testimonies.
147 I rise before dawn and cry for help;
I hope in your words.[h]
148 My eyes are awake before the night watches, that I may meditate on your promise.
149 Hear my voice according to your covenant love;
Yahweh, give me life according to your justice.
150 Those who pursue evil schemes draw near;
they are far from your law.

151 You are near, Yahweh,
and all your commandments are truth.
152 Long ago I learned from your testimonies that you founded them forever.

ר Resh

153 Look on my affliction and rescue me,
for I do not forget your law.
154 Take up my case and redeem me;
revive me as you have promised!
155 Far from the wicked is salvation,
because they do not search out your statutes.
156 Great is your compassion, Yahweh;
give me life according to your judgments.
157 Many are my persecutors and my foes,
but I do not swerve from your testimonies.
158 I look at the faithless and feel disgust,
because they do not keep your promise.
159 Look how I love your instructions!
Yahweh, revive me in keeping with your steadfast love.
160 The sum of your word is truth,
and every one of your righteous judgments lasts forever.

ש Sin and Shin

161 Princes persecute me without cause,
but my heart stands in awe of your words.[i] 162 I rejoice at your promise
like one who finds great plunder.
163 Falsehood I hate and detest;
your law I love.
164 Seven times a day I praise you
for your righteous judgments.
165 Great peace belongs to those who love your law;
nothing makes them stumble.
166 I hope for your salvation, Yahweh,
and I do your commandments.

167 My soul keeps your testimonies;
I love them greatly.
168 I have kept your precepts and your testimonies,
since all my ways lie open before you.

ת Taw

169 Let my cry come near before you, Yahweh;
give me understanding according to your word!
170 Let my plea come before you;
rescue me according to your promise!
171 My lips will pour out praise,
for you teach me your statutes.
172 Let my tongue sing out your promise,
since every commandment of yours is righteous.
173 Let your hand be ready to help me,
for I have chosen your precepts.
174 I long for your salvation, Yahweh,
and your law is my delight.
175 May my soul live to praise you,
and may your judgments come to my aid.
176 I have strayed like a lost sheep; seek your servant,
for I do not forget your commandments.

Notes

- a (119:1) Psalm 119 is the longest psalm and the longest chapter in the Bible. It is an acrostic in twenty-two stanzas, one for each letter of the Hebrew alphabet; each of the eight lines in a stanza begins with that stanza's letter. Nearly every verse names God's word with one of eight terms: law (torah), testimonies, precepts, statutes, commandments, judgments, word (dabar), and promise or saying (ʾimrah).
- b (119:28) Or "drips away," "melts."
- c (119:33) Or "as my reward."
- d (119:37) So many Hebrew manuscripts; the Masoretic Text reads "your way."
- e (119:79) So the qere; the ketiv reads "that they may know."
- f (119:109) That is, constantly in danger.
- g (119:128) The Hebrew of this line is difficult.
- h (119:147) So the qere; the ketiv reads "your word."
- i (119:161) So the qere; the ketiv reads "your word."

Chapter 120

A song of ascents.

1 To Yahweh I called in my trouble,
  and he answered me.
2 Yahweh, rescue my soul from lying lips,
  from a tongue of deceit!
3 What shall he give you, what further shall he add to you,
  O lying tongue?
4 A warrior's sharpened arrows,
  with glowing coals of the broom tree!
5 Woe to me, that I live as an alien in Meshech, that I dwell among the tents of Kedar![b] 6 Too long my soul has had its home with those who hate peace.
7 I am for peace, but when I speak,
  they are for war.

Notes

- a (120 title) Psalms 120–134 each carry the title "A song of ascents" (Hebrew shir hammaʿalot). They are widely understood as songs sung by pilgrims "going up" to Jerusalem for the festivals; Jewish tradition also linked them with the fifteen steps of the temple. Psalm 121's title has a slightly different wording ("A song for the ascents").
- b (120:5) Meshech lay far to the north (near the Black Sea) and Kedar in the Arabian desert; the names stand for hostile, distant peoples.

Chapter 121

A song for the ascents.

1 I lift my eyes to the mountains—
  where does my help come from?
2 My help comes from Yahweh,
  the Maker of heaven and earth.
3 He will not let your foot slip;
  your guardian will not doze.
4 Look, he who guards Israel
  neither dozes nor sleeps.

5 Yahweh is your guardian;
Yahweh is your shade at your right hand.
6 The sun will not harm you by day,
nor the moon at night.
7 Yahweh will guard you from all harm;
he will guard your life.
8 Yahweh will guard your going out and your coming in
from now on and forevermore.

Chapter 122

A song of ascents. Of David.

1 I rejoiced when they said to me,
"Let us go to the house of Yahweh!"
2 Our feet have been standing within your gates, Jerusalem—
3 Jerusalem, built as a city
bound firmly together, 4 where the tribes go up, the tribes of Yah,
as was decreed for Israel,[a]
to give thanks to the name of Yahweh.
5 For there the thrones for judgment stand,
the thrones of the house of David.
6 Ask for Jerusalem's peace![b]
"May all who love you live at ease!
7 May peace be within your ramparts, security within your towers!"
8 For the sake of my kin and my companions
I will speak: "Within you be peace!"
9 For the sake of the house of Yahweh our God,
I will seek your good.

Notes

- a (122:4) Hebrew "a testimony for Israel."
- b (122:6) The Hebrew plays on the sounds of shalom (peace), Yerushalaim (Jerusalem), and shalvah (ease, security).

Chapter 123

A song of ascents.

1 Toward you I raise my eyes,
you who sit enthroned in the heavens!
2 Look—as the eyes of servants are on the hand of their lord,
as the eyes of a maid are on the hand of her mistress,
so our eyes are on Yahweh our God,
until he shows us grace.
3 Be gracious to us, Yahweh, be gracious to us,
for we have had more than our fill of contempt.
4 Too long our soul has been sated
with the scorn of the complacent,
with the contempt of the arrogant.

Chapter 124

A song of ascents. Of David.

1 "If it had not been Yahweh who was for us"—
let Israel now say—
2 "if it had not been Yahweh who was for us
when people rose up against us, 3 then they would have swallowed us alive
when their anger blazed against us;
4 then the flood would have carried us off;
the torrent would have rolled over our soul;
5 then over our soul
the raging waters would have gone."
6 Blessed be Yahweh,
who has not handed us over as prey for their teeth!
7 Our soul has escaped like a bird
from the fowler's snare;
the snare is broken,
and we have escaped!
8 Our help is in the name of Yahweh,
the Maker of heaven and earth.

Chapter 125

A song of ascents.

1 Those who trust in Yahweh are like Mount Zion,
which cannot be shaken but stands forever.
2 As the mountains surround Jerusalem,
so Yahweh surrounds his people,
from now on and forevermore.
3 For the scepter of wickedness will not rest
on the land allotted to the righteous,
so that the righteous do not reach out their hands to do wrong.
4 Do good, Yahweh, to those who are good,
and to those who are upright in their hearts!
5 But those who turn aside to their crooked ways
Yahweh will lead away with the evildoers.
Peace be on Israel!

Chapter 126

A song of ascents.

1 When Yahweh restored the fortunes of Zion,[a]
we were like those who dream.
2 Then our mouths were full of laughter,
our tongues of joyful singing.
Among the nations people said,
"Yahweh has done great things for them."
3 Yahweh has done great things for us;
we are glad.
4 Restore our fortunes,[b] Yahweh,
like streams in the Negev![c] 5 Those who sow in tears
will reap with shouts of joy.
6 He who goes out weeping,
carrying the seed for sowing,
will surely come home with shouts of joy,
carrying his sheaves.

Notes

- a (126:1) Or “brought back the captives of Zion.”
- b (126:4) So the qere; the ketiv has a variant form of the same noun.
- c (126:4) The dry south country, where seasonal streambeds suddenly run full after rain.

Chapter 127

A song of ascents. Of Solomon.

1 Unless Yahweh builds the house,
its builders labor over it in vain.
Unless Yahweh guards the city,
the watchman stays awake in vain.
2 It is useless to get up at dawn
and stay up into the night,
eating the bread of hard toil;
for to his beloved he gives sleep.[a] 3 Look, children are a heritage from Yahweh,
the fruit of the womb a reward.
4 Like arrows in a warrior’s hand
are sons born in one’s youth.
5 Happy is the man who has filled his quiver with them!
They will not be put to shame
when they speak with enemies in the gate.

Notes

- a (127:2) Or “he provides for his beloved while they sleep.” “Beloved” (yedid) echoes Jedidiah, a name of Solomon (2 Samuel 12:25).

Chapter 128

A song of ascents.

1 Happy is everyone who fears Yahweh,
who walks in his ways!
2 You will eat the fruit of the labor of your hands;
you will be happy, and it will go well with you.
3 Your wife within your house
will be like a vine heavy with fruit;

around your table your children
will be like young olive trees.
4 Look, this is how the man will be blessed who fears Yahweh.
5 Yahweh bless you out of Zion!
May you look on Jerusalem's good
every day you live!
6 May you see your children's children!
Peace be on Israel!

Chapter 129

A song of ascents.

1 "Many times from my youth they have assailed me"—
let Israel now say—
2 "many times from my youth they have assailed me,
yet they have not overcome me.
3 Plowmen plowed across my back;
they made their furrows long."[a] 4 Yahweh is righteous;
he has cut the cords of the wicked.
5 Let all who hate Zion
be put to shame and turned back!
6 Let them be like grass on the rooftops,
which dries up before it can be pulled up, 7 grass that fills no reaper's hand,
no armful for one who binds sheaves,
8 nor do those who pass by say,
"The blessing of Yahweh be on you!
We bless you in the name of Yahweh!"

Notes

- a (129:3) So the qere; the ketiv has a variant spelling.

Chapter 130

A song of ascents.

1 Out of the depths I call to you, Yahweh!

2 Lord, hear my voice!
Let your ears be attentive
to the voice of my pleas for mercy!
3 If you, Yah, kept a record of iniquities,
Lord, who could stand?
4 But forgiveness is with you,
that you may be held in awe.
5 I wait for Yahweh; my whole soul waits,
and I put my hope in his word.
6 My soul waits for the Lord
more than watchmen for the morning,
more than watchmen for the morning.
7 Israel, hope in Yahweh!
For with Yahweh there is covenant love,
and with him is abundant redemption.
8 And he will redeem Israel
from all its iniquities.

Chapter 131

A song of ascents. Of David.

1 Yahweh, there is no pride in my heart,
no haughtiness in my eyes;
I do not reach after great matters,
or things too wondrous for me.
2 Instead, I have made my soul calm and still,
like a child weaned from its mother's milk;
my soul within me is like that child.
3 Israel, hope in Yahweh
from now on and forevermore.

Chapter 132

A song of ascents.

1 Remember, Yahweh, in David's favor,
all the hardship he endured,

2 how he swore to Yahweh
and vowed to the Mighty One of Jacob:
3 “I will not enter the tent of my house
or get into my bed;
4 I will not give sleep to my eyes
or slumber to my eyelids, 5 until I find a place for Yahweh,
a dwelling for the Mighty One of Jacob.”
6 Look, we heard of it in Ephrathah;[a]
we found it in the fields of Jaar.[b] 7 “Let us enter where he dwells;
let us bow low at his footstool!”
8 Arise, Yahweh, and go to your resting place,
you and the ark of your might.
9 Let your priests be clothed with righteousness,
and let your faithful ones shout for joy.
10 For the sake of your servant David,
do not reject your anointed king.[c] 11 Yahweh swore to David in truth,
an oath he will not take back:
“From the fruit of your body
I will place one on your throne.
12 If your sons keep my covenant
and my testimonies that I will teach them, their sons also forever
will sit on your throne.”
13 For Yahweh has chosen Zion;
he has desired it as his dwelling:
14 “Here is my resting place forevermore;
here I will make my home, for I have longed for it.
15 I will richly bless her provisions;
I will satisfy her poor with bread.
16 Her priests I will clothe with salvation,
and her faithful ones will shout aloud for joy.

17 There I will cause a horn to spring up for David;
I have set out a lamp for my anointed one.
18 I will dress his enemies in shame,
but on his head his crown will gleam."

Notes

- a (132:6) Possibly the region of Bethlehem (Ruth 4:11; Micah 5:2), or of Kiriath-jearim.
- b (132:6) "Forest," probably Kiriath-jearim, where the ark stayed for twenty years (1 Samuel 7:1–2).
- c (132:10) Verses 8–10 are closely paralleled in 2 Chronicles 6:41–42.

Chapter 133

A song of ascents. Of David.

1 Look how good and how pleasant it is when brothers live together in unity!
2 It is like the fine oil on the head,
flowing down on the beard,
on Aaron's beard,
flowing down to the neck of his garments.
3 It is like the dew of Hermon
that falls on the mountains of Zion.
For there Yahweh has commanded the blessing:
life forevermore.

Chapter 134

A song of ascents.

1 Come, bless Yahweh,
all you servants of Yahweh,
who stand by night in the house of Yahweh!
2 Lift up your hands toward the sanctuary and bless Yahweh!
3 May Yahweh bless you from Zion,
he who made heaven and earth!

Chapter 135

1 Hallelujah!
Praise the name of Yahweh!
Give praise, you servants of Yahweh,
2 you who stand in the house of Yahweh,
in the courts of the house of our God!
3 Praise Yah, for Yahweh is good;
sing to his name, for it is lovely!
4 For Yah has chosen Jacob for himself,
Israel as his treasured possession.
5 For I know that Yahweh is great,
and that our Lord is above all gods.
6 Whatever Yahweh pleases, he does,
in the heavens and on the earth,
in the seas and all the deeps.
7 He brings up the mists from the far edges of the earth;
he forms lightning bolts to go with the rain
and draws the wind out of his treasuries.
8 He struck down the firstborn of Egypt,
of human and of beast alike.
9 Into your midst, Egypt, he sent signs and wonders,
on Pharaoh and on all who served him.
10 He struck down many nations
and killed mighty kings—11 Sihon king of the Amorites,
Og king of Bashan,
and all the kingdoms of Canaan—12 and he handed over their land as a heritage,
a heritage to Israel his people.
13 Yahweh, your name endures forever,
your renown, Yahweh, through all generations.
14 For Yahweh will vindicate his people and have compassion on his servants.[a]

15 The idols of the nations are silver and gold,
the work of human hands.
16 Mouths they have, yet they cannot speak;
eyes they have, yet they cannot see;
17 ears they have, yet they cannot hear,
and no breath is in their mouths at all.
18 Their makers will grow like them,
and so will everyone who relies on them.[b] 19 House of Israel, bless Yahweh!
House of Aaron, bless Yahweh!
20 House of Levi, bless Yahweh!
You who fear Yahweh, bless Yahweh!
21 Blessed from Zion be Yahweh,
who dwells in Jerusalem!
Hallelujah!

Notes

- a (135:14) Verse 14 repeats Deuteronomy 32:36.
- b (135:18) Verses 15–18 closely follow Psalm 115:4–8.

Chapter 136

1 Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good,
for his covenant love endures forever.[a] 2 Give thanks to the God of gods,
for his covenant love endures forever.
3 Give thanks to the Lord of lords,
for his covenant love endures forever;
4 to him who alone does great wonders,
for his covenant love endures forever;
5 to him who by understanding made the heavens,
for his covenant love endures forever;
6 to him who spread out the earth above the waters,
for his covenant love endures forever;
7 to him who made the great lights,
for his covenant love endures forever—

8 the sun to govern the day,
for his covenant love endures forever;
9 the moon and stars to rule over the night,
for his covenant love endures forever;
10 to him who struck Egypt through their firstborn,
for his covenant love endures forever,
11 and brought Israel out from among them,
for his covenant love endures forever,
12 with a strong hand and an outstretched arm,
for his covenant love endures forever;
13 to him who split the Red Sea in two,
for his covenant love endures forever,
14 and made Israel pass through the middle of it,
for his covenant love endures forever,
15 but shook off Pharaoh and his army into the Red Sea,
for his covenant love endures forever;
16 to him who led his people through the wilderness,
for his covenant love endures forever;
17 to him who struck great kings,
for his covenant love endures forever,
18 and killed majestic kings,
for his covenant love endures forever—
19 Sihon king of the Amorites,
for his covenant love endures forever,
20 and Og king of Bashan,
for his covenant love endures forever—
21 and gave their land as an inheritance,
for his covenant love endures forever,
22 an inheritance for Israel his servant,
for his covenant love endures forever;
23 who remembered us when we were brought low,
for his covenant love endures forever,
24 and snatched us from our foes,
for his covenant love endures forever;

25 who gives food to all flesh,
for his covenant love endures forever.
26 Give thanks to the God of heaven,
for his covenant love endures forever.

Notes

- a (136:1) Every verse of this psalm ends with the same response, "for his covenant love endures forever" (ki leʿolam khasdo), apparently sung by the congregation in answer to a leader. Jewish tradition calls it "the Great Hallel."

Chapter 137

1 By the rivers of Babylon—
there we sat down and wept
when we remembered Zion.
2 On the poplars[a] there
we hung up our lyres.
3 There our captors
requested songs from us,
and those who mocked us wanted entertainment:
"Sing us a song from Zion!"
4 How could we sing a song of Yahweh
on foreign soil?
5 If I forget you, Jerusalem,
let my right hand forget its skill!
6 Let my tongue stick to my palate
if I do not remember you,
if I do not value Jerusalem
more than my greatest joy!
7 Remember, Yahweh, against the sons of Edom
the day of Jerusalem,
how they said, "Strip it bare, strip it bare,
down to its foundations!"
8 Daughter of Babylon, you destroyer soon destroyed, happy is he who pays you back
the full measure you dealt to us!

9 Happy is he who takes hold of your little ones
and smashes them on the rock![b]

Notes

- a (137:2) Traditionally "willows"; the tree is probably the Euphrates poplar.
- b (137:9) The psalm ends with a raw cry for retribution from people who had seen their own children slaughtered (compare Isaiah 13:16; Hosea 13:16; Nahum 3:10). It voices the exiles' anguish and hands vengeance over to God in prayer (compare Deuteronomy 32:35; Romans 12:19); it is not a command to be carried out. The CJT translates it without softening.

Chapter 138

Of David.

1 I give you thanks with all my heart;
before the gods[a] I sing your praise.
2 I bow down toward your holy temple
and give thanks to your name for your covenant love and your faithfulness, for you have made your promise great, above all your name.[b] 3 The day I called out, you answered me;
you emboldened me, putting strength in my soul.
4 All the kings of the earth will give you thanks, Yahweh,
when they have heard the words of your mouth,
5 and they will sing of the ways of Yahweh,
for great is the glory of Yahweh.
6 For though Yahweh is high, he looks on the lowly,
but the haughty he knows from far away.
7 Though I walk through the thick of trouble,
you preserve my life;
you put out your hand against my enemies' rage,
and your right hand rescues me.
8 Yahweh will complete his purpose for me.
Yahweh, your covenant love endures forever.
Do not let go of the works of your hands!

Notes

- a (138:1) Hebrew ʾelohim; possibly the heavenly beings, or the gods of the nations (so many interpreters), or rulers. The Septuagint has "angels."

- b (138:2) The Hebrew is unusual; it may mean that God has exalted his word even beyond all that his name had revealed, or "you have exalted your name and your word above all things."

Chapter 139

To the choirmaster. Of David. A psalm.

1 Yahweh, you have searched me and you know me.
2 Whether I sit or stand, you know it;
you perceive my thoughts from afar.
3 You measure out my journeys and my resting;
you know all my ways through and through.
4 Before there is a word on my tongue,
look, Yahweh, you know it completely.
5 You hem me in, behind and before;
you have laid your hand on me.
6 Such knowledge is too wonderful for me;[a]
it is too high—I cannot reach it.
7 Where could I go from your Spirit?
Where could I flee from your presence?
8 If I go up to the heavens, you are there;
if I make my bed in Sheol, you are there!
9 If I take the wings of the dawn
and settle at the far side of the sea, 10 even there your hand will lead me,
and your right hand will hold me fast.
11 If I say, "The darkness will surely hide me,
and the light around me will turn to night," 12 to you even darkness is not dark;
night is as bright as day,
for darkness and light are alike to you.
13 For you formed my inward parts;[b]
you wove me together in my mother's womb.
14 I praise you, for I am made in an awe-inspiring and wonderful way.[c] Wonderful are your works;
my soul knows it very well.

15 My frame was not hidden from you
when I was made in secret,
intricately woven in the depths of the earth.
16 Your eyes saw me while I was yet unformed;
in your book were all recorded
the days fashioned for me,
when as yet there was not one of them.[d]
17 How precious to me are your thoughts, God!
How vast is the sum of them!
18 If I tried to count them, they would outnumber the sand.
I wake up, and I am still with you.
19 If only you would slay the wicked, God!
Men of bloodshed, get away from me!
20 They speak of you with wicked intent;
your adversaries take your name in vain.[e]
21 Do I not hate those who hate you, Yahweh?
Do I not loathe those who rise up against you?
22 With perfect hatred I hate them;
they have become enemies to me.
23 Search me out, God, and know my heart!
Try me, and know my troubled thoughts!
24 See whether there is any hurtful way in me,
and lead me in the everlasting way!

Notes

- a (139:6) So the qere; the ketiv has a variant form of the same word.
- b (139:13) Hebrew "kidneys," the seat of the deepest emotions.
- c (139:14) The Hebrew is difficult; the Septuagint and some other ancient versions read "for you are awe-inspiring and wonderful."
- d (139:16) The final line follows the ketiv (lo, "not"). The qere reads lo, "to him / for it," giving a sense such as "and for it there was one of them." The verse is notoriously difficult.
- e (139:20) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.

Chapter 140

To the choirmaster. A psalm of David.

1 Rescue me, Yahweh, from evil men;
guard me from men of violence,
2 who scheme evil in their hearts
and every day stir up battles.
3 They make their tongues sharp as a snake's;
the poison of vipers is behind their lips. Selah 4 Keep me, Yahweh, from the hands of the wicked;
guard me from men of violence,
who plan to trip up my steps.
5 The proud have hidden a trap for me,
and ropes;
they have stretched out a net along the road;
they have laid traps for me. Selah
6 I say to Yahweh, "You are my God."
Give ear, Yahweh, to the voice of my pleas for mercy!
7 Yahweh, my Lord, the strength of my salvation,
you have shielded my head in the day of battle.
8 Do not grant, Yahweh, the desires of the wicked;
do not let his plot succeed,
or they will exalt themselves. Selah 9 As for the heads of those who surround me,
let the trouble of their own lips cover them!
10 Let burning coals fall on them![a]
Let them be cast into the fire,
into pits, never to rise again!
11 Let no slanderer find a footing in the land;
let disaster hunt the violent man down, blow upon blow!
12 I know[b] that Yahweh will uphold the cause of the afflicted and justice for the needy.
13 Surely the righteous will give thanks to your name;
the upright will dwell in your presence.

Notes

- a (140:10) So the qere; the ketiv may be read "let him bring down burning coals on them."
- b (140:12) So the qere; the ketiv reads "you know."

Chapter 141

A psalm of David.

1 Yahweh, I call to you; hurry to me!
Give ear to my voice when I call to you!
2 May my prayer rise before you like incense,
my raised hands like the evening sacrifice.
3 Set a guard, Yahweh, over my mouth;
keep watch over the door of my lips!
4 Do not let my heart incline to anything evil,
to busy myself with wicked deeds
alongside men who do wrong,
and let me not eat of their delicacies!
5 Let a righteous person hit me—it is a kindness;
let him rebuke me—it is like oil on my head;
my head will not turn away from it.
But my prayer will always oppose the actions of the wicked.[a] 6 When their judges are thrown down from the sides of the cliff,
then they will hear my words, for they are pleasant.
7 As when one plows and breaks up the ground,
so our bones are scattered at the mouth of Sheol.
8 But my eyes are toward you, Yahweh, my Lord;
in you I take refuge; do not pour out my life!
9 Keep me from the trap they have laid for me
and from the snares of evildoers!
10 Let the wicked fall into their own nets,
while I pass by in safety.

Notes

- a (141:5) Verses 5–7 are among the most obscure in the Psalter; the translation is tentative.

Chapter 142

A maskil of David, when he was in the cave. A prayer.

1 With my voice I cry out to Yahweh;
with my voice I plead with Yahweh for mercy.

2 I pour out my complaint before him;
I tell my trouble before him.
3 When my spirit grows faint within me,
you are the one who knows my path!
On the path where I walk
they have hidden a trap for me.
4 Look on my right side and see:
nobody pays any attention to me;
I have nowhere to flee;
no one cares about my life.
5 I cry to you, Yahweh;
I say, "You are my refuge,
my portion in the land of the living."
6 Pay attention to my cry,
for I am brought very low!
Rescue me from my pursuers,
for they are too strong for me!
7 Lead me out of prison
so that I can praise your name!
The righteous will surround me
because you will be good to me.

Notes

- a (142 title) Compare 1 Samuel 22:1; 24:3; and the title of Psalm 57.

Chapter 143

A psalm of David.

1 Hear my prayer, Yahweh;
listen to my pleading!
Answer me in your faithfulness and in your righteousness!
2 Do not put your servant on trial,
for no one alive is righteous in your sight.
3 For the enemy has hunted my soul;
he has beaten my life down into the dust;
he has made me dwell in darkness like the long dead.

4 And so my spirit fails within me;
my heart is stunned inside me.
5 I call to mind the days of old;
I reflect on all your deeds;
I muse on what your hands have made.
6 I spread out my hands to you;
my soul thirsts for you like a parched land. Selah
7 Make haste to answer me, Yahweh!
My spirit is spent!
Do not turn your face away,
or I will be like those who sink into the pit.
8 In the morning let me hear of your covenant love,
for my trust is in you.
Show me the road to walk on,
for to you I raise my soul.
9 Deliver me from my enemies, Yahweh!
With you I have taken shelter.[a] 10 Teach me to carry out your will,
for you are my God!
May your good Spirit guide me
on even ground!
11 For your name's sake, Yahweh, keep me alive!
In your righteousness bring my soul out of trouble!
12 And in your covenant love cut off my enemies,
and destroy all the adversaries of my soul,
for I am your servant.

Notes

- a (143:9) The Hebrew is uncertain; the Septuagint has "to you I have fled."

Chapter 144

Of David.

1 Blessed be Yahweh, my rock,
who trains my hands for war,
my fingers for battle;

2 my covenant love[a] and my fortress,
my stronghold and my deliverer,
my shield, in whom I take refuge,
who subdues my people[b] under me.
3 Yahweh, what is man that you take note of him,
the son of man that you give him a thought?
4 Man is like a breath;
his days are like a passing shadow.
5 Yahweh, bend your heavens and come down!
Touch the mountains so that they smoke!
6 Flash out lightning and scatter them;
send your arrows and rout them!
7 Stretch out your hands from on high;
set me free and rescue me from the great waters,
from the hand of foreigners,
8 whose mouths speak falsehood
and whose right hand is a right hand of lies.
9 God, I will sing a new song to you;
on a ten-stringed harp I will make music to you,
10 to him who gives victory to kings,
who sets David his servant free from the cruel sword.
11 Set me free and rescue me
from the hand of foreigners,
whose mouths speak falsehood
and whose right hand is a right hand of lies.
12 May our sons in their youth
be like plants grown tall,
our daughters like corner pillars carved for the building of a palace; 13 may our barns be full,
supplying produce of every kind;
may our flocks bring forth thousands,
tens of thousands in our fields;

14 may our oxen be laden;[c]
  may no wall be breached and no one led captive,
  and no wailing be heard in our streets!
15 Happy is the people for whom it is so!
  Happy is the people whose God is Yahweh!

Notes

- a (144:2) Hebrew khasdi, "my covenant love"—that is, the God who shows me covenant love. Psalm 18:2 and 2 Samuel 22 have "my rock."
- b (144:2) Many Hebrew manuscripts, the Aramaic, and Syriac read "peoples" (compare Psalm 18:47; 2 Samuel 22:48).
- c (144:14) Or "may our chieftains be firmly established." The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.

Chapter 145

A song of praise. Of David.

1 I will lift you up, my God and King,
  and praise your name forever and ever.
2 Each day I will bless you and give praise to your name for all time and beyond.
3 Great is Yahweh and most worthy of praise;
  his greatness is beyond searching out.
4 One generation will commend your works to the next and tell of your mighty acts.
5 I will ponder the glorious splendor of your majesty and the record of your wonders.[b] 6 They will speak of the power of your awesome deeds, and I will declare your greatness.[c]
7 They will pour out the memory of your abundant goodness and sing joyfully of your righteousness.
8 Gracious and compassionate is Yahweh,
  slow to anger and great in covenant love.
9 Yahweh is good toward everyone;
  his mercy rests on all his works.
10 All your works will give you thanks, Yahweh,
  and your faithful ones will bless you.

11 They will speak of the glory of your kingdom
and tell of your might,
12 to make known to the children of men his mighty acts
and the glorious splendor of his kingdom.
13 Your kingdom lasts through all the ages,
and your rule continues in every generation.
[God is faithful in everything he says
and kind in everything he does.][d] 14 Yahweh holds up all who are falling and raises up all who are bowed down.
15 All eyes wait on you,
and you give them their food when it is due.
16 You open your hand
and satisfy the desire of every living thing.
17 Yahweh is righteous in all his ways
and faithful in all his works.
18 Yahweh is near to all who call on him,
to all who call on him in truth.
19 He grants what those who fear him long for;
he listens to their cry and rescues them.
20 Yahweh watches over all who love him,
but all the wicked he will destroy.
21 My mouth will speak the praise of Yahweh, and let all flesh bless his holy name
forever and ever.

Notes

- a (145 title) Psalm 145 is an alphabetic acrostic: each verse begins with the next letter of the Hebrew alphabet. In the standard Hebrew text the nun (נ) line, which should come between verses 13 and 14, is missing. A nun line is found in the Psalms Scroll from Qumran (11QPs-a), in the Septuagint and Syriac, and in one medieval Masoretic manuscript. The CJT includes it in brackets at the end of verse 13. Psalms 9–10, 25, 34, 37, 111, 112, and 119 are also acrostics. In 11QPs-a, each verse of this psalm is followed by the refrain "Blessed be Yahweh and blessed be his name forever and ever." This is the only psalm titled tehillah, "song of praise," the word from which the Hebrew name of the whole book, Tehillim, comes.

- b (145:5) The Septuagint and 11QPs-a read “They will speak of the glorious splendor of your majesty, and tell of your wondrous works.”
- c (145:6) So the qere; the ketiv reads “your great deeds.”
- d (145:13) The bracketed nun line (Hebrew neʾeman, “faithful”) is not in the standard Masoretic Text. It is attested in 11QPs-a (which reads “God”), the Septuagint (which reads “the Lord,” suggesting Hebrew YHWH), the Syriac, and one Masoretic manuscript. Compare verse 17, which it closely resembles. The CJT includes it because it completes the acrostic and has early, independent support; readers may treat it as a probable but uncertain part of the text.

Chapter 146

1 Hallelujah![a]
Praise Yahweh, my soul!
2 I will praise Yahweh as long as I live;
I will sing to my God while I have my being.
3 Do not put your trust in princes,
in a son of man, who cannot save.
4 His breath departs; he returns to his ground;
on that very day his plans perish.
5 Happy is he who has the God of Jacob for his help,
who rests his hope on Yahweh his God,
6 the Maker of heaven and earth,
the sea, and all that is in them,
who keeps faith forever;
7 who executes justice for the oppressed,
who gives food to the hungry.
Yahweh sets the prisoners free;
8 Yahweh opens the eyes of the blind;
Yahweh raises up those who are bowed down;
Yahweh loves the righteous;
9 Yahweh watches over the sojourners;
he upholds the fatherless and the widow,
but the way of the wicked he turns upside down.
10 Yahweh will reign forever,
your God, Zion, for all generations.
Hallelujah!

Notes

- a (146:1) Psalms 146–150, the closing "Hallel" of the Psalter, each begin and end with "Hallelujah" ("Praise Yah!").

Chapter 147

1 Hallelujah!
For it is good to sing praises to our God;
for it is pleasant, and praise is fitting.[a] 2 Yahweh builds up Jerusalem;
he gathers the outcasts of Israel.
3 He heals the brokenhearted
and binds up their wounds.
4 He counts out the number of the stars;
he calls each of them by name.
5 Our Lord is great and enormously powerful;
his understanding cannot be measured.
6 Yahweh raises up the lowly;
he throws the wicked to the ground.
7 Sing to Yahweh with thanksgiving;
make music to our God on the lyre!
8 He wraps the sky in clouds;
he readies rain for the earth;
he makes the hills sprout grass.
9 He gives the animals their food,
and the young ravens when they call.
10 He takes no delight in the strength of the horse,
nor pleasure in the legs of a man;
11 Yahweh takes pleasure in those who fear him,
in those who hope in his covenant love.
12 Praise Yahweh, Jerusalem!
Praise your God, Zion!
13 For he has made firm the bars of your gates;
he has blessed your sons within you.
14 He makes peace within your borders;
he satisfies you with the finest wheat.

15 He dispatches his command to the earth;
his word races along.
16 He spreads out snow like wool;
he strews the frost like ash.
17 He hurls down his hail like crumbs;
who can stand before his cold?
18 He sends his word and they melt;
he stirs his wind, and the waters run.
19 He declares his word[b] to Jacob,
his statutes and rules to Israel.
20 He has not dealt this way with any other nation;
they do not know his rules.
Hallelujah!

Notes

- a (147:1) The Septuagint divides this psalm into two: verses 1–11 are its Psalm 146, and verses 12–20 its Psalm 147. From here on the Greek and Latin numbering again matches the Hebrew (see the note on the numbering of the Psalms at Psalm 1).
- b (147:19) So the qere; the ketiv reads "his words."

Chapter 148

1 Hallelujah!
Praise Yahweh from the heavens;
praise him in the heights!
2 Praise him, all his angels;
praise him, all his host![a] 3 Praise him, sun and moon;
praise him, all you shining stars!
4 Praise him, you heaven of heavens,
you waters that are above the skies!
5 Let them praise the name of Yahweh,
for he commanded and they were created.
6 He set them in place forever and ever;
he fixed a limit that will not be passed.
7 Praise Yahweh from the earth,
you sea monsters and all deeps,

8 Fire and hail, snow and fog,
storm wind that does what he says!
9 Mountains and all hills,
fruit trees and all cedars!
10 Wild animals and all livestock,
creeping things and flying birds!
11 Kings of the earth and all peoples,
princes and all rulers of the earth!
12 Young men and young women alike,
old and young together!
13 Let them praise the name of Yahweh,
for his name alone is exalted;
his majesty is above earth and heaven.
14 He has lifted high a horn for his people,
a cause of praise for all his faithful ones,
for the children of Israel, a people close to him.
Hallelujah!

Notes

- a (148:2) So the qere; the ketiv reads “hosts.”

Chapter 149

1 Hallelujah!
Sing to Yahweh a new song,
his praise in the assembly of the faithful!
2 Let Israel rejoice in his Maker;
let the children of Zion delight in their King!
3 Let them praise his name with dancing,
making music to him with tambourine and lyre!
4 For Yahweh takes pleasure in his people;
he crowns the humble with salvation.
5 Let the faithful exult in glory;
let them sing for joy on their beds.
6 Let praises to God be in their mouths
and a double-edged sword in their hands,

7 to carry out vengeance on the nations
and punishment on the peoples, 8 to bind their kings with chains
and their nobles with fetters of iron, 9 to carry out on them the judgment written!
This is the honor of all his faithful ones.
Hallelujah!

Chapter 150

1 Hallelujah!
Praise God in his sanctuary;
praise him in his mighty expanse![a] 2 Praise him for his mighty deeds;
praise him for his surpassing greatness!
3 Praise him with the sounding of the horn;
praise him with lute and lyre!
4 Praise him with tambourine and dancing;
praise him with strings and flute!
5 Praise him with clashing cymbals;
praise him with resounding cymbals!
6 Let everything that has breath praise Yah!
Hallelujah![b]

Notes

- a (150:1) Psalm 150 is the closing doxology of Book Five and of the whole Psalter. Each of the first four books ends with a short blessing (41:13; 72:18–19; 89:52; 106:48); the fifth ends with an entire psalm of praise, in which "praise" (hallelu) sounds thirteen times.
- b (150:6) The Psalms Scroll from Qumran (11QPs-a, first century AD) contains many of the psalms of Books Four and Five, but in an order that differs considerably from the Masoretic Text, mixed with other compositions (among them a "Plea for Deliverance," an "Apostrophe to Zion," a "Hymn to the Creator," and a prose note crediting David with 4,050 songs). Scholars debate whether it is a liturgical collection or evidence that the order of the last third of the Psalter was still fluid. The CJT follows the Masoretic order. Near its end the scroll also has a Hebrew form of Psalm 151, which the Septuagint includes as a short autobiographical psalm of David "outside the number" of the 150; it will be translated in the CJT's Apocrypha.

Proverbs

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The proverbs[a] of Solomon[b] son of David,[c] king of Israel:[d] 2 for gaining wisdom and discipline,
for grasping words of insight;
3 for taking in the discipline of good sense,
righteousness, justice, and fairness;
4 for giving shrewdness to the naive,
knowledge and discretion to the young.
5 The wise who hear will increase in learning,
and the discerning will acquire skill in steering, 6 for understanding a proverb and a figure,
the words of the wise and their riddles.
7 The fear of Yahweh is where knowledge begins;[e] wisdom and discipline the foolish scorn.[f]
8 Listen, my son, to your father's discipline,
and do not abandon your mother's teaching,[g] 9 for they will be a lovely garland on your head and a pendant around your neck.
10 My son, if sinners entice you,
do not give in.
11 If they urge, "Come with us,
let us hide and wait to shed blood,
let us trap the blameless for no cause;
12 like Sheol,[h] let us gulp them down alive,
entire, like those descending to the Pit;
13 we will find all kinds of precious goods
and fill our houses with plunder.
14 Cast your lot in among us;
one money bag for us all";

15 my son, never travel the road with them;
keep your feet off their trail, 16 for their feet run to evil
and hurry to shed blood.
17 For in vain a net is spread out while any winged creature is watching![i] 18 Yet these men lie in wait for their own blood;
they ambush their own lives.
19 Such are the ways of everyone greedy for gain:
it takes away the life of those who possess it.
20 Wisdom[j] shouts in the open air;
in the public squares she lifts her voice.
21 At the head of the noisy streets she calls out;
at the openings of the city gates she makes her speech:
22 "How long, you naive ones, will you love naivety,
and mockers delight in mocking,
and fools hate knowledge?
23 Turn around at my reproof!
See, I will let my spirit gush out to you;
I will teach you my words.
24 Because I called and you refused,
I stretched out my hand and no one paid attention,
25 because you brushed aside all my advice
and wanted nothing of my reproof, 26 I in turn will laugh at your disaster;
I will mock when dread comes on you,
27 when dread comes on you like a storm
and your disaster sweeps in like a whirlwind,
when distress and anguish come on you.
28 Then they will call me, but I will not answer;
they will look hard for me but not find me.
29 Because they hated knowledge and did not choose the fear of Yahweh,

30 would have none of my counsel,
and spurned all my rebuke, 31 they will eat the fruit of their own way
and be glutted with their own schemes.
32 For the waywardness of the naive kills them,
and the ease of fools ruins them.
33 But whoever listens to me will live secure,
at ease, without dread of harm."

Notes

- a (1:1) Hebrew mishle, plural of mashal, a word covering proverbs, sayings, comparisons, and parables.
- b (1:1) Solomon, Hebrew Shelomoh, related to shalom, "peace."
- c (1:1) David, "beloved."
- d (1:1) Israel, "he strives with God" (Genesis 32:28).
- e (1:7) Or "the first and chief part."
- f (1:7) The Septuagint adds "and there is good understanding for all who practice it, and reverence toward God is the beginning of perception" (compare Psalm 111:10).
- g (1:8) Hebrew torah, "teaching" or "instruction," the word later used for the Law.
- h (1:12) The realm of the dead; also "the Pit" in the next line.
- i (1:17) The meaning may be that a bird is not fooled by a trap set in plain view, unlike these men; or that the bird, seeing only the bait, flies into it anyway.
- j (1:20) Here Wisdom (Hebrew chokhmoth, a plural form) appears as a woman calling in public, a portrait developed in chapters 8–9, where she is set opposite the "foreign woman" and Folly. The figure is often called Lady Wisdom.

Chapter 2

1 My son, if you take in my words
and store up my commands within you, 2 tuning your ear to wisdom,
bending your heart toward understanding;
3 yes, if you call out for insight and lift up your voice for understanding, 4 if you seek her like silver and hunt for her as for hidden treasure, 5 then you will understand the fear of Yahweh
and find the knowledge of God.

6 For Yahweh is the giver of wisdom;
knowledge and understanding are the words of his mouth.
7 He stores up sound wisdom[a] for the upright;
he is a shield to those whose walk is blameless, 8 keeping watch over the tracks of justice and protecting the road of his faithful ones.[b] 9 Then you will understand righteousness and justice and fairness, every good track.
10 When wisdom enters your heart
and knowledge becomes a delight to your soul, 11 Discretion will keep watch over you;
understanding will stand guard over you, 12 rescuing you from the way of evil,
from men who speak perversely, 13 who leave the straight paths
to walk in the ways of darkness, 14 who delight in doing wrong
and revel in the perversity of evil, 15 whose paths are twisted
and whose tracks are crooked;
16 rescuing you also from the strange woman,[c]
from the foreign woman with her smooth talk, 17 who has left the companion of her youth and forgotten the covenant of her God.[d] 18 For her house sinks down to death,[e]
and her paths lead to the shades of the dead.[f] 19 All who go in to her never return;
they do not reach the paths of life again.
20 Therefore follow the road of the good and stay on the tracks of the righteous.
21 For the upright will dwell in the land,
and the blameless will remain in it, 22 but the wicked will be cut off from the land,
and the treacherous will be torn out of it.

Notes

- a (2:7) Hebrew tushiyyah, “sound judgment” or “success.”
- b (2:8) Hebrew chasidim, those loyal to the covenant.
- c (2:16) Hebrew zarah, “strange” or “outsider,” and in the next line nokhriyyah, “foreign”; in Proverbs these words describe another man’s wife, an adulteress. She appears again in 5:3–20; 6:24–35; 7:5–27.
- d (2:17) Or “the covenant made before her God,” that is, her marriage vow.
- e (2:18) Or “For she sinks down to death; her house…”; the Hebrew is difficult.
- f (2:18) Hebrew repha’im, the shades, the dead in Sheol.

Chapter 3

1 My son, do not forget my teaching;
  let your heart keep my commands,
2 for they will add to you length of days,
  years of life, and well-being.
3 Never let steadfast love and truth abandon you;
  bind them around your throat;
  engrave them on your heart’s tablet.
4 Then you will earn favor and a good name
  before God and before people.
5 Trust in Yahweh with your whole heart,
  and do not lean on your own understanding.
6 Acknowledge him in every path you take,
  and he will smooth out your roads.
7 Do not be wise in your own sight;
  fear Yahweh and turn from evil.
8 It will be healing for your navel[a]
  and refreshment[b] for your bones.
9 Give honor to Yahweh out of your riches
  and out of the firstfruits of all your produce; 10 then your barns will be filled with plenty,
  and your vats will burst with new wine.
11 My son, do not reject Yahweh’s discipline,
  and do not resent his correction, 12 for Yahweh corrects the one he loves,
  as a father the son in whom he delights.[c]

13 Happy is the person who finds wisdom,
the person who gains understanding, 14 for her profit is better than profit from silver,
and her yield than fine gold.
15 She is more precious than corals;[d]
nothing you desire can compare with her.
16 Long life is in her right hand;
in her left hand are riches and honor.[e] 17 Her ways are ways of delight,
and all her paths are peace.
18 She is a tree of life for all who seize her,
and whoever holds her tightly is blessed.
19 Yahweh by wisdom founded the earth;
by understanding he set the heavens in place.
20 By his knowledge the depths burst open,
and the clouds drip down dew.
21 My son, do not let them slip from your sight;
keep sound wisdom and discretion.
22 They will be life to your soul
and an ornament at your throat.
23 Then you will go your way safely,
and your foot will not trip.
24 When you lie down, you will have no fear;
you will lie down, and your sleep will be sweet.[f]
25 Do not fear sudden terror or the ruin of the wicked when it comes, 26 for Yahweh will be your confidence
and will keep your foot from the snare.
27 Do not withhold good from those to whom it is due,
when it is in your power to act.
28 Do not tell your neighbor, “Go away, come back later, tomorrow I will give it,” when it is right there with you.
29 Do not devise evil against your neighbor
when he lives in trust beside you.

30 Do not quarrel with anyone for no reason
when he has done you no harm.
31 Do not be jealous of a man of violence,
and do not choose a single one of his ways, 32 for the devious are detestable to Yahweh,
but the upright are in his confidence.
33 Yahweh's curse is on the house of the wicked,
but he blesses the home of the righteous.
34 Toward mockers he is a mocker,
but to the humble he shows favor.[g] 35 The wise will inherit honor, but fools carry off disgrace.[h]

Notes

- a (3:8) Or "your body"; the Septuagint reads "your body."
- b (3:8) Literally "drink" or "moistening."
- c (3:12) The Septuagint reads "and he scourges every son whom he receives," the form quoted in Hebrews 12:6.
- d (3:15) Or "rubies" or "pearls"; the exact gem is uncertain.
- e (3:16) The Septuagint adds "Out of her mouth comes righteousness, and she carries law and mercy on her tongue."
- f (3:24) The Septuagint reads "If you rest, you will be unafraid; if you sleep, you will sleep sweetly."
- g (3:34) The Septuagint reads "The Lord opposes the proud but gives grace to the humble" (Greek kyrios, its usual rendering of Yahweh), the form quoted in James 4:6 and 1 Peter 5:5.
- h (3:35) Or "but fools exalt disgrace"; the Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 4

1 Listen, children, to a father's discipline;
pay attention so as to learn understanding.
2 It is sound learning I hand on to you;
do not walk away from my instruction.
3 I too was once a boy in my father's house,
young and tender, my mother's only one,
4 he taught me and said to me,
"Let your heart hold fast to my words;
keep my commands and live.

5 Get wisdom, get understanding;
do not forget, do not swerve from the words of my mouth.
6 Do not leave her, and she will guard you;
love her, and she will keep you safe.
7 The beginning of wisdom is: get wisdom!
With all you have gotten, get understanding.[a] 8 Prize her, and she will lift you high;
she will bring you honor if you embrace her.
9 She will set a graceful garland on your head;
a crown of splendor she will hand to you."
10 Listen, my son, and take in what I say,
so that your life will last many years.
11 I have taught you the way of wisdom;
I have led you along upright tracks.
12 As you walk, your steps will meet no obstacle,
and when you run, you will not trip.
13 Seize hold of discipline and never loosen your grip;
protect her, since she is your very life.
14 Do not set foot on the path of the wicked,
and do not stride along the way of evildoers.
15 Avoid it, do not cross over to it;
turn away from it and pass on.
16 For they cannot sleep unless they have done wrong;
their sleep is snatched away unless they have tripped someone up.
17 For they eat the bread of wickedness
and drink the wine of violence.
18 The road of the righteous is like first light at daybreak, glowing ever stronger until the day is full.
19 The road of the wicked is like thick gloom;
they cannot tell what trips them up.
20 My son, attend to my words;
bend your ear to my sayings.
21 Do not let them slip from your eyes;
keep them in the center of your heart.

22 For they are life to those who find them
and healing to all their flesh.
23 More than anything you guard, guard your heart,
for from it flow the springs of life.
24 Put crooked speech away from you;
keep devious lips far from you.
25 Let your eyes look straight ahead,
your gaze be fixed directly before you.
26 Make a level path for your feet to travel,
and every road you take will hold firm.
27 Lean neither right nor left;
keep your foot back from evil.[b]

Notes

- a (4:7) This verse is not in the Septuagint.
- b (4:27) The Septuagint adds "For God knows the ways on the right, but those on the left are crooked; and he will make your ways straight and guide your steps in peace."

Chapter 5

1 My son, attend to my wisdom;
bend your ear to my understanding,
2 so that discretion stays with you and your lips preserve knowledge.
3 For the lips of the strange woman drip honey,
and her palate is smoother than oil,
4 but in the end she is bitter as wormwood,[a] sharp as a two-edged sword.
5 Her feet go down to death;
her steps take hold of Sheol.
6 She does not keep straight on the path of life;
her tracks wander, and she does not know it.[b]
7 So now, children, listen to me,
and do not turn aside from the words of my mouth.
8 Keep your path well away from her;
stay clear of the entrance to her house,

9 lest you hand over your prime to other men
and your years to a merciless one; 10 strangers will feast on your strength,
and your labors will go to a foreigner's house.
11 You will moan when your end comes,
when your flesh and your body are wasted, 12 and you will say, "Oh, how I loathed discipline!
How my heart despised reproof!
13 I would not listen to the voice of my teachers or bend my ear to my instructors.
14 I came close to utter ruin
in the midst of the assembly and congregation." 15 Draw your water from a cistern that is yours,
running water out of a well that is yours.[c] 16 Must your springs spill out into the streets,
your channels of water into the squares?
17 Let them be yours alone,
not shared with strangers.
18 May your fountain be blessed,
and rejoice in the wife of your youth,
19 a lovely doe, a graceful ibex.
May her breasts fill you with delight forever;
be captivated always by her love.
20 Why should you be intoxicated, my son, with a strange woman and embrace the bosom of a foreigner?
21 For a man's ways are in full view of Yahweh,
and he weighs[d] all his paths.
22 The wicked man's own iniquities will trap him;
he will be held fast in the cords of his sin.
23 He will die for lack of discipline, and through the greatness of his folly he will stagger away.[e]

Notes

- a (5:4) Wormwood, a plant with a very bitter taste, a byword for bitterness.
- b (5:6) Or "so that you do not walk the level path of life; her tracks wander, and you do not know it."

- c (5:15) In verses 15–18 water, cistern, and fountain are images of the man's own wife.
- d (5:21) Or "levels."
- e (5:23) The Hebrew word for "stagger" is the same as "be intoxicated" in verses 19–20.

Chapter 6

1 My son, if you have stood surety for your neighbor,
  have struck hands in pledge for a stranger,
2 if you are snared by the words of your mouth,
  caught by what your own lips have said,
3 then do this, my son, and get yourself free,
  since you have fallen into your neighbor's hand:
  go, humble yourself,[a] and pester your neighbor.
4 Do not let your eyes close in sleep
  or your eyelids droop.
5 Tear yourself loose like a gazelle from the hunter's grip,[b]
  like a bird from the fowler's hand.
6 Go to the ant, you lazybones;
  watch her ways and grow wise.
7 She has no commander,
  no overseer or ruler,
8 yet she lays in her food in summer
  and gathers her provisions at harvest.[c]
9 How long will you lie there, lazybones?
  When will you get up from your sleep?
10 A little sleep, a little dozing,
  a little folding of the hands to rest,
11 and poverty will come on you like a prowler,
  and want like an armed man.[d] 12 A good-for-nothing,[e] a man of iniquity, walks around with crooked speech, 13 winking with his eyes, signaling with his feet,
  pointing with his fingers.
14 Perversity is in his heart; he devises evil all the time;
  he lets loose quarrels.

15 Therefore disaster will come on him suddenly;
in an instant he will be broken beyond healing.
16 There are six things Yahweh hates,
seven that are detestable to him:[f] 17 haughty eyes, a lying tongue,
hands that shed innocent blood, 18 a heart that devises wicked schemes,
feet quick to run to evil, 19 a lying witness who puffs out falsehoods,
and one who stirs up strife between brothers.
20 My son, keep your father's command,
and do not abandon your mother's teaching.
21 Fasten them to your heart forever;
knot them about your throat.
22 When you walk, it will lead you;
when you lie down, it will watch over you;
when you wake, it will talk with you.
23 For the command is a lamp, the teaching is light,
and correction that disciplines is the road to life, 24 keeping you from the wicked woman,[g]
from the slick tongue of the outsider.
25 Do not let your heart crave her loveliness,
and do not be taken in by the flutter of her lashes.
26 For a prostitute's price is a round of bread,
but another man's wife stalks a man's very life.[h] 27 Can a man scoop fire into his lap
and his clothes not be burned?
28 Or can one walk on hot coals
and his feet not be scorched?
29 So it is with one who goes in to his neighbor's wife;
no one who touches her will go unpunished.
30 People do not despise a thief if he steals to fill his belly when he is hungry;

31 yet if caught, he must repay sevenfold;
he must give up all the goods of his house.
32 The man who commits adultery has no sense;
he who does so brings ruin on himself.
33 Blows and dishonor he will get,
and his disgrace will not be wiped away.
34 For jealousy kindles a husband's rage;
on the day of vengeance he will not spare.
35 He will accept no compensation;
he will not be appeased though you multiply gifts.

Notes

- a (6:3) Or "trample yourself," that is, swallow your pride.
- b (6:5) Literally "from the hand"; "of the hunter" is supplied from the parallel line, as in some ancient witnesses.
- c (6:8) The Septuagint adds "Or go to the bee and learn how diligent she is and how earnest her work is; kings and commoners use her labors for health, and she is desired and honored by all; though weak in strength, she is advanced because she honors wisdom."
- d (6:11) The Septuagint adds "But if you are diligent, your harvest will come like a spring, and poverty will run away like a poor runner."
- e (6:12) Hebrew 'adam beliyya'al, "a man of Belial," a word for worthlessness or wickedness.
- f (6:16) A "six… seven" saying, a numerical pattern also found in 30:15–31.
- g (6:24) The Septuagint reads "from the married woman."
- h (6:26) Or "For on account of a prostitute a man is brought to a loaf of bread." The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.

Chapter 7

1 My son, keep my words
and treasure up my commands within you.[a] 2 Keep my commands and live,
my teaching like the pupil of your eye.
3 Tie them on your fingers;
inscribe them on the tablet of your heart.
4 Say to wisdom, "You are my sister,"
and call understanding your kinswoman,

5 to keep you from the strange woman,
from the foreign woman with her smooth words.
6 From the window of my house
I looked out through my lattice,
7 and I saw among the naive,
I noticed among the youths,
a young man lacking sense,
8 passing along the street near her corner,
taking the road toward her house, 9 in the twilight, in the evening of the day,
in the dead of night and the dark.
10 And there a woman comes to meet him,
dressed like a prostitute, with a guarded heart.[b] 11 She is loud and unruly;
her feet never stay at home;
12 one moment out in the road, the next in the market squares,
at every street corner she waits in ambush.
13 She seizes him and kisses him;
boldfaced, she tells him, 14 "I had to offer peace offerings;
today I have paid my vows.[c] 15 So I have come out on purpose to meet you, searching for your face, and here you are!
16 I have spread my couch with coverings,
colored linens from Egypt.
17 I have sprinkled my bed
with myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon.
18 Come, let us soak ourselves in lovemaking till dawn;
let us revel in love.
19 For my husband is not at home;
he has gone on a long journey.
20 He took a bag of money with him;
he will come home at the full moon."

21 With her many persuasions she bends him;
with her smooth lips she drives him on.
22 All at once he follows her,
like an ox going to the slaughter,
like a fool to the stocks for punishment,[d] 23 until an arrow pierces his liver,
like a bird rushing into a snare,
not knowing it will cost him his life.
24 So now, children, listen to me;
pay attention to the words of my mouth.
25 Let your heart not veer toward her roads;
do not stray onto her tracks, 26 for many are the victims she has brought down,
and countless are all those she has slain.
27 Her house is the way to Sheol,
going down to the chambers of death.

Notes

- a (7:1) The Septuagint adds a couplet: "My son, honor the Lord and you will be strong; and fear no one else besides him."
- b (7:10) Or "with secret intent" or "with a veiled heart."
- c (7:14) The meat of a peace offering had to be eaten within a day or two (Leviticus 7:15–16), so she has a feast ready.
- d (7:22) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain; the Septuagint reads "as a dog to bonds, or as a deer shot in the liver with an arrow."

Chapter 8

1 Listen! Is that not Wisdom calling,
Understanding lifting up her voice?[a] 2 On the heights beside the road,
where the paths meet, she takes her stand;
3 beside the gates at the entrance to the city,
at the doorways she cries aloud:
4 "To you, people, I am calling;
my voice goes out to all humankind.
5 You naive, learn shrewdness;
you fools, learn sense.[b]

6 Listen, for I speak of noble things;
from my lips come upright words.
7 My mouth utters truth;
wickedness is detestable to my lips.
8 All the words of my mouth are in righteousness;
nothing in them is twisted or crooked.
9 They are all plain to the discerning and right to those who find knowledge.
10 Take my discipline instead of silver,
knowledge rather than choice gold, 11 for wisdom is better than corals,
and nothing desirable can equal her.
12 I, Wisdom, live with shrewdness;
I find out knowledge and discretion.
13 To fear Yahweh is to hate evil.
Pride and arrogance, the way of evil,
and a perverse mouth I hate.
14 Counsel and sound wisdom are mine;
I am understanding; strength is mine.
15 Through me kings hold their thrones
and rulers enact just laws.
16 By me princes govern,
and nobles, all who judge rightly.[c] 17 Those who love me I love,
and those who seek me early will find me.
18 Riches and honor are with me,
enduring wealth and righteousness.
19 My fruit is better than gold, than pure gold,
and my yield than choice silver.
20 In the road of righteousness I go,
in the middle of the tracks of justice, 21 to endow with wealth those who love me
and to fill their treasuries.[d]

22 Yahweh acquired me[e] at the beginning of his way,
before his works of long ago.
23 From everlasting I was set up,[f]
from the first, before the earth began.
24 When there were no depths I was brought forth,
when there were no springs heavy with water.
25 Before the mountains were sunk in place,
before the hills, I was brought forth, 26 while he had not yet made the earth and the open fields or the first of the dust of the world.
27 When he fixed the skies in place, I was present,
when he marked out a circle over the surface of the deep, 28 when he made firm the clouds above,
when the springs of the deep grew strong, 29 when he assigned the sea its limit
so that the waters would not pass his command,
when he marked out the foundations of the earth, 30 then I was at his side as a master craftsman,[g]
and I was his joy every day, laughing and playing in his presence always,
31 laughing over the world, his earth,
and finding my joy among humankind.
32 Now then, children, hear me:
blessed are those who keep to my ways.
33 Listen to discipline and be wise;
do not neglect it.
34 Blessed is the person who hears me,
keeping watch at my gates day by day,
standing guard at my doorposts.
35 For whoever finds me finds life
and obtains favor from Yahweh, 36 but whoever fails to find me wrongs his own soul;[h] all who hate me are in love with death."

Notes

- a (8:1) Wisdom speaks in her own voice through this chapter. On the figure of Lady Wisdom, see the note at 1:20.
- b (8:5) Literally "understand heart."
- c (8:16) Literally "all the judges of righteousness"; the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses read "the earth."
- d (8:21) The Septuagint adds "If I tell you what happens daily, I will remember to recount the things of old."
- e (8:22) Hebrew qanani, from qanah, which usually means "acquire," "get," or "possess" (as in 4:5, 7), and in a few places may mean "create" or "beget" (Genesis 14:19, 22; Deuteronomy 32:6). The Septuagint has ektisen, "created" (Brenton "made"); Aquila and other later Greek versions have "acquired" or "possessed." The verse became central in the fourth-century debates over the nature of Christ, identified with Wisdom.
- f (8:23) Or "woven," as in Psalm 139:13, or "installed."
- g (8:30) Hebrew 'amon; or "like a little child," reading 'amun, "nursling." The Septuagint has "suiting myself to him."
- h (8:36) Or "whoever sins against me."

Chapter 9

1 Wisdom has built her house;
  she has hewn out her seven pillars.[a] 2 She has slaughtered her animals, mixed her wine, and set her table.
3 She has sent out her young women; she calls
  from the highest points of the city:
4 "Whoever is naive, turn in here!"
  To the one lacking sense she says,
5 "Come, eat of my bread
  and drink of the wine I have mixed.
6 Leave naivety behind and live;
  walk straight on in the way of understanding."
7 Whoever corrects a mocker earns abuse;
  whoever rebukes a wicked man gets hurt.
8 Do not rebuke a mocker, or he will hate you;
  rebuke a wise man, and he will love you.
9 Instruct the wise, and they grow wiser still;
  teach the righteous, and they add to their learning.

10 The fear of Yahweh is the start of wisdom,
and knowledge of the Holy One[b] is understanding.[c] 11 For through me your days will multiply,
and years of life will be added to you.
12 If you are wise, you are wise to your own benefit;
if you mock, you alone will bear it.[d]
13 Lady Folly is boisterous, naive, and knows nothing at all.[e] 14 She sits at the door of her house,
on a seat at the heights of the city, 15 hailing the passers-by who are keeping to the straight road:
16 "Whoever is naive, turn in here!"
To the one lacking sense she says,
17 "Stolen water is sweet,
and bread eaten in secret is delicious."
18 But he does not know that the shades are there,
that her guests are in the depths of Sheol.[f]

Notes

- a (9:1) The seven pillars may picture a grand house, the seven days of creation, or the completeness of Wisdom's work; the meaning is debated.
- b (9:10) Hebrew qedoshim, plural, perhaps a plural of majesty; or "of holy ones."
- c (9:10) The Septuagint adds "for to know the law is the mark of a sound mind."
- d (9:12) The Septuagint adds three verses comparing the one who leans on lies to someone who herds the winds and chases birds in flight, abandons his own vineyard, and walks through a dry desert gathering barrenness with his hands.
- e (9:13) Literally "A woman of folly." Folly is drawn as Wisdom's rival, inviting the same naive guests (compare verses 4 and 16). The second line is uncertain; the Septuagint reads "and she does not know shame."
- f (9:18) The Septuagint adds "But hurry away; do not linger in the place or fix your eye on her, for so you will pass through strange water. Keep away from strange water, and do not drink from a strange fountain, so that you may live long and years of life may be added to you."

Chapter 10

1 The proverbs of Solomon.[a]
A wise son makes his father glad,
but a foolish son is his mother's sorrow.
2 Treasures gained by wickedness bring no profit,
but righteousness rescues from death.
3 Yahweh will not let the righteous go hungry,
but he pushes away the craving of the wicked.
4 Lazy hands lead to poverty,
but hard-working hands bring wealth.[b]
5 A son who gathers in summer acts wisely;
a son who sleeps through harvest brings shame.
6 Blessings rest on the head of the righteous,
but the mouth of the wicked hides violence.[c]
7 To remember the righteous is to bless them,
but the name of the wicked decays.
8 The wise of heart takes commands to heart,
but a babbling fool will be thrown down.
9 Whoever walks in integrity walks securely,
but whoever twists his ways will be found out.
10 One who winks the eye causes grief,
and a babbling fool will be thrown down.[d] 11 The mouth of the righteous is a fountain of life,
but the mouth of the wicked hides violence.
12 Hatred stirs up quarrels,
but love throws a covering over every offense.
13 Wisdom is found on the lips of the discerning,
but a rod is for the back of the one without sense.
14 The wise store up knowledge,
but the mouth of a fool brings ruin near.
15 The wealth of the rich is their fortified city;
the ruin of the poor is their poverty.
16 The wages of the righteous lead to life,
the income of the wicked to sin.

17 One who heeds discipline is on the path to life,
but one who ignores correction leads others astray.
18 Lips that cover up hatred are liars,
and the one who puts out slander is a fool.
19 When words are many, wrongdoing is not lacking,
but the one who holds back his lips is prudent.
20 The tongue of the righteous is choice silver;
the heart of the wicked is worth little.
21 The lips of the righteous feed many,
but fools die for lack of sense.
22 Yahweh's blessing is what makes rich,
and toil adds nothing to it.[e] 23 Doing wrong is like a game to a fool,
and wisdom is the same to a man of understanding.
24 The thing the wicked man fears overtakes him;
the longing of the righteous is granted.
25 Once the tempest sweeps by, the wicked vanish,
but the righteous are rooted for all time.
26 Like vinegar to the teeth and smoke to the eyes
is the sluggard to those who send him.
27 The fear of Yahweh lengthens days,
but the years of the wicked will be cut short.
28 The hope of the righteous ends in joy,
but the expectation of the wicked comes to nothing.
29 The way of Yahweh is a stronghold for the blameless,
but ruin for those who do evil.
30 Forever the righteous stays unmoved;
the wicked will not live on in the land.
31 The righteous person's mouth yields wise fruit,
but a twisted tongue will be chopped off.
32 The righteous person's lips know what is fitting,
but the wicked person's mouth knows only crookedness.

Notes

- a (10:1) Chapters 10:1–22:16 are a collection of mostly two-line sayings, 375 in number, the numerical value of the Hebrew letters in the name Solomon (shlmh).

- b (10:4) The Septuagint adds “A son who is instructed will be wise and will use the fool as a servant.”
- c (10:6) Or “but violence covers the mouth of the wicked”; the same line recurs in verse 11.
- d (10:10) The second line repeats verse 8b; the Septuagint reads “but one who reproves boldly makes peace.”
- e (10:22) Or “and he adds no sorrow with it.”

Chapter 11

1 False scales are detestable to Yahweh,
but an honest weight is his delight.[a] 2 When pride comes, disgrace comes too,
but with the humble is wisdom.
3 The upright are led by their own wholeness;
the treacherous are ruined by their own twisting.
4 Wealth is no help on the day of wrath,
but righteousness rescues from death.[b]
5 The righteousness of the blameless makes his road straight,
but the wicked falls by his own wickedness.
6 Their righteousness sets the upright free,
while traitors are trapped by their greed.
7 When a wicked man dies, his hope perishes,
and the expectation of strength is lost.[c] 8 The righteous is rescued from trouble,
and the wicked comes in his place.
9 With his mouth the godless destroys his neighbor,
but by knowledge the righteous are rescued.
10 When the righteous prosper, the city rejoices,
and when the wicked perish, there are shouts of joy.
11 By the blessing of the upright a city is raised high,
but by the mouth of the wicked it is torn down.
12 To look down on a neighbor is senseless;
a discerning person holds his tongue.
13 A gossip goes around revealing secrets,
but the trustworthy in spirit keeps a matter covered.

14 Without guidance a people falls,
but with many counselors there is victory.
15 Whoever pledges for a stranger will suffer harm,
but whoever hates handshake pledges is secure.
16 A gracious woman gains honor,
and ruthless men gain riches.[d] 17 A kind man does good to himself,
but a cruel one harms his own flesh.
18 The wicked person's wages are a mirage,
but whoever plants righteousness reaps a sure reward.
19 Steadfast righteousness leads to life,
but whoever pursues evil goes to his death.
20 The crooked of heart are detestable to Yahweh,
but those whose way is blameless are his delight.
21 Be sure of it: the evildoer will not go unpunished,
but the offspring of the righteous will escape.
22 A gold ring in a pig's snout—
so is a beautiful woman who has turned from good sense.
23 What the righteous long for is only good;
what the wicked can expect is wrath.
24 One gives freely and grows richer;
another holds back more than is right and ends in want.
25 The person who blesses others will grow fat,
and the one who gives drink will be given drink.
26 People curse the one who hoards grain,
but blessing crowns the head of the one who sells it.
27 The one who looks hard for good is looking for favor;
the one who hunts for evil, it will find him.
28 Whoever trusts in his riches will fall,
but the righteous will flourish like green leaves.
29 A man who brings trouble on his own house will be left holding the wind, and the fool ends up slave to the wise.

30 The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life,
and a wise person wins lives.[e] 31 If on earth the righteous get their due,
all the more the wicked and the sinner![f]

Notes

- a (11:1) Literally “a full stone”; weights were stones carried in a merchant’s bag.
- b (11:4) The Septuagint lacks this verse.
- c (11:7) Or “of wealth”; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- d (11:16) The Septuagint expands this verse: “A gracious wife brings glory to her husband, but a woman who hates righteousness is a seat of dishonor. The lazy come to want, but the diligent hold on to wealth.”
- e (11:30) Or “takes lives.” The Septuagint reads “but the lives of transgressors are cut off before their time.”
- f (11:31) The Septuagint reads “If the righteous are scarcely saved, where will the ungodly and the sinner appear?” quoted in 1 Peter 4:18.

Chapter 12

1 To love correction is to love knowledge;
to hate reproof is brutish.
2 A good person obtains favor from Yahweh,
but a man of schemes he condemns.
3 No one is made secure by wickedness,
but the root of the righteous will not be moved.
4 A woman of strength is her husband’s crown,
but one who shames him is like rot in his bones.
5 The plans of the righteous are just;
the guidance of the wicked is deceit.
6 The words of the wicked lie in wait for blood,
but the mouth of the upright rescues them.
7 Overthrow the wicked and they are no more,
but the house of the righteous will stand.
8 A man is praised according to his good sense,
but one with a twisted mind is despised.
9 Better a nobody with a servant
than a self-important man with no bread.

10 The righteous knows the needs of his animals,
but the compassion of the wicked is cruel.
11 Whoever works his land will have plenty of bread,
but whoever chases worthless things lacks sense.[a] 12 The wicked covets the catch of evildoers,
but the root of the righteous yields fruit.[b] 13 In the offense of the lips is an evil snare,
but the righteous escapes from trouble.[c] 14 From the fruit of his mouth a person is filled with good,
and the work of his hands comes back to him.
15 The way of a fool is right in his own eyes,
but the wise listens to advice.
16 A fool shows his anger at once,
but the shrewd ignores an insult.
17 A truthful witness declares what is just,
and a lying witness, what deceives.
18 Some speak rashly, like the thrusts of a sword,
but the tongue of the wise brings healing.
19 Truthful lips endure forever,
but a lying tongue lasts only a moment.
20 Treachery lives in the heart of evil schemers,
while counselors of peace are glad.
21 No harm befalls the righteous,
but the wicked are filled with trouble.
22 Lying lips are detestable to Yahweh,
but those who act faithfully are his delight.
23 A shrewd man conceals knowledge,
but the heart of fools proclaims folly.
24 Diligent hands will govern,
but laziness ends in forced labor.
25 Worry in the heart bows a man down,
and a kind word cheers him.
26 The righteous guides his neighbor,[d]
but the way of the wicked leads them astray.

27 The lazy man does not roast his game,
but a diligent man gains precious wealth.[e] 28 In the path of righteousness is life,
and along its way there is no death.[f]

Notes

- a (12:11) The Septuagint adds "Whoever enjoys himself at banquets of wine will leave dishonor in his strongholds."
- b (12:12) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult.
- c (12:13) The Septuagint adds "One whose looks are gentle will be pitied, but one who quarrels at the gates afflicts souls."
- d (12:26) Or "The righteous searches out his pasture"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- e (12:27) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult.
- f (12:28) Or "but the way of a path leads to death," with some ancient witnesses.

Chapter 13

1 A wise son heeds his father's discipline,
but a mocker does not listen to rebuke.
2 From the fruit of his mouth a person eats good things,
but the appetite of the treacherous is for violence.
3 Whoever guards his mouth preserves his life;
whoever opens wide his lips comes to ruin.
4 The sluggard craves and gets nothing,
but the appetite of the diligent is richly satisfied.
5 The righteous hates a lie,
but the wicked brings stench and shame.
6 Righteousness keeps watch over a blameless road,
and wickedness brings the sinner down.[a] 7 Some put on a show of wealth and own nothing;
some put on a show of poverty and own a fortune.
8 A man's riches may ransom his life,
but the poor hears no threat.
9 The light of the righteous shines brightly,
but the lamp of the wicked will be snuffed out.[b] 10 Arrogance yields nothing but quarrels,
while the well-advised have wisdom.

11 Money from vanity shrinks away;
  money gathered by hand grows.
12 Long-delayed hope sickens the heart;
  a longing that comes true is a tree of life.
13 Whoever despises a word will pay for it,
  but whoever fears a command will be rewarded.[c] 14 The teaching of the wise is a fountain of life,
  for turning away from the snares of death.
15 Good judgment earns goodwill,
  but the path of the faithless leads to destruction.[d] 16 Every shrewd person acts with knowledge,
  but a fool spreads out his folly.
17 A wicked messenger falls into trouble,
  but a faithful envoy brings healing.
18 Poverty and disgrace come to the one who ignores discipline,
  but whoever heeds correction is honored.
19 Desire fulfilled is sweet to the soul,
  but turning from evil is detestable to fools.
20 Walk with the wise and become wise,
  but the companion of fools will suffer harm.
21 Disaster pursues sinners,
  but the righteous are repaid with good.
22 The good leave something for their children's children;
  the sinner's goods are laid up for the just.
23 The new-broken fields of the poor can grow plenty to eat,
  yet some are swept away for want of justice.[e] 24 Whoever spares his rod hates his son,
  but whoever loves him is diligent to discipline him.
25 The righteous eat until they are satisfied,
  but the stomach of the wicked is left empty.

Notes

- a (13:6) The Septuagint lacks this verse.
- b (13:9) The Septuagint adds "Deceitful souls go astray in sins, but the righteous show pity and mercy."

- c (13:13) The Septuagint adds “A deceitful son will have nothing good, but a wise servant will prosper, and his way will be made straight.”
- d (13:15) Or “is enduring”; the Hebrew is uncertain. The Septuagint reads “is in destruction.”
- e (13:23) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult.

Chapter 14

1 Wise women build up their houses,[a]
but Folly tears hers down with her own hands.
2 A man who walks uprightly fears Yahweh;
a man crooked in his ways despises him.
3 In the fool’s mouth is a rod for his pride,[b]
but the lips of the wise keep them safe.
4 Where there are no oxen, the manger stays clean,
but an ox’s strength brings in a large harvest.
5 An honest witness does not lie,
but a false witness pours out lies.
6 The scoffer looks for wisdom and never finds it,
but to the discerning, knowledge comes easily.
7 Get away from the presence of a fool;
you will not meet knowing lips there.
8 The wisdom of the shrewd is to understand his road,
but the folly of fools is deceit.
9 Fools make a joke of guilt,[c]
but among the upright there is goodwill.
10 Only the heart knows its bitter places,
and in its gladness no outsider has a share.
11 The house of the wicked will be wiped out,
but the tent of the upright will flourish.
12 There is a road that looks straight to a man,
but at its end are the roads of death.
13 A heart can hurt while it laughs,
and joy may finish in sorrow.
14 The backslider gets his fill of his own ways,
and a good man, of what is his.[d]

15 The naive believes every word,
but the shrewd watches his steps.
16 The wise is cautious and turns away from evil,
but the fool is reckless and sure of himself.
17 The quick-tempered does foolish things,
and a schemer is hated.
18 The naive inherit folly,
but the shrewd are crowned with knowledge.
19 The evil bow down before the good,
and the wicked at the gates of the righteous.
20 The poor man is disliked even by his neighbor,
but the rich have friends by the dozen.
21 Whoever despises his neighbor sins,
but happy is the one who is kind to the poor.
22 Do not those who plot evil go astray?
Those who plan good meet with loyalty and faithfulness.
23 Every kind of toil yields a gain;
talk of the lips brings only lack.
24 The crown of the wise is their riches;
the folly of fools is folly.[e]
25 A witness who tells the truth delivers lives;
a witness who puffs out lies is fraud itself.
26 Fear of Yahweh gives deep security,
and it becomes a shelter for one's children.
27 The fear of Yahweh is a fountain of life,
for turning aside from the snares of death.
28 A king's glory lies in a multitude of people,
but without people a prince is ruined.
29 The patient person has great understanding,
but the quick-tempered puts folly on display.
30 A calm heart gives life to the body,
but envy is rot in the bones.
31 Whoever oppresses the poor insults his Maker,
but whoever is gracious to the needy honors him.

32 The wicked is thrown down by his own evil,
but the righteous finds refuge even in his death.[f] 33 In a discerning heart Wisdom settles down to rest;
inside fools she is made known.[g] 34 Righteousness lifts a nation high,
but sin is a disgrace to any people.
35 The king favors a servant who acts wisely,
but his wrath falls on one who acts shamefully.

Notes

- a (14:1) Or "Wisdom builds her house," reading the plural as an honorific, as in 9:1.
- b (14:3) Or "a shoot of pride."
- c (14:9) Or "Guilt mocks fools." The Hebrew is uncertain.
- d (14:14) Or "and a good man, from what he does."
- e (14:24) The Septuagint reads "a shrewd man is the crown of the wise, but the occupation of fools is evil."
- f (14:32) Hebrew bemoto. Many interpreters read betummo, "in his integrity," by transposing two letters; the Septuagint has "in his own holiness."
- g (14:33) The Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses read "but in the heart of fools she is not known."

Chapter 15

1 A gentle answer turns back rage,
but a word that wounds stirs up anger.
2 Knowledge sounds good from a wise tongue;
folly bubbles from the mouths of fools.
3 The eyes of Yahweh are everywhere,
watching the evil and the good.
4 A healing tongue is a tree of life,
but a twisted one crushes the spirit.
5 A fool spurns his father's discipline,
but whoever accepts correction shows good sense.
6 In the house of the righteous there is great treasure,
but trouble comes with the earnings of the wicked.
7 The lips of the wise scatter knowledge,
but not so the heart of fools.

8 The sacrifice of the wicked is detestable to Yahweh,
but the prayer of the upright is his delight.
9 The road of the wicked is loathsome to Yahweh;
the one who chases after righteousness he loves.
10 Harsh discipline awaits the one who leaves the path;
whoever hates correction will die.
11 Sheol and Abaddon[a] lie open before Yahweh;
how much more human hearts!
12 A mocker does not like to be corrected;
he will not go to the wise.
13 A glad heart makes a cheerful face,
but by heartache the spirit is crushed.
14 The discerning heart seeks knowledge,
but the mouth of fools grazes on folly.
15 Every day is a hard day for the poor,
but a good heart feasts without end.
16 Better a little with the fear of Yahweh
than great treasure and turmoil with it.
17 Better a dish of vegetables where there is love
than a fattened ox and hatred with it.
18 A hot-tempered man stirs up conflict,
but one slow to anger calms a quarrel.[b] 19 The way of the sluggard is like a hedge of thorns,
but the path of the upright is a highway.
20 A wise son makes a father glad,
but a foolish man despises his mother.
21 Foolishness pleases the senseless;
the discerning keeps a straight course.
22 Where no one takes counsel, plans come apart;
where advisers are many, they hold.
23 A person finds joy in an apt reply,
and a word in season, how good it is!
24 For the wise the path of life leads upward,
so that he turns away from Sheol below.

25 Yahweh tears down the house of the proud,
but he sets the widow's boundary in place.
26 Evil plans are detestable to Yahweh,
but kind words are pure.
27 A man grasping after profit brings trouble home;
a man who hates a gift will live.[c] 28 The righteous heart thinks before answering,
but the wicked mouth pours out evil.[d]
29 Yahweh is far from the wicked,
but he hears the prayer of the righteous.[e] 30 A twinkle in the eye cheers the heart;
a good report nourishes the body.
31 The ear that listens to life-giving correction
will lodge among the wise.[f] 32 To shrug off discipline is to reject your own life;
to hear reproof is to acquire a heart.
33 Fear of Yahweh trains a person in wisdom,
and lowliness walks ahead of glory.

Notes

- a (15:11) Abaddon, "destruction," is a name for the realm of the dead, paired with Sheol.
- b (15:18) The Septuagint adds "A man slow to anger will put out quarrels, but an ungodly man stirs them up instead."
- c (15:27) The Septuagint adds "By almsgiving and faithful dealing sins are cleansed away, but by the fear of the Lord everyone turns from evil," a form of 16:6.
- d (15:28) The Septuagint adds "The ways of righteous people are acceptable to the Lord, and through them even enemies become friends," a form of 16:7.
- e (15:29) The Septuagint adds "Better a small income with righteousness than abundant produce with unrighteousness. Let a person's heart think rightly, so that his steps may be made straight by God," forms of 16:8–9.
- f (15:31) The Septuagint lacks this verse.

Chapter 16

1 The plans of the heart belong to a person,
but the answer of the tongue comes from Yahweh.[a] 2 All a man's ways are pure in his own eyes,
but Yahweh weighs the spirits.

3 Roll your works onto Yahweh,
and your plans will be established.
4 Yahweh has made everything for its own end,
even the wicked for the day of disaster.
5 Everyone proud of heart is detestable to Yahweh;
be sure of it, he will not go unpunished.
6 Through steadfast love and truth, wrongdoing is covered,
and through fearing Yahweh people steer clear of evil.
7 When Yahweh is pleased with a man's ways,
he makes even his enemies be at peace with him.
8 Better a little with righteousness
than large revenues without justice.
9 A man's heart plans his way,
but Yahweh directs his steps.
10 An oracle is on the lips of a king;
his mouth must not betray justice.
11 Accurate scales and balances are Yahweh's;
every stone weight in the pouch is his doing.
12 Doing evil is detestable to kings,
for a throne is made firm by righteousness.
13 Kings take pleasure in honest lips;
they love a straight talker.
14 A king's wrath is a messenger of death,
but a wise man will appease it.
15 When a king's face is bright, there is life,
and his goodwill is like a rain cloud in spring.
16 Acquiring wisdom is far better than gold!
Choosing insight is worth more than silver.
17 The highway of the upright turns away from evil;
whoever watches his way guards his life.
18 Pride goes before destruction,
and a haughty spirit before a fall.
19 It is better to be lowly in spirit among the humble than to share spoils with the arrogant.

20 Whoever pays attention to a matter will find good,
and happy is the one who trusts in Yahweh.
21 The wise of heart is called discerning,
and sweet speech adds persuasiveness.
22 Insight is a spring of life to its owner;
folly is the fool's own punishment.
23 The heart of the wise makes his mouth prudent and adds persuasiveness to his lips.
24 Pleasant words are a honeycomb,
sweet to the soul and healing to the bones.
25 There is a road that looks straight to a man,
but at its end are the roads of death.
26 A laborer's appetite works for him,
for his mouth urges him on.
27 A worthless man digs up evil,
and on his lips it is like a scorching fire.
28 A perverse man spreads strife,
and a whisperer separates close friends.
29 A violent man entices his neighbor
and leads him in a way that is not good.
30 Whoever winks his eyes is plotting perversity;
whoever purses his lips has finished his evil.
31 Gray hair is a crown of glory;
it is found in the way of righteousness.
32 Better one slow to anger than a warrior,
and one who rules his spirit than one who takes a city.
33 The lot is thrown into the lap,
but every decision from it comes from Yahweh.

Notes

- a (16:1) The Septuagint lacks verses 1, 3, 4, and 6 in this form; forms of verses 6–9 also appear at the end of chapter 15.

Chapter 17

1 A dry crust eaten in quiet beats a house full of feasting[a] with quarrels.

2 A servant with good sense will rule over a son who brings shame and share the inheritance with the brothers.
3 The crucible is for silver and the furnace for gold,
but Yahweh is the tester of hearts.
4 An evildoer listens closely to wicked lips;
a liar lends his ear to a ruinous tongue.
5 To mock the poor is to insult the one who made them;
the person glad at disaster will not escape punishment.
6 Grandchildren are the crown of the old,
and parents are the pride of their children.[b]
7 Fine speech does not suit a fool,
still less lying lips a noble.
8 A bribe is a lucky stone in its owner's eyes;
wherever he turns, it brings success.
9 To cover an offense is to seek love;
to keep bringing it up splits close friends.
10 A reprimand sinks further into someone with discernment than a hundred lashes into a fool.
11 Rebellion is all an evil man is after;
a merciless envoy will be dispatched to deal with him.
12 Meet a bear robbed of her cubs
rather than a fool in his folly.
13 If someone pays back evil for good,
evil will never leave his house.
14 Starting a quarrel is like letting out water;
so drop the matter before the dispute breaks out.
15 Acquitting the guilty and condemning the innocent—
Yahweh detests both alike.
16 What good is money in a fool's hand
to buy wisdom, when he has no mind for it?[c] 17 A friend loves at all times,
and a brother is born for the hard times.
18 A man without sense strikes hands in pledge and puts up security for his neighbor.

19 The lover of offense is a lover of strife;
whoever builds his gate high is asking for a fall.
20 One crooked of heart finds no good,
and one with a twisted tongue falls into trouble.
21 Whoever fathers a fool gets grief,
and the father of a dolt has no joy.
22 A glad heart is good medicine,
but a broken spirit dries up the bones.
23 A wicked man takes a bribe from under his cloak[d]
to bend the paths of justice.
24 The discerning keeps wisdom in view,
but the eyes of a fool roam to the ends of the earth.
25 A foolish child grieves his father and brings sorrow to the mother who bore him.
26 To fine the innocent is not good,
nor to flog nobles for their uprightness.
27 Whoever holds back his words has knowledge,
and the cool of spirit is a person of understanding.
28 Even a fool who keeps silent is counted wise;
with closed lips he passes for discerning.

Notes

- a (17:1) Literally "sacrifices," since meat was eaten at sacrificial meals.
- b (17:6) The Septuagint adds "The faithful have a whole world of wealth, but the faithless not even a penny."
- c (17:16) The Septuagint adds "Whoever makes his own house high seeks ruin, and whoever turns aside from learning will fall into trouble."
- d (17:23) Literally "from the bosom," the fold of the garment.

Chapter 18

1 One who separates himself pursues his own desire;
he bursts out against all sound judgment.[a] 2 A fool takes no pleasure in understanding,
only in airing his own opinions.
3 When wickedness arrives, contempt comes too,
and with dishonor comes reproach.

4 The words of a man's mouth are deep waters,
the spring of wisdom a flowing stream.
5 It is not good to favor the guilty
or to push aside the innocent in court.
6 The lips of a fool march him into strife;
his mouth begs for blows.
7 A fool's mouth is his ruin,
and his lips are a snare to his life.
8 The words of a whisperer are like tasty morsels;
they go down into the inner rooms of the belly.
9 Whoever is slack in his work is brother to the one who destroys.
10 Yahweh's name is a fortified tower;
the righteous run to it and are safe above reach.
11 A rich man's wealth is his strong city,
and in his imagination it is like a high wall.
12 Before ruin a man's heart grows proud,
and humility comes before honor.
13 Whoever answers before he has heard shows his folly and his shame.
14 A person's spirit can bear his sickness,
but a crushed spirit—who can carry it?
15 The discerning heart acquires knowledge,
and the ear of the wise searches it out.
16 A man's gift opens the way for him
and brings him before the great.
17 The first to state his case seems right,
until the other side comes and questions him.
18 The lot puts an end to disputes and settles things between the powerful.
19 An offended relative is harder to win over than a walled city,
and disputes are like the bolts of a citadel.[b] 20 From the fruit of a man's mouth his belly is filled;
he is filled with the yield of his lips.

21 Death and life are in the power of the tongue,
and those who love it will eat its fruit.
22 He who finds a wife finds a good thing and obtains favor from Yahweh.[c] 23 The poor man speaks in pleading tones,
but the rich man answers roughly.[d] 24 A man of many companions may come to ruin,
but there is a friend who sticks closer than a brother.

Notes

- a (18:1) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.
- b (18:19) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult.
- c (18:22) The Septuagint adds "Whoever puts away a good wife puts away a good thing, and whoever keeps an adulteress is foolish and ungodly."
- d (18:23) The Septuagint lacks verses 23–24 and 19:1–2.

Chapter 19

1 Better a poor man walking in his integrity than one with twisted lips who is a fool.
2 Desire without knowledge is not good,
and whoever hurries with his feet misses the way.
3 A man's own folly ruins his way,
and his heart rages against Yahweh.
4 Wealth adds many friends,
but the poor man is deserted by his friend.
5 The liar on the witness stand will be held guilty;
whoever puffs out falsehoods will not get away.
6 Many seek the goodwill of a generous person,
and everyone befriends the one who hands out presents.
7 All the brothers of a poor man hate him;
how much more do his friends keep away from him!
He chases after them with words, but they are gone.[a] 8 Whoever gets sense loves his own life;
whoever keeps understanding will find good.
9 The liar on the witness stand will be held guilty;
whoever puffs out falsehoods will perish.

10 Luxury does not suit a fool,
still less a slave ruling over princes.
11 A person's good sense makes him slow to anger,
and it is his glory to overlook an offense.
12 A king's fury is like a lion's roar,
but his goodwill is like dew falling on the lawn.
13 A stupid son brings disaster on his father,
and a nagging wife is a roof that leaks without stopping.
14 A house and riches come down from one's ancestors;
a wife with insight is Yahweh's gift.
15 Laziness casts into a deep sleep,
and an idle person will go hungry.
16 Whoever keeps the commandment keeps his life;
whoever is careless of his ways will die.
17 Whoever is kind to the poor lends to Yahweh,
and he will repay him for his deed.
18 Train your son while hope remains;
do not lift your soul toward putting him to death.[b] 19 A man of great wrath will pay the penalty;
if you rescue him, you will have to do it again.
20 Hear counsel, take correction,
and in the end you will be wise.
21 Many are the plans in a man's heart,
but it is Yahweh's purpose that will stand.
22 What is desired in a person is loyal love,[c]
and a poor man is better than a liar.
23 The fear of Yahweh leads to life;
one has it and rests content, untouched by harm.
24 The lazy man plunges his hand into the bowl
and is too tired to lift it back to his lips.
25 Strike a mocker, and the naive will learn shrewdness;
correct a discerning person, and he will gain knowledge.
26 Whoever robs his father and drives out his mother
is a son who brings shame and disgrace.

27 Stop listening to discipline, my son,
and you will stray from words of knowledge.
28 A worthless witness mocks at justice,
and the mouth of the wicked swallows iniquity.
29 Judgments are ready for mockers,
and beatings for the backs of fools.

Notes

- a (19:7) The third line is uncertain; it may be a fragment of a lost saying. The Septuagint has a longer text here.
- b (19:18) Or "do not set your heart on causing him to die," that is, do not discipline in rage; or "do not let your heart be set on ruining him" by neglect.
- c (19:22) Or "A person's greed is his shame."

Chapter 20

1 Wine is a scoffer, strong drink a brawler;
no one led astray by it is wise.
2 A king's fury is like the growl of a young lion;
whoever angers him forfeits his life.
3 It is to a man's credit to keep clear of strife,
but every fool bares his teeth.
4 The lazy man does not plow when autumn comes;
at harvest he looks for a crop and there is none.
5 The purpose in a person's heart is deep water,
but a discerning person will draw it up.
6 Plenty of people advertise their own devotion,
but who can locate someone truly trustworthy?
7 The righteous walks on in his integrity;
happy are his children after him!
8 A king seated on the throne of judgment
sifts out all evil with his eyes.
9 Who can say, "I have made my heart clean;
I am pure from my sin"?[a]
10 Two kinds of weights and two kinds of measures[b]—
Yahweh detests both of them.

11 Even a child makes himself known by his acts,
whether his conduct is pure and upright.
12 A listening ear, a seeing eye—
Yahweh is the maker of the pair.
13 Do not love sleep, or you will be poor;
keep your eyes open and you will have your fill of bread.
14 "Bad, bad," says the buyer,
but when he goes off, then he boasts.[c] 15 There is gold and plenty of coral,
but lips with knowledge are the rarest jewel.
16 Take the garment of one who stands surety for a stranger;
hold it as a pledge when he guarantees a foreign woman.[d] 17 Food got by cheating tastes sweet at first,
but later the mouth is crammed with grit.
18 Plans are made firm by taking counsel;
wage war with sound guidance.
19 A gossip goes around revealing secrets,
so do not mix with someone whose lips are always open.
20 Whoever curses his father or his mother,
his lamp will go out in deepest darkness.
21 An inheritance seized in haste at the start will not be blessed in the end.
22 Do not say, "I will pay back evil";
wait for Yahweh, and he will rescue you.
23 Two kinds of weights are detestable to Yahweh,
and false scales are not good.
24 A man's steps are from Yahweh;
how then can a person understand his own way?
25 It is a snare to blurt out, "Holy!"
and only afterward to think over one's vows.
26 A wise king winnows the wicked
and drives the threshing wheel over them.
27 The human spirit is the lamp of Yahweh,
searching all the inner rooms of the belly.

28 Loyal love and faithfulness guard a king,
and by loyal love he holds up his throne.
29 The glory of young men is their strength,
and the splendor of the old is gray hair.
30 Blows that wound scour away evil,
and beatings reach the inner rooms of the belly.

Notes

- a (20:9) In the Septuagint verses 20–22 follow here, and verses 14–19 are absent.
- b (20:10) Literally "a stone and a stone, an ephah and an ephah," that is, one set of weights and measures for buying and another for selling. The ephah was a dry measure of about 3/5 bushel (22 liters).
- c (20:14) The Septuagint lacks verses 14–19.
- d (20:16) Or "a foreigner," following another reading of the Hebrew; compare 27:13.

Chapter 21

1 A king's heart is a stream of water in Yahweh's hand;
he turns it wherever he pleases.
2 Every way a man takes is right in his own eyes,
but Yahweh weighs hearts.
3 Doing righteousness and justice pleases Yahweh better than sacrifice.
4 Haughty eyes and a proud heart—
the lamp of the wicked is sin.[a] 5 The plans of the diligent lead only to profit,
but everyone who is hasty comes only to want.[b]
6 Treasures gained by a lying tongue are a vanishing vapor, snares of death.[c] 7 The violence of the wicked will sweep them away, because they refuse to do what is just.
8 The way of a guilty man is crooked,
but the conduct of the pure is upright.
9 Better a spot on a corner of the rooftop
than a whole house with a contentious woman.
10 The soul of the wicked craves evil;
his neighbor finds no mercy in his eyes.

11 When a mocker is punished, the naive becomes wise;
when the wise is instructed, he gains knowledge.
12 The Righteous One[d] takes note of the wicked man's house and hurls the wicked into disaster.
13 Whoever closes his ears to a poor person's plea
will call out himself and receive no reply.
14 A gift in secret soothes anger,
and a bribe in the cloak, strong wrath.
15 Justice carried out delights the righteous and terrifies those who do wrong.
16 A person who strays off the road of insight will end up resting among the company of the shades.
17 Whoever loves pleasure will be a poor man;
whoever loves wine and oil will not grow rich.
18 The wicked is a ransom for the righteous,
and the treacherous for the upright.
19 Better to live in a desert land than with a quarrelsome and fretful wife.
20 Precious treasure and oil are in the dwelling of the wise,
but a foolish man swallows them up.
21 Whoever pursues righteousness and loyal love finds life, righteousness, and honor.
22 A wise man goes up against a city of warriors
and brings down the stronghold they trusted.
23 Keep watch on mouth and tongue,
and you keep your soul out of distress.
24 "Mocker" is the name of the proud and arrogant man who acts with insolent pride.
25 The craving of the sluggard kills him,
for his hands refuse to work.
26 He spends the whole day longing for more;
the righteous man gives without stinting.
27 The sacrifice of the wicked is detestable,
how much more when he brings it with evil intent!

28 A lying witness will perish,
but a man who listens will speak to the end.[e] 29 The wicked man hardens his face;
the upright man makes his ways sure.[f] 30 There is no wisdom, no understanding,
no counsel against Yahweh.
31 They harness the horse for the day of war,
yet the victory is Yahweh's.

Notes

- a (21:4) Or "the tillage of the wicked"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- b (21:5) The Septuagint lacks this verse.
- c (21:6) So the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses; the Hebrew reads "for those who seek death."
- d (21:12) Or "A righteous man"; the subject of the second line suggests God.
- e (21:28) Or "will speak successfully"; the meaning is uncertain.
- f (21:29) So the Masoretic marginal reading; the written text has "understands his ways."

Chapter 22

1 A good name is to be chosen over great riches;
favor is better than silver and gold.
2 Rich and poor meet together;
Yahweh is the Maker of them all.
3 The shrewd sees trouble and hides,
but the naive go on and pay for it.
4 The reward of humility and the fear of Yahweh is riches and honor and life.
5 Thorns and snares lie in the way of the crooked;
whoever guards his life keeps far from them.
6 Train a child in keeping with his way;
even when he is old he will not turn from it.[a] 7 The rich rules over the poor, and the borrower is slave to the lender.
8 Whoever sows injustice will reap trouble,
and the rod of his fury will fail.[b]

9 The generous will be blessed,
for he shares his bread with the poor.[c] 10 Drive out the mocker and strife goes out;
quarreling and insult will stop.
11 One who loves a pure heart and has grace on his lips will win the king's friendship.
12 The eyes of Yahweh watch over knowledge,
but he overturns the words of the treacherous.
13 The sluggard says, "There is a lion outside!
I will be killed in the streets!"
14 The mouth of foreign women is a deep pit;
the one under Yahweh's anger will fall into it.[d] 15 Folly is bound up in the heart of a boy;
the rod of discipline will drive it far from him.
16 Grinding down the poor to enrich oneself,
giving presents to the rich—both end in want.
17 Incline your ear and listen to the sayings of the wise,[e]
and apply your mind to what I know, 18 for it is pleasant if you keep them within you,
if all of them are ready on your lips.
19 so that you may rely on Yahweh,
I am teaching you these things today, you in particular.
20 See, I have written down for you thirty[f]
of counsel and knowledge, 21 to teach you what is right and true, words that can be relied on, so that you can bring back a true answer to those who sent you?
22 Do not plunder a poor man just because he is poor,
and do not trample the lowly in the gate, 23 for Yahweh will plead their case
and rob of life those who rob them.
24 Do not befriend a hot-tempered man,
or go around with a man of rage, 25 or you will learn his ways
and get yourself caught in a snare.

26 Do not be one of those who strike hands in pledge,
who stand as security for debts.
27 If you have nothing to pay with,
why should your bed be taken from under you?
28 Do not move the ancient boundary stone
that your fathers set up.
29 You see a man who is quick and expert at his trade?
Before kings he will take his place,
not before men of no account.

Notes

- a (22:6) Or "according to the way he should go." The Septuagint lacks this verse.
- b (22:8) The Septuagint adds "God loves a cheerful and generous man, but he will bring the emptiness of his works to an end"; compare 2 Corinthians 9:7.
- c (22:9) The Septuagint adds "Whoever gives freely wins victory and honor, but he takes away the life of those who possess them."
- d (22:14) The Septuagint adds "Evil ways lie before a man, and he does not like to turn from them, but he must turn aside from a twisted and evil way."
- e (22:17) A new collection begins here (22:17–24:22), with close parallels in the Egyptian Instruction of Amenemope, which is divided into thirty chapters.
- f (22:20) So the Masoretic marginal reading, as many interpreters understand it; the written text reads shilshom, "formerly," and the marginal reading shalishim is also taken as "excellent things." The Septuagint reads "record them for yourself three times."

Chapter 23

1 When you take your seat to eat with someone in power, pay close attention to what[a] is in front of you,
2 and put a knife to your throat
if you have a large appetite.
3 Have no longing for his dainties,
since that bread is a lie.
4 Do not wear yourself out getting rich;
have the sense to stop.
5 Let your eyes light on it, and it is gone,
for it will surely sprout wings
and fly off into the sky like an eagle.

6 Do not eat the bread of a stingy man[b]
or crave his delicacies,
7 for he is like someone keeping accounts in his head.[c]
"Eat and drink!" he tells you,
but his heart is not with you.
8 You will bring up the little you have eaten
and ruin your pleasant conversation.
9 Waste no words on a fool's ears;
he will look down on your sensible speech.
10 Do not move the ancient boundary stone
or go into the fields of the fatherless, 11 for their Redeemer[d] is strong;
he will plead their case against you.
12 Apply your mind to instruction,
your ear to the sayings of knowledge.
13 Do not hold back discipline from a boy;
if you strike him with the rod, he will not die.
14 Strike him with the rod yourself,
and you will rescue his life from Sheol.
15 My son, if your heart is wise,
my own heart too will be glad;
16 my very kidneys[e] will cheer
at the upright things your lips say.
17 Do not let your heart be jealous of sinners,
but stay in the fear of Yahweh all day.
18 There is surely a future,
and your hope will not be cut off.
19 Hear, my son; grow wise;
steer your heart down the road.
20 Do not be among those who guzzle wine
or those who gorge themselves on meat, 21 for the drunkard and the glutton will come to poverty,
and drowsiness will dress them in rags.

22 Listen to your father, who gave you life,
and do not despise your mother when she is old.
23 Buy truth and do not sell it—wisdom, discipline, and understanding.
24 The father of a righteous son will shout for joy;
whoever fathers a wise son will be glad in him.
25 Let your father and your mother be glad;
let her who bore you rejoice.
26 My son, give me your heart,
and let your eyes take pleasure in[f] my ways.
27 For a prostitute is a deep pit,
and a foreign woman a narrow well.
28 She lies in wait like a robber
and adds to the number of the treacherous among men.
29 Who has woe? Who has sorrow?
Who has quarrels? Who has complaints?
Who has wounds for no reason?
Who has bloodshot eyes?
30 Those who linger late over wine,
who go in search of mixed wine.
31 Do not stare at wine when it is red,
when it sparkles in the cup
and goes down smoothly.
32 In the end it bites like a snake
and stings like a viper.
33 Your eyes will see strange sights,
and your heart will speak twisted things.
34 You will be like someone lying down in the middle of the sea,
like someone lying on top of a mast.[g]
35 "I was hit," you say, "and it did not hurt me;
I was thrashed, and I never noticed.
How long till I am awake?
I will go after it again."

Notes

- a (23:1) Or “who.”
- b (23:6) Literally “of one evil of eye.”
- c (23:7) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain; or “as he calculates in his soul, so is he.”
- d (23:11) Hebrew go’el, the next of kin who defends a family member’s rights; here God himself.
- e (23:16) Hebrew “kidneys,” thought of as the seat of the deepest feelings.
- f (23:26) So the written Hebrew text; the Masoretic marginal reading has “keep.”
- g (23:34) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.

Chapter 24

1 Do not envy evil men
or long to be in their company, 2 for their hearts plot violence
and their lips talk of trouble.
3 By wisdom a house is built,
and by understanding it is made firm;
4 by knowledge its rooms are filled with all kinds of precious and pleasant riches.
5 A wise man is strong,[a]
and a man of knowledge adds to his power, 6 for with guidance you will wage your war,
and with many counselors there is victory.
7 Wisdom is out of a fool’s reach;
at the city gate he has nothing to say.
8 Whoever plans to do evil
will be called a master schemer.
9 The scheming of folly is sin,
and the mocker is detestable to people.
10 If you lose heart in the day of trouble,
your strength is small.
11 Rescue those being taken away to death;
hold back those stumbling toward the slaughter.
12 If you say, “See, we did not know this,”
does not the one who weighs hearts perceive it?

Does not the one who guards your life know it?
Will he not repay a person according to his work?
13 Eat honey, my son, for it is good,
and the honeycomb is sweet to your taste.
14 Understand that wisdom is the same for your soul;
if you obtain it, you will have a future,
and your hope will never be severed.
15 Do not lie in wait, wicked man, against the dwelling of the righteous;
do not destroy his resting place, 16 for seven times the righteous man may fall and get up again,
but the wicked are tripped up by disaster.
17 When your enemy goes down, do not celebrate;
when he trips, keep your heart from gloating, 18 lest Yahweh look on with disapproval
and withdraw his anger from that man.
19 Do not fret because of evildoers
or envy the wicked, 20 for there is no tomorrow for the evildoer;
the light of the wicked will go out.
21 My son, fear Yahweh and the king;
do not mix with those who change sides,[b] 22 for disaster from them will rise suddenly,
and who knows the ruin both of them can bring?[c]
23 These also are sayings of the wise:[d]
To show partiality in judgment is not good.
24 Anyone who tells a guilty man, "You are in the right,"
will be cursed by peoples and damned by nations, 25 but those who convict the guilty will find delight,
and a rich blessing will come upon them.
26 He kisses the lips
who gives an honest answer.

27 Set your outdoor tasks in order;
get your fields ready,
and only then build your house.
28 Do not testify against your neighbor for no reason;
would you mislead with your lips?
29 Do not say, "I will treat him the way he treated me;
I will repay him for his deed."
30 I went past a lazy man's field,
past the vineyard of a senseless man, 31 and behold, thistles had overrun all of it;
nettles blanketed the ground,
and its stone fence had collapsed.
32 I looked and took it to heart;
I saw and received instruction:
33 a little sleep, a little slumber,
a little folding of the hands to rest,
34 and poverty will come on you like a prowler,
and want like an armed man.[e]

Notes

- a (24:5) So the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses; the Hebrew reads "A wise man is in strength."
- b (24:21) Or "with those of high rank"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- c (24:22) The Septuagint adds a long passage here (verses 22a–e in some editions) on the son who keeps the commandment and on the king's tongue as a sword. In the Septuagint, 30:1–14 also follows here.
- d (24:23) A short collection begins here (24:23–34).
- e (24:34) In the Septuagint, 30:15–33 and 31:1–9 follow this verse; chapters 25–29 come next, and then 31:10–31.

Chapter 25

1 These too are proverbs of Solomon, which the men of Hezekiah[a] king of Judah copied out.
2 It is God's glory to keep a thing hidden and the glory of kings to search a matter through.
3 As the heavens for height and the earth for depth,
so the heart of kings is past searching out.

4 Clear the dross away from the silver,
and a vessel comes out for the smith;
5 clear the wicked away from the king's presence,
and his throne will be made firm by righteousness.
6 Do not put yourself forward in the king's presence or take your stand in the place of the great, 7 since being invited, "Move up higher," beats being demoted before a noble whom you have laid eyes on.[b] 8 Do not rush out to bring a quarrel to court, for what will you do at the end
when your neighbor puts you to shame?
9 Argue your case with your neighbor himself,
and do not give away another's secret, 10 or whoever hears will reproach you,
and your bad name will never go away.[c] 11 Apples of gold in settings of silver—
so is a word spoken at the right time.[d] 12 A gold ring, an ornament of fine gold—
so is a wise man's rebuke to a listening ear.
13 Like the cool of snow on a harvest day
is a faithful messenger to those who send him;
he refreshes his master's spirit.
14 Clouds and wind but no rain—
so is a man who boasts of a gift he never gives.
15 With patience a ruler may be won over,
and a soft tongue can break a bone.
16 Found honey? Eat just what you need,
or you will have too much and vomit it up.
17 Let your foot be seldom in your neighbor's house, or he will have his fill of you and hate you.
18 A war club, a sword, a sharpened arrow—
so is a man who testifies falsely against his neighbor.

19 A bad tooth, a slipping foot—
so is trust in a traitor on a day of trouble.
20 Like taking off a cloak on a cold day, like vinegar poured on soda,[e]
so is one who sings songs to a heavy heart.[f] 21 If the one who hates you is hungry, give him bread to eat;
if he is thirsty, give him water to drink, 22 So you will be piling live coals on his head,[g]
and Yahweh will reward you.
23 The north wind brings forth rain,
and a secretive tongue, angry looks.[h]
24 Better a spot on a corner of the rooftop
than a whole house with a contentious woman.
25 Cold water for a parched throat—
such is good news from a distant land.
26 Like a muddied spring or a polluted well
is a righteous man who gives way before the wicked.
27 To eat much honey is not good,
nor to search out one's own glory.[i] 28 Like a city breached, left without walls,
is a man who has no control of his spirit.

Notes

- a (25:1) Hezekiah means "Yahweh strengthens." He was king of Judah about 715–686 BC (2 Kings 18–20).
- b (25:7) The last line may belong with verse 8.
- c (25:10) The Septuagint adds "Favor and friendship set a person free; keep them for yourself, so that you do not become a target of reproach, but guard your ways peaceably."
- d (25:11) The meaning of the Hebrew for "settings" is uncertain; or "carvings."
- e (25:20) Hebrew nether, natron, a natural soda that fizzes when vinegar is poured on it.
- f (25:20) The Septuagint adds "Like a moth in a garment and a worm in wood, so a man's grief harms the heart."
- g (25:22) An image of making him burn with shame, or perhaps drawn from an Egyptian rite of penitence; quoted in Romans 12:20.
- h (25:23) In Israel rain comes mostly from the west; "north" may mean "northwest," or the saying may come from elsewhere.
- i (25:27) The second line is uncertain; or "but to search out difficult things is glory."

Chapter 26

1 Like snow in summer or rain at harvest,
honor does not fit a fool.
2 Like a flitting sparrow, like a darting swallow,
a curse without cause does not land.[a] 3 A whip for the horse, a bridle for the donkey,
and a rod for the backs of fools.
4 Do not answer a fool by his own folly,
or you will become like him yourself.
5 Answer a fool by his own folly,
or he will think himself wise.[b] 6 Whoever sends a message by a fool cuts off his own feet and drinks down violence.
7 Like legs dangling uselessly from a lame man is a proverb in the mouth of fools.
8 Like tying a stone into a sling
is giving honor to a fool.
9 A thorn that springs up in a drunkard's grip—
such is a proverb in the mouths of fools.
10 An archer piercing all comers—
such is the man who hires a fool, or hires whoever happens along.[c] 11 Like a dog that goes back to its vomit is a fool who repeats his folly.[d]
12 Do you see a man wise in his own eyes?
There is more hope for a fool than for him.
13 The sluggard says, "There is a lion in the road!
A lion loose in the squares!"
14 The door turns on its hinge,
and the sluggard on his bed.
15 The sluggard buries his hand in the dish;
he is too weary to bring it back to his mouth.
16 The sluggard is wiser in his own eyes
than seven people who answer sensibly.

17 Whoever seizes a passing dog by its ears
is like one who meddles in someone else's quarrel.
18 Like a madman shooting
firebrands, arrows, and death 19 is the man who deceives his neighbor and says, "I was only joking!"
20 Where there is no wood, the fire goes out;
where there is no whisperer, quarreling dies down.
21 Charcoal to embers and wood to fire—
so is a quarrelsome man for kindling strife.
22 The words of a whisperer are like tasty morsels;
they go down into the inner rooms of the belly.
23 Like a glaze of silver dross over clay
are burning lips with an evil heart.[e] 24 A man full of hate puts on a mask with his talk,
but inside he lays up treachery.
25 When he speaks graciously, do not believe him,
for seven abominations are in his heart.
26 Though his hatred is covered with guile,
his evil will be exposed in the assembly.
27 Dig a pit and you will drop into it;
roll a stone and it will come rolling back on you.
28 A tongue that lies hates its victims;
a smooth mouth brings about a downfall.

Notes

- a (26:2) So the Masoretic marginal reading; the written text has "does not come to it," perhaps "does not come to him," the one who utters it.
- b (26:5) Verses 4 and 5 are set side by side on purpose: whether to answer a fool depends on the case.
- c (26:10) The Hebrew of this verse is very obscure. Other proposals include "A master craftsman makes everything, but one who hires a fool is like one who hires passers-by."
- d (26:11) Quoted in 2 Peter 2:22. The Septuagint adds "There is a shame that brings sin, and there is a shame that is glory and grace."
- e (26:23) Or, with a slight change of the Hebrew, "like glaze over clay"; a Ugaritic word suggests "silver dross" should be read as "glaze."

Chapter 27

1 Do not brag about tomorrow;
you have no idea what today will give birth to.
2 Let another praise you, not your own mouth;
a stranger, and not your own lips.
3 A stone is heavy and sand a burden,
but a fool's provocation weighs more than both.
4 Fury is savage, anger an overflowing flood,
but jealousy—who can hold out against it?
5 Better an open rebuke
than love kept hidden.
6 Faithful are the wounds of a friend,
but the kisses of an enemy are profuse.[a] 7 A full stomach tramples on honey,
but to a hungry stomach everything bitter is sweet.
8 A bird wandering far from its nest,
a man wandering far from his place—they are alike.
9 Oil and incense gladden the heart, and the sweetness of a friend comes from heartfelt counsel.[b] 10 Do not abandon your own friend or your father's;
on your day of trouble, do not head for your brother's house;
a neighbor close at hand beats a brother who is far.
11 Be wise, my son, and gladden my heart,
so that I can answer anyone who taunts me.
12 The shrewd sees trouble and hides;
the naive go on and pay for it.
13 Take the garment of one who stands surety for a stranger;
hold it as a pledge when he guarantees a foreign woman.
14 Whoever blesses his neighbor with a loud voice early in the morning,
it will be counted to him as a curse.
15 A steady dripping on a rainy day
and a quarrelsome wife are alike;

16 whoever would hold her back holds back the wind,
and his right hand meets only oil.[c] 17 Iron sharpens iron,
and one person sharpens the face of another.[d] 18 The keeper of a fig tree eats its figs;
the one who guards his master gets respect.
19 As water reflects face to face,
so the heart of a person reflects the person.
20 Sheol and Abaddon can never get enough,
nor can the eyes of humankind.[e]
21 The crucible is for silver and the furnace for gold,
and a person is tested by the praise he receives.[f] 22 Though you pound a fool in a mortar,
in among the grain with a pestle,
his folly will not depart from him.
23 Know well the condition of your flocks;
set your heart on your herds, 24 for wealth does not last for all time,
and a crown is not passed down age after age.
25 When the hay is gone and the new growth appears and the grass of the hills is gathered in, 26 lambs will supply your garments,
and goats will pay for a field, 27 and you will have goats' milk in plenty to eat,
to feed your whole household,
and to keep your servant girls alive.

Notes

- a (27:6) Or "deceitful," from a different understanding of the Hebrew.
- b (27:9) The second line is uncertain. The Septuagint reads "but the soul is torn by calamities."
- c (27:16) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- d (27:17) Or "so one person sharpens another."
- e (27:20) The Septuagint adds "Whoever fixes his eye is detestable to the Lord, and the uninstructed do not restrain their tongue."
- f (27:21) The Septuagint adds "The heart of the lawless seeks out mischief, but an upright heart seeks knowledge."

Chapter 28

1 The wicked run off with no one chasing them,
but the righteous are as bold as a young lion.
2 When a land rebels, its rulers are many,
but with a man of understanding and knowledge, order lasts.[a] 3 A poor man who grinds down the poor is a driving rain that leaves no bread.
4 Those who abandon instruction[b] praise the wicked;
those who keep instruction fight against them.
5 Evil men have no grasp of justice;
those who seek Yahweh grasp it fully.
6 A poor man walking in his integrity is better off than a rich man crooked in his two ways.
7 A son with understanding keeps the instruction,
but one who keeps company with gluttons shames his father.
8 One who swells his wealth by interest and profiteering gathers it for someone who will be kind to the poor.
9 If one turns his ear from hearing instruction,
even his prayer is detestable.
10 Whoever leads the upright astray onto an evil road
will drop into his own pit,
but the blameless will inherit good.
11 A rich man is wise in his own sight,
but a poor man with discernment sees right through him.
12 When the righteous triumph, there is great splendor,
but when the wicked rise, people go into hiding.
13 Whoever covers up his wrongs will not prosper,
but whoever confesses and leaves them will find mercy.
14 Happy is the one who is always in awe,
but whoever hardens his heart tumbles into trouble.
15 A roaring lion, a charging bear—
such is a wicked ruler over a helpless people.
16 A prince who lacks understanding is a great oppressor,
but one who hates unjust gain will prolong his days.

17 A man burdened with another's lifeblood will flee to the pit; let no one hold him back.[c] 18 One who walks blamelessly will be kept safe, but one crooked in his two ways will fall all at once.[d] 19 Whoever works his land will be filled with bread;
whoever chases empty things will be filled with poverty.
20 A trustworthy man has blessings in abundance;
a man racing to wealth will not stay innocent.
21 Favoritism is not good,
yet a man will do wrong for a piece of bread.
22 The stingy man[e] hurries after wealth
and does not know that want will come to him.
23 Whoever rebukes a man will in the end find more favor than one who flatters with his tongue.
24 Whoever robs his father or mother and says, "It is no crime,"
is partner to a destroyer.
25 The greedy stirs up strife,
but whoever trusts in Yahweh will grow fat.
26 Whoever trusts in his own heart is a fool,
but whoever walks in wisdom will escape.
27 One who gives to the poor will never lack,
but one who shuts his eyes will get many curses.
28 When the wicked rise, people hide;
when they perish, the righteous multiply.

Notes

- a (28:2) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult.
- b (28:4) Hebrew torah, here probably the teaching of the wise as well as the law of God; so also in verses 7 and 9.
- c (28:17) The Septuagint adds "Discipline your son, and he will love you and bring honor to your soul; he will not obey a lawless nation."
- d (28:18) Or "will fall into a pit," reading one letter differently.
- e (28:22) Literally "the man evil of eye," as in 23:6.

Chapter 29

1 Someone corrected again and again who keeps a stiff neck will be shattered in a moment, past all mending.

2 When the righteous increase, the people rejoice,
but when a wicked man rules, the people groan.
3 A man who loves wisdom gladdens his father,
but one who keeps company with prostitutes squanders his wealth.
4 By justice a king gives a land stability,
but a man of levies[a] tears it down.
5 A man who flatters his neighbor spreads a net for his feet.
6 In the offense of an evil man there is a snare,
but the righteous sings and rejoices.
7 The righteous knows the rights of the poor;
the wicked has no such understanding.
8 Mockers set a city ablaze,
but the wise turn anger away.
9 When a wise man goes to law with a fool,
the fool rages and laughs, and there is no rest.
10 Men of blood hate the blameless,
and as for the upright, they seek his life.[b] 11 A fool lets out all his temper,
but a wise man holds it back and calms it.
12 When a ruler pays heed to lies,
every one of his servants turns wicked.
13 The poor man and the oppressor meet together;
Yahweh gives light to the eyes of both.
14 A king who judges the poor faithfully
will have his throne made firm forever.
15 The rod and rebuke give wisdom,
but a boy left to himself shames his mother.
16 As the wicked multiply, so does transgression,
and the righteous will look on at their fall.
17 Discipline your son, and he will give you rest;
he will bring delight to your soul.

18 Where there is no vision,[c] the people run wild,
but happy is the one who keeps the instruction.
19 A servant cannot be corrected by words alone;
he understands, but he does not respond.
20 Do you see a man hasty with his words?
There is more hope for a fool than for him.
21 Whoever pampers his servant from youth will find him a weakling[d] in the end.
22 An angry man stirs up strife,
and a hot-tempered man is full of offenses.
23 A man's pride will bring him low,
but the lowly in spirit will take hold of honor.
24 To go shares with a thief is to hate yourself;
you hear the oath and say nothing.[e] 25 Fear of people sets a snare,
but whoever trusts in Yahweh is set high and safe.
26 Many seek a ruler's face,
but a man's justice comes from Yahweh.
27 The righteous loathe the man of injustice;
the wicked loathe the man of the straight road.

Notes

- a (29:4) Hebrew terumot, contributions, perhaps forced gifts or heavy taxes.
- b (29:10) Or "but the upright care for his life."
- c (29:18) Hebrew hazon, prophetic revelation.
- d (29:21) The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain; or "an heir," or "a cause of grief."
- e (29:24) A public curse was pronounced on any witness who withheld testimony (Leviticus 5:1).

Chapter 30

1 The words of Agur[a] son of Jakeh, the oracle.[b]
This man's utterance to Ithiel, to Ithiel and Ucal:[c]
2 I am more brute than man;
I lack a human's understanding.
3 I have not learned wisdom,
nor do I have knowledge of the Holy One.

4 Who has gone up to the heavens and come down?
Who has gathered the wind in the hollow of his hands?
Who has wrapped up the waters in a cloak?
Who has fixed all the ends of the earth?
What is his name, and what is his son's name?
Surely you know!
5 Every word of God has been through the fire;
he is a shield to those who take refuge in him.
6 Do not tack anything onto what he says,
lest he call you to account and you stand exposed as false.
7 Two things I request from you;
do not hold them back from me as long as I live:
8 Keep falsehood and lying words far from me;
give me neither poverty nor riches;
feed me with my portion of bread, 9 or I may have too much and deny you and say, "Who is Yahweh?"
or I may be poor and steal
and do violence to the name of my God.
10 Never run down a slave to his owner,
lest he call down a curse on you and you be held guilty.
11 There is a breed of people who curse their fathers and give no blessing to their mothers, 12 a generation pure in its own eyes
yet not washed of its filth, 13 a generation—how lofty its eyes,
how raised its eyelids!—
14 a generation whose teeth are swords,
whose jaws are knives,
to devour the poor from the earth
and the needy from among humankind.
15 The leech[d] has a pair of daughters,
"Give!" and "Give!"
Three there are that are never full,
four that never cry, "Plenty!":

16 Sheol, the barren womb,
earth that never has its fill of water,
and fire that never says, “Enough!”
17 An eye that sneers at a father and makes light of a mother’s word will be picked out by the valley ravens
and eaten by the young vultures.
18 Three things are beyond me,
four I cannot fathom:
19 how a vulture finds its way through the air,
how a snake finds its way over rock,
how a ship finds its way in the heart of the sea,
and how a man finds his way with a young woman.[e] 20 This is the way of an adulterous woman:
she eats and wipes her mouth
and says, “I have done nothing wrong.” 21 Three things make the earth shudder,
four it cannot endure:
22 under a slave when he becomes king,
and a godless fool when he is filled with food, 23 a despised woman who finally marries,
and a maidservant who replaces her mistress.
24 Four things on earth are small,
but they are exceedingly wise:
25 the ants are a people without strength,
yet they store up their food in summer;
26 the hyraxes,[f] a folk with no might,
who set up house among the cliffs;
27 the locusts have no king,
yet all of them march out in ranks; 28 the gecko[g] you can catch in your hand,
yet it is found in kings’ palaces.
29 Three there are with a splendid gait,
four that move with a splendid step:

30 the lion, mightiest among beasts,
who turns back from nothing;
31 the strutting rooster[h] or the he-goat,
and a king with his army around him.[i] 32 If you have been a fool, exalting yourself, or if you have been plotting evil,
put your hand over your mouth.
33 For pressing milk brings out curds,
pressing the nose brings out blood,
and pressing anger brings out strife.[j]

Notes

- a (30:1) Agur may mean "gatherer" or "hired"; Jakeh perhaps "pious" or "obedient." Nothing more is known of either. The Septuagint does not read these as names; it reads "My son, revere my words, receive them, and repent. These things the man says to those who trust in God, and I cease." In the Septuagint, 30:1–14 stands after 24:22.
- b (30:1) Hebrew hamassa', "the oracle"; or "of Massa," a north Arabian people descended from Ishmael (Genesis 25:14); compare 31:1.
- c (30:1) Ithiel means "God is with me," and Ucal perhaps "I am able." With a different division of the Hebrew consonants the line reads "I am weary, O God; I am weary, O God, and exhausted."
- d (30:15) Hebrew ʿaluqah, perhaps a bloodsucking leech or a mythical vampire-like creature.
- e (30:19) Or "a girl"; Hebrew ʿalmah, a young woman of marriageable age.
- f (30:26) Hebrew shephanim, the rock hyrax, a small animal that lives among rocks.
- g (30:28) Or "lizard" or "spider"; the meaning of the Hebrew semamit is uncertain.
- h (30:31) Hebrew zarzir motnayim, literally "girded of loins"; the animal is uncertain. The Septuagint has "a rooster strutting boldly among the hens"; others suggest a greyhound or a war horse.
- i (30:31) The meaning of the Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- j (30:33) The verse plays on Hebrew 'aph, which means both "nose" and "anger."

Chapter 31

1 The words of Lemuel,[a] king, an oracle[b] that his mother taught him:
2 What, my son? What, son of my womb?
What, son of my vows?
3 Do not hand over your vigor to women or your ways to the destroyers of kings.

4 Kings, Lemuel, should not drink wine—
kings should not,
and rulers should not long for liquor,
5 lest they drink and lose sight of what is laid down
and pervert the cause of every oppressed person.
6 Let strong drink go to the man who is dying,
wine to those whose souls are bitter;
7 let them drink it down, forget how poor they are,
and think no more of their trouble.
8 Open your mouth for the one who cannot speak,
for the rights of all who are passing away.[c] 9 Open your mouth, judge rightly,
and defend the rights of the poor and needy.
10 A woman of valor[d]—who can find her?
Her worth is far beyond corals.
11 Her husband's heart trusts in her,
and he will never lack for gain.
12 She does him good and not harm
all the days of her life.
13 She looks out for wool and flax
and works them with eager hands.
14 She is like the merchant ships;
she brings her food from far away.
15 While it is yet dark she is up, setting out food for her house
and a share for her young women.
16 She looks a field over and acquires it;
with what her hands have earned she puts in a vineyard.
17 She wraps her waist in strength and makes her arms strong.
18 She can taste that her dealings turn a profit;
all night her lamp stays lit.
19 She puts her hands to the distaff,
and her palms grasp the spindle.

20 Her palm is spread out to the poor;
her hands stretch toward the needy.
21 She has no fear of snow for her household,
for all her household are clothed in scarlet.[e] 22 She weaves bed coverings for herself;
she is dressed in fine linen and purple.
23 Her husband is known in the gates
when he takes his seat among the elders of the land.
24 She makes linen garments and sells them
and supplies sashes to the merchant.
25 She is clothed in strength and dignity,
and she smiles at the future.
26 She opens her mouth with wisdom,
and the teaching of loyal love[f] is on her tongue.
27 She keeps watch over the doings of her household and does not eat the bread of idleness.
28 Her sons stand up and bless her;
her husband joins in her praise:
29 "Many daughters have done valiantly,
but you surpass them all."
30 Charm is deceptive and beauty is a breath,[g]
but a woman who fears Yahweh—she shall be praised.
31 Give her the fruit of her hands,
and let her works praise her in the gates.

Notes

- a (31:1) Lemuel means "belonging to God." He is otherwise unknown; the Septuagint does not read a name here (see the next note).
- b (31:1) Hebrew massa'; or "king of Massa," the north Arabian people mentioned at 30:1. The Septuagint reads "My words have been spoken by God, the oracular answer of a king, whom his mother instructed," and places 31:1–9 after 30:33 within chapter 24.
- c (31:8) Or "who are left desolate"; literally "children of passing away."
- d (31:10) Hebrew 'eshet chayil, a woman of strength, ability, and worth, the phrase used of Ruth (Ruth 3:11) and at 12:4. Verses 10–31 are an alphabetic acrostic: each verse begins with the next of the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet, from aleph in verse 10 through bet (11), gimel (12), dalet (13), he (14), vav (15), zayin

(16), het (17), tet (18), yod (19), kaf (20), lamed (21), mem (22), nun (23), samekh (24), ayin (25), pe (26), tsade (27), qof (28), resh (29), and shin (30), to tav in verse 31. In the Septuagint this poem follows chapter 29.

- e (31:21) Or, with the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses, "in double garments."
- f (31:26) Hebrew torat chesed; or "kindly instruction."
- g (31:30) Hebrew hevel, "vapor, breath," the key word of Ecclesiastes.

Ecclesiastes

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The words of Qoheleth,[a] son of David,[b] king in Jerusalem.
2 A breath of breaths,[c] says Qoheleth,
  a breath of breaths! Everything is a breath.
3 What does a person gain from all the toil
  he labors at under the sun?
4 One generation leaves and another arrives,
  yet the earth stays put forever.
5 The sun comes up and the sun goes down;
  it pants back to its place, where it rises again.
6 Blowing toward the south,
  then swinging round toward the north,
  round and round goes the wind,
  and on its rounds the wind comes back.
7 All the streams flow into the sea,
  yet the sea is never full.
  To the place where the streams flow,
  there they keep on flowing.
8 All things are wearisome,
  more than anyone can say.
  The eye never has its fill of seeing,
  nor is the ear filled up with hearing.
9 Whatever was, will be again,
  whatever was done will be done once more;
  nothing is new beneath the sun.
10 Is there a thing of which someone says,
  “Look, this is new”?
  It already existed in the ages
  that were before our time.

11 No one remembers those who came first,
and those yet to come
will not be remembered either
by the ones who come after them.
12 I, Qoheleth, was king over Israel in Jerusalem.
13 I set my mind to seek and to explore by wisdom everything that is done under the heavens. It is a grim task that God has given human beings to keep them busy.
14 I have observed everything done under the sun, and it is all vapor, like trying to catch the wind.[d]
15 What is bent no one can straighten,
and what is missing no one can number.
16 I said to myself, "Look, I have grown great and gathered more wisdom than all who ruled Jerusalem before me; my mind has taken in a wealth of wisdom and knowledge."
17 So I set my mind to understand wisdom, and to understand madness and folly.[e] I came to see that this too is a chasing after wind.
18 For with much wisdom comes much grief,
and whoever adds to knowledge adds to pain.

Notes

- a (1:1) Hebrew Qoheleth, a feminine participle from qahal, "assembly": one who gathers or addresses an assembly, or perhaps one who gathers sayings (12:9). It is traditionally rendered "the Preacher" or "the Teacher"; the Greek title Ekklesiastes means "member of an assembly" or "speaker in an assembly." It is kept untranslated here as the speaker's title or pen name; in 12:8 it takes the article ("the Qoheleth").
- b (1:1) David means "beloved."
- c (1:2) Hebrew hevel habalim. Hevel means "breath" or "vapor," something real but brief and impossible to grasp, and so "fleeting," "futile," or "absurd" depending on context; it is traditionally rendered "vanity" (Septuagint mataiotes). It is rendered "a breath" throughout this book so that its 38 occurrences can be traced and readers can weigh its sense in each place. "A breath of breaths" is a Hebrew superlative: "the most fleeting of breaths."
- d (1:14) Or "a feeding on wind" or "a striving after wind"; the Hebrew reʿut ruach is uncertain. The same phrase occurs in 2:11, 17, 26; 4:4, 6; 6:9.
- e (1:17) The Septuagint reads "parables and understanding" for "madness and folly."

Chapter 2

1 I said to myself, "Come on, I will test you with pleasure; enjoy what is good." But that too turned out to be a breath. 2 Of laughter I said,
"It is mad," and of pleasure, "What does it accomplish?" 3 I searched with my mind for a way to cheer my body with wine, while my mind still guided me with wisdom, and a way to grasp folly, until I could discover what is worth doing for people during their short lives under heaven.
4 I undertook great works: houses I built for myself, vineyards I planted for myself. 5 I made myself gardens and parks[a] and planted every kind of fruit tree in them. 6 I made myself pools of water to irrigate a forest of growing trees. 7 I acquired male and female slaves, and I had slaves born in my household. I also owned more herds and flocks than all who were before me in Jerusalem. 8 I piled up silver and gold for myself, the treasure of kings and provinces. I got myself male and female singers and the delights of mortals: many concubines.[b] 9
So I became great, surpassing all who were before me in Jerusalem, and my wisdom stayed with me. 10 Whatever my eyes asked for, I did not withhold from them. I kept no joy from my heart, for my heart found joy in all my labor, and that was my portion from all my labor.
11 Then I turned to survey all the works my hands had made and the labor I had put into making them, and see, it was all a breath and a chasing after wind. There was no gain under the sun.
12 So I turned to consider wisdom, madness, and folly. For what can the one who comes after the king do? Only what has already been done.[c] 13 I saw that wisdom has the advantage over folly, as light has the advantage over darkness.
14 The wise have eyes in their heads,
but the fool walks in the dark.
Yet I also came to know that one fate befalls them both.
15 So I said to myself, "The fool's fate will be mine as well. Why then have I been so very wise?" And I told myself that this too is a breath.
16 For the wise, like the fool, will not be remembered for long; in the days to come both will long since be forgotten. How the wise die just like fools!

17 So I came to hate life, since what is done under the sun weighed on me as evil. For everything is a breath and a chasing after wind.
18 I hated all the toil I had toiled at under the sun, because I must leave it to whoever comes after me. 19 And who knows whether he will be wise or a fool? Yet he will be master of everything I worked for and used my wisdom to gain under the sun. This too is a breath. 20 So I turned and let my heart sink into despair over all the toil I had labored at under the sun. 21 For here is someone whose labor was done with wisdom, knowledge, and skill, and he must hand over his portion to someone who did not labor for it. This too is a breath and a great evil.
22 What do people get for all their toil and the striving of their hearts with which they labor under the sun? 23 All their days are pain, and their work is vexation; even at night their minds find no rest. This too is a breath.
24 There is nothing better for a person than to eat and drink and to find good in his toil. This too, I saw, is from the hand of God. 25 For who can eat or who can enjoy anything apart from him?[d] 26 To the one who pleases him God gives wisdom, knowledge, and joy, but to the sinner he assigns the business of collecting and heaping up, so that it may be passed on to whoever is good in God's sight. This too is a breath and a chasing after wind.

Notes

- a (2:5) Hebrew pardesim, a Persian loanword for walled parks or orchards, the source of the English word "paradise."
- b (2:8) Hebrew shiddah wesiddoth, an obscure phrase found only here; it is often taken as "many concubines," but the Septuagint reads "a butler and female cupbearers."
- c (2:12) The Hebrew of the second half is difficult; literally "What is the man who will come after the king? That which they have already done."
- d (2:25) So the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses; the Masoretic Text reads "apart from me." "Enjoy" may also mean "worry" or "have sensation."

Chapter 3

1 For everything there is an appointed time,
and a season for every matter under the heavens:

2 a time to be born and a time to die,
  a time to plant and a time to pull up what was planted;
3 a time to kill and a time to heal,
  a time to tear down and a time to build up;
4 a time to weep and a time to laugh,
  a time to mourn and a time to dance;
5 a time to throw stones and a time to gather stones,[a]
  a time to embrace and a time to hold back from embracing;
6 a time to seek and a time to let go,
  a time to hold on and a time to discard;
7 a time to rip and a time to stitch,
  a time to keep silent and a time to speak;
8 a time to love and a time to hate,
  a time for war and a time for peace.
9 What does the worker gain from his toil?
10 I have seen the task God has given human beings to keep them occupied.
11 He has made everything beautiful in its time. He has also set eternity[b] in their hearts, yet in such a way that they cannot grasp what God has done from beginning to end.
12 I know that there is nothing better for them than to rejoice and to do good[c] as long as they live.
13 And also, that everyone should eat and drink and find good in all his toil: this is God's gift.
14 I know that whatever God does lasts forever. Nothing can be added to it and nothing taken from it. God has done this so that people will stand in awe of him.
15 Whatever is, has already been,
  and what will be has already been,
  and God seeks out what has been driven away.[d]
16 I also noticed something under the sun: where justice should be, there was wickedness, and where righteousness should be, there was wickedness. 17 I told myself, "God will judge both the righteous and the wicked, for there is a season for every affair and every action."[e]

18 I told myself concerning humans, “God is testing them so they will see that they are no more than animals.” 19 For the fate of humans and the fate of beasts is one fate. The death of one is like the death of the other; one breath[f] is in them all. Humans have no edge over beasts, for everything is a breath. 20 All go to one place. All come from the dust, and to dust all return. 21 Who can say whether a human spirit goes up while an animal’s spirit goes down to the earth?[g] 22 So I saw that there is nothing better than for a person to rejoice in his work, for that is his lot. For who can bring him to see what will happen after him?

Notes

- a (3:5) The meaning of this pair is uncertain: perhaps clearing a field and building a wall, or a sexual euphemism, as the next line may suggest.
- b (3:11) Hebrew haʿolam; or “a sense of the ages” or, with a different vowel, “ignorance.”
- c (3:12) Or “to enjoy themselves.”
- d (3:15) Or “what has passed”; literally “what is pursued.”
- e (3:17) The Hebrew “there” is unexpected; some read “he has appointed” with a slight change of vowels.
- f (3:19) Hebrew ruach, “breath” or “spirit,” a different word from hevel.
- g (3:21) So the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses; the Masoretic vowels read “Who knows the spirit of humans that rises upward…?”

Chapter 4

1 Once more I surveyed all the oppression practiced under the sun.
Here are the oppressed in tears, and nobody to console them! Their oppressors had force on their side, and nobody to console the victims.
2 So I counted the dead, who died long ago, more fortunate than the living, who are still alive. 3 But better off than both is the one who has never yet been, who has not seen the evil deeds done under the sun.
4 And I saw that all toil and all skillful work come from one person’s rivalry with another. This too is a breath and a chasing after wind.
5 The fool folds his hands
and devours his own flesh.
6 Better one handful with quiet
than two fistfuls with toil and a chasing after wind.
7 Again I saw a breath under the sun:

8 There is someone all alone, with no companion, neither son nor brother, yet his toil never ends, and his eyes never have enough of wealth. “For whom am I toiling,” he asks, “and depriving myself of good things?” This too is a breath, a miserable business.
9 Two are better than one,
because together they earn a good return for their toil.
10 If they fall, one can lift up his partner.
But pity the one who falls with no one to help him up!
11 Again, when two sleep side by side, they have warmth,
but one by himself, how can he get warm?
12 Where one may be overpowered, two can make a stand,
and a cord of three strands is not quickly snapped.
13 Better a poor but wise youth than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to take advice. 14 For the youth went from prison to the throne, though he had been born poor in that kingdom.[a] 15 I saw all the living who move about under the sun throng to the youth, the second one, who would rise up in the king’s place. 16 There was no end to all the people he led,[b] yet those who come later will not be pleased with him. This too is a breath and a chasing after wind.

Notes

- a (4:14) The Hebrew of verses 13–16 is allusive, and it is not always clear which figure is meant by “he.”
- b (4:16) Or “all who went before them”; literally “all who were before them.”

Chapter 5

1 Watch your step[a] when you go to the house of God. To draw near and listen is better than for fools to offer a sacrifice, for they do not know that they are doing wrong.[b] 2 Don’t be hasty with your mouth,
or quick to speak a word in front of God.
God is in heaven and you are on earth,
so keep your words few.
3 For a dream comes with much busyness,
and a fool’s voice with many words.

4 When you vow a vow to God, do not put off paying it, for he takes no pleasure in fools. Pay what you vow.
5 Not vowing is better than vowing and not paying.
6 Do not let your speech lead your body[c] into sin, and do not tell the temple messenger[d] it was an accident. Why make God furious with your words and destroy what you have worked for?
7 For with many dreams come breaths and a flood of words.[e] Rather, fear God.
8 If you see the poor oppressed and justice and right violated in a province, do not be astonished at the matter. For one official is watched by a higher one, and still higher ones are over them. 9 But the gain from the land is for all; a king is served by the cultivated field.[f] 10 Whoever loves silver is never satisfied with silver,
nor whoever loves wealth with its income.
This too is a breath.
11 When goods increase,
so do those who consume them.
And what does their owner gain
except the sight of them with his eyes?
12 Sweet is the worker's sleep,
whether he eats little or much,
but the rich man's plenty
will not let him sleep.
13 There is a sickening evil I have seen under the sun: riches hoarded by their owner to his own harm. 14 Those riches are lost in a bad venture, and when he fathers a son, nothing is left in his hand.[g] 15 As he came out of his mother's womb, naked he will go back, just as he came. He will take nothing for his toil that he can carry away in his hand. 16 This too is a sickening evil: exactly as he came, so he will go.
What does he gain from toiling for the wind? 17 All his days he also eats in darkness, with much vexation, sickness, and anger.[h] 18 Here is what I have seen to be good: it is fitting for a person to eat and drink and enjoy good in all the toil he labors at beneath the sun for the number of days God grants him to live, for that is his lot. 19
Also, everyone to whom God has given riches and possessions, and the power to enjoy them, to accept his lot and rejoice in his toil, this is a gift of God. 20 For he will not dwell much on the days of his life, because God keeps him occupied with the joy of his heart.

Notes

- a (5:1) In Hebrew this verse is 4:17, and verses 2–20 are 5:1–19. The Ketiv reads "your feet."
- b (5:1) Or "for they do not know how to do anything but wrong."
- c (5:6) Hebrew "flesh."
- d (5:6) Probably a temple official or priest; the Septuagint reads "before God."
- e (5:7) Or "For in many dreams and many words there are breaths." The Hebrew is uncertain.
- f (5:9) The Hebrew of this verse is obscure.
- g (5:14) Hebrew 5:13–17 (English 5:14–18) is partly preserved in 4QQoh-a, the oldest known manuscript of Ecclesiastes (about 175–150 BC).
- h (5:17) The Septuagint reads "and mourning" for "he eats," a similar-looking Hebrew word.

Chapter 6

1 There is an evil I have seen under the sun, and it weighs heavily on humankind: 2 someone to whom God gives riches, possessions, and honor, so that he lacks nothing he could wish for, yet God does not give him the power to enjoy them; a stranger enjoys them instead. This is a breath and a sickening evil. 3 Suppose someone has a hundred children and lives for many years, however long his life may last, but he never enjoys his prosperity[a] and is not even buried properly; I say a stillborn baby is better off than he. 4 For it comes in a breath and departs in darkness, and in darkness its name is covered.[b] 5 It has not seen the sun or known anything, yet it has more rest than he does. 6 Even if he lived a thousand years twice over but did not enjoy good,[c] do not all go to one place?

7 All the toil of humankind is for the mouth,
yet the appetite is never filled.

8 For what advantage have the wise over fools?
What does the poor man gain by knowing how to conduct himself before the living?

9 Better what the eyes can see than the roving of desire.
This too is a breath and a chasing after wind.
10 Whatever came into existence was named long ago, and what humanity is has been understood: no one is able to argue a case with someone stronger. 11 The more words, the more breath. What advantage is that to anyone? 12 Who knows what is good for a human being in life, during the few days of a fleeting life,[d] which passes like a shadow? Who can say what will happen on earth after he is gone?

Notes

- a (6:3) In 4QQoh-a (about 175–150 BC) the words of the opening clauses of this verse appear in a different order, without change in meaning.
- b (6:4) In 4QQoh-a the original scribe wrote "and in darkness his name is covered," referring to the man; a later scribe corrected it to agree with the Masoretic Text.
- c (6:6) 4QQoh-a uses some different words in this verse, with the same meaning.
- d (6:12) Literally "the days of the life of his breath."

Chapter 7

1 A good name is better than fine perfume,[a]
and the day of death than the day of birth.
2 Better to go to a house of mourning
than to a house of feasting,
for that is the end of everyone,
and the living should take it to heart.
3 Grief is better than laughter,
for a sad face may mean a glad heart.
4 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning,
but the heart of fools is in the house of pleasure.
5 Better to heed the rebuke of the wise
than to listen to the song of fools.
6 For like the crackle of thorns under a pot,[b]
so is the laughter of the fool.
This too is a breath.
7 Surely extortion turns the wise into fools,
and a bribe corrupts the heart.[c]

8 The end of a thing is better than its start;
patience of spirit is better than pride of spirit.
9 Do not be quick in spirit to take offense,
for resentment lodges in the bosom of fools.
10 Do not ask, "How is it that former days were better than these?"
For it is not wisdom that prompts this question.
11 Wisdom is good together with an inheritance,
a benefit to those who see the sun.
12 For wisdom is a shelter as money is a shelter,
and the benefit of knowing is that wisdom keeps its owner alive.
13 Consider the work of God:
who can straighten what he has bent?
14 In a good day, enjoy the good,
and in a bad day, reflect:
God made this day as well as that,
so that no one can find out anything that will come after him.
15 In my fleeting days[d] I have seen both: a righteous person perishing in his righteousness, and a wicked person living long in his wickedness.
16 Do not be too righteous, and do not make yourself overly wise. Why destroy yourself?
17 Do not be too wicked, and do not play the fool. Why should you die before your time?
18 It is good to hold on to the one and not let go of the other, for whoever fears God will come through both.[e]
19 Wisdom makes the wise stronger[f]
than ten rulers in a city.
20 Surely there is no one on earth so righteous that he does good and never sins.
21 Also, do not pay attention to everything that is said, or you may overhear your servant cursing you.
22 For your own heart knows how often you too have cursed others.
23 All this I tested by wisdom. I said, "I will be wise," but it was far from me. 24 Whatever has come to be is distant and deep, deep indeed; who can fathom it? 25 I set my mind to know, to investigate, and to look for wisdom and the explanation of things,[g] and to recognize the stupidity of wickedness and the madness of folly. 26 And I find more bitter than death the woman who is a snare, whose heart is nets and whose hands are chains. Whoever pleases God escapes her, but the sinner is caught by her. 27 "See, this is what I found," says Qoheleth,[h]

"adding one thing to another to find the sum, 28 which I keep searching for but have not found: I found one upright man in a thousand, but among all of them I found not one upright woman. 29 Only see, this I did find: God made human beings upright, but they have sought out many schemes."

Notes

- a (7:1) The Hebrew has a wordplay: shem, "name," and shemen, "oil" or "perfume."
- b (7:6) Another wordplay: sirim, "thorns," under the sir, "pot."
- c (7:7) Hebrew mattanah, "gift," here in the sense of a bribe. 4QQoh-a may have a different verb in the first line.
- d (7:15) Hebrew "days of my breath."
- e (7:18) Or "will avoid both extremes."
- f (7:19) So the Masoretic Text, "makes strong"; 4QQoh-a and the Septuagint read "helps."
- g (7:25) Hebrew heshbon, "account" or "reckoning," also in verse 27.
- h (7:27) The Hebrew has the verb in the feminine, "she says, Qoheleth"; dividing the letters differently gives "says the Qoheleth," as in 12:8, a reading supported by the Septuagint.

Chapter 8

1 Who is like the wise?
  Who knows how to explain a matter?
  Wisdom lights up a person's face
  and softens its hardness.[a]

2 I say:[b] obey the king's command, because of the oath you swore before God. 3 Do not hurry to leave his presence, and do not persist in a bad cause, for he does whatever he likes. 4 Since the king's word is supreme, who can say to him, "What are you doing?" 5 Whoever keeps the command will come to no harm, and a wise heart knows the proper time and procedure. 6 For every matter has its time and procedure, though human trouble lies heavy on a person. 7 No one knows what is to come; who can tell anyone how it will turn out? [8]

No one has power over the wind[c] to restrain it, nor power over the day of death. There is no discharge in wartime, and wickedness will not rescue those who practice it.
[9] All this I observed as I applied my mind to everything done under the sun, at a time when one person rules over another to his harm.
[10] I also saw the wicked given burial; they had come and gone from the holy place, and people forgot[d] them in the very city where they had acted that way. This too is vapor. [11] Because the sentence against an evil deed is not carried out quickly, people's hearts are fully set on doing evil. [12] A sinner may do evil a hundred times and still live long, yet I know that it will go well with those who fear God, because they stand in awe before him. [13] But things will not go well for the wicked, and his days will not stretch out like an evening shadow, because he does not fear God.
[14] There is a breath that occurs on earth: there are righteous people who get what the deeds of the wicked deserve, and wicked people who get what the deeds of the righteous deserve. I said that this too is a breath. [15] So I recommend enjoyment, because nothing is better for people under the sun than eating, drinking, and having a good time. That will stay with them in their work during the days of life God gives them under the sun.
[16] When I set my heart to know wisdom and to watch the business that goes on upon the earth, even going without sleep day and night, [17] then I saw all the work of God: no one can fathom the work that is done under the sun. However much people strive in searching, they will not find it out. Even if a wise person claims to know, he cannot discover it.

Notes

- a (8:1) Literally "and the strength of his face is changed"; the Septuagint reads "but a man of shameless face will be hated."
- b (8:2) The Hebrew "I" stands alone at the start of the verse; something may have dropped out.
- c (8:8) Or "the spirit" or "the breath of life."
- d (8:10) So the Masoretic Text; the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses read "praised," which differs by one Hebrew letter.

Chapter 9

1 I took all this to heart and tested it: that the righteous and the wise, and all their deeds, are in God's hands. Whether love or hatred lies in store, nobody knows; it all lies before them. 2 Everything is the same for everyone:[a] one fate for the righteous and the wicked, the good, the clean and the unclean, the one who sacrifices and the one who does not. As with the good person, so with the sinner; as with the one who swears an oath, so with the one who shrinks from swearing. 3 This is an evil in all that is done under the sun: that one fate comes to all.
Moreover, human hearts are full of evil, and madness is in their hearts while they live, and afterward they go to the dead. 4 But whoever is joined[b] to all the living has hope, for a live dog is better off than a dead lion. 5 For the living know that they will die, but the dead know nothing. They have no more reward, for even the memory of them is forgotten.[c] 6 Their love, their hate, and their jealousy have already vanished, and they will never again have a share in anything done under the sun.
7 Go, eat your bread with joy and drink your wine with a cheerful heart, for God has already approved what you do. 8 At all times wear white garments, and never let oil be missing from your head. 9 Enjoy life with the wife you love throughout your fleeting life that God has granted you under the sun, all your fleeting days,[d] since that is your reward in life and for the labor you do beneath the sun. 10 Whatever your hand finds to do, do it with all your strength, for there is no work or planning or knowledge or wisdom in Sheol,[e] where you are going.
11 Again I saw under the sun that the swift do not win the race, the mighty do not win the battle, the wise do not always have bread, the intelligent are not always rich, and the knowledgeable are not always favored; time and chance meet them all. 12 Indeed, no one knows his time. As fish are seized in an evil net and birds are gripped in a snare, so human beings are trapped at an evil time, when it drops on them without warning.
13 This also I saw as wisdom under the sun, and it struck me as great:

14 There was a small city with few men in it, and a great king came against it, surrounded it, and built great siegeworks against it.
15 Now in it lived a man, poor but wise, and by his wisdom he rescued the city. But no one gave a thought to that poor man.
16 So I said, "Wisdom is better than might," but the poor man's wisdom is despised, and his words go unheeded.
17 Words of the wise heard in calm are worth more than a fool-ruler's shouting.
18 Wisdom is better than weapons of war,
but one sinner destroys much good.

Notes

- a (9:2) The Septuagint reads "Vanity is in all" at the beginning of this verse, joining the last word of verse 1 to it and reading hevel, "a breath," for hakkol, "everything."
- b (9:4) So the Qere; the Ketiv reads "chosen."
- c (9:5) A wordplay in Hebrew: sakar, "reward," and zeker, "memory."
- d (9:9) Literally "all the days of the life of your breath… all the days of your breath." The Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses lack the repeated phrase.
- e (9:10) The realm of the dead; the Septuagint has "Hades."

Chapter 10

1 Dead flies make a perfumer's oil stink and ferment;
a little folly outweighs wisdom and honor.
2 The heart of the wise leans to the right hand,
the heart of the fool to the left.[a] 3 Even as the fool walks along the road, his sense fails him, and he shows everyone that he is a fool.
4 If the ruler's anger rises against you, do not leave your post,
for calmness lays great offenses to rest.
5 There is an evil I have seen under the sun, an error of the kind that comes from one in power:
6 folly is set in many high places, while the rich sit in lowly ones.
7 I have seen slaves on horseback and princes going on foot like slaves.
8 Whoever digs a pit may fall into it, and whoever breaks through a wall may be bitten by a snake.
9 One who cuts stone may be injured by it,
and one who chops wood may be endangered by it.

10 When the ax is dull and its blade is left unsharpened,
one has to swing harder;
but wisdom gives the edge that succeeds.
11 If the snake bites before it is charmed,
there is no profit for the charmer.[b] 12 Words from a wise mouth win favor,
but a fool's lips swallow him up.
13 What his mouth says starts out as folly,
and what it ends with is wicked madness.
14 The fool multiplies words, though no one knows what is to come;
who can tell anyone what will happen after him?
15 A fool's toil wears him out,
for he does not even know the way to town.
16 Woe to you, O land, when your king is a lad[c]
and your officials banquet at dawn!
17 Fortunate are you, land, whose king is from a noble family and whose officials eat at the right time,
for strength and not for drunkenness!
18 Through laziness the rafters sag,
and through idle hands the house leaks.
19 Feasts are made for laughter,
and wine cheers the living,
and money answers for everything.
20 Do not curse the king even in your private thoughts,[d]
and do not curse the wealthy even where you sleep,
for some bird of the skies will carry the sound,
some winged thing will tell the tale.

Notes

- a (10:2) The right hand stood for strength and favor, the left for weakness or misfortune.
- b (10:11) Literally "master of the tongue."
- c (10:16) Or "a servant." The Septuagint addresses a city here.
- d (10:20) Or "in your bed"; the Hebrew madda' may mean "knowledge" or, with a different reading, "bed."

Chapter 11

1 Send your bread out on the surface of the waters,
for after many days you will find it again.
2 Share a portion with seven, or even with eight,
for you cannot know what disaster may come on the earth.
3 When clouds are full,
they empty rain on the earth;
and whether a tree falls south or north,
wherever it falls, there it lies.
4 Whoever keeps watching the wind will never sow,
and whoever keeps studying the clouds will never reap.
5 As you cannot tell the way the wind[a] goes or how the bones form in the womb of a woman with child,
so you cannot grasp what God is doing,
he who makes it all.
6 Sow your seed in the morning,
and in the evening do not rest your hand,
for you do not know which will thrive, this or that,
or whether both alike will turn out well.
7 Sweet is the light,
and it is good for the eyes to look at the sun.
8 However many years a person lives, he should take joy in each of them, while remembering that the dark days will be many. Everything still to come is a breath.
9 Rejoice, young man, while you are young;
let your heart be glad in your early years.
Walk where your heart leads and after what your eyes behold,[b]
but know that over all these things
God will call you to account.
10 Drive grief out of your heart and keep harm away from your flesh,
for youth and its dark hair[c] are a breath.

Notes

- a (11:5) Or “the spirit” or “the life-breath,” entering the unborn child.
- b (11:9) The Septuagint reads “walk in the ways of your heart blameless, but not in the sight of your eyes.”
- c (11:10) Hebrew shacharuth, probably “the black hair” of youth, or “the dawn.”

Chapter 12

1 Remember your Creator[a] in the days of your youth,
before the bad days come
and the years approach of which you will say,
“I have no pleasure in them”;
2 before the sun and the light,
the moon and the stars grow dark,
and the clouds return after the rain;
3 on the day when the keepers of the house shake,
and the men of strength stoop,
and the grinders cease since they are few,
and the ones who gaze through the windows are darkened;[b] 4 when the street doors are closed and the grinding sound grows faint,
when people wake at the sound of a bird,
and all the singing girls are silenced;
5 when heights are frightening and dangers lurk along the way;
when the almond is in flower,[c]
the locust is weighed down,
and desire fails as the caper berry[d] does;
because the human goes to his eternal home,
and the mourners go about in the street;
6 before the silver cord is snapped[e]
and the bowl of gold is cracked,
and the pitcher smashed beside the spring,
and the wheel crushed at the cistern, 7 and the dust goes back to the ground it came from,
and the life breath[f] goes back to God who gave it.
8 “A breath of breaths,” says the Qoheleth;
“everything is a breath.”

9 Besides being wise, Qoheleth also taught the people knowledge, weighing, studying, and arranging many proverbs. 10 Qoheleth sought to find pleasing words and to write words of truth correctly. 11 The words of the wise are like goads, and the masters of collections are like nails driven firmly in; one Shepherd has given them. 12 And besides these, my son, take warning: to the making of many books
there is no end, and much poring over them exhausts the flesh.
13 The end of the matter, now that all has been heard: fear God and keep his commandments, for this is the whole of being human.[g] 14
For God will bring every deed into judgment, including everything hidden, whether good or evil.

Notes

- a (12:1) The Hebrew form is plural, probably a plural of majesty. Some interpreters hear a play on bor, "pit" (the grave), or be'er, "well" (one's wife, as in Proverbs 5:15–18).
- b (12:3) Verses 3–5 are often read as a picture of old age: trembling arms, bent legs, few teeth, failing eyes; or as a household in mourning.
- c (12:5) Its white blossoms are often taken as an image of white hair.
- d (12:5) Probably the caper plant, whose buds were thought to stir the appetite.
- e (12:6) So the Qere; the Ketiv reads "removed."
- f (12:7) Or "spirit," Hebrew ruach.
- g (12:13) Literally "for this is all of humanity" or "this is every person's duty."

Song of Songs

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The Song of Songs,[a] which is Solomon's.[b]
2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth,[c]
for your love[d] is better than wine.
3 Your oils have a pleasing scent;
your name is oil poured out.
That is why the young women love you.
4 Draw me after you; let us run!
The king has brought me into his chambers.
We will rejoice and delight in you;[e]
we will praise your love more than wine.
How right they are to love you!
5 Black am I, and lovely,
you daughters of Jerusalem,
dark as the tents of Kedar,[f]
as the hangings of Solomon.
6 Do not look down on me for being dark,
for the sun has burned me.
My brothers were furious with me;
they put me in charge of the vineyards,
but my own vineyard I neglected.
7 Tell me, my beloved,
where you pasture your flock,
where you rest them at noon?
Why should I wander like a veiled woman[g]
among your friends' flocks?
8 If you do not know, loveliest of women,
go out in the footprints of the sheep

and feed your kids
near the tents of the shepherds.[h]
9 To a mare among Pharaoh's chariots
I compare you, my darling.[i]
10 Lovely are your cheeks between the earrings,
your neck among the beads.
11 Earrings of gold we will make for you,
dotted with silver.[j]
12 While the king lay on his couch,
my nard[k] spread out its scent.
13 My beloved is to me a sachet of myrrh[l]
that lies all night between my breasts.
14 My beloved is to me a cluster of henna blossoms[m]
in the vineyards of En-gedi.[n] 15 Look at you, my darling, so beautiful, so beautiful! Your eyes are doves.[o]
16 How handsome you are, my beloved, how delightful![p]
Our couch is green and leafy;
17 the beams of our house are cedars,
our rafters are junipers.[q]

Notes

- a (1:1) A Hebrew way of saying "the finest song."
- b (1:1) Or "for Solomon" or "about Solomon." The name Shelomoh is connected with shalom, "peace."
- c (1:2) She speaks in verses 2–4, turning from "him" to "you." The Hebrew has no speaker labels; here and below they are inferred from the grammar.
- d (1:2) Hebrew dodim, "lovemaking" or "caresses"; also in verse 4. The Septuagint, reading the same letters differently, has "your breasts."
- e (1:4) The plural "we" may be the young women of verse 3 or the friends; "you" is masculine.
- f (1:5) Kedar, a tribe of the Syrian–Arabian desert, whose name may mean "dark"; their tents were woven of black goat hair.
- g (1:7) Perhaps veiled as a prostitute (compare Genesis 38:14–15); some ancient witnesses read "one who wanders."
- h (1:8) He replies in verse 8, or perhaps the friends.

- i (1:9) He speaks in verses 9–11. Hebrew raʿyati, “my companion,” his usual word for her in the Song. A mare loosed among chariot stallions was a famous image of distraction.
- j (1:11) The “we” here may be his companions or the friends.
- k (1:12) She speaks in verses 12–14. Nard, or spikenard, a costly perfume from a plant of the Himalayas.
- l (1:13) Myrrh, a fragrant resin from trees of Arabia and East Africa, worn in a small pouch.
- m (1:14) Henna, a shrub with fragrant clusters of white flowers, also used for dye.
- n (1:14) En-gedi, “spring of the young goat,” an oasis on the western shore of the Dead Sea.
- o (1:15) He speaks.
- p (1:16) She speaks in verses 16–17; some divide verse 17 between them.
- q (1:17) Or “firs” or “cypresses”; the exact tree is uncertain.

Chapter 2

1 I am a crocus[a] of Sharon,[b]
  a lily of the valleys.
2 As a lily among the brambles,
  so is my darling among the girls.[c]
3 Like an apple tree[d] among the trees of the forest,
  so is my beloved among the young men.[e]
  In his shade I delight to sit,
  and his fruit is sweet to my taste.
4 He has brought me to the house of wine,
  and his banner over me is love.
5 Revive me with raisin cakes,
  refresh me with apples,
  for I am faint with love.
6 His left hand is under my head,
  and his right hand embraces me.
7 I put you under oath, daughters of Jerusalem,
  by the gazelles, by the wild does:
  do not rouse, do not wake love
  until it wishes![f]
8 Hark! My beloved!
  See, he is coming,

springing across the mountains,
bounding over the hills.
9 My beloved is like a gazelle
or a fawn of the deer.
There he is, standing outside our wall,
looking in at the windows,
glancing through the latticework.
10 My beloved answers me and says,
"Up, my darling,
my beautiful one, come away, 11 for look, the winter is past;
the rain has ended and gone.
12 Blossoms appear in the land,
the season of singing[g] has come,
and the cooing of the turtledove
is heard in our land.
13 The fig tree ripens its early figs,
and the vines in bloom give off fragrance.
Arise, my darling,
my beautiful one, and come away.
14 My dove in the clefts of the rock,
in the hiding places of the cliff,
show me your form,
let your voice be heard,
for sweet is the sound of you and lovely the sight of you." 15 Seize the foxes for us,[h]
those little foxes
that spoil the vineyards
now that our vines are blossoming.
16 My beloved is mine and I am his;
he grazes among the lilies.
17 Until the day breathes
and the shadows slip away,
come back, my beloved, like a gazelle

or a fawn of the deer
on the cleft mountains.[i]

Notes

- a (2:1) She speaks. The flower is uncertain: crocus, narcissus, or some other meadow flower; the Septuagint has "a flower of the plain."
- b (2:1) Sharon, the coastal plain south of Mount Carmel, known for its pastures and wildflowers; the name means "plain."
- c (2:2) He speaks.
- d (2:3) Hebrew tappuach, perhaps the apple, apricot, or quince.
- e (2:3) She speaks in verses 3–17.
- f (2:7) A wordplay: tsevaoth, "gazelles," and 'ayloth hassadeh, "does of the field," sound like the divine titles "Yahweh of hosts" and "God Almighty" (El Shaddai), as though she swears by them in a veiled way. The Septuagint reads "by the powers and by the virtues of the field." The refrain returns in 3:5 and 8:4.
- g (2:12) Or "pruning," as in the Septuagint; Hebrew zamir can mean either.
- h (2:15) The speaker of verse 15 is uncertain; perhaps she quotes a song, or her brothers speak (compare 1:6).
- i (2:17) Or "the mountains of Bether," an unknown place, or "the mountains of spices" (compare 8:14). The Septuagint has "the mountains of the ravines."

Chapter 3

1 On my bed, night after night,[a]
I sought the one my soul loves;
I sought him but did not find him.
2 "I will rise now and go around the city,
through the streets and the squares;
I will seek the one my soul loves."
I sought him but did not find him.
3 The watchmen came upon me,
those who patrol the city.
"The one my soul loves: have you seen him?"
4 I had barely left them
when I met the man I love.
I grabbed him and refused to release him
until I brought him to my mother's home,
to the chamber of the woman who bore me.
5 I put you under oath, daughters of Jerusalem,
by the gazelles, by the wild does:

do not rouse, do not wake love
until it wishes!
6 Who is this coming up from the wilderness[b]
like columns of smoke,
perfumed with myrrh and frankincense,[c]
with all the powders of the merchant?
7 Look, it is Solomon's litter!
Sixty warriors surround it,
from the warriors of Israel,
8 all of them gripping swords,
trained in battle,
each with his sword at his thigh
against the terrors of the night.
9 King Solomon made himself a carriage[d]
of wood from Lebanon.[e]
10 Its posts he made of silver,
its back of gold,
its seat of purple wool,
its interior inlaid with love[f]
by the daughters of Jerusalem.
11 Come out, women of Zion,
and look at King Solomon
in the crown his mother set on him
at his wedding,
on the day his heart was glad.

Notes

- a (3:1) She speaks in verses 1–5. Literally "in the nights."
- b (3:6) The speaker of verses 6–11 is unstated: perhaps the friends or a narrator. "Who is this" is feminine in Hebrew, referring to the litter or to the bride.
- c (3:6) Frankincense, a white resin from trees of southern Arabia and Somalia, burned as incense.
- d (3:9) Hebrew 'appiryon, found only here, perhaps a loanword from Persian or Greek for a palanquin or sedan chair.
- e (3:9) Lebanon, "white," from its snowcapped peaks, famous for its cedars.
- f (3:10) Or "inlaid with leather," by a related Semitic word; the Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 4

1 Look at you, my darling, so lovely,[a]
so lovely!
Doves are your eyes
behind your veil.
Your hair is a flock of goats
streaming down the slopes of Gilead.[b] 2 Your teeth are like a flock of shorn ewes
come up from the washing,
every one of them bearing twins,
and none among them bereaved.
3 A scarlet ribbon, those lips of yours,
and lovely is your mouth.
Like a half of pomegranate
is your temple behind your veil.
4 Your neck is like the tower of David,
built in courses,[c]
with a thousand shields hung on it,
all the round shields of warriors.
5 Your breasts are two fawns,
a gazelle's twins,
grazing among the lilies.
6 Until the day breathes
and the shadows slip away,
I will go to the mountain of myrrh
and to the hill of frankincense.
7 You are beautiful through and through, my darling;
there is no flaw in you.
8 Come with me from Lebanon, my bride,[d]
come with me from Lebanon!
Descend from the peak of Amana,
from the summits of Senir and Hermon,[e]
from the dens of lions,
from the mountains of leopards.

9 You have made my heart race, my sister,[f] my bride;
you have made my heart race with one look from your eyes,
with one bead of your necklace.
10 How fine is your love, my sister, my bride!
How much better your love than wine,
and the scent of your oils than any spice!
11 Your lips drop honeycomb, my bride;
honey and milk lie beneath your tongue,
and your clothing smells like the cedars of Lebanon.
12 A garden locked up is my sister, my bride,
a spring[g] locked up, a fountain sealed.
13 Your shoots are an orchard[h] of pomegranates
with choicest fruits,
henna with nard,
14 nard and saffron,[i]
calamus[j] and cinnamon,
with every tree of frankincense,
myrrh and aloes,[k]
with all the finest spices.
15 You are a fountain in the gardens,
a well of living water,
streams flowing down from Lebanon.
16 Wake up, north wind;
come, south wind![l]
Blow on my garden,
let its spices flow out.
Let my beloved come into his garden
and eat its choicest fruits.

Notes

- a (4:1) He speaks in verses 1–15.
- b (4:1) Gilead, the hill country east of the Jordan, known for its pastures; the name may mean "heap of witness" (compare Genesis 31:47–48).
- c (4:4) Hebrew talpiyyoth, found only here; the meaning is uncertain: perhaps "in courses of stone," "for weapons," or "as a landmark."
- d (4:8) The Septuagint reads "Come from Lebanon, my bride." The Hebrew "with me" may be read with a slight change of vowels as "come."

- e (4:8) Amana, a peak in the Anti-Lebanon range; Senir, the Amorite name for Hermon (Deuteronomy 3:9), or a nearby peak. Hermon, the highest mountain of the region, about 9,200 feet (2,814 meters).
- f (4:9) "Sister" was a term of endearment for a beloved or bride in ancient Near Eastern love poetry; it does not imply kinship.
- g (4:12) Hebrew gal, perhaps "pool" or "spring"; the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses read gan, "garden," repeating the first line.
- h (4:13) Hebrew pardes, "park" or "orchard" (compare Ecclesiastes 2:5).
- i (4:14) Saffron, the dried stigmas of the crocus, used as a spice and dye.
- j (4:14) Calamus, a fragrant reed or cane imported from the east (compare Exodus 30:23).
- k (4:14) Aloes here means eaglewood, a fragrant Asian wood, not the medicinal aloe plant.
- l (4:16) She speaks in verse 16.

Chapter 5

1 I have come into my garden, my sister, my bride;[a]
I have gathered my myrrh with my spice;
I have eaten my honeycomb with my honey;
I have drunk my wine with my milk.
Eat, friends, and drink;
drink deep, lovers![b]
2 I slept, but my heart kept watch.[c]
Listen! My beloved knocks:
"Let me in, my sister, my darling,
my dove, my flawless one,
for my head is soaked with dew,
my curls with the night's moisture."
3 "I have removed my dress;
should I dress again?
I have washed my feet;
should I soil them?"
4 My beloved thrust his hand through the opening,[d]
and my insides stirred for him.
5 I got up to open to my beloved,
and my hands dripped with myrrh,

my fingers with liquid myrrh,
on the handles of the bolt.
6 I opened to my beloved,
but my beloved had turned and gone.
My soul went out of me when he spoke.[e]
I searched for him but could not find him;
I called him, but he gave no answer.
7 The watchmen who go around the city found me;
they struck me, they bruised me;
the guards of the walls
took my shawl from me.
8 I put you under oath, daughters of Jerusalem:
if you find my beloved,
what will you tell him?
That I am faint with love!
9 What makes your beloved better than any other,[f]
most beautiful of women?
What makes your beloved better than any other,
that you put us under oath like this?
10 My beloved is dazzling and ruddy,[g] one who stands out among ten thousand.
11 His head is finest gold;
his hair is in curls,[h]
black as a raven.
12 His eyes are doves
by the water brooks,
washed in milk,
sitting in their settings.[i] 13 His cheeks are like beds of spice, towers of perfumes.[j]
His lips are lilies
dripping liquid myrrh.
14 His arms are rods of gold set with jewels of Tarshish.[k]

His body is a panel of ivory covered with lapis lazuli.[l] 15 His legs are marble columns resting on golden bases.
He looks as majestic as Lebanon,
as stately as cedar trees.
16 His mouth is utter sweetness;
he is wholly desirable.
Such is my lover, such is my friend,
women of Jerusalem.

Notes

- a (5:1) He speaks in the first four lines.
- b (5:1) Or "drink deep of love." The speaker of these two lines is uncertain: the friends, a narrator, or he himself.
- c (5:2) She speaks in verses 2–8, recounting a dream-like night; he speaks in verse 2 and she answers in verse 3.
- d (5:4) Literally "through the hole," probably the keyhole or latch opening of the door.
- e (5:6) Or "when he turned away"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- f (5:9) The daughters of Jerusalem speak in verse 9.
- g (5:10) She answers in verses 10–16. Hebrew tsach, "radiant" or "shining."
- h (5:11) Hebrew taltallim, found only here, perhaps "like palm fronds" or "curly."
- i (5:12) Or "sitting by brimming pools"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- j (5:13) So the Masoretic Text; the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses read "pouring out perfumes," with a change of vowels.
- k (5:14) Tarshish, a distant port, perhaps in Spain; here probably a gemstone named for it, such as beryl or topaz.
- l (5:14) Literally "sapphires"; the ancient stone of that name was probably lapis lazuli.

Chapter 6

1 Where did your beloved go,[a] loveliest among women?
In what direction did your beloved turn,
that we may seek him along with you?
2 My beloved has gone down to his garden,[b]
to the beds of spice,

to graze in the gardens
and to gather lilies.
3 I am my beloved's and my beloved is mine;
he grazes among the lilies.
4 You are beautiful, my darling, as Tirzah,[c]
lovely as Jerusalem,
awe-inspiring as an army under banners.[d]
5 Turn your eyes away from me,
for they overwhelm me.
Your hair is a flock of goats
streaming down from Gilead.
6 Your teeth are a flock of ewes
come up from the washing,
every one of them bearing twins,
and none among them bereaved.
7 Like a half of pomegranate
is your temple behind your veil.
8 There may be sixty queens
and eighty concubines,
and young women past counting, 9 but my dove, my flawless one, is matchless,
her mother's only daughter,
the pride of the woman who bore her.
Young women saw her and declared her happy;
queens and concubines sang her praise:
10 "Who is she, gazing out like the morning,
lovely as the moon,[e]
radiant as the sun,
formidable as an army with banners?"
11 I went down to the nut grove[f]
to see the new growth of the valley,
to see whether the vine had budded
and the pomegranates were in bloom.
12 Before I knew it, my desire set me
among the chariots of my noble people.[g]

13 Turn around, turn around, O Shulammite![h]
Turn around, turn around, and let us look at you!
Why would you look at the Shulammite
as at the dance of the two camps?[i]

Notes

- a (6:1) The daughters of Jerusalem speak in verse 1.
- b (6:2) She speaks in verses 2–3.
- c (6:4) He speaks in verses 4–10. Tirzah, "she is pleasing," was a beautiful city and early royal capital of the northern kingdom (1 Kings 14:17; 16:23); the Septuagint translates the name as "Pleasure."
- d (6:4) Or "as the starry hosts"; the Hebrew nidgaloth is uncertain. Also in verse 10.
- e (6:10) The poetic words here are levanah, "the white one," for the moon, and chammah, "the hot one," for the sun.
- f (6:11) The speaker of verses 11–12 is uncertain, probably she, possibly he.
- g (6:12) Or "among the chariots of Amminadib," as a name, "my kinsman is noble"; the Septuagint has "the chariots of Aminadab." The Hebrew of this verse is among the most obscure in the book.
- h (6:13) In Hebrew this verse is 7:1, and 7:1–13 below are Hebrew 7:2–14. The friends call to her in the first two lines; she, or he, answers in the last two. Shulammite may mean "woman of Shulem" (perhaps Shunem, as in the Septuagint), or be a feminine form linked with Solomon and shalom, "the peaceful one."
- i (6:13) Or "the dance of Mahanaim," a town east of the Jordan whose name means "two camps" (Genesis 32:2).

Chapter 7

1 How beautiful your feet in sandals,[a]
O noble daughter![b]
The curves of your thighs are like jewelry,
the work of a master's hands.
2 Your navel is a round goblet
that never runs short of spiced wine.
Your waist is a mound of wheat
hedged about with lilies.
3 Your two breasts are like two fawns,
twins of a gazelle.
4 Your neck is like an ivory tower.
Your eyes are pools in Heshbon[c]
beside the gate of Bath-rabbim.[d]

Your nose is like the tower of Lebanon that looks out toward Damascus.
5 Your head sits on you like Carmel,[e]
your loose hair gleams like purple;[f]
a king is caught in their tresses.
6 How lovely you are, how delightful,
love, among all delights![g]
7 This stature of yours is like a palm tree,
and your breasts are its clusters.
8 I said, "I will climb the palm tree;
I will take hold of its fruit stalks."
May your breasts be like clusters of the vine,
the scent of your breath like apples, 9 and your mouth like the best wine flowing smoothly for my beloved,[h] gliding over the lips of sleepers.[i] 10 I am my beloved's,
and his desire is for me.
11 Come, my beloved,
let us go out to the countryside;
let us spend the night among the henna bushes.[j] 12 Let us go early to the vineyards
to see whether the vine has budded, whether its blossoms have opened
and the pomegranates are in flower.
There I will give you my love.
13 The mandrakes[k] breathe out their scent,
and at our doors are all the finest fruits,
fresh ones and stored ones,
that I have laid up for you, my beloved.

Notes

- a (7:1) He speaks in verses 1–9a, or the friends in verses 1–5. English 7:1–13 is Hebrew 7:2–14.
- b (7:1) Literally "daughter of a noble" or "prince's daughter."

- c (7:4) Heshbon, “reckoning,” a city east of the Jordan, in what is now Jordan, known for its reservoirs.
- d (7:4) Bath-rabbim, “daughter of many,” probably the name of a city gate.
- e (7:5) Carmel, “garden land” or “orchard,” the wooded ridge rising above the Mediterranean near modern Haifa.
- f (7:5) Purple dye, from the murex shell, was the costliest color in the ancient world.
- g (7:6) Or “O loved one, daughter of delights,” following some ancient witnesses with a different division of the Hebrew letters.
- h (7:9) She takes up his words in the last two lines and speaks in verses 10–13.
- i (7:9) So the Masoretic Text; the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses read “over my lips and teeth.”
- j (7:11) Or “in the villages”; Hebrew kefarim can mean either.
- k (7:13) Mandrakes, a plant with a fragrant yellow fruit, thought to stir love and fertility (compare Genesis 30:14–16).

Chapter 8

1 Oh, that you were like my own brother,[a]
one suckled at my mother’s breast!
Then if I met you outside, I could kiss you,
and no one would think less of me.
2 I would guide you and bring you to my mother’s home, where she would instruct me.[b]
I would give you spiced wine to drink,
the nectar of my pomegranates.
3 His left hand is under my head,
and his right hand embraces me.
4 I put you under oath, daughters of Jerusalem:
why rouse, why wake love
until it wishes?[c]
5 Who is this coming up from the wilderness,[d]
leaning on her beloved?
Under the apple tree I roused you;[e]
there your mother went into labor with you,
there she who bore you was in labor.
6 Set me as a seal over your heart,
as a seal on your arm,
for love is as fierce as death,

its passion[f] as unyielding as Sheol.
Its flashes are flashes of fire,
a flame of Yah.[g]
7 Many waters cannot put out love,
and rivers will not sweep it away.
If someone offered all the wealth of his house for love,
he would be utterly scorned.
8 We have a little sister,[h]
and she has no breasts yet.
What shall we do for our sister
on the day she is spoken for?
9 If she is a wall,
we will build on her a parapet of silver;
but if she is a door,
we will board her up with planks of cedar.
10 I was a wall,[i]
and my breasts were like towers.
So in his eyes I became like one who finds peace.[j] 11 Solomon had a vineyard at Baal-hamon;[k]
he let the vineyard out to keepers.
For its fruit each one owed him
twenty-five pounds of silver.[l]
12 My vineyard, my very own, is mine to give.
The twenty-five pounds are yours, Solomon,
and five pounds[m] for those who tend its fruit.
13 You who dwell in the gardens,[n]
friends are attentive to your voice;
let me be the one to hear it!
14 Hurry away, my beloved,[o]
and be like a gazelle
or a fawn of the deer
on the mountains of spices.

Notes

- a (8:1) She speaks in verses 1–4.

- b (8:2) Or, with the Septuagint and some other ancient witnesses, “into the room of the one who conceived me” (compare 3:4).
- c (8:4) The refrain of 2:7 and 3:5, here without the oath by gazelles and does, and phrased as a question.
- d (8:5) The friends speak in the first two lines.
- e (8:5) She speaks in verses 5b–7. In the Hebrew, “you” in this verse is masculine. The Septuagint begins this verse “Who is this that comes up all white.”
- f (8:6) Or “jealousy,” Hebrew qin’ah, the intense ardor of love.
- g (8:6) Hebrew shalhevetyah. The ending -yah may be the short form of the divine name, “a flame of Yahweh,” or it may simply intensify the word, “a mighty flame,” as Hebrew sometimes uses divine names for a superlative. This is the only possible mention of God in the Song.
- h (8:8) Her brothers speak in verses 8–9 (compare 1:6).
- i (8:10) She speaks in verses 10–12.
- j (8:10) Hebrew shalom, perhaps a wordplay on Solomon (Shelomoh) and the Shulammite (6:13).
- k (8:11) Baal-hamon, “owner of abundance” or “lord of a multitude,” an unknown place; the name may be symbolic.
- l (8:11) Hebrew “a thousand of silver,” that is, a thousand shekels, about 11.5 kilograms.
- m (8:12) Hebrew “two hundred,” that is, two hundred shekels of silver, about 2.3 kilograms.
- n (8:13) He speaks in verse 13; “you” is feminine.
- o (8:14) She speaks in verse 14 (compare 2:17).

Isaiah

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The vision of Isaiah the son of Amoz, which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah.[a] 2 Hear, O heavens, and give ear, O earth,
for Yahweh has spoken:
"I have nourished and brought up children,
and they have rebelled against me.
3 The ox knows his owner,
and the donkey the manger of its lord;
Israel has not known,
my people have not understood."
4 Ah, sinful nation,
a people heavy with iniquity,
offspring of evildoers,
children who deal corruptly!
They have forsaken Yahweh,
they have despised the Holy One of Israel,
they have turned away backward.[b]
5 Why will you still be struck,
that you revolt more and more?
The whole head is sick,
and the whole heart faint.
6 From the sole of the foot even to the head
there is no soundness in it,
but wounds and bruises and fresh sores;
they have not been pressed out, nor bound up,
nor softened with oil.

7 Your country is desolate,
your cities are burned with fire;
your land, strangers devour it in your presence,
and it is desolate, as overthrown by strangers.[c]
8 Zion's daughter remains like a lean-to in a vineyard,
like a watchman's hut in a melon patch,
like a town under blockade.[d] 9 Unless Yahweh of Armies had left to us a small remnant,
we would have been as Sodom,
we would have been like Gomorrah.[e]
10 Hear the word of Yahweh,
you rulers of Sodom;
give ear to the law of our God,
you people of Gomorrah![f]
11 "What to me is the multitude of your sacrifices?" says Yahweh.
"I have had my fill of burnt offerings of rams and the fat of fed beasts;
and I take no delight in the blood of bulls,
or of lambs, or of he-goats.
12 When you come to stand in front of me,
who asked this of you,
this trampling of my courts?
13 Bring no more vain offerings;
incense is an abomination to me.
New moon and sabbath, the calling of assemblies—
I cannot endure iniquity along with the solemn meeting.
14 Your new moons and your appointed feasts my soul hates;
they are a burden to me;
I am weary of bearing them.
15 And when you spread forth your hands,
I will hide my eyes from you;
yes, when you make many prayers, I will not hear;
your hands are full of blood.[g]

16 Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean;
put away the evil of your doings from before my eyes;
cease to do evil;
17 learn to do good;
seek justice, set right the oppressor;
judge the fatherless, plead for the widow."[h] 18 "Come now, and let us reason together," says Yahweh:
"Though your sins are as scarlet,
they shall be as white as snow;
though they are red like crimson,
they shall be as wool.[i] 19 If you consent and listen,
the best of the land you shall eat;
20 but if you refuse and are rebellious,
by the sword you shall be eaten;
for the mouth of Yahweh has spoken."
21 How the faithful city has become a harlot!
She that was full of justice!
Righteousness lodged in her,
but now murderers.
22 Your silver has become dross,
your wine mixed with water.
23 Your rulers are rebels
and partners of thieves.
Every one of them loves bribes
and chases after payoffs.
They do not defend the orphan,
and the widow's case never reaches them.
24 Therefore says the Lord, Yahweh of Armies,
the Mighty One of Israel:[j]
"Ah, I will ease myself of my adversaries,
and avenge myself on my enemies.
25 And I will bring my hand back upon you,
and refine your dross as with lye,
and will take away all your alloy.[k]

26 I will bring back your judges as they were at first,
and your advisers as they were in the beginning.
After that you will be called the City of Righteousness,
the Faithful City."
27 Zion shall be redeemed with justice,
and her returning ones with righteousness.[l] 28 But the crushing of transgressors and sinners shall be together, and those who forsake Yahweh shall be consumed.
29 You will be ashamed of the oak trees you wanted,
and embarrassed by the gardens you chose.[m] 30 For you shall be as an oak whose leaf withers,
and as a garden that has no water.
31 The strong person will become kindling,
his work a spark;
both will burn together,
and no one will put them out.[n]

Notes

- a (1:1) Isaiah, Hebrew Yesha'yahu, "Yahweh is salvation"; Amoz, "strong" (not the prophet Amos, a different name in Hebrew). Uzziah, "my strength is Yahweh"; Jotham, "Yahweh is perfect"; Ahaz, "he has grasped"; Hezekiah, "Yahweh strengthens." Their reigns span about 790–686 BC; Uzziah died about 740 BC (6:1). Judah, perhaps "praised"; Jerusalem, perhaps "foundation of Shalem (peace)."
- b (1:4) The Holy One of Israel, Isaiah's characteristic title for God (about twenty-five times in the book). Israel, "God strives" or "he strives with God."
- c (1:7) Hebrew "as the overthrow of strangers"; some propose "as the overthrow of Sodom" (sedom for zarim), compare verses 9–10. The Great Isaiah Scroll (1QIsa-a) adds "upon it."
- d (1:8) Zion, the hill of Jerusalem, meaning uncertain (perhaps "fortress"); "daughter of Zion" personifies the city. The cucumber field's lodge was a watchman's hut.
- e (1:9) Hebrew YHWH Tseva'ot, traditionally "the LORD of hosts." Tseva'ot means "armies" or "hosts," whether the armies of Israel, the stars, or the heavenly beings; the title presents Yahweh as commander of every power in heaven and earth. Sodom and Gomorrah, the cities destroyed in Genesis 19; meanings uncertain. Compare Romans 9:29.
- f (1:10) Or "instruction" (torah), here prophetic teaching.
- g (1:15) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "your fingers with iniquity" (compare 59:3).
- h (1:17) Or "correct the ruthless"; the Septuagint reads "deliver him that is suffering wrong." The Hebrew hamots is uncertain.

- i (1:18) Or “Though your sins are as scarlet, shall they be white as snow?” The Hebrew may be read as a question.
- j (1:24) Hebrew ha’adon, “the Lord” (the master). “Mighty One of Israel,” Hebrew ’avir yisra’el; compare Genesis 49:24 (“Mighty One of Jacob”).
- k (1:25) Or “purge away … as with potash.” Alloy, or “tin” or “lead,” the base metals separated in refining.
- l (1:27) Or “her repentant ones.”
- m (1:29) The oaks (or terebinths) and gardens were sites of the fertility cults.
- n (1:31) Or “the strong man”; or, with a change of vowels, “your strength” (so the Great Isaiah Scroll, “your strength … your work”).

Chapter 2

1 The word that Isaiah the son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.
2 And it shall come to pass in the latter days
that the mountain of the house of Yahweh shall be established at the top of the mountains,
and shall be exalted above the hills;
and all the nations shall stream to it.[a]
3 And many peoples shall go and say,
“Come, and let us go up to the mountain of Yahweh,
to the house of the God of Jacob;
and he will teach us from his ways,
and we will walk in his paths.”
For the law shall go out from Zion,
and the word of Yahweh from Jerusalem.[b] 4 He will settle disputes among the nations and arbitrate for many peoples;
they will hammer their swords into plowshares
and their spears into pruning knives;
one nation will not raise a sword against another,
and they will never train for war again.
5 House of Jacob, come,
let us walk in Yahweh’s light.
6 For you have forsaken your people, the house of Jacob,
because they are filled with customs from the east,

and are soothsayers like the Philistines,
and they strike hands with the children of foreigners.[c]
7 Their land also is full of silver and gold,
and there is no end of their treasures;
their land also is full of horses,
and there is no end of their chariots.
8 Their land also is full of idols;
they worship the work of their own hands,
that which their own fingers have made.[d] 9 And man is bowed down,
and each one is brought low;
and do not forgive them![e]
10 Enter into the rock,
and hide in the dust,
from before the terror of Yahweh,
and from the splendor of his majesty.[f]
11 The lofty looks of man shall be brought low,
and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down,
and Yahweh alone shall be exalted in that day.
12 For Yahweh of Armies has a day against all that is proud and lofty,
and against all that is lifted up, and it shall be brought low;
13 and against all the cedars of Lebanon,
that are high and lifted up,
and against all the oaks of Bashan;[g] 14 and against all the high mountains,
and against all the hills that are lifted up;
15 and against every lofty tower,
and against every wall made strong;
16 and against all the ships of Tarshish,
and against all the pleasant craft.[h]
17 And the loftiness of man shall be bowed down,
and the haughtiness of men shall be brought low;
and Yahweh alone shall be exalted in that day.
18 And the idols shall utterly pass away.

19 And men shall go into the caves of the rocks,
and into the holes of the earth,
from before the terror of Yahweh,
and from the splendor of his majesty,
when he arises to shake the earth with terror.
20 In that day men shall cast away their idols of silver and their idols of gold,
which they made for themselves to worship,
to the moles and to the bats;[i] 21 to go into the clefts of the rocks,
and into the crevices of the crags,
from before the terror of Yahweh,
and from the splendor of his majesty,
when he arises to shake the earth with terror.
22 Stop trusting in man, who has but breath in his nostrils;
for at what is he to be valued?[j]

Notes

- a (2:2) Verses 2–4 appear also, with small differences, at Micah 4:1–3.
- b (2:3) Jacob, "he grasps the heel" or "he supplants," here the people descended from him. Or "instruction."
- c (2:6) Hebrew "they are filled from the east"; perhaps "filled with diviners from the east" (one word may have dropped out). Philistines, the people of the southern coastal plain. "Strike hands," that is, make pacts or bargains.
- d (2:8) Hebrew 'elilim, a scornful word for idols, sounding like 'elohim ("God") and meaning "nothings" or "worthless things."
- e (2:9) Or "and you cannot raise them up." The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks this last line ("and do not forgive them") and all of verse 10; the Septuagint has both.
- f (2:10) Compare Revelation 6:15–16.
- g (2:13) Lebanon, "white," the snow-capped mountain range north of Israel; Bashan, the fertile highlands east of the Sea of Galilee.
- h (2:16) Tarshish, a distant port in the west, perhaps Tartessus in Spain; "ships of Tarshish" were large seagoing ships. "Pleasant craft," a rare Hebrew word, perhaps "beautiful vessels"; the Septuagint reads "every ship of the sea, and … every display of fine ships."
- i (2:20) Hebrew "to the dig-rats" (lahpor peroth), a word or words of uncertain meaning, probably moles or shrews; the Great Isaiah Scroll writes it as one word.
- j (2:22) The Septuagint lacks this verse; the Great Isaiah Scroll has it.

Chapter 3

1 For behold, the Lord, Yahweh of Armies, takes away from Jerusalem and from Judah
support and supply,
all the support of bread,
and all the support of water;[a] 2 the warrior and the man of battle,
judge and prophet,
diviner and elder,
3 the commander of fifty and the man held in honor,
the counselor and the one wise in crafts,
and the one skilled in enchantment.
4 And I will give boys to be their princes,
and capricious ones shall rule over them.[b]
5 And the people shall oppress one another, man against man, and each against his neighbor;
the youth shall behave himself proudly against the old man,
and the base against the honorable.
6 A man will seize his brother in his father's house, saying,
"You have a coat; you be our leader,
and take charge of this heap of ruins"—
7 in that day he shall lift up his voice, saying,
"I will not be a binder of wounds;
for in my house is neither bread nor cloak;
you shall not make me ruler of the people."
8 For Jerusalem has stumbled, and Judah has fallen, because their tongue and their doings are against Yahweh,
to defy the eyes of his glory.[c] 9 Their very expressions accuse them,
and they announce their sin like Sodom;
they do not conceal it.
How terrible for them!
They have done harm to themselves.

10 Say of the righteous that it shall be well with him,
for they shall eat the fruit of their deeds.
11 Woe to the wicked man! Evil is his lot;
for the dealing of his own hands shall be rendered to him.[d] 12 My people are oppressed by children,
and women rule over them.
My people, your guides lead you astray
and confuse the path you walk.[e] 13 Yahweh stands up to plead,
and stands to judge the peoples.[f]
14 Yahweh will enter into judgment with the elders of his people and their princes:
"It is you who have eaten up the vineyard;
the spoil of the poor is in your houses.
15 How dare you crush my people and grind down the faces of the poor?"
says the Lord, Yahweh of Armies.
16 Moreover Yahweh said:
"Because the daughters of Zion are proud,
and go about with necks stretched out
and glancing eyes,
tripping along as they walk,
and jingling with their feet;
17 therefore the Lord will afflict with scabs
the heads of Zion's daughters, and Yahweh will lay bare their secret parts."[g]
18 In that day the Lord will take away the finery of the anklets, and the headbands, and the crescents;[h]
19 the pendants, and the bracelets, and the veils;
20 the headdresses, and the ankle chains, and the sashes, and the perfume boxes, and the amulets;
21 the rings, and the nose jewels;
22 the festal robes, and the mantles, and the shawls, and the purses;
23 the mirrors, and the fine linen, and the turbans, and the veils.

24 Then instead of perfume there will be a stench;
instead of a sash, a rope;
instead of styled hair, baldness;
instead of fine clothing, sackcloth;
and a brand instead of beauty.[i] 25 Your men shall fall by the sword,
and your mighty ones in the war.
26 And her gates shall lament and mourn;
and she, emptied, shall sit upon the ground.

Notes

- a (3:1) Hebrew ha'adon, "the Lord." "Support and supply," Hebrew mash'en umash'enah, masculine and feminine forms of one word: "every kind of support."
- b (3:4) Or "infants" or "wanton tyranny." The Hebrew ta'alulim is uncertain.
- c (3:8) Or "to rebel against his glorious presence."
- d (3:11) Hebrew "the dealing of his hands"; the Great Isaiah Scroll reads "shall return to him."
- e (3:12) The Septuagint reads "your exactors strip you, and extortioners rule over you," perhaps taking the Hebrew as nosim ("creditors") instead of nashim ("women"). "Swallow up," or "confuse."
- f (3:13) The Septuagint reads "his people"; Hebrew "peoples."
- g (3:17) Or "their foreheads"; the Hebrew poth is uncertain. In verses 17–18 the Great Isaiah Scroll interchanges 'Adonai ("Lord") and Yahweh, with scribal corrections above the line.
- h (3:18) Many of the items in verses 18–23 are rare words whose exact sense is uncertain.
- i (3:24) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds a word: "for instead of beauty, shame." "Branding" (ki) may refer to the branding of slaves; some take it as the conjunction "for."

Chapter 4

1 And seven women shall take hold of one man in that day, saying,
"We will eat our own bread and wear our own clothing;
only let us be called by your name;
take away our reproach."
2 In that day the sprout of Yahweh shall be for beauty and for glory, and the fruit of the land for pride and for splendor to the escaped of Israel.[a]

3 And it shall come to pass that he who is left in Zion and he who remains in Jerusalem shall be called holy, every one who is written for life in Jerusalem,
4 when the Lord shall have washed away the filth of the daughters of Zion, and shall have purged the bloodstains of Jerusalem from its midst by the spirit of judgment and by the spirit of burning.[b] 5 And Yahweh will create over the whole site of Mount Zion and over her assemblies a cloud and smoke by day, and the shining of a flaming fire by night; for over all the glory there shall be a canopy.[c] 6 And there shall be a booth for a shade in the daytime from the heat, and for a refuge and a shelter from storm and from rain.

Notes

- a (4:2) Or "the sprout of Yahweh"; compare 11:1; Jeremiah 23:5; Zechariah 3:8. The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "and Judah" after "Israel."
- b (4:4) Or "of destruction." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "of storm" (saʿar for baʿer).
- c (4:5) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the words from "and smoke" in verse 5 through "a shade in the daytime" in verse 6, probably by a copyist's eye skipping from one similar word to another.

Chapter 5

1 Now I will sing to my well-beloved
a song of my beloved about his vineyard:
My well-beloved had a vineyard
on a very fruitful hill.[a] 2 He dug it up and gathered out its stones,
and planted it with the finest vine,
and built a tower in the midst of it,
and also hewed out a winepress in it;
and he looked for it to yield grapes,
and it yielded wild grapes.[b]
3 "And now, O inhabitants of Jerusalem and men of Judah, judge, I pray you, between me and my vineyard.
4 What more was there to do for my vineyard,
that I have not done in it?
Why, when I looked for it to yield grapes,
did it yield wild grapes?

5 Now let me tell you what I am going to do to my vineyard:
I will remove its hedge, and it will be eaten up;
I will tear down its wall, and it will be trampled.
6 I will turn it into a ruin;
no one will prune or hoe it,
but briers and thorns will take over;
I will also command the clouds not to send rain on it."
7 For the vineyard of Yahweh of Armies is the house of Israel,
and the men of Judah his pleasant planting;
and he looked for justice, but behold, bloodshed;
for righteousness, but behold, a cry![c]
8 Woe to those who join house to house,
who add field to field,
until there is no room,
and you are made to dwell alone in the midst of the land!
9 In my ears Yahweh of Armies has sworn:
"Surely many houses shall be desolate,
great and fair, without inhabitant.[d]
10 For ten acres of vineyard shall yield about six gallons, and six bushels of seed shall yield about half a bushel."[e] 11 Woe to those who rise up early in the morning,
that they may follow strong drink;
who tarry late into the night,
till wine inflames them!
12 And the lyre and the harp, the tambourine and the flute, and wine are at their feasts;
but they do not regard the work of Yahweh,
nor see the deeds of his hands.
13 Therefore my people go into exile for lack of knowledge;
and their honored men are famished,
and their multitude is parched with thirst.
14 Therefore Sheol has enlarged her appetite,
and opened her mouth without measure;

and their glory and their multitude and their tumult go down into it,
and he who exults among them.[f]
15 And man is bowed down, and each one is brought low,
and the eyes of the lofty are brought low.
16 But Yahweh of Armies is exalted in justice,
and God the Holy One shows himself holy in righteousness.
17 Then the lambs shall graze as in their pasture, and strangers shall eat among the ruins of the fat ones.[g] 18 Woe to those who draw iniquity with cords of falsehood,
and sin as with cart ropes;
19 who say, "Let him make speed, let him hasten his work,
that we may see it;
and let the counsel of the Holy One of Israel draw near and come,
that we may know it!"
20 Woe to those who call evil good, and good evil;
who put darkness for light, and light for darkness;
who put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter!
21 Woe to those who are wise in their own eyes,
and prudent in their own sight!
22 Woe to those who are mighty at drinking wine,
and valiant men at mixing strong drink;
23 who justify the wicked for a bribe,
and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him!
24 Therefore, as flames lick up stubble
and dry grass shrivels in the fire,
so their roots will decay,
and their blossoms will drift off like dust.
They have rejected the teaching of Yahweh of Armies and despised the word of Israel's Holy One.[h] 25 Therefore the anger of Yahweh is kindled against his people, and he has stretched out his hand against them and struck them;
and the mountains trembled,
and their dead bodies became like refuse in the streets.

For all this his anger has not turned back,
but his hand is stretched out still.[i] 26 And he will lift up a banner to the nations from far away,
and will whistle for them from the end of the earth;
and behold, they shall come with speed, swiftly.
27 None shall be weary nor stumble among them;
none shall slumber nor sleep;
neither shall the girdle of their loins be loosed,
nor the thong of their sandals be broken; 28 whose arrows are sharp,
and all their bows bent;
their horses' hoofs are counted like flint,
and their wheels like a whirlwind.
29 Their roaring shall be like a lioness,
they shall roar like young lions;
they shall growl and lay hold of the prey,
and carry it off, and none shall deliver.
30 And they shall growl over it in that day
like the roaring of the sea;
and if one gazes at the land,
behold, darkness, distress;
even the light grows dark in its clouds.

Notes

- a (5:1) Or "the song of my beloved." Hebrew "on a horn, a son of oil," that is, a fertile hillside.
- b (5:2) Hebrew be'ushim, "stinking things," that is, rotten or worthless grapes.
- c (5:7) A wordplay: "justice" (mishpat) but "bloodshed" (mispah); "righteousness" (tsedaqah) but "a cry" (tse'aqah), the outcry of the oppressed.
- d (5:9) Hebrew "In my ears, Yahweh of Armies"; "has sworn" is supplied (compare 22:14). The Septuagint reads "these things have reached the ears of the Lord of hosts."
- e (5:10) Hebrew "ten yokes of vineyard," the land ten teams of oxen could plow in a day, "shall yield one bath, and a homer of seed shall yield an ephah." A bath was about 6 gallons (22 liters); a homer about 6 bushels (220 liters); an ephah about 3/5 bushel (22 liters), a tenth of the seed sown.
- f (5:14) Sheol, the realm of the dead; the Septuagint reads Hades.

- g (5:17) "The fat ones," that is, the rich. For gerim, "strangers," some read gedayim, "kids." The Septuagint reads "lambs shall feed on the waste places of them that are taken away."
- h (5:24) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "and flaming fire" for "and dry grass in the flame."
- i (5:25) This refrain recurs at 9:12, 17, 21; 10:4.

Chapter 6

1 In the year that King Uzziah died I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple.[a] 2 Above him stood the seraphim. Each one had six wings: with two he covered his face, and with two he covered his feet, and with two he flew.[b]
3 And one called to another and said:
"Holy, holy, holy is Yahweh of Armies;
the whole earth is full of his glory!"[c] 4 And the foundations of the thresholds shook at the voice of him who called, and the house was filled with smoke.
5 Then I said, "Woe is me, for I am undone! For I am a man unclean of lips, and in the midst of a people unclean of lips I dwell; and the King, Yahweh of Armies, my eyes have seen!"[d] 6 Then one of the seraphim flew to me. In his hand was a glowing coal that he had taken from the altar with tongs. 7 And he touched my mouth with it and said,
"Behold, this has touched your lips; and your iniquity is taken away,
and your sin is atoned for."
8 Then I heard the Lord's voice say, "Whom shall I send? And who will go for us?" And I said, "Here I am! Send me." 9 And he said, "Go, and say to this people:
'Hear indeed, but do not understand;
and see indeed, but do not perceive.'
10 Make fat the heart of this people,
make heavy their ears,
and smear over their eyes;
so that they may not see with their eyes,
nor hear with their ears,

nor their heart understand,
and they turn and be healed."[e] 11 Then I said, "Lord, how long?" And he answered:
"Until cities lie waste without inhabitant,
and houses without man,
and the land is utterly desolate, 12 and Yahweh has removed men far away,
and the forsaken places are many in the midst of the land.
13 If a tenth is still left in it,
that too will be burned,
like a terebinth or an oak
that leaves a stump after it is felled.
The holy seed is the stump."[f]

Notes

- a (6:1) About 740 BC. "The Lord," Hebrew 'Adonai. "Train," the skirts of his robe. Compare John 12:41.
- b (6:2) Seraphim, "burning ones," heavenly beings; the word is also used of serpents (14:29; 30:6; Numbers 21:6). "Feet" may be a modest term for the lower body.
- c (6:3) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Holy, holy" (twice). Compare Revelation 4:8.
- d (6:5) Or "I am silenced" or "I am ruined."
- e (6:10) Verses 9–10 are quoted in Matthew 13:14–15; Mark 4:12; John 12:40; Acts 28:26–27, largely following the Septuagint, which reads "For the heart of this people has become fat." In verse 10 the Great Isaiah Scroll reads hashem for hashmen ("make fat"), perhaps a shortened spelling, or "appall," as some have proposed.
- f (6:13) Or "at its felling." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads mushleket, "cast down," for beshalleket, "at its felling," and bamah for bam ("in them"); the sense is uncertain. The Septuagint lacks the last line.

Chapter 7

1 And it came to pass in the days of Ahaz the son of Jotham, the son of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Rezin the king of Syria and Pekah the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, went up to Jerusalem to make war against it, but could not prevail against it.[a] 2 And it was told the house of David, saying, "Syria has settled upon Ephraim." And his heart and the heart of his people shook as the trees of the forest shake before the wind.[b]

3 Then Yahweh said to Isaiah, "Go out now to meet Ahaz, you and Shear-jashub your son, at the end of the conduit of the upper pool, on the highway to the washers' field;[c] 4 and say to him, 'Be careful and keep still; have no fear, neither let your heart be faint because of these two stubs of smoldering firebrands, at the hot anger of Rezin and Syria and Remaliah's son.
5 Aram has hatched an evil plan against you—and so have Ephraim and Remaliah's son—saying, 6 "Let's invade Judah, terrify it, split it open for ourselves, and make the son of Tabeel king over it,"[d] 7 thus says the Lord Yahweh:
"It shall not stand,
neither shall it come to pass.[e]
8 For the head of Syria is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin.
And within sixty-five years
Ephraim shall be shattered from being a people.[f] 9 And Samaria is the head of Ephraim,
and Remaliah's son is the head of Samaria.
If you will not hold firm in trust,
surely you will not be held firm."'"[g]
10 And Yahweh spoke again to Ahaz, saying, 11 "Ask a sign of Yahweh your God; ask it either in the depth below or in the height above."[h]
12 But Ahaz said, "I will not ask, neither will I put Yahweh to the test."
13 And he said, "Listen, house of David! Is it too little for you to tire men out, that you will tire out my God as well?
14 Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign:
Behold, the young woman shall conceive and bear a son,
and shall call his name Immanuel.[i] 15 Butter and honey shall he eat, when he knows to refuse the evil and choose the good.[j] 16 For before the child knows to refuse the evil and choose the good,
the land whose two kings you dread shall be forsaken.

17 Yahweh will bring on you and on your people and on the house of your father such days

as have not come from the day when Ephraim broke away from Judah—the king of Assyria."[k]

18 On that day Yahweh will whistle for the flies at the far ends of Egypt's rivers, and for the bees in the land of Assyria. 19 And they shall come and shall rest, all of them, in the steep ravines, and in the clefts of the rocks, and upon all thornbushes, and upon all watering places.[l] 20 In that day the Lord will shave with a razor that is hired beyond the River—with the king of Assyria—the head and the hair of the feet; and it shall also sweep away the beard.[m] 21 And it shall come to pass in that day that a man shall keep alive a young cow and two sheep; 22 and it shall come to pass, for the abundance of milk that they give, he shall eat butter; for butter and honey shall every one eat who is left in the midst of the land. 23 And it shall come to pass in that day that every place where there were a thousand vines, worth about twenty-five pounds of silver, shall become briers and thorns.[n] 24 With arrows and with bow shall one come there, because all the land shall become briers and thorns. 25 And as for all the hills that were dug with the hoe, you shall not come there for fear of briers and thorns; but it shall be a place for sending out oxen and for the treading of sheep.

Notes

- a (7:1) Ahaz reigned about 735–715 BC. Rezin, perhaps "delight," the last king of Aram (Syria) at Damascus; Pekah, "opened (eyes)"; Remaliah, perhaps "Yahweh has adorned." This is the Syro-Ephraimite war of about 734 BC; compare 2 Kings 16:5.
- b (7:2) Hebrew Aram, the Aramean kingdom of Damascus. Ephraim, "doubly fruitful," here the northern kingdom of Israel. "Settled upon," or "is allied with." David, "beloved."
- c (7:3) Shear-jashub, "a remnant shall return" (compare 10:21–22). Or "the fuller's field." Compare 36:2.
- d (7:6) Tabeel, "God is good," here with a pun on "good for nothing" (tav'al); perhaps an Aramean candidate for the throne.
- e (7:7) Hebrew 'Adonai YHWH.
- f (7:8) Damascus, the capital of Aram. Samaria (verse 9), the capital of the northern kingdom, fell to Assyria in 722 BC; the sixty-five years may reckon to the resettlement of the land (compare 2 Kings 17:24; Ezra 4:2).

- g (7:9) A wordplay: "If you will not be firm (ta'aminu), you shall not be made firm (te'amenu)."
- h (7:11) Or "make it deep as Sheol," reading she'alah as she'olah.
- i (7:14) Hebrew ha'almah, "the young woman," a girl of marriageable age, unmarried or newly married; it is not the usual Hebrew word for a virgin (betulah), and it does not of itself say whether she is a virgin. Or "is with child and is about to bear a son." The Septuagint, made about two centuries before Christ, renders the word parthenos, ordinarily "virgin," and Matthew 1:23 quotes the Septuagint ("Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and they shall call his name Immanuel") of the birth of Jesus. The second-century Jewish Greek translations of Aquila, Symmachus, and Theodotion are reported by early Christian writers to have read neanis, "young woman." Immanuel, 'immanu 'el, "God is with us" (compare 8:8, 10). "Shall call," or "you shall call"; the Septuagint reads "you shall call," and the Great Isaiah Scroll "he shall call" (or "one shall call"). The Great Isaiah Scroll also reads Yahweh for 'Adonai ("the Lord").
- j (7:15) Or "curds and honey," the food of a land returned to pasture (verse 22). "When he knows," or "so that he may know."
- k (7:17) Assyria, the great power of upper Mesopotamia, with its capital at Nineveh.
- l (7:19) Or "all the pastures."
- m (7:20) The River, the Euphrates. "The hair of the feet," the body hair; shaving was a mark of humiliation (2 Samuel 10:4).
- n (7:23) Hebrew "a thousand of silver," that is, a thousand shekels, about 25 pounds (11.5 kilograms).

Chapter 8

1 Yahweh said to me, "Take a large tablet and write on it in ordinary letters, 'Belonging to Maher-shalal-hash-baz.'[a] 2 And I will take for myself faithful witnesses to testify, Uriah the priest and Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah."[b] 3 And I went to the prophetess, and she conceived and bore a son. Then Yahweh said to me, "Call his name Mahershalal-hash-baz;[c] 4 for before the child knows how to cry 'My father' and 'My mother,' the riches of Damascus and the spoil of Samaria shall be carried away before the king of Assyria."
5 And Yahweh spoke to me yet again, saying,
6 "Because this people has refused
the waters of Shiloah that go softly,
and rejoices in Rezin and the son of Remaliah;[d] 7 now therefore, behold, the Lord brings up upon them
the waters of the River, strong and many,

the king of Assyria and all his glory;
and it shall come up over all its channels,
and go over all its banks;
8 and it shall sweep on into Judah;
it shall overflow and pass through;
it shall reach even to the neck;
and the spreading of its wings shall fill the breadth of your land, O Immanuel."[e]
9 Be broken, O peoples, and be shattered; give ear, all you of far countries;
gird yourselves, and be shattered;
gird yourselves, and be shattered.[f]
10 Take counsel together, and it shall come to nothing;
speak the word, and it shall not stand;
for God is with us.[g]
11 For thus Yahweh spoke to me with a strong hand, and warned me not to walk in the way of this people, saying,[h]
12 "Do not call conspiracy
all that this people calls conspiracy;
neither fear what they fear,
nor be in dread.[i] 13 Yahweh of Armies, him shall you regard as holy;
he is the one for you to fear,
he is the one for you to dread.
14 And he shall become a holy place;
but a stone to strike against and a rock to trip over for the two houses of Israel, a trap and a snare
to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.[j] 15 And many shall stumble on it,
and fall and be broken,
and be snared and be taken."
16 Bind up the testimony;
seal the law among my disciples.[k]

17 And I will wait for Yahweh, who hides his face from the house of Jacob,
and I will look for him.
18 Behold, I and the children whom Yahweh has given me are for signs and for wonders in Israel from Yahweh of Armies, who dwells on Mount Zion.[l]
19 And when they say to you, "Seek the mediums and the spiritists who chirp and mutter," is it not to its God that a people should inquire?
On behalf of the living, should they inquire of the dead?[m] 20 To the law and to the testimony! Surely those who do not speak according to this word have no dawn.[n] 21 And they shall pass through it, hard pressed and hungry; and it shall come to pass that when they are hungry they shall fret themselves, and curse their king and their God, and turn their faces upward; 22 and they shall look to the earth, and behold, distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish; and into thick darkness they shall be thrust.[o]

Notes

- a (8:1) Hebrew "with the stylus of a man," that is, in ordinary script. Maher-shalal-hash-baz, "the spoil speeds, the prey hastens," foretelling the plundering of Damascus and Samaria (verse 4).
- b (8:2) Uriah, "Yahweh is my light," the priest of 2 Kings 16:10–16; Zechariah, "Yahweh remembers"; Jeberechiah, "Yahweh blesses." "I will take," so the Hebrew; the Great Isaiah Scroll and the Septuagint read imperatives ("take for me" / "make … witnesses").
- c (8:3) The prophetess, probably Isaiah's wife.
- d (8:6) Shiloah, "sent," the gentle stream from the Gihon spring (compare Siloam, John 9:7), a symbol of the quiet rule of the house of David. "Rejoices in," the sense of the Hebrew is uncertain.
- e (8:8) Immanuel, "God is with us"; see 7:14.
- f (8:9) The Septuagint reads "Know, O nations"; some read "Be joined together" for "Be broken." The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the last line.
- g (8:10) Hebrew ʻimmanu ʼel, "God is with us," the name of 7:14.
- h (8:11) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "and he turned me aside from walking" for "and warned me."
- i (8:12) Or "what they reverence." Compare 1 Peter 3:14–15.
- j (8:14) Compare Romans 9:33; 1 Peter 2:8.
- k (8:16) Or "instruction" (torah), here Isaiah's teaching.
- l (8:18) Compare Hebrews 2:13.

- m (8:19) Hebrew ’ovot and yidd‘onim, those who consulted ghosts and the spirits of the dead; compare Leviticus 19:31; 1 Samuel 28.
- n (8:20) Or “surely they shall speak according to this word, for which there is no dawn.” The Hebrew is difficult.
- o (8:22) In the Hebrew text 8:23 begins with the first line of English 9:1.

Chapter 9

1 Yet the gloom will lift from the land that was in anguish. At first he brought shame on the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, but afterward he has made glorious the road by the sea, beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations.[a] 2 People who walked in the dark have seen a great light.
For the inhabitants of a land of gloomy shadow,
light has begun to shine.[b] 3 You have made the nation larger and increased its happiness;
they celebrate in your presence as people do at harvest,
as they shout with joy when dividing plunder.[c] 4 For the yoke of his burden,
and the bar across his shoulder,
the rod of his taskmaster,
you have broken as on the day of Midian.[d] 5 For every boot of the warrior that tramped in the tumult,
and every cloak rolled in blood,
shall be for burning, food for the fire.
6 A child is born to us, and a son is given to us;
authority is on his shoulder,
and his name will be Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God,
Eternal Father, Prince of Peace.[e]
7 Of the increase of his rule and of peace
there shall be no end,
upon the throne of David and over his kingdom,
to establish it and to uphold it with justice and with righteousness

from now on and forever.
The zeal of Yahweh of Armies will do this.[f]
8 A word the Lord sent into Jacob,
and it has fallen upon Israel;[g]
9 and all the people shall know it,
Ephraim and the inhabitant of Samaria,
who say in pride and in arrogance of heart:
10 "Bricks have fallen down,
but with hewn stone we will build;
sycamores are felled,
but cedars we will set in their stead."[h] 11 So Yahweh raises the foes of Rezin against him,
and spurs on his enemies,
12 Syria in front and the Philistines behind;
and they eat up Israel with gaping mouth.
For all this his anger has not turned back,
and his hand is stretched out still.[i] 13 Yet the people have not turned to him who struck them, nor have they sought Yahweh of Armies.
14 So Yahweh cuts off from Israel head and tail,
palm branch and reed, in one day—15 the elder and the man of rank, he is the head;
and the prophet who teaches lies, he is the tail.
16 For those who lead this people lead them astray,
and those who are led by them are swallowed up.[j] 17 So the Lord takes no pleasure in their young men and shows no pity to their orphans and widows,
for all of them are ungodly and do evil,
and every mouth utters nonsense.
Despite all this, his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is still raised.[k] 18 Wickedness blazes like a fire that devours thorns and briers;
it ignites the dense forest,
and the smoke swirls upward in a column.

19 Through the wrath of Yahweh of Armies the land is scorched,
and the people are like food for the fire;
no man spares his brother.[l]
20 They slice meat on the right, and are still hungry;
they eat on the left, and are not satisfied;
each devours the flesh of his own arm,[m] 21 Manasseh devours Ephraim, and Ephraim devours Manasseh, and together they turn on Judah.
Despite all this, his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is still raised.[n]

Notes

- a (9:1) This verse is 8:23 in the Hebrew, and English 9:2–21 are Hebrew 9:1–20. Zebulun, "honor" or "dwelling"; Naphtali, "my wrestling"; Galilee, "circle" or "district," here the region of the nations around Israel's north. Or "Galilee of the Gentiles." Verses 1–2 are quoted in Matthew 4:15–16 of the ministry of Jesus in Galilee.
- b (9:2) Or "deep darkness."
- c (9:3) The Hebrew written text (ketiv) reads "you have not made great its joy"; the text as traditionally read aloud (qere) has "to it" (lo) for "not" (lo'), as here. The Great Isaiah Scroll has the written form, "not."
- d (9:4) Midian, "strife"; the day of Gideon's victory over Midian (Judges 7). The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Madim."
- e (9:6) Hebrew pele' yo'ets, 'el gibbor, 'avi'ad, sar shalom; or "a Wonder of a Counselor," "God the Warrior" (compare 10:21, where 'el gibbor is God himself), "Father forever." Some, following medieval Jewish interpretation, take the long name as a sentence describing God who gives the child ("the Wonderful Counselor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, calls him Prince of Peace"). The Septuagint reads "and his name is called the Messenger of great counsel, for I will bring peace upon the princes." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Prince of the peace" and "and he called." In the Hebrew this is 9:5.
- f (9:7) In the traditional Hebrew text the first word (lemarbeh, "of the increase") is written with a final form of the letter mem in the middle of the word, a feature long discussed by interpreters; the Great Isaiah Scroll writes it normally. David, "beloved."
- g (9:8) The Septuagint reads "The Lord has sent death" (dever, "pestilence," for davar, "word").
- h (9:10) Or "sycamore figs," a common, cheap timber.
- i (9:12) Hebrew Aram from the front and the Philistines from behind, that is, east and west. The Septuagint reads "Syria from the rising of the sun, and the Greeks from the setting of the sun." Compare 5:25.

- j (9:16) Or “confused.”
- k (9:17) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “does not spare” (yahmol for yismah).
- l (9:19) Or “is shaken” or “burned up”; the Hebrew neʿtam is uncertain.
- m (9:20) Or, with some, “the flesh of his neighbor” (reʿo for zeroʿo). Manasseh, “causing to forget”; Ephraim, “doubly fruitful,” the two great tribes of the northern kingdom.
- n (9:21) See 5:25.

Chapter 10

1 Woe to those who decree unjust decrees,
and the writers who keep writing oppression,
2 to turn aside the needy from justice,
and to rob the poor of my people of their right,
so that widows become their spoil,
and they plunder the fatherless!
3 What will you do on the day of punishment,
and in the ruin that comes from afar?
To whom will you flee for help,
and where will you leave your wealth?[a] 4 Nothing remains but to crouch among the prisoners,
or to fall among the slain.
For all this his anger has not turned back,
and his hand is stretched out still.[b]
5 Woe to Assyria, the rod of my anger!
The staff in their hand is my fury.[c]
6 I send him against an ungodly nation,
I order him against a people who anger me,
to seize loot and take plunder
and to stomp on them like mud in the streets.
7 But this is not what he means,
nor is it what his heart devises;
but to destroy is in his heart,
and to cut off many nations.
8 For he says:
“Are my princes not every one of them kings?

9 Is Calno not as Carchemish?
Is Hamath not as Arpad?
Is Samaria not as Damascus?[d]
10 As my hand has reached the kingdoms of the idols, whose carved images were more than those of Jerusalem and of Samaria, 11 shall I not do to Jerusalem and her images
as I have done to Samaria and her idols?"
12 But when the Lord completes everything he is doing against Mount Zion and Jerusalem, I will punish the king of Assyria for the fruit of his proud heart and for his arrogant, haughty eyes.[e]
13 For he says:
"By the strength of my hand I have done it,
and by my wisdom, for I have understanding;
I have removed the borders of peoples,
and plundered their treasures;
and like a mighty one I have brought down those who sat on thrones.[f] 14 My hand has found the riches of the peoples
as one finds a nest;
and as men gather abandoned eggs,
so I have gathered all the earth;
and there was none that moved a wing,
or opened a mouth, or chirped."
15 Does the axe brag against the one who chops with it?
Does the saw boast over the one who saws with it?
It would be like a rod swinging the person who lifts it,
or a staff raising someone who is not made of wood![g] 16 Therefore the Lord, Yahweh of Armies, will send wasting sickness among his fat ones;
and under his glory a burning shall be kindled,
like the burning of fire.[h] 17 And the Light of Israel shall become a fire,
and his Holy One a flame;

and it shall burn and devour
his thorns and his briers in one day.
18 And the glory of his forest and of his fruitful field
he will consume, both soul and body;
and it shall be as when a sick man wastes away.[i] 19 And the rest of the trees of his forest shall be few,
so that a child could write them down.
20 And it shall come to pass in that day that the remnant of Israel, and the survivors of the house of Jacob, shall no more lean upon him who struck them, but shall lean upon Yahweh, the Holy One of Israel, in truth.
21 A remnant shall return, the remnant of Jacob,
to the Mighty God.[j]
22 For though your people Israel be as the sand of the sea,
only a remnant of them shall return.
Destruction is decreed,
overflowing with righteousness.[k]
23 For the Lord, Yahweh of Armies, will bring about destruction, just as determined, throughout the whole land.[l]
24 Therefore this is what the Lord, Yahweh of Armies, says: "My people who live in Zion, do not fear Assyria, though he hits you with a rod and raises his staff against you, as Egypt did.[m] 25 For in a very little while the indignation will come to an end, and my anger will turn to their destruction. 26 Yahweh of Armies will lash him with a whip, like the slaughter of Midian at the rock of Oreb; he will lift his staff over the sea as he did in Egypt.[n] 27 And it shall come to pass in that day that his burden shall depart from your shoulder, and his yoke from your neck; and the yoke shall be broken because of fatness."[o]
28 He has come to Aiath;
he has passed through Migron;
at Michmash he stores his baggage.[p] 29 They have gone across the ravine;
"Geba shall be our lodging," they say;

Ramah is afraid;
Saul's Gibeah is fleeing.[q]
30 Cry aloud with your voice, O daughter of Gallim!
Listen, O Laishah!
Answer her, O poor Anathoth![r]
31 Madmenah is in flight;
the inhabitants of Gebim flee for refuge.[s] 32 Yet today he will stand at Nob;
he waves his hand against the mountain of the daughter of Zion,
the hill of Jerusalem.[t] 33 Behold, the Lord, Yahweh of Armies, will lop the boughs with terrifying power;
and the tall of stature shall be hewn down,
and the lofty shall be brought low.
34 And he will cut down the thickets of the forest with iron,
and Lebanon shall fall by a Mighty One.[u]

Notes

- a (10:3) Hebrew "your glory."
- b (10:4) Or "Without me they shall crouch." The Hebrew is uncertain. See 5:25.
- c (10:5) Or "Ah, Assyria." Assyria's king is the tool of God's judgment (verses 5–19).
- d (10:9) Calno (Calneh), Carchemish (on the Euphrates), Hamath, and Arpad were cities of Syria and northern Mesopotamia taken by Assyria about 740–717 BC.
- e (10:12) The Lord, here 'Adonai.
- f (10:13) Or "like a bull." "Treasures," or "stores"; the Great Isaiah Scroll lacks this word.
- g (10:15) Or "as if a rod should wave him who lifts it."
- h (10:16) Hebrew ha'adon, "the Lord."
- i (10:18) Or "as when a standard-bearer faints"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- j (10:21) Hebrew she'ar yashuv, the name of Isaiah's son (7:3). Hebrew 'el gibbor, as in 9:6.
- k (10:22) Verses 22–23 are quoted in Romans 9:27–28 from the Septuagint ("a remnant of them shall be saved").
- l (10:23) Or "in the midst of all the earth."
- m (10:24) Egypt, Hebrew Mitsrayim, the land of Israel's first bondage.
- n (10:26) Oreb, "raven," the Midianite prince killed at the rock that bore his name (Judges 7:25).

- o (10:27) Hebrew “from before oil” or “from before fatness,” perhaps meaning the ox has grown too fat for its yoke; many emend to “he has gone up from Samaria” or “from Rimmon.” The verse division is uncertain; the last words may begin verse 28.
- p (10:28) Verses 28–32 trace an army’s advance on Jerusalem from the north. Aiath, probably Ai, “ruin”; Migron, perhaps “precipice”; Michmash, “hidden place.”
- q (10:29) Geba and Gibeah, both “hill”; Ramah, “height.” Saul, “asked for,” Israel’s first king.
- r (10:30) Gallim, “heaps”; Laishah, “lion”; Anathoth, the priestly town of Jeremiah. “Answer her,” reading ‘aniha; Hebrew ‘aniyyah, “poor.”
- s (10:31) Madmenah, “dung heap”; Gebim, “cisterns” or “trenches.”
- t (10:32) Nob, the priests’ town (1 Samuel 21–22), within sight of Jerusalem. Hebrew ketiv “the house of the daughter of Zion”; the Great Isaiah Scroll lacks “house.”
- u (10:34) Or “by the Mighty One,” or “by a majestic one” (’addir). Lebanon here stands for the Assyrian army, as the forest image continues.

Chapter 11

1 And a shoot shall come out from the stock of Jesse,
and a branch out of his roots shall be fruitful.[a] 2 And the Spirit of Yahweh shall rest upon him,
the Spirit of wisdom and understanding,
the Spirit of counsel and might,
the Spirit of knowledge and of the fear of Yahweh.[b]
3 His delight will be the fear of Yahweh.
He will not give a verdict based on what his eyes see or settle a case by what his ears hear;
4 but he will judge the poor with righteousness
and give fair rulings for the humble in the land;
he will hit the earth with the rod of his mouth,
and kill the wicked with the breath from his lips.[c]
5 And righteousness shall be the sash about his waist,
and faithfulness the sash about his hips.
6 And the wolf shall dwell with the lamb,
and the leopard shall lie down with the young goat,
and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together;
and a little child shall lead them.[d]

7 Cows and bears will feed together,
their young will rest side by side,
and lions will eat straw like oxen.
8 And the suckling child shall play by the cobra's hole,
and on the viper's nest the weaned child shall lay his hand.
9 They shall not hurt nor destroy
in all my holy mountain;
for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Yahweh,
as the waters cover the sea.
10 And it shall come to pass in that day that the root of Jesse, who stands for a banner of the peoples—to him the nations shall seek, and his place of rest shall be glorious.[e]
11 And it shall come to pass in that day that the Lord will set his hand a second time to recover the remnant of his people that remains, from Assyria and from Egypt, from Pathros and from Cush, from Elam and from Shinar, from Hamath and from the coastlands of the sea.[f]
12 And he will raise a banner for the nations,
and will gather the outcasts of Israel,
and assemble the scattered of Judah
from the four corners of the earth.
13 And the jealousy of Ephraim shall depart,
and the adversaries of Judah shall be cut off;
Ephraim shall not envy Judah,
and Judah shall not harass Ephraim.
14 But they shall swoop down upon the shoulder of the Philistines on the west;
together they shall despoil the sons of the east;
Edom and Moab shall be the reach of their hand,
and the children of Ammon shall obey them.[g] 15 Yahweh will completely dry up the gulf of the Egyptian sea;
he will wave his hand over the River with his scorching wind and split it into seven streams,
so that people can walk across in sandals.[h] 16 And there shall be a highway for the remnant of his people that remains from Assyria,

as there was for Israel
on the day when they came up from the land of Egypt.

Notes

- a (11:1) Jesse, David's father (1 Samuel 16); the name's meaning is uncertain, perhaps "Yahweh exists" or "gift." "Branch," Hebrew netser; compare Matthew 2:23. The Septuagint reads "a rod … and a blossom shall come up from his root."
- b (11:2) The Septuagint adds "godliness" after "knowledge" and puts "the fear of God" in verse 3, giving the seven gifts of later Christian tradition.
- c (11:4) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "and by the breath of his lips the wicked shall be put to death." Compare 2 Thessalonians 2:8.
- d (11:6) The Great Isaiah Scroll and the Septuagint read "shall graze" for "and the fatling"; compare 65:25.
- e (11:10) Quoted in Romans 15:12 from the Septuagint ("he who rises to rule the nations; in him shall the nations hope").
- f (11:11) Pathros, Upper (southern) Egypt; Cush, the Nile lands south of Egypt (Nubia); Elam, southwest Iran; Shinar, Babylonia; Hamath, in Syria. The Lord, here 'Adonai.
- g (11:14) Edom, "red," south and east of the Dead Sea; Moab, east of the Dead Sea; Ammon, east of the Jordan, around modern Amman.
- h (11:15) Or "will dry up" (some read hehrib for heherim). The River, the Euphrates. "Scorching," the Hebrew word is uncertain.

Chapter 12

1 And you shall say in that day:
"I will give thanks to you, Yahweh,
for though you were angry with me,
your anger turned away,
and you comfort me.[a]
2 Behold, God is my salvation;
I will trust, and will not be afraid;
for Yah, Yahweh, is my strength and my song,
and he has become my salvation."[b] 3 And with joy you shall draw water from the springs of salvation.
4 And you shall say in that day:
"Give thanks to Yahweh, call on his name;
declare among the peoples what he has done;
make mention that his name is lifted high.

5 Sing to Yahweh, for he has done excellent things;
let it be known through all the earth.[c] 6 Cry out and shout, you who dwell in Zion, for the Holy One of Israel is great among you."[d]

Notes

- a (12:1) "You" is singular here; in verse 4 it is plural. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "and turned away."
- b (12:2) Yah, a short form of the divine name; compare Exodus 15:2; Psalm 118:14. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "God, God ('el 'el) is my salvation."
- c (12:5) Following the qere (muda'at); the ketiv has another passive form of the same verb. The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the word rendered "let it be known."
- d (12:6) Or "O inhabitress of Zion," a feminine form for the city's people.

Chapter 13

1 The oracle concerning Babylon, which Isaiah the son of Amoz saw.[a] 2 Raise a signal flag on a bare hilltop;
call out to them;
wave your hand so they will go through the gates of the nobles.
3 I myself have commanded my consecrated ones;
yes, I have called my mighty men for my anger,
my proudly exulting ones.[b] 4 The noise of a multitude on the mountains,
like that of a great people!
The noise of the uproar of kingdoms,
of nations gathered together!
Yahweh of Armies is mustering
an army for battle.
5 They come from a far country,
from the end of the heavens,
Yahweh and the weapons of his indignation,
to destroy the whole land.[c]
6 Wail, for the day of Yahweh is near!
As destruction from the Almighty it shall come.[d]
7 Therefore all hands shall go limp,
and every man's heart shall melt,

8 and they shall be terrified.
Pangs and pains shall seize them;
they shall writhe like a woman in labor;
they shall look aghast at one another;
their faces shall be faces of flame.
9 Behold, the day of Yahweh comes,
cruel, with fury and burning anger,
to make the land a desolation,
and to destroy its sinners from it.
10 For the stars of the heavens and their constellations shall not give their light;
the sun shall be dark at its rising,
and the moon shall not shed its light.[e] 11 I will punish the world for its evil,
the wicked for their wrongdoing.
I will end the pride of the haughty
and humble the arrogance of the ruthless.
12 I will make a mortal scarcer than pure gold,
even a man than the fine gold of Ophir.[f] 13 Therefore I will make the heavens tremble,
and the earth shall be shaken out of its place,
at the wrath of Yahweh of Armies
in the day of his burning anger.
14 And like a hunted gazelle,
and like sheep that no one gathers,
they shall each turn to his own people,
and each flee to his own land.
15 Every one who is found shall be thrust through,
and every one who is caught shall fall by the sword.
16 Their infants also shall be dashed to pieces before their eyes;
their houses shall be plundered,
and their wives ravished.[g] 17 Behold, I will stir up the Medes against them,
who will not value silver,
and take no delight in gold.[h]

18 And their bows shall shatter the young men;
and they shall have no pity on the fruit of the womb;
their eye shall not spare children.
19 Babylon, the most glorious of kingdoms,
the splendor and boast of the Chaldeans, will end up like Sodom and Gomorrah, which God overturned.[i] 20 It shall never be inhabited,
nor lived in from generation to generation;
no Arab shall pitch his tent there,
nor shall shepherds make their flocks lie down there.
21 But desert creatures shall lie down there,
and their houses shall be full of howling beasts;
and ostriches shall dwell there,
and wild goats shall dance there.[j] 22 And hyenas shall cry in its towers,
and jackals in the palaces of pleasure;
and its time is near to come,
and its days shall not be prolonged.[k]

Notes

- a (13:1) Hebrew massa', "burden," "utterance," a title for the oracles against the nations in chapters 13–23. Babylon (Hebrew Bavel), the great city on the Euphrates; Genesis 11:9 links the name with balal, "confuse."
- b (13:3) Or "those who exult in my majesty."
- c (13:5) Or "the whole earth."
- d (13:6) Hebrew Shaddai, traditionally "the Almighty," with a wordplay: "as shod (destruction) from Shadday."
- e (13:10) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "shall not shine" (a different verb). Compare Matthew 24:29; Mark 13:24–25.
- f (13:12) Ophir, a distant land famed for gold (1 Kings 9:28), perhaps in southern Arabia or East Africa.
- g (13:16) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the last line.
- h (13:17) The Medes, a people of northwest Iran, who joined with the Persians to take Babylon in 539 BC.
- i (13:19) The Chaldeans, the people of southern Babylonia whose dynasty ruled Babylon in the 7th–6th centuries BC. Sodom and Gomorrah, see 1:9.
- j (13:21) The identity of several of the animals in verses 21–22 is uncertain. "Wild goats," Hebrew se'irim, also "goat-demons" (compare Leviticus 17:7).
- k (13:22) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "again" ("shall not be prolonged again").

Chapter 14

1 For Yahweh will have mercy on Jacob, and will yet choose Israel, and settle them in their own soil; and the sojourner shall join himself to them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jacob.[a] 2 And peoples shall take them and bring them to their place; and the house of Israel shall possess them in the land of Yahweh as male and female servants; and they shall take captive those who took them captive, and rule over those who oppressed them.[b] 3 And it shall come to pass in the day that Yahweh gives you rest from your pain and turmoil, and from the hard service with which you were made to serve,
4 that you shall take up this taunt against the king of Babylon, and say:
"How the oppressor has ceased,
the insolent fury ceased![c]
5 Yahweh has broken the staff of the wicked,
the scepter of rulers,
6 that struck the peoples in wrath
with an unceasing stroke,
that ruled the nations in anger
with a persecution none restrained.
7 The whole earth is at rest and is quiet;
they break forth into singing.
8 Even the cypresses rejoice over you,
the cedars of Lebanon:
'Since you lay down,
no feller has come up against us.'
9 Sheol beneath is stirred up for you,
to meet you at your coming;
it rouses the shades for you,
all the leaders of the earth;
it makes rise from their thrones
all the kings of the nations.[d]
10 All of them shall answer
and say to you:

‘You too have become weak as we are!
You have become like us!’
11 Your splendor has been brought down to Sheol,
along with the music of your harps;
maggots are your bed beneath you,
and worms are your blanket.
12 How you are fallen from heaven,
O shining one, son of the dawn!
How you are cut down to the ground,
you who laid low the nations![e]
13 But you said in your heart,
‘Into heaven I will go up;
higher than the stars of God
I will raise my throne;
and I will sit on the mount of assembly
in the far reaches of the north;[f]
14 I will ascend above the heights of the clouds;
I will make myself like the Most High.’[g]
15 Yet you shall be brought down to Sheol,
to the far reaches of the pit.
16 They that see you shall gaze at you,
they shall consider you:
‘Is this the man who made the earth to quake,
that made kingdoms shake, 17 that made the world as a wilderness,
and tore down its cities,
that would not open the house of his prisoners?’
18 All the kings of the nations,
every one of them, rest in honor,
each in his own tomb;
19 but you are flung out of your tomb
as a detested shoot,
covered with the slain, run through with the sword,
who descend to the stones of the pit,
as a carcass trampled under foot.[h]

20 With them you shall have no share in burial,
for your land you have ruined,
your people you have killed.
The seed of evildoers
shall not be named forever.
21 Make ready a slaughter for his children
for the guilt of their fathers,
that they not rise up and take the earth,
nor fill the surface of the world with cities."[i] 22 "And I will rise up against them," says Yahweh of Armies, "and cut off from Babylon name and remnant, offspring and descendant," says Yahweh.[j] 23 "I will make it a home for hedgehogs and a place of marshes; I will sweep it with the broom of destruction," declares Yahweh of Armies.[k]
24 Yahweh of Armies has sworn, saying:
"Surely as I have planned,
so shall it be;
and as I have purposed,
so shall it stand:
25 to break Assyria in my land,
and on my mountains to trample him under foot;
and his yoke shall depart from them,
and his burden depart from their shoulder."[l] 26 This is the plan decided for the whole earth, and this is the hand stretched out over all the nations.
27 For Yahweh of Armies has purposed,
and who shall annul it?
And his hand is stretched out,
and who shall turn it back?
28 In the year that King Ahaz died this oracle came:[m]
29 Do not celebrate, all you Philistines,
because the rod that beat you is broken;
for from the snake's root will come a viper,
and its offspring will be a flying fiery serpent.[n]

30 And the firstborn of the poor shall feed,
and the needy shall lie down in safety;
but I will kill your root with famine,
and your remnant shall be slain.[o]
31 Wail, gate! Cry out, city!
Panic, all you Philistines!
For a cloud of smoke is coming from the north,
and no one lags behind in his ranks.[p]
32 What then shall one answer the messengers of the nation?
"Yahweh has founded Zion,
and in her the afflicted of his people shall find refuge."

Notes

- a (14:1) Or "the stranger," the foreigner living among Israel.
- b (14:2) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "many" ("many peoples") and reads "to their land and to their place."
- c (14:4) Hebrew madhebah, a word otherwise unknown (traditionally "the golden city"). The Great Isaiah Scroll reads marhebah, "insolence" or "onslaught" (compare rahav, "arrogance," 3:5), a reading long proposed by scholars and supported by the ancient versions; the Septuagint reads "the taskmaster."
- d (14:9) Sheol, the realm of the dead. Hebrew repha'im, the dead, the "shades." Hebrew "the he-goats of the earth," that is, the leaders.
- e (14:12) Hebrew helel ben shahar, "shining one, son of dawn," probably the morning star (the planet Venus), here a taunt against the king of Babylon, using imagery known from Canaanite myth, in which a bright deity aspires to a higher throne and is cast down. The Septuagint renders heosphoros, "light-bringer," "the morning star," and the Latin Vulgate lucifer, "light-bearer," the Latin name of the morning star; from the Latin comes the name Lucifer, which later Christian interpretation applied to Satan (compare Luke 10:18; Revelation 12:7–9). The Great Isaiah Scroll writes the word with an extra letter (heylil) but has no difference of sense. Or "you who weakened the nations."
- f (14:13) Hebrew Tsaphon, "the north," also the name of a mountain (Mount Zaphon, Jebel Aqra in Syria) regarded in Canaanite religion as the home of the gods. Or "the mount of meeting."
- g (14:14) Hebrew 'Elyon, "the Most High."
- h (14:19) Or "like a rejected shoot"; some read "like a loathsome miscarriage" (nephel for netser).
- i (14:21) Or "with ruins" (some read 'iyyim for 'arim).
- j (14:22) Hebrew "name and remnant, offspring (nin) and descendant (neked)."
- k (14:23) Or "the owl" or "the bittern"; the animal is uncertain.

- l (14:25) Assyria, compare 10:5–19; 37:36–38.
- m (14:28) Ahaz died about 715 BC (some date it 727). Hebrew massa', "oracle"; see 13:1.
- n (14:29) Philistia, the land of the Philistines; compare 2:6. Hebrew saraph me'opheph, "a flying seraph," perhaps a winged serpent; compare 6:2; 30:6; Numbers 21:6.
- o (14:30) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "and I will slay your remnant." Some read "the firstborn of the poor shall feed in my pastures" (bekhari for bekhore).
- p (14:31) Or "there is no one alone at his appointed place." The Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 15

1 The oracle concerning Moab.
Because in a night Ar of Moab is laid waste,
Moab is undone;
because in a night Kir of Moab is laid waste, Moab is undone.[a]
2 People go up to the temple, and Dibon goes to its hilltop shrines, to weep;
Moab wails over Nebo and over Medeba;
every head is shaved bald,
and every beard is cut off.[b] 3 In their streets they gird themselves with sackcloth;
on their housetops and in their squares
every one wails, going down in weeping.
4 And Heshbon cries out, and Elealeh;
their voice is heard as far as Jahaz;
therefore the armed men of Moab cry aloud;
his soul trembles within him.[c]
5 My heart cries out for Moab;
her fugitives flee as far as Zoar and Eglath-shelishiyah;
the slope of Luhith is climbed in tears,
and along the road to Horonaim
they raise a cry of devastation.[d] 6 For the waters of Nimrim are desolate;
for the grass is withered, the new growth fails,
there is no green thing.[e]

7 So the wealth they have gotten,
and their stored-up goods,
they bear off across the Brook of the Willows.[f] 8 For the cry has gone around the border of Moab;
its wailing reaches to Eglaim,
and its wailing to Beer-elim.[g] 9 Dimon's waters are full of blood, and I will bring even more on Dimon:
a lion for those who escape from Moab
and for those left in the land.[h]

Notes

- a (15:1) Moab, the kingdom east of the Dead Sea; Genesis 19:37 links the name with "from father." Ar and Kir, principal cities of Moab; Kir, "wall" or "city." "Undone," or "silenced."
- b (15:2) Or "to Bayith (the house)." Dibon, Nebo, and Medeba, towns of Moab; Nebo also a mountain and the name of a god. Shaving the head and beard were rites of mourning.
- c (15:4) Heshbon, Elealeh, and Jahaz, towns of northern Moab. The Septuagint reads "the loins of Moab cry out."
- d (15:5) Zoar, "small," at the south end of the Dead Sea (Genesis 19:22); Eglath-shelishiyah, perhaps "the third Eglath"; Luhith and Horonaim ("two caves") are mentioned also on the Moabite Stone. Or "her nobles."
- e (15:6) Nimrim, "leopards," a stream in southern Moab.
- f (15:7) Or "the Brook of the Poplars" (or "of the Arabah"), probably the Zered, Moab's southern border.
- g (15:8) Eglaim, "two pools"; Beer-elim, "well of the mighty ones" or "well of the terebinths."
- h (15:9) Dimon, probably a wordplay on Dibon (verse 2) with dam, "blood." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Dibon" (as the Latin Vulgate), while 1QIsa-b agrees with the traditional Hebrew text ("Dimon"); the Septuagint also has Dimon.

Chapter 16

1 Send lambs as tribute to the ruler of the country,
from Sela, through the desert,
to the mountain of Zion's daughter.[a] 2 And like fluttering birds,
like a scattered nest,

so shall the daughters of Moab be at the fords of the Arnon.[b] 3 "Give counsel, render a decision;
make your shadow as the night
in the midst of the noonday;
conceal the banished;
do not reveal the wanderer.
4 Let my outcasts sojourn with you;
as for Moab, be a refuge to them from the destroyer."
When the oppressor has come to an end,
destruction has ceased,
and he who tramples under foot is consumed out of the land,[c] 5 then a throne shall be established in steadfast love, and one shall sit on it in faithfulness
in the tent of David,
judging and seeking justice,
and swift to do righteousness.[d] 6 We have heard about Moab's pride—how extremely proud he is—
his conceit, his pride and his rage;
his empty boasts are false.[e]
7 Therefore let Moab wail for Moab,
let every one wail;
for the raisin cakes of Kir-hareseth
you shall moan, utterly stricken.[f]
8 For the fields of Heshbon languish,
the vine of Sibmah;
the lords of the nations have struck down its choice branches,
which reached to Jazer,
which strayed into the wilderness;
its shoots spread out,
they crossed over the sea.[g]
9 Therefore I weep with the weeping of Jazer
for the vine of Sibmah;
I drench you with my tears,

O Heshbon and Elealeh;
for upon your summer fruit and upon your harvest
the shout has fallen.[h]
10 Gladness and joy have been removed from the orchards;
no one sings or shouts in the vineyards;
no one treads out wine in the presses;
I have ended the shouting.
11 So my bowels moan like a harp for Moab,
and my inward being for Kir-heres.[i]
12 And it shall come to pass, when Moab appears, when he wearies himself on the high place, and comes to his sanctuary to pray, that he shall not prevail.
13 This is the word that Yahweh spoke concerning Moab in time past. 14 But now Yahweh has spoken, saying, "Within three years, as the years of a hired worker, the glory of Moab shall be brought into contempt, with all his great multitude; and the remnant shall be very small and feeble."[j]

Notes

- a (16:1) Sela, "rock," a stronghold of Edom (perhaps near later Petra), where the fugitives of Moab have fled. The Hebrew of this verse is difficult; Moab is apparently urged to send tribute to Jerusalem, as Moab's king once sent lambs to Israel (2 Kings 3:4).
- b (16:2) The Arnon, the great gorge of central Moab, running into the Dead Sea.
- c (16:4) "The oppressor," Hebrew hammets, uncertain; perhaps "the extortioner."
- d (16:5) Hebrew hesed, "steadfast love," "loyal kindness," the covenant faithfulness of God. David, "beloved."
- e (16:6) Compare Jeremiah 48:29–30.
- f (16:7) Or "the foundations" (perhaps "men," compare Jeremiah 48:31). Kir-hareseth, "city of potsherds," the chief city of Moab (2 Kings 3:25), probably modern Kerak; compare verse 11, Kir-heres.
- g (16:8) Sibmah and Jazer, towns of northern Moab famous for their vines. The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the words from "the lords of the nations" in verse 8 through "for the vine of Sibmah" in verse 9, probably by a copyist's eye skipping between the two occurrences of "the vine of Sibmah"; 1QIsa-b has them, with the traditional Hebrew text. "The sea," probably the Dead Sea.
- h (16:9) "Shout," Hebrew heydad, the cry of grape treaders, here turned to the battle shout of the enemy (compare Jeremiah 48:33).

- i (16:11) Hebrew “my bowels,” the seat of the emotions. Kir-heres, “city of the sun”(?) or another form of Kir-hareseth (verse 7).
- j (16:14) That is, counting the years exactly, as a hired worker counts the time of his service.

Chapter 17

1 The oracle concerning Damascus.
Behold, Damascus shall cease to be a city,
and shall become a heap of ruins.[a] 2 The cities of Aroer are forsaken;
they shall be for flocks, which shall lie down, and none shall make them afraid.[b] 3 The fortress shall cease from Ephraim,
and the kingdom from Damascus;
and the remnant of Syria
shall be like the glory of the children of Israel, says Yahweh of Armies.[c] 4 And it shall come to pass in that day that the glory of Jacob shall be brought low,
and the fatness of his flesh shall grow lean.
5 It will be like a reaper gathering the standing grain and cutting the heads with his arm;
it will be like someone gathering leftover heads
in the Valley of Rephaim.[d] 6 Some gleanings will remain,
as when an olive tree is beaten:
two or three olives
high up at the very top,
four or five
on the branches of the fruit tree,
declares Yahweh, the God of Israel.
7 In that day man shall look to his Maker,
and his eyes shall have regard for the Holy One of Israel;
8 and he shall not look to the altars,
the work of his hands,

nor have regard for what his fingers have made,
either the Asherim or the incense altars.[e] 9 In that day their fortified cities shall be as the forsaken places of the woods and the mountaintops, that were forsaken before the children of Israel;
and it shall be a waste.[f]
10 For you have forgotten the God of your salvation, and have not remembered the Rock of your stronghold;
therefore you plant pleasant plants,
and set out slips of a foreign god;[g] 11 in the day of your planting you make them grow,
and in the morning you make your seed blossom;
yet the harvest flees away
in a day of sickness and incurable pain.
12 Listen, a roar from many peoples!
They roar like the roar of the seas.
And the thundering of nations!
They thunder like the thundering of great waters.
13 Nations make a roar like the roar of many waters,
but he rebukes them, and they run far off,
blown along like chaff in the hills,
like tumbleweed in a whirlwind.
14 In the evening, look, terror!
Before dawn, they are gone.
This is the share of those who strip us bare,
the fate of those who rob us.

Notes

- a (17:1) Damascus, the capital of Aram (Syria), taken by Assyria in 732 BC.
- b (17:2) Aroer, "juniper"(?); here perhaps towns east of the Jordan. The Septuagint reads "forsaken for ever."
- c (17:3) Ephraim, the northern kingdom, allied with Damascus (7:1–9).
- d (17:5) The Valley of Rephaim, southwest of Jerusalem, a fertile grain valley.
- e (17:8) Asherim, sacred poles or trees associated with the goddess Asherah.
- f (17:9) The Septuagint reads "the Amorites and the Hivites" for "the wooded heights and the hilltops" (hahoresh vehaamir), which many follow: "like the deserted cities of the Hivites and the Amorites."

- g (17:10) Or “plants of Naaman” (“pleasant one”), perhaps a title of the god Adonis, whose gardens were quickly forced into bloom. “A foreign god,” or “a stranger.”

Chapter 18

1 Ah, land of whirring wings,
which is beyond the rivers of Cush,[a] 2 which sends ambassadors by sea,
in papyrus boats over the water!
Go, fast messengers,
to a nation tall and smooth-skinned,
to a people feared far and wide,
a mighty nation that tramples everything,
whose land is cut by rivers.[b] 3 All you inhabitants of the world,
and you who dwell on the earth,
when a banner is lifted up on the mountains, look!
and when a trumpet is blown, hear!
4 For this is what Yahweh told me:
“I will stay calm and watch from my dwelling,
like shimmering heat in the sunshine,
like a cloud of dew in the heat of the harvest.”[c] 5 For before the harvest, once the blossoming ends
and the flower turns into a ripening grape,
he will trim off the shoots with pruning knives,
and cut down and remove the spreading branches.
6 They shall be left together for the birds of prey of the mountains,
and for the beasts of the earth;
and the birds of prey shall summer on them,
and all the beasts of the earth shall winter on them.
7 At that time a gift shall be brought to Yahweh of Armies from a people drawn out and polished,
from a people dreaded from their beginning onward,
a nation of strength upon strength and of trampling down,
whose land the rivers divide,
to the place of the name of Yahweh of Armies, Mount Zion.[d]

Notes

- a (18:1) Cush, the land south of Egypt along the Nile (ancient Nubia, modern Sudan), whose rulers controlled Egypt about 715–663 BC. "Whirring wings," perhaps insects, or the sails of ships; the Septuagint reads "you wings of the land of ships."
- b (18:2) Or "tall and smooth," that is, of great height and glossy skin, or clean-shaven. Or "feared near and far." Hebrew qav-qav, "line-line," perhaps "mighty" or "of strange speech" (compare 28:10). The Hebrew is uncertain.
- c (18:4) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks "I will be quiet."
- d (18:7) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "from a people" (as does the Septuagint) for "a people," and lacks the first "of Armies."

Chapter 19

1 A message about Egypt.
Look, Yahweh is riding on a fast cloud
and coming to Egypt;
the idols of Egypt will shake before him,
and the heart of Egypt will melt inside it.[a] 2 "I will stir up Egypt against itself:
brother will fight brother,
neighbor will fight neighbor,
city will fight city, kingdom will fight kingdom.
3 And the spirit of Egypt within it shall be emptied out,
and I will confound its counsel;
and they shall seek the idols and the charmers,
and the mediums and the spiritists.[b]
4 And I will give over the Egyptians into the hand of a harsh master;
and a fierce king shall rule over them,"
says the Lord, Yahweh of Armies.[c] 5 And the waters shall fail from the sea,
and the river shall be parched and dry;
6 and the canals shall stink,
and the streams of Egypt shall dwindle and dry up;
reeds and rushes shall wither.[d]

7 The bare places by the Nile, by the mouth of the Nile, and every sown field of the Nile,
shall dry up, be driven away, and be no more.[e]
8 And the fishermen shall mourn, and all who cast a hook into the Nile shall lament,
and those who spread nets upon the waters shall languish.
9 And the workers in combed flax shall be ashamed, and the weavers of white cloth.[f]
10 And her pillars shall be crushed, and all who work for wages shall be grieved in soul.[g] 11 The princes of Zoan are utter fools;
the wisest counselors of Pharaoh give senseless counsel.
How can you say to Pharaoh,
"I am a son of the wise,
a son of ancient kings"?[h]
12 Where then are your wise men?
Let them tell you now, and let them know what Yahweh of Armies has purposed against Egypt.
13 The princes of Zoan have become fools,
the princes of Memphis are deceived;
the cornerstones of her tribes
have led Egypt astray.[i] 14 Yahweh has mingled within her
a spirit of distortion;
and they have caused Egypt to go astray in every work of hers,
as a drunken man staggers in his vomit.
15 Nothing will be accomplished in Egypt
by head or tail, palm branch or reed.[j]
16 In that day Egypt shall be like women, and shall tremble and fear before the shaking of the hand of Yahweh of Armies, which he shakes over it. 17 And the land of Judah shall become a terror to Egypt; every one to whom it is mentioned shall be afraid, because of the purpose of Yahweh of Armies that he purposes against it.

18 In that day there shall be five cities in the land of Egypt that speak the language of Canaan and swear allegiance to Yahweh of Armies.
One shall be called the City of Destruction.[k]
19 In that day there shall be an altar to Yahweh in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar to Yahweh at its border.[l] 20 It will serve as a sign and a witness to Yahweh of Armies in the land of Egypt; when they cry out to Yahweh because of their oppressors, he will send them a savior and defender, and he will rescue them.[m] 21 And Yahweh shall make himself known to Egypt, and the Egyptians shall know Yahweh in that day, and shall worship with sacrifice and offering, and shall vow vows to Yahweh and pay them. 22 And Yahweh will strike Egypt, striking and healing; and they shall return to Yahweh, and he shall be entreated by them and heal them.
23 On that day there will be a highway from Egypt to Assyria.
Assyrians will come into Egypt and Egyptians into Assyria, and the Egyptians will worship together with the Assyrians.[n] 24 In that day Israel shall be the third with Egypt and with Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth, 25 whom Yahweh of Armies has blessed, saying, "Blessed be Egypt my people, and Assyria the work of my hands, and Israel my inheritance."[o]

Notes

- a (19:1) Egypt, Hebrew Mitsrayim.
- b (19:3) Hebrew 'ittim, perhaps "ghosts" or "whisperers"; compare 8:19.
- c (19:4) Hebrew ha'adon, "the Lord." The "harsh master" may be an Assyrian or a Cushite ruler.
- d (19:6) Hebrew "the rivers," the Nile channels and canals of the delta; "streams of Egypt," Hebrew ye'ore matsor, "Nile streams of Matsor," a name for Egypt.
- e (19:7) Hebrew ye'or, the Nile. Or "the reeds by the Nile."
- f (19:9) Or "shall be pale." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "and they shall be ashamed."
- g (19:10) Or "her weavers," reading shatoteyha ("her foundations," MT) as a word for weavers. The Hebrew is uncertain.
- h (19:11) Zoan, Greek Tanis, a royal city in the northeast delta. Pharaoh, Egyptian "great house," the title of the king of Egypt.
- i (19:13) Hebrew Noph, Memphis, the ancient capital near modern Cairo.
- j (19:15) See 9:14–15.
- k (19:18) Hebrew 'ir haheres, "city of destruction," perhaps a wordplay. The Great Isaiah Scroll, some Hebrew manuscripts, and the Latin Vulgate read 'ir haheres (with a different letter), "City of the Sun," that is, Heliopolis (On, Genesis 41:45), the center of sun worship near Memphis. The Septuagint reads "city of Asedek" ("righteousness"). Canaan, the land west of the Jordan; its language, Hebrew.

- l (19:19) A pillar, Hebrew matsevah, a standing stone marking a sacred place.
- m (19:20) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "and he will come down" for "and a champion."
- n (19:23) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the second "Egypt" ("and into Assyria").
- o (19:25) Or "my possession."

Chapter 20

1 In the year the Tartan, the commander in chief, came to Ashdod, sent by Sargon king of Assyria, and attacked Ashdod and captured it,[a] 2 at that time Yahweh spoke by Isaiah son of Amoz with these words: "Go, loosen the sackcloth from your hips and take your sandals off." He did this, walking around stripped and barefoot.[b] 3 And Yahweh said, "As my servant Isaiah has walked naked and barefoot three years as a sign and a portent against Egypt and against Cush,[c] 4 so the king of Assyria will lead away Egypt's prisoners and Cush's exiles, young and old, naked and barefoot, with their buttocks bare, to Egypt's shame. 5 And they shall be terrified and put to shame on account of Cush, to which they looked, and Egypt, in which they gloried.[d] 6 And the inhabitant of this coastland shall say in that day, 'Behold, such is our hope, to which we fled for help to be delivered from the king of Assyria; and we, how shall we escape?'"[e]

Notes

- a (20:1) Tartan, Assyrian turtanu, the title of the commander-in-chief. Ashdod, a Philistine city; its rebellion was crushed in 711 BC. Sargon II, king of Assyria 722–705 BC; Akkadian Sharru-kin, "the true king."
- b (20:2) "Naked," perhaps stripped to a loincloth, as a captive.
- c (20:3) Cush, see 18:1.
- d (20:5) Or "their expectation."
- e (20:6) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "on which we relied" for "to which we fled." "This coastland," probably Philistia and the Mediterranean coast.

Chapter 21

1 A message about the desert by the sea.
Like windstorms that sweep through the Negev, it comes from the desert,

from a fearsome land.[a] 2 A hard vision has been told to me:
the treacherous deal treacherously,
and the spoiler spoils.
Go up, Elam! Lay siege, Media!
I have made all her groaning cease.[b]
3 For this cause my loins are full of pain;
throes have taken hold on me,
as the throes of a woman giving birth;
I am bent over from what I hear;
I am terrified at what I see.
4 My heart wanders, horror has overwhelmed me;
the evening twilight of my desire
he has made into a trembling for me.[c] 5 They set the table,
spread out the cushions,
and eat and drink.
Get up, you officers,
and oil the shields![d]
6 For thus the Lord has said to me:
"Go, set a watchman;
let him declare what he sees.
7 And if he sees a troop,
horsemen two by two,
a troop of donkeys,
a troop of camels,
he shall heed it closely,
with great heed."[e]
8 Then the lookout shouted like a lion:[f]
"Lord, I stand on the watchtower all day long,
and I am at my post every night.
9 Look, here come men in a chariot,
and riders in pairs!"
Then he answered,

"Babylon has fallen, has fallen!
All the carved images of her gods lie smashed on the ground."[g]
10 O my threshed one, and son of my threshing floor,
what I have heard from Yahweh of Armies,
the God of Israel, I have declared to you.[h]
11 The oracle concerning Dumah.
One calls to me from Seir,
"Watchman, what of the night?
Watchman, what of the night?"[i] 12 The watchman says:
"Morning comes, and also the night.
If you will inquire, inquire;
come back again."
13 The oracle concerning Arabia.
In the thickets in Arabia you shall lodge,
O caravans of Dedanites.[j]
14 To the thirsty bring water;
the inhabitants of the land of Tema
met the fugitive with bread.[k] 15 For they have fled from the swords,
from the drawn sword,
from the bent bow,
and from the press of battle.
16 For thus the Lord has said to me: "Within a year, as the years of a hired worker, all the glory of Kedar shall come to an end;[l]
17 and the remainder of the number of the archers, the mighty men of the children of Kedar, shall be few; for Yahweh, the God of Israel, has spoken."

Notes

- a (21:1) The wilderness of the sea, probably southern Babylonia by the Persian Gulf ("the Sealand"). The Negev, the dry south of Judah.
- b (21:2) Elam and Media, peoples of Iran who joined the attack on Babylon (539 BC; compare 13:17).
- c (21:4) Or "my mind reels."

- d (21:5) That is, oil the leather shields for battle.
- e (21:7) Or "chariots," as in verse 9; the Hebrew rekhev means a team or riders as well as a chariot.
- f (21:8) Hebrew "And he cried out, a lion." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads haro'eh, "the seer" (or "the watchman"), for 'aryeh, "a lion," the same letters rearranged: "Then the seer cried out." The Septuagint has neither, reading "and call Urias."
- g (21:9) Compare Revelation 14:8; 18:2.
- h (21:10) That is, Israel, beaten out like grain on the threshing floor.
- i (21:11) Dumah, "silence," perhaps an oasis in north Arabia (Genesis 25:14), here with a play on its meaning; the Septuagint reads Idumea (Edom). Seir, the hill country of Edom.
- j (21:13) Dedan, an Arabian trading people (Genesis 10:7; Ezekiel 27:20).
- k (21:14) Tema, an oasis in northwest Arabia (modern Tayma).
- l (21:16) Kedar, "dark," a tribe of north Arabian nomads (Genesis 25:13). The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Within three years" (compare 16:14) and Yahweh for 'Adonai ("the Lord").

Chapter 22

1 The oracle concerning the valley of vision.
What troubles you, then, that you are gone up,
every one of you, upon the roofs,[a] 2 you who are full of uproar,
a tumultuous city, an exultant town?
Your slain are not slain with the sword,
nor are they dead in battle.
3 All your leaders have run away as one;
apart from the bow they were made prisoners;
all in you who were found were bound together;
far off had they fled.[b] 4 Therefore I said, "Look away from me;
let me weep bitterly;
do not labor to comfort me
for the destruction of the daughter of my people."
5 For it is a day of uproar, of treading down, and of bewilderment from the Lord, Yahweh of Armies,
in the valley of vision;
a tearing down of the wall,
and a cry for help toward the mountain.[c]

6 And Elam took up the quiver,
with chariots of men and horsemen;
and Kir uncovered the shield.[d]
7 Your best valleys were filled with chariots,
and horsemen took up positions at the gate.
8 He stripped away Judah's defenses;
and on that day you looked to the weapons in the House of the Forest.[e] 9 And the breaches of David's city you beheld, how many they were;
and you gathered in the waters of the lower pool;
10 and you counted the houses of Jerusalem,
and you broke down the houses to fortify the wall;
11 and a basin you made between the two walls
for the waters of the old pool.
But to him who did it you did not look,
nor did you have regard for him who formed it long ago.[f] 12 And in that day the Lord, Yahweh of Armies, called to weeping and to mourning,
to baldness and to girding with sackcloth;
13 But instead there was joy and celebration,
cattle being killed and sheep slaughtered,
meat being eaten and wine being drunk:
"Let's eat and drink,
because tomorrow we will be dead."[g]
14 Yahweh of Armies revealed this in my hearing:
"This sin will never be forgiven you until you die,"
says the Lord, Yahweh of Armies.
15 Thus says the Lord, Yahweh of Armies: "Go, get yourself to this steward, to Shebna, who is over the house, and say:[h]
16 'What business do you have here, and who is there for you here, that you have dug a tomb for yourself here,
cutting your burial place high up
and carving out a resting place in the rock?
17 Behold, Yahweh will hurl you away violently, O man,
and will grasp you firmly,

18 and will surely wind you round and round,
like a ball into a land broad on both hands;
there you shall die,
and there the chariots of your glory shall be,
you disgrace of your lord's house.
19 And I will thrust you from your office,
and from your station he will pull you down.'
20 And it shall come to pass in that day that I will call my servant Eliakim the son of Hilkiah;[i] 21 I will dress him in your robe,
fasten your sash on him,
and entrust your authority to him;
he will act as a father to the people of Jerusalem
and to the house of Judah.
22 And I will lay the key of the house of David upon his shoulder;
and he shall open, and none shall shut;
and he shall shut, and none shall open.[j] 23 And I will fasten him as a peg in a sure place;
and he shall become a throne of honor to his father's house.[k]
24 And they shall hang upon him all the weight of his father's house, the offspring and the issue, every small vessel, from the bowls to all the jars.
25 In that day, says Yahweh of Armies, the peg that was fastened in a sure place shall give way; and it shall be cut down and fall, and the load that was upon it shall be cut off; for Yahweh has spoken."

Notes

- a (22:1) The valley of vision, apparently Jerusalem itself, perhaps the Hinnom or Kidron valley, where prophetic visions were given.
- b (22:3) Or "without a bow (being drawn)."
- c (22:5) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads differently in the last two lines, perhaps "tearing down his holy place upon the mountain" (qodsho ʻal hahar for qir veshoaʻ ʼel hahar). The Hebrew is uncertain; there is wordplay (meqarqar qir).
- d (22:6) Elam, see 21:2; Kir, a land of uncertain location, compare 2 Kings 16:9; Amos 9:7.
- e (22:8) The House of the Forest of Lebanon, Solomon's armory hall (1 Kings 7:2; 10:17).

- f (22:11) Compare 2 Kings 20:20; 2 Chronicles 32:3–5, 30, describing Hezekiah's water works; "the old pool" may be the Siloam pool.
- g (22:13) Quoted in 1 Corinthians 15:32.
- h (22:15) Shebna, a royal official under Hezekiah, later secretary (36:3). His name may be a shortened form of Shebaniah, "Yahweh has returned"(?). "Steward," Hebrew soken.
- i (22:20) Eliakim, "God raises up"; Hilkiah, "my portion is Yahweh." Compare 36:3.
- j (22:22) Compare Revelation 3:7.
- k (22:23) Or "a nail," a tent peg or a wall peg for hanging things.

Chapter 23

1 The oracle concerning Tyre.
Wail, O ships of Tarshish,
for it is laid waste, without house, without harbor!
From the land of Kittim it is revealed to them.[a]
2 Be silent, O inhabitants of the coast,
O merchants of Sidon,
whose messengers passed over the sea,
whom they filled.[b] 3 And on many waters
the grain of Shihor, the harvest of the Nile,
was her revenue;
and she was the market of nations.[c] 4 Be ashamed, O Sidon, for the sea has spoken,
the stronghold of the sea, saying:
"I have not labored nor given birth,
I have not reared young men,
nor brought up young women."
5 When the report comes to Egypt,
they shall be in anguish at the report about Tyre.
6 Pass over to Tarshish;
howl, you who dwell on the coast!
7 Is this your joyful city,
whose beginning is of ancient days,
whose own feet bore her far away to dwell abroad?

8 Who has counseled this against Tyre,
the one who gave crowns,
whose dealers were princes,
whose merchants the honorable of the land?
9 Yahweh of Armies has purposed it,
to defile the pride of all glory,
to bring into contempt all the honored of the earth.
10 Pass through your land like the Nile,
O daughter of Tarshish;
there is no restraint any more.[d]
11 He has stretched out his hand over the sea,
he has shaken the kingdoms;
Yahweh has given command concerning Canaan,
to destroy its strongholds.[e]
12 And he said, "You shall no more exult, O oppressed virgin daughter of Sidon;
arise, pass over to Kittim;
even there you shall have no rest."[f]
13 Behold the land of the Chaldeans!
This is the people that was not;
Assyria appointed it for desert creatures.
They set up their siege towers,
they stripped her palaces,
they made her a ruin.[g]
14 Wail, O ships of Tarshish,
for your stronghold is laid waste.
15 And it shall come to pass in that day that Tyre shall be forgotten seventy years, like the days of one king. At the end of seventy years it shall be with Tyre as in the song of the harlot:[h] 16 "Pick up a harp,
walk around the city,
you forgotten prostitute;
play sweetly,
sing song after song,
so that people will remember you."

17 And it shall come to pass at the end of seventy years that Yahweh will visit Tyre, and she shall return to her hire, and shall play the harlot with all the kingdoms of the world on the face of the earth.
18 And her merchandise and her hire shall be holy to Yahweh; it shall not be stored or hoarded; for her merchandise shall be for those who dwell before Yahweh, for abundant food and for fine clothing.[i]

Notes

- a (23:1) Tyre, Hebrew Tsor, "rock," the great Phoenician port city on an island off the coast of Lebanon. Tarshish, see 2:16. Kittim, Cyprus (from its city Kition), and later the western lands generally. Or "without house, without entering in."
- b (23:2) Sidon, "fishery," the other great Phoenician city, north of Tyre. Or, with the Great Isaiah Scroll, "your messengers passed over the sea"; Hebrew "passing over the sea, they filled you."
- c (23:3) Shihor, a branch of the Nile in the eastern delta (compare Jeremiah 2:18). The grain trade of Egypt passed through Phoenician hands.
- d (23:10) Or "like the Nile," perhaps "overflow your land." Or "there is no harbor (or shipyard) any more." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Work your land" ('ivdi for 'ivri).
- e (23:11) Canaan, here Phoenicia; Phoenicians called themselves Canaanites.
- f (23:12) "Virgin daughter of Sidon," a personification of the city.
- g (23:13) The verse is difficult; some read "the land of the Kittim" (Cyprus) or take it as a gloss pointing to the fall of Babylon. Hebrew ketiv "his siege towers."
- h (23:15) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the words from "Tyre shall be forgotten" through "seventy years it shall be," probably by a copyist's eye skipping from "in that day" to the similar words that follow. "Like the days of one king," perhaps a lifetime.
- i (23:18) Or "for stately clothing."

Chapter 24

1 Behold, Yahweh empties the earth and makes it waste,
and twists its surface,
and scatters its inhabitants.[a] 2 And it shall be, as with the people, so with the priest;
as with the servant, so with his master;
as with the maid, so with her mistress;
as with the buyer, so with the seller;
as with the lender, so with the borrower;
as with the creditor, so with the debtor.

3 The earth shall be utterly emptied and utterly despoiled;
for Yahweh has spoken this word.
4 The earth mourns and withers;
the world languishes and withers;
the high ones of the people of the earth languish.
5 And the earth is defiled under its inhabitants,
for they have transgressed the laws,
changed the statute,
broken the everlasting covenant.[b]
6 So a curse eats away at the earth,
and its people pay for their guilt;
so the earth's inhabitants are scorched,
and only a few people remain.
7 The new wine mourns, the vine languishes,
all the merry-hearted sigh.
8 The mirth of the tambourines ceases,
the noise of those who rejoice ends,
the mirth of the harp ceases.
9 They do not drink wine with a song;
strong drink is bitter to those who drink it.
10 The city of chaos is broken down;
every house is shut up, so that none can enter.[c] 11 In the streets there is crying over the wine;
all gladness has turned to dusk;
the joy of the land has gone into exile.
12 Desolation is left in the city,
and the gate is battered into ruins.
13 For thus it shall be in the midst of the earth among the peoples,
as at the beating of an olive tree,
as at the gleanings when the grape harvest is done.
14 They lift up their voice, they sing for joy;
over the majesty of Yahweh they shout from the west.[d] 15 So in the east, give glory to Yahweh, and in the coasts of the sea, give glory to the name of Yahweh, the God of Israel.[e]

16 From the end of the earth we hear songs:
"Splendor for the righteous!"
But I said, "Leanness to me, leanness to me! Alas for me!
The treacherous deal treacherously;
yes, the treacherous deal very treacherously."[f] 17 Dread and pitfall and trap are upon you who dwell in the land![g] 18 And it shall be that whoever flees from the noise of the dread shall fall into the pitfall, and whoever comes up from the midst of the pitfall shall be taken in the trap.
For the windows from on high are opened,
and the foundations of the land quake.
19 Broken, broken down is the land;
shattered, shattered is the land;
tottering, tottering is the land.
20 Reeling, the land reels like a drunkard,
and it sways to and fro like a hut;
and its transgression lies heavy upon it,
and it falls, and shall not rise again.[h] 21 On that day Yahweh will call to account the heavenly powers on high and the kings of the earth on earth.
22 And they shall be gathered together as prisoners in a pit,
and shall be shut up in a prison,
and after many days they shall be punished.[i] 23 Then the moon shall be confounded, and the sun ashamed;
for Yahweh of Armies shall reign
on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem,
and before his elders shall be glory.[j]

Notes

- a (24:1) Chapters 24–27 are often called the "Isaiah Apocalypse." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads ha'adamah, "the ground," for ha'arets, "the earth."
- b (24:5) Or "they have passed by the laws." Compare Genesis 9:16, the covenant with Noah.

- c (24:10) Hebrew tohu, the "formless" emptiness of Genesis 1:2.
- d (24:14) Hebrew "from the sea," that is, the Mediterranean, the west.
- e (24:15) Hebrew "in the lights," perhaps the regions of sunrise; some read "in the coastlands."
- f (24:16) Hebrew razi li, razi li, "my leanness to me"; the sense is uncertain. Or "I have a secret." The Hebrew has a heavy wordplay: bogedim bagadu uveged bogedim bagadu.
- g (24:17) Hebrew pahad vapahath vapah, a wordplay. Compare Jeremiah 48:43–44.
- h (24:20) Or "like a watchman's lodge" in a field (compare 1:8).
- i (24:22) Or "visited." The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the verb "gathered together."
- j (24:23) Hebrew "the white one (the moon) … the hot one (the sun)." Compare Revelation 21:23.

Chapter 25

1 O Yahweh, you are my God;
I will exalt you, I will praise your name;
for you have done wonders,
counsels from long ago, faithfulness and truth.[a] 2 For you have made of a city a heap,
of a fortified town a ruin;
a stronghold of strangers, so that it is no city;
it shall never be rebuilt.
3 Therefore a strong people shall glorify you;
the city of ruthless nations shall fear you.
4 For you have been a fortress for the lowly,
a fortress for the needy in his trouble,
a refuge from the tempest, a shadow from the heat;
when the blast of the terrible ones is as a rainstorm on a wall,
5 like heat in a parched place.
The tumult of strangers you bring down;
as heat by the shadow of a cloud,
so the song of the ruthless is brought low.
6 And in this mountain Yahweh of Armies will make for all peoples a feast of rich foods, a feast of aged wines,
of rich foods full of marrow,
of aged wines well refined.[b]

7 And he will swallow up in this mountain
the face of the covering that is cast over all peoples, and the veil that is woven over all nations.[c]
8 He will destroy death forever, and the Lord Yahweh will wipe the tears from all faces;
he will take away the shame of his people from the entire earth,
because Yahweh has spoken.[d] 9 On that day people will say,
"Look, this is our God;
we waited for him, and he saved us.
This is Yahweh; we waited for him;
let's celebrate and be glad that he saves."[e] 10 For on this mountain the hand of Yahweh shall rest;
and Moab shall be threshed under him,
as straw is threshed in the water of a dung heap.[f]
11 He will stretch out his hands in the middle of it like a swimmer stretching out to swim,
but Yahweh will lower his pride
along with the skill of his hands.[g] 12 And the lofty stronghold of your walls he has brought down, he has laid it low, he has made it touch the earth, even the dust.

Notes

- a (25:1) Or "plans formed long ago, in perfect faithfulness."
- b (25:6) Hebrew shemanim, "fat things"; shemarim, "lees," wine aged on its sediment.
- c (25:7) Or "the shroud," a covering of mourning or death.
- d (25:8) Quoted in 1 Corinthians 15:54; compare Revelation 7:17; 21:4.
- e (25:9) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "And you shall say," and adds "Yahweh" after "this is our God."
- f (25:10) Hebrew madmenah, "dung pit," perhaps a wordplay on the Moabite town Madmen (Jeremiah 48:2). Ketiv "in the waters of"; qere "in the dung."
- g (25:11) Or "despite the skill of his hands."

Chapter 26

1 On that day this song will be sung in Judah:
"We have a strong city;
he makes salvation its walls and outer defenses.[a] 2 Open the gates,
that the righteous nation which keeps faithfulness may enter in.[b] 3 The mind that is stayed on you
you keep in perfect peace,
because he trusts in you.[c]
4 Trust in Yahweh forever,
for in Yah, Yahweh, is an everlasting rock.[d] 5 He has humbled those living on the heights,
the city that stood so high;
he brings it down, brings it down to the ground,
and throws it in the dust.
6 The foot tramples it,
the feet of the afflicted,
the steps of the poor."
7 The path of the righteous is level;
you, O Upright One, make smooth the course of the righteous.[e] 8 Yes, Yahweh, as your judgments unfold,
we wait for you;
the longing of our soul
is for your name and the remembrance of you.[f] 9 With my soul I have longed for you in the night;
yes, with my spirit within me I seek you early;
for when your judgments are in the earth,
the inhabitants of the world learn righteousness.
10 If the wicked are shown mercy,
they still do not learn what is right;
even in a land of honest people they act unjustly
and pay no attention to Yahweh's majesty.

11 O Yahweh, your hand is lifted up, yet they do not see;
let them see your zeal for your people, and be ashamed;
yes, let the fire for your adversaries consume them.[g] 12 O Yahweh, you will establish peace for us,
for indeed all our works you have done for us.
13 O Yahweh our God, lords other than you have been masters over us;
but by you only do we make mention of your name.
14 They are dead, they shall not live;
they are shades, they shall not rise;
therefore you have visited and destroyed them,
and made every memory of them perish.[h] 15 You have enlarged the nation, Yahweh;
you have enlarged the nation and been glorified;
you have pushed out all the borders of the land.
16 O Yahweh, in trouble they came looking for you;
they poured forth a muttered prayer
when your chastening lay on them.[i] 17 As a woman with child,
who draws near the time of her delivery,
writhes and cries out in her pangs,
so have we been before you, O Yahweh.
18 We were with child, we writhed,
we have as it were given birth to wind;
we have not wrought deliverance in the land,
nor have inhabitants of the world been born.[j]
19 Your dead will live; their bodies will rise.
Wake up and sing for joy, you who lie in the dust!
For your dew is like the dew of the morning,
and the earth will bring the departed to birth.[k] 20 Come, my people, enter your chambers,
and shut your doors behind you;
hide yourself for a little moment,
until the indignation passes by.[l]

21 For behold, Yahweh is coming out of his place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity;
and the earth shall disclose her blood,
and shall no more cover her slain.

Notes

- a (26:1) Or "he sets up salvation for walls and bulwark."
- b (26:2) Or "that keeps faith."
- c (26:3) Hebrew shalom shalom, "peace, peace," a doubling for completeness. Or "The steadfast mind you keep in peace."
- d (26:4) Yah, a short form of the name Yahweh (compare 12:2). Rock, Hebrew tsur, a frequent title of God.
- e (26:7) Or "The path of the righteous is uprightness."
- f (26:8) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "and for your law" (ulethoratekha) for "and for your remembrance."
- g (26:11) Or "they shall see your zeal for the people."
- h (26:14) Shades, Hebrew repha'im, the spirits of the dead (compare 14:9).
- i (26:16) Or "they poured out a charm." The Hebrew of the verse is difficult.
- j (26:18) Or "nor have inhabitants of the world fallen." Hebrew naphal, "to fall," perhaps meaning "be born" here.
- k (26:19) "My corpses," Hebrew nevelathi; some read "their corpses." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "they shall awake and shout for joy." "Dew of lights," or "dew of herbs." This is one of the clearest Old Testament expressions of the hope of resurrection (compare Daniel 12:2).
- l (26:20) Compare Exodus 12:22–23.

Chapter 27

1 In that day Yahweh will visit with his sword, the hard and the great and the strong, upon Leviathan the gliding serpent, and upon Leviathan the coiling serpent; and he will kill the monster that is in the sea.[a]

2 In that day:
"A vineyard of wine, sing of it![b]

3 I, Yahweh, am its keeper;
every moment I water it;
lest any harm it,
I keep it night and day.

4 I have no wrath.
Would that I had briers and thorns!

In battle I would stride against them,
I would set them on fire together.[c]
5 Or else let him take hold of my strength,
let him make peace with me;
peace let him make with me."
6 In days to come Jacob shall take root;
Israel shall blossom and bud,
and fill the face of the world with fruit.
7 Has he struck him as he struck those who struck him?
Or is he slain as those were slain who slew him?
8 By measure, by sending her away, you contended with her;
he removed her with his fierce blast in the day of the east wind.[d] 9 So this is how Jacob's guilt will be forgiven,
and this is the full result of removing his sin:
he will crush all the altar stones
like chalk ground to bits, and no Asherah poles or incense altars will be left standing.[e] 10 For the fortified city is solitary,
a habitation forsaken and deserted like the wilderness;
there the calf grazes, and there it lies down,
and strips its branches.
11 When its branches dry up, they are broken off;
women come and use them as firewood.
This is a people without understanding;
so their Maker will not pity them,
and the one who formed them will not be kind to them.
12 And it shall come to pass in that day that Yahweh will thresh out the grain from the flowing River to the Brook of Egypt, and you shall be gleaned one by one, O children of Israel.[f]
13 On that day a great trumpet will be blown, and the people who were perishing in Assyria and the ones scattered in Egypt will come and bow down to Yahweh on the holy mountain at Jerusalem.[g]

Notes

- a (27:1) Leviathan, a sea monster of chaos; the same descriptions ("fleeing serpent," "twisting serpent") are used of Lotan in Ugaritic texts from about 1300 BC. Compare Job 41:1; Psalm 74:14; 104:26.
- b (27:2) Some Hebrew manuscripts read "A pleasant vineyard" (hemed for hemer); compare 5:1–7.
- c (27:4) Or "Who will give me briers and thorns in battle?"
- d (27:8) Hebrew besa'se'ah, of uncertain meaning, perhaps "by measure" (from se'ah, a dry measure) or "by driving her out."
- e (27:9) Compare Romans 11:27. Asherim, wooden cult poles for the goddess Asherah.
- f (27:12) The River, the Euphrates. The Brook of Egypt, the Wadi el-Arish, the southwest border of Canaan.
- g (27:13) Compare Matthew 24:31; 1 Corinthians 15:52; 1 Thessalonians 4:16.

Chapter 28

1 Woe to the proud crown of the drunkards of Ephraim,
and to the fading flower of its glorious beauty,
which is on the head of the rich valley
of those struck down by wine![a] 2 Look, the Lord has someone strong and powerful;
like a hailstorm and a destructive windstorm,
like a flood of mighty overflowing water,
he throws it down to the ground with his hand.[b] 3 With feet shall be trodden down
the proud crown of the drunkards of Ephraim;
4 and the fading flower of its glorious beauty,
which is on the head of the rich valley,
shall be as an early fig before the summer,
which, when one sees it, he swallows it
while it is still in his hand.
5 In that day Yahweh of Armies shall be a crown of glory and a diadem of beauty
to the remnant of his people, 6 and a spirit of justice to him who sits in judgment,
and strength to those who turn back the battle at the gate.
7 These men also stumble from wine
and wobble from liquor;

priest and prophet stumble from liquor,
they are confused by wine,
they wobble from liquor;
they stumble when they see visions,
they trip when they give rulings.
8 For all tables are full of vomit and filth,
without a clean place.
9 "Whom will he teach knowledge,
and whom will he make to understand the message?
Those weaned from milk,
those taken from the breast?
10 For it is tsav latsav, tsav latsav,
qav laqav, qav laqav,
a little here, a little there."[c]
11 Truly, with stammering lips and with another tongue
he will speak to this people,[d] 12 to whom he said,
"This is the rest; give rest to the weary;
and this is the repose";
yet they were not willing to hear.
13 Therefore the word of Yahweh shall be to them
tsav latsav, tsav latsav,
qav laqav, qav laqav,
a little here, a little there,
that they may go and fall backward,
and be broken, and snared, and taken.
14 Therefore hear the word of Yahweh, you scoffers, who rule this people that is in Jerusalem!
15 Because you have said, "We have made a covenant with death,
and with Sheol we have made a pact;
when the overflowing scourge passes through,
it shall not come to us;
for we have made a lie our refuge,
and in falsehood we have hidden ourselves";[e]

16 So the Lord Yahweh says this:
"See, in Zion I am placing a stone as a foundation, proven, a valuable cornerstone for a secure base;
anyone who trusts in it will not be shaken.[f] 17 And I will make justice the line,
and righteousness the plummet;
and hail shall sweep away the refuge of lies,
and waters shall overflow the hiding place.
18 Then your covenant with death shall be annulled, and your pact with Sheol shall not stand;
when the overflowing scourge passes through,
you shall be trampled down by it.
19 As often as it passes through it shall take you;
for morning by morning it shall pass through,
by day and by night;
and it shall be sheer terror to understand the message."[g] 20 For the couch is shorter than a man can stretch out upon,
and the blanket narrower than he can wrap himself in.
21 For Yahweh shall rise up as at Mount Perazim;
he shall be stirred as in the valley of Gibeon,
that he may do his work, his strange work,
and bring to pass his act, his foreign act.[h] 22 Now therefore do not be scoffers, lest your bonds be made strong;
for I have heard a decree of destruction
from the Lord, Yahweh of Armies, upon the whole land.[i] 23 Give ear, and hear my voice;
listen, and hear my speech.
24 Does the plowman plow all day to sow?
Does he open and harrow his ground?
25 When he has leveled its surface,
does he not cast abroad the dill, and fling the cumin,
and set the wheat in rows,
and the barley in its marked place,
and spelt as its border?[j]

26 For his God instructs him rightly;
he teaches him.
27 For not with a sharp sledge is dill threshed,
nor is the wheel of a wagon turned about upon the cumin;
but with a stick is the dill knocked out,
and the cumin with a staff.
28 Bread grain is ground fine,
yet not forever does one keep threshing it;
and though the wheel of his wagon and his horses roll over it,
he does not grind it to powder.[k]
29 This also comes forth from Yahweh of Armies;
he is wonderful in counsel,
and great in sound wisdom.[l]

Notes

- a (28:1) Ephraim, here the northern kingdom of Israel, whose capital Samaria stood on a hill above a fertile valley (about 724 BC). The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "the crown of the pride of."
- b (28:2) The mighty one is the king of Assyria. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads Yahweh for 'Adonai ("the Lord").
- c (28:10) Hebrew tsav latsav, tsav latsav, qav laqav, qav laqav, perhaps mocking imitation of the prophet as baby talk, or the letters of the alphabet (tsade, qoph), or "precept upon precept, line upon line."
- d (28:11) Quoted in 1 Corinthians 14:21. The "other tongue" is the Assyrian language.
- e (28:15) Sheol, the realm of the dead. "Death" may also refer to the Canaanite god Mot (death).
- f (28:16) Quoted with Isaiah 8:14 in Romans 9:33; also Romans 10:11; 1 Peter 2:6. "Shall not hasten," that is, shall not panic or flee; the Septuagint reads "shall by no means be put to shame."
- g (28:19) Or "to understand the message shall be sheer terror."
- h (28:21) Compare 2 Samuel 5:20 (Baal-perazim, "lord of breaking through") and Joshua 10:10–14 (Gibeon); there Yahweh fought for Israel, here against it.
- i (28:22) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks 'Adonai, reading "from Yahweh of Armies."
- j (28:25) Dill, Hebrew qetsah, black cumin or nigella. Spelt, a hardy kind of wheat. Hebrew "barley in its place," a word of uncertain meaning (nisman).
- k (28:28) Or "Grain for bread is threshed."
- l (28:29) Or "great in success."

Chapter 29

1 Woe, Ariel, Ariel,
the city where David encamped!
Add year to year;
let the feasts run their round.[a] 2 Then I will distress Ariel, and there shall be mourning and lamentation,
and she shall be to me like an altar hearth.[b] 3 I will set up camp all around you,
surround you with a siege mound,
and build siege towers against you.[c]
4 And brought low, you shall speak from the earth,
and your speech shall be low from the dust;
and your voice shall be from the earth like that of a ghost,
and your speech shall chirp from the dust.
5 But the crowd of your enemies will be like fine dust,
and the horde of tyrants like drifting chaff;
and it will happen in an instant, all at once.[d] 6 From Yahweh of Armies you shall be visited with thunder and with earthquake and great noise,
with whirlwind and tempest,
and the flame of a devouring fire.
7 The crowd of all the nations that fight against Ariel,
all who attack her and her fortress and press hard on her,
will be like a dream, a vision in the night.[e] 8 It shall be as when a hungry man dreams,
and behold, he is eating,
and he awakes, and his soul is empty;
or as when a thirsty man dreams,
and behold, he is drinking,
and he awakes, and behold, he is faint,
and his soul is still craving;
so shall the multitude of all the nations be that fight against Mount Zion.

9 Pause and be astonished;
blind yourselves and go blind!
They are intoxicated, though not by wine;
they stumble, though not by liquor.[f]
10 For Yahweh has poured over you a spirit of deep sleep,
has closed your eyes, you prophets,
and veiled your heads, you seers.[g]
11 For you the entire vision has turned into the content of a sealed scroll. If it is given to a person who can read, with the words "Read this, please," he replies, "I am unable to, since it is sealed."
12 And the book is given to one who does not know writing, saying, "Read this, please"; and he says, "I do not know writing."
13 And the Lord said:
"Because this people draws near with its mouth,
and with its lips they honor me,
but its heart it has removed far from me,
and their fear of me is a commandment of men learned by rote;[h] 14 therefore behold, I will again deal wonderfully with this people, wonderfully and with wonder;
and the wisdom of their wise men shall perish,
and the understanding of their discerning men shall hide itself."[i] 15 Woe to those who go deep to hide their counsel from Yahweh, whose deeds are in the dark,
and who say, "Who sees us? And who knows us?"
16 Your perversity!
Is the potter to be reckoned like the clay,
that the work should say of the one who made it, "He made me not";
or the vessel say of the one who shaped it, "He understands nothing"?[j] 17 In just a very short time,
will Lebanon not become an orchard,
and the orchard be thought of as a forest?[k]
18 And in that day the deaf shall hear the words of a book, and out of gloom and darkness the eyes of the blind shall see.

19 The humble will find new joy in Yahweh, and the poorest people will celebrate in the Holy One of Israel.
20 For the ruthless shall come to nothing, and the scoffer shall cease,
and all who watch for iniquity shall be cut off, 21 They declare a person guilty by a word,
set a trap for the one who argues at the city gate,
and deny justice to the innocent with groundless claims.[l] 22 Therefore this is what Yahweh, who ransomed Abraham, says about the house of Jacob:
"Jacob will not be put to shame now,
and his face will not be pale with fear now.
23 For when he sees his children,
the work of my hands, in his midst,
they shall sanctify my name;
yes, they shall sanctify the Holy One of Jacob,
and shall stand in awe of the God of Israel.
24 And those who err in spirit shall come to understanding,
and those who murmur shall learn instruction."

Notes

- a (29:1) Ariel, a name for Jerusalem, perhaps meaning "altar hearth" (as in Ezekiel 43:15–16) or "lion of God." Compare 2 Samuel 5:6–9.
- b (29:2) Hebrew ka'ari'el, "like an Ariel," a wordplay: the city shall become a place of burning like an altar.
- c (29:3) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "with strongholds" (metsodoth). Hebrew "like a circle" (kaddur); the Septuagint reads "like David" (kedawid).
- d (29:5) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "your arrogant ones" (zedayikh) for "your foes" (zarayikh, "your strangers").
- e (29:7) Or "her siege works."
- f (29:9) Or "Delay, and be astonished." Hebrew hitmahmehu utemahu, hishta'ash'u washo'u, a wordplay.
- g (29:10) "The prophets" and "the seers" may be explanatory additions.
- h (29:13) Quoted, following the Septuagint ("in vain do they worship me, teaching the commandments and doctrines of men"), in Matthew 15:8–9; Mark 7:6–7.
- i (29:14) Quoted in 1 Corinthians 1:19, following the Septuagint ("I will destroy … I will set aside").
- j (29:16) Compare Romans 9:20–21; 45:9.
- k (29:17) Hebrew karmel, "garden land" or "orchard."
- l (29:21) Or "with emptiness" (tohu); "in the gate," where justice was administered.

Chapter 30

1 “Woe to the rebellious children,” says Yahweh,
“who carry out a plan, but not mine,
and who pour out a libation, but not of my Spirit,
that they may add sin to sin;[a] 2 who set out to go down to Egypt,
and have not asked my mouth,
to make themselves strong in the strength of Pharaoh,
and to hide in the shade of Egypt!
3 Therefore the strength of Pharaoh shall turn to your shame,
and the hiding in the shade of Egypt to your confusion.
4 For his princes are at Zoan,
and his envoys reach Hanes.[b] 5 They all shall be ashamed
because of a people who cannot profit them,
neither for help nor for profit,
but for shame and also reproach.”
6 A message about the animals of the Negev.
Through a land of hardship and distress,
where lioness and lion roam, and viper and flying fiery serpent live,
they load their wealth on young donkeys
and their treasures on camels’ humps,
to take to a people who cannot help them.[c]
7 For Egypt helps with vanity and to no purpose;
therefore have I named this one “Rahab, they sit idle.”[d]
8 Now go, write it before them on a tablet,
and inscribe it in a book,
that it may be for the time to come,
a witness forever.[e]
9 For this is a people of rebellion, sons who lie, sons who will not hear the law of Yahweh;[f]

10 who say to the seers, “Do not see,”
and to the visionaries, “Do not envision for us what is right;
speak to us smooth things,
envision illusions;
11 leave the way, turn aside from the path,
make the Holy One of Israel cease from before us.”
12 Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel:
“Because you despise this word,
and trust in oppression and crookedness,
and lean upon them,
13 so this guilt will be for you
like a crack about to give way, bulging in a high wall
that collapses all at once, in a moment;
14 and he will break it as a potter’s jar is broken,
smashed without sparing,
so that there shall not be found among its pieces a potsherd to carry fire from the hearth,
or to skim water from the pit.”
15 For thus says the Lord Yahweh, the Holy One of Israel:
“By turning back and by resting you shall be saved;
in being quiet and in confidence shall your might be.”
But you were not willing,
16 and you said, “No! for we will flee upon horses”;
therefore you shall flee;
and, “Upon the swift will we ride”;
therefore swift shall they be who chase you.
17 A thousand will run away from the threat of a single one;
you will run away from the threat of five,
until you are left like a pole on a mountaintop,
like a banner on a hill.
18 And therefore Yahweh waits to be gracious to you,
and therefore he rises up to have mercy on you;
for Yahweh is a God of justice;
blessed are all who wait for him.[g]

19 Yes, a people will settle in Zion, in Jerusalem;
your weeping will end.
When you call for help, he will certainly show you kindness;
when he hears you, he will respond.[h] 20 Though the Lord has given you bread of hardship
and water of suffering,
your Teacher will no longer hide himself,
but you will see your Teacher with your own eyes.[i] 21 And when you go to the right hand or to the left,
your ears shall hear a word from behind you, saying,
"This is the way; walk in it."
22 You will treat as unclean your carved images covered in silver and your cast idols plated in gold;
you will throw them away like filthy rags;
you will tell them, "Get out!"
23 And he will give rain for your seed
with which you sow the ground,
and bread, the produce of the ground,
and it shall be rich and plenteous.
In that day your cattle shall graze in a broad pasture;
24 and the oxen and the young donkeys that till the soil
shall eat salted fodder,
which has been winnowed with shovel and fork.
25 And upon every high mountain and upon every lofty hill
there shall be channels running with water, in the day of the great slaughter, when the towers fall.
26 And the light of the moon shall be as the light of the sun,
and the light of the sun shall be sevenfold,
as the light of seven days,
in the day when Yahweh binds up the brokenness of his people,
and heals the wounds inflicted by his blow.
27 Behold, the name of Yahweh comes from afar,
burning with his anger, and heavy rising smoke;
his lips are full of indignation,
and his tongue is like a devouring fire;[j]

28 and his breath is like a flooding river rising to the neck,
to shake the nations in a sieve of ruin,
with a bridle in the jaws of the peoples that leads them astray.
29 You shall have a song as in the night when a holy feast is kept,
and gladness of heart, as when one goes with the flute to come to the mountain of Yahweh, to the Rock of Israel.
30 And Yahweh will cause the majesty of his voice to be heard,
and will show the descending blow of his arm,
in furious anger and the flame of a devouring fire,
with cloudburst and storm and hailstones.
31 For at the voice of Yahweh Assyria shall be shattered,
when he strikes with the rod.
32 And every stroke of the appointed staff which Yahweh lays upon him
shall be to the sound of tambourines and lyres;
and in battles of brandishing he will fight with them.[k] 33 A Topheth has been ready for a long time;
it has been prepared for the king as well;
its fire pit is made deep and wide,
with plenty of fire and wood;
the breath of Yahweh, like a stream of burning sulfur, sets it on fire.[l]

Notes

- a (30:1) Or "who make an alliance" (literally "weave a web").
- b (30:4) Zoan, see 19:11. Hanes, probably Heracleopolis, south of Memphis, or a town in the delta. "His," perhaps Pharaoh's, or Judah's.
- c (30:6) The Negev, the dry land south of Judah, through which envoys traveled to Egypt. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "of trouble and dryness and anguish, of lioness and lion, and there is no water." "Flying fiery serpent," see 14:29.
- d (30:7) Rahab, "arrogance" or "storm," the name of a chaos monster and a name for Egypt (51:9; Psalm 87:4). Hebrew rahav hem shavet, perhaps "Rahab, they are a do-nothing."
- e (30:8) Or, with some Hebrew vocalizations and ancient versions, "as a witness."
- f (30:9) Hebrew torah, "law" or "teaching."
- g (30:18) Or "Yahweh longs to be gracious to you."
- h (30:19) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds Yahweh ("Yahweh will surely be gracious").
- i (30:20) Or "your teachers." The Hebrew moreyka may be singular or plural.

- j (30:27) Or "and his burden is heavy."
- k (30:32) Or "with them he will fight in battles of wave offering," a phrase for brandishing.
- l (30:33) Topheth, a place of burning in the Valley of Hinnom where children were sacrificed (2 Kings 23:10; Jeremiah 7:31). Some read "for Molech" in place of "for the king" (Hebrew lammelek), a wordplay.

Chapter 31

1 How terrible for those who go down to Egypt to get help, who depend on horses
and put their confidence in the vast number of chariots
and in the great strength of the horsemen,
but never look to the Holy One of Israel
or ask Yahweh for guidance!
2 Yet he too is wise, and brings disaster,
and does not call back his words,
but will arise against the house of evildoers,
and against the help of those who work iniquity.
3 And the Egyptians are men, and not God,
and their horses flesh, and not spirit.
When Yahweh stretches out his hand,
the helper shall stumble, and the one helped shall fall,
and they shall all perish together.[a] 4 For thus Yahweh has said to me:
"As the lion and the young lion roar over their catch,
and though a crowd of herdsmen be summoned against him,
he is not dismayed at their shouting
nor cowed by their noise,
so shall Yahweh of Armies come down to wage war upon Mount Zion and upon its hill.
5 Like birds hovering,
so will Yahweh of Armies shield Jerusalem;
he will shield and deliver it,
he will pass over and rescue it."[b]
6 Turn back to him against whom the children of Israel have deeply revolted.[c]

7 For in that day every man shall cast away his idols of silver and his idols of gold, which your own hands have made for you as sin.
8 "And Assyria shall fall by a sword not of man;
and a sword not of mankind shall devour him;
and he shall flee from the sword,
and his young men shall be put to forced labor.[d] 9 And his rock shall pass away in terror,
and his princes shall be dismayed at the banner,"
says Yahweh, whose fire is in Zion,
and whose furnace is in Jerusalem.[e]

Notes

- a (31:3) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "lion" (ʾaryeh) for "spirit" (ruah) in verse 3, apparently a correction or slip; compare verse 4.
- b (31:5) Hebrew pasoah, "passing over," the verb of the Passover (Exodus 12:13, 23, 27).
- c (31:6) Or "from whom you have deeply revolted, O children of Israel."
- d (31:8) Compare 37:36.
- e (31:9) "His rock," perhaps his stronghold, or his king.

Chapter 32

1 Behold, a king shall reign in righteousness,
and princes shall rule with justice.
2 Each one will be like a shelter from the wind,
a hiding place from the storm,
like channels of water in a parched land,
like the shadow of a massive boulder in a worn-out land.
3 And the eyes of those who see shall not be closed,
and the ears of those who hear shall give heed.
4 And the heart of the hasty shall understand knowledge, and the tongue of the stammerers shall hasten to speak plainly.
5 The fool shall no more be called noble,
nor shall the scoundrel be said to be generous.[a] 6 For the fool speaks folly,
and his heart works iniquity,
to practice godlessness,
and to utter error against Yahweh,

to make empty the soul of the hungry,
and to cause the drink of the thirsty to fail.[b] 7 As for the knave, his tools are evil;
he devises wicked devices
to undo the lowly with words of falsehood,
even when the needy speaks what is right.
8 But the generous man devises generous things,
and by generous things shall he stand.
9 Rise up, you women who are at ease, hear my voice;
you complacent daughters, give ear to my speech.
10 In a little more than a year
you shall shudder, you complacent women;
for the grape harvest fails,
the gathering shall not come.[c] 11 Quake, you women at ease;
be troubled, you careless ones;
strip yourselves, lay yourselves bare,
and gird sackcloth upon your loins.[d] 12 They beat upon their breasts
for the pleasant fields, for the fruitful vine, 13 for the ground of my people,
where thorn and brier come up,
yes, upon all the houses of gladness in the merry town.
14 For the palace is forsaken,
the noisy city is deserted;
the hill and the watchtower
shall become caves forever,
a joy of wild donkeys, a pasture of flocks;[e] 15 until the Spirit is poured out upon us from on high,
and the wilderness becomes a fruitful field,
and the fruitful field is counted as a forest.
16 Then justice shall dwell in the wilderness,
and righteousness abide in the fruitful field.
17 And the work of righteousness shall be peace,
and the service of righteousness, quietness and trust forever.

18 My people will live in a peaceful home,
in secure houses, in quiet places of rest.
19 Though hail will fall when the forest is cut down,
and the city will be completely leveled,[f]
20 Blessed are you who sow beside all waters,
who let the foot of the ox and the donkey range free.

Notes

- a (32:5) Hebrew naval, "fool," the morally senseless man (compare 1 Samuel 25:25, Nabal); kilai, "scoundrel" or "knave."
- b (32:6) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "his heart devises iniquity."
- c (32:10) Hebrew "Days upon a year."
- d (32:11) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads the verbs as plural feminine forms and adds "and wail."
- e (32:14) Hebrew 'ophel, the hill of the city of David (compare 2 Chronicles 27:3).
- f (32:19) Or "the forest shall utterly fall." The Hebrew of verse 19 is uncertain.

Chapter 33

1 Woe to you who spoil, and were not spoiled, and deal treacherously, and they did not deal treacherously with you!
When you have made an end of spoiling, you shall be spoiled;
and when you have finished betraying, they shall betray you.[a] 2 Yahweh, be kind to us; we have waited for you.
Be our strength every morning,
and our rescue in times of trouble.[b] 3 At the sound of tumult the peoples flee;
when you lift yourself up, nations are scattered.
4 Your plunder is gathered like caterpillars gather;
people pounce on it like swarming locusts.
5 Yahweh is exalted, for he dwells on high;
he has filled Zion with justice and righteousness.
6 And there shall be steadiness in your seasons,
riches of deliverance, of wisdom and of knowing;
the fear of Yahweh is his treasure.[c]
7 Behold, their heroes cry outside;
the envoys of peace weep bitterly.[d]

8 The highways lie waste,
the traveler ceases;
the covenant is broken,
the cities are despised,
he has no regard for man.[e]
9 The land mourns and languishes;
Lebanon is abashed and moulders;
Sharon has become like the desert plain,
and Bashan and Carmel shed their foliage.[f]
10 "Now I will arise," says Yahweh;
"now I will be exalted;
now I will be lifted up.
11 You conceive chaff,
you give birth to stubble;
your breath is a fire that shall devour you.
12 And the peoples shall be as burnings of lime,
as thorns cut down, that are burned in the fire.
13 Hear, you who are far off, what I have done;
and you who are near, know my might."
14 The sinners in Zion are afraid;
trembling has seized the godless:
"Who among us can dwell with the devouring fire?
Who among us can dwell with everlasting burnings?"
15 Whoever lives justly and speaks honestly,
who refuses to profit from extortion,
who waves away a bribe instead of taking it,
who blocks his ears against plots of bloodshed,
and shuts his eyes against watching evil, 16 he shall dwell on the heights;
his refuge shall be the fortresses of rocks;
his bread shall be given him,
his water shall be sure.
17 Your eyes shall behold the king in his beauty;
they shall see a land that stretches afar.

18 Your mind will go back over the terror:
"Where is the scribe? Where is the one who weighed out the payment?
Where is the officer who tallied the towers?"[g] 19 The fierce people you shall not see,
a people of speech too deep to perceive,
of a mocking tongue that has no sense to you.
20 Look at Zion, the city of our festivals!
Your eyes will see Jerusalem,
a peaceful home, a tent that will not be moved,
whose pegs will never be pulled up
and none of whose ropes will snap.
21 There Yahweh will be our majestic God,
in a place of wide rivers and streams,
where no rowing ship will travel
and no great vessel will sail.
22 For Yahweh is our judge,
Yahweh is our lawgiver,
Yahweh is our king;
he will save us.[h]
23 Your ropes hang loose;
they cannot hold firm the base of their mast,
nor spread out the sail.
Then prey and spoil in abundance shall be divided;
even the lame shall take the prey.
24 No resident will say, "I am ill";
the people living there will have their guilt forgiven.

Notes

- a (33:1) Probably Assyria; compare 21:2.
- b (33:2) "Their arm," so the Hebrew; some ancient versions read "our arm."
- c (33:6) Or "Zion's treasure."
- d (33:7) Hebrew 'er'ellam, of uncertain meaning; perhaps "their Ariel" (compare 29:1) or "I will appear to them." The Great Isaiah Scroll divides it as 'er'eh lam, "I will see (or appear) to them."
- e (33:8) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads 'edim, "witnesses," for 'arim, "cities": "he has despised the witnesses," perhaps the witnesses to the treaty.

- f (33:9) Sharon, the coastal plain; "the desert plain," Hebrew haʿaravah, the Arabah, the desert rift south of the Dead Sea; Bashan, the fertile highland east of the Sea of Galilee; Carmel, the wooded ridge by the sea (compare 35:2).
- g (33:18) Officials who counted and weighed the tribute and surveyed the defenses. Compare 1 Corinthians 1:20.
- h (33:22) Hebrew mehoqeqenu, "our lawgiver" or "our commander." Compare James 4:12.

Chapter 34

1 Draw near, O nations, to hear,
and give heed, O peoples!
Let the land and its fullness hear,
the world and all its offspring.
2 For Yahweh is angry with all the nations and furious with all their armies;
he has put them under the ban for destruction
and handed them over to be slaughtered.[a] 3 And their slain shall be cast out, and the stench of their corpses shall rise,
and the mountains shall melt with their blood.
4 And all the host of heaven shall rot away,
and the heavens shall be rolled up like a scroll;
and all their host shall wither,
as the leaf withers from the vine,
like a withering fig from the fig tree.[b]
5 For my sword has drunk its fill in the heavens;
behold, it comes down upon Edom,
upon the people I have devoted, for judgment.[c] 6 The sword of Yahweh is full of blood,
it is gorged with fat,
with the blood of lambs and goats,
with the fat of the kidneys of rams.
For Yahweh has a sacrifice in Bozrah,
and a great slaughter in the land of Edom.[d] 7 And the wild oxen shall come down with them,
and young bulls with the mighty bulls;

and their land shall be soaked with blood,
and their dust made rich with fat.
8 For it is Yahweh's day of vengeance,
a year of recompense for the cause of Zion.
9 And her streams shall be turned into pitch,
and her dust into brimstone,
and her land shall become burning pitch.
10 It will not be put out night or day;
its smoke will rise forever.
It will lie in ruins from one generation to the next;
no one will ever pass through it again.[e] 11 But the hawk and the hedgehog shall possess it,
and the owl and the raven shall dwell in it;
and he shall stretch over it the line of confusion
and the plummet of emptiness.[f] 12 Her nobles, there is none there whom they proclaim king, and all her princes shall be nothing.
13 And thorns shall come up in her palaces,
nettles and thistles in her fortresses;
and she shall be a haunt of jackals,
an abode for ostriches.
14 And the wild beasts of the desert shall meet with the hyenas,
and the wild goat shall cry to his fellow;
indeed, there the night creature shall settle,
and find for herself a resting place.[g]
15 There the owl will make her nest and lay her eggs,
hatch them and gather the young under her wings;
there also the vultures will gather,
each with its mate.[h]
16 Seek out of the book of Yahweh, and read:
not one of these shall be missing;
none shall lack her mate.
For his mouth has commanded,
and his Spirit has gathered them.[i]

17 And he has cast the lot for them,
and his hand has divided it to them by measure;
forever shall they hold it as their own;
age after age shall they abide in it.

Notes

- a (34:2) Hebrew heherim, "devoted to destruction" (herem), the ban of holy war.
- b (34:4) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "And the valleys shall be split, and all the host of heaven shall fall" for "And all the host of heaven shall rot away." Compare Matthew 24:29; Revelation 6:13–14.
- c (34:5) Or "the people of my ban." Edom, the people descended from Esau, here standing for the hostile nations. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "shall appear" (tera'eh) for "has drunk its fill" (rivvetah).
- d (34:6) Bozrah, a chief city of Edom (compare 63:1). Compare Revelation 19:13–15.
- e (34:10) Compare Revelation 14:11; 19:3.
- f (34:11) Hebrew tohu and bohu, "formlessness" and "emptiness," as in Genesis 1:2. The identity of several of these creatures is uncertain.
- g (34:14) Hebrew lilith, perhaps a nocturnal bird, or the name of a female night demon known from Mesopotamian sources. "Hyenas," or "howling creatures"; "wild goat," or "goat-demon" (compare 13:21).
- h (34:15) Hebrew qippoz, uncertain, perhaps an owl. Kites, birds of prey.
- i (34:16) Hebrew "my mouth." The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "his mouth."

Chapter 35

1 The wilderness and the dry land shall be glad,
and the desert shall rejoice and blossom like the crocus.[a] 2 It shall blossom abundantly,
and rejoice with joy and singing.
The glory of Lebanon shall be given to it,
the splendor of Carmel and Sharon.
They shall see the glory of Yahweh,
the splendor of our God.
3 Strengthen the slack hands,
and make firm the tottering knees.[b] 4 Say to those who are of an anxious heart,
"Be strong, do not fear!
Behold, your God will come with vengeance,
with the recompense of God;
he will come and save you."

5 Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened,
and the ears of the deaf unstopped;
6 then the lame man shall leap like a deer,
and the tongue of the mute shall sing.
For waters shall break forth in the wilderness,
and streams in the desert;[c]
7 and the burning sand shall become a pool,
and the thirsty ground springs of water;
in the haunt of jackals, where they lay,
grass shall become reeds and rushes.[d]
8 And a highway shall be there, and a way,
and it shall be called the Way of Holiness;
the unclean shall not pass over it;
it shall be for those who walk the way,
and fools shall not wander on it.[e] 9 There will be no lions there,
and no vicious animals will come up on it;
none will be found there;
but the redeemed will walk on it.
10 The ones Yahweh has ransomed will return
and enter Zion singing,
with everlasting joy crowning their heads;
they will be overtaken by gladness and joy,
and sorrow and sighing will run away.[f]

Notes

- a (35:1) Or "like the rose"; Hebrew havatselet, perhaps the crocus or asphodel.
- b (35:3) Compare Hebrews 12:12.
- c (35:6) Compare Matthew 11:5; Luke 7:22.
- d (35:7) Or "the mirage shall become a pool." Hebrew sharav.
- e (35:8) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks "and a way." Or "it shall be for them; the wayfarer, even fools, shall not go astray."
- f (35:10) Compare 51:11.

Chapter 36

1 And it came to pass in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah that Sennacherib king of Assyria came up against all the fortified cities of Judah and seized them.[a] 2 The king of Assyria sent the Rabshakeh, his chief officer, with a large army from Lachish to King Hezekiah in Jerusalem. He stopped at the aqueduct of the upper pool, on the road to the Launderer's Field.[b] 3 Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was in charge of the palace, came out to him, together with Shebna the secretary and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder.[c] 4 And the Rabshakeh said to them, "Tell Hezekiah, I pray you, 'So says the great king, the king of Assyria: What trust is this in which you trust? 5 I say, your counsel and might for war are but a word of the lips. Now upon whom do you rely, that you have rebelled against me?[d] 6 Behold, you rely on the staff of this crushed reed, upon Egypt, which, if a man leans on it, goes into his hand and pierces it. So is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all who rely on him. 7 But if you say to me,

"In Yahweh our God we trust," is it not he whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah has removed, and has said to Judah and to Jerusalem, "Before this altar you shall bow down"? 8 Now therefore, make a wager, please, with my master the king of Assyria: I will give you two thousand horses, if you are able on your part to put riders on them. 9 How then can you turn away even one governor, one of the least of my master's servants, when you depend on Egypt for chariots and horsemen? 10 And now, is it without Yahweh that I have come up against this land to destroy it? Yahweh said to me, Go up against this land and destroy it.'" 11 Then Eliakim, Shebna and Joah said to the chief officer, "Please speak to your servants in Aramaic, since we understand it; do not speak in the language of Judah where the people on the wall can hear."[e] 12 But the Rabshakeh said, "Is it to your master and to you that my master has sent me to speak these words? Is it not to the men sitting on the wall, doomed with you to eat their own dung and to drink their own urine?" 13 Then the chief officer stood and shouted in the language of Judah, "Listen to the message of the great king, the king of Assyria! 14 Thus says the king: 'Do not let Hezekiah deceive you, for he will not be able to deliver you. 15 And do not let Hezekiah make you trust in Yahweh, saying, "Yahweh will surely deliver us;
this city shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria."' 16

Pay no heed to Hezekiah; for so says the king of Assyria: ‘Make a blessing with me, and come out to me; and eat every one of his own vine and every one of his own fig tree, and drink every one the waters of his own cistern,[f] 17 until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards. 18 Beware lest Hezekiah mislead you, saying, “Yahweh will deliver us.” Has any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria? 19 Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim? And have they delivered Samaria out of my hand?[g] 20 Who among all the gods of these lands have delivered their land out of my hand, that Yahweh should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?’” 21 But they kept silent and answered him not a word; for the king’s command was, “Do not answer him.” 22 Then Eliakim son of Hilkiah, the palace manager, together with Shebna the secretary and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, came to Hezekiah. Their clothes were torn, and they reported the chief officer’s words to him.

Notes

- a (36:1) Chapters 36–39 closely parallel 2 Kings 18:13–20:19. The fourteenth year of Hezekiah, 701 BC. Hezekiah, “Yahweh strengthens”; Sennacherib, king of Assyria 705–681 BC, Akkadian Sin-ahhe-eriba, “(the god) Sin has replaced the brothers.” His own annals record the capture of forty-six walled cities of Judah.
- b (36:2) The Rabshakeh, Akkadian rab shaqe, “chief cupbearer,” the title of a high Assyrian official. Lachish, a major fortress city of Judah about 30 miles (48 kilometers) southwest of Jerusalem, whose siege is pictured on Sennacherib’s palace reliefs at Nineveh. The Washer’s Field, see 7:3.
- c (36:3) Joah, “Yahweh is brother”; Asaph, “he gathers.” Compare 22:15–22.
- d (36:5) Hebrew “I say”; 2 Kings 18:20 and the Great Isaiah Scroll read “You say (you have counsel and might …).”
- e (36:11) Aramaic, the international language of diplomacy; Judean, the Hebrew dialect of Judah.
- f (36:16) “Make a blessing,” that is, make peace, surrender.
- g (36:19) Hamath, Arpad, and Sepharvaim, cities of Syria conquered by Assyria (compare 10:9).

Chapter 37

1 And it came to pass, when King Hezekiah heard it, that he tore his garments and covered himself with sackcloth, and went into the house of Yahweh. 2 And he sent Eliakim, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz. 3 They told him, "This is what Hezekiah says: 'Today is a day of anguish, rebuke and disgrace; it is as when children are ready to be born and there is no strength to deliver them.[a] 4 Perhaps Yahweh your God will hear the words of the Rabshakeh, with which his master the king of Assyria sent him to defy the living God, and will rebuke the words that Yahweh your God has heard. Therefore lift up your prayer for the remnant that is left.'"[b] 5 So the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah. 6 Isaiah said to them, "Tell your master this: 'This is what Yahweh says: Do not be afraid of the words you heard, with which the king of Assyria's servants have insulted me.[c] 7 Behold, I will put a spirit in him, and he shall hear a rumor and return to his own land; and I will make him fall by the sword in his own land.'"

8 So the Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria fighting against Libnah; for he had heard that he had departed from Lachish.[d] 9 Then the king heard a report about Tirhakah king of Cush: "He has marched out to fight you." When Sennacherib heard it, he sent messengers to Hezekiah with this message:[e] 10 "Say this to Hezekiah king of Judah: 'Do not let your God, in whom you trust, fool you by saying, "Jerusalem will not be handed over to the king of Assyria." 11 Behold, you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands, devoting them to destruction; and shall you be delivered? 12 Did the gods of the nations deliver them, the nations which my fathers destroyed, Gozan and Haran and Rezeph, and the children of Eden who were in Telassar?[f] 13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and of Ivvah?'"[g]

14 Hezekiah took the letter from the messengers and read it. Then he went up to Yahweh's house and spread it out before Yahweh. 15 And Hezekiah prayed to Yahweh, saying, 16 "Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel, enthroned above the cherubim, you alone are God over all the kingdoms of the earth; you made heaven and earth.[h] 17 Incline your ear, O Yahweh, and hear; open your eyes, O Yahweh, and see; and hear all the words of Sennacherib, which he has sent to taunt the living God. 18 Of a truth, O Yahweh, the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the nations and their lands,[i] 19 and have cast their gods into the fire; for they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone; so they destroyed them. 20 And now, O Yahweh our God, save us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you alone are Yahweh."[j]

21 Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent a message to Hezekiah: "This is what Yahweh, the God of Israel, says: 'You have prayed to me about Sennacherib king of Assyria,

22 so this is the word Yahweh has spoken against him:

"Zion's virgin daughter
looks down on you with scorn; Jerusalem's daughter
shakes her head behind your back.

23 Whom have you taunted and reviled?
And against whom have you raised your voice,
and lifted up your eyes on high?
Against the Holy One of Israel!

24 By your servants you have mocked the Lord,
and have said, 'With my many chariots
I have gone up to the height of the mountains,
to the far recesses of Lebanon;
and I will cut down its tall cedars,
its choicest cypresses;
and I will come to its farthest height,
its densest forest.[k]

25 I have dug and have drunk water, and I will dry up with the soles of my feet
every river of Egypt.'[l]

26 Have you not heard that I determined it long ago?
From days of old I formed it;
now I have brought it to pass,

that you should be the one to lay waste walled cities
into ruinous heaps,
27 while their inhabitants, short of hand,
were dismayed and put to shame,
and became like the grass of the field and like the green herb,
like grass on the housetops,
blighted before it is grown.[m] 28 But I know where you stay,
when you leave and when you arrive,
and how you rage against me.
29 Because of your raging against me
and because your arrogance has reached my ears,
I will put my hook in your nose
and my bit between your lips,
and I will send you back by the same road
you traveled on."[n]
30 This will be the sign for you: this year you will eat what grows on its own, and in the second year what springs up from that; but in the third year, sow and harvest, plant vineyards and eat their fruit. 31 And the surviving remnant of the house of Judah shall again take root downward and bear fruit upward. 32 For out of Jerusalem shall go forth a remnant, and survivors out of Mount Zion. The zeal of Yahweh of Armies will do this.[o] 33 Therefore thus says Yahweh concerning the king of Assyria: He shall not come into this city, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with a shield, nor heap up a siege mound against it. 34 By the way that he came, by it he shall return, and into this city he shall not come, says Yahweh. 35 For I will defend this city to save it, for my own sake and for the sake of David my servant.'"
36 Then the angel of Yahweh went out and struck down 185,000 men in the Assyrian camp; and when people got up early in the morning, there they were—all dead bodies.[p] 37 Then Sennacherib king of Assyria departed and went away, and returned and dwelt at Nineveh.[q] 38 One day, while he was worshiping in the temple of his god Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer killed him with the sword and escaped to the land of Ararat. His son Esarhaddon became king in his place.[r]

Notes

- a (37:3) That is, the crisis has come, but there is no strength to finish it.
- b (37:4) "The remnant that is left," after the Assyrian conquest of the other cities of Judah. The Great Isaiah Scroll adds, as a correction above the line, "in this city."
- c (37:6) "Young men," Hebrew naʿare, a contemptuous word for the king's servants. In the Great Isaiah Scroll, much of verses 4–7 is written as a later correction between the lines.
- d (37:8) Libnah, a town of Judah north of Lachish.
- e (37:9) Tirhakah, Egyptian Taharqa, a king of the Cushite (Nubian) dynasty that ruled Egypt; he became Pharaoh about 690 BC, but led the Egyptian army as a prince in 701 BC. Cush, see 18:1.
- f (37:12) Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, Eden (Bit-Adini), and Telassar, cities and regions in upper Mesopotamia and Syria.
- g (37:13) Hena and Ivvah, unidentified cities. The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "and Samaria."
- h (37:16) Cherubim, winged guardian figures above the ark of the covenant (Exodus 25:18–22).
- i (37:18) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks "and their lands"; compare 2 Kings 19:17.
- j (37:20) So 2 Kings 19:19 and the Great Isaiah Scroll, adding "God" ("that you alone are Yahweh God"); the Masoretic Text of Isaiah reads "that you alone are Yahweh."
- k (37:24) Hebrew "the height of its garden land" (karmel).
- l (37:25) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "foreign" ("foreign waters"), as in 2 Kings 19:24. "Streams of Egypt," or "streams of Matsor" (compare 19:6).
- m (37:27) So 2 Kings 19:26 ("blighted," shedephah). The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "blighted before the east wind"; the Masoretic Text of Isaiah reads "and a field (shedemah) before the standing grain."
- n (37:29) Compare 30:28.
- o (37:32) The Great Isaiah Scroll reverses Zion and Jerusalem. Compare 9:7.
- p (37:36) Herodotus (2.141) preserves an Egyptian tradition that the Assyrian army was overrun in a night by field mice that gnawed their bowstrings; compare 2 Kings 19:35.
- q (37:37) Nineveh, the Assyrian capital on the Tigris.
- r (37:38) Sennacherib was assassinated in 681 BC, about twenty years later. Nisroch, an unidentified god. Ararat, Urartu, the kingdom north of Assyria in modern Armenia. Esarhaddon, king of Assyria 681–669 BC, Akkadian Ashur-ahu-iddina, "Ashur has given a brother."

Chapter 38

1 About that time Hezekiah fell gravely ill. The prophet Isaiah, Amoz's son, visited him and told him, "Yahweh says: Set your affairs in order, because you will die; you will not get well."[a] 2 Then Hezekiah turned his face toward the wall, and prayed to Yahweh, 3 and said, "Ah, Yahweh, remember now, I pray, that I have walked before your face in truth and with a perfect heart, and have done that which was right in your sight." And Hezekiah wept with great weeping.
4 Then the word of Yahweh came to Isaiah, saying, 5 "Go and say to Hezekiah, 'Thus says Yahweh, the God of David your father: I have heard your prayer, I have seen your tears; behold, I am adding fifteen years to your days. 6 And from the hand of the king of Assyria I will deliver you and this city, and I will defend this city.[b] 7 And this shall be the sign to you from Yahweh, that Yahweh will do this thing that he has spoken: 8 Behold, the shadow on the steps, which has gone down with the sun on the steps of Ahaz, I will cause to return backward ten steps.'" So the sun went back ten steps, on the steps where it had gone down.[c]
9 A writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, when he had been sick and had recovered from his sickness:[d]
10 I said, In the quiet of my days
I must go into the gates of Sheol;
I am deprived of the rest of my years.[e]
11 I thought, I will not see Yah,
Yah, in the land of the living;
I will no more look at any human being of those who live in this world.[f] 12 My home is pulled up and carried off from me
as a herdsman's tent is;
I have rolled up my life as a weaver rolls his cloth;
from the loom he severs me;
between day and night you make an end of me.[g] 13 I quieted myself till the morning;
as a lion, so does he crush all my bones;
between day and night you make an end of me.[h]

14 Like a swift or a crane, so I chirp,
I moan like a dove;
my eyes are worn out with looking upward.
O Lord, I am oppressed; be my surety![i] 15 What can I say? He has spoken to me, and it is he who has done it.
I shall walk slowly all my years
because of the bitterness of my soul.[j] 16 O Lord, by these things men live, and in all of them is the life of my spirit;
so restore me, and make me live![k]
17 See, it was for my benefit that I endured such bitter distress;
because you loved me, you kept my soul
from the pit of ruin,
and you tossed all my sins behind your back.[l] 18 For Sheol does not thank you,
and death does not praise you;
those who go down to the pit
cannot hope for your faithfulness.
19 The living, the living, he shall thank you,
as I do this day;
the father to the children
shall make known your faithfulness.
20 Yahweh will save me;
we will play my songs on stringed instruments
all the days of our lives
in Yahweh's house.[m]
21 Now Isaiah had said, "Let them take a cake of figs, and rub it on the boil, that he may recover."[n] 22 And Hezekiah had said, "What is the sign that I shall go up to the house of Yahweh?"

Notes

- a (38:1) Compare 2 Kings 20:1–11; 2 Chronicles 32:24. The illness came before the Assyrian invasion was ended (verse 6), probably about 701 BC.

- b (38:6) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds “for my own sake and for the sake of David my servant,” as in 2 Kings 20:6.
- c (38:8) Hebrew ma‘aloth, “steps” or “degrees,” perhaps a stairway used as a sundial. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “the steps of the upper chamber of Ahaz” (compare 2 Kings 23:12).
- d (38:9) Verses 9–20 are not found in 2 Kings. “A writing,” Hebrew mikhtav; some read miktam, a term in psalm titles (Psalm 16; 56–60).
- e (38:10) Or “In the noontide of my days.” Sheol, the realm of the dead.
- f (38:11) Yah, a short form of Yahweh; the Hebrew repeats it, “Yah, Yah,” but the Great Isaiah Scroll has it once. “The world” follows a few Hebrew manuscripts (heled); the standard Hebrew text reads hadel, “cessation,” that is, the place where all things cease.
- g (38:12) Or “he cuts me off from the thrum,” the threads left on the loom.
- h (38:13) Or “I cried out until morning.”
- i (38:14) Hebrew ‘arevni, “be surety for me,” stand pledge for my debt.
- j (38:15) Or “I shall walk humbly.” The Hebrew of verses 15–16 is uncertain.
- k (38:16) Or “by these things” refers to God’s words and deeds.
- l (38:17) Or “it was for peace.”
- m (38:20) The Great Isaiah Scroll repeats here, in a longer form, words from verse 19, perhaps by a copyist’s error.
- n (38:21) Verses 21–22 stand earlier in 2 Kings 20:7–8. In the Great Isaiah Scroll they are written by a later hand in the space after verse 20 and in the margin, which suggests the first copyist’s text lacked them. A cake of figs was used as a poultice.

Chapter 39

1 At that time Merodach-baladan the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present to Hezekiah; for he had heard that he had been sick and had recovered.[a] 2 And Hezekiah was glad because of them, and let them see his house of costly things, the silver and the gold and the spices and the precious oil, and all his house of weapons, and whatever was to be found among his treasures. There was nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah left unshown to them.[b]
3 Then Isaiah the prophet came to King Hezekiah, and said to him,
“What did these men say? And from where did they come to you?”
And Hezekiah said, “From a far country they have come to me, from Babylon.” 4 Isaiah asked, “What did these men look at in your palace?” Hezekiah said, “Everything in my palace was shown to them; none of my treasures remained hidden from them.” 5 Then Isaiah said to

Hezekiah, “Hear the word of Yahweh of Armies: 6 Behold, days are coming when all that is in your house, and that which your fathers have laid up until this day, shall be carried to Babylon; nothing shall be left, says Yahweh. 7 And some of your sons, who shall come forth from you, whom you shall beget, shall be taken away; and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.”[c] 8 Then Hezekiah said to Isaiah, “Good is the word of Yahweh which you have spoken.” For he said to himself, “Surely in my days there shall be peace and truth.”[d]

Notes

- a (39:1) Compare 2 Kings 20:12–19. Merodach-baladan, Akkadian Marduk-apla-iddina, “Marduk has given an heir,” a Chaldean chief who held Babylon against Assyria in 721–710 BC and briefly in 703 BC; he was seeking allies. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “and he had lived” for “and had recovered.”
- b (39:2) 2 Kings 20:13 reads “listened to them.”
- c (39:7) Compare Daniel 1:3–7.
- d (39:8) Or “peace and stability.”

Chapter 40

1 “Comfort, comfort my people,” says your God.[a] 2 “Speak to the heart of Jerusalem, and call out to her
that her service of war is fulfilled,
that her iniquity is paid off,
that she has received from the hand of Yahweh
double for all her sins.”[b]
3 A voice calls out,
“In the wilderness make ready the way of Yahweh;
make straight in the desert
a highway for our God.[c] 4 Every valley shall be lifted up,
and every mountain and hill be brought low;
the crooked ground shall become level,
and the rugged places a plain.[d]

5 And the glory of Yahweh shall be revealed,
and all flesh shall see it together;
for the mouth of Yahweh has spoken."[e]
6 A voice says, "Cry out!"
And one said, "What shall I cry?"
"All flesh is grass,
and all its steadfast love is like the flower of the field.[f]
7 The grass dries up, the flower withers,
when the breath of Yahweh blows upon it;
surely the people are grass.[g]
8 The grass dries up, the flower withers,
but the word of our God shall stand forever."[h]
9 Get up onto a high mountain,
O Zion, bearer of good news;
raise your voice with might,
O Jerusalem, bearer of good news;
raise it, do not be afraid;
say to the cities of Judah,
"Here is your God!"[i] 10 Behold, the Lord Yahweh comes with strength, and his arm rules for him;
behold, his wages are with him,
and his recompense goes before him.[j] 11 Like a shepherd he shall pasture his flock;
in his arm he shall gather the lambs,
and carry them in his bosom,
and gently lead those that give suck.
12 Who has measured the waters in the hollow of his hand,
and marked off the heavens with the span,
and held the dust of the earth in a measure,
and weighed the mountains in a scale
and the hills in a balance?[k] 13 Who has measured the Spirit of Yahweh, or as his counselor has instructed him?[l]

14 With whom did he consult, and who gave him understanding, and taught him in the path of justice,
and taught him knowledge,
and made known to him the way of discernment?
15 Behold, the nations are as a drop from a bucket,
and are reckoned as the fine dust on the scales;
behold, he takes up the coastlands like powder.[m] 16 Lebanon would not suffice for fuel,
nor its beasts suffice for a burnt offering.
17 All the nations are as nothing before him;
they are counted by him as less than nothing and emptiness.[n] 18 To whom then will you compare God,
or what likeness will you set beside him?
19 An idol! A craftsman molds it, a goldsmith covers it with gold and makes silver chains for it.[o] 20 One who is too poor to give that kind of offering chooses a tree that will not rot;
he hunts for a talented craftsman
to set up an idol that will not topple.[p]
21 Have you not known? Have you not heard?
Was it not declared to you from the first?
Have you not discerned it since the earth was founded?
22 It is he who sits above the circle of the earth,
and its inhabitants are as grasshoppers;
who stretches out the heavens as a fine cloth,
and spreads them like a tent to dwell in;[q] 23 who brings rulers to nothing,
and makes the judges of the earth as emptiness.[r] 24 They are barely planted, barely sown,
their stems have barely put down roots in the ground,
when he blows on them and they wither,
and a whirlwind sweeps them away like straw.
25 "To whom then will you compare me,
that I should be his equal?" says the Holy One.

[26] Raise your eyes to the height and look:
who has made these things?
It is he who leads forth their army by count,
and summons each of them by name;
through the abundance of his strength, and the might of his power,
not one of them fails to appear.[s]
[27] Jacob, why do you say,
Israel, why do you speak so:
"My way is hidden from Yahweh,
and my right is passed over by my God"?
[28] Have you not known? Have you not heard?
Yahweh is God of the ages,
who created the far ends of the earth.
He grows neither faint nor weary;
there is no searching out of his understanding.
[29] He gives strength to the weary,
and increases the power of those who have none.[t] [30] Even youths shall faint and be weary,
and young men shall stumble and fall;
[31] but those who wait for Yahweh shall renew their strength;
they shall mount up with wings as eagles;
they shall run and not be weary;
they shall walk and not faint.[u]

Notes

- a (40:1) Chapters 40–66 address the exiles in Babylon and their return; many scholars assign them to a later prophet or prophets in the tradition of Isaiah (often called Second and Third Isaiah, chapters 40–55 and 56–66), while others hold to the unity of the book. The two halves share many themes, such as "the Holy One of Israel." The Septuagint adds "O priests" in verse 2.
- b (40:2) Or "her hard service." Hebrew tsava', "army," "warfare," here forced service. "Double" may mean full payment, a full equivalent.
- c (40:3) Or "A voice calls out in the wilderness, 'Make ready the way of Yahweh.'" The Septuagint, followed by Matthew 3:3, Mark 1:3, Luke 3:4, and John 1:23, links "in the wilderness" with the voice.
- d (40:4) Luke 3:5 quotes verses 4–5 from the Septuagint.
- e (40:5) The Septuagint adds "the salvation of God," as quoted in Luke 3:6.

- f (40:6) “One said”: the Great Isaiah Scroll and the Septuagint read “and I said,” making the prophet the speaker. Hebrew hesed, “steadfast love,” “faithfulness”; the Septuagint has “glory,” as quoted in 1 Peter 1:24.
- g (40:7) Or “the wind of Yahweh.” In the Great Isaiah Scroll the words from “when the breath” to the end of verse 8 are partly written by a later hand above the line and in the margin; the first copyist’s eye seems to have skipped from the first “the flower withers” to the second. The Septuagint lacks verse 7 and the first line of verse 8.
- h (40:8) 1 Peter 1:24–25 quotes verses 6–8.
- i (40:9) Or “O bearer of good news to Zion … O bearer of good news to Jerusalem.” The Hebrew participle is feminine.
- j (40:10) Hebrew Adonai Yahweh. Compare Revelation 22:12.
- k (40:12) The span is about 9 inches (about 23 centimeters), from thumb to little finger. “A measure,” Hebrew shalish, “a third,” perhaps a third of an ephah. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “the waters of the sea.”
- l (40:13) Or “Who has directed.” The Septuagint reads “Who has known the mind of the Lord?” as quoted in Romans 11:34 and 1 Corinthians 2:16.
- m (40:15) Or “like fine dust.”
- n (40:17) Hebrew tohu, the word for the formless earth in Genesis 1:2.
- o (40:19) The Hebrew of verses 19–20 is uncertain.
- p (40:20) Hebrew mesukkan terumah; the meaning is unclear. Some take it as a kind of wood, “mulberry” or “sissoo.”
- q (40:22) Hebrew hug, “circle,” the vault or horizon of the earth.
- r (40:23) Hebrew tohu.
- s (40:26) The “host” are the stars, seen as an army. The Great Isaiah Scroll and some other witnesses read “and not one.”
- t (40:29) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “It is he who gives.”
- u (40:31) Or “as the eagle.” The Hebrew nesher may also mean the griffon vulture.

Chapter 41

1 “Be quiet before me, you coastlands;
let the nations gain new strength;
let them approach and then speak;
let us meet together for the trial.[a] 2 Who stirred up one from the east,
whom righteousness calls to its feet?
He gives up nations before him,
and he makes him trample kings;
his sword turns them to dust,
his bow to stubble blown away.[b]

3 He pursues them and passes on in safety,
by a path his feet have not traveled.[c]
4 Who has worked and done it,
calling the generations from the beginning?
I, Yahweh, the first,
and with the last, I am he."[d] 5 The coastlands saw it and feared;
the far ends of the earth trembled;
they drew close and came.[e]
6 Every man gives help to his fellow,
and to his brother he says, "Take courage!"
7 The craftsman urges on the goldsmith, and the one who smooths with a hammer encourages the one who pounds on the anvil, saying of the welding, "It is good";
then he fixes the idol with nails so that it will not fall over.
8 But you, Israel, my servant,
Jacob, whom I have chosen,
the offspring of Abraham, my friend;[f] 9 you whom I took hold of from the ends of the earth,
and called from its farthest corners,
and said to you, "You are my servant;
I have chosen you, and not cast you off";
10 do not fear, for I am with you;
do not look about in dread, for I am your God;
I will make you strong, yes, I will help you;
yes, I will hold you up with my righteous right hand.[g] 11 Look, all who are angry with you will be ashamed and humiliated;
those who oppose you will be as nothing and will perish.[h] 12 You will look for those who fight you but will not find them;
those who wage war against you will be as nothing, as less than nothing.

13 For I am Yahweh your God,
who grasps your right hand,
who says to you, “Fear not;
I am your helper.”
14 Do not fear, you worm Jacob,
you men of Israel!
I will help you, declares Yahweh;
your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel.[i] 15 Behold, I have made you a threshing sledge, sharp and new, with many edges;
you shall tread down the mountains and beat them fine,
and shall make the hills as chaff;[j] 16 you shall fan them, and the wind shall bear them off, and the whirlwind shall disperse them;
but you shall be glad in Yahweh;
in the Holy One of Israel you shall glory.
17 The poor and the needy seek water, and there is none,
and their tongue is parched with thirst;
I, Yahweh, will answer them;
I, the God of Israel, will not forsake them.
18 I will open rivers on the bare heights,
and fountains in the midst of the valleys;
I will make the wilderness a pool of water,
and the dry land springs of water.
19 I will plant cedars in the wilderness,
along with acacias, myrtles and olive trees;
I will place junipers in the desert,
with planes and pines alongside them;[k] 20 that they may see and know,
and consider and understand together,
that the hand of Yahweh has done this,
the Holy One of Israel has created it.
21 Set forth your case, says Yahweh;
bring forward your strong arguments, says the King of Jacob.

22 Let them bring in their idols and tell us
what will happen.
What were the earlier events? Tell us,
so we can consider them
and learn how they ended;
or announce to us what is coming.[l]
23 Tell the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that you are gods;
yes, do good or do evil,
that we may be dismayed and see it together.[m] 24 See, you are of nothing,
and your doing is of naught;
whoever chooses you is detestable.[n]
25 I have stirred up one from the north, and he has come, from the rising of the sun, one who shall call on my name;
and he shall come upon rulers as on mortar,
as the potter treads clay.[o]
26 Who told it from the start, so that we could know it, or from times before, so that we could say, "He is in the right"?
Not one of you foretold it, not one announced it;
not one has heard a word from you.
27 I first said to Zion, "Behold, here they are!"
and to Jerusalem I give a bearer of good news.[p] 28 I look, but there is no one;
among these idols there is no adviser
who can give an answer when I ask.
29 Look, they are all a sham;
their works amount to nothing;
their cast images are wind and chaos.[q]

Notes

- a (41:1) "Coastlands," or "islands," the far lands of the Mediterranean.
- b (41:2) Cyrus II of Persia (verse 25; 44:28; 45:1), who conquered Babylon in 539 BC. Or "whom he calls in righteousness to his service."

- c (41:3) Or “by a path he had not gone with his feet,” that is, so swiftly that his feet hardly touch the road. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “they did not understand” for “he goes.”
- d (41:4) Compare 44:6; 48:12; Revelation 1:8, 17; 22:13.
- e (41:5) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “together” (yahdu) for “tremble” (yeheradu).
- f (41:8) Compare 2 Chronicles 20:7; James 2:23. Chapters 41–53 often speak of Yahweh’s “servant”: sometimes Israel, sometimes a figure with a mission to Israel (see the note on 42:1).
- g (41:10) Or “my victorious right hand.” Hebrew tsedeq, “righteousness,” often means vindication or victory in these chapters.
- h (41:11) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks “shall be as nothing and shall perish” and, in verse 12, “You shall seek … not find them,” probably because a copyist’s eye skipped between similar words.
- i (41:14) “Redeemer,” Hebrew go’el, the next of kin who buys back a relative’s land or freedom (Leviticus 25:25, 48; Ruth 4:4–6), and who avenges his blood. The phrase first occurs here and is frequent in chapters 41–63.
- j (41:15) A heavy board studded underneath with sharp stones or iron, dragged over grain to thresh it.
- k (41:19) The identification of several of these trees is uncertain. Hebrew ʻets shemen, “oil tree,” perhaps the olive or the oleaster.
- l (41:22) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “or the latter things.”
- m (41:23) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “that we may hear” for “that we may be dismayed and see.”
- n (41:24) Hebrew me’apa’, a rare word; many read me’efes, “of nothing” (compare 40:17). The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the word.
- o (41:25) Cyrus came from the east (verse 2), and also from the north, after conquering Media and Lydia.
- p (41:27) The Hebrew is obscure; literally “First to Zion, Behold, behold them.” The Great Isaiah Scroll differs slightly.
- q (41:29) Hebrew ʻawen, “trouble,” “iniquity,” “nothing”; the Great Isaiah Scroll and a few Hebrew manuscripts read ʻayin, “nothing.” “Emptiness,” Hebrew tohu.

Chapter 42

1 Behold my servant, whom I uphold,
my chosen, in whom my soul delights;
I have put my Spirit upon him;
he shall bring forth justice to the nations.[a] 2 He shall not cry out nor lift up his voice,
nor make it heard in the street;

3 a bruised reed he shall not break,
and a dimly burning wick he shall not snuff out;
in faithfulness he shall bring forth justice.[b] 4 He will not falter or be broken
until he sets justice in place on the earth;
the distant coastlands wait for his instruction.[c]
5 Thus says God, Yahweh,
the Creator of the heavens, who stretched them forth,
who beat out the earth and all that springs from it,
who grants breath to the people on it,
and spirit to those who walk in it:[d]
6 I am Yahweh; I have called you in righteousness;
I will grasp you by the hand and guard you;
and I will make you a covenant for the people,
a light to the nations,[e] 7 to open blind eyes,
to lead out the captive from the dungeon,
and those who sit in darkness from the house of confinement.
8 I am Yahweh; this is my name;
and my glory I will not yield to another,
nor my praise to graven images.
9 Look, the earlier events have happened,
and I announce new ones;
before they begin to appear,
I tell you about them.
10 Sing to Yahweh a new song,
his praise from the end of the earth,
you who go down to the sea, and all that fills it,
the coastlands and those who dwell in them.[f]
11 Let the wilderness and its towns lift up their voice,
the villages where Kedar dwells;
let the inhabitants of Sela sing for joy,
let them shout from the top of the mountains.[g] 12 Let them give glory to Yahweh,
and declare his praise in the coastlands.

13 Yahweh marches out like a warrior;
like a soldier he rouses his zeal;
he shouts, he lets out a battle cry;
he proves himself stronger than his enemies.[h]
14 Long have I been silent;
I have been still and held myself back;
now like a woman giving birth I will groan;
I will pant and gasp at once.
15 I will lay mountains and hills waste
and dry up everything that grows on them;
I will change rivers into islands
and dry up the pools.[i] 16 And I will bring the blind
by a road unknown to them;
by tracks they have never known I will lead them;
I will turn darkness before them into light,
and rough ways into a plain.
These things I will do for them,
and I will not leave them.
17 They shall be turned back and utterly ashamed,
who trust in carved idols,
who say to molten images,
"You are our gods."
18 Hear, you deaf;
and look, you blind, that you may see!
19 Who is blind but my servant,
or deaf as my messenger whom I send?
Who is blind as the one in covenant with me,
or blind as the servant of Yahweh?[j] 20 You see many things, but you do not observe;
his ears are open, but he does not hear.[k] 21 Yahweh delighted, for his justice' sake, to make his teaching great and to give it honor.[l] 22 But this is a people looted and plundered,
all of them trapped in pits

and concealed in dungeons;
they have become loot with no one to save them,
plunder with no one saying, “Give it back!”[m] 23 Which of you will lend an ear to this,
will heed and hear it for days to come?
24 Who handed Jacob over to the plunderer
and Israel to the looters?
Was it not Yahweh, the one we sinned against,
whose ways they refused to follow
and whose instruction they did not obey?[n] 25 So he poured out on Israel his burning anger
and the violence of war;
it set him on fire all around, yet he did not understand;
it burned him, yet he took none of it to heart.[o]

Notes

- a (42:1) The first of four passages often called the “Servant Songs” (42:1–4 or 1–9; 49:1–6; 50:4–9; 52:13–53:12). The Septuagint reads “Jacob my servant … Israel my chosen.” Matthew 12:18–21 quotes verses 1–4 of Jesus; compare Matthew 3:17; 17:5.
- b (42:3) Or “according to truth.” The Septuagint reads “he shall bring forth judgment to truth”; Matthew 12:20 has “until he brings justice to victory.”
- c (42:4) The verbs echo verse 3: he will not burn dim, nor be bruised. Matthew 12:21, following the Septuagint, reads “and in his name the nations will hope.”
- d (42:5) Hebrew ha’el Yahweh; the Great Isaiah Scroll appears to read ha’el ha’elohim, “the God, God” (the letter after the first word is uncertain).
- e (42:6) Or “a covenant people,” Hebrew berith ‘am, an obscure phrase. Compare 49:6, 8; Luke 2:32; Acts 13:47.
- f (42:10) Some propose “let the sea roar” for “you who go down to the sea,” compare Psalm 96:11; 98:7.
- g (42:11) Kedar, an Arab tribe of the desert (21:16). Sela, “rock,” perhaps the Edomite stronghold (2 Kings 14:7), or any rocky height.
- h (42:13) Or “he triumphs over his enemies.”
- i (42:15) Some read “dry land” (tsiyyoth) for “coastlands” (iyyim).
- j (42:19) Hebrew meshullam, “one at peace,” “one made whole,” “one dedicated,” or “one repaid”; its sense here is uncertain.
- k (42:20) The Hebrew text has “You have seen” (written form) or “Seeing” (read form). The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “You have seen many things … they have opened their ears.”
- l (42:21) Or “instruction,” Hebrew torah; also in verse 24.
- m (42:22) Or “they are all snared by young men,” reading bahurim.

- n (42:24) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “to plunder” (limshussah, the word of the Hebrew’s written form) without a second “to the spoiler.” The shift from “we” to “they” is in the Hebrew.
- o (42:25) Or “the fierceness of his wrath.”

Chapter 43

1 But now thus says Yahweh,
your Creator, O Jacob,
and your Former, O Israel:
Be not afraid, for I have bought you back;
I have called you by name; you belong to me.
2 When you pass through the waters, I will be with you;
when you cross rivers, they will not wash over you;
when you walk through fire, you will not be burned,
and the flames will not scorch you.
3 For I, Yahweh, am your God,
Israel’s Holy One, the one who saves you;
Egypt I have given as the price of your release,
Cush and Seba in exchange for you.[a] 4 Because you are precious in my eyes,
honored, and I love you,
I give men in exchange for you,
and peoples for your life.
5 Do not be afraid, for I am with you;
I will bring your descendants from the east
and gather you from the west.
6 I will say to the north, “Give up!”
and to the south, “Do not keep back!
Bring my sons from afar,
and my daughters from the end of the earth, 7 every one who is called by my name,
whom I created for my glory, whom I formed, yes, whom I made.”
8 Lead out the blind people that have eyes,
and the deaf that have ears!

9 Let all the nations come together
and the peoples gather.
Which of them can announce this or let us hear about earlier events?
10 You are my witnesses, declares Yahweh,
and the servant I chose,
so that you may know me, trust me
and understand that I am the same one.
Before me no god was made,
and after me there will be none.[b] 11 I, I am Yahweh,
and apart from me there is no savior.
12 I was the one who announced, rescued and made it known,
when there was no foreign god among you;
you are my witnesses, declares Yahweh, and I am God.
13 Even from this day on I am he,
and from my hand no one rescues;
when I act, who shall reverse it?[c]
14 Thus says Yahweh,
your Redeemer, Israel's Holy One:
Because of you I have sent to Babylon,
and I will make all of them flee,
and the Chaldeans in the ships of their shouting.[d] 15 I am Yahweh, your Holy One,
the Creator of Israel, your King.
16 This is what Yahweh says,
he who opens a road through the sea
and a path through raging waters, 17 who brings forth chariot and horse,
army and warrior together;
they lie down, they shall not rise;
they are snuffed out, quenched like a wick:
18 Do not remember the former things,
nor ponder the things of old.

19 See, I am about to do something new;
even now it sprouts; will you not know it?
I will make a way in the wilderness,
rivers in the desert.[e] 20 The wild beasts shall honor me,
the jackals and the ostriches,
for I give waters in the wilderness,
rivers in the desert,
to give drink to my chosen people, 21 the people I formed for myself
so they would tell of my praise.
22 Yet you have not called upon me, O Jacob;
but you have grown weary of me, O Israel.
23 You have not brought me the sheep of your burnt offerings,
nor honored me with your sacrifices;
I have not made you serve with offerings,
nor wearied you with frankincense.[f]
24 You have not bought me sweet cane with silver,
nor filled me with the fat of your sacrifices;
but you have made me serve with your sins;
you have wearied me with your iniquities.[g] 25 I, I myself, am the one who blots out your rebellion for my own sake,
and I will not recall your sins.[h] 26 Remind me; let us go to judgment together;
set forth your case, that you may be proved right.
27 Your first father sinned,
and your spokesmen transgressed against me.[i] 28 Therefore I will profane the princes of the sanctuary, and give Jacob over to the ban,
and Israel to reviling.[j]

Notes

- a (43:3) Cush, the upper Nile region (Nubia, in modern Sudan). Seba, probably a land near Cush (Genesis 10:7). In the Great Isaiah Scroll "your Redeemer" is written above the line in place of "your Savior."

- b (43:10) Compare John 8:24, 28; 13:19, where Jesus uses "I am he."
- c (43:13) Or "From eternity I am he" or "Since the day was."
- d (43:14) The Hebrew of the last line is uncertain. Another reading is "I will smash all the bolts, and the Chaldeans' cries will become mourning."
- e (43:19) Compare 2 Corinthians 5:17; Revelation 21:5.
- f (43:23) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "and you have not done."
- g (43:24) Sweet cane, an aromatic reed used in the holy anointing oil (Exodus 30:23).
- h (43:25) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "any more."
- i (43:27) The "first father" may be Jacob (Hosea 12:2–4). "Spokesmen," Hebrew melitsim, "interpreters," "mediators."
- j (43:28) Hebrew herem, the ban of total destruction or devotion to God (Joshua 6:17).

Chapter 44

1 But now hear, O Jacob my servant,
and Israel, whom I have chosen.
2 Thus says Yahweh, your Maker, who shaped you in the womb, who will be your help:
Be not afraid, Jacob, my servant,
and you, Jeshurun, my chosen one.[a] 3 For I will pour water on the thirsty land,
and streams on the dry ground;
I will pour my Spirit upon your seed,
and my blessing on your offspring.
4 And they shall shoot up like grass amid the waters,
as poplars beside the channels of water.[b]
5 One shall say, "I am Yahweh's," and another shall call himself by the name of Jacob,
and another shall write on his hand, "Yahweh's,"
and take as his surname the name of Israel.[c] 6 This is what Yahweh, Israel's King and Redeemer, Yahweh of Armies, says:
I am the first and I am the last;
there is no God except me.[d]
7 Who is like me? Let him announce it, lay out his case before me,
since I set up my ancient people;

let them declare what is coming
and what will take place.[e] 8 Do not tremble, nor be afraid;
have I not told you long since and declared it?
And you are my witnesses!
Is there a God apart from me?
There is no Rock; I know of none.[f]
9 All who fashion carved idols are emptiness,
and the things they take pleasure in do not profit;
their witnesses neither see nor know,
so that they shall be put to shame.[g]
10 Who forms a god or casts an image that profits nothing?
11 Look, all his associates will be put to shame,
and the craftsmen are merely human beings;
let them all assemble and take their stand;
they will be terrified and humiliated together.
12 The smith with his tool for iron labors at it among the embers;
with hammers he forms it,
and toils at it with his mighty arm;
yes, he is hungry, and his strength is gone;
he drinks no water and grows faint.
13 The woodworker stretches a line;
he marks it out with a stylus;
he shapes it with planes
and marks it with the compass;
he makes it after the figure of a man,
with the beauty of a human being,
to dwell in a house.[h]
14 He cuts down cedars for himself, or takes a holm oak or a terebinth,
and lets it grow sturdy for himself in the woodland;
he sets out a laurel, and the shower nourishes it.[i]

15 Then it serves a man for burning;
he takes some of it and gets warm;
yes, he lights it and bakes his loaves;
yes, he fashions a god and bows to it;
he shapes a graven image and falls down before it.
16 Part of it he burns in the flames;
upon that part he cooks meat to eat;
he roasts a roast and is satisfied;
also he warms himself and says,
"Aha, I am warm, I have seen the blaze!"
17 From the leftover wood he makes a god, his idol;
he kneels to it and worships it;
he prays to it and says,
"Rescue me, because you are my god!"
18 Knowledge they lack, and discernment they lack;
for their eyes are plastered shut from seeing,
and their hearts from perceiving.[j] 19 No one calls it to mind,
nor is there knowledge or insight to say,
"Part of it I have burned in the flames;
yes, and on its embers I baked loaves;
I have roasted meat and eaten it;
and shall I make the rest of it an abomination?
Shall I bow down before a block of wood?"[k]
20 He shepherds ashes; a cheated heart has turned him aside;
he cannot rescue his own soul, nor say,
"Is there not a lie in my right hand?"[l]
21 Remember these things, O Jacob,
and Israel, for you are my servant;
I formed you, you are a servant to me;
O Israel, you shall not be forgotten by me.[m]
22 I have swept away your rebellion like a dense cloud and your sins like morning mist;
come back to me, for I have ransomed you.

23 Sing for joy, heavens, because Yahweh has acted;
shout, you depths of the earth;
burst into song, you mountains,
you forest and every tree in it!
For Yahweh has ransomed Jacob
and displays his glory in Israel.[n] 24 Thus says Yahweh, your Redeemer, who formed you from the womb:
I am Yahweh, who makes all things,
who by myself spread the heavens wide,
who beat out the land. Who was with me?[o] 25 He frustrates the signs of the babblers,
and makes fools of diviners;
he turns the wise back,
and makes their knowledge foolish;[p] 26 who makes his servant's word come true
and carries out the plans of his messengers;
who says about Jerusalem, "People will live in her,"
and about the towns of Judah, "They will be rebuilt,
and I will restore their ruins";[q] 27 who says to the ocean depth, "Become dry, and your streams I will parch";[r] 28 who says about Cyrus, "He is my shepherd, and he will accomplish everything I want";
who says about Jerusalem, "She will be rebuilt,"
and about the temple, "Your foundation will be laid."[s]

Notes

- a (44:2) Jeshurun, a poetic name for Israel, probably "upright one" (from yashar, "upright"); compare Deuteronomy 32:15; 33:5, 26.
- b (44:4) "Amid the waters" follows the Septuagint ("as grass between brooks"); the standard Hebrew text reads "among the grass."
- c (44:5) Or "write on his hand, 'Belonging to Yahweh,'" as a mark of ownership (compare Ezekiel 9:4; Revelation 7:3).
- d (44:6) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Yahweh of Armies is his name." Compare 41:4; 48:12; Revelation 1:17; 22:13.

- e (44:7) The Hebrew of the second half of the verse is uncertain; some emend it to "Who declared long ago what is coming? Let them tell us what lies ahead."
- f (44:8) Compare Deuteronomy 32:4, 31; 1 Samuel 2:2.
- g (44:9) Hebrew tohu, "emptiness."
- h (44:13) Or "to sit in a shrine."
- i (44:14) The identification of these trees is uncertain. "Laurel," Hebrew oren, perhaps a pine or ash.
- j (44:18) Or "their eyes are smeared over."
- k (44:19) Hebrew tow'evah, "abomination," a term for an idol.
- l (44:20) The Hebrew may also mean "you must not forget me."
- m (44:21) Or "you shall not forget me," following the Septuagint and the Great Isaiah Scroll differs slightly.
- n (44:23) Or "and glorifies himself in Israel."
- o (44:24) "Who was with me?" follows the written Hebrew text (mi 'itti), which the Great Isaiah Scroll shares; the read form (me'itti) means "by myself."
- p (44:25) Or "the boasters." Hebrew baddim, perhaps "empty talkers," a term for false prophets.
- q (44:26) "His servant" may be the prophet. Some read "his servants" (compare the Septuagint).
- r (44:27) Perhaps an allusion to the drying of the Red Sea (51:10), or to Babylon's river.
- s (44:28) Cyrus II ("the Great"), founder of the Persian Empire, who conquered Babylon in 539 BC and in 538 BC allowed the Jews to return and rebuild the temple (Ezra 1:1–4). Persian Kurush; the meaning of the name is uncertain. He is named here and in 45:1.

Chapter 45

1 Thus says Yahweh to his anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have grasped,
to subdue nations before him,
and to loosen the belts of kings,
to open doors before him,
so that gates shall not be shut:[a] 2 I will go before you
and level the mountains;
doors of bronze I will shatter,
and cut through bars of iron.[b] 3 And I will give you the treasures of darkness, and riches stored in secret places,

that you may know that I am Yahweh,
the God of Israel, who calls you by your name.
4 For the sake of my servant Jacob,
my chosen Israel,
I call you by name;
I give you an honorary title, though you do not know me.[c]
5 I am Yahweh, and there is no other;
there is no God but me;
I equip you, though you do not know me,
6 that men may know from the rising of the sun,
and from its setting, that there is none besides me;
I am Yahweh, and there is no other.
7 I form light and create darkness;
I make peace and create calamity;
I am Yahweh, who does all these things.[d]
8 Heavens, send down dew from above,
and let the skies pour out righteousness;
let the earth open up so salvation may sprout,
and let righteousness grow along with it;
I, Yahweh, have created it.[e]
9 Woe to him who contends with his Maker,
a potsherd among the potsherds of the ground!
Shall the clay say to him who shapes it, "What are you making?"
or your handiwork, "He has no hands"?[f]
10 How terrible for one who says to his father, "What are you fathering?"
or to his mother, "What are you giving birth to?"
11 Thus says Yahweh,
the Holy One of Israel, and its Maker:
Ask me of things to come;
concerning my sons and the work of my hands
will you command me?[g] 12 I made the earth,
and created man upon it;

my hands spread out the skies,
and all their host I set in command.
13 I have roused him up in righteousness,
and I will make straight all his ways;
he shall build my city
and set my exiles free,
not for a price nor for a bribe,
says Yahweh of Armies.
14 Thus says Yahweh:
The toil of Egypt and the gain of Cush,
and the Sabeans, men of great stature,
shall come over to you and be yours;
they shall walk behind you;
in chains they shall come over,
and bow down to you;
they shall pray to you:
"Surely God is in you, and there is no other,
no god besides."[h]
15 Surely you are a God who keeps himself hidden,
the God of Israel, who saves.[i] 16 They are put to shame and disgraced, all of them;
the makers of idols go off in confusion together.
17 But Israel is saved by Yahweh with a salvation for the ages;
you shall not be put to shame nor disgraced
to the ages of eternity.
18 For this is what Yahweh says,
the creator of the heavens (he is God!),
the maker of the earth who set it firm (he did not create it to be empty, but formed it for people to live in):
I am Yahweh, and there is no other.[j]
19 I did not speak in secret,
in some place of a land of darkness;
I did not say to the seed of Jacob,

"Seek me in emptiness."
I, Yahweh, speak what is right;
I declare what is upright.[k]
20 Come together and approach, all you who survived among the nations!
Those who haul their wooden idols around and keep praying to a god that cannot rescue
do not know what they are doing.
21 Declare and bring forward your case;
yes, let them take counsel together!
Who made this heard from ancient times?
Who told it from back then?
Is it not I, Yahweh?
And there is no other god apart from me,
a righteous God and a Savior;
there is none besides me.
22 Turn to me and be saved,
all the ends of the earth!
For I am God, and there is no other.
23 I have taken an oath by my own self;
a word of righteousness has gone out of my mouth,
and it shall not return:
"To me every knee shall bow,
every tongue shall swear."[l] 24 "In Yahweh alone," one shall say of me,
"is victory and might";
to him they shall come, and they shall be shamed,
all who were incensed against him.[m]
25 In Yahweh all the seed of Israel shall be justified and shall glory.

Notes

- a (45:1) "His anointed," Hebrew meshiho, the only place in the Hebrew Bible where a foreign king is called Yahweh's anointed (compare the kings of Israel, 1 Samuel 24:6; Psalm 2:2). From mashiah, "anointed one," comes the word Messiah. "Loosen the belts," literally "open the loins," that is, disarm.

- b (45:2) "The mountains" follows the Great Isaiah Scroll (hararim) and the Septuagint; the standard Hebrew text has hadurim, an obscure word perhaps meaning "swellings" or "rough places."
- c (45:4) Or "surname you."
- d (45:7) Hebrew ra', "evil," here "calamity" or "disaster," in contrast with shalom, "peace," "well-being."
- e (45:8) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Shout, O heavens ... who says to the earth, 'Let salvation blossom'" and lacks the last line.
- f (45:9) The Hebrew text is difficult. The Great Isaiah Scroll and some other witnesses differ. Compare Jeremiah 18:6; Romans 9:20–21.
- g (45:11) Or "Will you question me about my children, and command me about the work of my hands?" The Hebrew word order is ambiguous.
- h (45:14) Cush, see the note on 43:3. The Sabeans, see 43:3 (Seba).
- i (45:15) Or "Truly, with you God hides himself."
- j (45:18) Hebrew tohu (see Genesis 1:2).
- k (45:19) Hebrew tohu.
- l (45:23) Compare Romans 14:11; Philippians 2:10–11.
- m (45:24) The Hebrew is uncertain; literally "Only in Yahweh, he said to me, are righteousness and strength."

Chapter 46

1 Bel has bowed down, Nebo stoops;
their idols are loaded on beasts and cattle;
the things you once carried in procession
are now a load, a burden on weary animals.[a] 2 They stoop, they bow down together;
they could not rescue the burden,
but they themselves have gone into captivity.[b] 3 Listen to me, house of Jacob,
and all who remain of the house of Israel,
you whom I have carried since your birth,
held since you were in the womb:
4 until you are old I am the same,
and until your hair turns gray I will carry you.
I made you, and I will hold you up;
I will carry you and rescue you.[c]
5 To whom will you liken me and make me equal,
and compare me, that we may be alike?

6 Those who lavish gold from the purse,
and weigh out silver on the scale,
pay a smith to work it into a god;
before it they fall prostrate and adore it.
7 They hoist it onto a shoulder and carry it;
they put it down in its spot, and there it stays;
it never moves from its place.
Even if someone calls out to it, it does not reply
or rescue him from his trouble.
8 Remember this and stand firm;
call it back to mind, you rebels.[d]
9 Remember the former things of long ago;
for I am God, and there is no other;
I am God, and there is none like me,
10 announcing the end at the start and, long beforehand, what has not yet happened, saying, "My plan will stand,
and I will do everything I please,"[e] 11 calling a bird of prey from the east,
the man of my counsel from a far land.
I have spoken, and I will bring it about;
I have planned it, and I will do it.[f]
12 Hearken to me, you hard of heart,
who stand far off from righteousness:
13 I bring near my righteousness; it is not far off,
and my salvation shall not linger;
I will put salvation in Zion,
for Israel my glory.[g]

Notes

- a (46:1) Bel, "lord," a title of Marduk, chief god of Babylon. Nebo (Nabu), Marduk's son, god of writing; his name forms part of Nebuchadnezzar (Nabu-kudurri-usur). Their images were carried in procession at the New Year festival; here they are carted off as plunder.
- b (46:2) Or "they could not save the load," that is, the idols could not save themselves or those carrying them.

- c (46:4) Yahweh carries his people (verses 3–4), where the idols must be carried (verses 1, 7).
- d (46:8) Hebrew hith'oshashu, an obscure word, perhaps "be men," "take heart," or "be ashamed."
- e (46:10) Or "My counsel shall stand."
- f (46:11) Cyrus; compare 41:2, 25. "His counsel" follows the written Hebrew text and the Great Isaiah Scroll; the read form has "my counsel."
- g (46:13) Or "my vindication … my deliverance."

Chapter 47

1 Go down and sit in the dust,
O virgin daughter of Babylon;
sit on the ground, without a throne,
O daughter of the Chaldeans!
For no more shall they call you
soft and delicate.[a] 2 Take the hand mill and grind meal;
put off your veil,
strip off your skirt, bare your legs,
pass through the rivers.[b] 3 Your nakedness shall be laid bare,
yes, your shame shall be seen.
I will take vengeance,
and I will spare no man.[c] 4 Our Redeemer, Yahweh of Armies is his name,
the Holy One of Israel.
5 Sit in silence, and go into darkness,
O daughter of the Chaldeans;
for no more shall they call you
the mistress of kingdoms.
6 I was angry with my people;
I profaned my inheritance,
and I gave them into your hand;
you showed them no compassion;
on the aged you made your yoke very heavy.

7 And you said, “Forever I shall be the lady,”
and these things you did not take to heart,
nor did you think on how it would end.[d]
8 So now listen to this, you pleasure-seeker lounging in comfort,
who tells herself,
“I am the one, and no one else is;
I will never be a widow
or lose my children”:[e] 9 both of these will hit you
in an instant, on a single day:
the loss of your children and widowhood;
they will come in full force on you,
in spite of your many spells
and the great strength of your charms.
10 You felt safe in your evil;
you thought, “None can see me”;
your wisdom and your learning turned you aside,
and within yourself you said,
“I am, and besides me there is none.”[f]
11 So evil comes on you,
whose dawning you shall not know;
calamity shall fall on you,
which you cannot cover by ransom;
and devastation shall overtake you in an instant,
which you did not foresee.[g] 12 Keep on, then, with your charms,
and with the throng of your witchcrafts,
over which you have toiled since your youth;
it may be you can gain by them;
it may be you can make men tremble.[h] 13 You are worn out by your many advisers;
let them rise up, I pray, and rescue you,
the dividers of the sky, the watchers of the stars,

who month by month announce the things that are coming on you.[i] 14 Behold, they are become like stubble;
the fire burns them;
they cannot deliver themselves
from the power of the flame.
No coal is this for warming oneself,
no fire to sit before!
15 That is what they will be to you, those you worked with,
those who did business with you from your youth;
they drift away, each in his own direction;
no one is left to save you.[j]

Notes

- a (47:1) Babylon, personified as a royal woman, is to be stripped of rank and become a slave girl.
- b (47:2) Grinding at the hand mill was the work of slaves (Exodus 11:5; Judges 16:21).
- c (47:3) The Hebrew of the last line is uncertain; literally "I will not meet a man." Some read "says our Redeemer" with verse 4.
- d (47:7) Or "their end," or "its latter end." Or "I shall be forever, a mistress forever."
- e (47:8) Compare Revelation 18:7–8.
- f (47:10) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "in your knowledge" (bedatekh) for "in your wickedness" (beraʿatekh).
- g (47:11) Or "which you will not know how to charm away." Hebrew shaharah may mean "its dawn" or "a charm against it."
- h (47:12) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks the last two lines and has "until this day" instead.
- i (47:13) "Those who divide the heavens," astrologers who mark out the sky into regions. Babylon was famous for astrology.
- j (47:15) Or "those you have dealt with."

Chapter 48

1 Listen to this, house of Jacob,
you who are called by Israel's name
and who came from Judah's line,
you who take oaths in Yahweh's name
and call on the God of Israel,
though not honestly or rightly.[a]

2 For they call themselves after the holy city,
and lean upon the God of Israel;
Yahweh of Armies is his name.
3 The former things I declared long ago;
out of my mouth they went, and I made them heard;
all at once I acted, and they took place.
4 Because I knew that you are hard,
and your neck an iron sinew,
and your forehead bronze,
5 I declared them to you from of old;
before they came about I made you hear them,
lest you should say, "It was my idol that worked them;
my graven and my molten image ordained them."
6 You have heard it; now look at all of it;
will you not admit it?
From now on I am telling you new things,
hidden things that you did not know.[b]
7 Now they are brought into being, and not of old;
and before this day you did not hear them,
lest you should say, "Behold, I knew them."
8 No, you did not hear; no, you did not know;
no, from long ago your ear was not unstopped;
for I knew how very faithlessly you would deal,
and that from the womb you were called a rebel.
9 Because of my name I hold back my wrath,
and because of my praise I rein it in toward you,
so as not to cut you down.
10 See, I have refined you, though not like silver;
I have tested you in the furnace of suffering.[c] 11 For my sake, for my own sake I act;
for how could it be profaned?
And my glory to another I will not yield.[d] 12 Listen to me, O Jacob,
and Israel, whom I called:

I am he; I am the first,
and I am also the last.[e]
13 My hand also laid the foundation of the earth,
and my right hand spread out the heavens;
when I call to them,
they stand forth together.
14 Gather, all of you, and listen!
Who among them has declared these things?
He whom Yahweh loves shall do his pleasure on Babylon,
and his arm shall be against the Chaldeans.[f]
15 I, I have spoken; yes, I have called him;
I have brought him, and he shall prosper in his way.
16 Come near to me, hear this:
from the beginning I have not spoken in secret;
from the time it came to be, I was there.
And now the Lord Yahweh has sent me, and his Spirit.[g]
17 Thus says Yahweh,
your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel:
I am Yahweh your God,
who teaches you for your profit,
who leads you in the way you should go.[h]
18 If only you had listened to my commands!
Your peace would then have flowed like a river,
and your righteousness like the waves of the sea;
19 your descendants would have been as many as the sand,
and the children born to you as numerous as its grains;
their name would never have been erased
or wiped out from my presence.
20 Go out from Babylon, flee from the Chaldeans!
With a voice of singing declare it, make it heard;
send it forth to the end of the earth;
say, "Yahweh has redeemed his servant Jacob!"[i] 21 And they were not thirsty when he guided them through the wastelands;

water out of the rock he caused to run for them;
he cleaved the rock, and out streamed the waters.[j]
22 There is no peace, says Yahweh, for the wicked.[k]

Notes

- a (48:1) "The waters of Judah," perhaps meaning Judah as a fountain (compare Psalm 68:26). Some read "from the loins of Judah" (mimme'e).
- b (48:6) Or "I made you hear new things."
- c (48:10) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "I have tested you" (behantikha) for "I have chosen you" (behartikha), the standard Hebrew text. The Septuagint reads "I have rescued you from the furnace." This rendering follows the scroll.
- d (48:11) "It" is the divine name (compare verse 9). The Septuagint reads "because my name is profaned."
- e (48:12) Compare 41:4; 44:6; Revelation 1:17; 22:13.
- f (48:14) Or "Yahweh loves him; he shall do his pleasure." The Great Isaiah Scroll differs: "Yahweh loves me; he shall do my pleasure."
- g (48:16) Or "has sent me with his Spirit." Hebrew Adonai Yahweh. The speaker may be the prophet or the servant.
- h (48:17) Or "for your benefit."
- i (48:20) Compare Jeremiah 50:8; 51:6; Revelation 18:4. The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks "send it forth."
- j (48:21) Compare Exodus 17:6; Numbers 20:11.
- k (48:22) Repeated in 57:21. This line closes the first of three sections of nine chapters each in chapters 40–66 (40–48, 49–57, 58–66).

Chapter 49

1 Listen to me, O coastlands,
and give heed, you peoples from far away!
Yahweh called me from the womb;
from my mother's body he made mention of my name.[a] 2 And he has set my mouth as a keen sword;
he has kept me hidden in the shade of his hand;
and he has made me a burnished shaft;
he has stored me away in his quiver.[b]
3 And he said to me, "You are my servant,
Israel, in whom I will show my glory."[c]
4 But I said, "I have toiled for nothing;
for emptiness and vapor I have used up my strength;

yet surely my right is with Yahweh,
and my wage with my God."[d] 5 And now Yahweh says,
he who shaped me in the womb to be his servant,
to bring Jacob back to him
and gather Israel to him,
because I am held in honor by Yahweh,
and my God has become my strength:[e] 6 he says, "It is a light thing for you to be my servant,
for raising the tribes of Jacob,
and for restoring the preserved of Israel;
and I will give you as a light to the Gentiles,
to be my salvation unto the farthest part of the earth."[f]
7 Thus says Yahweh,
the Redeemer of Israel, his Holy One,
to him whom men scorn, whom the nation loathes,
a slave of those who rule:
"Kings shall behold it and stand up,
and princes shall fall prostrate,
because of Yahweh, who is faithful,
the Holy One of Israel, who has chosen you."[g]
8 Thus says Yahweh:
In a time of favor I have answered you,
and in a day of salvation I have helped you;
I will guard you and give you as a covenant for the people,
to restore the land,
to apportion the desolate heritages,[h]
9 telling the prisoners, "Come out,"
and those in darkness, "Appear."
They will graze by the roads,
and find pasture on every barren hill;
10 they shall not hunger nor thirst,
neither shall scorching heat nor sun strike them;
for he who has compassion on them will lead them,
and by springs of water he will guide them.[i]

11 And I will make all my mountains a road,
and my highways shall be raised up.
12 Behold, these shall come from afar,
and behold, these from the north and from the west,
and these from the land of Sinim.[j] 13 Shout for gladness, you heavens, and rejoice, you earth;
let the mountains burst into song!
For Yahweh has comforted his people,
and will have compassion on his afflicted.
14 But Zion said, “Yahweh has forsaken me;
the Lord has forgotten me.”
15 Can a woman forget her nursing child,
so as to have no pity on the son of her womb?
Even these may forget,
yet I will not forget you.
16 Look, I have carved you on the palms of my hands;
your walls are always in front of me.[k] 17 Your sons hurry back;
those who tore you down and wasted you depart from you.[l] 18 Look up and look all around;
they are all assembling and coming to you.
As surely as I live, declares Yahweh,
you will wear them all like jewelry
and fasten them on like a bride.
19 For your waste and your desolate places,
and your land that was ruined,
surely now you shall be too narrow for your inhabitants,
and those who swallowed you shall be far away.
20 The children born while you were bereaved will still say within earshot,
“This place is too crowded for me;
move over so I can live here.”[m]
21 Then you shall say in your heart,
“Who has begotten these for me,
when I was childless and barren,

an exile, and driven about?
And these, who reared them?
See, I was left by myself;
from where, then, are these?"
22 This is what the Lord Yahweh says:
I will raise my hand toward the nations
and lift my banner for the peoples;
they will carry your sons in their arms,
and your daughters will ride on their shoulders.[n]
23 Kings will be your foster fathers, and their queens your nursing mothers;
they will bow down to you, faces to the ground,
and lick the dust off your feet.
And you will recognize that I am Yahweh;
no one who waits for me will be disappointed.
24 Shall plunder be seized from a warrior, or a tyrant's captive slip away?[o]
25 For this is what Yahweh says:
Even the prisoners of a warrior will be taken back,
and the loot of a tyrant will be recovered;
I will fight those who fight you,
and I will rescue your children.
26 I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh,
and they shall be drunk with their own blood as with new wine.
Then all flesh shall know that I am Yahweh your Savior,
and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.[p]

Notes

- a (49:1) The second "Servant Song" (49:1–6); compare 42:1. Compare Jeremiah 1:5; Galatians 1:15.
- b (49:2) Compare Hebrews 4:12; Revelation 1:16.
- c (49:3) The servant is named Israel, yet has a mission to Israel (verses 5–6); interpreters have seen in him the ideal Israel, a faithful remnant, the prophet, or the Messiah. One medieval Hebrew manuscript is reported to lack "Israel."
- d (49:4) Hebrew tohu and hevel, "emptiness" and "vapor." Or "my reward," "my recompense."

- e (49:5) “To him” follows the read form of the Hebrew and the Great Isaiah Scroll; the written form has “not,” “and Israel is not gathered.” The Great Isaiah Scroll also reads “my help” for “my strength.”
- f (49:6) Hebrew netsire, “preserved ones.” Paul and Barnabas quote the end of the verse in Acts 13:47; compare Luke 2:32.
- g (49:7) Or “to one whose life is despised.” The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “Thus says the Lord Yahweh, your Redeemer, O Israel.”
- h (49:8) 2 Corinthians 6:2 quotes the first two lines.
- i (49:10) Compare Revelation 7:16–17.
- j (49:12) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “the land of the Syenites” (Seweniyim), that is, Syene, modern Aswan in southern Egypt, where there was a Jewish colony in the Persian period (compare Ezekiel 29:10). The standard Hebrew text has Sinim, otherwise unknown.
- k (49:16) Perhaps the plans of the rebuilt city, or a mark like a tattoo.
- l (49:17) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads bonayikh, “your builders,” for banayikh, “your sons,” the same consonants with a different vowel, a reading also reflected in some ancient versions; the builders outpace the destroyers. The Septuagint has “you shall soon be built.”
- m (49:20) Or “Give me room, that I may dwell.”
- n (49:22) Hebrew Adonai Yahweh. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads “For thus says Yahweh.”
- o (49:24) “A tyrant” follows the Great Isaiah Scroll (ʿarits), as in verse 25, and the Syriac and Latin Vulgate; the standard Hebrew text reads tsaddiq, “a righteous one” (perhaps “the captives of the victor”). The Septuagint has “a man taken captive unjustly.”
- p (49:26) Hebrew Avir Yaʿaqov, “the Mighty One of Jacob,” compare 1:24; Genesis 49:24.

Chapter 50

1 This is what Yahweh says:
Where is your mother’s certificate of divorce,
by which I dismissed her?
Or which of my creditors
received you as payment from me?
Look, you were sold for your own wrongs,
and your mother was dismissed for your rebellious acts.[a] 2 Why was there no one when I arrived?
Why did nobody reply when I called?
Is my hand too short to buy you back?
Do I lack the strength to rescue?

With a single rebuke I turn the sea into dry ground
and rivers into desert;
their fish stink for lack of water
and die of thirst.[b] 3 I clothe the heavens with blackness,
and make sackcloth their covering.
4 The Lord Yahweh has granted me
a disciple's tongue,
to know how to hold up the weary
with a word.
Each morning he rouses,
he wakens my ear
to hear as those who are taught.[c] 5 The Lord Yahweh has opened my ear,
and I was not rebellious;
I did not turn backward.
6 My back I offered to the smiters,
and my cheeks to them that tore out the hair;
my face I did not cover
from disgrace and spittle.[d]
7 But the Lord Yahweh helps me;
that is why I have not been humiliated;
that is why I have made my face hard as flint,
and I know I will not be ashamed.[e]
8 He who vindicates me is near.
Who will contend with me? Let us stand up together.
Who is my adversary? Let him come near to me.[f] 9 Behold, the Lord Yahweh helps me;
who is he who will condemn me?
Behold, all of them shall wear out like a garment;
the moth shall eat them up.
10 Who among you fears Yahweh
and listens to his servant's voice?
Let the person who walks in the dark with no light at all

put his trust in Yahweh's name
and rely on his God.[g] 11 Look, all of you who light fires
and arm yourselves with torches:
go, walk in the glare of your fire
and among the torches you have lit!
This is what you will get from my hand:
you will lie down in torment.

Notes

- a (50:1) Compare Deuteronomy 24:1–4; Jeremiah 3:8; Hosea 2:2. The questions imply that there was no formal divorce and no debt; the exile was due to Israel's sins, and the bond can be restored.
- b (50:2) Compare Exodus 7:18, 21; 14:21.
- c (50:4) The third "Servant Song" (50:4–9). Hebrew limmudim, "disciples," "those who are taught"; compare 8:16. In verses 4, 5, 7, and 9, Hebrew Adonai Yahweh.
- d (50:6) Compare Matthew 26:67; 27:30; Mark 14:65. The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "I did not turn aside my face."
- e (50:7) Compare Ezekiel 3:8–9; Luke 9:51.
- f (50:8) Compare Romans 8:33–34.
- g (50:10) The Great Isaiah Scroll has plural forms: "who walk in darkness."

Chapter 51

1 Listen to me, you who pursue righteousness,
you who seek Yahweh:
look to the rock from which you were hewn,
and to the hollow of the pit from which you were dug.[a] 2 Consider Abraham your father,
and Sarah who gave you birth;
for I called him when he was one alone,
and I blessed him and made him many.[b] 3 For Yahweh has consoled Zion;
he has consoled all her ruined places;
he will make her desert like Eden
and her wasteland like Yahweh's garden;
joy and gladness will be found in her,
thanks and the sound of singing.[c]

4 Listen carefully, my people,
and hear me, my nation;
instruction will come out from me,
and I will set my justice as a light for the peoples.[d] 5 My righteousness is near;
my salvation has gone forth,
and my arms shall judge the peoples;
on me the coastlands wait,
and on my arm they set their hope.[e] 6 Raise your eyes to the sky and look at the ground below;
the sky will disappear like smoke,
the earth will wear out like clothing,
and its people will die like flies;
but my deliverance will last forever,
and my righteousness will never fail.[f]
7 Listen to me, you who know what is right,
you people who have my instruction in your hearts;
do not be afraid of human scorn
or terrified by their insults.
8 For the moth shall eat them up like a garment,
and the worm shall eat them like wool;
but my righteousness shall be forever,
and my salvation to all generations.[g]
9 Awake, awake, put on strength,
O arm of Yahweh!
Awake, as in the ancient days,
the ages long past!
Are you not the one who hewed Rahab apart,
who ran the dragon through?[h] 10 Was it not you who dried up the sea,
the waters of the great deep,
who made the depths of the sea a way
for the redeemed to pass over?[i]

11 The people Yahweh has bought back will return and come to Zion singing;
everlasting joy will be on their heads;
they will be filled with gladness and joy,
and sorrow and sighing will run off.[j] 12 I, I am the one who comforts you;
who are you to be afraid of a mortal who will die,
of a human being who is made like grass,[k]
13 and to forget Yahweh who made you,
who spread out the sky
and laid the earth's foundations,
and to live in constant dread all day
of the rage of the oppressor,
who is aiming to destroy?
But where is the oppressor's rage?
14 Soon shall the one stooped in bonds be set loose;
he shall not die in the pit,
and his bread shall not fail.[l]
15 For I am Yahweh your God,
who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar;
Yahweh of Armies is his name.[m]
16 I have placed my words in your mouth
and hidden you in the shade of my hand,
so that I may set up the heavens, lay the earth's foundations,
and say to Zion, "You are my people."[n] 17 Rouse yourself, rouse yourself, stand up, O Jerusalem,
you who have drunk from the hand of Yahweh
the cup of his fury;
the goblet, the cup that makes men reel,
you have drunk it and drained it.[o]
18 Of all the sons she bore,
not one leads her;
of all the sons she raised,
not one grasps her hand.

19 These two disasters have struck you (who will grieve with you?):
ruin and destruction, hunger and the sword;
how can I console you?[p] 20 Your sons have fainted;
they lie at the head of every street
like an antelope in a net;
they are full of the wrath of Yahweh,
the rebuke of your God.[q] 21 So hear this now, you afflicted one,
drunken, yet not from wine:
22 This is what your Lord Yahweh says,
your God, who pleads the case of his people:
Look, I have taken from your hand the cup that made you stagger,
the bowl of my wrath; you will never drink from it again;[r] 23 and I will set it in the hand of those who grieve you,
who said to your soul,
"Lie flat, so we can walk across";
and you made your back like the ground,
like a street for them to pass over.[s]

Notes

- a (51:1) Abraham and Sarah (verse 2) are the rock and the quarry from which Israel came.
- b (51:2) Compare Genesis 12:1–3; Ezekiel 33:24.
- c (51:3) Eden, Hebrew ʻeden, "delight" (Genesis 2:8). The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "sorrow and sighing shall flee away," as in verse 11.
- d (51:4) Or "law," Hebrew torah. Compare 2:3; 42:4.
- e (51:5) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "his arm shall judge the peoples; the coastlands wait for him, and for his arm they hope."
- f (51:6) Hebrew kemo-ken, perhaps "like gnats" (compare ken, "gnat") or "in like manner." Compare Psalm 102:25–26; Hebrews 1:10–12; 2 Peter 3:10.
- g (51:8) Compare 50:9.
- h (51:9) Rahab, Hebrew rahav, "boisterous one," "arrogance," a mythic sea monster and a poetic name for Egypt (30:7; Psalm 87:4; 89:10); not the same name as Rahab of Jericho (Hebrew rahav with a different h). "Sea monster," Hebrew tannin (27:1).
- i (51:10) The Red Sea crossing (Exodus 14:21–22).
- j (51:11) Repeated from 35:10.

- k (51:12) Compare 40:6–8.
- l (51:14) Or "He who is bound," Hebrew tso'eh, "one bent over," perhaps a prisoner in fetters.
- m (51:15) Compare Jeremiah 31:35.
- n (51:16) Some propose "to stretch out" (lintot) for "to plant" (linto'a).
- o (51:17) Compare Jeremiah 25:15–29; Revelation 14:10; 16:19.
- p (51:19) The Great Isaiah Scroll and the Septuagint read "who shall comfort you?"
- q (51:20) Hebrew te'o, a wild ox or antelope, perhaps the oryx (Deuteronomy 14:5).
- r (51:22) Hebrew Adonayikh Yahweh, "your Lord Yahweh."
- s (51:23) Or "Lie down, that we may walk over you." The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "and your oppressors" after "tormentors."

Chapter 52

1 Wake up, wake up,
clothe yourself with your strength, O Zion;
clothe yourself with your splendid garments,
O Jerusalem, the holy city;
for the uncircumcised and the unclean
shall no longer enter into you.
2 Shake off the dust and get up;
sit on your throne, Jerusalem;
undo the chains from your neck,
captive daughter of Zion.[a]
3 For thus says Yahweh: "For nothing you were sold, and not with silver shall you be redeemed." 4 For thus says the Lord Yahweh: "My people went down into Egypt at the first to sojourn there, and Assyria oppressed them for no cause.[b] 5 And now, what have I here?" declares Yahweh, "seeing that my people are taken away for nothing? Those who rule over them howl," declares Yahweh, "and continually, all the day long, my name is scorned.[c] 6 So my people will know my name; on that day they will know that I am the one who is speaking: here I am."
7 How lovely upon the mountains
are the feet of the herald of good news,
who makes peace heard, who brings tidings of good,
who makes salvation heard,
who says to Zion, "Your God reigns!"[d]

8 Hark, your watchmen! They lift up their voice;
together they cry out for joy;
for eye to eye they shall see the return of Yahweh to Zion.[e] 9 Burst out together into singing,
you ruins of Jerusalem;
for Yahweh has comforted his people;
he has redeemed Jerusalem.
10 Yahweh has bared his holy arm
before the eyes of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see
the salvation of our God.
11 Turn away, turn away, go out from there;
touch nothing unclean;
go out from her midst; keep yourselves pure,
you who carry the vessels of Yahweh.[f] 12 For you shall not go out in haste,
nor shall you go in flight;
for Yahweh goes before you,
and the God of Israel is your rear guard.[g] 13 See, my servant shall act wisely;[h]
he shall be lifted up and exalted,
and shall be very high.[i] 14 Just as many were appalled at you[j]— his look was so disfigured, past that of any man,[k]
and his shape past that of mankind—15 so shall he sprinkle many nations;[l]
kings shall shut their mouths because of him;
for what was not told them they shall see,
and what they had not heard they shall understand.[m]

Notes

- a (52:2) "Take your seat": Hebrew shevi, "sit (enthroned)"; with different vowels, "O captive." "Loose" follows the read form of the Hebrew; the written form, which the Great Isaiah Scroll shares, has "they have loosed."
- b (52:4) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Thus says Yahweh," without "Lord."

- c (52:5) Or “wail,” or “boast.” The Septuagint has “on account of you my name is continually blasphemed among the Gentiles,” which Paul quotes in Romans 2:24.
- d (52:7) Romans 10:15 quotes the first two lines; compare Nahum 1:15 (2:1 in Hebrew) and 40:9.
- e (52:8) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds “in compassion” (“when Yahweh returns to Zion in compassion”); compare the Septuagint, “when the Lord shall have mercy upon Zion.”
- f (52:11) Paul applies the verse to the church in 2 Corinthians 6:17.
- g (52:12) After “the God of Israel” the Great Isaiah Scroll adds “he shall be called the God of all the earth” (compare 54:5).
- h (52:13) The fourth “Servant Song” runs from 52:13 to 53:12. Hebrew yaskil, “act with insight,” and so “prosper”; the Septuagint has “shall understand.”
- i (52:13) Compare 6:1 and 57:15, where the same pair of words, “lifted up and exalted,” describes Yahweh himself. The Septuagint has “and be glorified exceedingly”; compare Acts 3:13.
- j (52:14) So the Masoretic Text and the Great Isaiah Scroll; some ancient versions are reported to read “at him.” In 1QIsa-b the word is lost.
- k (52:14) Hebrew mishhat, “disfigurement,” and 1QIsa-b agrees. The Great Isaiah Scroll writes the word with a final yod (mshhty), which some scholars read as mashahti, “I anointed”: “so I anointed his appearance beyond any man.” The Septuagint has “so shall your face be without glory from men.”
- l (52:15) Hebrew yazzeh, the verb used of sprinkling blood and water in rites of cleansing (Leviticus 4:6; 16:14; Numbers 19:18). The Septuagint has “so shall many nations wonder at him,” and some render “startle.”
- m (52:15) Romans 15:21 quotes the last two lines from the Septuagint.

Chapter 53

1 Who has believed what we have heard?[a]
And the arm of Yahweh, to whom has it been revealed?[b]
2 For he grew up before him like a young shoot,[c]
and like a root out of parched ground;
he had no form nor majesty that we should look upon him,
nor any appearance that we should desire him.
3 He was despised and forsaken by men,[d]
a man of pains, and acquainted with sickness;[e]
and as one from whom people hide their face
he was despised, and we did not esteem him.
4 Surely he has borne our sicknesses,
and carried our pains;

yet we ourselves accounted him stricken,
struck down by God, and afflicted.[f] 5 But he was wounded for our rebellion,[g]
crushed for our guilt;
the punishment that brought us peace fell on him,[h]
and through his wounds we are healed.[i] 6 All of us like sheep have wandered;
each one we have turned to his own way;
and Yahweh has made to fall on him
the iniquity of us all.[j]
7 He was oppressed, and he humbled himself,[k]
yet he opened not his mouth;
as a lamb led to the slaughter,
and as a ewe before her shearers is dumb,
so he opened not his mouth.[l]
8 Through oppression and a verdict he was taken away;[m]
who among his contemporaries thought about[n]
how he was cut off from the land of the living, struck down for the rebellion of my people?[o]
9 And his grave was assigned with the wicked,[p]
and with a rich man in his death,[q]
though he had committed no violence,
nor was deceit found in his mouth.[r]
10 Yet it was the will of Yahweh to crush him;
he made him sick.[s]
When his life makes an offering for guilt,[t] he shall see offspring, he shall prolong his days,
and the will of Yahweh shall prosper by his hand.
11 After his soul's anguish he will see light[u]
and be content;
through his knowledge[v] my righteous servant[w]
will make many people righteous,
and he will carry their guilt.
12 Therefore I will give him a portion among the many,[x]
and with the strong he shall share the spoil,[y]

because he poured out his soul to death and was counted with the transgressors;[z]
yet he bore the sin of many,
and for the transgressors he intercedes.[aa]

Notes

- a (53:1) Or "our report," "our message." John 12:38 and Romans 10:16 quote this line.
- b (53:1) For "the arm of Yahweh," compare 51:9; 52:10.
- c (53:2) Hebrew yoneq, "a suckling," used of a shoot from a root; compare 11:1. The Septuagint has "we brought a report as of a child before him."
- d (53:3) Or "rejected by men"; Hebrew hadal ishim, perhaps "lacking men," that is, deserted, or "least of men."
- e (53:3) Hebrew holi, "sickness" (also verse 4), and makh'ovot, "pains."
- f (53:4) Matthew 8:17 quotes the first two lines of Jesus' healings. The Septuagint has "he bears our sins, and is pained for us." First Peter 2:24 draws on verses 4–5 and 12.
- g (53:5) Hebrew meholal, "pierced" or "wounded"; the Septuagint has "wounded."
- h (53:5) Hebrew musar shelomenu, "the discipline of our peace."
- i (53:5) Hebrew havurah, "stripe," "welt." Quoted in 1 Peter 2:24.
- j (53:6) Hebrew hifgia', "caused to strike," "caused to meet"; the same verb is rendered "intercedes" in verse 12. Compare 1 Peter 2:25.
- k (53:7) Or "and he was afflicted."
- l (53:7) Acts 8:32–33 quotes verses 7–8 from the Septuagint: this is the passage the Ethiopian official was reading when Philip met him. Compare Jeremiah 11:19; Matthew 26:63; 1 Peter 2:23.
- m (53:8) Hebrew me'otser umimmishpat, "from detention and from judgment"; or "without restraint and without justice." The Septuagint has "in his humiliation his judgment was taken away," as quoted in Acts 8:33.
- n (53:8) Or "who could tell of his descendants?" or "who gave thought to his fate?" The Septuagint has "who shall declare his generation? For his life is taken away from the earth."
- o (53:8) Hebrew nega' lamo, "a blow to them" (or "to him"). For "my people" the Great Isaiah Scroll reads "his people" ('ammo), and 1QIsa-b appears to read the same, though the final letter there is uncertain. The Septuagint has "because of the iniquities of my people he was led to death."
- p (53:9) Hebrew "he gave," that is, "one made"; the Great Isaiah Scroll reads "they gave." The Septuagint has "I will give the wicked for his burial."
- q (53:9) Hebrew bemotav, "in his deaths," a plural perhaps of intensity. The Great Isaiah Scroll writes bwmtw, which some scholars take as "his burial mound" or "his high place." Compare Matthew 27:57–60, where Joseph of Arimathea, "a rich man," buries Jesus.
- r (53:9) First Peter 2:22 quotes the last two lines, with "sin" for "violence."

- s (53:10) Hebrew hehli, “he made sick.” The Great Isaiah Scroll reads wayhalleluhu, which has been taken as “and he pierced him” (compare meholal, verse 5). The Septuagint has “the Lord also is pleased to purge him from his stroke.”
- t (53:10) Or “if you make his soul a guilt offering”; the Hebrew verb can be “you make” or “she (his soul) makes.” Hebrew asham, the guilt offering of Leviticus 5:14–6:7.
- u (53:11) “Light” follows the Great Isaiah Scroll (1QIsa-a) and 1QIsa-b, both of which read yir’eh ’or, “he shall see light,” and the Septuagint, “to show him light.” A third Qumran copy, 4QIsa-d, is reported to read “light” as well. The Masoretic Text lacks the word: “he shall see, he shall be satisfied.”
- v (53:11) Or “by knowledge of him,” or “by his humiliation.”
- w (53:11) So the Masoretic Text and, as far as legible, 1QIsa-b; the Great Isaiah Scroll reads “his servant.” The Septuagint has “to justify the just one who serves many well.”
- x (53:12) Or “with the great.” The Septuagint has “he shall inherit many.”
- y (53:12) Or “and he shall divide the mighty as spoil.”
- z (53:12) Jesus quotes this line of himself in Luke 22:37; some manuscripts of Mark 15:28 apply it to the crucifixion between two criminals.
- aa (53:12) Hebrew yafgia‘, “he makes intercession” (see the note on verse 6). The Great Isaiah Scroll and 1QIsa-b read “for their transgressions”; the Septuagint has “and was delivered because of their iniquities.”

Chapter 54

1 “Sing, you childless woman who never gave birth;
break into song and shout, you who never felt labor pains!
For the children of the abandoned woman are more than those of the woman with a husband,” says Yahweh.[a] 2 “Widen the place of your tent, and let the curtains of your dwellings be stretched out; do not hold back;
make your cords long and your stakes strong.
3 For to the right hand and to the left you shall break out,
and your offspring shall dispossess nations
and make desolate cities to be inhabited.
4 Do not be afraid, for you will not be ashamed;
do not be dismayed, for you will not be humiliated;
you will forget the disgrace of your youth,
and no longer remember the shame of your widowhood.

5 For your Maker is your husband,[b]
Yahweh of Armies is his name;
and the Holy One of Israel is your Redeemer;
he is called the God of all the earth.
6 For as a wife forsaken and grieved in spirit Yahweh has called you, and as a wife of youth when she is rejected," says your God.
7 "For a little moment I abandoned you,
yet in great mercies I will gather you in.
8 In a surge of anger[c] I hid my face from you for a moment, but with everlasting loyal love I will have mercy on you,"
says Yahweh, your Redeemer.
9 "This is like the days of Noah to me:[d]
just as I promised that the waters of Noah would never again flood the earth, so I promise that I will not be angry with you or scold you.
10 Though mountains may move
and hills be shaken,
my loyal love will never leave you,
and the covenant of peace I made will stand,"
says Yahweh, who has mercy on you.
11 "O afflicted one, storm-tossed, not comforted,
see, I will set your stones in antimony,[e]
and lay your foundations with sapphires.[f] 12 I will make your battlements of rubies,[g]
and your gates of carbuncles,
and all your border of precious stones.
13 All your sons shall be taught by Yahweh,[h] and great shall be the peace of your sons.[i] 14 You will be established on a foundation of righteousness;
stay far from oppression, for you have nothing to fear,
and far from terror, for it will not approach you.
15 Should any assail you, it is not my doing;[j]
whoever assails you shall fall on your account.

16 Look, I am the one who made the blacksmith who fans the charcoal fire
and forges a weapon for his purpose;
I also made the destroyer who ruins.
17 No weapon formed against you shall succeed, and every tongue that rises against you in judgment you shall condemn.[k]
This is the inheritance of the servants of Yahweh, and their vindication from me," declares Yahweh.
the Septuagint has "strangers shall come to you by me."

Notes

- a (54:1) Paul quotes the verse in Galatians 4:27.
- b (54:5) Hebrew bo'alayikh, "your husband," plural in form (a plural of majesty), like "your Maker."
- c (54:8) Hebrew shetsef qetsef, a play on sound, "a gush of fury."
- d (54:9) Or, with the Hebrew letters divided differently (kime for ki me), "as the days of Noah"; the Great Isaiah Scroll appears to read so, though the letters are uncertain.
- e (54:11) Hebrew pukh, the black paint used for the eyes, here a dark mortar that sets off the stones. The Septuagint has "carbuncle."
- f (54:11) Or "lapis lazuli." Compare Revelation 21:18–21.
- g (54:12) The identity of these stones (Hebrew kadkod and eqdah) is uncertain.
- h (54:13) Jesus quotes this line in John 6:45.
- i (54:13) For the second "your sons" (banayikh) the Great Isaiah Scroll has a waw added above the line, giving bonayikh, "your builders"; compare 49:17.
- j (54:15) Hebrew gur yagur, "stir up strife," "attack," or "sojourn";
- k (54:17) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks this line.

Chapter 55

1 "Ho! All you who are thirsty, come to the waters;
and you that have no silver, come, buy grain and eat!
Yes, come, buy wine and milk
for no silver and for no price.[a] 2 Why do you weigh out silver for what is not bread,
and your labor for that which never satisfies?
Hear me attentively, and eat that which is good,
and let your soul delight itself in fatness.

3 Bend your ear and come to me;
hearken, and your soul shall live;
and I will cut for you a covenant forever,
the faithful mercies of David.[b] 4 See, I made him a witness to the peoples,
a prince and commander for the peoples.
5 You will summon a nation you have never known,
and a nation that never knew you will hurry to you,
because of Yahweh your God, the Holy One of Israel,
who has made you glorious.
6 Seek Yahweh while he lets himself be found;
call upon him while he is near.
7 Let the wicked forsake his way,
and the man of iniquity his thoughts;
and let him return to Yahweh, that he may have compassion on him,
and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.
8 For my thoughts are not your thoughts,
neither are your ways my ways, declares Yahweh.
9 For as the heavens are higher than the earth,
so my ways are higher than your ways,
and my thoughts than your thoughts.
10 For as the rain and the snow come down from heaven and return not there, but water the earth and make it bring forth and sprout, and give seed to the sower and bread to the eater,[c] 11 so shall my word be that goes forth from my mouth;
it shall not return to me empty,
but it shall do what I desire,
and succeed in that for which I sent it.
12 For in joy you shall go out,
and in peace you shall be led forth;
the mountains and the hills shall break out before you into song,
and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands.

13 Instead of the thornbush the cypress shall come up;
instead of the brier the myrtle shall come up;
and it shall be to Yahweh for a name,[d]
for an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off."

Notes

- a (55:1) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks "and eat; come, buy," probably because the copyist's eye skipped from one "buy" to the next.
- b (55:3) Hebrew hasde dawid hanne'emanim, "the sure acts of loyal love promised to David"; compare 2 Samuel 7:15–16. Acts 13:34 quotes the line from the Septuagint, "the holy and sure things of David."
- c (55:10) Compare 2 Corinthians 9:10.
- d (55:13) Hebrew leshem, "for renown."

Chapter 56

1 Thus says Yahweh:
"Keep justice and do righteousness,
for near is my salvation to come,
and my righteousness to be revealed.[a] 2 Blessed is the man who does this,
and the son of man who holds fast to it,
who keeps the Sabbath so as not to profane it,
and keeps his hand from doing any evil."
3 Let no foreigner who has joined himself to Yahweh say,
"Yahweh will surely keep me apart from his people";
and let no eunuch say,
"Look, I am only a dry tree."
4 For thus says Yahweh:
"To the eunuchs who keep my Sabbaths,
who choose the things in which I delight
and hold fast my covenant,
5 I will give in my house and within my walls
a monument and a name[b]
better than sons and daughters;
I will give them an everlasting name
that shall not be cut off.

6 “As for the foreigners who attach themselves to Yahweh, to serve him, to love Yahweh’s name
and to be his servants,
all who keep the Sabbath without desecrating it
and hold firmly to my covenant, 7 those I will bring to my holy mountain
and fill with joy in my house of prayer;
their burnt offerings and other sacrifices
will be accepted on my altar;[c]
for my house will be called a house of prayer for all the peoples.”[d]
8 The Lord Yahweh declares, who gathers the outcasts of Israel, “I will yet gather others to him
besides those already gathered.”[e] 9 All you beasts of the field, come to devour,
all you beasts in the forest.
10 His watchmen are blind;[f]
none of them has knowledge;
they are all mute dogs;
they cannot bark;
dreaming,[g] lying down,
loving to slumber.
11 The dogs are greedy of soul;[h]
they never know when they have enough.
And these are shepherds
who have no understanding;
all of them have turned to their own way,
each to his own gain, to the last man.
12 “Come,” they say, “I will fetch wine,[i]
and let us drink our fill of strong drink;
and tomorrow shall be as today,
great beyond all measure.”

Notes

- a (56:1) The Great Isaiah Scroll begins the chapter with “For.”

- b (56:5) Hebrew yad vashem, literally “a hand and a name.”
- c (56:7) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds “shall go up,” that is, “shall go up for acceptance on my altar.”
- d (56:7) Jesus quotes the last two lines when he clears the temple (Mark 11:17; compare Matthew 21:13; Luke 19:46).
- e (56:8) Compare John 10:16.
- f (56:10) The written form of the Hebrew has “His watchman.”
- g (56:10) Hebrew hozim, perhaps “panting” or “raving”; the Great Isaiah Scroll reads “they are seers” (hozim, spelled differently), a bitter play on the prophets. The Septuagint has “dreaming of rest.”
- h (56:11) Or “are strong of appetite.”
- i (56:12) So the Masoretic Text; the Great Isaiah Scroll reads “let us take wine.”

Chapter 57

1 The righteous man perishes,
and no one takes it to heart;
devout men are gathered away,
while none understands that from the face of evil
the righteous man is gathered away.
2 He enters into peace;
they rest upon their beds,
each one who walks straight ahead.[a] 3 “But you, come near here,
sons of a sorceress,
offspring of an adulterer and of one who plays the harlot.[b]
4 At whom do you make sport?
Against whom do you open wide the mouth
and thrust out the tongue?
Are you not a brood of rebellion,
offspring of deceit,
5 you who burn with lust among the oaks,[c]
under every green tree,
who slay the children in the valleys,
under the clefts of the crags?
6 Among the smooth stones of the valley is your portion;[d]
they, they are your lot;

to them also you have poured out a drink offering,
you have brought up a grain offering.
Shall I be consoled over these things?
7 Upon a high and lofty mountain
you have set your bed;
there also you went up
to offer sacrifice.
8 Behind the door and the doorpost
you have set your memorial;[e]
for, deserting me, you uncovered your bed,
you went up onto it, you made it wide;
and you made a bargain for yourself with them;
you loved their bed;
you gazed upon a hand.[f]
9 You went down to the king[g] with oil,
and made your ointments many;
you dispatched your messengers to distant parts,
and debased yourself as far as Sheol.
10 You were tired out by your long journey,
but you never said, 'There is no use';
you found renewed strength,
so you did not give out.
11 "Whom did you dread and fear,
that you lied,
and did not remember me,
nor lay it to your heart?
Have I not kept silent, and that from of old,[h]
and so you fear me not?
12 I will declare your righteousness and your deeds,
but they shall not profit you.[i] 13 When you cry for help,
let your gathered hoard rescue you!
But the wind shall lift them all away;
a breath shall take them away.

But he who takes refuge in me shall possess the land and inherit my holy mountain."
14 And one shall say,
"Build up, build up, clear the way;[j]
lift every stumbling block
out of the way of my people."
15 For this is what the lofty and exalted One says, who inhabits eternity, whose name is Holy:
"I live in a high and sacred place,
yet I am also with those who are crushed and humble in spirit, revitalizing the humble spirit
and reviving the crushed heart.
16 For I will not contend forever,
nor will I always be angry;
for then the spirit would grow faint before me,
even the breath of life that I have made.[k]
17 Because of his sinful greed I was angry;
I struck him, hid my face and was furious;
yet he kept on turning away,
following his own heart's path.
18 I have seen his ways, and I will heal him;
I will lead him and restore comfort to him[l]
and to those who mourn for him,
19 I create the fruit of the lips.[m]
Peace, peace to those far away and to those near,"
says Yahweh, "and I will heal them."[n] 20 But the wicked are like the tossing sea,
for it cannot be still,
and its waters cast up mire and mud.
21 "There is no peace," says my God, "for the wicked."[o]

Notes

- a (57:2) Or "each who walks in his uprightness."
- b (57:3) Hebrew "and she plays the harlot."
- c (57:5) Or "who inflame yourselves among the terebinths" or "among the gods."

- d (57:6) There is a play on words in the Hebrew: helqe nahal, “smooth stones of the valley,” and helqekh, “your portion.”
- e (57:8) Probably a pagan symbol in place of the reminder of the law commanded in Deuteronomy 6:9.
- f (57:8) “A hand” may be a euphemism for the male member.
- g (57:9) Hebrew melekh, or perhaps Molech (compare Leviticus 18:21).
- h (57:11) Or, with a slight change of the Hebrew, “and hidden my eyes.”
- i (57:12) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds “your collection,” anticipating verse 13.
- j (57:14) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds “the highway.” Compare 40:3; 62:10.
- k (57:16) Hebrew neshamot, “breaths,” the breath of life.
- l (57:18) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks “I will lead him” and reads “I will repay him with consolations.”
- m (57:19) The written form of the Hebrew has nov, the read form niv; both mean “fruit” of the lips, that is, praise. The Great Isaiah Scroll has “peace” once.
- n (57:19) Paul echoes this line in Ephesians 2:17.
- o (57:21) Compare 48:22.

Chapter 58

1 “Cry with a full throat, do not hold back;
lift up your voice like a ram’s horn;[a]
tell my people their transgression,
and the house of Jacob their sins.
2 Still they look for me every day
and take delight in learning my ways,
like a nation that has done right
and has not abandoned its God’s justice;
they ask me for fair rulings
and take pleasure in coming close to God.
3 ‘Why have we fasted,’ they say, ‘and you do not see?
Why have we humbled our souls, and you take no notice?’
See, in the day of your fast you pursue your own business,
and drive hard all your workers.[b] 4 See, you fast for quarrel and strife,
and to hit out with the fist of wickedness.
You do not fast as on this day
to have your voice heard on high.
5 Is that the sort of fast I choose,
a day when someone humbles himself?

Is it hanging your head like a reed
and spreading out sackcloth and ashes to lie on?
Do you really call this a fast,
a day Yahweh will accept?
6 "Is not this the fast that I choose:
to loosen the fetters of wickedness,
to untie the cords of the yoke,
to send away the crushed as free,[c]
and that you break every yoke?
7 Is it not to share your bread with the hungry,
and to bring the wandering poor home with you;
that when you see one naked you clothe him,[d]
and do not turn away from your own kin?
8 Then your light shall burst forth like the dawn,
and your healing shall sprout up quickly;
your righteousness shall go before you;
the glory of Yahweh shall gather you in behind.[e] 9 Then you will call, and Yahweh will answer;
you will cry for help, and he will say, 'Here I am.'
If you remove the yoke from among you,
the pointing finger and the malicious talk, 10 if you spend yourselves for the hungry and satisfy the need of the afflicted,
your light will shine in the dark,
and your night will turn into noon.
11 And Yahweh will guide you always and satisfy your soul in scorched places
and make your bones strong;
and you shall be like a watered garden,
like a spring of water
whose waters never fail.
12 Your people will rebuild the old ruins
and raise up foundations from past generations;
you will be known as the one who repairs gaps in walls
and restores streets to live on.

13 “If you turn back your foot from the Sabbath,
from doing your pleasure on my holy day,
and call the Sabbath a delight,
the holy day of Yahweh honorable,
and honor it, not going your own ways,
nor seeking your own pleasure, nor speaking idle words, 14 then you shall take delight in Yahweh,
and I will set you riding on the high places of the land,
and nourish you with the inheritance of Jacob your father,
for the mouth of Yahweh has spoken.”

Notes

- a (58:1) Hebrew shofar.
- b (58:3) Or “and exact all your debts.”
- c (58:6) Luke 4:18 includes this line in Jesus’ reading in Nazareth, from the Septuagint, “to set at liberty those who are oppressed.”
- d (58:7) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds “with a garment.”
- e (58:8) Or “shall be your rear guard”; compare 52:12.

Chapter 59

1 Look, Yahweh’s arm is not too short to save,
and his ear is not too deaf to hear;
2 but your iniquities have made a division
between you and your God,
and your sins have hidden his face from you,
so that he does not hear.
3 For your hands are stained with blood,
and your fingers with iniquity;
your lips have spoken falsehood;[a]
your tongue murmurs wrong.
4 No one sues justly;
no one goes to law honestly;
they trust in emptiness, they speak lies;
they conceive trouble and give birth to iniquity.
5 They hatch the eggs of vipers;
they weave the spider’s web;

he that eats of their eggs dies,
and the one that is crushed bursts into an adder.
6 Their threads shall not become a garment,
nor shall they clothe themselves with their handiwork.
Their doings are doings of iniquity,
and the work of violence is in their palms.
7 Their feet run to evil,
and they make haste to shed innocent blood;
their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity;
ruin and destruction are on their highways.[b] 8 The way of peace they know not,
and there is no justice in their tracks;
they have made their paths crooked for themselves;
no one who walks in them knows peace.
9 Therefore justice is far from us,
and righteousness does not reach us;
we wait for light, and see, darkness;
for brightness, and we walk in gloom.
10 We feel our way along the wall like the blind;
we grope as if we had no eyes;
we trip in broad daylight as if at dusk;
among the healthy we are like the dead.[c] 11 We roar, all of us, like bears,
and like doves we keep mourning;
we look for judgment, and there is none,
for deliverance, and it stays far off from us.
12 For our transgressions are many before you,
and our sins bear witness against us;
for our transgressions are with us,
and we know our iniquities:
13 transgressing, and denying Yahweh,
and turning back from following our God,
speaking oppression and revolt,
conceiving and uttering from the heart words of falsehood.

14 Justice is pushed backward,
and righteousness keeps its distance;
for truth has fallen in the street,
and uprightness cannot enter.
15 Truth is gone,
and whoever turns from evil becomes a target.
Yahweh saw it, and it displeased him
that there was no justice.
16 He saw that there was no man,
and was astonished that none stepped in;
so his arm wrought deliverance for him,
and his own righteousness sustained him.
17 He put on righteousness like body armor,
and placed a helmet of salvation on his head;[d]
he put on clothes of vengeance
and wrapped himself in zeal like a cloak.
18 As their deeds deserve, so shall he pay back:
fury to his foes, requital to his enemies;
to the coastlands he will render recompense.
19 People from the west will fear Yahweh's name,
and those from the east his glory;
for he will arrive like a rushing river,[e]
driven by the breath of Yahweh.
20 "And to Zion a Redeemer shall come, and to them that turn from rebellion in Jacob," declares Yahweh.[f] 21 "And as for me, this is my covenant with them," says Yahweh: "My Spirit that is upon you, and my words that I have put in your mouth, shall not depart out of your mouth, nor out of the mouth of your offspring, nor out of the mouth of your offspring's offspring," says Yahweh,[g] "from this time forth and forevermore."

Notes

- a (59:3) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks this line; 1QIsa-b has it.
- b (59:7) Paul quotes verses 7–8 in Romans 3:15–17.
- c (59:10) The meaning of Hebrew ashmannim, "among the vigorous," is uncertain.
- d (59:17) Compare Ephesians 6:14, 17; 1 Thessalonians 5:8.

- e (59:19) Or “when the enemy comes like a river, the Spirit of Yahweh lifts a banner against him.”
- f (59:20) Paul quotes verses 20–21 in Romans 11:26–27 in a form close to the Septuagint, “the deliverer shall come for Zion’s sake, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob”; Paul has “from Zion.”
- g (59:21) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks this second “says Yahweh”; 1QIsa-b has it.

Chapter 60

1 Get up, shine, for your light has arrived,
and Yahweh’s glory has dawned on you.
2 For see, darkness shall cover the earth,
and deep gloom the peoples;
but upon you Yahweh will rise,
and his glory shall be seen upon you.
3 And nations shall walk to your light,
and kings to the brightness of your dawning.
4 Lift up your eyes round about, and see;
they all gather together, they come to you;
your sons shall come from far off,
and your daughters shall be carried on the hip.[a] 5 Then you will look and glow with joy;
your heart will pound and swell,
because the riches of the sea will be brought to you and the wealth of nations will come to you.
6 Throngs of camels shall cover you,
young camels from Midian and Ephah;
they shall all come from Sheba,
bearing gold and frankincense,
and they shall announce the praises of Yahweh.[b] 7 All the sheep of Kedar will be collected for you;
the rams of Nebaioth will serve you;
they will be accepted as offerings on my altar,[c]
and I will make my glorious house even more glorious.
8 Who are these that fly along as a cloud,
as doves to their lattices?

9 The coastlands are waiting for me,
with the ships of Tarshish in the lead,
bringing your children from far away,
together with their silver and gold,
to honor the name of Yahweh your God,
the Holy One of Israel,
for he has made you glorious.
10 Foreigners will rebuild your walls,
and their kings will serve you;
though in anger I struck you down,
in kindness I have shown you mercy.
11 Your gates shall stand open always;
by day and by night they shall never be closed,
that men may bring to you the wealth of the nations,
with their kings led in procession.[d] 12 Any nation or kingdom
that refuses to serve you will be destroyed;
such nations will be completely ruined.
13 The splendor of Lebanon will come to you,
its cypress, plane and pine trees together,
to adorn my sanctuary;
and I will honor the place where I rest my feet.
14 The sons of your oppressors shall come to you bowed low, and all that scorned you shall fall down at the soles of your feet;[e]
they shall call you the City of Yahweh,
the Zion of the Holy One of Israel.
15 Instead of your being abandoned and hated,
so that none went through you,
I will make you an eternal pride,
the joy of generation after generation.
16 You will drink the milk of nations and nurse at the breasts of kings;
then you will know that I, Yahweh, am your Savior
and Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

17 For bronze I will bring in gold,
for iron I will bring in silver,
for timber, bronze,
for stones, iron;
and I will appoint peace as your overseers
and your taskmasters righteousness.
18 Violence will no longer be heard of in your country,
or devastation and destruction inside your borders;
you will name your walls Salvation
and your gates Praise.
19 You will no longer have the sun for light by day,
or the moon to brighten the night;[f]
Yahweh will be your light forever,
and your God will be your glory.[g] 20 Your sun shall no more go down,
nor shall your moon withdraw;
for Yahweh shall be your everlasting light,
and the days of your mourning shall be ended.
21 And your people, every one of them righteous,
shall inherit the land for all time,
the shoot of my planting, the work of my hands,
that I may be glorified.[h] 22 The least one shall become a thousand,
and the smallest a mighty nation;
I am Yahweh; in its time I will hasten it.

Notes

- a (60:4) Hebrew "nursed upon the side."
- b (60:6) Compare Matthew 2:11.
- c (60:7) So the Great Isaiah Scroll ("and they shall go up for acceptance"); the Masoretic Text has "they shall go up on acceptance, my altar."
- d (60:11) Or "with their kings leading them"; compare Revelation 21:25–26.
- e (60:14) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "all" before "the sons" and an erased word after it.
- f (60:19) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "by night": "nor for brightness by night shall the moon give you light"; compare the Septuagint, "nor shall the rising of the moon lighten your night." 1QIsa-b agrees with the Masoretic Text in lacking "by night."

- g (60:19) Or “your glory.” Compare Revelation 21:23; 22:5. 1QIsa-b is reported to end the verse at “everlasting light,” without this last line.
- h (60:21) The written form of the Hebrew has “his planting.”

Chapter 61

1 The Spirit of the Lord Yahweh is upon me,[a]
for Yahweh has anointed me
to announce glad tidings to the lowly;
he has sent me to bandage the broken in heart,
to cry freedom for the captives,
and the opening of the prison to those who are bound;[b]
2 to proclaim the year of Yahweh’s favor, and the day of vengeance of our God;[c]
to comfort all who mourn;
3 and to give those who grieve in Zion
a crown in place of ashes,[d]
joyful oil in place of mourning,
a robe of praise in place of a faint spirit;
they will be named oaks of righteousness,
Yahweh’s own planting, to display his glory.
4 They will rebuild the ancient ruins;
they will restore places devastated long ago;
they will repair the ruined cities,
wasted for many generations.
5 Strangers shall stand and shepherd your flocks;
foreigners shall be your plowmen and your vinedressers;
6 but you shall be called the priests of Yahweh;[e]
men shall speak of you as the ministers of our God;
you shall eat the wealth of the nations,
and in their glory you shall boast.[f]
7 Instead of your shame there shall be a double portion, and instead of disgrace they shall shout for joy over their lot;
so in their own land they shall inherit twice over;
joy without end shall be theirs.[g]

8 For I, Yahweh, love justice;
I hate robbery with wrongdoing;[h]
and I will faithfully give them their recompense,
and make an everlasting covenant with them.
9 Their offspring shall be known among the nations,
and their descendants in the midst of the peoples;
all who see them shall acknowledge them,
that they are an offspring Yahweh has blessed.
10 I will greatly rejoice in Yahweh;
my soul shall exult in my God;
for he has clothed me with the garments of salvation;
he has wrapped me in the robe of righteousness,
as a bridegroom adorns himself like a priest with a headdress,[i]
and as a bride decks herself with her jewels.
11 For as the earth brings forth its growth,
and as a garden makes what is sown in it spring up,
so the Lord Yahweh will make righteousness and praise
spring up before all the nations.[j]

Notes

- a (61:1) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "The Spirit of Yahweh," without "Lord"; 1QIsa-b reads "The Spirit of Yahweh God" (Yahweh Elohim). The Septuagint has "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me; he has sent me to preach good tidings to the poor." Jesus reads verses 1–2a in the synagogue at Nazareth (Luke 4:18–19) in a form close to the Septuagint, and declares, "Today this scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing." For the anointed one (Hebrew mashiah), compare 11:2; 42:1; 45:1.
- b (61:1) Hebrew peqah-qoah, "opening, opening," perhaps "release" from the dark of prison (compare 42:7); the Great Isaiah Scroll writes it as one word. The Septuagint has "and recovery of sight to the blind," which Luke 4:18 includes.
- c (61:2) Jesus' reading in Luke 4:19 stops before this line. Compare 34:8; 63:4.
- d (61:3) There is a play on sound in the Hebrew: pe'er, "garland," for efer, "ashes."
- e (61:6) Compare Exodus 19:6; 1 Peter 2:9; Revelation 1:6.
- f (61:6) Or "and to their glory you shall succeed."
- g (61:7) The Great Isaiah Scroll has the second person, "instead of disgrace you shall rejoice in your portion … you shall possess a double portion; everlasting joy shall be yours."
- h (61:8) Or, with different vowels, "robbery with burnt offering." The Septuagint has "robberies of injustice."

- i (61:10) Hebrew yekhahen pe'er, "acts as priest with a turban."
- j (61:11) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "Yahweh God" for "the Lord Yahweh."

Chapter 62

1 Because of Zion I will not hold my peace,
and because of Jerusalem I will not rest,
till her righteousness shines out like the dawn,
and her salvation like a blazing torch.
2 And nations shall behold your righteousness,
and every king your glory;
and a new name shall be given you,
which Yahweh's own mouth shall designate.[a] 3 You shall be a crown of beauty in the hand of Yahweh, and a royal turban in the palm of your God.[b] 4 No longer shall you be named Forsaken,[c]
and your land shall no longer be named Desolate;[d]
but you shall be called Hephzibah,[e]
and your land Beulah;[f]
for Yahweh delights in you,
and your land shall be married.
5 For as a youth weds a maiden,
your sons shall wed you;[g]
and with the joy of a bridegroom over his bride
your God shall rejoice over you.
6 I have posted guards on your walls,
Jerusalem;
they will never be quiet,
day or night.
You who remind Yahweh,
do not give yourselves any rest,
7 and allow him no rest
till he sets Jerusalem firm and makes her a renown in the land.[h]
8 Yahweh has taken an oath by his right hand and by the arm of his strength:

"I will not again give your grain
to be food for your enemies, and the sons of foreigners shall not drink your new wine
for which you have toiled;
9 but those who gather it in shall eat it and praise Yahweh,
and those who collect it shall drink it
in the courts of my sanctuary."[i] 10 Go through, go through the gates;
clear the way for the people;
build up, build up the highway;
clear it of stones;
lift up a banner over the peoples.[j] 11 Look, Yahweh has announced
to the ends of the earth:
Tell Zion's daughter,
"Look, your savior is coming;[k]
his reward comes with him,
and his payment goes before him."
12 And they shall call them The Holy People,
The Redeemed of Yahweh;
and you shall be called Sought Out,
A City Not Forsaken.

Notes

- a (62:2) Compare 65:15; Revelation 2:17; 3:12.
- b (62:3) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks "and a turban."
- c (62:4) Hebrew Azuvah.
- d (62:4) Hebrew Shemamah.
- e (62:4) Hephzibah means "My Delight Is in Her"; it was also the name of King Manasseh's mother (2 Kings 21:1).
- f (62:4) Beulah means "Married."
- g (62:5) Or, with different vowels, "so shall your Builder marry you" (bonayikh for banayikh); compare 49:17; 54:13.
- h (62:7) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "and until he sets up."
- i (62:9) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "says your God" at the end.
- j (62:10) For the last line the Great Isaiah Scroll reads "clear away the stone of stumbling; say among the peoples." 1QIsa-b agrees with the Masoretic Text.

- k (62:11) Compare 40:10. Matthew 21:5 combines “Say to the daughter of Zion” with Zechariah 9:9.

Chapter 63

1 Who is this coming from Edom,[a]
  from Bozrah[b] with garments stained crimson,
  so majestic in his clothing,
  marching in his great strength?[c]
  “It is I, announcing victory, mighty to save.”
2 Why is there red upon your clothing,
  and your garments as of one treading the vat?
3 “I have trampled the winepress by myself,
  and no one from the nations was with me;
  I stomped on them in my anger
  and crushed them in my fury;
  their blood splashed on my clothes,
  and I stained all my garments.[d] 4 For a day of vengeance was in my heart,
  and the year of my redeemed ones had arrived.
5 I looked, but there was no helper;
  I was astonished, but there was none to uphold;
  so my own arm brought me salvation,
  and my fury, it upheld me.
6 I trod down the peoples in my anger;
  I made them drunk in my fury,
  and I poured out their juice upon the earth.”[e] 7 I will tell of Yahweh’s faithful acts of love and his praiseworthy deeds,
  all that Yahweh has done for us,
  and the great kindness toward the house of Israel
  that he showed them out of his mercy
  and his abundant love.

8 He said, “They are certainly my people,
children who will not betray me”;
and so he became their Savior.
9 In all their suffering he suffered too,[f]
and the angel who served in his presence rescued them;
in his love and mercy he bought them back;
he picked them up and carried them
through all the days of long ago.
10 But they rebelled and grieved his Holy Spirit;[g]
so he turned to be their enemy,
and he himself fought against them.
11 Then they remembered the days of long ago,
of Moses and his people.[h]
Where is the one who brought them up from the sea
along with the shepherds of his flock?[i] Where is the one who placed within them
his Holy Spirit,
12 who sent his glorious arm
to march at Moses’ right hand,
who divided the water in front of them
to make an everlasting name for himself, 13 who led them through the depths?
Like a horse in the open country,
they did not stumble.
14 Like livestock that go down into the valley,
the Spirit of Yahweh gave them rest.
So you led your people,
to make for yourself a glorious name.
15 Gaze down from heaven and behold,
from your dwelling of holiness and splendor.
Where is your zeal, and where your might?
The stirring of your inward parts and your compassion are held back from me.

16 For you are our Father,
though Abraham does not know us,
and Israel does not acknowledge us;
you, Yahweh, are our Father;
our Redeemer from of old is your name.[j] 17 O Yahweh, why do you make us stray from your ways,
and make our heart hard against fearing you?
Turn back for your servants' sake,
for the tribes that are your heritage.
18 For a little while your holy people possessed it;[k]
our adversaries have trampled down your sanctuary.
19 We have become like those over whom you have never ruled,
like those who were not called by your name.[l]

Notes

- a (63:1) Edom, "red"; compare Genesis 25:30. The figure of the bloodied warrior is taken up in Revelation 19:13–15.
- b (63:1) Bozrah, a chief city of Edom; the name sounds like batsir, "grape harvest."
- c (63:1) Hebrew tso'eh, "bending," perhaps "striding"; with a slight change, "marching."
- d (63:3) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks "I trod them in my anger … on my garments," probably because the copyist's eye skipped between similar words; 1QIsa-b has the lines. Compare Revelation 14:19–20; 19:15.
- e (63:6) Many Hebrew manuscripts and the Targum are reported to read "I shattered them" (ashabberem) for "I made them drunk" (ashakkerem).
- f (63:9) The written form of the Hebrew has "not" (lo'), the read form "to him" (lo); the written form may be taken "In all their distress he did not afflict" or, joined to the next line with the Septuagint, "not an envoy nor an angel, but his own presence saved them." The Great Isaiah Scroll has neither word. The Septuagint reads "not an ambassador, nor a messenger, but himself saved them."
- g (63:10) Compare Ephesians 4:30.
- h (63:11) Or "Then his people remembered the days of old, of Moses."
- i (63:11) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint has "the shepherd of the sheep."
- j (63:16) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "he" ("our Redeemer from of old, he is your name").
- k (63:18) Or "possessed your sanctuary."
- l (63:19) In the Hebrew text this verse continues with the line that English Bibles number 64:1.

Chapter 64

1 If only you would rend the heavens and descend,
so that the mountains shook before you,[a] 2 as when fire sets brushwood ablaze
and fire makes the water boil,
to make your name known to your adversaries,
that the nations might tremble at your presence!
3 When you did fearful deeds we had not hoped for,
you descended; the mountains shook before you.[b] 4 Since ages past no one has heard,
no ear has caught it,
nor has eye beheld any God but you who works on behalf of him who waits for him.[c] 5 You come to the aid of those who gladly do right,
who remember you as they follow your ways.
But you were angry, and we sinned;
we have been in sin for a long time, so can we be saved?[d] 6 We have all become like one who is unclean, and all our righteous deeds are like a stained garment.[e]
We all wither like a leaf,
and our iniquities, like the wind, carry us away.
7 None calls on your name;
none stirs himself to lay hold on you;
for you have concealed your face from us,
and have melted us away by the power of our iniquities.[f]
8 But now, O Yahweh, you are our Father;
we are the clay, and you our potter;
and we are all the work of your hand.[g]
9 Be not angry beyond measure, O Yahweh, nor remember iniquity forever.
See, look, we pray, we are all your people.
10 Your holy cities have become a wilderness;
Zion has become a wilderness,
Jerusalem a desolation.

11 The house of our holiness and our splendor,
in which our fathers gave you praise,
is burned up with fire,
and every precious thing of ours is a ruin.
12 After all this, Yahweh, will you hold back?
Will you stay silent and punish us without limit?

Notes

- a (64:1) 64:1 is 63:19b in the Hebrew text, and Hebrew 64:1–11 is numbered 64:2–12 in English Bibles.
- b (64:3) The Great Isaiah Scroll lacks "that we did not look for" (literally "we did not wait for"), reading "awesome things we waited for."
- c (64:4) Paul echoes this verse in 1 Corinthians 2:9.
- d (64:5) The Hebrew of the last line is obscure. The Septuagint has "therefore we have erred."
- e (64:6) Hebrew beged ʻiddim, "a garment of menstruation," that is, ritually unclean (Leviticus 15:19–24).
- f (64:7) Hebrew wattemugenu, "and made us melt"; the Septuagint and other ancient versions are reported to read "and delivered us."
- g (64:8) Compare 29:16; 45:9; Jeremiah 18:6; Romans 9:20–21.

Chapter 65

1 "I was ready to be inquired of by those who asked not;
I was ready to be found by those who sought me not;
'Behold me, behold me,' I said
to a nation not called by my name.[a] 2 All day long I have held out my hands
to a rebellious people,
who walk a path that is not good,
following their own plans;[b] 3 a people who provoke me
to my face continually, sacrificing in the gardens and burning incense upon the bricks;[c] 4 who sit among the tombs
and spend the night in secret places;[d]
who eat the flesh of swine,
and broth of foul things is in their vessels;

5 who say, ‘Stand back by yourself,
draw not near to me, for I am holier than you.’[e]
Such men are smoke in my nose,
a fire burning all day long.
6 See, it stands written before me:
I will not be still unless I have paid back;
yes, I will pay back into their lap
7 for your sins and the sins of your ancestors together,
says Yahweh,
because they burned incense on the mountains
and insulted me on the hills;
I will pour into their laps
the full payment for their earlier deeds.”
8 This is what Yahweh says:
“When juice is still found in a cluster of grapes,
and someone says, ‘Do not spoil it,
because there is something good in it,’
I will do the same for the sake of my servants
and not destroy everyone.
9 I will bring forth offspring from Jacob,
and from Judah heirs of my mountains;
my chosen ones shall inherit it,
and my servants shall dwell there.
10 And Sharon shall be a fold for sheep, and the Valley of Achor a place where cattle lie down,[f]
for my people that have sought me.
11 “But you who forsake Yahweh,
who forget my holy mountain,
who set a table for Gad,
and fill bowls of mixed wine for Meni,[g] 12 I will destine you to the sword,
and you shall all kneel for the slaughter;
for I called, and you gave no answer;
I spoke, and you would not hear;

you did evil in my sight
and chose that in which I had no pleasure."
13 Therefore thus says the Lord Yahweh:
"See, my servants shall eat,
but you shall be hungry;
see, my servants shall drink,
but you shall be thirsty;
see, my servants shall rejoice,
but you shall be put to shame;
14 see, my servants shall shout from a glad heart,
and you shall cry out from a sore heart,
and howl from a shattered spirit.
15 Your name you shall leave behind as an oath for my chosen:
and the Lord Yahweh shall slay you;
but his servants he will call by another name, 16 so that whoever asks for a blessing in the land
will ask the God of truth[h] for it, and whoever takes an oath in the land
will swear by the God of truth;
for the earlier troubles will be forgotten
and hidden from my sight.
17 "For see, I create new heavens and a new earth,[i]
and the former things shall not be remembered,
nor come into mind.
18 But be glad and rejoice forever
in that which I create;
for see, I create Jerusalem a rejoicing,
and her people a gladness.
19 And I will exult over Jerusalem
and take joy in my people;
never again shall there be heard in her
the voice of weeping and the voice of crying.[j] 20 There shall be from there no more
a suckling of few days,

nor an old man who does not fill out his days;
for he who dies at a hundred years shall die a youth,
and he who falls short of a hundred shall be held accursed.[k] 21 They shall build houses and dwell in them;
they shall plant vineyards and eat their fruit.
22 They shall not build and another dwell;
they shall not plant and another eat;
for as the days of a tree shall be the days of my people,
and my chosen shall long enjoy the work of their hands.
23 They shall not toil in vain,
nor bear children for sudden terror;
for they are the offspring of the blessed of Yahweh,
and their descendants with them.
24 Before they call I will answer;
while they are yet speaking I will hear.
25 Wolf and lamb will feed together;
the lion will eat straw like an ox;
and the serpent's food will be dust.
They will do no harm or damage
on all my holy mountain," says Yahweh.[l]

Notes

- a (65:1) Paul quotes verses 1–2 from the Septuagint in Romans 10:20–21, applying verse 1 to the Gentiles and verse 2 to Israel.
- b (65:2) Or "their own thoughts."
- c (65:3) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads obscurely "and they suck (?) hands upon the stones."
- d (65:4) Or "among the rock tombs."
- e (65:5) Hebrew "for I am holy to you," or, with different vowels, "for I would make you holy," that is, pass holiness on to you.
- f (65:10) Achor, "trouble"; compare Joshua 7:24–26; Hosea 2:15.
- g (65:11) Gad and Meni are pagan gods of luck, "Fortune" and "Destiny"; meni puns on manah, "destine," in verse 12. The Septuagint has "a table for the devil … a drink offering to Fortune."
- h (65:16) Hebrew Elohe amen, "the God of truth," "the faithful God." Compare 2 Corinthians 1:20; Revelation 3:14.
- i (65:17) Compare 66:22; 2 Peter 3:13; Revelation 21:1.
- j (65:19) Compare Revelation 21:4.

- k (65:20) Or “the youth shall die a hundred years old, and the sinner shall be accursed at a hundred years old”; either way, a life of a hundred years shall be thought short.
- l (65:25) Compare 11:6–9; Genesis 3:14.

Chapter 66

1 Thus says Yahweh:
“The heavens are my throne,
and the earth the stool for my feet;
what manner of house would you build me,
and what manner of place for my rest?[a] 2 My hand made all these things, and that is how they all came into being,
declares Yahweh.
But this is the person I will look at:
the one who is humble, broken in spirit,
and trembles at my word.
3 “Whoever slaughters an ox is like someone who kills a person;
whoever sacrifices a lamb is like someone who breaks a dog’s neck;
whoever presents a grain offering is like someone presenting pig’s blood;
whoever burns incense as a memorial portion is like someone who praises an idol.[b]
These people have chosen their own ways,
and their souls enjoy their detestable practices;
4 so I also will choose harsh treatment for them,
and bring upon them what they dread,
for I called, and none would answer;
I spoke, and they would not hear;
they did evil in my sight,
and chose that in which I had no pleasure.”
5 Hear the word of Yahweh,
you who tremble at his word:
“Your kinsmen that hate you,
that thrust you away because of my name,
have said, ‘Let Yahweh show his glory,

that we may see your joy';
yet they themselves shall be ashamed.
6 Hark, a tumult from the city!
Hark, from the temple!
It is the voice of Yahweh,
rendering recompense to his enemies!
7 "Before she writhed in travail
she brought forth;
before the pangs could seize her she was delivered of a boy.[c]
8 Who has heard such a thing?
Who has seen such things?
Shall a land be born in one day?
Shall a nation be brought forth in a moment?
For as soon as Zion was in labor
she brought forth her sons.
9 Would I bring a baby to the moment of birth and not deliver it?"
says Yahweh;
"would I, the one who delivers, close the womb?"
says your God.
10 "Be joyful with Jerusalem, and exult over her,
all you that love her;
be glad with her in gladness,
all you that grieved for her;
11 so that you may suck and be filled
at the breast of her comforting;
so that you may drain it and take pleasure
in the fullness of her glory."[d]
12 For thus says Yahweh:
"Behold, I will make peace flow to her as a river,
and the riches of the nations as a stream in flood;
and you shall be nursed, and borne upon the side,
and dandled upon the knees.

13 As one whom his mother comforts,
so will I comfort you;
you shall be comforted in Jerusalem.
14 When you see this, your heart will celebrate;
your bones will sprout like fresh grass;
Yahweh's power will be seen in his servants,
and his fury in his enemies.
15 "Look, Yahweh is coming with fire,
and his chariots are like a whirlwind,
to repay his anger with fury
and his rebuke with blazing flames.
16 For Yahweh will execute judgment on all people with fire and with his sword;
and those killed by Yahweh will be many.[e] 17 "People who consecrate and cleanse themselves to enter the gardens, following someone in the middle,[f]
and who eat pork, detestable creatures and mice,
will all meet their end together, declares Yahweh.
18 "And I, knowing their deeds and their thoughts,[g]
am coming to gather all the nations and the tongues,
and they shall come and behold my glory,
19 and I will place a sign among them.
And I will send those of them who escape to the nations,
to Tarshish, Pul, and Lud, the archers,[h]
to Tubal and Javan, to the distant coastlands which have never heard report of me nor seen my glory;
and they shall declare my glory among the nations.
20 They will bring all your relatives from every nation
as an offering to Yahweh,
on horses, in chariots and wagons,
on mules and on camels,
to my holy mountain Jerusalem, says Yahweh,
as the Israelites bring grain offerings
in clean containers to Yahweh's house.

21 And of them too I will take some to be priests, to be Levites, says Yahweh.[i] 22 "As the new heavens and the new earth that I am making
will stand before me, declares Yahweh,
so your descendants and your name will stand.
23 And it shall be that month by month at the new moon,
and week by week on the Sabbath,
all flesh shall come to bow down before me,
declares Yahweh.
24 "And they shall go out and look on the corpses of the men who have rebelled against me;
for their worm shall not die,
and their fire shall not be quenched,
and they shall be an abhorrence to all flesh."[j]

Notes

- a (66:1) Stephen quotes verses 1–2a in Acts 7:49–50; compare 1 Kings 8:27.
- b (66:3) Or "like one who worships wickedness" (aven, "trouble," "idolatry").
- c (66:7) Compare Revelation 12:5.
- d (66:11) Or "from the abundance of her glory"; the meaning of Hebrew ziz is uncertain.
- e (66:16) The Great Isaiah Scroll reads "For with fire Yahweh shall come to judge ... all flesh," lacking the second "Yahweh."
- f (66:17) So the read form of the Hebrew, "one (feminine)," perhaps a priestess or goddess; the written form has the masculine. The Septuagint has "and eat swine's flesh in the porches." For "shall come to an end together, declares Yahweh," the Great Isaiah Scroll reads "together, says Yahweh."
- g (66:18) The Hebrew is abrupt, "And I, their works and their thoughts ..."; "knowing" is supplied.
- h (66:19) Hebrew "who draw the bow." For "Pul" the Septuagint has "Phud" (Put), and in place of "who draw the bow" it has "Meshech."
- i (66:21) The Great Isaiah Scroll adds "to me" ("for priests, for Levites to me").
- j (66:24) Jesus applies the last lines to Gehenna in Mark 9:48. In synagogue reading verse 23 is repeated after verse 24, so that the book does not end on a note of judgment; the Great Isaiah Scroll and 1QIsa-b end with verse 24 as in the Masoretic Text.

Jeremiah

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The words of Jeremiah[a] the son of Hilkiah,[b] of the priests who were in Anathoth[c] in the land of Benjamin, 2 to whom the word of Yahweh came in the days of Josiah[d] the son of Amon, king of Judah, in the thirteenth year of his reign.[e] 3 It came also in the days of Jehoiakim[f]
the son of Josiah, king of Judah, until the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah[g] the son of Josiah, king of Judah, until the carrying away of Jerusalem into exile in the fifth month (in July–August).[h]
4 Now the word of Yahweh came to me, saying,
5 "Before I formed you inside your mother I already knew you,
and before your birth I had set you apart;
I have appointed you as a prophet over the nations."
6 Then I said, "Ah, Lord Yahweh![i] See, I do not know how to speak, for I am a youth."
7 Yet Yahweh answered me,
"Say not, 'A youth am I';
for wherever I send you, there you must go,
and whatever I bid you, that you must speak.
8 Be not afraid of their faces,
for with you am I to deliver you," declares Yahweh.
9 Then Yahweh put forth his hand and touched my mouth, and Yahweh said to me,
"See, I have put my words in your mouth.
10 See, I have set you this day over the nations and over the kingdoms,
to pluck up and to pull down,
to destroy and to overthrow,
to build and to plant."
11 The word of Yahweh came to me: "What are you looking at, Jeremiah?" I answered, "I see a branch of an almond tree."[j] 12 Then

Yahweh said to me, “You have seen well, for I am watching[k] over my word to perform it.”
13 And the word of Yahweh came to me a second time, saying, “What do you see?” And I said, “A boiling pot I see, and its face is turned away from the north.”[l] 14 Then Yahweh said to me, “Out of the north disaster shall break loose upon all the inhabitants of the land. 15 For look, I am summoning all the families of the northern kingdoms,” declares Yahweh. “They will come, and each ruler will set up his throne at the entrance of Jerusalem’s gates, facing all its surrounding walls and all the towns of Judah. 16 And I will speak my judgments against them for all their evil, in that they have forsaken me and have burned incense[m] to other gods and bowed down to the works of their own hands. 17 But you, gird up your loins; arise and speak to them all that I command you. Be not dismayed before them, lest I dismay you before them. 18 And I—see, I have made you this day a fortified city, and a pillar of iron, and walls of bronze against the whole land, against the kings of Judah, against its princes, against its priests, and against the people of the land. 19 And they will fight against you, but they shall not prevail against you, for with you am I,” declares Yahweh, “to deliver you.”

Notes

- a (1:1) Jeremiah (Hebrew Yirmeyahu) probably means “Yahweh exalts” or “Yahweh founds”; the meaning is uncertain.
- b (1:1) Hilkiah means “My portion is Yahweh.”
- c (1:1) Anathoth, a priestly town about 3 miles (5 kilometers) northeast of Jerusalem (Joshua 21:18); Abiathar the priest was banished there (1 Kings 2:26).
- d (1:2) Josiah probably means “Yahweh supports” or “Yahweh heals”; uncertain.
- e (1:2) That is, about 627 B.C.
- f (1:3) Jehoiakim means “Yahweh raises up.”
- g (1:3) Zedekiah means “Yahweh is righteousness.”
- h (1:3) Hebrew “the fifth month,” Av, counted from the spring new year; that is, in 586 B.C. (see 52:12). The modern equivalent is approximate, since the Hebrew year was lunar.
- i (1:6) Hebrew Adonai Yahweh. The Septuagint reads “O Lord, you that are supreme Lord” (Brenton, modernized).

- j (1:11) Hebrew shaqed, "almond tree," sounds like shoqed, "watching" (verse 12). The almond was called "the watcher" or "the wakeful tree" because it blossoms first in the year.
- k (1:12) Hebrew shoqed; see the note at verse 11. The Septuagint reads "I have watched over my words to perform them" (Brenton).
- l (1:13) Or "tilted away from the north," that is, about to pour out toward the south.
- m (1:16) Or "made offerings go up in smoke."

Chapter 2

1 And the word of Yahweh came to me, saying,[a]
2 "Go and cry in the ears of Jerusalem, saying, 'Thus says Yahweh:
I remember for you the devotion[b] of your youth,
the love of your bridal days,
your going after me in the wilderness,
in a land not sown.
3 Holy was Israel to Yahweh,
the firstfruits of his harvest;
all who devoured him were held guilty;
disaster came upon them,' declares Yahweh."
4 Listen to Yahweh's word, house of Jacob,
and all the families of the house of Israel.
5 Thus has Yahweh spoken:
"What fault did your forefathers detect in me,
that far from me they strayed,
pursued what is vapor,[c] and turned to vapor?
6 They did not ask, 'Where is Yahweh,
the one who rescued us from Egypt
and guided us across the wilderness,
across a land of deserts and pits,
a land of dry heat and pitch dark,
a land where nobody travels and nobody makes a home?'
7 I brought you to a fertile land,[d]
to enjoy its fruit and its goodness;
but when you arrived you made my land unclean,
and turned my inheritance into something detestable.

8 The priests never asked, ‘Where is Yahweh?’
Those who wield the law knew me not;
the shepherds[e] rebelled against me;
the prophets spoke by Baal[f]
and pursued what brings no gain.
9 “So I will bring charges against you again,” declares Yahweh,
“and I will bring charges against your grandchildren.
10 For cross over to the coasts of Kittim[g] and see,
and send to Kedar[h] and consider diligently,
and see if there has been such a thing as this.
11 Has a nation exchanged its gods,
even though they are no gods?
Yet my people have exchanged their glory[i]
for that which does not profit.
12 Be appalled, O heavens, at this;
shudder, be utterly desolate,” declares Yahweh, 13 “for two evils my people have committed:
me they have forsaken,
the fountain of living waters,
to hew out for themselves cisterns,
broken cisterns, which cannot hold water.
14 “Is Israel a bondman? Or one born in the household?
Why then has he become spoil?
15 Over him the young lions have roared;
they have lifted up their voice.
They have made his land a waste;
his cities are burned, without inhabitant.
16 Also the men of Noph[j] and Tahpanhes[k]
have grazed[l] the crown of your head.
17 Is not this your own doing,
in abandoning Yahweh your God
when he guided you on the road?
18 And now, what have you to do with the road to Egypt,
to drink the waters of the Shihor?[m]

Or what have you to do with the road to Assyria, to drink the waters of the River?[n] 19 Your own wickedness will punish you,
and your unfaithfulness will condemn you.
Understand, then, and recognize how bad and bitter it is for you to abandon Yahweh your God
and to have no fear of me," declares the Lord Yahweh of Armies.[o] 20 "For long ago you broke your yoke
and tore off your bonds,
and you said, 'I will not serve.'
For on every high hill
and under every green tree
you sprawled as a harlot.
21 Yet I had planted you a choice vine,
wholly of true seed.
How then have you turned yourself into the degenerate shoots of a foreign vine before me?
22 For though you wash with lye
and use for yourself much soap,
the stain of your iniquity is before me,"
declares the Lord Yahweh.
23 "How can you say, 'I am not defiled;
after the Baals I have not gone'?
See your way in the valley;[p]
know what you have done—
a swift young she-camel
running crisscross on her paths, 24 a wild donkey used to the wilderness,
in the lust of her soul sniffing the wind!
In her heat who can turn her back?
All who seek her need not weary themselves;
in her month they will find her.
25 Keep your feet from going bare and your throat from going dry.

But you answered, ‘It’s no use!
I love foreign gods,
and I will chase after them.’
26 “As a thief is ashamed when caught,
so the house of Israel is ashamed—
the people, their kings, their officials,
their priests and their prophets—27 They say to a tree, ‘You are my father,’ and to a rock, ‘You are the one who bore me.’
They have faced away from me and shown me their backs;
but when they are in trouble they cry,
‘Come and save us!’
28 Where then are those gods you made for yourself?
Up with them, if they can rescue you
when trouble comes;
for your gods have grown as many as your towns, O Judah.[q]
29 “Why do you contend with me?
All of you have transgressed against me,” declares Yahweh.
30 “To no purpose I smote your sons;
correction they would not receive.
Your sword consumed your prophets
like a ravaging lion.
31 O generation, you—see the word of Yahweh!
Have I been a wilderness to Israel,
or a land of thick darkness?[r]
Why do my people say, ‘We roam free;
we will come to you no more’?
32 Can a virgin forget her ornaments,
or a bride her sash?
Yet my people have forgotten me
days without number.
33 “How skillfully you pursue love!
Even wicked women
have learned from your example.

34 Even in your skirts is found
the blood of the guiltless poor;
not as housebreakers did you find them.[s]
Yet in spite of all this 35 you say, 'I am innocent;
certainly his anger has turned away from me.'
But look, I will put you on trial for saying, 'I have not sinned.' 36 How lightly you go about,
changing your way!
By Egypt also you shall be put to shame,
as you were put to shame by Assyria.
37 From there also you shall go out with your hands upon your head;[t]
for Yahweh has rejected those in whom you trust,
and you shall not prosper through them.

Notes

- a (2:1) The Septuagint lacks verse 1 and the opening words of verse 2, reading simply "And he said, Thus says the Lord" (Brenton, modernized).
- b (2:2) Hebrew ḥesed, loyal love or covenant faithfulness.
- c (2:5) Hebrew hevel, "vapor" or "breath," often used of idols; the verb that follows plays on it.
- d (2:7) Hebrew "a land of the Carmel," that is, a garden land.
- e (2:8) That is, the rulers.
- f (2:8) Baal, "lord" or "master," the Canaanite storm god.
- g (2:10) Kittim, originally Kition on Cyprus; here the western islands and coastlands generally.
- h (2:10) Kedar, a tribe of the Arabian desert to the east; so the verse means "search from west to east."
- i (2:11) An ancient Jewish tradition counts this as one of the "corrections of the scribes," the original reading being "my glory."
- j (2:16) Noph is Memphis, the ancient capital of Lower Egypt.
- k (2:16) Tahpanhes, an Egyptian frontier fortress in the eastern Nile Delta; see 43:7–9.
- l (2:16) Or "have shaved" or "have broken"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- m (2:18) Shihor, a branch of the Nile, or the Nile itself; the Septuagint has "Geon" (Brenton).
- n (2:18) That is, the Euphrates.

- o (2:19) Hebrew Adonai YHWH Tseva'ot. "Yahweh of Armies" (traditionally "the LORD of hosts") presents God as commander of the heavenly armies and of Israel's forces. This title occurs more than 80 times in the Hebrew of Jeremiah; the Septuagint very often lacks "of Armies," and here reads "says the Lord your God" (Brenton, modernized).
- p (2:23) Probably the Valley of Ben-hinnom (see 7:31); the Septuagint reads "the burial-ground" (Brenton).
- q (2:28) The Septuagint adds, "and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem they sacrificed to Baal" (Brenton); compare 11:13.
- r (2:31) Or "a land of deep gloom," Hebrew ma'pelyah, found only here.
- s (2:34) That is, they were not burglars caught in the act, whom it would have been lawful to kill (Exodus 22:2).
- t (2:37) A gesture of grief and shame (2 Samuel 13:19).

Chapter 3

1 "If a husband divorces his wife,[a]
and she goes away from him
to become another man's wife,
may the first husband take her back?
Would the land not be thoroughly defiled by that?
You, however, have prostituted yourself with many lovers;
and now you want to return to me?" declares Yahweh.
2 "Look up at the barren hills[b] and see:
where have you not been ravished?
You waited for lovers beside the roads
like a nomad[c] in the desert,
and you defiled the land
with your prostitution and your evil.
3 So the showers were held back,
and the late rains[d] did not come.
Yet you had the brazen look of a prostitute;
you refused to feel shame.
4 Have you not just now cried to me,
'My father, the companion of my youth are you!
5 Will he keep his anger forever?
Will he guard it to the end?'

See, so you have spoken,
yet you have done all the evil that you could."
6 And Yahweh said to me in the days of Josiah the king, "Have you seen what she did, faithless Israel?[e] She went up on every high mountain and under every green tree, and there played the harlot.
7 And I said, after she had done all these things, 'To me she will return'; but she did not return. And her treacherous sister Judah saw it. 8 And I saw that, because faithless Israel had committed adultery, I had dismissed her and handed her a writ of divorce; yet Judah her treacherous sister felt no fear, but went off and played the harlot as well. 9 And through the lightness of her harlotry she polluted the land, committing adultery with stone and with tree. 10 Even so, her unfaithful sister Judah did not come back to me wholeheartedly, but only in pretense," declares Yahweh.
11 Then Yahweh said to me, "Faithless Israel has shown herself more righteous than treacherous Judah.
12 Go and announce this message to the north:
'Come back, unfaithful Israel,' declares Yahweh;
'I will not look on you with anger,
because I am loyal,' declares Yahweh;
'I will not stay angry forever.
13 Only acknowledge your iniquity,
that against Yahweh your God you have transgressed,
and have scattered your ways to strangers
under every green tree,
and my voice you have not obeyed,' declares Yahweh.
14 Return, O faithless children," declares Yahweh, "for I am your husband;[f] and I will take you, one from a city and two from a clan, and I will bring you to Zion.
15 And I will grant you shepherds suited to my heart, who will pasture you with knowledge and insight.
16 And when you have increased and borne fruit in the land, in those days," declares Yahweh, "men will speak no more of 'the ark of Yahweh's covenant.' It will not rise in the mind; they will neither recall it nor miss it, nor will another be made.

17 At that time they shall call Jerusalem ‘The Throne of Yahweh,’ and all the nations shall be gathered to it, to the name of Yahweh, to Jerusalem; and they shall walk no more after the stubbornness of their evil heart.
18 In those days Judah’s house shall walk alongside Israel’s house, and together they shall come out of the northern land into the land that I bestowed on your fathers as a possession.
19 “And I had thought,
‘How gladly would I place you with my sons,
and grant you a delightful land,
the loveliest inheritance among the nations!’
And I thought you would call me ‘My Father,’
and never turn back from following me.
20 Surely, as a wife treacherously leaves her companion, so have you dealt treacherously with me, O house of Israel,”
declares Yahweh.
21 On the bare heights a cry is heard,
Israel’s sons weeping and entreating,
for they have twisted their way;
Yahweh their God they have forgotten.
22 “Return, O faithless sons;
I will heal your faithlessness.”
“See, we have come to you,
for you are Yahweh our God.
23 Truly, a delusion are the hills,
the tumult on the mountains;
truly in Yahweh our God
is the salvation of Israel.
24 But the shameful thing[g] has devoured
the labor of our fathers from our youth,
their flocks and their herds,
their sons and their daughters.
25 Let us lie down in our shame,
and let our disgrace cover us;
for against Yahweh our God we have sinned,

we and our fathers,
from our youth even to this day,
and we have not obeyed the voice of Yahweh our God."

Notes

- a (3:1) Hebrew begins "Saying," perhaps a fragment of a lost introduction. The law of Deuteronomy 24:1–4 forbids a man to take back a divorced wife who has married another.
- b (3:2) Hebrew shefayim, bare hills, places of pagan worship; also in verse 21.
- c (3:2) That is, a desert nomad lying in wait to rob travelers.
- d (3:3) Hebrew malqosh, the spring rain of March–April that ripens the grain.
- e (3:6) Hebrew meshuvah yisraʾel, literally "turning-away Israel," the northern kingdom, exiled by Assyria in 722 B.C. Jeremiah plays repeatedly on shuv, "turn, return" (verses 12, 14, 22).
- f (3:14) Or "I am your master"; Hebrew baʿalti, a play on Baal.
- g (3:24) Hebrew habbosheth, "the Shame," a contemptuous substitute for Baal (compare 11:13).

Chapter 4

1 "If you return, O Israel," declares Yahweh,
"to me you should return.
If you put away your abominations from before me,
and do not waver,
2 and if you swear, 'As surely as Yahweh lives,' sincerely, justly and rightly,
then the nations will invoke blessings by him,
and will boast in him."
3 For thus says Yahweh to the men of Judah and to Jerusalem:
"Break up your fallow ground,
and do not sow among thorns.
4 Dedicate yourselves to Yahweh;
cut away the foreskins of your hearts,
people of Judah and residents of Jerusalem,
or my anger will blaze out like fire
and burn so that no one can put it out,
because of your evil actions."
5 Announce this in Judah and proclaim it in Jerusalem:
"Sound the ram's horn throughout the land;

shout out loud and say,
'Gather together, and let us flee to the fortified cities!'
6 Raise a signal toward Zion;
flee for safety; do not stand still,
for I am bringing disaster from the north,
and a great destruction.
7 Up from his thicket the lion has gone,
the ravager of nations is on the march;
out from his place he has come
to turn your land into a waste;
your towns shall lie in ruins, empty of people.
8 For this gird on sackcloth;
lament and wail,
for the fierce anger of Yahweh
has not turned back from us."
9 "And it shall come to pass in that day," declares Yahweh, "that the heart of the king shall fail, and the heart of the princes; the priests shall be appalled, and the prophets astounded."
10 Then I said, "Oh, Lord Yahweh! You have completely tricked this people and Jerusalem by promising, 'You will have peace,' while the sword is at our throats."[a] 11 At that time it shall be said to this people and to Jerusalem,
"A scorching wind from the bare heights in the wilderness comes toward the daughter of my people,
not to winnow nor to cleanse,
12 a wind too strong for these comes at my bidding.
Now I also will speak judgments against them."
13 See, like clouds he comes up,
and like the whirlwind his chariots;
swifter than eagles are his horses.
Woe to us, for we are ruined!
14 Wash the evil out of your heart, Jerusalem,
so that you can be saved.

How long will your harmful thoughts
stay inside you?
15 For hark, one tells it from Dan,
and announces evil from the hills of Ephraim:[b] 16 "Warn the nations, see!
Proclaim against Jerusalem:
besiegers[c] come from a distant land;
they lift their voice against the cities of Judah.
17 Like keepers of a field they are against her round about,
because against me she has rebelled," declares Yahweh.
18 "Your way and your deeds
have brought these things upon you.
This is your evil; how bitter it is!
How it reaches to your heart!"
19 My bowels, my bowels![d] I writhe in pain!
O the walls of my heart!
My heart moans within me;
I cannot keep silent,
for the sound of the ram's horn you have heard, O my soul,
the alarm of war.
20 One disaster follows another,
for the whole land is ruined.
In an instant my tents are destroyed,
my tent curtains in a moment.
21 How long must I see the signal and hear the sound of the ram's horn?
22 "For my people are foolish;
me they do not know.
Senseless children are they,
and they have no understanding.
Wise are they to do evil,
but to do good they know not."
23 I looked on the earth, and see, it was formless and void;[e]
and to the heavens, and their light was gone.

24 I looked on the mountains, and see, they were quaking,
and all the hills moved to and fro.
25 I looked, and see, there was no man,
and all the birds of the heavens had fled.
26 I looked, and see, the garden land[f] was a wilderness,
and all its cities were broken down
before Yahweh, before his fierce anger.
27 For thus says Yahweh:
"A desolation shall the whole land be;
yet a full end I will not make.
28 Because of this the land shall mourn,
and the sky above grow black;
for I have spoken it, I have determined it;
I will not relent, nor will I draw back."
29 At the noise of horseman and archer
every city flees;
they go into thickets;
they climb among the rocks;
every city is forsaken,
and no man dwells in them.
30 And you, devastated one, what are you doing?
You dress in scarlet,
put on gold jewelry,
and paint your eyes with makeup,[g]
but you beautify yourself for nothing.
Your lovers reject you;
they are trying to kill you.
31 For I hear a cry as of one in travail,
distress as of one bringing forth her firstborn,
the cry of Zion's daughter, panting,
spreading her hands:
"Ah me! My life is failing before the slayers."

Notes

- a (4:10) The Septuagint reads “And I said, O sovereign Lord, truly you have greatly deceived this people” (Brenton, modernized); some ancient witnesses read “And they shall say,” making the words those of the priests and prophets.
- b (4:15) Dan is at the far north of the land; the hill country of Ephraim lies just north of Jerusalem: the invader draws nearer.
- c (4:16) Hebrew notsrim, “watchers” or “besiegers”; a slight change of vowels gives “enemies.”
- d (4:19) Hebrew “My inward parts,” regarded as the seat of the emotions.
- e (4:23) Hebrew tohu wavohu, the words of Genesis 1:2.
- f (4:26) Hebrew “the Carmel,” the fruitful land.
- g (4:30) Hebrew puk, a black eye-paint made of antimony or galena.

Chapter 5

1 Run to and fro through Jerusalem’s streets,
and look, I pray, and take note;
search through her open squares,
whether you can find a man,
whether there is one who does justice,
who seeks faithfulness,
that I may pardon her.
2 Though they say, “As Yahweh lives,”
yet falsely do they swear.
3 O Yahweh, do not your eyes look for faithfulness?
You struck them, but they felt no grief;
you consumed them, but they refused to accept correction.
Harder than rock they made their faces;
they refused to turn back.
4 Then I said, “Surely these are only the poor;
they act foolishly,
for they know not Yahweh’s way,
the judgment of their God.
5 I will get me to the great ones
and speak with them,
for they know Yahweh’s way,
the judgment of their God.”
But these too had all alike shattered the yoke;
they had snapped the bonds.

6 Therefore a lion from the forest shall slay them;
a wolf of the desert plains shall ravage them;
a leopard keeps watch over their towns;
whoever goes out of them shall be torn in pieces,
because their transgressions are many,
mighty their acts of turning away.
7 "How can I forgive you for this?
Your children have abandoned me
and sworn by gods that are not gods.
I fed them until they were full, yet they committed adultery and crowded into the houses of prostitutes.
8 Well-fed stallions, lusty,[a] they have become;
each neighs after his neighbor's wife.
9 Shall I not punish them for these things?" declares Yahweh;
"and on a nation such as this
shall my soul not take vengeance?
10 "Go up among her terraced vines and ruin them,
yet do not finish her off;
lop away her tendrils,
for they belong not to Yahweh.
11 For utterly faithless to me have they been,
the house of Israel and the house of Judah," declares Yahweh.
12 They have lied about Yahweh
and said, "It is not he;[b]
no harm shall come upon us,
nor shall we see sword or famine.
13 The prophets shall turn to wind;
the word is not in them.
So be it done to them!"
14 Therefore this is what Yahweh, the God of Armies, says:
"Because you have said this,
look, I am turning my words in your mouth into fire,
and this people into wood that it will burn up.
15 Look, I am bringing a nation against you from far away, house of Israel," declares Yahweh.

“It is a lasting nation,
an ancient nation,
whose language you do not know,
and you cannot understand what they say.
16 Their quiver is a gaping tomb;
warriors, every one of them.[c] 17 Your crops and your bread they will devour;
your sons and daughters they will devour;
your sheep and cattle they will devour;
your vine and fig they will devour;
the walled towns you rely on
they will batter down with the sword.
18 “Yet even in those days,” declares Yahweh, “I will not make a full end of you. 19 And when they ask, ‘Why has Yahweh our God treated us like this?’ answer them, ‘You abandoned me and served foreign gods in your own land, so you will serve strangers in a land that does not belong to you.’
20 “Announce this among Jacob’s house;
make it heard in Judah, and say:
21 ‘Hear now this, O foolish and heartless people, who have eyes, yet see not,
who have ears, yet hear not.
22 Do you not fear me?’ declares Yahweh.
‘Will you not tremble in my presence?
I made the sand the boundary for the sea,
an eternal limit it cannot cross;
23 But this people has a heart both obstinate and defiant;
they have veered off and departed.
24 Never do they say within themselves,
“Come, let us fear Yahweh our God,
who sends rain at its proper time,
the early and the later showers,[d]
who guards for our sake
the fixed weeks of reaping.”

25 Your iniquities have turned these away,
and your sins have withheld the good from you.
26 For among my people are found wicked men;
they watch like fowlers who crouch;[e]
they set a trap;
men they catch.
27 Like a cage full of birds,
so are their houses full of deceit;
therefore they have become great and grown rich.
28 They have grown fat and sleek;
they also overpass in deeds of evil;
they plead not the cause, the cause of the fatherless, that they may prosper,
and the right of the needy they do not defend.
29 Shall I not punish them for these things?' declares Yahweh;
'and on a nation such as this
shall my soul not take vengeance?'
30 "A horrible and appalling thing
has come to pass in the land:
31 the prophets prophesy falsely,
and the priests rule at their direction;[f]
and my people love it so.
But what will you do at its end?"

Notes

- a (5:8) Hebrew meshakim, of uncertain meaning; perhaps "well-equipped" or "lusty."
- b (5:12) Or "He will do nothing."
- c (5:16) The Septuagint lacks "Their quiver is like an open grave," reading only "They are all mighty men" (Brenton, modernized).
- d (5:24) Hebrew yoreh, the autumn rain (October–November), and malqosh, the spring rain (March–April).
- e (5:26) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- f (5:31) Or "rule by their own authority"; Hebrew "by their hands."

Chapter 6

1 “Flee for safety, O sons of Benjamin,
out of the midst of Jerusalem!
In Tekoa[a] blow the ram’s horn,
and over Beth-haccherem[b] raise a signal,
for disaster looms out of the north,
and great destruction.
2 The comely and delicate one,
the daughter of Zion, I will destroy.[c] 3 Herdsmen with their flocks will march on her;
round about her they will pitch their tents;
each will crop his own patch.
4 ‘Consecrate war against her![d]
Arise, and let us go up at noon!
Woe to us, for the day declines,
for the shadows of evening stretch out!
5 Arise, and let us go up by night
and destroy her palaces!’”
6 For this is what Yahweh of Armies says:
“Chop down her trees
and heap up a siege ramp to attack Jerusalem.
This city is due for punishment;
every part of it is full of oppression.
7 As a cistern keeps its water cool,
so she keeps her evil cool and fresh;
outrage and havoc echo in her;
sickness and blows are before my face continually.
8 Be warned, O Jerusalem,
lest my soul be torn from you,
lest I make you a desolation,
a land uninhabited.”
9 This is what Yahweh of Armies says:
“They will pick the remnant of Israel clean as a vine is picked;

like a grape harvester, run your hand
once more over the branches."
10 To whom shall I speak and give warning,
that they may hear?
See, their ear is uncircumcised,
and they cannot hearken.
See, the word of Yahweh has become to them a reproach;
they take no delight in it.
11 But I am full of the wrath of Yahweh;
I am weary of holding it in.
"Pour it out upon the child in the street,
and upon the gathering of young men together;
for husband with wife shall be taken,
the elder with him who is full of days.
12 Their houses shall pass over to others,
fields and wives together,
for I will stretch out my hand
against the inhabitants of the land," declares Yahweh.
13 "From the smallest to the biggest,
they are all greedy for dishonest profit;
prophets and priests alike
all practice deceit.
14 The fracture of my people they have patched up carelessly, declaring, 'All is well, all is well,'
when nothing is well.
15 Did they feel shame for the loathsome things they did?
Not the least shame did they feel;
blushing they never learned.
So they will go down with the fallen;
when I call them to account they will be overthrown," Yahweh has said.
16 Thus has Yahweh spoken:
"Halt at the crossroads and look about;
inquire about the age-old tracks,
which is the good road, and travel on it,

and you will find repose for your souls.
But they replied, 'We refuse to travel it.'
17 I set watchmen over you, saying,
'Hearken to the sound of the ram's horn!'
But they said, 'We will not hearken.'
18 Therefore hear, O nations, and know, O congregation, what is among them.[e] 19 Hear, O earth:
see, I am bringing disaster upon this people,
the fruit of their schemes,
because to my words they have not hearkened,
and my law—they have rejected it.
20 What use to me is incense arriving from Sheba,
or fragrant cane[f] from a far country?
Your whole offerings win no favor,
and your sacrifices give me no pleasure."
21 Therefore thus says Yahweh:
"See, I am laying before this people stumbling blocks,
and fathers and sons together shall stumble on them;
neighbor and friend shall perish."
22 Thus says Yahweh:
"See, a people comes from the land of the north;
a great nation is stirred up from the farthest parts of the earth.
23 They are armed with bows and spears;
they are cruel and have no mercy;
their noise is like the roaring sea;
they ride on horses,
lined up like warriors for battle against you, daughter of Zion."
24 We have heard news of them,
and our hands have gone weak;
anguish has gripped us,
like the pain of a woman giving birth.
25 Venture not into the countryside,
nor travel the highway,

for the foe bears a sword;
dread surrounds on all sides.[g]
26 Daughter of my people, wrap yourself in sackcloth
and wallow in the ashes;
mourn as one mourns an only son,
a wailing most bitter,
for in an instant the ravager
will fall upon us.
27 "I have made you a tester of metals,[h] one who examines my people,
so that you can learn and test how they live.
28 They are all stubborn rebels,
going about with slander;
bronze and iron are they;
all of them deal corruptly.
29 The bellows blow fiercely;
the lead is consumed by the fire;[i]
in vain the refiner refines,
for the wicked are not drawn off.
30 Rejected silver they are called,
for Yahweh has rejected them."

Notes

- a (6:1) Tekoa, a town about 10 miles (16 kilometers) south of Jerusalem; its name sounds like the verb "blow" (tiqʿu).
- b (6:1) Beth-haccherem, "house of the vineyard," probably Ramat Rahel, between Jerusalem and Bethlehem.
- c (6:2) Or "The daughter of Zion is like a lovely pasture"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- d (6:4) Warfare was begun with religious rites.
- e (6:18) The Hebrew of this line is obscure.
- f (6:20) Hebrew qaneh, an aromatic reed, perhaps calamus.
- g (6:25) Hebrew magor missaviv, a favorite phrase of Jeremiah (20:3, 10; 46:5; 49:29).
- h (6:27) Or "a fortress"; Hebrew mivtsar, perhaps a scribal note. The image is of refining silver from ore, using lead to carry off impurities.
- i (6:29) So the Hebrew consonants read as "by fire the lead is consumed" (qere); the written text (ketiv) may be read "by their fire."

Chapter 7

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh, saying:[a] 2 "Stand at the gate of Yahweh's house and announce this message there: 'Listen to Yahweh's word, all you people of Judah who go through these gates to worship Yahweh. 3 This is what Yahweh of Armies, Israel's God, says: Reform your conduct and your actions, and I will let you dwell[b] in this place. 4 Put not your trust in lying words, saying, "The temple of Yahweh, the temple of Yahweh, the temple of Yahweh are these!"[c] 5 For only if you thoroughly reform your conduct and your actions, if you deal out true justice between one man and another, 6 if the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow you do not oppress, and innocent blood you do not shed in this place, and after other gods you do not walk to your own harm, 7 then I will let you dwell in this place, in the land that I gave to your fathers from of old even for evermore.
8 "'See, you are trusting in lying words that cannot profit. 9 Will you steal, murder, commit adultery, swear falsely, burn incense to Baal, and walk after other gods whom you have not known, 10 and then come and stand in front of me in this house that bears my name, and say, "We are safe!"—only to carry on with all these detestable practices? 11 Has this house, which is called by my name, become a den of robbers in your eyes? I too, see, I have seen it,' declares Yahweh.
12 "'Go now to my place at Shiloh,[d] where I first gave my name a home, and see what I did to it because of my people Israel's evil. 13 And now, because you have done all these deeds,' declares Yahweh, 'and I spoke to you, rising early and speaking, yet you did not hear, and I called you, yet you did not answer, 14 then I will do to the house that bears my name, the house you rely on, and to the place I gave to you and your ancestors, what I did to Shiloh. 15 And I will cast you out from my sight, as I cast out all your brothers, the whole offspring of Ephraim.' 16 "As for you, do not pray for this people, nor lift up a cry or a prayer for them, nor intercede with me, for I will not hear you. 17 Do you not see what they are doing in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? 18 Sons collect sticks, fathers light the fire, and wives work the dough, to bake cakes for the Queen of Heaven;[e] and they pour libations to other gods to stir up my anger. 19 Is it I whom they provoke?" declares Yahweh. "Is it not themselves, to the shame of their own faces?" 20 Therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says: "Look, my anger and fury will be poured out on this place, on humans and animals alike, on the field's trees and the land's crops; it will burn and will not be put out."

21 Thus says Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel: "Add your burnt offerings to your sacrifices, and eat flesh.[f] 22 For I did not speak to your fathers, nor command them, in the day that I brought them out of the land of Egypt, concerning burnt offerings and sacrifices. 23 But this thing I commanded them: 'Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and you shall be my people; and walk in all the way that I command you, that it may be well with you.' 24 But they did not obey or incline their ear, but walked in their own counsels, in the stubbornness of their evil heart, and went backward and not forward. 25 From the day that your fathers came out of the land of Egypt until this day, I have sent to you all my servants the prophets, daily rising early and sending them. 26 Still they paid me no heed and bent no ear, but hardened their necks; they behaved worse than their ancestors.

27 "You will tell them all these words, but they will not listen to you; you will call out to them, but they will not answer you.[g] 28 And you shall say to them, 'This is the nation that did not obey the voice of Yahweh its God and did not accept correction; faithfulness has perished; it is cut off from their mouth.'

29 "Shear off your hair[h] and cast it away;
raise a lament on the bare heights,
for Yahweh has rejected and forsaken
the generation of his wrath."

30 "For Judah's sons have done what is evil before me," declares Yahweh. "Their loathsome idols they have placed in the house that bears my name, and so defiled it. 31 And they have built the high places of Topheth,[i] which is in the Valley of Ben-hinnom,[j] to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire, which I did not command, nor did it come into my mind. 32 Therefore, mark this: days are approaching," declares Yahweh, "when it will no longer be named Topheth or the Valley of Ben-hinnom, but the Valley of Killing; for they will bury in

Topheth till no space is left. 33 And the corpses of this people will be food for the birds of the heavens and for the beasts of the earth, and none will frighten them away. 34 And I will make to cease from the cities of Judah and from the streets of Jerusalem the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, for the land shall become a ruin.

Notes

- a (7:1) The Septuagint lacks verse 1 and the first half of verse 2; its text begins, "Hear the word of the Lord, all Judea" (Brenton). The same sermon is summarized in chapter 26.
- b (7:3) Or, with a change of vowels, "and I will dwell with you"; so also in verse 7.
- c (7:4) The Septuagint has the phrase twice: "It is the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord" (Brenton).
- d (7:12) Shiloh, where the tabernacle stood in the days of Eli (1 Samuel 1–4), was evidently destroyed after the Philistines captured the ark.
- e (7:18) Probably Ishtar (Astarte), the Mesopotamian goddess of love and war, worshiped as "Queen of Heaven"; see also 44:17–25. The Septuagint reads "to make cakes to the host of heaven" (Brenton).
- f (7:21) That is, eat even the burnt offerings, which were wholly burned; Yahweh no longer values them.
- g (7:27) The Septuagint lacks this verse except for its opening words: "Therefore you shall speak this word to them" (Brenton, modernized).
- h (7:29) Hebrew "your crown" (nezer), as a sign of mourning; the word is addressed to Jerusalem as a woman.
- i (7:31) Topheth, the place in the valley where children were burned as offerings; the name may mean "fireplace," with its vowels perhaps changed to suggest boshet, "shame."
- j (7:31) Ben-hinnom, "son of Hinnom," the valley south and west of Jerusalem; its later name Gehinnom gave rise to "Gehenna."

Chapter 8

1 "At that time," declares Yahweh, "people will take the bones of Judah's kings, officials, priests, prophets and Jerusalem's residents out of their graves 2 and spread them out under the sun, moon and all the stars of the sky, which they loved, served, followed, consulted and worshiped. Nobody will collect or bury them; they will lie like manure on the ground. 3 And death shall be chosen rather than life by all the remnant that remains of this evil family, in all the places where I have driven them," declares Yahweh of Armies.

4 “Tell them this also, ‘This is what Yahweh says:
Does a man who falls not get up?
Does one who strays not come back?
5 Why then has this people turned away,
Jerusalem, in a perpetual turning away?
They hold fast to deceit;
they refuse to return.
6 I listened and heard,
but they do not speak what is right;
no man repents of his evil,
saying, “What have I done?”
Each one turns to his own course,
like a horse plunging into battle.
7 Even the stork in the heavens knows her appointed seasons,
and the turtledove, the swift,[a] and the crane
keep the time of their coming;
but my people know not
the judgment of Yahweh.
8 “‘How can you say, “We are wise,
and the law of Yahweh is with us”?
But see, the lying pen of the scribes
has made it into a lie.
9 The wise men are put to shame;
they are dismayed and caught;
see, they have rejected the word of Yahweh,
so what wisdom is in them?
10 So I will give their wives to other men
and their fields to new owners;
from the smallest to the greatest they are all after dishonest gain;
prophets and priests alike
all practice deceit.

11 They have healed the wound of the daughter of my people lightly, saying, “Peace, peace,”
when there is no peace.[b]
12 Were they ashamed of their detestable acts?
Not at all; they felt no shame,
and did not even know how to blush.
So they will fall along with the fallen;
when I punish them they will stumble,’ says Yahweh.
13 ‘I will surely gather them in,’[c] declares Yahweh;
‘there are no grapes on the vine,
nor figs on the fig tree;
even the leaf has withered,
and what I gave them passes away from them.’”[d]
14 Why are we sitting here?
Assemble! Let us enter the walled towns and meet our end there;
for Yahweh our God has sentenced us to die
and made us drink water laced with poison,[e]
since against Yahweh we have sinned.
15 We looked for peace, but no good came;
for a time of healing, but see, terror.
16 The snorting of his horses is heard from Dan;
at the noise of his chargers’ neighing
all the land trembles.
They arrive and eat up the land and everything in it,
the town and its people.
17 “For look, I am letting loose snakes among you,
vipers against which no charm avails,
and they will bite you,” declares Yahweh.
18 Past all cure is my sorrow;[f]
faint within me is my heart.
19 Listen to my people crying
from a distant land:
“Is Yahweh no longer in Zion?
Is her King no longer there?”

"Why did they make me angry with their carved idols and their worthless foreign gods?" 20 "The harvest is past, the summer is ended,
and we are not saved."
21 For the wound of the daughter of my people I am wounded;
I mourn; dismay has taken hold of me.
22 Is there no balm[g] in Gilead?
Is there no physician there?
Why then has the healing of the daughter of my people not gone up?[h]

Notes

- a (8:7) The identification of these birds is uncertain; Hebrew sus or sis may be the swift or the swallow.
- b (8:11) The Septuagint lacks verses 11–12 (Brenton), which repeat 6:14–15.
- c (8:13) Or "I will make an end of them"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- d (8:13) The Hebrew of this line is obscure; the Septuagint lacks it (Brenton).
- e (8:14) Hebrew "water of rosh," a poisonous plant, perhaps hemlock or poppy.
- f (8:18) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- g (8:22) Hebrew tsori, an aromatic resin used as medicine, for which Gilead, east of the Jordan, was famous (Genesis 37:25). The plant is uncertain; suggestions include mastic and the balsam tree.
- h (8:22) That is, the new flesh has not grown over the wound. In Hebrew, 9:1 is numbered 8:23.

Chapter 9

1 Oh that my head were waters,
and my eyes a fountain of tears,
that I might weep day and night
for the slain of the daughter of my people![a] 2 Oh that I had in the wilderness
a lodging place for wayfarers, that I might leave my people
and go away from them!
For they are all adulterers,
a company of traitors.
3 They bend their tongue like their bow;
falsehood and not faithfulness has grown strong in the land;

for they proceed from evil to evil,
and me they do not know, declares Yahweh.
4 Guard yourselves, each against his friend,
and rely on no brother;
for each brother is a heel-grabber,[b]
and each friend peddles slander.
5 Everyone cheats his neighbor,
and nobody tells the truth;
they have trained their tongues to lie;
they wear themselves out doing wrong.
6 Your dwelling is in the midst of deceit;
through deceit they refuse to know me, declares Yahweh.
7 Therefore thus says Yahweh of Armies:
"See, I will refine them and test them,
for what else can I do, because of the daughter of my people?
8 A death-dealing arrow is their tongue;
treachery is its speech;
with his lips a man greets his friend with "Peace,"
but inwardly he plots to waylay him.
9 Shall I not punish them for these things?" declares Yahweh,
"and on a nation such as this
shall my soul not take vengeance?"
10 Over the hills I will lift up weeping and lament,
and over the wilderness grazing lands a dirge,
for they are scorched, with none passing through,
and no sound of cattle is heard;
the birds of the sky as well as the beasts
have fled away and gone.
11 "Jerusalem I will turn into rubble heaps,
a haunt of jackals,
and Judah's towns into a waste
where no one lives."
12 What man is wise enough to grasp this? To whom has Yahweh's mouth spoken, so that he can explain it? For what cause has the land perished, scorched like the desert, with none passing through?

13 And Yahweh said, “Because they have forsaken my law that I set before them, and have not obeyed my voice or walked in it, 14 but have walked after the stubbornness of their own hearts and after the Baals, as their fathers taught them. 15 Therefore thus says Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel: See, I will feed this people with wormwood, and give them poisoned water to drink. 16 I will scatter them among the nations whom neither they nor their fathers have known, and I will send the sword after them, until I have consumed them.”
17 This is what Yahweh of Armies says:
“Think about it, and summon the women who mourn;
send for the women who are skilled at it; 18 let them hurry and lift a dirge over us,
till our eyes stream with tears
and our lashes drip with water.
19 For a sound of wailing is heard from Zion:
‘How we are ruined!
We are utterly ashamed,
because we have left the land,
because they have cast down our dwellings.’” 20 Hear, O women, the word of Yahweh,
and let your ear receive the word of his mouth;
teach your daughters a lament,
and each her neighbor a dirge.
21 For death has climbed in through our windows;
it has come into our strongholds,
cutting down the little ones in the street
and the youths in the public squares.
22 Say this: “So declares Yahweh:
‘Human corpses will lie
like manure across the open field,
like swaths of grain behind the harvester,
with no one to gather them up.’”
23 This is what Yahweh says:
“The sage must not glory in his wisdom,

nor the strong man glory in his strength,
nor the wealthy man glory in his wealth;
24 rather, if anyone would glory, let him glory in this:
that he has insight and knows me,
that I am Yahweh, who acts with steadfast love,
with justice and with righteousness on the earth.
For in these I take pleasure," declares Yahweh.
25 "See, days are coming," declares Yahweh, "when I will punish all those who are circumcised merely in the flesh: 26 Egypt, Judah, Edom, the sons of Ammon, Moab, and all who clip the corners of their hair,[c] who dwell in the wilderness; for all these nations are uncircumcised, and all the house of Israel is uncircumcised in heart."

Notes

- a (9:1) In Hebrew, verse 1 is numbered 8:23, and verses 2–26 are numbered 9:1–25.
- b (9:4) Hebrew ʿaqov yaʿqov, "supplanting he supplants," a play on the name Jacob (Genesis 27:36).
- c (9:26) Or "who dwell in the desert with clipped temples," a custom of certain Arab tribes; compare Leviticus 19:27.

Chapter 10

1 Hear the word that Yahweh speaks to you, O house of Israel.
2 This is what Yahweh says:
"Do not copy the ways of the nations
or be terrified by signs in the sky,
though the nations are terrified by them;
3 for the practices of the peoples are mere vapor.
Someone fells a tree in the woods,
and a carver shapes it with his chisel.
4 They adorn it with silver and with gold;
they fasten it with nails and hammers
so that it cannot move.
5 They are like a scarecrow in a melon patch,[a] mute and unable to talk;
they must be hauled about,
having no power to walk.
Have no fear of them,

for harm is beyond them,
and good is beyond them too."
6 There is none like you, O Yahweh;[b]
you are great, and your name is great in might.
7 Who could fail to fear you, King of the nations?
For to you it rightly belongs;
for among all the sages of the nations
and throughout their realms
none can compare with you.
8 They are altogether stupid and foolish;
the instruction of idols is but wood.
9 Hammered silver is imported from Tarshish, and gold from Uphaz;[c]
it is the work of a craftsman and a goldsmith's hands;
they are dressed in blue and purple;
they are all made by skilled workers.
10 But Yahweh is God in truth;
he is the living God, the King for all ages.
When he is angry the earth shakes,
and the nations cannot withstand his fury.
11 This is what you are to tell them:[d] "The gods that never made heaven and earth will vanish from the earth and from beneath these skies."
12 He made the earth by his power;
he established the world by his wisdom,
and by his understanding stretched out the heavens.
13 At the sound of his voice the waters in the skies roar,
and he lifts the clouds from the far edges of the earth.
He fashions lightning to go with the rain,
and draws the wind out of his treasuries.
14 Every man is stupid, without knowledge;
every goldsmith is put to shame by his idol,
for his molten images are falsehood,
and there is no breath in them.
15 They are vapor, a work of mockery;
in the time of their punishment they shall perish.

16 The Portion of Jacob[e] is nothing like these,
for he formed everything,
and Israel is the tribe he claimed as his own;
Yahweh of Armies is his name.
17 Pick up your pack from the ground,
you who live under siege!
18 For this is what Yahweh says:
"Look, I am about to hurl away the people of the land
this time,
and I will bring trouble on them
so that they will find out."[f]
19 How I suffer from my injury!
My wound is severe.
Yet I said, "This is my sickness,
and I must put up with it."
20 My tent has been wrecked,
and all its ropes have snapped;
my children have left me
and are gone;
no one is left to pitch my tent
or hang up my curtains.
21 For the shepherds are stupid
and do not inquire of Yahweh;
therefore they have not prospered,
and all their flock is scattered.
22 Listen, a rumor! See, it comes—a great commotion out of the north country,
to make the cities of Judah a desolation,
a lair of jackals.
23 I know, O Yahweh, that the way of man is not in himself;
it is not in man who walks to direct his steps.
24 Discipline me, Yahweh, but fairly;
not in anger, or you will reduce me to nothing.
25 Empty your fury on the nations that do not acknowledge you,
and on the clans that never invoke your name,

for they have eaten up Jacob;
they have eaten him and finished him off,
and made his pasture a waste.

Notes

- a (10:5) The Septuagint arranges verses 5 and 9 differently, placing the substance of verse 9 within verse 5.
- b (10:6) The Septuagint lacks verses 6–8 and 10 (Brenton). A Hebrew manuscript from Qumran (4QJer-b) is reported to share this shorter form of the chapter.
- c (10:9) Uphaz, an unknown place; some ancient witnesses read Ophir.
- d (10:11) Verse 11 is in Aramaic, the only Aramaic verse in Jeremiah, and it contains a wordplay: the gods who did not "make" (ʻavadu) the heavens shall "perish" (yevadu).
- e (10:16) That is, Yahweh, the one who belongs to Jacob as his share.
- f (10:18) Or "that they may be found"; the Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 11

1 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh: 2 "Hear the terms of this covenant, and speak them to Judah's men and to Jerusalem's residents. 3 Tell them, 'This is what Yahweh, Israel's God, says: Cursed is the man who does not heed the terms of this covenant, 4 which I laid upon your fathers on the day I brought them out of Egypt, out of the iron-smelting furnace, saying: Listen to my voice and carry out all that I command you. So you will be my people, and I will be your God, 5 that I may keep the oath I swore to your fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as it is at this day.'"
Then I answered, "Amen,[a] Yahweh."
6 And Yahweh told me, "Proclaim all these words in Judah's towns and Jerusalem's streets: 'Hear the terms of this covenant and carry them out. 7 For I solemnly warned your fathers from the day I brought them up out of Egypt down to this day, warning them early and late, saying, Listen to my voice.[b] 8 Yet they would not listen or turn their ear, but each walked in the obstinacy of his evil heart. So I brought upon them all the terms of this covenant, which I had charged them to keep, and which they did not keep.'" 9 Then Yahweh said to me, "A conspiracy has been uncovered among Judah's men and Jerusalem's residents. 10 They have gone back to the guilt of their forefathers, who would not hear my words; they too have gone after other gods to serve them. Israel's house and Judah's house have broken my covenant that I cut with their fathers.

11 Therefore this is what Yahweh says: Look, I am bringing on them a calamity they cannot escape; they will cry to me, but I will not listen.
12 Then Judah's towns and Jerusalem's residents will go and cry to the gods to whom they burn offerings, but those gods will give them no rescue whatever in the hour of their calamity. 13 Indeed, O Judah, your gods number as many as your towns, and the altars you have erected to the Shame[c] number as many as Jerusalem's streets—altars for sending up smoke to Baal.
14 "And you—intercede not for this people; raise no plea or entreaty for them, for I will refuse to listen at the time they call on me in their calamity.
15 What right has my beloved in my house,
when she has worked out her many schemes?
Can vows[d] and holy flesh
take your calamity from you?
Then you could exult.
16 Yahweh once called you a green olive tree,
beautiful and full of fine fruit.
But with a loud storm roar
he has set it on fire,
and its branches are broken.[e]
17 Yahweh of Armies, who planted you, has pronounced calamity against you, because of the evil that Israel's house and Judah's house have done, provoking me by burning offerings to Baal."
18 Yahweh disclosed it to me, and so I learned of it;
then you let me see what they were doing.
19 But I was like a docile lamb
led away to the butcher;
I did not know it was against me
they had hatched their plots:
"Let us destroy the tree with its sap;[f]
let us cut him off from the land of the living,
that his name may be remembered no more."

20 But you, Yahweh of Armies, who judge rightly,
who test the inmost parts[g] and the heart,
let me see your vengeance upon them,
for to you I have laid bare my cause.
21 Therefore this is what Yahweh says about the people of Anathoth who are trying to kill you and tell you, "Do not prophesy in Yahweh's name, or we will kill you"— 22 therefore this is what Yahweh of Armies says: "See, I will call them to account. Their young men will die by the sword; their sons and daughters will die by famine. 23 None of them will survive, for I will bring disaster on the people of Anathoth in the year when I punish them."

Notes

- a (11:5) Hebrew ʾamen, "surely, so be it," the response to the covenant curses (Deuteronomy 27:15–26).
- b (11:7) The Septuagint lacks verse 7 and most of verse 8, reading only "But they did them not" (Brenton).
- c (11:13) Hebrew bosheth, a contemptuous substitute for Baal.
- d (11:15) Following the Septuagint, which has "prayers and holy offerings" (Brenton); the Hebrew reads "the many," which is difficult.
- e (11:16) The Hebrew of verses 15–16 is uncertain in places.
- f (11:19) Hebrew "with its bread"; the translation follows a slight change of the text, or else read "its fruit."
- g (11:20) Hebrew "kidneys," regarded as the seat of the emotions.

Chapter 12

1 Righteous are you, Yahweh,
when I bring a case before you;
yet I would argue my cause with you:
Why does the path of the wicked prosper?
Why do all the treacherous live at ease?
2 You plant them, and they take root;
they grow and bear fruit.
Near are you in their mouth,
but far from their inmost parts.
3 But you, Yahweh, know me;
you see me and test my heart toward you.

Drag them off like sheep for slaughter,
and set them apart for the day of killing.
4 Till when shall the earth lie mourning,
the herbage of the countryside dried up?
For the wickedness of its dwellers beast and bird have perished,
for they said, "He will not see what becomes of us."
5 "If runners on foot have tired you out,
how can you race against horses?
And if only in a quiet land you feel secure,[a]
what will you do in the Jordan's jungle?[b] 6 For even your brothers and your father's house,
even they have dealt treacherously with you;
even they shout loudly after you.
Do not trust them,
though they speak fair words to you.
7 "I have abandoned my house;
I have cast off my heritage;
I have handed the darling of my soul
into the grip of her enemies.
8 My heritage has turned on me
like a lion in the forest;
she has raised her voice against me;
therefore I hate her.
9 Is my heritage to me a speckled bird of prey?[c]
Are the birds of prey against her on every side?
Go, assemble all the beasts of the field;
bring them to devour.
10 Many shepherds have ruined my vineyard;
they have trampled my portion;
they have turned my pleasant portion
into a desolate wilderness.
11 It has been turned into a wasteland;
waste and mourning, it lies before me.

All the land is made a waste,
since no one takes it to heart.
12 Across the barren hills in the wilderness
raiders have arrived,
for Yahweh's sword is devouring
from one end of the land to the other;
no one is safe.
13 Wheat they sowed, but thorns they reaped;
they have worn themselves out to no profit.
Be ashamed[d] of your harvests
because of the fierce anger of Yahweh."
14 This is what Yahweh says concerning all my evil neighbors who touch the heritage I gave my people Israel to possess: "See, I am uprooting them from their land, and the house of Judah I will uproot from among them. 15 But after I have pulled them out, I will have compassion on them again and bring each of them back to his own inheritance and his own land. 16 And if they will diligently learn the ways of my people, to swear by my name, 'As Yahweh lives,' even as they taught my people to swear by Baal, then they shall be built up in the midst of my people. 17 But if any nation will not listen, then I will pluck up that nation, plucking it up and destroying it," declares Yahweh.

Notes

- a (12:5) Or "if only in a peaceful land you feel secure."
- b (12:5) Hebrew "the pride of the Jordan," the dense growth along the river, home of lions (49:19).
- c (12:9) The Hebrew is uncertain; the Septuagint reads, "Is not my inheritance to me a hyena's cave?" (Brenton, modernized).
- d (12:13) Or, with a change of vowels, "They shall be ashamed."

Chapter 13

1 This is what Yahweh said to me: "Go and buy yourself a linen waistcloth[a] and wrap it about your loins, but do not let it get into water." 2 So I bought a waistcloth as Yahweh directed and wrapped it about my loins. 3 Then Yahweh's word came to me a second time: 4 "Take the waistcloth you bought, the one about your loins, and set out for Perath;[b] hide it there in a cleft of the rock." 5 So I went and hid it at Perath, as Yahweh had ordered me. 6 After many days Yahweh said to me, "Set out for Perath, and retrieve from there the waistcloth I ordered you to hide there." 7 So I went to Perath, dug, and took the waistcloth from the place where I had hidden it. And look—the waistcloth was rotted, fit for nothing at all.

8 Then Yahweh's word came to me: 9 "This is what Yahweh says: Just so will I rot the pride of Judah and the great pride of Jerusalem. 10
This evil people, who refuse to hear my words, who walk in their own obstinate hearts and go after other gods to serve them and bow to them, shall be like this waistcloth, fit for nothing at all. 11 For just as a waistcloth hugs a man's waist, so I bound to myself all Israel's house and all Judah's house," declares Yahweh, "to be my people, my renown, my praise, and my honor; yet they refused to listen.
12 "Speak to them also this word: 'This is what Yahweh, Israel's God, says: Every jar is to be filled with wine.' And when they answer you, 'Do we not know perfectly well that every jar is to be filled with wine?' 13 then say to them, 'This is what Yahweh says: I am about to make everyone living in this land drunk—the kings who sit on David's throne, the priests, the prophets and all the people of Jerusalem. 14 And I will smash them one against another, fathers and sons alike,' declares Yahweh. 'I will show no pity, nor spare, nor have compassion, so as not to destroy them.'" 15 Listen and give ear; be not proud,
for Yahweh has spoken.
16 Honor Yahweh your God
before he brings darkness,
before your feet trip
on the dusky mountains,
and while you hope for light 17 But if you will not hear,
my soul will weep in secret for your pride;
my eye will weep bitterly and run down with tears,
because Yahweh's flock has been taken captive.

18 Say to the king and to the queen mother:[c]
"Sit down low,
for your splendid crown
has come down from your heads." 19 The towns of the Negev[d] are shut up,
with none to open them;
all Judah is carried into exile,
wholly carried into exile.
20 Lift up your eyes and see those coming from the north.
Where is the flock that was given you,
your beautiful flock?
21 What will you say when he puts over you as ruler
the very people you trained to be your close allies?[e]
Will pain not grip you
like a woman in labor?
22 And if you wonder,
"Why did this happen to me?"—
it is the size of your guilt that has stripped off your skirts and left you violated.[f] 23 Can a Cushite[g] alter his skin or a leopard remove its spots?
Then you could also do good,
you who have learned only evil.
24 I will scatter them like chaff driven by the wind of the desert.
25 This is your lot,
the portion I have measured out to you, declares Yahweh,
because you have forgotten me
and trusted in falsehood.
26 I myself will pull your skirts up over your face,
so that your shame is exposed.

27 Your adultery and your lustful cries,
your shameless prostitution
on the hills and in the fields—
I have seen your detestable acts.
Woe to you, Jerusalem!
How long will you stay unclean?

Notes

- a (13:1) Hebrew ʾezor, a garment worn next to the body, perhaps a loincloth or sash.
- b (13:4) Hebrew Perath is the usual name of the Euphrates, about 350 miles (560 kilometers) away, and the Septuagint reads "the Euphrates" (Brenton). Some interpreters think of Parah (Joshua 18:23), a village about 4 miles (6 kilometers) from Anathoth.
- c (13:18) Hebrew gevirah, "great lady," the king's mother, who held an official position; probably Nehushta, mother of Jehoiachin (2 Kings 24:8).
- d (13:19) Negev, "dry land," the arid south of Judah.
- e (13:21) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.
- f (13:22) A euphemism for sexual violation.
- g (13:23) Cushite, a man from Cush (the upper Nile region, modern Sudan), known for dark skin.

Chapter 14

1 The word of Yahweh that came to Jeremiah concerning the drought:[a] 2 "Judah mourns,
and her gates languish;
her people lie in black upon the ground,
and the cry of Jerusalem goes up.
3 Their great men dispatch their lads for water;
to the pits they go;
no water do they find;
back they come, their jars empty;
shamed and humiliated,
they muffle their heads.
4 Since the soil is shattered,
since no rain has fallen on the land,
the farmers are dismayed;
they muffle their heads.

5 Even the doe in the field
gives birth and forsakes her fawn,
because there is no grass.
6 The wild donkeys stand on the bare heights;
they pant for air like jackals;
their eyes fail
because there is no herbage.
7 “Although our wrongs accuse us,
Yahweh, take action for the sake of your name;
our acts of unfaithfulness are many;
we have sinned against you.
8 O Hope of Israel,
its Savior in time of trouble,
why should you be like a sojourner in the land,
like a traveler who turns aside to lodge for a night?
9 Why are you like someone bewildered,
like a warrior unable to rescue?
But you are here among us, Yahweh,
and we bear your name;
do not abandon us.”
10 This is what Yahweh says of this people:
“So well have they loved to wander;
their feet they have not restrained;
therefore Yahweh does not accept them;
now he will remember their iniquity
and punish their sins.”
11 Yahweh said to me, “Do not pray for this people’s welfare. 12 When they fast, I will not listen to their cry; when they present burnt offerings and grain offerings, I will not accept them; instead I will finish them off with sword, famine and plague.”
13 Then I said, “Ah, Lord Yahweh! Look, the prophets keep telling them, ‘You shall not see the sword, nor shall famine come upon you; I will give you lasting peace in this place.’” 14 Yahweh told me, “These prophets are prophesying lies in my name. I did not send them or order them or speak to them. They are prophesying to you a false vision, worthless fortune-telling and the deceit of their own minds.[b] 15 So this is what Yahweh says about the prophets who prophesy in my name though I never sent them, and who keep saying, 'No sword or famine will touch this land': By sword and by famine those very prophets will be finished off. 16 The people they prophesy to will lie in Jerusalem's streets, thrown out and dying from famine and the sword, and no one will bury them—not they, nor their wives, sons or daughters. I will pour their own wickedness back on them.

17 "Tell them this message:
'May my eyes overflow with tears
night and day without stopping,
for my people's virgin daughter has suffered a crushing blow,
a terribly severe wound.
18 If I go out into the field,
look—those slain by the sword!
And if I enter the city,
look—the diseases of famine!
For both prophet and priest roam about in a land they know not.'"[c]
19 Have you cast Judah off completely?
Is Zion abhorrent to your soul?
Why have you smitten us
past all mending?
We hoped for peace, and nothing good arrived;
for a season of healing, and see—panic.
20 We acknowledge, O Yahweh, our wickedness,
the iniquity of our fathers,
for we have sinned against you.
21 For your name's sake, do not despise us;
bring no disgrace on the throne of your glory;
keep in mind your covenant with us, and annul it not.
22 Is there anyone among the worthless gods of the nations who can send rain?
Or do the skies pour showers on their own?
Isn't it you, Yahweh our God?

We wait for you,
because you alone make all these things happen.

Notes

- a (14:1) Hebrew batstsaroth, “the times of dearth” or “the droughts.”
- b (14:14) Hebrew “heart.”
- c (14:18) Or “go off trading in a land they do not know”; the Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 15

1 Then Yahweh said to me, “Even if Moses and Samuel stood before me, my soul would not turn toward this people. Send them from my presence; let them be gone!
2 If they ask you, ‘Where should we go?’ say to them, ‘This is what Yahweh says:
“Death for those marked for death;
the sword for those marked for the sword;
famine for those marked for famine;
exile for those marked for exile.”’
3 I will appoint over them four kinds of destroyers,” declares Yahweh:
“the sword to slay, the dogs to drag away, and the birds of the sky and the beasts of the earth to devour and to destroy.
4 I will turn them into an object of dread for every realm on earth, on account of what Manasseh[a] son of Hezekiah, Judah’s king, committed in Jerusalem.
5 “For who will take pity on you, Jerusalem?
Who will lament over you?
Who will step aside
to inquire how you fare?
6 You have cast me off, declares Yahweh;
backward you keep going;
so I have stretched out my hand against you and destroyed you;
I am weary of relenting.
7 I have scattered them with a pitchfork
at the gates of the land;
I have made them childless and destroyed my people;
they have not given up their ways.

8 I have made their widows outnumber
the grains of sand by the sea;
upon the mother of the young warriors
I have brought a ravager at midday;
I have let alarm and dismay
drop on her without warning.
9 The mother of seven grows faint;
she gasps out her life;
her sun has set while daylight remained;
humiliated is she, and abashed.
Whoever of them survive I will hand to the sword
in their foes' presence, declares Yahweh."
10 How miserable I am, mother, that you gave birth to me, a man who brings quarrels and conflict to the whole country!
I have neither loaned money nor borrowed it,
yet everyone curses me.
11 Yahweh said, "Surely I will set you free for good;[b]
surely I will make the enemy plead with you in the time of evil and in the time of distress.
12 Can one break iron,
iron from the north, and bronze?[c]
13 Your riches and your stores I will hand over as spoil, at no cost, for all your sins, in every part of your land.
14 I will make you slaves to your foes[d]
in a country unknown to you,
for my anger has lit a fire
that will blaze against you."
15 Yahweh, you understand;
keep me in mind and come to my aid;
take revenge for me on those who hound me.
Do not, through your patience with them, snatch me away;
consider how for you I endure insult.
16 When your words came, I devoured them;
they became my joy
and my heart's delight,

because I bear your name,
Yahweh, God of Armies.
17 Never did I sit among the revelers
or make merry with them;
under your hand I sat by myself,
for you had filled me with fury.
18 Why has my agony no end,
my wound no cure, past all healing?
Will you indeed prove to me a treacherous wadi,
a stream whose waters cannot be relied on?
19 So Yahweh answered:
"If you come back, I will restore you
and you will serve me.
If you speak what is valuable and not what is worthless,
you will be my spokesman.
They may turn to you,
but you must not turn to them.
20 I will turn you into a fortified wall of bronze
for this people;
they will fight you,
but they will not defeat you,
for I am with you
to save and rescue you, declares Yahweh.
21 I will rescue you out of the power of evildoers,
and ransom you from the clutch of tyrants."

Notes

- a (15:4) Manasseh reigned about 697–642 B.C.; his sins are recounted in 2 Kings 21:1–18 and 23:26–27.
- b (15:11) The Hebrew of verses 11–12 is difficult; the Septuagint differs considerably, reading, "So be it, Lord, in their prosperity" (Brenton). Some ancient witnesses read the verse as Jeremiah's words.
- c (15:12) Or "Can iron and bronze break iron from the north?"
- d (15:14) So many Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint, and Syriac (compare 17:4); the standard Hebrew text reads "I will make them pass over with your enemies."

Chapter 16

1 Yahweh's word came to me once more: 2 "Take no wife for yourself, and father no sons or daughters in this place. 3 For here is Yahweh's word concerning the boys and girls born in this place, and concerning the women who give them birth and the men who father them in this land: 4 They will perish of deadly diseases. None will mourn them, none will bury them; they will lie like manure on the face of the soil.
By sword and by famine they will be finished off, and their carcasses will feed the birds of the sky and the beasts of the earth.
5 "For so says Yahweh: Enter no house of the mourning banquet;[a] go not in to lament or to show sympathy, for from this people I have taken away my peace," declares Yahweh, "my steadfast love and my tender mercies.[b] 6 Great and small alike will perish in this land. They will go unburied; no one will mourn for them, nor gash himself, nor shave his head on their account. 7 No one will break bread for the mourner to console him for the dead, nor will anyone hand him the cup of consolation for his father or his mother. 8 Into a house of feasting likewise you must not go, to sit down with them to eat and drink. 9 For this is what Yahweh of Armies, Israel's God, says: Look, before your eyes and in your days I am silencing in this place the sound of merriment and the sound of joy, the voice of bridegroom and the voice of bride.
10 "And when you report all these words to this people and they ask you, 'On what grounds has Yahweh decreed all this great calamity against us? What is our guilt? What sin have we committed against Yahweh our God?' 11 then answer them, 'It is because your fathers abandoned me,' declares Yahweh, 'and went after other gods, serving them and bowing down to them. Me they abandoned, and my law they did not keep. 12 And you have done worse than your fathers, for look, each of you walks in the obstinacy of his evil heart, refusing to listen to me. 13 So I will hurl you out of this land into a land that neither you nor your fathers have known, and there you will serve other gods day and night, for I will show you no favor.' 14 "However, look, the time is coming," declares Yahweh, "when people will no longer say, 'As surely as Yahweh lives, who brought the Israelites out of Egypt,' 15 but instead, 'By the life of Yahweh, who led Israel's sons up out of the north country and out of every land to which he had scattered them.' For back to their own soil I will restore them, the soil I bestowed on their ancestors.

16 "Look, I am sending for many fishermen," declares Yahweh, "and they will fish them out. Afterward I will send for many hunters, and they will hunt them down on every mountain and every hill and out of the clefts of the rocks. 17 For my eyes are on all their ways; they are not concealed from my face, nor is their guilt hidden from my eyes.
18 First[c] I will repay double for their guilt and their sin, because they have polluted my land with the carcasses of their detestable idols and filled my heritage with their abominations." 19 Yahweh, my might and my fortress,
my shelter when trouble comes,
from earth's farthest reaches
the nations will come to you, saying:
"Our fathers owned nothing but a lie,
a puff of air, useless through and through.
20 Can a man make gods for himself?
Such are no gods!"
21 "So look, I will teach them—
this one time I will teach them
my power and my strength,
and they will know that my name is Yahweh."

Notes

- a (16:5) Hebrew marzeaḥ, a ritual banquet, here held for mourning.
- b (16:5) The Septuagint lacks "my steadfast love and my compassion" and the first half of verse 6 (Brenton).
- c (16:18) The Septuagint lacks "First" (Brenton).

Chapter 17

1 "The sin of Judah is written with an iron pen, engraved with a diamond tip[a]
on the tablet of their hearts and on the corners of their altars,[b]

2 while their sons remember their altars and their Asherah poles[c] beside every leafy tree
on the high hills,
3 O my mountain set in the countryside!
Your riches and every treasure of yours I will hand over as spoil, your shrines too, for the sin in every part of your land.
4 Through your own fault you will lose hold of the inheritance I bestowed on you, and I will make you slaves to your foes
in a country strange to you,
for you have lit a fire in my nostrils
that will blaze for all time."
5 This is what Yahweh says:
"Cursed is the man who relies on mortal man and makes flesh the arm he leans on,
while his heart veers away from Yahweh.
6 He will be like a juniper[d] in the Arabah;
he will not see when good arrives,
but will settle in the scorched places of the wilderness,
a salt land where no one lives.
7 "Blessed is the man who relies on Yahweh, whose confidence Yahweh is.
8 He will be like a tree set by the water,
that pushes out its roots toward the stream;
it has no fear when the heat arrives,
and its foliage stays lush;
in a year of drought it is not anxious,
and it never stops yielding fruit."
9 More tortuous[e] than all else is the heart,
and desperately sick;
who can fathom it?
10 "I, Yahweh, probe the heart
and examine the inmost parts,

to repay each man according to his ways,
according to the fruit of his deeds."
11 Like a partridge that hatches eggs it did not lay is the man who gets riches unjustly;
in the middle of his days they will abandon him,
and at his end he will prove a fool.
12 A throne of glory, set on high from the beginning,
is the place of our sanctuary.
13 O Yahweh, Hope of Israel,
all who abandon you shall be put to shame;
those who turn from you[f] shall be written in the dust,
for they have abandoned Yahweh,
the spring of living water.
14 Heal me, O Yahweh, and I shall be healed;
save me, and I shall be saved,
for you are my praise.
15 Look, they keep saying to me,
"Where is Yahweh's word?
Let it come, then!"
16 But I have not pressed you to send calamity,[g]
nor have I longed for the day of disaster;
you know it.
What came from my lips
was open before your face.
17 Do not become a terror to me;
you are my refuge in the day of calamity.
18 Let my persecutors be put to shame, but not me;
let them be dismayed, but not me;
bring on them the day of calamity;
with double destruction destroy them!
19 This is what Yahweh said to me: "Go and stand in the People's Gate,[h] by which Judah's kings come in and go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem, 20 and say to them, 'Hear the word of Yahweh, you kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all Jerusalem's residents who come in by these gates. 21 This is what Yahweh says: Guard yourselves, as you value your lives, and carry no load on the Sabbath day, nor bring it in through Jerusalem's gates. 22 Carry no load out of your houses on the Sabbath day, and do no work at all, but keep the Sabbath day holy, as I commanded your fathers. 23 Yet they would not listen or turn their ear, but stiffened their necks so as not to hear or take correction. 24 But if you diligently heed me, declares Yahweh, and carry no burden in by this city's gates on the Sabbath, but treat the Sabbath as holy by doing no labor on it, 25 then through the gates of this city will enter kings and princes who sit on David's throne, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their princes, Judah's men and Jerusalem's residents; and this city will be inhabited forever. 26 And people will come from the towns of Judah and the places around Jerusalem, from the land of Benjamin, from the Shephelah,[i] from the hill country, and from the Negev, bringing burnt offerings and sacrifices, grain offerings and frankincense, and bringing thank offerings to Yahweh's house. 27 But if you will not listen to me, to keep the Sabbath day holy and not to carry a load as you enter Jerusalem's gates on the Sabbath day, then I will kindle a fire in its gates, and it will consume the palaces of Jerusalem and will not be quenched.'"

Notes

- a (17:1) Hebrew shamir, a very hard stone, perhaps emery or diamond.
- b (17:1) The Septuagint lacks verses 1–4 (Brenton). Verses 3–4 partly repeat 15:13–14.
- c (17:2) Asherah, a Canaanite goddess; her symbol was a wooden pole or stylized tree.
- d (17:6) Hebrew ʿarʿar, a desert shrub, perhaps the juniper or a dwarf tamarisk; the Septuagint has "wild tamarisk" (Brenton).
- e (17:9) Hebrew ʿaqov, "crooked, deceitful," recalling the name Jacob. The Septuagint reads, "The heart is deep beyond all things, and it is the man" (Brenton), reflecting Hebrew ʿamoq, "deep," and ʾenosh, "man," for ʾanush, "sick."
- f (17:13) Hebrew "from me."
- g (17:16) Or, with a slight change, "I have not run away from being a shepherd after you"; the Hebrew is uncertain.
- h (17:19) Or "the Gate of the Sons of the People"; its location is unknown.
- i (17:26) Shephelah, "lowland," the foothills between Judah's hill country and the coastal plain.

Chapter 18

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh: 2 “Get up and go down to the potter’s workshop, and there I will tell you what I have to say.” 3 So I went down to the potter’s workshop, and look—he was at work on the double wheel.[a] 4 Whenever the vessel he was shaping from the clay was spoiled in the potter’s hand, he would rework it into another vessel, as seemed right to the potter to make.
5 Then Yahweh’s word came to me: 6 “House of Israel, can I not deal with you as this potter does?” declares Yahweh. “Look, as clay in the potter’s hand, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel. 7 At one moment I may speak of a nation or a kingdom, to uproot and pull down and destroy it; 8 but if that nation I spoke of turns from its evil,
I relent of the calamity I planned to bring on it. 9 At another moment
I may speak of a nation or a kingdom, to build and to plant it; 10 yet should it do what is evil before me, refusing to heed my voice, I will think better of the good I had said I would do for it. 11 Now speak to the people of Judah and the residents of Jerusalem: ‘This is what Yahweh says: Look, I am preparing disaster for you and making plans against you. Each of you must turn from your evil way and change your ways and actions.’ 12 But they will answer, ‘No use! Our own schemes we will pursue; each of us will do as his stubborn, evil heart dictates.’
13 “Therefore this is what Yahweh says:
Ask among the nations:
who ever heard the like of this?
A thing most horrible
has the virgin Israel done.
14 Does the snow of Lebanon leave
the crags of the field?[b]
Are the cold flowing waters
from afar ever dried up?[c] 15 Yet my people have forgotten me;
to vapor they burn offerings;
they made them stumble in their ways,
the ancient roads,

to walk in bypaths,
not a highway built up,
16 to turn their country into an appalling waste,
an object of perpetual whistling;
all who travel past it shudder
and wag their heads.
17 Like the east wind I will scatter them
before the enemy;
my back, not my face,[d] I will show them
in the day of their calamity."
18 Then they said, "Come on, let us make plans against Jeremiah, because teaching will not disappear from the priests, advice from the wise or messages from the prophets. Come on, let us attack him with words, and pay no attention to anything he says."
19 Give heed to me, O Yahweh,
and listen to the voice of my adversaries.
20 Should evil be the payment for good?
Yet they have dug a pit to trap me.
Remember that I stood in front of you
and spoke well of them,
to turn your anger away from them.
21 Therefore hand their sons over to famine;
pour them out to the power of the sword;
let their wives become childless and widowed;
let their men be slain by death,
their young men struck by the sword in battle.
22 Let a cry be heard from their houses,
when you bring raiders on them suddenly,
for they have dug a pit to seize me
and hidden snares for my feet.
23 Yet you, Yahweh, know
all their plotting against me to kill me.
Do not cover over their iniquity,
nor blot out their sin from before you.

Let them be overthrown before you;
deal with them in the time of your anger.

Notes

- a (18:3) Hebrew "the two stones," the upper and lower wheels of the potter's wheel, turned by the feet.
- b (18:14) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain; perhaps "the rock of Sirion," another name for Hermon.
- c (18:14) Or "Are the foreign, cold, flowing waters ever plucked up?"; the Hebrew is difficult.
- d (18:17) So the Hebrew consonants, read with different vowels; some ancient witnesses read "I will look on their back, not their face."

Chapter 19

1 This is what Yahweh said: "Go and buy a potter's earthenware jar,[a] and take with you some of the elders of the people and of the senior priests, 2 and go out to the Valley of Ben-hinnom at the entry of the Potsherd Gate,[b] and proclaim there the words I tell you. 3 Declare,
'Listen to Yahweh's word, O kings of Judah and you who live in Jerusalem. So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: I am about to bring on this place a disaster so great that whoever hears of it, both his ears will ring. 4 For they have abandoned me and made this place alien, burning offerings in it to other gods whom neither they nor their fathers nor Judah's kings had known; and they have filled this place with the blood of innocents, 5 and have built the high places of Baal to burn their sons in the fire as burnt offerings to Baal—a thing
I never commanded or spoke of, nor did it enter my mind. 6 So, mark it, the days are approaching, declares Yahweh, when no longer will this place be named Topheth or Ben-hinnom's Valley, but Slaughter Valley. 7 Here in this place I will drain away[c] the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem; I will cause them to fall by the sword before their foes, by the hand of those hunting for their lives, and I will hand over their corpses to be eaten by the birds of the sky and the wild animals of the earth. 8 I will make this city a horror and a thing to hiss at; everyone who passes by it will be appalled and hiss because of all its wounds.
9 I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and daughters, and they will eat one another's flesh during the siege and the hardship their enemies and those seeking their lives will inflict on them.'

10 "Then you shall break the jar before the eyes of the men who go with you, 11 and tell them, 'This is what Yahweh of Armies says: In the same way I will smash this people and this city, as someone smashes a clay pot so that it cannot be repaired. They will bury the dead in Topheth until there is no more room. 12 This is what I will do to this place, declares Yahweh, and to its inhabitants, making this city like Topheth. 13 The houses of Jerusalem and the houses of Judah's kings shall be defiled like the place of Topheth—all the houses on whose roofs they burned offerings to all the host of the heavens and poured out drink offerings to other gods.'" 14 Then Jeremiah came from Topheth, where Yahweh had sent him to prophesy, and he stood in the court of Yahweh's house and said to all the people: 15 "So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: Mark this—upon this city and all its villages I am bringing every disaster I have decreed against it, because they made their necks rigid and would not hear my words."

Notes

- a (19:1) Hebrew baqbuq, a narrow-necked flask; the name imitates the gurgling sound of pouring. Its sound anticipates the verb baqqothi, "I will empty out," in verse 7.
- b (19:2) Hebrew Harsith, perhaps the gate where broken pottery was discarded.
- c (19:7) Hebrew baqqothi, a play on baqbuq, "jar" (verse 1).

Chapter 20

1 Now Pashhur son of Immer, the priest, who was chief officer in Yahweh's house, heard Jeremiah prophesying these things. 2 Then Pashhur struck Jeremiah the prophet and put him in the stocks[a] at the Upper Gate of Benjamin, in Yahweh's house. 3 On the following day Pashhur let Jeremiah out of the stocks, and Jeremiah told him,
"Yahweh's name for you is not Pashhur, but Magor-missabib.[b] 4 For this is what Yahweh says: Look, I will make you a terror to yourself and to all your friends. They will fall by the sword of their enemies while your eyes look on. And all Judah I will give into the hand of the king of Babylon; he will carry them captive to Babylon and strike them down with the sword. 5 All this city's riches, all its earnings, all its valuables, and every treasure of Judah's kings I will hand over to their foes, who will loot them, carry them off, and take them away to Babylon. 6 As for you, Pashhur, you and all your household will go away as captives. To Babylon you will come; there you will die and there be buried, you and every friend of yours to whom you prophesied lies."

7 You enticed me, O Yahweh, and I was enticed;[c]
you overpowered me, and you prevailed.
I have become a laughingstock all day;
everyone mocks me.
8 For whenever I speak, I cry out;
"Violence and ruin!" I shout.
For the word of Yahweh has become for me
a reproach and derision all day long.
9 Yet if I resolve, "I will not bring him to mind or speak again in his name,"
it turns within my heart into a blazing fire locked up in my bones;
I am worn out trying to contain it,
and I am not able.
10 For I hear many muttering,
"Terror all around!
Report him! Yes, let us report him!"
All who were at peace with me
wait for me to trip:
"Maybe he can be lured;
then we will get the better of him
and have our revenge."
11 But Yahweh stands by me like a fearsome champion;
so those who hound me will trip up;
they will not win.
Deeply disgraced they will be, because they fail;
an eternal dishonor, never to be forgotten.

12 O Yahweh of Armies, who test the righteous,
who see the inmost parts and the heart,
let me see your vengeance upon them,
for to you I have laid bare my cause.
13 Sing to Yahweh;
praise Yahweh!
For he has rescued the life of the needy
from the hand of evildoers.
14 A curse on the day
I came to birth!
The day my mother brought me forth—
may no blessing rest on it!
15 A curse on the man who carried word to my father,
"You have a son, a boy!"
and filled him with gladness.
16 Let that man be like the cities
that Yahweh overthrew without relenting;
let him hear a cry in the morning
and an alarm at noon, 17 because he did not slay me before birth,
that my mother might have been my tomb,
her womb pregnant for all time.
18 Why ever did I leave the womb
to look on trouble and grief,
and finish my days in disgrace?

Notes

- a (20:2) Hebrew mahpeketh, perhaps a device that held the body in a twisted posture.
- b (20:3) Magor-missabib, "terror on every side." The Septuagint reads "Exile" (Brenton) in place of the Hebrew name.
- c (20:7) Or "You deceived me, and I was deceived"; the verb pathah is used of seducing (Exodus 22:16).

Chapter 21

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh when King Zedekiah[a] sent to him Pashhur son of Malchiah and the priest Zephaniah son of Maaseiah, with this request: 2 “Inquire of Yahweh on our behalf, we beg you, for Nebuchadrezzar[b] king of Babylon is waging war on us.

Perhaps Yahweh will deal with us in keeping with all his wonders,
and make him withdraw from us.”
3 Jeremiah answered them, “Say this to Zedekiah: 4 ‘So says Yahweh, God of Israel: Look, I will turn back the weapons of war in your hands, with which you are fighting the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans[c] who are besieging you outside the walls, and I will gather them into the heart of this city. 5 And it is I who will wage war on you, with hand stretched out and arm strong, in rage and fury and towering wrath.
6 I will strike down those who live in this city, man and beast alike;
of a great plague they will die. 7 After that, declares Yahweh, I will deliver Zedekiah, Judah’s king, with his officials and the populace—whoever in this city is left over from plague, sword, and famine—over to Nebuchadrezzar, Babylon’s king, over to their foes and those who hunt their lives. He will cut them down with the edge of the sword, sparing none, pitying none, showing no compassion.’
8 “And to this people you shall say, ‘So says Yahweh: Look, I am setting before you the way of life and the way of death. 9 Anyone who remains inside this city will perish by sword, hunger, or plague; but anyone who walks out and gives himself up to the Chaldeans now besieging you will survive, and come away with his life as booty.[d] 10
For I have set my face against this city for harm and not for good, declares Yahweh; it will be handed over to Babylon’s king, and he will burn it with fire.’
11 “And to the royal house of Judah say, ‘Hear Yahweh’s word, 12 O house of David! So says Yahweh:
Dispense justice every morning,
and rescue the robbed from the oppressor’s hand,
lest my fury break out like fire
and burn with none to put it out,
because of your evil deeds.
13 Look, I am against you, O dweller in the valley, O rock of the plain, declares Yahweh—

you who say, “Who can swoop down on us?
Who can break into our lairs?”
14 I will call you to account as your deeds deserve, declares Yahweh;
I will light a fire in her forest,
and it will devour everything around her.’”

Notes

- a (21:1) Zedekiah (“Yahweh is righteousness”), the last king of Judah (597–586 B.C.), a son of Josiah, installed by Nebuchadnezzar (2 Kings 24:17). This Pashhur is not the Pashhur of 20:1.
- b (21:2) Nebuchadrezzar is a variant spelling of Nebuchadnezzar, closer to the Babylonian Nabû-kudurri-uṣur, “O Nabu, protect the heir”; he reigned 605–562 B.C. Jeremiah uses both spellings.
- c (21:4) The Chaldeans (Hebrew Kasdim) were the people of southern Babylonia whose dynasty ruled the Neo-Babylonian empire.
- d (21:9) That is, he will escape with nothing but his life.

Chapter 22

1 So says Yahweh: “Go down to the palace of Judah’s king and speak this word there:
2 ‘Hear Yahweh’s word, O king of Judah who sits on David’s throne —you, your servants, and your people who enter by these gates.
3 So says Yahweh: Practice justice and righteousness; rescue the robbed from the hand of the oppressor. Do no wrong or violence to the sojourner, the orphan, or the widow, and shed no innocent blood in this place.
4 For if you indeed carry out this word, then kings who sit for David on his throne will enter by the gates of this palace, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their servants and their people.
5 But if you refuse to obey these words, I swear by myself, declares Yahweh, that this palace will be turned into a ruin.’
6 For so says Yahweh concerning the palace of Judah’s king:
“You are to me like Gilead,
like the summit of Lebanon;
yet I will surely turn you into a wasteland,
towns left uninhabited.

7 I will send destroyers against you,
each with his weapons;
they will chop down your finest cedars
and throw them on the fire.
8 "Many nations will pass by this city, and each will ask his neighbor,
'Why has Yahweh treated this great city so?' 9 And they will answer,
'Because they abandoned the covenant of Yahweh their God and bowed to other gods and served them.'" 10 Weep not for the dead man,[a] nor mourn for him;
weep rather for the one going away,
for he will never return
to see the land of his birth.
11 For so says Yahweh concerning Shallum[b] son of Josiah, king of Judah, who reigned in place of Josiah his father and has gone away from this place: "He will never return here; 12 in the place where they carried him captive, there he will die, and he will see this land no more."
13 "Woe to him who builds his house without righteousness,
his upper rooms without justice,
who works his neighbor for nothing
and pays him no wage for his toil, 14 who says, 'I will build myself a large palace with spacious upper rooms,'
so he cuts windows in it, lines it with cedar
and paints it bright red.
15 Are you a king because you vie in cedar?[c]
Did not your father eat and drink and do justice and righteousness?
Then it went well with him.
16 He defended the cause of the poor and needy;
then it went well.
Is not this what it means to know me?
declares Yahweh.

17 But your eyes and your heart
are set only on your unjust gain,
on shedding innocent blood,
on oppression and extortion."
18 Therefore this is what Yahweh says about Jehoiakim[d] son of Josiah, king of Judah:
"Nobody will mourn for him by saying,
'Oh, my brother!' or 'Oh, my sister!'
Nobody will mourn for him by saying,
'Oh, master!' or 'Oh, his majesty!'
19 With a donkey's burial he will be buried, dragged off and flung out beyond Jerusalem's gates."[e] 20 "Go up to Lebanon and shout;
raise your voice in Bashan;
shout from the Abarim range,[f]
for all your lovers have been crushed.
21 I spoke to you in your ease,
but you said, 'I will not listen.'
This has been your way from your youth,
that you have not obeyed my voice.
22 The wind will shepherd all your shepherds,
and your lovers will go into captivity;
then you will be ashamed and disgraced
for all your wickedness.
23 You who make your home in Lebanon,
who nest high in the cedars,
what groaning[g] will be yours when the pains seize you,
throes like those of childbirth!"
24 "As I live, declares Yahweh, even if Coniah[h] son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, were the signet ring on my right hand, yet I would tear you off from there, 25 and hand you over to those who want to kill you, to those you fear, to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and to the Chaldeans. 26 I will hurl you and the mother who bore you into another country, where you were not born, and there you will die.

27 But to the land to which they long to return, there they will not return."
28 Is Coniah, then, a scorned and shattered jar,
a pot that pleases no one?
Why have he and his children been flung away,
tossed out into a country unknown to them?
29 O land, land, land,
hear the word of Yahweh!
30 So says Yahweh:
"Record this man as childless,
a man who will not prosper in his days;
for none of his offspring will succeed
in sitting on David's throne and ruling again in Judah."[i]

Notes

- a (22:10) That is, King Josiah, killed at Megiddo in 609 B.C. (2 Kings 23:29).
- b (22:11) Shallum ("recompense") is the personal name of King Jehoahaz, son of Josiah, who reigned three months in 609 B.C. before Pharaoh Neco took him to Egypt (2 Kings 23:30–34).
- c (22:15) Or "because you outdo others in cedar."
- d (22:18) Jehoiakim ("Yahweh raises up"), son of Josiah, reigned 609–598 B.C. (2 Kings 23:34–24:6).
- e (22:19) 2 Kings 24:6 says only that Jehoiakim "slept with his fathers"; the fulfillment of this oracle is not described.
- f (22:20) Abarim, the mountain range east of the Dead Sea, including Mount Nebo.
- g (22:23) So the Septuagint and other ancient witnesses; the Hebrew reads "how you will be pitied" or "how favored you will be."
- h (22:24) Coniah, a short form of Jeconiah or Jehoiachin ("Yahweh establishes"), who reigned three months in 598–597 B.C. before being exiled to Babylon (2 Kings 24:8–15). In verses 24–27 the Hebrew shifts between "him" and "you."
- i (22:30) Jehoiachin had sons (1 Chronicles 3:17–18), but none reigned as king.

Chapter 23

1 "Woe to the shepherds who ruin and scatter the sheep of my pasture!" declares Yahweh. 2 Therefore so says Yahweh, God of Israel, about the shepherds who tend my people: "You have dispersed my flock and driven them off, and have not attended to them. Watch: I will attend to you for the evil of your deeds," declares Yahweh. 3 "And

I will personally round up what is left of my sheep out of every land to which I banished them, and lead them home to their fold, where they will bear young and multiply. 4 Over them I will set shepherds who will tend them; no longer will they fear or be terrified, and none will be missing," declares Yahweh.
5 "Look, days are coming," declares Yahweh,
"when I will raise up for David a righteous Branch;[a]
he will reign as king and act wisely,
and he will do justice and righteousness in the land.
6 In his days Judah will be saved,
and Israel will dwell in safety.
And this is the name by which he will be called:
'Yahweh Is Our Righteousness.'[b]
7 "Therefore, look, days are coming," declares Yahweh, "when men will no longer say, 'By the life of Yahweh, who brought Israel's sons up from the land of Egypt,' 8 but, 'By the life of Yahweh, who brought up and led the offspring of Israel's house out of the northern land and out of all the lands where I had driven them.' Then they will dwell on their own soil."[c]
9 About the prophets:
Shattered is my heart inside me;
every bone of mine shakes;
I have become like one who is drunk,
like a fellow mastered by wine,
on account of Yahweh,
on account of his holy words.
10 For the land is full of adulterers;
because of the curse[d] the land mourns;
the pastures of the wilderness are dried up.
Their course is evil,
and their might is not right.
11 "For both prophet and priest are godless;
even in my house I have found their wickedness," declares Yahweh.
12 "So their path will become like slippery ground in the dark;

they will be pushed and fall on it;
for I will bring disaster on them
in the year I punish them," declares Yahweh.
13 "In Samaria's prophets
I observed something distasteful:
they spoke oracles by Baal
and misled Israel my people.
14 Yet in Jerusalem's prophets
I have observed something appalling:
adultery and a life of lies;
they bolster the power of the wicked,
so that none turns back from his wickedness;
to me they are all like Sodom,
and her people like Gomorrah."
15 So Yahweh of Armies pronounces this about the prophets:
"I will make them eat wormwood
and drink water laced with poison,
for out of the prophets of Jerusalem
ungodliness has spread over the whole land."
16 So says Yahweh of Armies:
"Do not listen to the words of the prophets who prophesy to you;
they are filling you with vapor.[e]
They speak a vision from their own heart,
not from the mouth of Yahweh.
17 They keep saying to those who despise me,
'Yahweh has said, "You shall have peace"';
and to everyone who walks in the stubbornness of his heart they say,
'No calamity will come upon you.'" 18 For who has stood in the council[f] of Yahweh
to see and to hear his word?
Who has paid attention to his word and listened?
19 See, Yahweh's tempest!
Fury is unleashed,

a spinning gale;
on the heads of the wicked it will crash.
20 Yahweh's anger will not turn away until he has carried out
the purposes of his mind.
In days to come
you will understand this fully.
21 "I never dispatched those prophets,
yet off they ran;
I never spoke to them,
yet they uttered prophecy.
22 But if they had attended my council,
they would have announced my words to my people
and turned them away from their evil ways
and evil deeds.
23 "Am I a God near at hand," declares Yahweh,
"and not a God far off?
24 Can a man hide himself in secret places
so that I cannot see him?" declares Yahweh.
"Do I not fill the heavens and the earth?" declares Yahweh.
25 "I have heard what the prophets have said who prophesy falsehood in my name, saying, 'I have dreamed, I have dreamed!' 26 How long? Is it in the heart of the prophets who prophesy falsehood, the prophets of the deceit of their own heart— 27 They intend to make my people forget my name through the dreams they tell each other, just as their ancestors forgot my name through Baal. 28 The prophet who has a dream—let him recount his dream; but the one who holds my word —let him relate my word with fidelity. What does chaff have to do with grain?" declares Yahweh. 29 "Is my word not like a fire," declares Yahweh, "and like a hammer that breaks a rock apart? 30 "Therefore look, I am against the prophets," declares Yahweh, "who take my words from one another. 31 Look, I am against the prophets," declares Yahweh, "who use their tongues and declare, 'He declares.' 32 Mark well, I am against those whose prophecies are false dreams," declares Yahweh, "who recount them and mislead my people with their falsehoods and their wild boasting, though I never sent or commissioned them; not the slightest benefit do they bring this people," declares Yahweh.

33 "Whenever this people, or a prophet, or a priest asks you, 'What is Yahweh's load?'[g] answer them, 'You are the load, and I will throw you off,' declares Yahweh. 34 And the prophet, priest, or commoner who says, 'Yahweh's load'—that man and his house I will call to account. 35 This is what each of you should say to his neighbor and relative: 'What did Yahweh reply?' or 'What has Yahweh said?' 36 But never again bring up 'Yahweh's load,' for each man's own word becomes his load, and you twist the words of the living God, Yahweh of Armies, our God. 37 Thus you shall say to the prophet: 'What has Yahweh answered you?' or 'What has Yahweh spoken?' 38 Yet if you persist in saying, 'Yahweh's load,' then here is what Yahweh says: 'Since you use this phrase, "Yahweh's load," though I sent word to you forbidding you to say, "Yahweh's load," 39 for that reason I will indeed lift you up[h] and fling you out of my sight, you along with the city I bestowed on you and your ancestors. 40 I will lay on you a disgrace that lasts forever, a humiliation without end, never to be forgotten.'"

Notes

- a (23:5) Hebrew tsemaḥ, "sprout, shoot," a title for the coming king from David's line (33:15; Zechariah 3:8; 6:12).
- b (23:6) Hebrew Yahweh tsidqenu, perhaps a play on the name of King Zedekiah, tsidqiyyahu, "Yahweh is my righteousness." The Septuagint renders the name as "Josedec" (Brenton), a personal name.
- c (23:8) The Septuagint places verses 7–8 after verse 40 (Brenton, printed as 23:40a–b). Verses 7–8 nearly repeat 16:14–15.
- d (23:10) Or, with some ancient witnesses, "because of these things."
- e (23:16) Hebrew hevel, "breath, vapor"; they fill you with empty hopes.
- f (23:18) Hebrew sod, the council of heavenly beings around Yahweh (compare 1 Kings 22:19–22).
- g (23:33) Hebrew massaʾ means both "load, burden" and "oracle, utterance" (literally, something "lifted" by the voice). Verses 33–40 play on the double meaning. "You are the load" follows the Septuagint ("You are the burden," Brenton) and the Latin Vulgate; the standard Hebrew text reads "What load?" (ʾeth-mah-massaʾ), a difference only in word division.

- h (23:39) Hebrew nashithi naso', "I will utterly forget," is read by some Hebrew manuscripts and ancient witnesses as nasa'thi naso', "I will surely lift up," continuing the play on massa'.

Chapter 24

1 Yahweh showed me this: two baskets of figs were set in front of Yahweh's temple. This was after Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had deported Jeconiah[a] son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, from Jerusalem, along with the officials of Judah, the skilled workers and the metalworkers,[b] and brought them to Babylon. 2 One basket held very fine figs, like first-ripe figs; the other basket held very bad figs, so bad they could not be eaten. 3 Then Yahweh asked me, "What do you see, Jeremiah?" I replied, "Figs—the good ones very good, and the bad ones very bad, too bad to be eaten."
4 Then Yahweh's word came to me: 5 "This is what Yahweh, the God of Israel, says: Like these good figs, I will treat as good the exiles of Judah, whom I sent away from this place to the land of the Chaldeans.
6 I will keep my eyes on them for good and bring them back to this land. I will build them and not tear them down; I will plant them and not uproot them. 7 I will give them a heart to know me, that I am Yahweh. They will be my people and I will be their God, for they will return to me with all their heart.
8 "But like the bad figs, which are too bad to be eaten—so says Yahweh
—so will I treat Zedekiah king of Judah, his officials, the remnant of Jerusalem left in this land, and those who live in the land of Egypt. 9 I will make them a horror, a calamity[c] to all the kingdoms of the earth, a reproach, a byword, a taunt, and a curse in all the places where I drive them. 10 And I will send among them sword, famine, and plague, until they are wiped out from the soil I gave to them and to their fathers."

Notes

- a (24:1) Jeconiah, another form of the name Jehoiachin (see the note at 22:24). The deportation took place in 597 B.C. (2 Kings 24:10–16).
- b (24:1) Or "the smiths"; the Hebrew masger may mean "locksmith" or "fortifier."
- c (24:9) Hebrew "a horror for calamity." The Septuagint reads, "I will cause them to be dispersed into all the kingdoms of the earth" (Brenton), and lacks "calamity."

Chapter 25

1 The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah (that was the first year of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon),[a] 2 which Jeremiah the prophet spoke to all the people of Judah and all the residents of Jerusalem: 3 "From the thirteenth year of Josiah son of Amon, king of Judah, until this day—these twenty-three years—Yahweh's word has come to me, and I have spoken to you, early and persistently, but you have not listened. 4 And Yahweh sent you all his servants the prophets, early and persistently, but you did not listen or incline your ear to hear, 5 when they said, 'Turn now, each of you, from his evil way and his evil deeds, and dwell on the soil that Yahweh gave to you and your fathers from of old and forever. 6 Do not go after other gods to serve them and bow down to them, and do not provoke me with the work of your hands; then I will do you no harm.' 7 Yet you did not listen to me, declares Yahweh, so as to provoke me with the work of your hands to your own harm.[b] 8 "Therefore so says Yahweh of Armies: Because you have not obeyed my words, 9 mark this, I am summoning every northern clan, declares Yahweh, and Nebuchadrezzar, Babylon's king, my servant,[c] and I will lead them against this land and those who live in it, and against all the surrounding nations. I will put them under the ban[d] and turn them into an object of dread, of whistling, and of perpetual ruin. 10 I will silence among them the noise of merriment and the noise of joy, the bridegroom's voice and the bride's voice, the grinding of the hand mill and the glow of the lamp. 11 This whole land will become a ruin and a horror, and these nations will serve the king of Babylon seventy years.[e] 12 Then when seventy years are completed, I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation, declares Yahweh, for their guilt—the land of the Chaldeans—and make it a desolation forever. 13 I will bring upon that country everything I have said about it, everything recorded in this book, which Jeremiah prophesied about all the nations.[f] 14 For many nations and great kings shall enslave them also, and I will repay them according to their deeds and the work of their hands."[g]

15 For this is what Yahweh, Israel's God, told me: "Accept from my hand this cup brimming with the wine of fury, and give it to every nation I send you to, that they may drink. 16 They shall drink and stagger and act crazed because of the sword I am sending among them." 17 So I took the cup from Yahweh's hand and gave it to all the nations Yahweh had sent me to, to drink: 18 Jerusalem and the towns of Judah, its kings and its officials, to make them a ruin, a horror, a thing to hiss at, and a curse, as it is this day; 19 Pharaoh, Egypt's king, with his attendants, his nobles, and his whole nation; 20 all the mixed peoples;[h] all the kings of the land of Uz;[i] all the kings of the land of the Philistines—Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod; 21 Edom, Moab, and the sons of Ammon; 22 all the kings of Tyre, all the kings of Sidon, and the kings of the coastland across the sea; 23 Dedan, Tema, Buz, and all who clip the corners of their hair; 24 all the kings of Arabia and all the kings of the mixed peoples who dwell in the wilderness; 25 all the kings of Zimri,[j] all the kings of Elam, and all the kings of Media; 26 and all the kings of the north, near and far, one after another—all the kingdoms on earth. After them the king of Sheshach[k] will drink.
27 "Then tell them, 'This is what Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Drink, get drunk and throw up, fall and never get up again, because of the sword I am sending among you.' 28 And if they refuse to take the cup from your hand to drink, say to them, 'So says Yahweh of Armies: You must drink! 29 For, consider: on the very city that bears my name I am starting to bring disaster; and will you go scot-free?
Not scot-free will you go, for I am calling down a sword on everyone who lives on the earth, declares Yahweh of Armies.' 30 "You, then, prophesy against them all these words, and say to them:
'Yahweh roars from on high;
from his holy dwelling he utters his voice;
he roars mightily against his pasture;
a shout like those who tread grapes
he raises against all the inhabitants of the earth.
31 The tumult reaches to the ends of the earth,
for Yahweh has a lawsuit with the nations;

he enters into judgment with all flesh;
the wicked he gives over to the sword,
declares Yahweh.'
32 "So says Yahweh of Armies:
Look, calamity goes forth
from nation to nation,
and a great storm is stirred up
from the farthest parts of the earth.
33 And those slain by Yahweh on that day will be from one end of the earth to the other end of the earth. They will not be mourned, gathered, or buried; they will be dung on the face of the ground.
34 "Wail, you shepherds, and cry out;
roll in the dust, you lords of the flock,
for your days for slaughter have come,
and you will be scattered,[l]
and you will fall like a precious vessel.
35 Flight will fail the shepherds,
and escape the lords of the flock.
36 Listen—the cry of the shepherds,
the wail of the lords of the flock!
For Yahweh is ravaging their pasture,
37 and the peaceful folds are laid waste
because of the fierce anger of Yahweh.
38 He has quit his thicket like a lion,
for their country has turned into a wasteland
before the sword of the oppressor[m]
and before his burning anger."

Notes

- a (25:1) That is, 605 B.C., the year of the battle of Carchemish (46:2). The Septuagint lacks the parenthesis (Brenton).
- b (25:7) The Septuagint lacks most of verse 7, reading only, "But you did not listen to me" (Brenton, modernized).
- c (25:9) The Septuagint lacks "and for Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, my servant" and reads "a family from the north" (Brenton). In the shorter Greek text, the foe from the north is not named here.
- d (25:9) Hebrew ḥerem, the ban of total destruction in holy war.

- e (25:11) The seventy years are reckoned in different ways: from 605 B.C. to the fall of Babylon in 539 B.C., or from the destruction of the temple in 586 B.C. to its rebuilding in 516 B.C. (compare 29:10; 2 Chronicles 36:21; Daniel 9:2; Zechariah 1:12). The Septuagint lacks "the king of Babylon" in verse 11 and "the king of Babylon and" in verse 12 (Brenton).
- f (25:13) In the Septuagint, verse 13 ends at "written in this book," and the next words introduce the oracles against the nations, beginning with Elam (Brenton: "The Prophecies of Jeremias against the Nations of Ælam"). These oracles, which stand at chapters 46–51 in the Hebrew, follow at this point in the Greek. See the introductory note.
- g (25:14) The Septuagint lacks verse 14 (Brenton). The Greek resumes with verse 15 as chapter 32 in Brenton's numbering.
- h (25:20) Or "all the foreign people"; Hebrew ʿerev, perhaps foreign mercenaries or settlers.
- i (25:20) The Septuagint lacks "all the kings of the land of Uz" (Brenton). Uz is a region east or southeast of Israel, the home of Job (Job 1:1).
- j (25:25) Zimri is otherwise unknown; it may be a cipher like Sheshach (verse 26), or a corruption. The Septuagint lacks it (Brenton).
- k (25:26) Sheshach is a cipher for Babel (Babylon), formed by atbash, a scribal code that replaces each Hebrew letter with its counterpart from the other end of the alphabet (aleph with taw, beth with shin, and so on): b-b-l becomes sh-sh-k. See also 51:41. The Septuagint lacks this sentence (Brenton).
- l (25:34) Hebrew uncertain; some read "and I will shatter you."
- m (25:38) So some Hebrew manuscripts (compare 46:16; 50:16); the Septuagint has "the great sword" (Brenton); the standard Hebrew text reads "the oppressor's fury," with "fury" repeated in the next line.

Chapter 26

1 At the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah,[a] this word came from Yahweh: 2 "So says Yahweh: Take your stand in the court of Yahweh's house and speak to all the towns of Judah that come to bow down in Yahweh's house all the words I command you to speak to them; hold back not a word. 3 Perhaps they will listen, and each will turn from his evil way, so that I may relent of the calamity I am planning to bring on them because of their evil deeds. 4 Say to them, 'So says Yahweh: If you will not listen to me, to walk in my law that I have set before you, 5 and to heed the words of my servants the prophets whom I send to you early and persistently, though you have not listened, 6 then I will make this house like Shiloh, and I will make this city an example of a curse for all the nations on earth.'" 7 The priests, the prophets, and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in Yahweh's house. 8 When Jeremiah had said all that Yahweh ordered him to tell the people, the priests, the prophets and everyone else seized him and said, "You are going to die! 9 Why did you prophesy in Yahweh's name that this house will become like Shiloh and this city will be destroyed and left uninhabited?" And all the people gathered around Jeremiah in Yahweh's house.

10 When the officials of Judah heard of these things, they went up from the king's palace to Yahweh's house and took their seats at the entrance of the New Gate of Yahweh's house. 11 Then the priests and the prophets told the officials and everyone else, "This man deserves the death penalty, since he has prophesied against this city, as you yourselves have heard."
12 Jeremiah then addressed all the officials and the whole populace: "It was Yahweh who sent me to prophesy against this house and this city every word you have heard. 13 So now, mend your conduct and your actions, and heed the voice of Yahweh your God; then Yahweh will think better of the disaster he has decreed for you. 14 As for me, I am in your power; do to me whatever you think is good and right. 15 Only know for certain that if you put me to death, you will bring innocent blood on yourselves, on this city, and on its residents, for in truth Yahweh sent me to you to speak all these words in your hearing." 16 At that the officials and all the populace told the priests and prophets, "No death sentence is due this man, since it is in the name of Yahweh our God that he has addressed us." 17 And some of the elders of the land rose up and spoke to the whole assembly of the people:
18 "Micah of Moresheth[b] was a prophet in the time of Hezekiah king of Judah. He said to all the people of Judah, 'This is what Yahweh of Armies says:

Zion will be plowed like a field;

19 Did Hezekiah king of Judah and all Judah put him to death? Did he not fear Yahweh and entreat the favor of Yahweh, and did not Yahweh relent of the calamity he had pronounced against them? But we are about to bring great calamity on ourselves."

20 There was also a man who prophesied in Yahweh's name, Uriah son of Shemaiah from Kiriath-jearim. He prophesied against this city and this land in words like all those of Jeremiah. 21 King Jehoiakim, along with all his fighting men and every official, heard what he said, and the king set out to have him killed. Uriah got word of it; in fear he ran off and reached Egypt. 22 Then King Jehoiakim sent men to Egypt—Elnathan son of Achbor[c] and others with him. 23 These fetched Uriah back from Egypt and delivered him to King Jehoiakim, who cut him down with a sword and flung his body among the burial plots of the common folk. 24 Yet Ahikam son of Shaphan[d] stood by Jeremiah and protected him, so that he was not handed over to the mob to be killed.

Notes

- a (26:1) That is, about 609 B.C. This chapter narrates the occasion and outcome of the temple sermon given more fully in 7:1–15.
- b (26:18) Micah of Moresheth, the prophet whose book stands among the Twelve; the quotation is Micah 3:12. Micah means "Who is like Yahweh?"
- c (26:22) Elnathan ("God has given") was perhaps the father of Nehushta, Jehoiachin's mother (2 Kings 24:8). The Septuagint lacks "Elnathan son of Achbor and others with him" (Brenton).
- d (26:24) Ahikam son of Shaphan, an official under Josiah (2 Kings 22:12) and father of Gedaliah, later governor of Judah (40:5).

Chapter 27

1 At the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah[a] son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from Yahweh: 2 This is what Yahweh told me: "Fashion for yourself thongs and wooden yoke bars, and set them upon your neck. 3 Then dispatch them[b] to Edom's king, Moab's king, the Ammonites' king, Tyre's king, and Sidon's king, through the emissaries who have arrived in Jerusalem to meet Zedekiah, Judah's king. 4 Give them a charge for their lords: 'Thus speaks Yahweh of Armies, Israel's God—tell this to your lords: 5 By my great power and outstretched arm I made the earth, together with the people and animals on it, and I give it to anyone I choose. 6 And now I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar

king of Babylon, my servant; even the beasts of the field I have given him to serve him. 7 All the nations shall serve him and his son and his grandson, until the time of his own land comes; then many nations and great kings shall make him their servant.[c] 8 "If any nation or kingdom refuses to serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and refuses to bend its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, I will punish that nation with sword, famine and plague, declares Yahweh, until I have finished them off through him. 9 So pay no heed to your prophets or your diviners, to your dreamers,[d] your fortune-tellers, or your sorcerers, who keep assuring you, "You will never be subject to Babylon's king." 10 A falsehood is what they prophesy to you, and it will only get you removed far from your homeland; I will banish you, and you will be lost. 11 But the nation that brings its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon and serves him, I will leave on its own soil, declares Yahweh, to till it and dwell in it.'"

12 To Zedekiah king of Judah I spoke in the same way: "Bring your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people, and live. 13 Why must you and your people perish by sword, starvation, and pestilence, as Yahweh has threatened against every nation that refuses to be subject to Babylon's king?[e] 14 Do not listen to the words of the prophets who keep telling you, 'You shall not serve the king of Babylon,' for it is a lie they prophesy to you. 15 I never sent them, declares Yahweh; yet they prophesy lies under my name, and so I will banish you and you will be lost, both you and the prophets prophesying to you."

16 Next I addressed the priests and this whole people: "So says Yahweh: Pay no heed to what your prophets prophesy to you, 'Look, any day now the furnishings of Yahweh's house will be returned from Babylon,' for a falsehood is what they prophesy to you. 17 Do not listen to them. Serve the king of Babylon and live. Why should this city become a ruin?[f] 18 If they are prophets, and if Yahweh's word is with them, let them now intercede with Yahweh of Armies, that the vessels left in Yahweh's house, in the palace of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem may not go to Babylon. 19 For Yahweh of Armies has spoken about the columns,[g] the bronze sea, the wheeled bases, and whatever other furnishings remain in this city, 20 which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon did not take when he carried Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon, with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem— 21 so says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel, concerning the vessels left in Yahweh's house, in the palace of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem:[h] 22 'To Babylon they shall be carried, and there they shall remain until the day I attend to them, declares Yahweh. Then I will bring them up and restore them to this place.'"

Notes

- a (27:1) So a few Hebrew manuscripts and the Syriac (compare verses 3 and 12 and 28:1); the standard Hebrew text reads "Jehoiakim," probably by copying from 26:1. The Septuagint lacks verse 1 (Brenton). The likely date is 594–593 B.C. (28:1).
- b (27:3) Hebrew "send them." Jeremiah's symbolic yoke is described in 28:10–11.
- c (27:7) The Septuagint lacks verse 7 (Brenton).
- d (27:9) Hebrew "your dreams."
- e (27:13) The Septuagint lacks verse 13 (Brenton). Its text of verses 12–22 is markedly shorter throughout.
- f (27:17) The Septuagint lacks verse 17 (Brenton).
- g (27:19) The two bronze pillars, Jachin and Boaz, the great bronze basin called "the sea," and the wheeled stands made for Solomon's temple (1 Kings 7:15–39). The Septuagint lacks this list, reading only "And as for the remaining vessels" (Brenton).
- h (27:21) The Septuagint lacks verse 21 and the last sentence of verse 22, ending, "they shall go into Babylon, says the Lord" (Brenton, modernized).

Chapter 28

1 In that same year, at the start of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year,[a] in the fifth month (in July–August),[b] the prophet Hananiah[c] son of Azzur, from Gibeon, addressed me in Yahweh's house before the priests and all the people: 2 "So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: I have broken the yoke of Babylon's king. 3 Within two years' time I will bring back to this place all the furnishings of Yahweh's house that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon removed from this place and carried to Babylon. 4 I will also bring back to this place Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the exiles of Judah who went to Babylon, declares Yahweh, for I will smash the yoke of the king of Babylon."

5 Then Jeremiah the prophet answered Hananiah the prophet in the presence of the priests and of all the people standing in Yahweh's house. 6 Jeremiah the prophet said, "Amen! May Yahweh do so! May Yahweh fulfill the words you have prophesied and bring back from Babylon to this place the furnishings of Yahweh's house and all the exiles. 7 Nevertheless, give ear to this word that I am declaring to you and to the whole people listening: 8 The prophets who lived before you and me long ago prophesied war, disaster and plague against many countries and great kingdoms. 9 As for the prophet who prophesies peace, when that prophet's word comes to pass, then it will be known that Yahweh truly sent him."
10 Then the prophet Hananiah removed the yoke bar from the prophet Jeremiah's neck and broke it. 11 And Hananiah spoke before all the people: "So says Yahweh: Just so will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon from the neck of all the nations within two years' time." And Jeremiah the prophet went his way.
12 Some time after the prophet Hananiah had broken the yoke bar that was on the prophet Jeremiah's neck, Yahweh's word came to Jeremiah: 13 "Go and tell Hananiah, 'So says Yahweh: Yoke bars of wood you have broken, but in their place you will make[d] yoke bars of iron. 14 For so says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: A yoke of iron
I have put on the neck of all these nations to serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and they shall serve him; even the beasts of the field I have given him.'" 15 Jeremiah the prophet then told Hananiah the prophet, "Hear me, Hananiah! Yahweh never sent you, and you have led this people to rely on falsehood. 16 Therefore so says Yahweh:
Look, I am sending you off[e] from the face of the earth. This very year you will die, because you have spoken rebellion against Yahweh." 17
And Hananiah the prophet died that same year, in the seventh month
(in September–October).[f]

Notes

- a (28:1) That is, 594–593 B.C. The Septuagint reads simply "in the fourth year of Zedekiah king of Judah" (Brenton, modernized).
- b (28:1) Hebrew "the fifth month," Av.

- c (28:1) Hananiah, "Yahweh has been gracious." The Septuagint calls him "the false prophet" (Brenton), here and elsewhere in the chapter.
- d (28:13) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "I will make" (Brenton: "but I will make instead of them yokes of iron").
- e (28:16) Hebrew meshallḥakha, a play on the verb "send" (shalaḥ) in verse 15: Yahweh did not send Hananiah as a prophet, but he will send him off the earth.
- f (28:17) Hebrew "the seventh month," Tishri, about two months after the confrontation of verse 1. The Septuagint lacks "that same year" (Brenton).

Chapter 29

1 These are the words of the letter that Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem to the surviving elders of the exiles, to the priests, the prophets, and all the people whom Nebuchadnezzar had carried into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon. 2 This was after King Jeconiah had left Jerusalem, along with the queen mother, the court officials,[a] Judah's and Jerusalem's leaders, and the craftsmen and metalworkers.
3 The letter went by the hand of Elasah son of Shaphan and Gemariah son of Hilkiah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah dispatched to Babylon, to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. It read:
4 "So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel, to all the exiles whom I have exiled from Jerusalem to Babylon: 5 Build houses and settle in them; plant gardens and eat what they produce. 6 Take wives and father sons and daughters; take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, that they may bear sons and daughters.
Multiply there; do not dwindle. 7 And seek the welfare[b] of the city where I have exiled you, and pray to Yahweh on its behalf, for in its welfare will be your welfare. 8 For so says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: Do not let the prophets and the diviners among you deceive you, and pay no attention to the dreams you have them dream,[c] 9 for it is a lie they are prophesying to you in my name. I did not send them,
declares Yahweh.
10 "For so says Yahweh: Only when seventy years for Babylon are completed will I attend to you, and I will fulfill for you my good word, to bring you back to this place. 11 For I know the plans I have for you, declares Yahweh—plans for well-being and not for disaster, to give you a future with hope.[d] 12 Then you will cry out to me; you will come and pray to me, and I will hear you. 13 You will seek me and find me, when you search for me with all your heart. 14 Found by you I will be, declares Yahweh; I will turn your captivity around and collect you out of every nation and every place to which I banished you, declares Yahweh, and lead you home to the place from which I sent you into exile.[e] 15 "You have claimed, 'Yahweh has appointed prophets for us in Babylon'— 16 this is what Yahweh says about the king who sits on David's throne and about all the people who live in this city, your relatives who did not go into exile with you:[f] 17 So says Yahweh of Armies: Look, I am sending among them sword, famine, and plague, and I will make them like rotten figs, too bad to be eaten. 18 I will pursue them with sword, famine, and plague, and I will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, a curse, a desolation, a thing to hiss at, and a reproach among all the nations where I have driven them, 19 because they did not heed my words, declares Yahweh, which I sent to them by my servants the prophets, early and persistently; and you too would not listen, declares Yahweh. 20 Hear, then, Yahweh's word, all you exiles whom I sent away from Jerusalem to Babylon: 21 This is what Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel, says about Ahab son of Kolaiah and Zedekiah son of Maaseiah, who are prophesying lies to you in my name: Look, I will deliver them to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and you will see him execute them. 22 Because of them, all the exiles from Judah in Babylon will use this curse: 'May Yahweh make you like Zedekiah and Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted over a fire,'[g] 23 For they committed folly in Israel, sleeping with their neighbors' wives and speaking in my name falsehoods I never charged them to speak. I know it, and I bear witness, declares Yahweh."

24 To Shemaiah the Nehelamite[h] you shall say: 25 "So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: Because you have sent letters in your own name to all the people in Jerusalem, to Zephaniah son of Maaseiah
the priest, and to all the priests, saying, 26 'Yahweh has appointed you priest in place of Jehoiada the priest, to be in charge in Yahweh's house of every madman who acts like a prophet, and to put such a person in the stocks and neck irons. 27 Now then, why have you not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth, who is prophesying to you? 28 For he has sent to us in Babylon, saying, “It will be long; build houses and settle in them, and plant gardens and eat what they produce.”’” 29 Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the hearing of Jeremiah the prophet. 30 Then Yahweh’s word came to Jeremiah: 31 “Send word to all the exiles: ‘So says Yahweh about Shemaiah the Nehelamite: Since Shemaiah prophesied to you though I never sent him, and led you to rely on falsehood, 32 therefore so says Yahweh: Look, I will punish Shemaiah the Nehelamite and his offspring. He shall have no man dwelling among this people to see the good I will do to my people, declares Yahweh, for he has spoken rebellion against Yahweh.’”

Notes

- a (29:2) Hebrew sarisim, often “eunuchs,” but also a general title for court officials.
- b (29:7) Hebrew shalom, “peace, welfare, wholeness,” three times in this verse.
- c (29:8) Hebrew “your dreams that you cause to be dreamed”; the Septuagint reads “your dreams which you dream” (Brenton, modernized).
- d (29:11) Hebrew “an end (aḥarith) and a hope,” that is, a hopeful future.
- e (29:14) The Septuagint lacks most of verse 14, reading only “And I will appear to you” (Brenton).
- f (29:16) The Septuagint lacks verses 16–20 (Brenton).
- g (29:22) Hebrew qalam, “roasted,” a play on qelalah, “curse,” and on the name Kolaiah (verse 21).
- h (29:24) Nehelamite, perhaps “of Nehelam,” an unknown place; it may also suggest ḥalam, “to dream.”

Chapter 30

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh: 2 “So says Yahweh, God of Israel: Write down in a scroll[a] every word I have spoken to you. 3 For look, days are coming, declares Yahweh, when I will turn back the captivity of my people, Israel and Judah, says Yahweh, and lead them home to the land I gave their fathers, and they will take possession of it.”
4 These are the words Yahweh spoke concerning Israel and Judah:
5 So says Yahweh:

“A cry of panic we have heard,
of dread, and no peace.

6 Ask now and consider:
can a male give birth?
Why then do I see every man
with his hands on his loins like a woman in labor,
every face turned ashen?
7 Alas! For that day is great,
with none like it;
a season of distress it is for Jacob,
yet out of it he will be saved.
8 "On that day, declares Yahweh of Armies,
I will snap the yoke from off your[b] neck,
and your thongs I will tear apart,
and foreigners will no longer make him their slave.
9 Instead they will serve Yahweh their God
and David their king,
whom I will raise up for them.
10 "But you, fear not, O Jacob my servant, declares Yahweh,
and do not lose heart, O Israel;
for look, I will rescue you from far away,
your offspring from the land of their captivity.
Jacob will come home and be at rest, untroubled,
with none to make him afraid.
11 For beside you I stand, declares Yahweh, to deliver you;
an utter finish I will make of every nation
where I dispersed you,
yet you I will not utterly finish.
With fairness I will discipline you;
unpunished I will not let you go.[c]
12 "For so says Yahweh:
Your fracture cannot be mended;
your wound is past cure.
13 No one pleads your case;
for a sore there is remedy,
but no new flesh for you.[d]

14 All your lovers have forgotten you;
they do not seek you out;
for I struck you with an enemy's blow,
the chastisement of a cruel one,
because your guilt is great,
because your sins are many.
15 Why cry out over your fracture,
your pain past cure?
Because your guilt is great,
because your sins are many,
I have done these things to you.[e]
16 So everyone who devours you will be devoured,
and all your enemies will be taken into exile;
those who rob you will themselves be robbed,
and all who plunder you I will give over to plunder.
17 For fresh skin I will grow over you,
and of your wounds I will cure you, declares Yahweh,
since "Castaway" they have named you:
"That is Zion, whom nobody seeks!"
18 "So says Yahweh:
Look, I will turn back the captivity of Jacob's tents
and have compassion on his dwellings;
the city will be rebuilt on its mound,[f]
and the citadel will stand where it rightly belongs.
19 From them will come songs of thanksgiving
and the sound of those who make merry.
I will multiply them, and they will not be few;
I will bring them honor, and they will not be small.
20 His sons will be as in days of old,
and his congregation will be established before me,
and I will punish all who oppress him.
21 Their leader will come from among them,
their ruler will arise from their own number.
I will let him come close and approach me,

for who would risk his life
to approach me? declares Yahweh.
22 And you will be my people,
and I will be your God."[g]
23 Look, the storm of Yahweh!
Fury goes out,
a sweeping tempest;
it will whirl down on the head of the wicked.
24 The burning anger of Yahweh will not turn back until he has carried out and accomplished
the purposes of his heart.
In the latter days
you will understand this.[h]

Notes

- a (30:2) Chapters 30–31 are often called "the Book of Consolation."
- b (30:8) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "their neck" (Brenton).
- c (30:11) The Septuagint lacks verses 10–11 (Brenton); they appear again at 46:27–28, where the Septuagint has them.
- d (30:13) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain.
- e (30:15) The Septuagint lacks verse 15 (Brenton).
- f (30:18) Hebrew tel, a mound of ruins built up from earlier settlements.
- g (30:22) The Septuagint lacks verse 22 (Brenton).
- h (30:24) Verses 23–24 nearly repeat 23:19–20.

Chapter 31

1 "In that time, declares Yahweh, I will be God to all the clans of Israel, and they shall be a people to me."
2 So says Yahweh:
"Favor in the wilderness was found
by a people escaped from the sword;
Israel went on its way to find rest.[a] 3 From far off Yahweh appeared to me:[b]
'With a love of old ages I have loved you;
that is why I have drawn you on with steadfast kindness.
4 Again I will build you, and built you shall be,
O virgin Israel!

Again you will take up your tambourines
and go forth in the dance of merrymakers.
5 Again you will plant vineyards
on Samaria's hills;
the planters will plant
and enjoy the fruit.
6 For a day comes when watchmen will call out on the hill country of Ephraim,
"Up, let us go to Zion,
to Yahweh our God!""
7 For this is what Yahweh says:
"Sing joyfully for Jacob;
shout for the foremost of the nations;
proclaim it, praise and say,
'Yahweh, rescue your people,
the survivors of Israel!'
8 Look, I am bringing them from the north country
and gathering them from the far reaches of the earth,
among them the blind and the lame,
the woman with child and the one in labor together;
a great throng, they will return here.
9 Weeping they shall come;
amid their supplications I will conduct them;
by brooks of water I will walk them,
along a straight track where none trips;
for to Israel I am father,
and Ephraim—my firstborn he is.
10 "Nations, listen to Yahweh's word
and tell it in the distant coastlands;
say, 'The one who scattered Israel will gather them
and watch over them like a shepherd over his flock.'
11 For Yahweh has ransomed Jacob
and redeemed him from a hand too strong for him.
12 They will come and shout for joy on Zion's height and stream toward the goodness of Yahweh—

toward grain, new wine, and oil,
and the young of flock and herd;
their life will be like a well-watered garden,
and they will languish no more.
13 Then the virgin will rejoice in the dance,
young men and old together;
I will turn their mourning into gladness;
I will comfort them and give them joy in place of sorrow.
14 I will drench the priests' souls with abundance, and my people will be filled with my goodness, declares Yahweh."
15 So says Yahweh:
"A voice in Ramah is heard,
lamentation, bitter weeping:
Rachel[c] weeping over her children,
refusing to be comforted over her children,
because they are no more."
16 So says Yahweh:
"Hold back your voice from weeping
and your eyes from tears,
for there is a reward for your labor, declares Yahweh;
they will return from the land of the enemy.
17 There is hope for your future, declares Yahweh;
your children will return to their own territory.
18 "Clearly I have heard Ephraim rocking with grief:
'You disciplined me, and I took the discipline,
like a calf untrained to the yoke.
Bring me back, that I may come back,
for you are Yahweh my God.
19 After I turned away, I felt regret;
after I came to understand, I beat my chest;
I was ashamed and humiliated,
because I carried the disgrace of my youth.'
20 Is Ephraim a dear son to me?
A child of delight?
For as often as I speak against him,

I remember him still.
Therefore my inmost parts yearn for him;
I will surely have compassion on him, declares Yahweh.
21 Plant waymarks for yourself;
erect guideposts;
fix your thoughts on the causeway,
the route you once traveled.
Turn back, virgin Israel;
turn back to these towns of yours.
22 How long will you waver,
O faithless daughter?
For Yahweh has created a new thing in the land:
a female surrounds a man."[d]
23 So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: "Once more they will use this saying in the land of Judah and in its cities, when I restore their fortunes:
'Yahweh bless you, abode of righteousness,
O holy mountain!'
24 And Judah and all its cities will dwell in it together, the farmers and those who wander with flocks.
25 For the exhausted soul I will revive, and each drooping soul I will fill full."
26 Upon this I woke and saw; pleasant to me my sleep had been.[e]
27 "Look, days are coming, declares Yahweh, when I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with the seed of man and the seed of beast.
28 And as I watched over them to uproot and to tear down, to overthrow, to destroy, and to bring harm, so I will watch over them to build and to plant, declares Yahweh.
29 In those days they will no longer say,
'The fathers ate sour grapes,
and the children's teeth are set on edge.'
30 Instead, everyone will die for his own sin; whoever eats sour grapes will have his own teeth set on edge.

31 “Look, the days are coming, declares Yahweh, when I will make a new covenant[f] with the people of Israel and the people of Judah
— 32 unlike the covenant I cut with their ancestors when I took hold of their hand to lead them out from Egypt’s land—that covenant of mine they shattered, even though I was master over them,[g] declares Yahweh. 33 For this is the covenant I will cut with the house of Israel
after those days, declares Yahweh: I will set my law[h] within them, and upon their heart I will write it; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. 34 And no longer will each one teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, ‘Know Yahweh,’ for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, declares Yahweh; for I will forgive their guilt, and their sin I will remember no more.”
35 So says Yahweh,[i] giver of the sun to light the daytime,
of the statutes of moon and stars to light the night,
who churns the sea till its breakers thunder—
Yahweh of Armies his name is:
36 “If this fixed order departs from before me, declares Yahweh,
then also the offspring of Israel will cease
from being a nation before me for all time.”
37 So says Yahweh:
“If the heavens above can be measured,
and the foundations of the earth below be searched out,
then I too will reject all the offspring of Israel
for all they have done, declares Yahweh.” 38 “Look, the days are coming,[j] declares Yahweh, when Yahweh’s city will be rebuilt, stretching from the Tower of Hananel to the Corner Gate. 39 Further still the measuring cord will run, directly to Gareb’s hill, then bend around toward Goah. 40 The entire vale of carcasses and ashes[k] and every terrace down to the Kidron gorge, as far as the Horse Gate’s corner on the east, shall be holiness to Yahweh. Never again will it be plucked up or thrown down.”

Notes

- a (31:2) The Hebrew of verse 2 is difficult; it may refer to the exodus generation. The Septuagint reads "I found him warm in the wilderness with them that were slain with the sword" (Brenton).
- b (31:3) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "to him" (Brenton: "The Lord appeared to him from far").
- c (31:15) Rachel, "ewe." The wife of Jacob and mother of Joseph and Benjamin, buried near Ramah (compare 1 Samuel 10:2); here she mourns her descendants carried away. Matthew 2:18 cites this verse.
- d (31:22) The meaning of "a female surrounds a man" is uncertain and much debated. The Septuagint reads very differently: "for the Lord has created safety for a new plantation: men shall go about in safety" (Brenton). Item for scholarly review.
- e (31:26) Perhaps the prophet's words on waking from a revelatory dream.
- f (31:31) Hebrew "cut a covenant," the idiom for making a covenant, perhaps from the ritual of cutting animals (compare 34:18). The Septuagint reads "make a new covenant" (Brenton). Hebrews 8:8–12 cites verses 31–34 from the Greek.
- g (31:32) Hebrew ba'alti, "I was husband (or master)"; the Septuagint reads "and I disregarded them" (Brenton), as in Hebrews 8:9.
- h (31:33) Hebrew torah, "instruction, law."
- i (31:35) The Septuagint places verse 37 before verses 35–36 (Brenton 38:35–37).
- j (31:38) The written Hebrew text has only "Look, days"; "coming" is supplied by the Hebrew margin (the Qere) and the ancient versions.
- k (31:40) Hebrew "valley of the corpses and the fat ashes," probably the Valley of Ben-hinnom (compare 7:31–32).

Chapter 32

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar.[a] 2 At that time the army of Babylon's king was besieging Jerusalem, and Jeremiah the prophet was shut up in the court of the guard, which was in the palace of Judah's king. 3 For Zedekiah king of Judah had confined him, saying, "Why do you prophesy, 'So says Yahweh: Look, I am handing this city over to the king of Babylon, and he will capture it; 4 Zedekiah king of Judah will not escape from the Chaldeans' grip but will certainly be handed over to Babylon's king, and will speak with him mouth to mouth and see him eye to eye; 5 to Babylon he will lead Zedekiah, and there he will remain until I attend to him, declares Yahweh; though you fight the Chaldeans, you will not succeed'?"[b]

6 Jeremiah said, “Yahweh’s word came to me: 7 ‘Look, Hanamel son of Shallum your uncle is coming to you to say, “Buy for yourself my field in Anathoth, for yours is the right of redemption to buy it.”’ 8 Then Hanamel my cousin came to me, as Yahweh had said, in the court of the guard, and said to me, ‘Buy my field in Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin, for the right of possession and of redemption is yours; buy it for yourself.’ Then I knew that this was Yahweh’s word. 9
“The Anathoth field I therefore purchased from Hanamel, my uncle’s son, and for it I weighed him out roughly seven ounces[c] of silver. 10 I signed the deed, sealed it, called in witnesses, and weighed the silver on scales. 11 Next I took the purchase document—the copy sealed up, holding the stipulations and terms, along with the copy left unsealed
— 12 and handed this document over to Baruch[d] son of Neriah son of Mahseiah while Hanamel my uncle’s son looked on, together with the witnesses whose names were on the document and every Judean seated within the guard’s courtyard. 13 And before their eyes I charged Baruch: 14 ‘So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: These documents
—the sealed bill of sale and the unsealed one—take them and place them inside a clay jar,[e] that they may endure for a long time. 15 For this is what Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel, says: People will once more buy houses, fields and vineyards in this land.’
16 “After I had given the deed of purchase to Baruch son of Neriah, I prayed to Yahweh: 17 ‘Ah, Lord Yahweh! Look, it is you who made the heavens and the earth by your great power and by your outstretched arm; nothing is too wondrous for you. 18 You show steadfast love to thousands, yet repay the guilt of fathers into the lap of their children after them, O great and mighty God, whose name is Yahweh of Armies, 19 great in counsel and mighty in deed, whose eyes are open to all the ways of mankind, to give each according to his ways and according to the fruit of his deeds. 20 Signs and marvels you worked in Egypt’s land, and still today, both in Israel and across humankind, and won for yourself renown, as is plain today. 21 You brought your people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and an outstretched arm, and with great terror. 22 And you gave them this land, which you swore to their fathers to give them, a land flowing with milk and honey. 23 Enter they did, and seize it they did, yet to your voice they paid no heed and in your instruction they did not walk; of everything you ordered them to do, not one thing they did. So you have caused all this disaster to meet them. 24 Look, siege ramps have been built up to the city to capture it, and because of sword, famine and plague the city has been handed over to the Chaldeans who attack it. What you said has happened, and you see it for yourself. 25 And yet you, Lord Yahweh, told me, "Buy the field with silver and have witnesses present," though the Chaldeans are about to take the city.'"

26 Then Yahweh's word came to Jeremiah: 27 "Look, I am Yahweh, the God of all flesh. Is anything too wondrous for me? 28 Therefore so says Yahweh: Look, I am handing this city to the Chaldeans and to Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and he will take it. 29 The Chaldeans who fight against this city will come and set this city on fire and burn it, with the houses on whose roofs they burned incense to Baal and poured out drink offerings to other gods, to provoke me. 30 For from their youth onward Israel's sons and Judah's sons have been doing only what is wrong in my eyes; Israel's sons have only been vexing me with what their hands have made, declares Yahweh.[f] 31 From the day it was built until today this city has stirred up my anger and fury, so I am going to remove it from my presence, 32 on account of every wrong done by Israel's sons and Judah's sons to vex me—they and their kings, officials, priests, and prophets, Judah's men and Jerusalem's residents alike. 33 They turned to me the back and not the face; though I taught them early and persistently, they did not listen to accept correction. 34 They set up their detestable idols inside the house that bears my name and made it unclean. 35 Baal's shrines they erected in the Ben-hinnom ravine, making sons and daughters of theirs cross through fire for Molech,[g] something I never ordered, which never once came into my thoughts—that they should commit this abhorrent act and so lead Judah into sin.

36 "So now this is what Yahweh, the God of Israel, says about this city, which you say 'has been handed over to the king of Babylon through sword, famine and plague': 37 Look, I will gather them from every country where I scattered them in my anger, rage and great fury; I will return them to this place and make them live securely. 38 They shall be my people, and I will be their God. 39 One heart and one path I will grant them, so that they revere me always, to their benefit and the benefit of their descendants following them. 40 An everlasting covenant I will cut with them: never will I turn aside from doing them good, and reverence for me I will place within their hearts, so they do not depart from me. 41 It will be my joy to do good to them, and I will plant them in this land faithfully, with all my heart and soul. 42 For this is what Yahweh says: Just as I brought all this great disaster on this people, so I will bring on them all the good I am promising. 43 Fields will be bought in this land, which you say 'is a wasteland, with no people or animals, and has been handed over to the Chaldeans.' 44 People will buy fields with silver and sign, seal and witness deeds, in the territory of Benjamin, in the area around Jerusalem, in the towns of Judah, in the hill country, in the foothills and in the Negev; for I will restore their fortunes, declares Yahweh."

Notes

- a (32:1) That is, 588–587 B.C., during the final siege of Jerusalem.
- b (32:5) The Septuagint ends the verse "and Zedekiah shall go into Babylon, and dwell there" (Brenton 39:5), lacking the rest.
- c (32:9) Hebrew "seventeen shekels," about 195 grams.
- d (32:12) Baruch, "blessed." Neriah, "Yahweh is my lamp." Mahseiah, "Yahweh is a refuge." Baruch was Jeremiah's scribe and companion (chapters 36, 43, 45). A clay seal impression reading "Berekyahu son of Neriyahu the scribe" has been reported, but its authenticity is disputed. Item for scholarly review.
- e (32:14) Hebrew "a vessel of clay," the kind of jar in which documents were kept.
- f (32:30) The Septuagint lacks the second half of verse 30 (Brenton 39:30).
- g (32:35) Or "to the king." Hebrew molekh, a deity or rite of child sacrifice; the Septuagint reads "to king Moloch" (Brenton).

Chapter 33

1 A second time Yahweh's word reached Jeremiah, while he remained shut in within the guard's courtyard: 2 "So says Yahweh, who makes it,[a] Yahweh who shapes it to set it firm—Yahweh is his name: 3 Call to me, and I will answer you and tell you great things, things fenced off,[b] that you have not known. 4 For so says Yahweh, God of Israel, about the houses of this city and the houses of Judah's kings that are pulled down to make a defense against the siege ramps and the sword: 5 They are coming to fight the Chaldeans and fill the houses[c] with the dead bodies of people I struck down in my anger and fury, for I have turned my face away from this city because of all their wickedness. 6 Look, I will bring to it new flesh and healing; I will heal them and uncover for them a wealth of peace and faithfulness. 7 I will turn back the captivity of Judah and the captivity of Israel and build them up as at the first. 8 I will purify them from all the guilt by which they sinned against me, and pardon all the guilt by which they sinned and rebelled against me. 9 And this city shall be to me a name of joy, a praise and a glory before all the nations of the earth who hear of all the good I do for them; they will tremble and quake over all the good and all the peace I provide for it.

10 "So says Yahweh: Yet again there will sound out in this place—of which you keep saying, 'Wasteland, bare of human and animal'—in Judah's towns and along Jerusalem's deserted lanes, void of human, of resident, of animal—

11 the sound of gladness and the sound of joy, the voice of bridegroom and the voice of bride, the voice of those who say,

'Give thanks to Yahweh of Armies,
for Yahweh is good,
for his steadfast love endures forever!'

as they bring thank offerings into Yahweh's house. For I will turn back the captivity of the land as at the first, says Yahweh.

12 "This is what Yahweh of Armies says: In this place, now a wasteland with no people or animals, and in all its towns, shepherds will once again let their flocks rest in pastures. 13 In the towns of the hill country, of the lowland, and of the Negev, in the land of Benjamin, around Jerusalem, and in Judah's towns, flocks will again pass under the hands of the one who counts them, says Yahweh.

14 "Look, days are coming, declares Yahweh,[d] when I will fulfill the good word I spoke to the house of Israel and the house of Judah. 15 In those days and at that time I will make sprout for David a righteous Branch,[e] and he will execute justice and righteousness in the land. 16

In those days Judah will be saved and Jerusalem will dwell securely, and this is what she will be called: 'Yahweh Our Righteousness.'[f] 17 For so says Yahweh: David shall never lack a man sitting on the throne of the house of Israel, 18 nor shall the Levite priests ever be short of a man in my presence, presenting whole burnt offerings, sending up grain offerings in smoke, and preparing sacrifices every day." 19 Yahweh's word came to Jeremiah: 20 "So says Yahweh: Were you able to annul my covenant of the daytime and my covenant of the night, so that daytime and night no longer arrive in their season, 21 then my covenant with my servant David could also be broken, so that he would have no son to rule on his throne, and my covenant with the Levitical priests who serve me. 22 The stars of the sky cannot be counted, nor can the sand on the seashore be measured; in the same way I will increase the descendants of my servant David and the Levites who serve me."
23 Yahweh's word came to Jeremiah: 24 "Have you not observed what this people have said: 'The two clans[g] that Yahweh chose, he has rejected them'? So they despise my people, as though they were no longer a nation in their sight. 25 So says Yahweh: Unless I fixed my covenant of daytime and night, and appointed the statutes governing heaven and earth, 26 then I would also reject the descendants of Jacob and my servant David, and would not choose rulers from his line to rule Abraham's, Isaac's and Jacob's descendants. But I will restore their fortunes and have compassion on them."

Notes

- a (33:2) So the Hebrew, "who makes it" (that is, who brings his plan to pass). The Septuagint reads "who made the earth and formed it" (Brenton).
- b (33:3) Hebrew betsuroth, "fortified, inaccessible"; some Hebrew manuscripts read netsuroth, "hidden."
- c (33:5) Hebrew "them," probably the houses. The text of verses 4–5 is difficult.
- d (33:14) Verses 14–26 are absent from the Septuagint (Brenton). They expand the promise of 23:5–6 and are among the longest passages in the Hebrew text with no Greek counterpart. Item for scholarly review.
- e (33:15) Compare 23:5, where the same promise appears in slightly different words.
- f (33:16) Hebrew Yahweh Tsidqenu. At 23:6 the name is given to the king; here it is given to the city.

- g (33:24) Probably Israel and Judah, though some take it as Judah and the house of David, or the royal and priestly lines of verses 17–22.

Chapter 34

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, with his whole army, every kingdom of the earth under his rule, and all the peoples, were fighting against Jerusalem and against all its towns: 2 "So says Yahweh, God of Israel: Go and speak to Zedekiah king of Judah; tell him, 'So says Yahweh: Look, I am delivering this city into the grip of Babylon's king, and he will burn it with fire. 3 And you yourself will not slip from his grip; you will surely be seized and handed over to him. Your eyes will look into the eyes of Babylon's king, his mouth will speak to your mouth, and to Babylon you will go. 4 Yet hear Yahweh's word, O Zedekiah king of Judah: So says Yahweh concerning you: You will not die by the sword. 5 In peace you will die. And as spices were burned for your fathers, the former kings who were before you, so they will burn spices for you and lament for you, "Alas, lord!" For I myself have spoken the word, declares Yahweh.'" 6 Then Jeremiah the prophet spoke all these words to Zedekiah king of Judah in Jerusalem, 7 while the army of Babylon's king was fighting against Jerusalem and against all the towns of Judah still holding out, Lachish and Azekah;[a] for these alone among Judah's towns remained as fortified cities.

8 The word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh after King Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people in Jerusalem to proclaim release[b] to them: 9 that each should set free his Hebrew slave, male or female, so that no one should hold a fellow Judean in bondage. 10 And all the officials and all the people who had entered into the covenant obeyed: each would set free his male and female slave and no longer hold them in bondage. They obeyed and let them go. 11 Later, though, they reversed course, fetched back the menservants and maidservants they had freed, and subdued them again into servitude.[c]

12 Then Yahweh's word came to Jeremiah from Yahweh: 13 "So says Yahweh, God of Israel: I myself cut a covenant with your fathers on the day I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves, saying, 14 ‘When seven years end[d] you shall each release your Hebrew kinsman who was sold to you; six years he serves you, and then you must dismiss him from you a free man.’ Your ancestors, though, paid me no heed and turned no ear. 15 You yourselves turned back today and did what was right in my eyes, proclaiming release each to his neighbor, and you cut a covenant before me in the house that bears my name. 16 But then you turned and profaned my name:

each took back his male and female slave whom you had sent away free at their own desire, and you forced them to be your male and female slaves. 17 Therefore so says Yahweh: You have not obeyed me by proclaiming release each to his brother and to his neighbor. Look,
I proclaim to you a release, declares Yahweh—to the sword, to plague, and to famine;[e] and I will make you a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth. 18 The men who overstepped my covenant, not upholding the covenant’s words that they cut in my presence, I will render like[f]
the calf they sliced in two, between whose halves they walked— 19
the officials of Judah, the officials of Jerusalem, the court officials, the priests, and all the people of the land who passed between the parts of the calf. 20 I will give them into the hand of their enemies and of those who seek their life; their corpses shall be food for the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the earth. 21 And Zedekiah king of Judah and his officials I will give into the hand of their enemies, of those who seek their life, of the army of Babylon’s king that has withdrawn from you.[g] 22 Look, I am giving command, declares Yahweh, and I will bring them back to this city. They will fight against it, take it, and burn it with fire; and the towns of Judah I will make a desolation without inhabitant.”

Notes

- a (34:7) Lachish and Azekah were fortress towns in the Judean lowland southwest of Jerusalem. Ostraca found at Lachish (the “Lachish letters”) are reported to mention watching for the signals of Azekah, probably from this period.
- b (34:8) Hebrew deror, “release, liberty,” the term used for the Jubilee in Leviticus 25:10.
- c (34:11) The Septuagint shortens verses 10–11 (Brenton 41:10–11).
- d (34:14) So the Hebrew, counting inclusively (compare Deuteronomy 15:1, 12). The Septuagint reads “When six years are accomplished” (Brenton).

- e (34:17) The Hebrew plays on deror, “release”: those who would not release their slaves are released to disaster.
- f (34:18) Hebrew lacks “like”; the comparison is implied. The rite of passing between the halves of an animal (compare Genesis 15:9–17) called down its fate on any party who broke the covenant.
- g (34:21) The Babylonian army had temporarily lifted the siege when an Egyptian force approached (37:5).

Chapter 35

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh in the days of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah: 2 “Go to the house of the Rechabites,[a] speak with them, and bring them into Yahweh’s house, into one of the chambers, and give them wine to drink.” 3 So I brought Jaazaniah[b] son of Jeremiah, the son of Habazziniah, together with his brothers, all his sons and the entire Rechabite family, 4 and I brought them into Yahweh’s house, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan son of Igdaliah, the man of God, which was beside the officials’ chamber, above the chamber of Maaseiah son of Shallum, keeper of the threshold. 5 Then I set before the men of the Rechabite house bowls brimming with wine, and cups, and said to them, “Drink wine.”
6 But they answered, “We drink no wine, for Jonadab[c] son of Rechab, our father, commanded us: ‘You shall drink no wine, neither you nor your sons, for all time. 7 No house shall you build, no seed shall you sow, no vineyard shall you plant or own; but in tents you shall dwell all your days, so that you may live many days on the face of the land where you sojourn.’ 8 We have obeyed the voice of Jonadab son of Rechab, our father, in all he charged us: to drink no wine all our days, we, our wives, our sons, and our daughters, 9 and to build no houses to dwell in. Vineyard, field, and seed we have none. 10 We have lived in tents and have obeyed everything our ancestor Jonadab ordered us to do. 11 But when Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came up against the land, we said, ‘Come, let us go into Jerusalem before the army of the Chaldeans and the army of Aram.’ So we are living in Jerusalem.” 12 Then Yahweh’s word came to Jeremiah: 13 “So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: Go and say to the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will you not take correction and listen to my words? declares Yahweh. 14 The words of Jonadab son of Rechab, which he commanded his sons, not to drink wine, have been kept; to this day they drink none, for they obey their father's command. But I have spoken to you early and persistently, and you have not listened to me. 15 Every one of my servants the prophets I dispatched to you, rising early to send them, with the message: 'Come back, each of you, from your wicked course; make your conduct good; stop chasing other gods to worship them; then you will remain on the soil I granted you and your ancestors.' Yet you lent no ear and heeded me not. 16 The sons of Jonadab son of Rechab have kept the command their father gave them, but this people has not listened to me. 17 Therefore so says Yahweh, God of Armies, God of Israel: Look, I am bringing on Judah and on all the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the calamity I have pronounced against them, because I spoke to them and they did not listen, I called to them and they did not answer."

18 Then Jeremiah told the Rechabite family, "This is what Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel, says: You have obeyed your ancestor Jonadab's order, followed all his instructions and done everything he told you, 19 so this is what Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Jonadab son of Rechab will always have a descendant to serve me."[d]

Notes

- a (35:2) The Rechabites were a clan descended from Jonadab son of Rechab (verse 6), who kept a semi-nomadic life of abstinence; they are linked with the Kenites in 1 Chronicles 2:55. Rechab may mean "rider" or "charioteer." The Septuagint calls them "the Archabin" (Brenton).
- b (35:3) Jaazaniah, "Yahweh listens." The Septuagint calls him "Jechonias the son of Jeremin" (Brenton).
- c (35:6) Jonadab (also Jehonadab), "Yahweh is generous." He took part in Jehu's purge of Baal worship (2 Kings 10:15–23), about 840 B.C., some two and a half centuries before this episode.
- d (35:19) To "stand before" Yahweh is the language of service. The Septuagint adds "before my face while the earth remains" (Brenton).

Chapter 36

1 In the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah,[a] this word came to Jeremiah from Yahweh: 2 "Take for yourself a scroll[b] and write on it every word I have spoken to you against Israel and against Judah and against all the nations, from the day I first spoke to you, in the days of Josiah, until this day. 3 Perhaps the house of Judah will hear of all the calamity I intend to do to them, so that each will turn from his evil way, and I may forgive their guilt and their sin."

4 Jeremiah therefore summoned Baruch son of Neriah, and from Jeremiah's lips[c] Baruch inscribed on a scroll every word that Yahweh had spoken to him. 5 Then Jeremiah charged Baruch: "I am restricted;[d] I cannot enter Yahweh's house. 6 So you go, and on a day of fasting read aloud from the scroll that you wrote as I dictated, so that the people in Yahweh's house hear Yahweh's words; also read them to all the people of Judah who come in from their towns. 7 Perhaps their plea will fall before Yahweh, and each will turn from his evil way; for great is the anger and the wrath that Yahweh has pronounced against this people." 8 And Baruch son of Neriah did all that Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading from the book the words of Yahweh in Yahweh's house.
9 In the fifth year[e] of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, in the ninth month (November–December),[f] the whole population of Jerusalem and everyone who had come from Judah's towns to Jerusalem announced a fast before Yahweh. 10 Then Baruch read out Jeremiah's words from the scroll, with all the people listening, in Yahweh's house. He stood in the room of Gemariah son of Shaphan the scribe, up in the higher courtyard by the New Gate entrance of Yahweh's house.
11 Micaiah son of Gemariah son of Shaphan, on hearing out of the book every one of Yahweh's words, 12 he went down into the royal palace, to the secretary's chamber. The officials were all seated there: Elishama the secretary, Delaiah son of Shemaiah, Elnathan son of Achbor, Gemariah son of Shaphan, Zedekiah son of Hananiah, and the rest of the officials. 13 And Micaiah told them all the words he had heard when Baruch read the book in the hearing of the people. 14 Then all the officials sent Jehudi son of Nethaniah son of Shelemiah son of Cushi to Baruch, saying, "The scroll that you read in the hearing of the people—take it in your hand and come." So Baruch son of Neriah took the scroll in his hand and came to them. 15 They said to him, "Sit down and read it in our hearing." So Baruch read it in their hearing. 16

When they heard all the words, they turned in alarm to one another and said to Baruch, "We must certainly report all these words to the king." 17 Baruch they then questioned: "Explain to us—these words, how did you come to write them all? Was it from his lips?" 18 Baruch answered them, "From his own mouth he recited all these words to me, while I wrote them in ink on the scroll." 19 Then the officials told Baruch, "Go and hide, you and Jeremiah, and don't let anyone know where you are."
20 So they went in to the king in the court, having deposited the scroll in the chamber of Elishama the scribe, and reported all the words in the king's hearing. 21 Then the king sent Jehudi to get the scroll, and he took it from the chamber of Elishama the scribe. Jehudi read it in the hearing of the king and of all the officials standing beside the king. 22 The king was sitting in the winter house in the ninth month (in November–December),[g] with a fire burning in the brazier before him. 23 Each time Jehudi had read out three or four columns,[h] the king sliced them away with a penknife and tossed them onto the brazier's flames, till the scroll was burned up whole on the brazier fire. 24 Neither king nor courtier, though hearing all these words, felt any dread; no one ripped his clothes. 25 Elnathan, Delaiah and Gemariah even begged the king not to burn the scroll, but he refused to listen to them.[i] 26 The king ordered Jerahmeel, a prince, along with Seraiah son of Azriel and Shelemiah son of Abdeel, to arrest Baruch the scribe and the prophet Jeremiah. But Yahweh concealed them.
27 Now after the king had burned the scroll with the words Baruch wrote at Jeremiah's dictation, Yahweh's word came to Jeremiah: 28
"Take a new scroll and copy onto it all the earlier words that stood on the first scroll, the one Jehoiakim king of Judah burned. 29 And concerning Jehoiakim king of Judah you shall say, 'So says Yahweh:
You have burned this scroll, saying, "Why have you written on it that the king of Babylon will certainly come and destroy this land and cut off from it man and beast?" 30 Therefore so says Yahweh concerning Jehoiakim king of Judah: He shall have no one to sit on the throne of David, and his dead body shall be cast out to the heat by day and the frost by night. 31 I will punish him and his offspring and his servants for their guilt; I will bring on them, on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and on the men of Judah all the calamity I pronounced against them, but they would not listen.'" 32 Then Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to Baruch son of Neriah the scribe, who wrote on it at Jeremiah's dictation all the words of the book that Jehoiakim king of Judah had burned in the fire. And many similar words were added to them.

Notes

- a (36:1) That is, 605–604 B.C., the year of the battle of Carchemish (46:2).
- b (36:2) Hebrew "a scroll of a book," a roll of papyrus or leather.
- c (36:4) Hebrew "from the mouth of Jeremiah"; so also "at my (his) dictation" in verses 6, 17, 27, 32.
- d (36:5) Hebrew ʿatsur, "restrained, hindered"; the reason is not stated. The Septuagint reads "I am in prison" (Brenton), though 36:19, 26 suggest he was not under arrest.
- e (36:9) That is, 604–603 B.C. The Septuagint reads "in the eighth year" (Brenton).
- f (36:9) Hebrew "the ninth month," Kislev. A fast may have been called because of the Babylonian advance; 604 B.C. saw Nebuchadnezzar's campaign against Ashkelon.
- g (36:22) Hebrew "the ninth month," Kislev, the cold, rainy season.
- h (36:23) Hebrew delathoth, "doors," that is, columns of writing on the scroll.
- i (36:25) The Septuagint reverses the sense: "But Elnathan and Godolias suggested to the king that he should burn the roll" (Brenton).

Chapter 37

1 Zedekiah son of Josiah reigned as king in place of Coniah son of Jehoiakim, having been made king over the land of Judah by Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon. 2 But neither he nor his servants nor the people of the land listened to the words of Yahweh that he spoke through Jeremiah the prophet.

3 King Zedekiah sent Jehucal[a] son of Shelemiah and the priest Zephaniah son of Maaseiah to the prophet Jeremiah to say, "Please pray to Yahweh our God for us." 4 Jeremiah at that point still moved freely in and out among the populace; nobody had yet locked him up. 5 In the meantime Pharaoh's army had marched out of Egypt, and when the Chaldeans who were besieging Jerusalem heard the news about them, they pulled back from Jerusalem.[b] 6 Then Yahweh's word came to Jeremiah the prophet: 7 "This is what Yahweh, the God of Israel, says: To the king of Judah, who sent you to consult me, say this: Look, Pharaoh's army, which set out to help you, is going home to Egypt. 8 And the Chaldeans will come back and fight against this city; they will capture it and burn it with fire.

9 So says Yahweh: Do not fool your own souls by telling yourselves,
'Off from us the Chaldeans are sure to march.' Depart they will not.
10 Even if you were to strike down the whole army of the Chaldeans fighting against you, and there remained among them only wounded men, each in his tent, they would rise up and burn this city with fire." 11 Now when, on account of Pharaoh's forces, the Chaldean host had pulled back from Jerusalem, 12 Jeremiah set out from Jerusalem to go to the land of Benjamin to take his share[c] there among the people. 13 But at the Benjamin Gate the sentry in command, whose name was Irijah son of Shelemiah, the son of Hananiah, grabbed the prophet Jeremiah and said, "You are going over to the Chaldeans!" 14 "False!" Jeremiah replied. "To the Chaldeans I am not defecting." Irijah, though, refused to hear him; he laid hold of Jeremiah and led him off to the officials. 15
The officials were enraged at Jeremiah; they beat him and put him in confinement in the house of Jonathan the scribe, for they had made it into a prison. 16 So Jeremiah went into the cistern house,[d] into the vaulted cells, and remained there many days.
17 Then King Zedekiah sent and had him brought, and the king questioned him secretly in his house: "Is there any word from Yahweh?"
Jeremiah said, "There is." And he said, "Into the hand of Babylon's king you will be given." 18 Jeremiah further asked King Zedekiah, "In what have I sinned against you, your courtiers, or this people, that you have locked me up in a jail? 19 Where are your prophets now, the ones who told you, 'The king of Babylon will not attack you or this land'? 20 So now, my lord king, kindly hear me: may my petition come before your face. Do not return me to Jonathan the secretary's house, or there I shall perish." 21 King Zedekiah then gave the order. Jeremiah was entrusted to the guard's courtyard, and each day a round loaf from the Street of the Bakers was handed him, till the city's bread ran out entirely. Thus Jeremiah stayed on in the guard's courtyard.

Notes

- a (37:3) Jehucal, "Yahweh is able." He is called Jucal at 38:1. A clay seal impression reading "Yehukal son of Shelemyahu" has been reported from excavations in Jerusalem. Item for scholarly review.
- b (37:5) This lifting of the siege is the setting of 34:21–22 as well.
- c (37:12) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain; perhaps to receive a share of a family inheritance (compare 32:6–15). The Septuagint reads "to buy thence a property in the midst of the people" (Brenton).
- d (37:16) Hebrew "the house of the cistern," an underground dungeon.

Chapter 38

1 Word of what Jeremiah was proclaiming to the whole populace reached the ears of Shephatiah, Mattan's son; of Gedaliah, Pashhur's son; of Jucal, Shelemiah's son; and of Pashhur, Malchiah's son: 2 "So says Yahweh: Whoever remains in this city will die by sword, by famine, and by plague; but whoever goes out to the Chaldeans will live; he will have his life as a prize of war[a] and live. 3 So says Yahweh:
This city will surely be given into the hand of the army of Babylon's king, and he will capture it." 4 The officials then told the king, "This fellow must be executed. He is slackening the hands of the fighting men still left in the city, and of all the people too, with words like these. This fellow seeks not the good of this people but its ruin." 5
"There—he is in your power," King Zedekiah replied, "for against you the king is helpless." 6 Jeremiah they took and flung into Malchiah the king's son's cistern within the guard's courtyard, lowering him on cords. Water there was none in the pit, only sludge, and down into the sludge Jeremiah sank.
7 Ebed-melech,[b] a Cushite and an official in the royal household, heard that they had lowered Jeremiah into the cistern. At that time the king was seated in the Benjamin Gate. 8 Ebed-melech left the palace and said to the king: 9 "My lord the king, these men have done evil in all they have done to Jeremiah the prophet, casting him into the cistern;
he will die of hunger where he is, for there is no more bread in the city." 10 Then the king commanded Ebed-melech the Cushite, "Take thirty men[c] with you from here and draw Jeremiah the prophet up out of the cistern before he dies." 11 So Ebed-melech took the men with him and went into the king's house, to a place beneath the storehouse, and took from there worn-out rags and old clothes, and let them down by ropes to Jeremiah in the cistern. 12 Ebed-melech the Cushite said to Jeremiah, "Put the worn-out rags and clothes under your armpits, beneath the ropes." Jeremiah did so. 13 Then they pulled Jeremiah up with the ropes and drew him out of the cistern. And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

14 King Zedekiah summoned Jeremiah the prophet, bringing him to himself at the third entryway of Yahweh's house. "A question I shall put to you," the king told Jeremiah. "Keep nothing back from me."

15 Jeremiah answered Zedekiah, "If I answer you, you will certainly have me killed. And if I advise you, you will not listen to me."

16 Then King Zedekiah swore secretly to Jeremiah, "As Yahweh lives, who made this life for us, I will not put you to death or give you into the hand of these men who seek your life."

17 Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "So says Yahweh, God of Armies, God of Israel: If you will indeed go out to the officers of Babylon's king, your life will be spared, and this city will not be burned with fire; you and your household will live.

18 But if you do not surrender to the officers of the king of Babylon, then this city will be handed over to the Chaldeans, who will set it on fire, and you will not escape from them."

19 "It is the Judeans gone over to the Chaldeans that I dread," King Zedekiah told Jeremiah, "that I may be surrendered into their hands and they make sport of me."

20 Jeremiah said, "You will not be handed over. Obey, I beg you, the voice of Yahweh in what I am telling you, and it will go well with you, and your life will be spared.

21 But if you refuse to go out, this is what Yahweh has shown me:

22 Look, all the women left in the house of Judah's king will be led out to the officers of Babylon's king, and they will say,

'They misled you and overcame you,
those trusted friends of yours;[d]

now that your feet are sunk in the mire,
they have turned away from you.'
23 Every wife and son of yours will be marched out to the Chaldeans.
Neither shall you escape their grip; in the grip of Babylon's king you will be caught, and this city will be burned[e] to the ground." 24 Then Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "Let no one know of these words, and you will not die. 25 If the officials hear that I have talked with you, and they approach you and ask, 'Tell us what you said to the king and what he said to you; keep nothing back from us and we will not kill you,' 26 then you shall say to them, 'I was presenting my plea before the king, that he would not send me back to the house of Jonathan to die there.'" 27 Sure enough, the officials all came to Jeremiah and interrogated him, and he gave them answer exactly in the terms the king had ordered. Then they left off questioning him, since nobody had overheard the matter. 28 And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard until the day Jerusalem was captured.[f]

Notes

- a (38:2) Hebrew "his life shall be to him as spoil," that is, he will escape with his life and nothing more.
- b (38:7) Ebed-melech, "servant of the king." A Cushite, that is, from the upper Nile region (Nubia). He is promised deliverance in 39:15–18.
- c (38:10) So the Hebrew, followed by the Septuagint (Brenton). One Hebrew manuscript is reported to read "three men," which some prefer as more likely for the task.
- d (38:22) Hebrew "the men of your peace." The lines echo Obadiah 7.
- e (38:23) So the ancient versions; the Hebrew reads "and you will burn this city," that is, you will be the cause of its burning.
- f (38:28) The last clause of the Hebrew, "and it came to pass when Jerusalem was taken," introduces 39:1 in many translations.

Chapter 39

1 In the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month (in December–January),[a] Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon and his whole army came against Jerusalem and laid siege to it. 2 In Zedekiah's eleventh year, in the fourth month (in June–July),[b] on the ninth day of the month, the city wall was breached. 3 Then all the officials of Babylon's king came in and took their seats in the Middle Gate: Ner-gal-sharezer, Samgar-nebo, Sarsechim the Rab-saris, Nergal-sharezer

the Rab-mag,[c] and all the rest of the officials of Babylon's king.
4 On seeing them,[d] Zedekiah king of Judah and every fighting man took flight; under cover of night they slipped out of the city along the royal garden path, by the gateway between the double walls, and he headed off in the direction of the Arabah. 5 But the Chaldean army pursued them and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho. They seized him and brought him up to Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he passed sentence on him. 6
The king of Babylon slaughtered Zedekiah's sons at Riblah before his eyes; all the nobles of Judah, too, the king of Babylon slaughtered. 7 Zedekiah's eyes he put out, and bound him in bronze fetters to take him to Babylon. 8 The Chaldeans burned the king's house and the houses of the people with fire, and tore down the walls of Jerusalem.
9 Then Nebuzaradan[e] the captain of the guard took the people who were still in the city, those who had defected to him and the rest of the population, into exile in Babylon. 10 Some of the destitute, though, who possessed nothing at all, Nebuzaradan the guard commander let remain in Judah's land, and handed over to them vineyards and plowland that day.
11 Regarding Jeremiah, Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon issued orders by way of Nebuzaradan the guard commander: 12 "Fetch him; keep your eyes on his welfare; harm him in nothing. Rather, whatever he asks of you, so treat him." 13 So Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, Nebushazban the Rab-saris, Nergal-sharezer the Rab-mag, and all the chief officers of Babylon's king sent 14 and took Jeremiah from the court of the guard and entrusted him to Gedaliah[f] son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, to bring him home. So he stayed among the people.
15 Yahweh's word had come to Jeremiah while he was shut up in the court of the guard: 16 "Go and say to Ebed-melech the Cushite, 'So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: Look, I am bringing my words upon this city for calamity and not for good, and they will come to pass before you on that day. 17 But I will rescue you on that day, declares Yahweh; you will not be handed over to the men you fear. 18 For rescue you I most certainly will; by the sword you shall not fall. Your life shall be your booty, since in me you put your trust, declares Yahweh.'"

Notes

- a (39:1) Hebrew "the tenth month," Tevet; that is, January 588 B.C. (compare 52:4; 2 Kings 25:1). The Septuagint reads only "in the ninth month of Zedekiah" (Brenton, modernized).
- b (39:2) Hebrew "the fourth month," Tammuz; that is, July 587 or 586 B.C. The exact year is debated. Item for scholarly review.
- c (39:3) Rab-saris and Rab-mag are Babylonian titles, perhaps "chief official" and "chief magus" or "high officer." The division of the names is uncertain; Samgar-nebo and Sarsechim may be a single name or a title and a name. Nergal-sharezer may be Neriglissar, a later king of Babylon (560–556 B.C.). Item for scholarly review.
- d (39:4) Verses 4–13 are absent from the Septuagint (Brenton). Verses 4–10 closely parallel 52:7–16 and 2 Kings 25:4–12.
- e (39:9) Nebuzaradan, Akkadian Nabu-zer-iddin, "Nabu has given offspring." His title, rab-ṭabbaḥim, is literally "chief of the butchers" or "chief cook," a high military office.
- f (39:14) Gedaliah, "Yahweh is great." Son of Ahikam, who had protected Jeremiah (26:24). He was appointed governor of Judah after the fall of Jerusalem (40:5).

Chapter 40

1 This is the message that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh after Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard let him go at Ramah. Nebuzaradan had found him bound in chains among the prisoners of Jerusalem and Judah who were being deported to Babylon.[a] 2 The captain of the guard took Jeremiah and said to him, "Yahweh your God pronounced this calamity against this place. 3 Yahweh has brought it about and done as he said, because you sinned against Yahweh and did not obey his voice. So this thing has happened to you. 4 So now, look: today I am loosing the fetters from your wrists. Should coming along with me to Babylon please you, come, and I will keep an eye on you; should it displease you, stay. Look—all the land lies open before you; wherever you judge it good and fitting to go, go there." 5 When Jeremiah still had not turned back,[b] he said, "Go back, then, to Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon has appointed over the towns of Judah, and stay with him among the people, or go wherever it seems right to you to go." So the captain of the guard gave him provisions and a present, and let him go. 6 Jeremiah went off, then, to Mizpah[c] to Gedaliah son of Ahikam and lived with him in the midst of those still left in the land.

7 The army officers and their troops who were still out in the open country heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam as governor of the land and had placed under his care the men, women and children, the poorest of the land, who had not been deported to Babylon. 8 to Mizpah they came to Gedaliah—Ishmael[d] son of Nethaniah; Kareah's sons Johanan[e] and Jonathan; Seraiah son of Tanhumeth; the sons of Ephai from Netophah; and Jezaniah, son of a Maacathite—each with his men. 9 Gedaliah son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, gave them and their men his oath: "Do not be afraid to serve the Chaldeans. Stay in the land, serve the king of Babylon, and everything will be fine for you. 10 As for me, look, I will stay at Mizpah to stand before the Chaldeans who come to us; but you, gather wine, summer fruit, and oil, store them in your vessels, and settle in your towns that you have taken over." 11 Likewise, when all the Judeans in Moab, among the Ammonites, in Edom, and in all the other lands heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant in Judah and had appointed over them Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, 12 they all came back from every place where they had been scattered and arrived in the land of Judah, at Mizpah, to Gedaliah; and they harvested a huge amount of wine and summer fruit.

13 Johanan son of Kareah next came to Mizpah to Gedaliah, along with every captain of the troops out in the countryside, 14 and said to him, "Do you know that Baalis[f] king of the Ammonites has sent Ishmael son of Nethaniah to take your life?" But Gedaliah son of Ahikam would not believe them. 15 Then Johanan son of Kareah spoke secretly to Gedaliah at Mizpah: "Let me go and strike down Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and no one will know. Why should he take your life, so that all the Judeans gathered around you are scattered and the remnant of Judah perishes?" 16 But Gedaliah son of Ahikam said to Johanan son of Kareah, "You shall not do this thing, for you are speaking a lie about Ishmael."

Notes

- a (40:1) The introduction “The word that came to Jeremiah” is not followed by a prophetic oracle until 42:7; the chapters that follow narrate events after the fall of Jerusalem. Ramah lay about 5 miles (8 km) north of Jerusalem and was apparently a staging point for deportation.
- b (40:5) The Hebrew is difficult; perhaps “before he could answer.”
- c (40:6) Mizpah, “watchtower,” a town in Benjamin, often identified with Tell en-Nasbeh, north of Jerusalem.
- d (40:8) Ishmael, “God hears.” He was of royal descent (41:1).
- e (40:8) Johanan, “Yahweh has been gracious.”
- f (40:14) Baalis, perhaps “son of delight.” A seal impression reported to name “Baʿalyishaʿ king of the Ammonites” may refer to him. Item for scholarly review.

Chapter 41

1 It was the seventh month (in September–October)[a] when Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elishama—of the royal line, and among the king’s high officers—arrived with ten men at Mizpah to Gedaliah son of Ahikam. While they shared bread together there in Mizpah, 2 up sprang Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and the ten men accompanying him, and cut down Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan by the sword; thus he killed the one Babylon’s king had put in charge of the land. 3 Every Judean with Gedaliah in Mizpah Ishmael likewise cut down, and the Chaldean fighting men found on the spot.
4 On the day after Gedaliah’s murder, before anyone knew of it, 5 eighty men arrived from Shechem, Shiloh,[b] and Samaria, their beards shaved, their clothes torn, their bodies gashed, carrying grain offerings and incense to bring to Yahweh’s house.[c] 6 Out from Mizpah to intercept them went Ishmael son of Nethaniah, sobbing all the way. Upon reaching them he urged, “Come along to Gedaliah son of Ahikam.” 7 Once they were inside the town, though, Ishmael son of Nethaniah butchered them, he and his companions, and pitched them into a cistern. 8 But ten men among them said to Ishmael, “Do not kill us, for we have stores hidden in the field—wheat, barley, oil, and honey.” So he held back and did not kill them along with their companions. 9 Now the cistern into which Ishmael threw all the corpses of the men he had struck down because of Gedaliah[d] was the one King Asa had made against Baasha king of Israel. Ishmael son of Nethaniah filled it with the slain. 10 Then Ishmael led away into captivity all who were left in Mizpah: the princesses of the royal house and the townsfolk remaining there, those Nebuzaradan the guard commander had entrusted to Gedaliah son of Ahikam. With these prisoners Ishmael son of Nethaniah set off, aiming to pass over to Ammon's territory.

11 But when Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces with him heard of all the evil Ishmael son of Nethaniah had done, 12 they took all their men and went to fight Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and they found him at the great pool in Gibeon. 13 When all the people with Ishmael saw Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces with him, they rejoiced. 14 All the captives Ishmael had taken from Mizpah turned around, came back and joined Johanan son of Kareah. 15 But Ishmael son of Nethaniah escaped from Johanan with eight men and went to the Ammonites. 16 Johanan son of Kareah and all the army officers with him took all the survivors from Mizpah whom he had rescued from Ishmael son of Nethaniah, after Ishmael had killed Gedaliah son of Ahikam—soldiers, women, children and court officials, whom Johanan had brought back from Gibeon. 17 Off they went and halted at Geruth Chimham[e] close by Bethlehem, meaning to proceed into Egypt 18 to escape the Chaldeans, whom they feared because Ishmael son of Nethaniah had murdered Gedaliah son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had appointed governor of the land.

Notes

- a (41:1) Hebrew "the seventh month," Tishri; the year is not stated (perhaps 587 or 586 B.C., or later). Jewish tradition later observed a fast in the seventh month in memory of Gedaliah (compare Zechariah 7:5; 8:19).
- b (41:5) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "Salem" (Brenton).
- c (41:5) The marks of mourning suggest pilgrims grieving over the destroyed temple, bringing offerings to its site.
- d (41:9) Hebrew "by the hand of Gedaliah," perhaps "alongside Gedaliah." The Septuagint reads "is the great pit" (Brenton), which may reflect a different reading of similar Hebrew letters.
- e (41:17) Or "the lodging place of Chimham"; compare 2 Samuel 19:37–40. The Septuagint reads "Gaberoch-amaa" (Brenton).

Chapter 42

1 Then all the commanders of the forces, with Johanan son of Kareah and Jezaniah[a] son of Hoshaiah, and all the people from the least to the greatest, came near 2 and said to Jeremiah the prophet, "Let our plea fall before you, and pray for us to Yahweh your God, for all this remnant—for we are left as a few out of many, as your own eyes see us— 3 so that Yahweh your God may show us which road to walk and what course to take." 4 Jeremiah the prophet said to them, "I have heard you. Look, I will pray to Yahweh your God as you ask, and whatever Yahweh answers you I will tell you; I will hold back nothing from you." 5 And they said to Jeremiah, "May Yahweh be a true and faithful witness against us if we do not act according to every word that Yahweh your God sends you to tell us. 6 Whether it is good or bad, the voice of Yahweh our God, to whom we send you, we will obey, so that it may go well with us when we obey the voice of Yahweh
our God."
7 At the end of ten days Yahweh's word came to Jeremiah. 8 He called Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces with him, and all the people from the least to the greatest, 9 and said to them,
"So says Yahweh, God of Israel, to whom you sent me to present your plea before him: 10 If you will indeed remain in this land, then I will build you up and not pull you down; I will plant you and not uproot you; for I relent of the calamity I have done to you.[b] 11 Do not fear the king of Babylon, whom you now fear; do not fear him, declares Yahweh, for I am with you to save you and to rescue you from his hand. 12 I will grant you mercy, so that he will have mercy on you and let you return to your own soil. 13 But should you declare, 'In this land we refuse to remain,' and so turn a deaf ear to Yahweh your God's voice, 14 insisting, 'Not so! Egypt's land is where we shall go, where no warfare will meet our eyes, no ram's horn our ears, no craving for food our bellies; there we will settle,' 15 then hear now Yahweh's word, O remnant of Judah: So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel:
If you are firmly set on going to Egypt and go to sojourn there, 16 the sword you fear will overtake you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine you dread will cling to you there in Egypt, and there you will die. 17 Everyone who is determined to go to Egypt and live there will die by sword, famine or plague; none will survive or get away from the disaster I will bring on them. 18 This is what Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Just as my anger and fury poured out on the people living in Jerusalem, so my fury will pour out on you when you enter Egypt. You will become a curse, an object of horror, a cursing word and a disgrace, and you will never see this place again.

19 Yahweh has spoken to you, O remnant of Judah: Do not go to Egypt.
Know for certain that I have warned you today 20 that you have erred to your own peril.[c] You yourselves dispatched me to Yahweh your God with the words, 'Intercede for us with Yahweh our God; all that Yahweh our God declares, report to us, and we will carry it out.' 21 I have declared it to you today, but you have not obeyed the voice of Yahweh your God in anything he sent me to tell you. 22 So understand clearly that you will die by sword, famine or plague in the place you want to go to live."

Notes

- a (42:1) The Septuagint reads "Azarias the son of Maasæas" (Brenton); compare 43:2, where the Hebrew has Azariah son of Hoshaiah.
- b (42:10) Or "for I grieve over the calamity." Hebrew niḥamti expresses a change of heart; it is often rendered "repent" or "regret."
- c (42:20) Or "you have deceived yourselves"; the Hebrew is uncertain.

Chapter 43

1 When Jeremiah had finished telling all the people everything Yahweh their God had sent him to say, 2 Azariah son of Hoshaiah and Johanan son of Kareah, with every arrogant man among them, retorted to Jeremiah, "Falsehood is what you are telling! Yahweh our God never sent you with the words, 'Do not enter Egypt to live as aliens there.' 3 No—it is Baruch son of Neriah stirring you up against us, so as to put us in Chaldean hands, to be killed or deported to Babylon." 4 So Johanan son of Kareah, all the commanders of the forces, and all the people did not obey the voice of Yahweh to stay in the land of Judah. 5 Rather, Johanan son of Kareah, along with every troop captain, gathered up all Judah's remnant—those who had come home from every nation where they had been scattered to dwell in

Judah's land— 6 the men, women and children, the king's daughters, and everyone Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had left with Gedaliah son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, and also the prophet Jeremiah and Baruch son of Neriah. 7 and they came into the land of Egypt, for they did not obey the voice of Yahweh. And they came as far as Tahpanhes.[a] 8 Then Yahweh's word came to Jeremiah in Tahpanhes: 9 "Take in your hand some large stones and hide them in the mortar[b] in the brick terrace at the entrance to Pharaoh's house in Tahpanhes, in the sight of the men of Judah, 10 and say to them, 'So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: Look, I am sending for Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, my servant,[c] and I will set his throne above these stones that I have hidden, and he will spread his royal canopy over them. 11 He will come and attack Egypt: death for those marked for death, captivity for those marked for captivity, and the sword for those marked for the sword. 12 I[d] will set fire to the temples of the gods of Egypt, and he will burn their idols and carry off their gods. As a shepherd picks the lice from his cloak, so he will pick Egypt clean, and he will depart from there unharmed. 13 He will shatter the obelisks[e] of Beth-shemesh in the land of Egypt, and the temples of Egypt's gods he will burn with fire.'"

Notes

- a (43:7) Tahpanhes, a fortress city in the eastern Nile Delta, commonly identified with Tell Defenneh (Greek Daphnae).
- b (43:9) Hebrew malet, found only here; the meaning is uncertain ("mortar," "clay," or "pavement"). The Septuagint reads only "hide them in the entrance, at the gate of the house of Pharaoh" (Brenton, modernized).
- c (43:10) The Septuagint lacks "my servant" (Brenton).
- d (43:12) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint and other ancient versions read "He will kindle" (Brenton: "he shall kindle").
- e (43:13) Hebrew matstsevoth, "standing stones, pillars." Beth-shemesh, "house of the sun," is Heliopolis (Egyptian On), the city of the sun god; the Septuagint reads "the pillars of Heliopolis that are in On" (Brenton).

Chapter 44

1 The message that came to Jeremiah about all the Jews living in Egypt, in Migdol, Tahpanhes, Memphis[a] and the region of Pathros:[b] 2

“So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: You yourselves have seen all the calamity I brought on Jerusalem and on every town of Judah.
Look, today they lie in ruins, with no one living in them, 3 because of the wickedness they committed to provoke me, going off to burn incense and serve other gods whom they had not known—neither they, nor you, nor your fathers. 4 Yet I sent to you all my servants the prophets, rising early and sending, to say, ‘Oh, do not do this detestable thing that I hate!’ 5 But they did not listen or turn their ear, to turn from their wickedness and stop burning incense to other gods. 6 So my wrath and my anger poured forth and blazed in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem, and they became a ruin and a desolation, as they are this day.
7 “And now so says Yahweh, God of Armies, God of Israel: Why are you doing great harm to your own souls, cutting off from yourselves man and woman, child and infant, from the midst of Judah, so as to leave yourselves no remnant? 8 Why do you provoke me by your handiwork, offering incense to other gods in Egypt, the place you moved to, so that you will be destroyed and become a curse and a disgrace among all earth’s nations? 9 Have you forgotten the crimes of your ancestors, of the Judean kings and queens,[c] and your own crimes and those of your wives, committed in Judah and in Jerusalem’s streets? 10 To this day they have not humbled themselves or shown reverence or lived by my law and decrees that I gave to you and your ancestors.
11 “Therefore so says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel: Look, I am setting my face against you for calamity, to cut off all Judah. 12 I will take the remnant of Judah who set their faces to go to the land of Egypt to sojourn there, and in the land of Egypt they will all come to an end: by sword they will fall, by famine they will be consumed, from the least to the greatest; by sword and by famine they will die, and they will become an oath, a horror, a curse, and a reproach. 13 I will punish those who live in the land of Egypt as I punished Jerusalem, with sword, famine, and plague, 14 so that of the remnant of Judah who came to sojourn in the land of Egypt none will escape or survive to return to the land of Judah, to which they long to return and dwell;

for they will not return, except some fugitives."[d] 15 Every man aware that his wife was offering incense to other gods, every woman present—a vast gathering—and the whole populace dwelling in Egypt's land, in Pathros, made reply to Jeremiah: 16 "As for the word you have spoken to us in Yahweh's name, we will not listen to you. 17 Rather, we will certainly do everything we have vowed: burn incense to the Queen of Heaven[e] and pour out drink offerings to her, as we did, we and our fathers, our kings and our officials, in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem. Then we had plenty of food, and we were well off and saw no calamity. 18 But since we stopped burning incense to the Queen of Heaven and pouring out drink offerings to her, we have lacked everything and have been consumed by sword and by famine." 19 The women added,[f] "And when we were offering incense to Heaven's Queen and pouring libations to her—was it apart from our husbands that we baked her cakes stamped with her likeness[g] and poured libations to her?" 20 To the whole people—men, women, every one of them who had replied in this way—Jeremiah then spoke: 21 "The incense that you burned in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem, you and your fathers, your kings and your officials, and the people of the land
—did not Yahweh remember it? Did it not come into his mind? 22
Yahweh could no longer tolerate your evil deeds and the detestable things you did. So your land became a wasteland, a horror and a curse, empty of people, as you see today. 23 Because you burned incense and sinned against Yahweh and did not obey the voice of Yahweh or walk in his law, his statutes, and his testimonies, therefore this calamity has come upon you, as at this day."
24 Jeremiah said further to all the people and all the women, "Hear Yahweh's word, all Judah who are in the land of Egypt: 25 This is what Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel, says: You and your wives have declared with your mouths and carried out with your hands what you said: 'We will keep the vows we made, to burn incense to the Queen of Heaven and pour out drink offerings to her.' Go ahead, then, keep your vows and fulfill them! 26 But hear Yahweh's word, all you people of Judah who live in Egypt: Look, I swear by my great name, says Yahweh, that no one from Judah anywhere in Egypt will ever again invoke my name by saying, 'As the Lord Yahweh lives.' 27 Look, I am watching over them for calamity and not for good. All the men of Judah in the land of Egypt will come to an end by sword and by famine until they are wholly gone. 28 Those who escape the sword will come back from Egypt to Judah, only a few, and all the survivors of Judah who went to Egypt to live will find out whose word stands, mine or theirs. 29 And this will be the sign for you, declares Yahweh, that I will punish you in this place, so that you may know that my words will surely stand against you for calamity: 30 So says Yahweh: Look, I am giving Pharaoh Hophra[h] king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies and of those who seek his life, as I gave Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, his enemy, who sought his life."

Notes

- a (44:1) Hebrew Noph, Memphis, the old capital of Lower Egypt near modern Cairo.
- b (44:1) Pathros, Upper (southern) Egypt.
- c (44:9) Hebrew "his wives"; the Septuagint reads "of your princes" (Brenton). Item for scholarly review.
- d (44:14) Verses 1–14 are a sermon after the pattern of 7:1–15 and 11:1–17.
- e (44:17) Probably the goddess Ishtar or Astarte (compare 7:18). The Hebrew vowels read melekheth, "work" or "handiwork," perhaps a scribal attempt to avoid the title; many Hebrew manuscripts read malkath, "queen."
- f (44:19) The Hebrew lacks this clause; it is supplied because the speakers are the women ("our husbands"). Some ancient witnesses are reported to include it; Brenton does not.
- g (44:19) Or "to portray her," perhaps cakes in the shape of the goddess or stamped with her image.
- h (44:30) Hophra, Egyptian Wahibre (Greek Apries), Pharaoh 589–570 B.C. He was overthrown in a revolt and later killed. The Septuagint calls him "Uaphres" (Brenton).

Chapter 45

1 This is the message the prophet Jeremiah gave to Baruch son of Neriah, when Baruch wrote these words in a scroll as Jeremiah dictated, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah:[a]
2 "So says Yahweh, God of Israel, concerning you, Baruch: 3 You said, ‘Woe is me! For Yahweh has added sorrow to my pain; I am worn out with my groaning, and rest I do not find.’ 4 Thus you shall say to him: ‘So says Yahweh: Look, what I have built I am tearing down, and what I have planted I am uprooting—that is, the whole land.[b] 5 And you—great things you are hunting for yourself? Hunt them not. For look, upon all flesh I am bringing disaster, declares Yahweh; but your life I will hand you as booty wherever you may go.’”

Notes

- a (45:1) That is, 605–604 B.C., the year of chapter 36; this short word to Baruch is placed out of chronological order. In the Septuagint it stands at the end of the material corresponding to chapter 44 (Brenton 51:31–35).
- b (45:4) The Septuagint lacks “that is, the whole land” (Brenton 51:34).

Chapter 46

1 The word of Yahweh that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning the nations.[a]

2 About Egypt. This concerns the army of Pharaoh Neco[b] king of Egypt, which was camped at Carchemish[c] on the Euphrates River, and which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon defeated in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah:

3 “Make ready buckler and shield,
and advance to battle!
4 Harness the horses;
mount, you horsemen!
Take your stations in helmets;
polish the lances;
put on the coats of mail!
5 Why have I seen it?
They are panic-stricken, falling back;
their warriors are beaten down;
they have fled headlong
and do not look back—
terror on every side![d] declares Yahweh.
6 Let not the swift flee,
nor the warrior escape;

in the north, by the river Euphrates,
they have stumbled and fallen.
7 "Who is this, swelling like the Nile,
like streams with heaving waters?
8 Egypt swells like the Nile,
like streams with heaving waters.
'Up I will surge,' he said; 'the earth I will flood;
towns and their townsfolk I will wipe out.'
9 Charge, you horses;
rage, you chariots!
Let the warriors march out:
Cush and Put who handle the shield,
the Ludim who handle and bend the bow.[e]
10 That day belongs to the Lord Yahweh of Armies,
a day of revenge, when he takes vengeance on his enemies.
The sword will eat until it is full
and drink until it is satisfied with their blood;
for the Lord Yahweh of Armies will hold a slaughter
in the northern land by the Euphrates River.
11 Go up to Gilead and get balm,
O virgin daughter of Egypt!
In vain you have multiplied remedies;
there is no new skin for you.
12 The nations have heard of your shame,
and your cry has filled the earth;
for warrior has stumbled against warrior;
together the two of them have fallen."
13 The word that Yahweh spoke to Jeremiah the prophet about the coming of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon to strike the land of Egypt:
14 "Declare it in Egypt, proclaim it in Migdol;
proclaim it in Memphis and in Tahpanhes;
say, 'Take your stand and get ready,
for the sword devours all around you.'

15 Why has your mighty one been swept away?[f]
He did not stand, because Yahweh thrust him down.
16 Many he caused to totter;
one toppled onto another;
then they said, ‘Up! Back to our kin,
back to the country that bore us,
far from the sword of the oppressor.’
17 There they cried out, ‘Pharaoh king of Egypt is but a noise;
he has let the appointed time go by.’[g]
18 As I live, declares the King, whose name is Yahweh of Armies,
like Tabor among the mountains,
like Carmel by the sea, one will come.
19 Pack your bags for exile,
you who dwell there, daughter of Egypt!
For Memphis will become a waste,
a ruin without inhabitant.
20 “Egypt is a lovely young cow,
but a horsefly from the north has landed on her—yes, landed!
21 Her mercenaries too, there within her,
are like stall-fattened calves;
they as well wheel around and run, all at once;
they hold no ground;
for their day of disaster is upon them,
their hour of reckoning.
22 Her sound is like a serpent slithering away,[h]
for in force they march,
and with axes they come against her like woodcutters.
23 They will cut down her forest, declares Yahweh, impenetrable though it is,
for they are more than locusts;
they are without number.
24 The daughter of Egypt is put to shame;
she is given into the hand of a people from the north.”

25 Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel, says: "Look, I am bringing punishment on Amon of No,[i] and on Pharaoh, and on Egypt with her gods and her kings, on Pharaoh and on those who trust in him. 26 I will deliver them to those seeking their lives, to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and his officers. Later, though, people will live in Egypt as in former times, declares Yahweh.[j]

27 "But you, fear not, O Jacob my servant,
and do not lose heart, O Israel;
for look, I will rescue you from far away,
your offspring from the land of their captivity.
Jacob will come home and be at rest, untroubled,
with none to make him afraid.

28 Do not be afraid, Jacob my servant, declares Yahweh,
for I am with you.
I will completely destroy all the nations
where I have scattered you,
but I will not completely destroy you.
I will discipline you fairly,
but I will certainly not let you go unpunished."[k]

Notes

- a (46:1) Verse 1 heads the oracles against the nations (chapters 46–51). It is absent from the Septuagint (Brenton), which places these oracles after 25:13, in a different order (Elam, Egypt, Babylon, Philistia, Edom, Ammon, Kedar, Damascus, Moab), in Brenton's numbering 25:14 through chapter 31 (see the introduction to Jeremiah).
- b (46:2) Neco II, Pharaoh 610–595 B.C. (compare 2 Kings 23:29–35).
- c (46:2) Carchemish, on the upper Euphrates, where Nebuchadnezzar defeated the Egyptian army in 605 B.C. The Septuagint reads "Charmis" (Brenton).
- d (46:5) Hebrew magor missaviv; compare 6:25; 20:3, 10.
- e (46:9) Cush is the upper Nile region; Put probably Libya; the Ludim perhaps Lydians or an African people.
- f (46:15) The Hebrew word division is uncertain. The Septuagint divides the letters differently and reads "Why has Apis fled from you? Your choice calf has not remained" (Brenton, modernized), a reference to the sacred bull of Memphis. Item for scholarly review.
- g (46:17) Hebrew sha'on he'evir hammo'ed, a pun on Pharaoh's name or title. The Septuagint transliterates: "Saon esbeie moed" (Brenton).
- h (46:22) Hebrew "her voice goes like the serpent," perhaps the hiss of a snake fleeing the woodcutters.

- i (46:25) Amon was the chief god of No (Thebes) in Upper Egypt. The Septuagint reads “Ammon her son” (Brenton).
- j (46:26) Verse 26 is absent from the Septuagint (Brenton).
- k (46:28) Verses 27–28 nearly repeat 30:10–11. Here the Septuagint has them (Brenton 26:27–28).

Chapter 47

1 The word of Yahweh that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning the Philistines, before Pharaoh struck Gaza:[a]
2 This is what Yahweh says:
“Look, water is rising in the north,
turning into a flooding river;
it will flood the land and everything in it,
the city and its residents.
People will cry out,
and every resident of the land will wail
3 at the noise of the stamping hoofs of his stallions, at the rattle of his chariots, the rumble of their wheels.
Fathers do not turn back for their children,
so limp are their hands,
4 because of the day that is coming to destroy all the Philistines, to cut off from Tyre and Sidon
every helper who remains.
For Yahweh is destroying the Philistines,
the remnant of the coastland of Caphtor.[b]
5 Shaven bald is Gaza;
Ashkelon struck dumb.
You leftovers of their lowland,[c]
how long will you slash at your flesh?
6 Ah, sword of Yahweh,
how long till you are quiet?
Put yourself back into your sheath;
rest and be still!
7 How can it rest,[d]
when Yahweh has given it orders?

He has assigned it to Ashkelon and the coast."

Notes

- a (47:1) The occasion is uncertain; perhaps Neco's campaign about 609 B.C. The Septuagint lacks "that came to Jeremiah the prophet" and "before Pharaoh struck Gaza," reading only "Thus says the Lord against the Philistines" (Brenton, modernized).
- b (47:4) Caphtor, probably Crete or the Aegean region, from which the Philistines were said to have come (Amos 9:7). The Septuagint does not name Caphtor, reading "the remaining inhabitants of the islands" (Brenton 29:4).
- c (47:5) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "the remnant of the Enakim" (Brenton), that is, the Anakim. Item for scholarly review.
- d (47:7) So the Septuagint and other ancient versions; the Hebrew reads "How can you be quiet."

Chapter 48

1 Concerning Moab.[a]
So says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel:
"Woe to Nebo, for it is laid waste!
Kiriathaim is put to shame, it is captured;
the stronghold[b] is put to shame and shattered.
2 Moab's renown is no more;
in Heshbon they plotted harm against her:[c]
'Come, let us cut her off from being a nation!'
You too, O Madmen, will be struck dumb;
after you the sword will go.
3 Hark! A cry from Horonaim:
'Devastation and great ruin!'
4 Moab is broken;
her little ones have made their cry heard.
5 For up the ascent of Luhith
they go weeping, weeping as they climb;
for on the descent of Horonaim
they have heard the anguished cry of ruin.
6 Flee! Save your lives!
Be like a juniper in the wilderness.[d]

7 For because you trusted in your works and your treasures,
you also will be captured;
and Chemosh[e] will go out into exile,
his priests and his officials together.
8 A destroyer will enter every town,
and not one will get away;
the valley will be ruined and the plateau devastated,
just as Yahweh has said.
9 Give wings to Moab,[f]
for she must fly away;
her towns will become a desolation,
with none to dwell in them.
10 Cursed is he who does Yahweh's work with slackness, and cursed is he who holds back his sword from blood.
11 "At ease has Moab been from his youth,
settled on his dregs;
he has not been poured from vessel to vessel,
nor has he gone into exile;
so his flavor has stayed in him,
and his scent is unchanged.
12 Therefore look, days are coming, declares Yahweh,
when I will send him pourers who will pour him out;
they will empty his vessels
and smash their jars.[g] 13 Then Moab will be ashamed of Chemosh, as the house of Israel was ashamed of Bethel, their confidence.[h] 14 "How can you say, 'We are warriors, mighty men for battle'?
15 The destroyer of Moab and her towns has come up, and the pick of his young men have gone down to the slaughter,
declares the King, whose name is Yahweh of Armies.
16 The calamity of Moab is near at hand,
and his disaster hastens swiftly.
17 Mourn him, every neighbor of his,
every one acquainted with his fame;

cry, ‘Alas, snapped is the sturdy rod,
the splendid staff!’
18 Come down from your glory
and sit on the parched ground,
O inhabitant, daughter of Dibon!
For the destroyer of Moab has come up against you;
he has ruined your fortresses.
19 Stand beside the road and watch,
you who live in Aroer!
Question the man who is running away and the woman who is escaping;
ask, ‘What happened?’
20 Moab is put to shame, for it is broken;
wail and cry out!
Tell it by the Arnon
that Moab is laid waste.
21 “Judgment has come upon the plateau, upon Holon, Jahzah, and Mephaath, 22 upon Dibon, Nebo, and Beth-diblathaim,
23 upon Kiriathaim, Beth-gamul, and Beth-meon, 24 upon Kerioth and Bozrah, and upon all the towns of the land of Moab, far and near.
25 The horn of Moab is cut off, and his arm is broken, declares Yahweh.
26 “Make him drunk,
for he magnified himself against Yahweh;
let Moab wallow in his vomit,
and he too shall become a laughingstock.
27 Was Israel not an object of ridicule to you?
Was he found among thieves,
so that each time you mentioned him
you shook your head?
28 Quit the towns; make your home among the cliffs,
you dwellers of Moab!

Become like a dove that builds on the far walls of a ravine's mouth.
29 We have heard of the pride of Moab—
very proud is he—
of his loftiness, his pride, his arrogance,
and the haughtiness of his heart.
30 I know his insolence, declares Yahweh;
his boasts are false,
his deeds are false.
31 Therefore I wail for Moab;
for all Moab I cry out;
for the men of Kir-heres[i] one moans.
32 Beyond the weeping for Jazer I weep for you, vine of Sibmah!
Over the sea your shoots stretched out;
to Jazer's sea[j] they extended;
onto your ripe summer fruit and your grape harvest
the ravager has pounced.
33 Gone, swept off, are glee and merriment
from the orchard land, from Moab's land;
wine from the vats I have stopped;
no treader tramples with a cheer;
the cheer is no harvest cheer.
34 Heshbon cries, and to Elealeh,
to Jahaz, their voices carry,
from Zoar to Horonaim and to Eglath-shelishiyah;
for Nimrim's waters too
are turned to wasteland.
35 And I will bring to an end in Moab, declares Yahweh, him who offers on the high place
and burns incense to his god.
36 Therefore my heart moans for Moab like flutes, and my heart moans like flutes for the men of Kir-heres;
therefore the riches they gained have perished.

37 Yes, shorn is every head, trimmed short is every beard;
cuts on every hand,
on every waist sackcloth.
38 On all of Moab's rooftops and in its public squares
there is only mourning;
for I have smashed Moab
like a jar nobody wants, declares Yahweh.
39 Shattered—how they howl!
Moab—how he turns tail in disgrace!
A mockery Moab has turned into,
a terror to all his neighbors."
40 For so says Yahweh:
"Look, one will swoop like an eagle
and spread his wings over Moab.[k] 41 Kerioth[l] is captured,
and the strongholds are seized.
The heart of Moab's warriors on that day
will be like the heart of a woman in labor.
42 Moab will be destroyed from being a people,
because he magnified himself against Yahweh.
43 Terror, pit, and trap[m] are upon you, O inhabitant of Moab,
declares Yahweh.
44 The one fleeing from terror
tumbles into the pit;
the one clambering up out of the pit
is caught fast by the trap.
For this I will bring on Moab—
their year of reckoning, declares Yahweh.
45 "In the shelter of Heshbon
the refugees stand powerless;[n]
for a fire has blazed from Heshbon,
a flame from Sihon's house;

it has burned up Moab's brow,
the skulls of the noisy sons of battle.
46 Woe to you, O Moab!
The people of Chemosh are undone;
for your sons have been taken captive,
and your daughters into captivity.
47 Yet I will restore the fortunes of Moab
in the latter days, declares Yahweh."
Thus far the judgment on Moab.

Notes

- a (48:1) Moab lay east of the Dead Sea. Much of this oracle parallels Isaiah 15–16, and verses 45–46 parallel Numbers 21:28–29; 24:17.
- b (48:1) Or "Misgab," a place-name.
- c (48:2) Hebrew beḥeshbon ḥashevu, a play on the name Heshbon ("reckoning") and the verb "plot." "Madmen" (a town) likewise plays on tiddommi, "you will be silenced."
- d (48:6) Or "like Aroer"; the Septuagint reads "as a wild donkey in the desert" (Brenton, modernized).
- e (48:7) Chemosh, the national god of Moab. The Septuagint spells it "Chamos" (Brenton).
- f (48:9) Hebrew tsits, usually "flower" or "wing"; the meaning is uncertain (perhaps "salt" or "a gravestone"). The Septuagint reads "Set marks upon Moab" (Brenton).
- g (48:12) The image is of wine settled on its lees, now poured off by "tilters" who tip the jars.
- h (48:13) Bethel may be the town of the northern sanctuary or the name of a deity known from other ancient sources.
- i (48:31) Kir-heres, "wall of potsherds," probably the Moabite capital Kir-hareseth (Isaiah 16:7, 11).
- j (48:32) Some Hebrew manuscripts and Isaiah 16:8 lack "sea of"; the text is uncertain.
- k (48:40) The Septuagint lacks the eagle image here and the second half of verse 41 (Brenton 31:40–41); compare 49:22.
- l (48:41) Or "The towns." Kerioth may be a place-name or the plural "towns."
- m (48:43) Hebrew paḥad wapaḥath wapaḥ, a sound play. Compare Isaiah 24:17–18.
- n (48:45) Verses 45–47 are absent from the Septuagint (Brenton).

Chapter 49

1 About the Ammonites.[a]
This is what Yahweh says:

"Does Israel have no children?
No one to inherit?
Then why has Milcom[b] taken over Gad,
and his people moved into its towns?
2 For this reason, look, the time is coming, declares Yahweh,
when I will sound the war cry
against Rabbah of the Ammonites;
it will become a ruined heap,
and its surrounding villages will be set ablaze;
then Israel will take the land from those who took it from him,
says Yahweh.
3 Howl, Heshbon—Ai lies ravaged!
Shriek, you daughters of Rabbah!
Wrap on sackcloth, keen,
dart back and forth among the walled pens!
For off to captivity Milcom marches,
his priests with his chiefs alongside.
4 Why do you boast of your valleys,
your valley flowing,[c] O faithless daughter,
who trusted in her treasures, saying,
'Who will come against me?'
5 Look, I am bringing terror upon you,
declares Lord Yahweh of Armies,
from all who are around you;
you will be driven out, each straight ahead,
with none to gather the fugitives.
6 Yet later the lot of Ammon's people I will turn back again,
is Yahweh's utterance."[d]
7 Concerning Edom.[e]
So says Yahweh of Armies:
"Is wisdom no more in Teman?
Has counsel perished from the prudent?
Has their wisdom gone stale?
8 Flee, turn back, dwell in the depths,
O inhabitants of Dedan!

For I will bring the calamity of Esau upon him,
the time when I punish him.
9 If grape pickers came to you,
wouldn't they leave some grapes behind?
If thieves came at night,
they would take only as much as they wanted.[f]
10 But I have stripped Esau bare;
I have exposed his hiding places,
so that he cannot hide.
His descendants, relatives and neighbors are wiped out,
and he is gone.
11 Abandon your fatherless; I myself will preserve them;
on me let your bereaved wives rely."
12 This is what Yahweh says: "Look, those who did not deserve to drink the cup will have to drink it; and will you be the one to escape without any punishment? You will not escape; you will certainly drink.
13 For by myself I have sworn, declares Yahweh, that Bozrah[g] will become a horror, a reproach, a waste, and a curse, and all her towns will be perpetual wastes."
14 I have heard a message from Yahweh,
and a messenger has been sent to the nations:
"Assemble and march against her,
and get ready for battle!"
15 "For look, I will make you small among the nations, despised among mankind.
16 The fear you cause has fooled you,
along with your proud heart,
you who live in the rock crevices,[h]
who occupy the mountaintop.
Even if you build your nest as high as an eagle's,
I will pull you down from there,
declares Yahweh.
17 Edom will become an object of horror;
all who pass by will be shocked and whistle at all its injuries.

18 As happened at the toppling of Sodom and Gomorrah with their adjoining towns, Yahweh says,
not one person will reside there;
no mortal will so much as camp in her.
19 See, as a lion climbs out of Jordan's jungle toward an ever-green grazing ground,
in a moment I will chase him off it,
and whoever I pick I will set in charge of it.
Who compares with me? Who will call me to court?
Which shepherd can hold his ground before my face?"
20 So hear the plan Yahweh has devised against Edom
and the intentions he has toward the people of Teman:
the youngest of the flock will certainly be dragged off;
their pasture will certainly be horrified at their fate.
21 At the sound of their fall the earth shakes;
the cry—at the Red Sea[i] its sound is heard.
22 Mark it: as an eagle mounts and plunges,
so one spreads wide his feathers above Bozrah;
the hearts of Edom's champions in that hour
will flutter like a woman's in childbirth.
23 About Damascus.
"Disgraced are Hamath and Arpad,
for an evil report has reached their ears;
they dissolve with dread; at the sea is turmoil;[j]
it can find no rest.
24 Damascus has grown feeble; she turns to flee,
and panic has seized her;
anguish and pangs have taken hold of her,
like a woman in labor.
25 How is the city of praise not forsaken,[k]
the town of my joy?
26 Because of this her young men will fall in her public squares,
and all her warriors will be quiet on that day,
declares Yahweh of Armies.

27 And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus, and it will consume the strongholds of Ben-hadad."[l]
28 Concerning Kedar and the kingdoms of Hazor,[m] which Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon struck down.
So says Yahweh:
"Rise up, go up against Kedar!
Destroy the people of the east!
29 Tents and flocks will be seized from them,
their tent hangings and every article;
camels they will lead off as their own,
shouting over them, 'Dread all around!'
30 Run! Roam far away! Make your homes deep down, dwellers of Hazor, is Yahweh's utterance!
For Babylon's king Nebuchadrezzar has devised a scheme against you, contrived a design against you.
31 Arise, march against a nation lounging at ease,
untroubled in its living, is Yahweh's utterance,
a people without door or bolt,
encamped apart from all.
32 Plunder their camels will be,
their droves of cattle booty.
To every wind I will fling the ones with trimmed temples,[n]
and from all quarters I will fetch their ruin, declares Yahweh.
33 Hazor will become a lair for jackals,
a permanent wasteland;
nobody will live there,
no person will stay in it."
34 The word of Yahweh that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning Elam,[o] at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah:
35 So says Yahweh of Armies:
"Look, I am breaking the bow of Elam,
the chief of their might.
36 I will bring four winds against Elam
from the four corners of the sky,

and scatter them in every direction;
there will be no nation
that Elam's exiles do not reach.
37 I will break Elam in front of its enemies
and in front of those who want its life;
I will bring disaster on them,
my burning anger, declares Yahweh;
I will send the sword after them
until I have finished them off.
38 In Elam I will set up my seat of rule;
king and princes I will abolish thence,
is Yahweh's utterance.
39 Yet when the final days come Elam's captivity I will turn around,
is Yahweh's utterance."

Notes

- a (49:1) Ammon lay northeast of Moab, with its capital at Rabbah (modern Amman). In the Septuagint the Ammon oracle follows those on Edom (Brenton 30:17–22).
- b (49:1) Milcom, the god of the Ammonites (1 Kings 11:5). The Hebrew vowels read malkam, "their king"; the Septuagint has "Melchol" (Brenton).
- c (49:4) Or "your ebbing valley"; the Hebrew is uncertain. The Septuagint reads "the plains of the Enakim" (Brenton).
- d (49:6) Verse 6 is absent from the Septuagint (Brenton).
- e (49:7) Edom, south of the Dead Sea, descended from Esau. Verses 9–10 and 14–16 closely parallel Obadiah 1–6.
- f (49:9) Or "would they not destroy only what was enough for them?"
- g (49:13) Bozrah, a chief city of Edom.
- h (49:16) Hebrew sela, perhaps also a play on the city Sela (2 Kings 14:7).
- i (49:21) Hebrew Yam Suph, "Sea of Reeds."
- j (49:23) Or "there is anxiety like the sea."
- k (49:25) Or "How the city of praise has been forsaken!" Some versions lack "not."
- l (49:27) Ben-hadad, "son of Hadad," a name borne by several Aramean kings of Damascus.
- m (49:28) Kedar, an Arabian tribe; Hazor here is probably a region of village settlements (Hebrew ḥatser), not the city in Galilee. The Septuagint reads "Kedar the Queen of the Palace" (Brenton).
- n (49:32) Or "who shave their temples." Compare 9:26; 25:23.

- o (49:34) Elam, east of Babylonia. In the Septuagint this oracle comes first among the oracles against the nations, after 25:13 (Brenton 25:14–20), with the date at its end.

Chapter 50

1 The word that Yahweh spoke concerning Babylon, concerning the land of the Chaldeans, by the hand of Jeremiah the prophet:[a]

2 "Declare among the nations and proclaim it;
raise a signal flag, proclaim it, do not hide it;
say: 'Babylon is captured,
Bel[b] is put to shame,
Merodach is shattered;
her images are put to shame,
her idols[c] are shattered.'

3 For from the north a people climbs up to attack her;
her country it will turn to waste,
with no one living there;
human and animal alike have bolted and vanished.

4 "In those days and at that time, declares Yahweh,
the people of Israel will come,
they and the people of Judah together,
weeping as they come,
and Yahweh their God they will seek.

5 They will ask the way to Zion,
with their faces turned toward it, saying,
'Come, let us join ourselves to Yahweh
in an everlasting covenant that will never be forgotten.'

6 My people have been lost sheep;
their shepherds led them astray,
turning them loose on the mountains;
from mountain to hill they went;
they forgot their fold.

7 All who found them devoured them,
and their foes said, 'We are not guilty,

because they sinned against Yahweh, the pasture of righteousness, Yahweh, the hope of their fathers.'
8 "Flee from the midst of Babylon, go out from the land of the Chaldeans,
and be like male goats before the flock.
9 For look, I am rousing and sending against Babylon
a coalition of great nations from the northern country;
they will line up against her;
from that direction she will be captured.
Their arrows are like those of a skilled[d] warrior who never returns with nothing.
10 Chaldea will be loot;
her looters will all eat their fill, declares Yahweh.
11 "Exult you may, celebrate you may,
you pillagers of my inheritance;
skip you may like a calf on the threshing ground,
whinny you may like warhorses, 12 your mother will be deeply ashamed;
the one who gave birth to you will be humiliated.
Look, she will be the least of the nations,
an empty, parched wilderness.
13 Because of Yahweh's wrath she will not be inhabited
but will be wholly desolate;
everyone who passes by Babylon will be appalled
and hiss because of all her wounds.
14 Array yourselves against Babylon all around,
all you who bend the bow;
shoot at her; spare no arrows,
for she has sinned against Yahweh.
15 Shout against her from every side:
she has surrendered;[e]
her towers have fallen;
her walls have been torn down.
This is Yahweh's revenge:

get revenge on her;
treat her as she has treated others.
16 Wipe out of Babylon the one who sows
and the one who swings the sickle at harvest time;
because of the oppressing sword[f]
everyone will go back to his own people,
and everyone will run to his own country.
17 "Israel is a scattered sheep,
driven away by lions.
First the king of Assyria devoured him,
and now at last Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon has gnawed his bones.
18 Therefore so says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel:
Look, I am punishing the king of Babylon and his land,
as I punished the king of Assyria.
19 I will return Israel to his own grazing land,
and he will feed on Carmel and Bashan,
and his hunger will be satisfied
on the hills of Ephraim and in Gilead.
20 In those days and at that time, declares Yahweh,
iniquity will be sought in Israel, and there will be none,
and sins in Judah, and none will be found;
for I will pardon those whom I leave as a remnant.
21 "Attack the land of Merathaim,[g] attack it and those who live in Pekod;
kill them and destroy them completely, declares Yahweh,
and do everything I have ordered you.
22 The sound of battle is in the land,
and great destruction!
23 Ah, the sledge that pounded all the world—
hacked off, splintered!
Ah, Babylon—a thing of horror
in the eyes of the peoples!
24 A trap I laid for you, Babylon, and you were snared
before you were aware;

discovered you were, and gripped,
since against Yahweh you picked a fight.
25 Yahweh has opened his storehouse
and taken out the weapons of his fury,
for the Lord Yahweh of Armies has a task
in the land of the Chaldeans.
26 Close in on her from the remotest edge;
break open her storehouses;
heap her like sheaves, and put her under the ban;
leave her no remainder.
27 Kill all her bulls;
let them go down to the slaughter.
Woe to them, for their day has come,
the time of their punishment.
28 "Hark! Fugitives and escapees from the land of Babylon, to declare in Zion
the vengeance of Yahweh our God,
vengeance for his temple.[h] 29 Call up bowmen to Babylon,
every one who draws the bow;
pitch camp on every side of her;
allow no one to slip out.
Pay her back for her conduct;
the way she acted, act toward her;
for against Yahweh she was insolent,
against Israel's Holy One.
30 So her young men will fall in her public squares, and all her warriors will be silenced on that day, declares Yahweh.
31 Look, I am against you, O Arrogance,[i]
declares Lord Yahweh of Armies,
for your day has come,
the time when I punish you.
32 The arrogant one will trip and fall,
and no one will lift him up;

I will set his towns on fire,
and it will burn up everything around him.
33 "Yahweh of Armies says this:
Crushed are Israel's people,
and Judah's people along with them;
their captors all clutch them tight;
they will not release them.
34 But their Redeemer is strong;
his name is Yahweh of Armies.
He will certainly take up their case,
bringing rest to the earth
but turmoil to the people of Babylon.
35 Sword upon the Chaldeans, declares Yahweh,
upon those who live in Babylon,
upon her princes and upon her sages!
36 Sword upon the babblers,[j] so that they turn foolish!
Sword upon her heroes, so that they shatter with fear!
37 A sword against her horses and her chariots,
and against all the mixed peoples in her midst,
that they may become like women!
A sword against her treasures, that they may be plundered!
38 Parching[k] upon her waters, so that they dry up!
For hers is a country of carved figures,
and over monstrous idols they rave.
39 Therefore desert creatures with jackals will dwell there,
and ostriches will dwell in her;
she will never again be inhabited or settled from generation to generation.[l] 40 As when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighbors, declares Yahweh, no one will dwell there,
no human being will sojourn in her.
41 "Look, a people is coming from the north,
a great nation and many kings
stirred up from the farthest parts of the earth.[m]

42 They are armed with bow and spear;
they are cruel and merciless.
Their roar sounds like the sea;
they ride horses,
all in line like one man for battle against you, daughter of Babylon!
43 The king of Babylon heard the report of them,
and his hands fell limp;
anguish seized him,
pain like a woman in labor.
44 "See, as a lion climbs from the jungle of the Jordan toward an ever-green grazing ground,[n]
in a moment I will chase them off it,
and whoever I pick I will set in charge of it.
Who compares with me? Who will call me to court?
Which shepherd can hold his ground before my face?
45 Therefore hear the plan that Yahweh has made against Babylon and the purposes he has formed against the land of the Chaldeans:
surely the little ones of the flock will be dragged away;
surely their pasture will be appalled at them.
46 At the sound of the capture of Babylon the earth shakes, and a cry is heard among the nations."

Notes

- a (50:1) The Septuagint begins simply "The word of the Lord which he spoke against Babylon" (Brenton, modernized). Chapters 50–51 form the longest oracle in the book; in the Septuagint they are chapters 27–28 (Brenton).
- b (50:2) Bel ("lord") and Merodach (Babylonian Marduk) are titles of the chief god of Babylon. The Septuagint reads "Belus is confounded; the fearless, the luxurious Maerodach is delivered up" (Brenton, modernized).
- c (50:2) Hebrew gillulim, a contemptuous term, perhaps "dung pellets."
- d (50:9) So many manuscripts and ancient versions; other Hebrew manuscripts read "a bereaving."
- e (50:15) That is, surrendered.
- f (50:16) Or "the sword of the dove." The Septuagint reads "the Grecian sword" (Brenton), taking hayyonah as Yawan, "Greece."
- g (50:21) Merathaim ("double rebellion") and Pekod ("punishment") are wordplays on Babylonian place-names, Mat Marratim (the marsh region of southern Babylonia) and the Puqudu people. The Septuagint lacks both names, reading "Go up against it roughly" (Brenton).

- h (50:28) The Septuagint lacks "vengeance for his temple" (compare Brenton 27:28).
- i (50:31) Hebrew zadon, personified.
- j (50:36) Hebrew baddim, "empty talkers," that is, oracle priests.
- k (50:38) Hebrew ḥorev, a sound play on ḥerev, "sword," in verses 35–37. Some read "sword" here too.
- l (50:39) Compare Isaiah 13:20–22; 34:13–15.
- m (50:41) Verses 41–43 adapt 6:22–24, once spoken against Zion, now against Babylon.
- n (50:44) Verses 44–46 adapt 49:19–21, once spoken against Edom.

Chapter 51

1 This is what Yahweh says:
"Look, I am rousing a destroying spirit against Babylon
and the people of Leb-kamai.[a] 2 And I will send to Babylon winnowers, and they will winnow her
and empty her land,
for they will be against her on every side
in the day of disaster.
3 Against the one who strings the bow let the archer string his,[b] against the one who struts in his mail.
Show no pity to her youths;
put her whole host under the ban.
4 They will fall slain in the land of the Chaldeans,
pierced through in her streets.
5 For Israel and Judah have not been widowed by their God, by Yahweh of Armies, though their land is full of guilt
against the Holy One of Israel.
6 Run away from Babylon;
everyone must save his own life!
Do not die because of her guilt,
for this is the time of Yahweh's revenge;
he is giving her what she deserves.

7 A golden cup was Babylon in the hand of Yahweh, making all the earth drunk;
the nations drank of her wine;
therefore the nations went mad.
8 Suddenly Babylon has fallen and is shattered;
wail for her!
Take balm for her pain;
perhaps she may be healed.
9 We tried to heal Babylon,
but she could not be healed.
Leave her, and let each of us go back to his own country,
for her sentence reaches the sky
and rises as high as the clouds.
10 Yahweh has brought forth our vindication;
come, let us tell in Zion
the work of Yahweh our God.
11 "Sharpen the arrows!
Fill the quivers![c]
Yahweh has stirred up the spirit of the kings of the Medes,[d]
for his purpose concerning Babylon is to destroy it;
for it is the vengeance of Yahweh,
vengeance for his temple.
12 Raise a battle flag against Babylon's walls;
reinforce the guard;
station the watchmen;
prepare the ambushes;
for Yahweh has planned and also carried out
what he said about the people of Babylon.
13 O you who dwell by many waters,
rich in treasures,
your end has come,
the measure of your unjust gain.[e]

14 Yahweh of Armies has sworn by himself:
‘Surely I will fill you with men, as with locusts,
and they will raise the shout of victory over you.’
15 “He made the earth by his power,
established the world by his wisdom,
and by his understanding stretched out the heavens.[f] 16 At the sound of his thunder the waters overhead clamor,
and vapors climb at his bidding from earth’s far rim.
Lightning flashes he fashions to go with the rain,
and from his treasure chambers he releases the gale.
17 Every man is stupid, without knowledge;
every goldsmith is put to shame by his idol,
for his cast image is a lie,
and there is no breath in them.
18 Hollow puffs they are, a laughable craft;
when their reckoning comes they will vanish.
19 Unlike these is Jacob’s Share,
since it is he who shaped everything,
and Israel is the clan he claims as his own;[g]
Yahweh of Armies—that is his name.
20 “A mace you are for me,[h] a tool of war:
by you I smash peoples;
by you I bring realms to ruin;
21 with you I shatter the horse and its rider;
with you I shatter the chariot and its driver; 22 by you I smash husband and wife;
by you I smash the aged and the lad;
by you I smash the youth and the maiden;
23 by you I smash herdsman and herd;
by you I smash plowman and yoke of oxen;
by you I smash prefects and deputies.
24 Yet Babylon and every resident of Chaldea I will pay back for every wicked act of theirs committed in Zion—
with your own eyes watching, declares Yahweh.

25 “See, I stand against you, mountain of ruin, declares Yahweh,
you that ruin all the world;
my hand I will reach out at you,
tumble you off the cliffs,
and turn you into a mountain of cinders.
26 No stone will be taken from you for a corner,
nor any stone for a foundation,
but you will be a perpetual desolation, declares Yahweh.
27 “Raise a signal flag in the land;
blow the ram’s horn among the nations;
consecrate nations against her;
summon kingdoms against her, Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz;[i] appoint a marshal against her;
bring up horses like bristling locusts.
28 Consecrate nations against her,
the kings of the Medes,
their governors and all their commanders,
and every land under their dominion.
29 The land quakes and writhes,
for Yahweh’s purposes against Babylon stand,
to make the land of Babylon a desolation
with no inhabitant.
30 The warriors of Babylon have ceased fighting;
they sit in their strongholds;
their strength has dried up;
they have become like women.
Her dwellings are set on fire;
her bars are broken.
31 Runner runs to meet runner,
and messenger to meet messenger,
to tell the king of Babylon
that his city is captured from end to end;

32 the fords have been seized,
the reed marshes[j] burned with fire,
and the soldiers are terrified.
33 For so says Yahweh of Armies, God of Israel:
The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing floor
at the time it is trodden;
yet a little while
and the time of her harvest will come.
34 "He has eaten me up, Nebuchadrezzar, Babylon's king;[k]
he has thrown me into confusion;
he has left me standing like a jar drained dry;
like a dragon he has gulped me down;
with my choice morsels he has stuffed his stomach;
he has flushed me away.
35 'May the violence done to me and my body fall on Babylon,' let the people of Zion say.
'May my blood fall on those who live in Chaldea,' let Jerusalem say.
36 Therefore so says Yahweh:
Look, I will plead your cause
and take vengeance for you.
I will dry up her sea
and make her fountain dry, 37 and Babylon will become a heap of ruins,
a haunt of jackals,
a horror and a hissing,
without inhabitant.[l] 38 Together they roar like lions;
they growl like lions' cubs.
39 While they are heated I will set out their feast
and make them drunk, that they may revel,
then sleep a perpetual sleep
and not wake, declares Yahweh.
40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter,
like rams and male goats.

41 “How Sheshach[m] is captured,
the praise of the whole earth seized!
How Babylon has become a horror
among the nations!
42 The sea has come up over Babylon;
she is covered by its roaring waves.
43 Her cities are turned to ruin,
a parched country, a steppe,
a country where nobody lives,
which no human being crosses.
44 Bel I will punish in Babylon,
and make him spit up what he gulped.
No longer will peoples flow to him like a river;
yes, Babylon’s wall is down.
45 “Go out of her midst, my people![n]
Let each one save his life
from the fierce anger of Yahweh!
46 Let your courage not sink,
nor be frightened by rumors heard around the land,
when one rumor arrives this year,
and next year yet another rumor,
with brutality throughout the land,
one ruler set against another.
47 For this reason, see, the days approach
when Babylon’s carved gods I will call to account;
her entire country will be disgraced,
and all her fallen will lie inside her.
48 Then sky and earth with everything in them will sing aloud over Babylon,
since from the north her ravagers will arrive,
declares Yahweh.
49 For Israel’s slain Babylon herself must topple, as by Babylon’s doing the slain of all the earth toppled.
50 “You who have escaped the sword,
go, do not stand still!

Remember Yahweh from far away,
and let Jerusalem come into your mind:
51 'We are put to shame, for we have heard reproach;
disgrace has covered our faces,
for foreigners have entered the holy places of the house of Yahweh.'
52 Therefore look, days are coming, declares Yahweh,
when I will punish her images,
and through all her land the wounded will groan.
53 Though Babylon should mount up to heaven,
and though she should fortify her lofty stronghold,
from me destroyers would come upon her,
declares Yahweh.
54 "Hark! A cry from Babylon!
Great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans!
55 For Yahweh is laying Babylon waste and silencing her great noise;
their waves roar like many waters;
the din of their voice resounds.
56 Yes, a ravager has reached her—Babylon;
captured are her champions;
snapped are their bows;
for a God who requites is Yahweh;
full payment he will exact.
57 I will make her officials and wise men drunk,
her governors, deputies and warriors;
they will sleep a never-ending sleep and not get up,
declares the King, whose name is Yahweh of Armies.
58 "Yahweh of Armies declares this:
Babylon's wide rampart
will be razed flat,
and her towering gates
set ablaze.
So peoples toil in vain,
and nations wear themselves out just to feed the flames."[o]

59 This is the message the prophet Jeremiah gave to Seraiah[p] son of Neriah, the son of Mahseiah, when Seraiah went to Babylon with Zedekiah king of Judah in the fourth year of Zedekiah's reign. Seraiah was the officer in charge of arranging camp.[q] 60 Jeremiah wrote in one scroll all the disaster that would come upon Babylon, all these words that are written concerning Babylon.
61 Jeremiah told Seraiah, "When you get to Babylon, make sure you read all these words aloud, 62 and say, 'O Yahweh, you have spoken concerning this place, to cut it off, so that nothing will dwell in it, neither man nor beast, and it will be a perpetual desolation.'
63 Once you have read the scroll to the end, fasten a stone to it and fling it into the Euphrates' midstream, 64 then say, 'In this way Babylon will go under, never to surface again, because of the ruin I am bringing on her; and they will be worn out.'"[r]

To this point the words of Jeremiah extend.

Notes

- a (51:1) Leb-kamai, literally "the heart of those who rise against me," is an atbash cipher for Kasdim, "Chaldeans" (each letter replaced by its mirror in the alphabet, as with Sheshach; see 25:26). The Septuagint reads simply "against the Chaldeans dwelling therein" (Brenton, modernized). Item for scholarly review.
- b (51:3) So the Hebrew consonants, which repeat "bend"; the Hebrew vowels and some ancient versions read instead "Let not the archer bend his bow, nor rise up in his armor." The text is difficult.
- c (51:11) Or "Take up the shields."
- d (51:11) The Medes, from northwestern Iran, joined in the overthrow of Assyria and later formed part of the Persian empire that took Babylon in 539 B.C.
- e (51:13) Hebrew "the cubit (ammah) of your cutting off," an idiom for the measure of a life or gain; the sense is uncertain.
- f (51:15) Verses 15–19 repeat 10:12–16.
- g (51:19) So many Hebrew manuscripts and 10:16; the Hebrew here lacks "Israel is."
- h (51:20) Hebrew mappets, "shatterer." The speaker addresses Babylon (or possibly Cyrus); the verb "shatter" (napats) is repeated nine times.
- i (51:27) Ararat (Urartu, near Lake Van), Minni (the Mannaeans), and Ashkenaz (the Scythians) were peoples to the north. The Septuagint reads "by me, and that for the people of Achanaz" (Brenton, modernized).
- j (51:32) Hebrew agammim, "pools" or "reed thickets."
- k (51:34) So the Qere; the Kethib reads "us" throughout this verse. Zion speaks here.

- l (51:37) Verse 37 is shortened in the Septuagint: "And Babylon shall be a desolation, and shall not be inhabited" (Brenton).
- m (51:41) Sheshach is an atbash cipher for Babel (Babylon); see 25:26. The Septuagint lacks the name here, reading "How has the boast of all the earth been taken" (Brenton, modernized). Item for scholarly review.
- n (51:45) Verses 45–48 are absent from the Septuagint, and verse 49 there begins "and in Babylon the slain men of all the earth shall fall" (Brenton).
- o (51:58) Compare Habakkuk 2:13. The Septuagint reverses the sense: "and the peoples shall not labor in vain, nor the nations fail in their rule" (Brenton, modernized).
- p (51:59) Seraiah, "Yahweh is prince," was the brother of Baruch (compare 32:12). The Septuagint reads "when he went from Zedekiah" (Brenton, modernized), suggesting an embassy sent by the king rather than the king himself making the journey.
- q (51:59) Hebrew sar menuḥah, "officer of the resting place," that is, in charge of the king's lodgings on the march. The Septuagint reads "over the bounties" (Brenton), taking it as minḥah, "gift" or "tribute."
- r (51:64) The Septuagint lacks "and they will be worn out" and the closing line about the words of Jeremiah (Brenton 28:64). The words "they will be worn out" repeat the end of verse 58 and may have marked the end of the oracle before chapter 52, a historical appendix, was added.

Chapter 52

1 Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem.[a] His mother's name was Hamutal daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. 2 He did what was evil in the eyes of Yahweh, just as Jehoiakim had done.[b] 3 Yahweh's anger was the reason this happened to Jerusalem and Judah, until he threw them out of his sight. Zedekiah then rebelled against the king of Babylon.
4 In the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign, on the tenth day of the tenth month (December–January),[c] Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon marched against Jerusalem with his whole army; they set up camp around it and built siege works on every side. 5 The siege of the city lasted right up to King Zedekiah's eleventh year. 6 In the fourth month (in June–July),[d] on the ninth day of the month, the famine became severe in the city, and there was no food for the people of the land.
7 Then the city was breached, and all the soldiers fled; they went out of the city by night by way of the gate between the two walls, by the king's garden, while the Chaldeans were all around the city; and they went toward the Arabah.[e] 8 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued the king and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho, and all his army scattered from him. 9 They seized the king and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he pronounced sentence upon him. 10 The king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes; he also slaughtered all the officials of Judah at Riblah. 11 Then he blinded the eyes of Zedekiah, bound him in bronze shackles, and the king of Babylon brought him to Babylon and put him in the house of custody[f] until the day of his death.

12 On the tenth day of the fifth month (July–August),[g] in the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, an officer serving the king of Babylon, entered Jerusalem. 13 He set fire to Yahweh's house, the royal palace and all the houses of Jerusalem; he burned down every large building. 14 And all the army of the Chaldeans who were with the captain of the guard broke down all the walls around Jerusalem. 15 Some of the poorest of the people, and the rest of the people who were left in the city, and the deserters who had gone over to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the craftsmen, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried into exile.[h] 16 But Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left some of the poorest of the land to be vinedressers and plowmen.
17 The Chaldeans smashed the bronze pillars of Yahweh's house, along with the stands and the bronze basin called the Sea in Yahweh's house, and carried all the bronze to Babylon. 18 They also took away the pots, the shovels, the snuffers, the basins, the ladles, and all the bronze vessels used in the temple service. 19 The captain of the guard also took the bowls, fire pans, basins, pots, lampstands, ladles and drink-offering bowls—everything made of gold or silver. 20 The bronze of the two pillars, the Sea, the twelve bronze bulls under it,[i] and the stands that King Solomon had made for Yahweh's house was too heavy to weigh. 21 As for the pillars, the height of each pillar was twenty-seven feet,[j] and a cord of eighteen feet would go around it; its thickness was about three inches; it was hollow. 22 A bronze capital stood on top, seven and a half feet high,[k] with a network and pomegranates around the capital, all bronze; the second pillar was the same, with its pomegranates. 23 There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides;[l] all the pomegranates on the latticework all around numbered one hundred.

24 The captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief priest, Zephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the threshold; 25 From the city, too, he removed a eunuch who had charge over the fighting men, seven of those admitted to the king's presence[m] who turned up in the city, the army commander's scribe who enlisted the populace for war, and sixty of the common people discovered inside the city. 26
Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took them and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. 27 And the king of Babylon struck them down and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath.
So Judah went into exile from its land.
28 This is the number of the people whom Nebuchadrezzar carried into exile:[n] in the seventh year, 3,023 Judeans; 29 in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar, 832 persons from Jerusalem; 30 in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadrezzar, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried into exile 745 Judeans; all the persons were 4,600.
31 In the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month (in February–March),[o] on the twenty-fifth day of the month, Evil-merodach[p] king of Babylon, in the year he became king, lifted up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah and brought him out of prison. 32 He spoke kindly to him and set his seat above the seats of the kings who were with him in Babylon. 33 So Jehoiachin put off his prison garments, and he ate bread regularly in the king's presence all the days of his life. 34 His upkeep, a steady ration, was supplied him by Babylon's king, each day's share on its day, till he died—every day he lived.[q]

Notes

- a (52:1) About 597–586 B.C. Chapter 52 closely parallels 2 Kings 24:18–25:30, with differences noted below; it serves as a historical appendix showing the fulfillment of Jeremiah's words.
- b (52:2) Verses 2–3 are absent from the Septuagint (Brenton).
- c (52:4) Hebrew Tevet; January 588 B.C. The Septuagint reads "in the ninth month" (Brenton).

- d (52:6) Hebrew Tammuz; July 586 B.C. (some date it to 587). The Septuagint lacks "in the fourth month" (Brenton). See the note at 39:2.
- e (52:7) Arabah, the rift valley of the Jordan.
- f (52:11) Or "the house of punishment"; the Septuagint reads "the grinding-house" (Brenton). 2 Kings 25:7 lacks the last clause.
- g (52:12) Hebrew Av; August 586 B.C. 2 Kings 25:8 has "the seventh day." The Septuagint lacks the clause about the nineteenth year (Brenton).
- h (52:15) Verse 15 is absent from the Septuagint (Brenton).
- i (52:20) 2 Kings 25:16 lacks "the twelve bronze bulls"; the Septuagint here has "the twelve brazen oxen under the sea" (Brenton).
- j (52:21) Hebrew "eighteen cubits" (about 8.1 m); the cord was "twelve cubits" (about 5.4 m); the thickness "four fingers" (about 7.5 cm). The Septuagint reads "thirty-five cubits" for the height (Brenton).
- k (52:22) Hebrew "five cubits," about 2.25 m. 2 Kings 25:17 has "three cubits."
- l (52:23) Or "facing the winds" (toward the four directions); the meaning is uncertain.
- m (52:25) Hebrew "seven men who saw the king's face"; 2 Kings 25:19 has five.
- n (52:28) Verses 28–30 are absent from the Septuagint (Brenton) and from 2 Kings 25. The figures (597, 586, and 582 B.C.) appear to follow a different reckoning, counting Nebuchadrezzar's years from his accession, which explains why the "eighteenth year" here corresponds to the "nineteenth year" of verse 12.
- o (52:31) Hebrew Adar; March 561 B.C. 2 Kings 25:27 has "the twenty-seventh day"; the Septuagint here reads "the four and twentieth day" (Brenton).
- p (52:31) Evil-merodach, Babylonian Amel-Marduk, "man of Marduk," son of Nebuchadrezzar (562–560 B.C.). The Septuagint spells it "Ulaemadachar" and adds that he "shaved him" (Brenton).
- q (52:34) The book closes with Jehoiachin alive and honored in exile, a quiet sign of hope for the line of David. The Septuagint ends with "until the day when he died" (Brenton), lacking "all the days of his life"; compare 2 Kings 25:30.

Lamentations

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 How[a] she sits alone,[b]
the city once thronged with people!
She has become like a widow,
she who was great among the nations;
a princess among the provinces
has been put to forced labor.
2 She sobs[c] all night long,
tears streaming down her face;
among all those who loved her
not one is left to console her;
all her companions have deceived her
and turned against her.
3 Judah[d] has been carried off, afflicted
and worked hard as a slave;
she lives among foreign peoples
and has found no place to rest;
all who chased her caught her
in the tight passes.
4 Zion's highways[e] are in mourning,
with no pilgrims arriving for the festivals;
every gate of hers lies deserted;
her priests sigh;
her maidens are wretched,[f]
and as for her—bitterness.
5 Her foes[g] have become the head;
her enemies are at ease,
for Yahweh has afflicted her
for the multitude of her transgressions;

her little children have gone away,
captives before the foe.
6 From[h] the daughter of Zion has departed
all her splendor.
Her princes have become like stags
that find no pasture;
they went without strength
before the pursuer.
7 Jerusalem calls to mind,[i] in her days of misery and homelessness,
all her treasured things
that she owned in ages past.
As her people dropped into the enemy's grip,
with no one coming to her aid,
her adversaries stared at her;
they laughed at her collapse.[j]
8 Grievously[k] has Jerusalem sinned;
therefore she has become a thing unclean;[l]
all who honored her despise her,
for they have seen her nakedness;
she herself groans
and turns away.
9 Her uncleanness[m] is in her skirts;
she gave no thought to her end;
astonishingly she has come down,
with none to comfort her.
"See, O Yahweh, my affliction,
for the enemy has magnified himself!"
10 His hand[n] the adversary has thrust out upon every treasure of hers;
for she watched the pagans
march into her holy place—
those you had forbidden to join your congregation.[o] 11 All[p] her people groan
as they search for bread;

they give their treasures for food
to bring back life.
"See, O Yahweh, and look,
how worthless I have become!"
12 "Is it[q] nothing to you, all you who pass along the road?[r] Look and see
if there is any pain like my pain,
which was dealt out to me,
which Yahweh inflicted
on the day of his fierce anger.
13 Out of the heights[s] he hurled fire;
down into my bones he drove it;[t] he stretched a net to snare my feet;
he made me turn back;
he left me forlorn,
sick the whole day through.
14 My offenses[u] are fastened as a yoke;[v]
his hand has woven them together;
they have been lifted onto my neck;
he has drained my strength;
the Lord has delivered me
into the power of those I cannot resist.
15 The Lord[w] has thrown aside
every warrior among my people;
he has called a gathering to wipe out
my young men;
the Lord has stomped the grapes
of Judah's virgin daughter.
16 For these things[x] I weep;
my eye, my eye runs down with water;
for far from me is a comforter,
one to restore my life;
my children are desolate,
for the enemy has prevailed."

17 Zion[y] reaches out with her hands;
no one is there to console her;
Yahweh issued orders concerning Jacob:
those around him must be his adversaries;
Jerusalem has turned into something defiled in their midst.
18 "Yahweh[z] is in the right,
for I defied what he commanded;[aa]
listen, all you peoples,
and look at my suffering;
my girls and my young men have been taken prisoner.
19 I called[ab] to my lovers,
but they deceived me;
my priests and my elders
perished in the city
while they sought food for themselves
to bring back their life.
20 See,[ac] O Yahweh, for I am in distress;
my inner parts churn;
my heart is turned over within me,
for I have been very rebellious.
Outside the sword bereaves;
inside, it is like death.
21 They heard[ad] that I groan,
with none to comfort me;
all my enemies heard of my trouble;
they rejoice that you have done it.
Bring on the day you have proclaimed,
and let them be as I am.
22 May every[ae] wicked deed of theirs come into your view;
treat them harshly,
as harshly as you treated me
because of every rebellion of mine;

for many are my sighs,
and sick is my heart."

Notes

- a (1:1) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter aleph (א) (the first letter of the Hebrew alphabet).
- b (1:1) Hebrew ʾekah, "How!", the cry of a funeral dirge and the Hebrew title of the book. The Septuagint prefaces the verse: "And it came to pass, after Israel was taken captive, and Jerusalem made desolate, that Jeremiah sat weeping, and lamented with this lamentation over Jerusalem, and said" (Brenton, modernized).
- c (1:2) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter beth (ב).
- d (1:3) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter gimel (ג).
- e (1:4) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter daleth (ד).
- f (1:4) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "her virgins are led captive" (Brenton).
- g (1:5) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter he (ה).
- h (1:6) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter vav (ו).
- i (1:7) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter zayin (ז).
- j (1:7) Hebrew mishbattehah, perhaps "her cessation" or "her ruin"; the word is rare. This verse has four lines in the Hebrew where most stanzas have three couplets.
- k (1:8) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter heth (ח).
- l (1:8) Hebrew nidah, perhaps "a shaking of the head" or, by a slightly different reading, "impure," as with menstrual impurity (compare verse 17).
- m (1:9) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter teth (ט).
- n (1:10) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter yod (י).
- o (1:10) Compare Deuteronomy 23:3.
- p (1:11) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter kaph (כ).
- q (1:12) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter lamed (ל).
- r (1:12) The Hebrew is difficult; literally "Not to you," perhaps "May it not happen to you."
- s (1:13) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter mem (מ).
- t (1:13) So the Septuagint (Brenton, "he has brought it into my bones"); the Hebrew reads "and it prevailed over it."
- u (1:14) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter nun (נ).
- v (1:14) The Hebrew is uncertain; the Septuagint reads "He has watched over my sins" (Brenton).
- w (1:15) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter samekh (ס).
- x (1:16) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter ayin (ע).
- y (1:17) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter peh (פ).
- z (1:18) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter tsade (צ).
- aa (1:18) Hebrew "his mouth."
- ab (1:19) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter qoph (ק).

- ac (1:20) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter resh (ר).
- ad (1:21) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter shin (ש).
- ae (1:22) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter tav (ת).

Chapter 2

1 Ah, how[a] the Lord in his wrath
has wrapped daughter Zion in cloud![b]
Out of the sky to the dust he has hurled Israel's glory;
his own footrest[c] he has put out of mind
in the day of his fury.
2 Pitilessly[d] the Lord has gulped down
every homestead of Jacob;
in his rage he has demolished
daughter Judah's fortresses;
he has leveled them to the earth;
kingdom and rulers he has desecrated.
3 In fierce anger he has chopped off[e]
all Israel's strength;
he has pulled back his right hand
when the enemy came;
he has blazed up against Jacob like a fire in flames consuming everything near.
4 He has drawn[f] his bow like an enemy,
his right hand poised like an adversary;
he has killed everything pleasing to see in the tent of Daughter Zion;
like fire, his rage has poured out.
5 The Lord[g] has become like an enemy;
he has swallowed up Israel;
he has swallowed up all her palaces;
he has laid waste his strongholds,
and multiplied in daughter Judah
mourning and moaning.[h]

6 He has wrecked[i] his booth like a garden;
he has laid waste his meeting place;
Yahweh has made Zion forget appointed feast and sabbath,
and in the indignation of his anger
has spurned king and priest.
7 His altar[j] the Lord has spurned,
his holy place renounced;
into the enemy's grip he has handed over
the ramparts of her citadels;
in Yahweh's house they made an uproar
like the din of a festival day.
8 Yahweh[k] resolved to wreck
daughter Zion's wall;
he stretched the surveyor's cord;
his hand he did not draw back from ruin;
he set bulwark and wall to grieving;
both alike waste away.
9 Sunk[l] into the ground are her gates;
he has ruined and broken her bars;
her king and her princes are among the nations;
there is no instruction;[m]
her prophets also find no vision from Yahweh.
10 Silent on the earth[n] sit daughter Zion's elders;
dust they have tossed upon their heads;
sackcloth they have wrapped round;
Jerusalem's maidens
droop their heads to the earth.
11 My eyes[o] are spent with tears;
my inner parts churn;
my liver[p] is poured out on the ground
because of the ruin of the daughter of my people,

as infant and nursing child faint
in the squares of the city.
12 Their mothers[q] they keep asking,
"Where is bread, where is wine?"
while swooning like men struck down
in the town's open places, while their breath ebbs away
in their mothers' laps.
13 What witness[r] can I offer you? What likeness find for you, daughter Jerusalem?
What match can I set beside you, to console you,
maiden daughter Zion?
For wide as the ocean is your shattering;
who could mend you?
14 Your prophets'[s] visions for you were emptiness and plaster;[t]
they did not lay bare your guilt
so as to reverse your captivity,
but the oracles they saw for you were empty and led you astray.
15 They clap[u] their hands at you,
all who pass along the way;
they hiss and wag their heads
at daughter Jerusalem:
"Is this the city that was called the perfection of beauty, the joy of all the earth?"
16 All your enemies[w] have opened[v]
their mouths wide at you;
they whistle and grind their teeth;
they cry, "We have devoured her!
This is the day we waited for;
we have lived to see it!"
17 Yahweh[x] has carried out his plan;
he has accomplished the decree
he ordained long ago;

he has demolished without mercy;
he has let the enemy gloat over you
and raised your adversaries' strength.
18 Their heart[y] cried out to the Lord.[z]
O wall of daughter Zion,
let tears run down like a torrent
day and night!
Give yourself no respite;
let not the pupil of your eye be still!
19 Arise,[aa] cry out in the night,
at the beginning of the watches![ab]
Pour out your heart like water
before the face of the Lord!
Lift up your hands to him
for the lives of your little ones, who faint for hunger
at the head of every street.[ac] 20 "Look,[ad] Yahweh, and notice who it is you have treated like this:
should women devour their own fruit,
infants they have nursed?
Should priest and prophet be murdered
in the Lord's holy place?
21 They lie[ae] on the ground in the streets,
young and old;
my young women and my young men
have fallen by the sword;
you have slain them in the day of your anger;
you have slaughtered without pity.
22 You summoned,[af] as to a day of appointed feast,
my terrors from all around;
and on the day of Yahweh's anger
none escaped or survived;
those whom I cherished and reared my enemy has destroyed."

Notes

- a (2:1) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter aleph (א) (the first letter of the Hebrew alphabet).
- b (2:1) Or "has treated with contempt"; the Hebrew verb is rare.
- c (2:1) That is, the ark or the temple (compare 1 Chronicles 28:2; Psalm 132:7).
- d (2:2) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter beth (ב).
- e (2:3) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter gimel (ג).
- f (2:4) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter daleth (ד).
- g (2:5) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter he (ה).
- h (2:5) Hebrew taʾaniyyah waʾaniyyah, a sound play.
- i (2:6) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter vav (ו).
- j (2:7) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter zayin (ז).
- k (2:8) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter heth (ח).
- l (2:9) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter teth (ט).
- m (2:9) Hebrew torah.
- n (2:10) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter yod (י).
- o (2:11) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter kaph (כ).
- p (2:11) The liver was regarded as a seat of the emotions.
- q (2:12) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter lamed (ל).
- r (2:13) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter mem (מ).
- s (2:14) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter nun (נ).
- t (2:14) Hebrew tafel, "whitewash," that which covers over (compare Ezekiel 13:10).
- u (2:15) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter samekh (ס).
- v (2:16) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter peh (פ).
- w (2:16) In the Hebrew this stanza begins with peh and the next with ayin, reversing the order of chapter 1; the Septuagint's letter headings follow ayin–peh, though the verses stand in the Hebrew order (Brenton). The same reversal occurs in chapters 3 and 4.
- x (2:17) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter ayin (ע).
- y (2:18) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter tsade (צ).
- z (2:18) The Hebrew is difficult; some emend to "Cry out from the heart."
- aa (2:19) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter qoph (ק).
- ab (2:19) The Septuagint reads "Arise, rejoice in the night" (Brenton).
- ac (2:19) This stanza has four lines in the Hebrew.
- ad (2:20) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter resh (ר).
- ae (2:21) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter shin (ש).
- af (2:22) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter tav (ת).

Chapter 3

1 I[a]—a man who has looked on misery beneath the staff of his fury.[b] 2
Me he has driven off and made to walk in darkness and not light. 3 Yes,

at me alone he swings his hand, over and over, the whole day long. 4 He[c] has worn away my flesh and my skin; he has broken my bones. 5 He has built siege works against me and ringed me with bitterness and hardship.[d] 6 In dark places he has made me dwell, like those long dead. 7 He has walled[e] me in, and I cannot get out; he has made my chains heavy. 8 Even when I cry and call for help, he shuts out my prayer. 9 He has walled up my ways with hewn stone; my paths he has made crooked. 10 A bear[f] lying in wait he is to me, a lion in hiding. 11 My ways he has turned aside; he has torn me to pieces; he has made me desolate. 12 He bent his bow and set me as a target for the arrow. 13 He has driven[g] into my kidneys the shafts of his quiver.[h] 14 I have become a laughingstock to all my people,[i] their taunt song all the day. 15 He has filled me with bitter herbs; he has sated me with wormwood. 16 He has made[j] my teeth crunch on grit; in the ashes he has pressed me down. 17 My soul is cast off from peace; I have forgotten what good is. 18 So I said, "Gone is my endurance, and my hope from Yahweh." 19 Remember[k] my affliction and my wandering, the wormwood and the poison! 20 My soul remembers it well and is bowed down within me.[l] 21 Yet this I bring back to my heart; for this reason I wait in hope: 22 The steadfast love[m] of Yahweh never ceases;[n] his mercies do not come to an end; 23 they are new every morning; great is your faithfulness. 24 "Yahweh is my portion," says my soul; "therefore I will hope in him." 25 Good[o] is Yahweh to those who wait for him, to the soul who seeks him. 26 Good it is that one should wait in silence for the salvation of Yahweh. 27 Good it is for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth. 28 Let him sit[p] alone and keep silent, when He has laid it on him; 29 let him put his mouth in the dust—perhaps there may be hope;[q] 30 let him give his cheek to the one who strikes, and be filled with reproach. 31 For[r] the Lord will not cast off forever; 32 though he causes sorrow, he shows mercy, so great is his steadfast love; 33 for not willingly does he humble or sadden human beings. 34 To crush[s] underfoot all the prisoners of the earth, 35 to deny a man justice before the face of the Most High, 36 to subvert a person in his lawsuit—does the Lord not see?[t]

37 Who[u] can speak a thing into being, if the Lord did not decree it?
38 Is it not from the mouth of the Most High that both evil and good go forth? 39 What grievance has a living mortal—any man—over the penalty for his sins? 40 Let us search[v] and examine our ways and return to Yahweh! 41 Let us lift up our hearts with our hands to God in heaven: 42 "It is we who sinned and defied you; and you—you did not pardon. 43 You have wrapped[w] yourself in anger and pursued us; you have slain without pity; 44 you have wrapped yourself with a cloud, so that no prayer can pass through; 45 you have made us offscouring and refuse in the midst of the peoples. 46 They have opened[x] their mouths against us, all our enemies;[y] 47 panic and pitfall have come upon us, devastation and destruction;[z] 48 streams of water pour from my eye over the ruin of my people's daughter. 49 My eye[aa] flows on and does not cease, without respite, 50 until Yahweh looks down and sees from heaven; 51 my eye torments my soul because of all the daughters of my city.
52 Hunted[ab] me like a bird have my enemies without cause; 53 they silenced my life in the pit and cast stones on me; 54 waters flowed over my head; I said, "I am cut off." 55 I called[ac] on your name, O Yahweh, from the depths of the pit; 56 you heard my plea: "Do not shut your ear to my cry for help!"[ad] 57 You drew near on the day I called to you; you said, "Do not be afraid!" 58 You have pleaded,[ae] O Lord, the causes of my soul; you have redeemed my life. 59 You have seen, O Yahweh, the wrong done to me; judge my case! 60 You have seen all their vengeance, all their schemes against me. 61 You have heard[af] their taunts, O Yahweh, all their schemes against me, 62 the lips of my assailants and their muttering against me all the day. 63 See their sitting and their rising: I am their taunt song. 64 You will repay[ag] them, O Yahweh, according to the work of their hands. 65 Hardness of heart you will hand them; on them be your curse![ah] 66 You will pursue them in anger and destroy them from under the heavens of Yahweh."

Notes

- a (3:1) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter aleph (א).
- b (3:1) The speaker is an individual sufferer (Hebrew geber, "strong man"), who at times speaks for the whole people (verses 40–47).

- c (3:4) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter beth (ב).
- d (3:5) Hebrew ro'sh utela'ah, "poison and toil"; the Septuagint reads "and compassed my head, and brought travail upon me" (Brenton).
- e (3:7) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter gimel (ג).
- f (3:10) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter daleth (ד).
- g (3:13) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter he (ה).
- h (3:13) Hebrew "the sons of his quiver."
- i (3:14) So most Hebrew manuscripts; some manuscripts and the Syriac read "all peoples."
- j (3:16) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter vav (ו).
- k (3:19) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter zayin (ז).
- l (3:20) So the Hebrew consonants (Kethib); the Qere reads "and bows down." Some rabbinic lists of scribal corrections are reported to include it, as originally "your soul," spoken of God.
- m (3:22) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter heth (ח).
- n (3:22) So the Targum and Syriac, reading tammu; the Hebrew reads "The steadfast love of Yahweh, for we are not consumed" (tamnu). Brenton gives verses 22–24 as a supplement numbered 21a–c ("he has not failed me"); they are reported to be lacking in some major Greek manuscripts.
- o (3:25) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter teth (ט).
- p (3:28) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter yod (י).
- q (3:29) Verse 29 is absent from Brenton's Septuagint.
- r (3:31) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter kaph (כ).
- s (3:34) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter lamed (ל).
- t (3:36) Or "the Lord does not approve."
- u (3:37) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter mem (מ).
- v (3:40) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter nun (נ).
- w (3:43) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter samekh (ס).
- x (3:46) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter peh (פ).
- y (3:46) The peh stanza (verses 46–48) comes before the ayin stanza (verses 49–51), as in chapters 2 and 4.
- z (3:47) Hebrew paḥad wapaḥath … hashshe'th wehashshaver, a sound play.
- aa (3:49) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter ayin (ע).
- ab (3:52) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter tsade (צ).
- ac (3:55) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter qoph (ק).
- ad (3:56) Or "to my sigh, to my cry." The Hebrew lerawḥathi, "for my relief," is uncertain.
- ae (3:58) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter resh (ר).
- af (3:61) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter shin (ש).
- ag (3:64) Each line of this stanza begins with the Hebrew letter tav (ת).
- ah (3:65) Hebrew meginnath lev, perhaps "a covering of heart" or "anguish of heart."

Chapter 4

1 How[a] the gold has grown dim,
the finest gold changed!
The holy stones lie scattered
at the head of every street.
2 Zion's[b] treasured sons, worth their weight in pure gold—
ah, now counted as clay jugs,
things a potter's hands turn out!
3 Even jackals[c] bare the breast and suckle their young;
but the daughter of my people has turned cruel,
like the ostriches in the wilderness.[d] 4 The tongue[e] of the nursing infant cleaves to the roof of its mouth for thirst;
little children beg for bread,
but no one breaks it for them.
5 Those who ate[f] dainties are desolate in the streets;
those reared in scarlet embrace dunghills.
6 For greater[g] was the iniquity of the daughter of my people than the sin of Sodom,[h]
which was overthrown in a moment,
with no hands laid upon her.
7 Her princes[i] were brighter than snow,[j]
whiter than milk;
their bodies were ruddier than coral,
their form like lapis lazuli.
8 Blacker[k] than charcoal their faces have grown;
in the lanes no one knows them;
their hide clings shrunken to their frame,
withered like a stick.
9 Better off[l] were those slain by the sword
than those slain by hunger,

who pine away, pierced,
for lack of the fruits of the field.
10 The hands[m] of compassionate women have boiled their own children;
they became their food
in the ruin of the daughter of my people.
11 Yahweh[n] has used up his rage;
he has unleashed his fierce anger;
he lit a fire in Zion
that has devoured her foundations.
12 Never[o] would earth's kings have credited it,
nor any who live in the world,
that adversary or assailant would march through Jerusalem's gates.
13 It was[p] for the sins of her prophets,
the iniquities of her priests,
who shed in her midst
the blood of the righteous.
14 They staggered[q] through the streets like the blind, soaked in so much blood
that no one dared touch
their clothing.
15 "Off with you! Defiled!"[r] they shouted at them;
"Off, off! Keep your hands away!"
So they ran and roamed about;
among the peoples men said,
"Here they may lodge no more."
16 Yahweh's own presence[s] has dispersed them;[t]
no more will he look upon them;
for priests there was no respect,
for elders no kindness.
17 Still[u] our eyes failed,
looking in vain for help;
from our watchtower we watched
for a nation that could not save.[v]

18 Our footsteps[w] they stalked, barring us from walking in our own plazas;
near was our finish, full our days;
yes, our finish had arrived.
19 Swifter[x] were our pursuers than the eagles of the heavens;
on the mountains they chased us;
in the wilderness they lay in wait for us.
20 The breath[y] of our nostrils, the anointed of Yahweh,[z]
was caught in their pits,
he of whom we said, “Under his shadow
we shall live among the nations.”
21 Be joyful[aa] and celebrate, daughter of Edom,
you who live in the land of Uz![ab]
The cup will come around to you too;
you will get drunk and expose your nakedness.
22 Your guilt,[ac] daughter of Zion, has been paid in full;
he will not keep you in exile any longer;
but your guilt, daughter of Edom, he will punish;
he will lay bare your sins.

Notes

- a (4:1) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter aleph (א) (the first letter of the Hebrew alphabet).
- b (4:2) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter beth (ב).
- c (4:3) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter gimel (ג).
- d (4:3) So the Qere; the Kethib reads a variant spelling. The Septuagint reads “serpents” for “jackals” (Brenton).
- e (4:4) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter daleth (ד).
- f (4:5) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter he (ה).
- g (4:6) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter vav (ו).
- h (4:6) Or “the punishment … than the punishment of Sodom”; Hebrew ʿawon and ḥatta’th can mean both offense and its penalty. Compare Genesis 19.
- i (4:7) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter zayin (ז).
- j (4:7) Or “her consecrated ones,” Hebrew nezireha (compare Numbers 6); the Septuagint reads “Her Nazarites” (Brenton).
- k (4:8) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter heth (ח).
- l (4:9) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter teth (ט).

- m (4:10) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter yod (י).
- n (4:11) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter kaph (כ).
- o (4:12) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter lamed (ל).
- p (4:13) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter mem (מ).
- q (4:14) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter nun (נ).
- r (4:15) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter samekh (ס).
- s (4:16) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter peh (פ).
- t (4:16) Here again peh precedes ayin; the Septuagint's headings read Ain, then Phe, though its verses follow the Hebrew order (Brenton).
- u (4:17) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter ayin (ע).
- v (4:17) Probably Egypt (compare Jeremiah 37:5–10).
- w (4:18) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter tsade (צ).
- x (4:19) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter qoph (ק).
- y (4:20) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter resh (ר).
- z (4:20) That is, King Zedekiah (compare Jeremiah 39:4–7; 52:7–11). The Septuagint reads "our anointed Lord" (Brenton).
- aa (4:21) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter shin (ש).
- ab (4:21) Uz, a region associated with Edom (compare Job 1:1; Jeremiah 25:20). The Septuagint lacks "of Uz" (Brenton).
- ac (4:22) This stanza begins with the Hebrew letter tav (ת).

Chapter 5

1 Remember, Yahweh, what has happened to us;[a] look and see how we are disgraced!
2 Our inheritance has been turned over to strangers,
our houses to foreigners.
3 Orphans we are, without a father;
our mothers are as women bereaved.
4 Our own water we drink for silver;
our wood comes to us for a price.
5 With a yoke on our necks[b] we are driven hard;
we are weary; no rest is given us.
6 To Egypt we have held out the hand,
and to Assyria, to get enough bread.
7 It was our fathers who sinned—they are gone—
yet the load of their guilt is ours to carry.
8 Slaves rule over us;
there is none to tear us from their hand.

9 At the peril of our lives we get our bread,
because of the sword in the wilderness.
10 Our skin is hot as an oven
from the burning heat of famine.
11 Women in Zion are ravished,
young women in the towns of Judah.
12 By their hands officials are strung up;
elders' faces get no regard.
13 Young men carry the millstone,[c]
and boys stagger under loads of wood.
14 Gone from the gate are the old men,
gone from their songs the youths.
15 Our hearts' gladness is at an end;
our dancing is changed to grief.
16 The crown has fallen from our head;
woe to us, for we have sinned!
17 Because of this our hearts are faint;
because of all this our eyes are clouded, 18 for Mount Zion, which lies desolate;
foxes[d] prowl over it.
19 Yet you, Yahweh, sit enthroned for all time;
your seat of rule stands age after age.
20 Why will you forget us forever,
forsake us for so many days?
21 Turn us back to yourself, O Yahweh, and we shall turn;
renew our days as of old—22 —or have you cast us off completely, raging against us beyond measure?[e]

Notes

- a (5:1) Chapter 5 is not an acrostic, but it has twenty-two verses, matching the letters of the alphabet, and its lines are mostly balanced couplets rather than the lament meter of chapters 1–4. Some Latin manuscripts are reported to title it "A Prayer of Jeremiah the Prophet."
- b (5:5) So a slight emendation; the Hebrew reads "Upon our necks we are pursued."

- c (5:13) The Septuagint reads “The chosen men lifted up the voice in weeping” (Brenton).
- d (5:18) Or “jackals.”
- e (5:22) The Hebrew of verse 22 (ki ʾim) is difficult; it may also be read “unless you have utterly rejected us.” In synagogue reading, verse 21 is repeated after verse 22 so that the book does not end on a note of rejection. The Septuagint reads “For you have indeed rejected us” (Brenton, modernized).

Ezekiel

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 In the thirtieth year,[a] on the fifth day of the fourth month (in June– July),[b] while I was among the exiles beside the Chebar canal,[c] the heavens opened and I saw visions of God. 2 It was the fifth day of the month, in the fifth year after King Jehoiachin was taken into exile[d]
— 3 the word of Yahweh came directly to the priest Ezekiel[e] son of Buzi,[f] in Chaldean territory beside the Chebar canal; and the hand of Yahweh was upon him there.
4 As I watched, a storm wind was sweeping in from the north: an immense cloud with fire flashing back and forth, a radiance surrounding it, and at its center something that gleamed like glowing metal[g] in the heart of the fire. 5 Within it was the form of four living creatures, and this was how they looked: they had a human shape, 6 but each one had four faces, and each had four wings. 7 Their legs were straight, and their feet were shaped like a calf's hoof; they glittered like burnished bronze. 8 Human hands were under their wings on all four sides. And the faces and wings of the four of them looked like this: 9 their wings touched one another. They did not turn as they moved; each went straight ahead. 10 The form of their faces was this: each of the four had a human face in front, a lion's face on the right, an ox's face on the left, and an eagle's face as well. 11 Those were their faces. Their wings were stretched upward; two wings of each creature touched the wings of the creature beside it, and two wings covered its body.
12 Each moved directly forward. Where the spirit[h] was to go, there they went; they never turned in their going. 13 As for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like burning coals of fire, like torches. Fire moved to and fro among the creatures; the fire was bright, and lightning shot out of it. 14 And the living creatures darted back and forth like flashes of lightning.[i]

15 While I gazed at the living creatures, I noticed one wheel on the ground next to each creature, by all four of them. 16 The wheels and their construction looked like the sparkle of chrysolite;[j] all four had the same form, and they were built as though one wheel were set inside another. 17 In moving they went toward any one of their four sides and did not swing around while going. 18 Their rims were tall and fearsome, and the rims of all four were covered with eyes all around. 19 When the living creatures moved, the wheels moved beside them; when the creatures rose from the ground, the wheels rose too. 20 Where the spirit was to go, there they went, and the wheels lifted up together with them, because the spirit of the living creature[k] was in the wheels. 21 Whenever the creatures went, the wheels went;
whenever they halted, the wheels halted; and whenever they were lifted off the ground, the wheels were lifted alongside them, because the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels.
22 Over the heads of the living creatures was the likeness of a vault,[l] gleaming like awe-inspiring crystal, stretched out above their heads. 23 Beneath the vault their wings were stretched straight out, one toward another; each creature also had two wings covering its body on one side and two on the other. 24 When they moved, I heard the sound of their wings like the roar of vast waters, like the voice of Shaddai,[m] a tumult like the noise of an army. When they stood still, they let their wings drop. 25 Then a voice came from above the vault over their heads; whenever they stood still, they lowered their wings.
26 Above the vault that was over their heads there was the likeness of a throne, like lapis lazuli in appearance,[n] and seated above on that likeness of a throne was a likeness with a human appearance. 27 From what looked like his waist upward I saw something like gleaming metal, with what seemed to be fire enclosing it all around; and from what looked like his waist downward I saw what seemed to be fire, with brightness surrounding him. 28 Like the look of the rainbow that shows in the clouds on a rainy day, such was the radiance all around him. That was how the likeness of the glory of Yahweh appeared.
As soon as I saw it, I threw myself on my face, and I heard a voice speaking.

Notes

- a (1:1) The reference point of "the thirtieth year" is uncertain. It may be Ezekiel's age (the age at which priests began service, Num 4:3), or it may be counted from some other event, such as Josiah's reform.
- b (1:1) Hebrew: "in the fourth month, on the fifth of the month." Months are counted from the spring new year; the fourth month (later called Tammuz) fell in June–July. On the date given in v. 2 this was 593 BC.
- c (1:1) Or "river." The Chebar was a canal of the Euphrates near Nippur in Babylonia.
- d (1:2) That is, 593 BC. Jehoiachin was deported to Babylon in 597 BC (2 Kgs 24:10–15); Ezekiel counts his dates from this exile.
- e (1:3) Ezekiel means "God strengthens" or "may God strengthen." The Greek has "Jezekiel."
- f (1:3) Buzi may mean "my contempt"; the meaning is uncertain.
- g (1:4) Hebrew hashmal, a rare word of uncertain meaning; the Greek has "amber" (electrum). Also in v. 27.
- h (1:12) Or "wind"; also in v. 20.
- i (1:14) Verse 14 is not found in the Greek (Septuagint).
- j (1:16) Hebrew tarshish, a precious stone of uncertain identity, perhaps beryl or topaz.
- k (1:20) Or "the spirit of life"; "living creature" here is singular, perhaps referring to the creatures as a whole.
- l (1:22) Or "platform," "expanse"; the same word as in Gen 1:6.
- m (1:24) Shaddai is a divine name, traditionally "the Almighty"; its original meaning is uncertain. The Greek lacks "like the voice of Shaddai."
- n (1:26) Hebrew sappir, probably lapis lazuli rather than the modern sapphire.

Chapter 2

1 He said to me, "Son of man,[a] get to your feet, and I will speak to you."
2 While he was speaking with me, the Spirit came into me and stood me upright, and I listened to the one who addressed me. 3 He said to me, "Son of man, I am sending you to the people of Israel, to rebellious nations that have rebelled against me. They and their ancestors have revolted against me to this very day. 4 The descendants are hard-faced and stubborn-hearted. I am sending you to them, and you will say to them, 'This is what the Lord Yahweh says.' 5 Whether they hear or hold back—since they are a house of rebels—they will come to know that a prophet has lived among them. 6 As for you, son of man, do not be afraid of them or of their words. Even though briars and thorns surround you and you sit among scorpions, do not fear their words or be shaken by their looks, for they are a rebellious house. 7 You are to speak my words to them whether they listen or refuse, for they are rebellious.

8 "But you, son of man, listen to what I am telling you. Do not be rebellious like that rebellious house. Open your mouth and eat what I am giving you." 9 Then I looked, and a hand was stretched out to me, and in it was a written scroll. 10 He spread it open in front of me; it was inscribed inside and out, and on it were written laments, mourning, and woe.

Notes

- a (2:1) Hebrew ben adam, "son of a human being," an idiom meaning "human one" or "mortal." It stresses the prophet's frailty before God and is used about ninety times in Ezekiel. The traditional rendering is kept because of the related expression in Dan 7:13 and Jesus' use of "the Son of Man" in the Gospels.

Chapter 3

1 He said to me, "Son of man, eat what is in front of you. Eat this scroll, then go and speak to the house of Israel." 2 So I opened my mouth, and he fed me the scroll. 3 He said to me, "Son of man, let your stomach take in this scroll I give you, and fill your insides with it." So I ate, and in my mouth it tasted sweet as honey.
4 Then he said to me, "Son of man, go now to the house of Israel and speak my words to them. 5 It is not to a nation of strange lips and heavy tongue that you are sent, but to the house of Israel— 6 not to many peoples of unintelligible speech and hard language whose words you could not understand. Surely, if I had sent you to them, they would listen to you. 7 But the Israelites will not be willing to hear you, since they are not willing to hear me; the whole nation is hard-headed and hard-hearted. 8 Look, I am making your face firm to match their faces, and your brow firm to match their brows. 9 I have made your forehead like a diamond,[a] harder than flint. Do not fear them or be dismayed by their looks, for they are a rebellious house." 10 He said to me, "Son of man, take to heart all my words that I speak to you, and listen closely. 11 Go now to the exiles, to your own people.

Speak to them and tell them, 'This is what the Lord Yahweh says,' whether they listen or refuse."
12 Then the Spirit raised me up, and I heard behind me the sound of a great earthquake: "May the glory of Yahweh be praised from where he dwells!"[b] 13 What I heard was the wings of the living creatures beating against each other and the rumbling of the wheels next to them, a great roaring noise. 14 The Spirit lifted me and took me away, and I went in bitterness, in the heat of my spirit, with the hand of Yahweh pressing hard on me. 15 I came to the exiles at Tel-abib,[c] the ones living beside the Chebar canal. I sat where they were sitting, and I remained there among them seven days, overwhelmed.
16 At the end of seven days the word of Yahweh came to me: 17 "Son of man, I have set you as a lookout for Israel's house. Whenever a word comes from my mouth, you are to warn them for me. 18 If I tell a wicked man, 'You will surely die,' and you give him no warning—if you say nothing to warn him away from his wicked course so as to save his life—that wicked man will die in his guilt, but I will require his blood from your hand. 19 But if you do warn the wicked, and he does not turn back from his wickedness and his evil course, he will die in his guilt, but you will have rescued your own life. 20 Again, when a righteous person turns from his righteousness and does wrong, and I put a stumbling block before him, he will die. Because you did not warn him, he will die for his sin; the righteous deeds he did will not be remembered, but I will hold you responsible for his blood. 21 But if you do warn the righteous person to avoid sin and he avoids it, he will certainly live, because he heeded the warning, and you will have rescued yourself."
22 There the hand of Yahweh came upon me, and he said to me, "Get up and go out to the valley,[d] and there I will speak with you." 23 So I rose and went out into the valley, and the glory of Yahweh was standing there, just like the glory I had seen beside the Chebar canal; and I threw myself on my face. 24 Then the Spirit entered me and set me on my feet. He spoke with me and said, "Go, shut yourself inside your house. 25 As for you, son of man, ropes will be put on you, and you will be bound with them so that you cannot go out among them. 26

I will make your tongue stick to the roof of your mouth so that you will be mute and unable to rebuke them, for they are a rebellious house. 27 But when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, and you will say to them, 'This is what the Lord Yahweh says.' Whoever will listen, let him listen; whoever will refuse, let him refuse; for they are a rebellious house."

Notes

- a (3:9) Hebrew shamir, a very hard stone, perhaps emery or diamond.
- b (3:12) With a slight change of one letter, the Hebrew could read "as the glory of Yahweh rose from its place," which many scholars prefer.
- c (3:15) In Hebrew Tel-abib suggests "mound of ripe grain"; it is probably a Hebrew form of a Babylonian name meaning "mound of the flood," that is, an ancient ruin mound.
- d (3:22) Or "plain."

Chapter 4

1 "Now you, son of man, take a clay brick, set it before you, and engrave on it a city, Jerusalem. 2 Lay siege to it: build siege works against it, heap up a ramp against it, set up camps against it, and position battering rams against it all around. 3 Next take an iron baking plate and stand it up as a wall of iron separating you from the city. Set your face against it, so that it is under siege and you are its besieger. This will be a sign to the house of Israel.

4 "Next, lie down on your left side and place on it the guilt of the house of Israel. As many days as you lie on that side, you will carry their guilt. 5 I have assigned you a number of days matching the years of their guilt: three hundred ninety days.[a] So you will bear the guilt of the house of Israel. 6 When you have completed these, lie down a second time, on your right side, and bear the guilt of the house of Judah forty days—a day for each year; I have assigned it to you. 7 Fix your gaze on besieged Jerusalem, bare your arm, and prophesy against the city. 8 Look, I am tying you with cords, and you will not roll from one side to the other until you finish the days of your siege. 9 "Now take wheat, barley, beans, lentils, millet, and spelt; put them together in a single jar and bake your bread from them. All the days you are lying on your side—three hundred ninety days—you will eat

it. 10 The food you eat will be weighed out: about eight ounces[b] a day.
You will eat it at set times. 11 You will also drink water by measure, about two-thirds of a quart[c] a day; drink it at set times. 12 Eat it as you would a barley cake, baking it in their sight over human dung." 13 Yahweh said, "This is how the Israelites will eat their food, defiled, among the nations where I am about to banish them." 14 Then I said,
"Ah, Lord Yahweh! I have never been made unclean. Since boyhood
I have not eaten the flesh of an animal that died naturally or was mauled, and no foul meat has passed my lips." 15 He answered me,
"All right. I will allow you cow manure in place of human excrement, and you may bake your bread on it." 16 Then he said to me, "Son of man, I am going to break the food supply in Jerusalem. They will eat their food by weight, anxiously, and drink their water by measure, in horror, 17 so that they will lack bread and water, stare at one another in horror, and waste away in their guilt.

Notes

- a (4:5) The Greek has "one hundred ninety days" here and in v. 9, and "one hundred fifty days" in v. 4.
- b (4:10) Hebrew: "twenty shekels" (about 230 grams).
- c (4:11) Hebrew: "a sixth of a hin" (about 0.6 liter).

Chapter 5

1 "Now you, son of man, take a sharp sword and use it like a barber's razor, running it over your head and beard. Then take balances and divide up the hair you cut off. 2 A third you are to burn with fire in the middle of the city when the siege days are over. A third you are to take and cut up with the sword around the city. A third you are to scatter to the wind, and I will draw a sword to pursue them. 3 Take from them a few strands and tuck them into the folds of your garment. 4 Then take some more of them, cast them into the fire, and let them burn. Out of that fire a blaze will go forth against the whole house of Israel.
5 "This is what the Lord Yahweh says: This is Jerusalem. I placed her at the center of the nations, with countries all around her. 6 She has defied my laws with more evil than the other nations have, and my decrees more than the lands around her; she has rejected my laws and has refused to follow my decrees. 7 "Therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says: Because you have been more turbulent than the nations around you, have not walked in my statutes or carried out my judgments, and have not even acted by the standards of the nations around you,[a] 8 therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says: I, I myself, am against you. I will carry out judgments in your midst in the sight of the nations. 9 For all your abominations I will deal with you in a way I have not dealt before and in a way I will never deal again. 10 So in your midst fathers will eat their sons, and sons will eat their fathers.

I will carry out punishments against you, and I will scatter whatever is left of you in every direction. 11 Therefore, as I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, because you have defiled my sanctuary with all your detestable things and all your abominations, I myself will withdraw;[b]
my eye will not spare, and I will have no pity. 12 A third of your people will die by plague or perish of hunger inside your walls; a third will be cut down by the sword outside them; and the last third I will scatter in all directions, drawing a sword to pursue them.
13 "Then my anger will be spent, and I will satisfy my fury on them and be appeased. And they will know that I, Yahweh, have spoken in my zeal, when I have spent my fury on them. 14 I will turn you into a wasteland and an object of scorn among the surrounding nations, before the eyes of everyone who travels past. 15 You will become a disgrace and a thing of mockery, an object lesson and a horror to the nations about you, when I bring judgments upon you with anger, fury, and furious punishments. I, Yahweh, have spoken. 16 When I shoot at them the deadly arrows of famine, arrows meant to destroy, which I will send to destroy you, I will increase the famine on you and break your supply of bread. 17 I will send against you famine and savage beasts that will rob you of your children. Pestilence and blood will pass through your streets, and I will bring a sword down on you.
I, Yahweh, have spoken."

Notes

- a (5:7) Some ancient witnesses lack "not," reading "but have acted by the standards of the nations" (compare 11:12).
- b (5:11) Or "I will cut you down"; the Hebrew verb is uncertain.

Chapter 6

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 “Son of man, set your face toward the mountains of Israel and prophesy against them. 3 Say, ‘Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord Yahweh! This is what the Lord Yahweh says to the mountains and the hills, to the ravines and the valleys: Look, I will bring a sword against you, and I will destroy your high places.[a] 4 Your altars will be laid waste and your incense stands broken; and the slain among you I will throw down before your idols.[b] 5 I will lay the corpses of the people of Israel before their idols and scatter your bones around your altars. 6 In all the places where you live, your cities will lie in ruins and your high places will be devastated, so that your altars are broken down and left in ruins, your idols are shattered and finished, your incense altars are chopped down, and everything you made is erased. 7 The slain will fall among you, and you will know that I am Yahweh.
8 “‘Yet I will leave a remnant: some of you will escape the sword among the nations when you are scattered through the countries. 9
Then those of you who escape will remember me among the nations where they are held captive—how I was crushed by their unfaithful hearts that turned away from me, and by their eyes that went lusting after their idols. They will loathe themselves for the evils they have done, for all their abominations. 10 And they will know that I am Yahweh; I did not threaten in vain to bring this disaster on them.’
11 “This is what the Lord Yahweh says: Strike your hands together, stamp your foot, and cry out, ‘How terrible!’ because of all the vile practices of the house of Israel, for they will die by the sword, by hunger and by disease. 12 Whoever is far away will die of plague;
whoever is near will fall by the sword; and whoever remains and is spared will die of famine. So I will spend my fury on them. 13 And you will know that I am Yahweh when their slain lie among their idols around their altars, on every high hill, on all the mountaintops, under every green tree and every leafy oak—wherever they offered soothing aromas to all their idols. 14 I will stretch out my hand against them and make the land a desolate waste, from the wilderness to Diblah,[c] in all their settlements. Then they will know that I am Yahweh.”

Notes

- a (6:3) Local hilltop shrines used for worship, often of other gods.
- b (6:4) Hebrew gillulim, a contemptuous word for idols, perhaps "dung-gods"; it occurs some forty times in Ezekiel.
- c (6:14) The location of Diblah is unknown. Many scholars read Riblah, a town in Syria, since the Hebrew letters d and r look very similar.

Chapter 7

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 "You, son of man—this is what the Lord Yahweh says to the land of Israel:[a] An end! The end has come upon the four corners of the land. 3 The end is here for you now. I will let loose my anger on you, I will judge you by how you have lived, and I will repay you for all your vile practices. 4 My eye will not spare you, and I will have no pity. I will repay you for your ways, and your abominations will remain in your midst. Then you will know that I am Yahweh.
5 "This is what the Lord Yahweh says: Disaster! A unique disaster—look, it is coming! 6 An end has come; the end has come. It has roused itself against you—look, it is coming! 7 Your doom[b] has come to you, inhabitant of the land. The time has come; the day is near—a day of panic, not of joyful shouting on the mountains. 8 Soon I will pour my wrath upon you; I will bring my anger to its full against you. I will judge you according to your ways and hold all your abominations against you. 9 My eye will not spare, and I will have no pity. I will repay you for your ways, and your abominations will remain in your midst. Then you will know that it is I, Yahweh, who strike.
10 "Look, the day! Look, it is coming! Your doom has gone out; the rod has blossomed, arrogance has budded. 11 Violence has grown into a rod of wickedness. None of them will be left—none of their crowd, none of their wealth, nothing of distinction among them.[c] 12 The time has come; the day has arrived. Let the buyer not rejoice or the seller mourn, for wrath is upon all its throng. 13 The seller will not return to what was sold as long as both of them live, for the vision concerns all its throng; it will not be revoked. Because of their guilt, not one of them will preserve his life.[d]

14 “The trumpet has sounded and everything is prepared, yet nobody marches out to fight, because my fury is against their whole crowd. 15
The sword is outside; plague and famine are inside. Whoever is in the field will die by the sword, and whoever is in the city will be devoured by famine and plague. 16 Even if their survivors escape, they will be on the mountains like doves of the valleys, all of them moaning, each for his guilt. 17 Every hand will hang limp, and every knee will run with water.[e] 18 They will put on sackcloth, and horror will cover them.
Shame will be on every face and baldness on every head. 19 They will throw their silver into the streets, and their gold will become a thing unclean. Neither their silver nor their gold will be able to save them on the day of Yahweh’s fury. They will not fill their appetites or their bellies with it, for it was the stumbling block of their guilt. 20 Their beautiful ornaments they turned to pride, and from them they made the images of their abominations and their detestable things. That is why I am making it unclean to them. 21 I will hand it over as loot to foreigners and as spoil to the earth’s most wicked people, and they will defile it. 22 I will avert my face from them as they profane my treasured place. Robbers will come into it and profane it.
23 “Forge a chain,[f] for the land is full of bloody crimes and the city is full of violence. 24 I will bring in the most evil of the nations, and they will seize their houses. I will end the pride of the mighty, and their sanctuaries will be profaned. 25 Anguish is coming! They will look for peace, and there will be no peace. 26 Calamity will follow calamity and rumor will follow rumor. They will seek a vision from a prophet, but instruction will perish from the priest and counsel from the elders.
27 The king will mourn, and the prince will be clothed in desolation;
the hands of the common people will shake. I will treat them as their ways deserve and judge them by their own judgments. Then they will know that I am Yahweh.”

Notes

- a (7:2) The Greek arranges vv. 3–9 in a different order and in a shorter form.
- b (7:7) Hebrew tsephirah, a word of uncertain meaning; also in v. 10. Others render “turn” or “crown.”
- c (7:11) The Hebrew of v. 11 is obscure.

- d (7:13) The Hebrew of v. 13 is difficult; "will preserve his life" may also be rendered "will strengthen himself."
- e (7:17) That is, they will wet themselves with fear.
- f (7:23) The meaning of this phrase is uncertain; the Greek lacks it.

Chapter 8

1 In the sixth year, on the fifth day of the sixth month (in August– September),[a] I was sitting in my house, and the elders of Judah were seated in front of me, when the hand of the Lord Yahweh fell on me there. 2 I looked, and there was a figure that appeared to be fire;[b] from what looked like his waist downward he was fire, and from his waist upward he had a dazzling glow, like gleaming metal. 3 He reached out something shaped like a hand and grabbed me by the hair of my head. The Spirit raised me up between earth and sky and brought me to Jerusalem in visions from God, to the doorway of the north-facing inner gate, where the idol that arouses jealousy stood. 4 And there was the glory of the God of Israel, like the vision I had seen in the valley.
5 Then he said to me, "Son of man, raise your eyes northward." So I raised my eyes northward, and there it was: north of the gate of the altar, at its entrance, stood this idol of jealousy. 6 He said to me, "Son of man, do you see what they are doing? Do you see the terrible vile practices the house of Israel carries on here, which drive me away from my sanctuary? You will see even worse vile practices."
7 Next he led me to the doorway of the court, and as I looked I saw a hole in the wall. 8 "Son of man," he said, "break through the wall."
I broke through the wall, and I found a door. 9 He said to me, "Go in and see the evil abominations they are committing here." 10 I entered and looked: engraved over the whole wall were figures of every sort of crawling creature and detestable animal, together with all the idols of the house of Israel. 11 In front of them stood seventy of the elders of the house of Israel, and Jaazaniah[c] son of Shaphan[d] stood in their midst. Every man held a censer in his hand, and a fragrant cloud of incense was going up. 12 He said to me, "Son of man, do you see what the elders of the house of Israel do in darkness, every one of them in his chamber of carved images? They are saying, 'Yahweh does not see us; Yahweh has abandoned the land.'" 13 He said to me further, "You will yet see them committing abominations greater still."

14 Then he took me to the doorway of the gate of Yahweh's house on the north side, and women were sitting there weeping for Tammuz.[e]
15 He said to me, "Have you seen this, son of man? You will see still greater abominations than these."
16 Then he brought me into the inner court of the house of Yahweh, and there at the entrance of the temple of Yahweh, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men with their backs to the temple of Yahweh and their faces toward the east. They were bowing down eastward to the sun. 17 He said to me, "Have you seen this, son of man? Is it not enough for the house of Judah to commit the abominations they are committing here, that they must also fill the land with violence and provoke me again and again? Look, they are putting the branch to their nose![f] 18 Therefore I will act in fury. My eye will not spare, and I will have no pity. Though they cry in my ears with a loud voice, I will not listen to them."

Notes

- a (8:1) Hebrew: "in the sixth month, on the fifth of the month," counting from the spring new year; this was the month later called Elul, in 592 BC. The Greek has "the fifth month" (July–August).
- b (8:2) Hebrew esh, "fire"; the Greek reads ish, "a man," which many scholars prefer (compare 1:27).
- c (8:11) Jaazaniah means "Yahweh listens."
- d (8:11) Shaphan means "rock badger" (hyrax). He was probably the royal secretary under Josiah (2 Kgs 22:3), whose family supported Jeremiah.
- e (8:14) Tammuz (Sumerian Dumuzi) was a Mesopotamian god of fertility whose death was mourned each summer; the fourth month of the later Jewish calendar (June–July) is named after him.
- f (8:17) The meaning of this expression is uncertain; it apparently describes a pagan ritual gesture or an insult. Jewish tradition reads "to my nose," one of the "corrections of the scribes."

Chapter 9

1 Then he called out in my hearing with a loud voice, "Bring near those appointed to punish the city, each with his weapon of destruction in his hand." 2 Then six men came by way of the upper gate that looks northward, each gripping his weapon of destruction. Among them was a man in linen clothing, with a scribe's writing kit at his side. They entered and stood next to the bronze altar.

3 The glory of the God of Israel rose up from the cherub[a] where it had rested and moved to the doorway of the temple. Then Yahweh called to the man who was wearing linen and had a scribe's inkwell at his waist, 4 and Yahweh told him, "Pass through the city, all through Jerusalem, and mark[b] the foreheads of the people who sigh and groan over all the abominations done within it." 5 While I listened, he said to the others, "Follow him through the city and kill. Show no mercy and spare no one. 6 Old man, youth, and maiden, little ones and women—slay them all, to utter destruction. But do not come near anyone who bears the mark. Start at my sanctuary." So they started with the elders standing in front of the temple. 7 He told them, "Make the temple unclean and fill its courtyards with corpses. Go!" So they went out and killed throughout the city. 8 While they struck the people down and I was left by myself, I threw myself facedown and cried, "Ah, Lord Yahweh! Will you wipe out the whole remnant of Israel in pouring out your fury on Jerusalem?" 9 He answered me, "The wrongdoing of Israel and Judah is enormous. The land is filled with murder, and the city is filled with injustice, because they say, 'Yahweh has forsaken the land, and Yahweh cannot see.' 10 As for me, my eye will not spare, and I will have no pity; I will bring their conduct down on their own heads." 11 Then the man in linen clothing, the writing kit at his side, brought his report: "I have done just as you ordered me."

Notes

- a (9:3) Cherubim were winged heavenly beings, often guardians of holy places (Gen 3:24); here, probably the cherubim of the ark in the Most Holy Place.
- b (9:4) Hebrew taw, the last letter of the Hebrew alphabet, which in the script of the time was written like an X or a cross.

Chapter 10

1 Then I looked, and above the vault over the heads of the cherubim there appeared something like lapis lazuli, in form like a throne. 2 He said to the man dressed in linen, "Go in among the whirling wheels[a] beneath the cherubim. Take a double handful of the fiery coals from between the cherubim and throw them across the city." I watched him go in. 3 The cherubim were standing on the south side of the house when the man went in, and the cloud filled the inner court. 4 Then the glory of Yahweh rose up from the cherub and moved to the doorway of the temple. The cloud filled the temple, and the radiance of the glory of Yahweh filled the courtyard. 5 The noise of the wings of the cherubim carried all the way to the outer court, like the voice of El Shaddai[b] speaking.

6 When he commanded the man dressed in linen, "Take fire from among the whirling wheels, from among the cherubim," the man went in and stood beside a wheel. 7 One of the cherubim reached out his hand from between the cherubim to the fire that was among them, took some, and put it into the hands of the man clothed in linen, who took it and went out. 8 Something shaped like a human hand could be seen beneath the wings of the cherubim.
9 I looked, and there were four wheels beside the cherubim, one wheel beside each cherub; the wheels looked like the gleam of a chrysolite stone. 10 As for their appearance, all four had the same form, as if one wheel were inside another. 11 As they moved, they could travel in any of their four directions; they did not turn as they moved, but followed the direction the head faced, without turning. 12 Their whole bodies—backs, hands, and wings—and the wheels too were covered with eyes all around; the four of them had their wheels. 13 As for the wheels, I heard them called "the whirling wheels."[c] 14 Each of them had four faces: the first face was that of a cherub, the second was that of a man, the third was that of a lion, and the fourth was that of an eagle.[d] 15 Then the cherubim rose up. They were the same living creatures
I had seen at the Chebar canal. 16 As the cherubim went, the wheels went at their side; and as the cherubim lifted their wings to mount up from the earth, the wheels too stayed with them and did not turn away. 17 When the cherubim stood still, the wheels stood still; when they rose, the wheels rose with them, for the spirit of the living creature was in them.
18 Then the glory of Yahweh departed from the doorway of the temple and halted over the cherubim. 19 As I watched, the cherubim lifted their wings and rose up from the earth, and the wheels went out alongside them. They halted at the entry of the east gate of Yahweh's house, and above them was the glory of the God of Israel. 20 They were the same living creatures I had seen under the God of Israel at the Chebar canal; and I recognized that they were cherubim. 21 Every one had four faces and four wings, and something like human hands was under their wings. 22 Their faces looked just like the faces I had seen beside the Chebar canal. Each of them moved straight forward.

Notes

- a (10:2) Or "whirling wheels" (Hebrew galgal); also in vv. 6 and 13.
- b (10:5) El Shaddai is traditionally "God Almighty"; the original meaning of Shaddai is uncertain.
- c (10:13) Hebrew galgal, a word suggesting whirling or rolling.
- d (10:14) Verse 14 is not found in the Greek. Compare 1:10, where the face of an ox stands in place of "the face of the cherub."

Chapter 11

1 The Spirit then raised me and brought me to the east-facing gate of Yahweh's house. At the gate's entrance were twenty-five men, and I saw among them two leaders of the people, Jaazaniah son of Azzur[a] and Pelatiah[b] son of Benaiah.[c] 2 He said to me, "Son of man, these are the men who plot evil and give bad advice in this city. 3 They say, 'Is not the time near to build houses? This city is the pot, and we are the meat.'[d] 4 Therefore prophesy against them; prophesy, son of man."
5 Then the Spirit of Yahweh fell upon me, and he told me, "Say, 'This is what Yahweh says: That is what you are saying, house of Israel; I know the thoughts that rise in your mind. 6 You have multiplied your slain in this city and filled its streets with the dead. 7 Therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says: The bodies you have laid in its midst are the meat, and this city is the pot; but you I will bring out of it. 8 You have feared the sword, and the sword is what I will bring upon you, declares the Lord Yahweh. 9 I will drag you out of the city and deliver you into the hands of outsiders, and I will carry out my sentences against you. 10 You will fall by the sword; I will judge you at the border of Israel. Then you will know that I am Yahweh. 11 This city will not serve as your cooking pot, nor will you be the meat inside it; at the frontier of Israel I will judge you. 12 Then you will know that I am Yahweh, whose statutes you have not walked in and whose judgments you have not carried out; instead, you have acted by the standards of the nations around you.'"[e] 13 While I was prophesying, Pelatiah son of Benaiah died. Then I fell facedown and cried out with a loud voice, "Ah, Lord Yahweh! Will you put a complete end to the remnant of Israel?" 14 The word of Yahweh came to me: 15 "Son of man, your brothers—your own brothers, your relatives,[f] and the whole house of Israel, all of them—are the ones of whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said,

'Keep far from Yahweh; this land was given to us as our possession.'
16 "Therefore say, 'This is what the Lord Yahweh says: Although I removed them far away among the nations and dispersed them across the countries, I have been a small sanctuary[g] for them in the countries where they have gone.' 17 "Therefore say, 'The Lord Yahweh declares:
I will collect you from the nations, bring you together from the countries where you were dispersed, and give you the land of Israel.' 18 They will come there and clear out of it all its vile things and all its abominations. 19 I will give them a single heart[h] and place a new spirit inside them. I will remove the stony heart from their bodies and give them a heart of flesh, 20 so that they may walk in my statutes, keep my judgments, and carry them out. Then they will be my people, and I will be their God. 21 But those whose hearts follow the desire of their vile things and abominations—I will repay their deeds on their own heads, declares the Lord Yahweh."
22 Then the cherubim lifted their wings, with the wheels beside them, and the glory of the God of Israel was above them. 23 The glory of Yahweh went up from the midst of the city and stopped over the mountain east of the city.[i] 24 The Spirit lifted me up and brought me in the vision, by the Spirit of God, to the exiles in Chaldea. Then the vision I had seen left me, 25 and I told the exiles everything Yahweh had shown me.

Notes

• a (11:1) Azzur means "helper"; this Jaazaniah is a different man from the one in 8:11.

- b (11:1) Pelatiah means “Yahweh rescues,” which gives point to the question in v. 13.
- c (11:1) Benaiah means “Yahweh has built.”
- d (11:3) Or “The time is not near to build houses.” The image of the pot suggests the leaders saw themselves as the choice meat, safe inside the city.
- e (11:12) Verses 11–12 are not found in the Greek.
- f (11:15) Hebrew: “the men of your redemption,” that is, relatives with the right and duty to redeem family property (Lev 25:25). The Greek has “the men of your captivity.”
- g (11:16) Or “I have been to them a sanctuary in small measure.”
- h (11:19) Some Hebrew manuscripts and the Greek have “another heart”; others render “an undivided heart.”
- i (11:23) That is, the Mount of Olives.

Chapter 12

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 “Son of man, you live among a rebellious house, people who have eyes for seeing yet see nothing and ears for hearing yet hear nothing, because they are a house of rebels.
3 “Now you, son of man, get your belongings ready for exile, and in daylight, with them watching, set out for exile. From where you live, move to another place while they look on; perhaps they will see it, even though they are a rebellious house. 4 Bring out your baggage by day as they watch, like baggage for exile; then in the evening go out yourself as they watch, like those who go into exile. 5 While they watch, dig through the wall and carry the baggage out through it. 6
With them watching, hoist it onto your shoulder and take it out at dusk. Hide your face so that you do not look at the land, because I have made you an omen to the house of Israel.” 7 I did just as I was commanded. By day I brought out my baggage as though for exile, and in the evening I dug through the wall with my hands. I carried it out in the darkness, lifting it onto my shoulder as they watched.
8 In the morning the word of Yahweh came to me: 9 “Son of man, did not the Israelites, that rebellious house, ask you, ‘What are you doing?’ 10 Tell them, ‘The Lord Yahweh says this: This message[a] is about the prince in Jerusalem and all the Israelites living there.’ 11 Say, ‘I am a sign to you. What I have done will be done to them;

they will go away into exile and captivity.' 12 The prince among them will hoist his baggage onto his shoulder at dusk and leave; they will break through the wall to get him out. He will hide his face so that his eyes do not see the land. 13 I will spread my net over him, and he will be caught in my snare. I will bring him to Babylon, the land of the Chaldeans, yet he will not see it, and there he will die.[b] 14 All who surround him—his attendants and all his soldiers—I will scatter in every direction, and I will draw a sword and chase after them. 15
Then they will know that I am Yahweh, when I disperse them among the nations and scatter them through the countries. 16 But I will spare a few of them from the sword, from famine, and from plague, so that among the nations where they go they may recount all their abomi-nations. Then they will know that I am Yahweh." 17 The word of Yahweh came to me: 18 "Son of man, eat your bread with trembling, and drink your water with shuddering and anxiety.
19 Then tell the people of the land, 'The Lord Yahweh says this about those living in Jerusalem, in the land of Israel: They will eat their food in fear and drink their water in horror, because their land will be emptied of everything in it, on account of the violence of everyone who lives there. 20 The inhabited towns will be laid waste, and the land will become a desolation. Then you will know that I am Yahweh.'" 21 The word of Yahweh came to me: 22 "Son of man, what is this proverb you have in the land of Israel: 'The days drag on, and every vision comes to nothing'? 23 So tell them, 'The Lord Yahweh says this: I will end this saying, and it will never again be heard on the lips of Israel.'
Instead tell them, 'The days are at hand, and with them the substance of every vision. 24 No more will there be empty visions or smooth-tongued divination among the people of Israel. 25 For I am Yahweh. I will speak whatever word I speak, and it will be carried out without further delay. In your days, rebellious house, I will speak the word and carry it out, declares the Lord Yahweh.'" 26 The word of Yahweh came to me: 27 "Son of man, the house of Israel is saying, 'The vision he sees is for many days from now; he prophesies about distant times.' 28 So tell them, 'The Lord Yahweh says this: Not one of my words will be postponed again. The word I speak will be done, declares the Lord Yahweh.'"

Notes

- a (12:10) Hebrew massa, "burden" or "oracle," a play on the baggage (also something carried) and on the "prince" (nasi, "one lifted up").
- b (12:13) Zedekiah was blinded before he was taken to Babylon (2 Kgs 25:7).

Chapter 13

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 "Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel who are prophesying. Say to those who prophesy out of their own imagination, 'Hear the word of Yahweh! 3 This is what the Lord Yahweh says: Woe to the foolish prophets who follow their own spirit and have seen nothing! 4 Your prophets, Israel, have been like jackals among ruins. 5 You did not climb up to the gaps or rebuild the wall for the house of Israel so that it could hold in battle on the day of Yahweh. 6 Their visions are empty and their divining a lie. "Yahweh's declaration," they announce, though Yahweh never sent them; and still they wait for him to make their word come true. 7 Have you not seen a false vision and spoken a lying divination when you say, "Yahweh declares," though I have not spoken? 8 "'Therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says: Because you have spoken falsehood and seen lies, I am against you, declares the Lord Yahweh. 9 My hand will come down on the prophets whose visions are empty and whose divinations are lies. In the circle of my people they will have no seat; in the roll of Israel's house they will not be written; into Israel's land they will not come. And you will know that I am the Lord Yahweh. 10 "'Because—yes, because—they have led my people astray, saying, "Peace," when there is no peace, and when someone builds a flimsy wall, they coat it with whitewash, 11 tell those who plaster it with whitewash that it is going to collapse. A flooding rain will come, and you, mighty hailstones, will fall, and a stormy wind will break loose. 12 When the wall has collapsed, will anyone not ask you, "Where did the plaster go that you smeared on it?" 13 "'Therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says: In my fury I will make a storm wind burst out; in my anger there will be torrential rain, and in my fury hailstones to destroy. 14 I will tear down the wall you coated with whitewash and level it to the ground, so that its foundation is laid bare. When it falls, you will perish within it. Then you will know that I am Yahweh. 15

So I will exhaust my anger on the wall and on those who plastered it with whitewash. And I will tell you, “The wall no longer exists, and neither do those who plastered it— 16 those prophets of Israel who prophesied to Jerusalem and beheld for her visions of peace, though peace there was none, declares the Lord Yahweh.”’ 17 “As for you, son of man, set your face against the daughters of your people who prophesy out of their own imagination. Prophesy against them 18 and say, ‘The Lord Yahweh says this: Woe to you women who stitch magic bands[a] on every wrist and fashion veils for heads of every size, to trap souls! Will you trap the souls of my people and preserve souls for yourselves? 19 You have disgraced me among my people for the sake of a few handfuls of barley and some pieces of bread, killing those who ought not to die and letting live those who ought not to live, by deceiving my people, who listen to deceit. 20 “Therefore the Lord Yahweh says this: I am against your magic charms, which you use to trap people like birds. I will rip them off your arms and release the people you have been trapping like birds. 21 I will rip away your veils and snatch my people out of your grip; never again will they be a catch in your hands. And you will know that I am Yahweh. 22 Because you have disheartened the righteous with lies, when I had not caused them grief, and have strengthened the hands of the wicked so that they do not turn from their evil way and save their lives, 23 so your empty visions and your divining are finished. I will snatch my people out of your grip, and you will know that I am Yahweh.’”

Notes

- a (13:18) The meaning of the Hebrew words for “bands” and “veils” is uncertain; they were evidently objects used in magic or divination.

Chapter 14

1 Some of the elders of Israel came to me and sat down in front of me. 2
Then the word of Yahweh came to me: 3 “Son of man, these men have set up their idols in their hearts and put the stumbling block of their guilt right before their faces. Should I let them consult me at all? 4 So talk to them and say to them, 'The Lord Yahweh says this: Anyone in Israel who takes his idols into his heart and puts his sinful obstacle in front of him, and then goes to the prophet—I, Yahweh, will respond to him in person, according to his many idols, 5 so that I may seize the house of Israel by their own hearts, since through their idols they have all become estranged from me.'

6 "So say to Israel's house, 'The Lord Yahweh says this: Come back!
Turn from your idols; turn your faces from every abomination of yours. 7 When anyone from the Israelites, or any foreigner living among them, turns away from me, takes his idols into his heart, puts his sinful obstacle in front of him, and then goes to a prophet to ask me about something, I, Yahweh, will respond to him in person. 8 I will set my face against that man and make him a sign and a byword, and I will cut him off from among my people. Then you will know that I am Yahweh. 9 "'If the prophet is deceived and speaks a word, I, Yahweh, have deceived that prophet, and I will stretch out my hand against him and wipe him out from among my people Israel. 10 They will bear their guilt; the guilt of the prophet will be the same as the guilt of the one who consults him, 11 so that the house of Israel will stray from me no more and no longer make themselves unclean with all their rebellions. They will be a people to me, and I will be God to them, declares the Lord Yahweh.'" 12 The word of Yahweh came to me: 13 "Son of man, if a land sins against me by acting unfaithfully, and I stretch out my hand against it, break its supply of bread, send famine on it, and cut off from it both people and animals, 14 if these three men were living there—Noah, Daniel,[a] and Job—their righteousness would rescue themselves alone, declares the Lord Yahweh. 15 "If I let wild beasts roam through the land and they leave it childless, so that it becomes a desolation that no one passes through because of the beasts, 16 as I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, even if these three men were in it, they could not save sons or daughters. They alone would be saved, and the land would become a desolation. 17 "Or suppose I bring a sword on that country and command, 'Sword, go through the land!' and cut away from it human and beast alike; 18 as I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, even if these three men were in it, they could not save sons or daughters; they alone would be saved. 19 "Or if I send a plague into that land and pour out my fury on it in bloodshed, to cut off from it both people and animals, 20 as I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, should Noah, Daniel, and Job be living there, not a son and not a daughter would they rescue. Their righteousness would rescue themselves alone.

21 "The Lord Yahweh says this: How much more severe it will be when I send against Jerusalem my four terrible punishments—sword, hunger, savage animals and disease—to wipe out people and livestock from it! 22 But look, a remnant will be left in it, a band of escapees —sons and daughters led out. They will come out to you, and when you see their ways and their doings, you will be comforted over the evil I brought on Jerusalem, over all that I brought on it. 23 They will console you when you see their conduct and their deeds, for you will know that it was not without cause that I did all I did in it, declares the Lord Yahweh."

Notes

- a (14:14) The Hebrew spelling is Danel (as also in 28:3), the name of a righteous ancient hero known from texts found at Ugarit; Jewish tradition identifies him with the Daniel of the book of Daniel. The name means "God is my judge."

Chapter 15

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 "Son of man, what makes the vine's wood any better than wood from other trees—the vine shoot that was among the forest trees? 3 Is wood ever taken from it to make anything useful? Do people make a peg from it to hang any utensil on? 4 No, it is thrown into the fire for fuel. When the fire has consumed both its ends and its middle is charred, is it good for anything? 5 Look, while it was still whole nothing was made from it. How much less, once fire has eaten it and it is scorched, will anything be made from it!
6 "Therefore the Lord Yahweh says this: Just as I made the wood of the vine, out of all the trees in the forest, into fuel for the fire, so I will treat the people living in Jerusalem. 7 I will set my face against them. Though they have escaped the fire, the fire will still consume them.

And you will know that I am Yahweh when I set my face against them. 8 I will make the land a desolation, because they have acted unfaithfully, declares the Lord Yahweh."

Chapter 16

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 "Son of man, confront Jerusalem with her abominations 3 and say, 'The Lord Yahweh says this to Jerusalem: Your roots and your birthplace are in Canaan's land. An Amorite was your father, and a Hittite your mother.[a] 4 On the day you were born, no one cut your umbilical cord; you were not bathed in water to make you clean, nor rubbed with salt, nor wrapped in cloth. 5 Nobody looked on you with enough compassion to do any one of these things for you. Instead, you were dumped in an open field, because you were hated on the day of your birth.
6 "'And I passed by you and saw you thrashing in your own blood. In your blood I told you, "Live!" Yes, in your blood I told you, "Live!"[b] 7 I let you multiply like the sprouts of the field. You grew and grew tall and came to the fullest beauty;[c] your breasts took shape and your hair grew long, yet you were naked and exposed. 8 "I came by again and looked at you, and you had reached the time for love. I draped the hem of my cloak over you and hid your nakedness. I pledged myself to you with an oath and made a covenant with you, and you became mine, declares the Lord Yahweh. 9 I bathed you in water, rinsed your blood from you, and rubbed you with oil. 10 I clothed you with embroidered cloth, gave you sandals of fine leather,[d] wrapped you in fine linen, and covered you with silk. 11 I decked you out in ornaments: bangles for your arms, a chain for your neck, 12 I gave you a nose ring, earrings for your ears, and a lovely crown for your head. 13 So you were adorned with gold and silver, and your clothing was fine linen, silk, and embroidered cloth. You ate fine flour, honey, and oil. You became exceedingly beautiful and rose to royalty. 14 Among the nations word of you went out because of your beauty, flawless as it was through the splendor I had put on you, declares the Lord Yahweh.

15 “‘But you trusted in your beauty and used your fame to play the prostitute. You lavished your favors on anyone who passed by; your beauty became his.[e] 16 You took some of your clothes and made colorful shrines for yourself, and on them you acted as a prostitute —something that should never happen or take place. 17 You also took your beautiful jewelry of my gold and my silver, which I had given you, and made for yourself male images, and with them you played the prostitute. 18 You took your embroidered garments to cover them, and you set my oil and my incense before them. 19 My food that I gave you—the finest flour, with olive oil and honey, which I fed you—you offered before them as a pleasing fragrance. That is what happened, declares the Lord Yahweh. 20 “‘And you took your sons and your daughters, children you had borne to me, and slaughtered them as food for those images. Was your whoring such a small thing? 21
You slaughtered my children and gave them up, making them pass through the fire to the images. 22 In all your abominations and prostitution you did not remember the days of your youth, when you were naked and bare, kicking about in your blood.
23 “‘After all your wickedness—woe, woe to you, declares the Lord Yahweh— 24 you built yourself a mound and made yourself a lofty shrine in every square. 25 At the head of every street you built your lofty shrine and made your beauty an abomination. You spread your legs to everyone who passed by and multiplied your prostitution. 26
You prostituted yourself with the Egyptians, your lustful neighbors,[f] and multiplied your prostitution to provoke me. 27 So I stretched out my hand against you, cut back your allotted portion, and handed you over to the will of those who hate you, the daughters of the Philistines, who were ashamed of your lewd conduct. 28 You also pros-tituted yourself with the Assyrians, because you were not satisfied;
you played the prostitute with them, and still you were not satisfied.
29 Then you multiplied your prostitution with the land of merchants, Chaldea,[g] and even with this you were not satisfied.
30 “‘How feverish[h] your heart is, declares the Lord Yahweh, when you do all these things, the deeds of a brazen prostitute! 31 When you built your mound at the head of every street and made your lofty shrine

in every square, you were not like a prostitute, because you scorned payment. 32 Adulterous wife, who takes strangers instead of her husband! 33 Every prostitute is paid, yet you handed out payment to every lover of yours; you bribed them to come in to you from all around for your prostitution. 34 So you were the opposite of other women in your prostitution: no one chased after you to play the prostitute. You paid a fee instead of receiving one; you were the opposite.
35 "'Therefore, prostitute, hear the word of Yahweh. 36 This is what the Lord Yahweh says: Since your lust[i] was spilled out and your naked body was uncovered through your prostitution with your lovers, and through all your detestable idols, and through the blood of your children that you offered to them, 37 that is why I am gathering every lover with whom you took pleasure, everyone you loved and everyone you hated. From all around I will gather them against you; I will uncover your nakedness before them, and they will look on all of it. 38 I will sentence you with the sentence for women who commit adultery and murder, and I will make you the victim of bloody rage and jealousy. 39 I will give you into their hands; your mound they will pull down and your lofty shrines they will break apart. They will peel off your clothing and carry away your fine jewels, and they will leave you naked and exposed. 40 They will bring up a mob against you, stone you, and hack you to pieces with their swords. 41 They will set your houses on fire and carry out sentences against you while many women look on. I will put an end to your prostitution, and you will never pay lovers again. 42 Then my fury against you will be spent, my jealousy will depart from you, and I will grow quiet and be angry no more. 43 You did not bear in mind the time of your youth; you raged at me with all of this. So now I am bringing your ways back on your head, declares the Lord Yahweh. Did you not add this lewdness to all your abominations?
44 "'Look, everyone who quotes proverbs will quote this one about you: "Like mother, like daughter." 45 You are the daughter of your mother, who despised her husband and her children; and you are the sister of your sisters, who despised their husbands and children. Your mother was a Hittite, and your father was an Amorite. 46 Your older sister is Samaria, who lives with her daughters to your north,[j] and your younger sister, who lives to your south, is Sodom with her daughters. 47 Not content to follow in their ways and do their abominations, you soon became, as if that were a trifle, more depraved than they in all you did. 48 As I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, Sodom your sister and her daughters did not do what you have done, you and your daughters. 49 See, this was the guilt of Sodom your sister: pride, a surplus of bread, and untroubled ease were hers and her daughters', yet the hand of the poor and needy they did not strengthen. 50 They grew lofty and did abomination before me, so I took them away, as you have seen.[k] 51 Samaria's sins were not half of yours. Your abominations outnumber hers, and by all you have done you have made your sisters look righteous. 52 You also must carry your shame, since you have pleaded your sisters' case. Your sins were so much more abominable than theirs that they look more righteous than you. Be ashamed, then, and carry your shame, because you have made your sisters look righteous.

53 "'Yet I will turn back their captivity—Sodom's and her daughters', Samaria's and her daughters'—and yours too in their midst, 54 that you may carry your shame and blush for everything you did, becoming a comfort to them. 55 Your sisters Sodom and her daughters and Samaria and her daughters will return to their former condition, and you and your daughters will return to your former condition. 56 In your proud days you would not so much as mention your sister Sodom, 57 before your own evil was exposed? Now you have become like her, scorned by the daughters of Edom[l] and all the neighbors around her, and by the daughters of the Philistines—everyone around you who looks down on you. 58 Your lewdness and your abominations—you carry them, declares Yahweh.

59 "'For this is what the Lord Yahweh says: I will deal with you as you have done, you who have despised the oath by breaking the covenant. 60 Yet I will remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish an everlasting covenant with you. 61 You will recall your ways and be humiliated when you take in your sisters, those older and those younger than you. I will give them to you as daughters, though not by your covenant. [62] I will establish my covenant with you, and you will know that I am Yahweh, [63] so that you remember and feel shame, and because of your humiliation never open your mouth again, when I forgive you for all you did, declares the Lord Yahweh.'"

Notes

- a (16:3) The Amorites and Hittites were among the peoples living in Canaan before Israel (Gen 15:19–21); the point is that Jerusalem's origins were pagan.
- b (16:6) The Greek lacks the repeated sentence "I said to you as you lay in your blood, 'Live!'"
- c (16:7) The Hebrew is uncertain; it may mean "you came to have the finest ornaments."
- d (16:10) Hebrew tahash, a fine leather of uncertain kind, perhaps from dolphins or sea cows.
- e (16:15) The Hebrew phrase "your beauty became his" is uncertain.
- f (16:26) Hebrew: "great of flesh," a sexual euphemism.
- g (16:29) Or "Chaldea, the land of merchants." Hebrew: "the land of Canaan, Chaldea"; "Canaan" here means "merchants."
- h (16:30) Or "weak"; the meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain.
- i (16:36) Hebrew nechosheth, perhaps "copper" (that is, money) or "lust"; the meaning is uncertain.
- j (16:46) Hebrew: "on your left"; the right and left referred to south and north for someone facing east.
- k (16:50) Or "as you have seen."
- l (16:57) So some ancient witnesses; the main Hebrew text and the Greek have "Aram" (Syria). In Hebrew the two names differ by one similar letter.

Chapter 17

[1] The word of Yahweh came to me:

[2] "Son of man, pose a riddle and tell a parable to the house of Israel.

[3] Say, 'This is what the Lord Yahweh says:

A great eagle with great wings, long pinions,
and full plumage of many colors
came to Lebanon and took the top of the cedar.

[4] He broke off its highest twig
and took it to a land of merchants;
he planted it in a city of traders.

5 Then he took some of the seed of the land and planted it in fertile soil;
he set it like a willow beside abundant waters.[a] 6 It sprouted and became a spreading vine, low in height;
its branches turned toward him,
and its roots stayed beneath him.
So it became a vine, produced branches, and sent out shoots.
7 "'Then came a second great eagle,
broad of wing and thick with feathers.
And see, this vine twisted its roots toward him
and sent its tendrils reaching to him, away from the bed where it grew,
for him to water it.
8 It had been planted in good soil beside abundant waters,
so that it could produce branches and bear fruit
and become a magnificent vine.'
9 "Say, 'The Lord Yahweh says this: Will it prosper? Will its roots not be torn out and its fruit stripped away, until every new leaf it puts forth dries up? No mighty arm, no crowd of people, will be needed to wrench it up by the roots.
10 Look—it is replanted; will it prosper? Once the east wind touches it, will it not dry up entirely, dry up in the very bed where it sprouted?'" 11 The word of Yahweh came to me: 12 "Say to the rebellious house: 'Don't you know the meaning of these things?' Tell them: 'Jerusalem was entered by the king of Babylon, who seized its king and its princes and brought them back with him to Babylon.[b] 13 He took one of royal descent[c] and cut a covenant with him, binding him by a curse-oath. The land's men of power he carried away, 14 so that the kingdom would be kept low and not lift itself up, but would survive by keeping his covenant. 15 But that king revolted against him, sending his messengers down to Egypt for horses and a host of troops. Will he prosper? Will a man who does these things get away? He has broken the covenant—will he get away? 16 "'As I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, in the place of the king who enthroned him, whose curse-oath he scorned and whose covenant he broke—with him, in the middle of Babylon, he will die. 17 Pharaoh, for all his great force and vast assembly, will do nothing for him in the battle, when the siege mound is heaped up and the siege tower built for cutting down many souls. 18 He despised the oath by breaking the covenant. He gave his hand in pledge and yet did all these things; he will not escape.

19 "'So the Lord Yahweh says this: As I live, my curse-oath that he scorned and my covenant that he broke—I will lay them on his head.
20 I will throw my net over him, and he will be trapped in my snare. I will take him to Babylon and hold a trial there over the treachery he committed against me. 21 All his elite troops[d] in every unit will fall by the sword, and whoever remains will be blown to every wind. Then you will know that I, Yahweh, have spoken.'
22 "This is what the Lord Yahweh says:

I myself will take a sprig from the high crown of the cedar and plant it;
from the topmost of its young shoots I will break off a tender one and plant it myself on a tall, lofty mountain.
23 On Israel's lofty mountain I will plant it;
it will put out branches and bear fruit
and become a majestic cedar.
Every kind of winged creature will dwell beneath it,
sheltering in the shade of its boughs.
24 Then all the trees of the field will know that I, Yahweh, bring low the high tree
and make the low tree tall,
dry up the green tree
and make the dry tree flourish.
I, Yahweh, have spoken, and I will do it."

Notes

- a (17:5) The Hebrew word rendered "willow" is uncertain.
- b (17:12) This was Nebuchadnezzar's deportation of King Jehoiachin in 597 BC (2 Kgs 24:10–17).
- c (17:13) That is, Zedekiah (2 Kgs 24:17).
- d (17:21) So some ancient witnesses; the main Hebrew text has "fugitives."

Chapter 18

1 The word of Yahweh came to me:
2 “What do you mean, you who keep quoting this saying concerning Israel’s land:
‘The fathers eat unripe grapes,
and it is the children’s teeth that go numb’?
3 As surely as I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, you will never again quote this proverb in Israel.
4 Look, all souls are mine. As the father’s soul is mine, so the son’s soul is mine. The soul that sins—that soul shall die.
5 “Take a man who is righteous, who practices justice and right. 6 On the mountains he does not feast at shrines; he does not raise his eyes to the idols of Israel’s house. His neighbor’s wife he does not defile, and he does not come near a woman in her time of impurity. 7 He wrongs no one; the pledge he took for a debt he gives back. He seizes nothing by robbery; his bread he gives to the hungry, and the naked he clothes with a garment. 8 He does not lend at interest or take a profit. He keeps his hand from wrongdoing and judges fairly between one person and another. 9 He walks in my statutes and keeps my judgments, acting faithfully. Such a man is righteous; he will surely live, declares the Lord Yahweh.
10 “Now let him father a son who is a robber, one who sheds blood and does any one of these things 11 (though the father did none of them): he eats at the mountain shrines, defiles his neighbor’s wife, 12 oppresses the poor and needy, commits robbery, does not return the pledge, lifts his eyes to the idols, commits abomination, 13 lends at interest and charges a premium. Will such a son live? No, he will not live! Since he has done all these detestable things, he will certainly die, and his death will be his own fault.
14 “But now let this man father a son who observes all the sins his father has done; he observes them and does nothing like them. 15 On the mountains he does not feast at shrines; he does not raise his eyes to the idols of Israel’s house. His neighbor’s wife he does not defile.
16 He wrongs no one; he holds back no pledge and seizes nothing by robbery. His bread he gives to the hungry, and the naked he clothes with a garment. 17 He holds back his hand from the poor,[a] takes neither interest nor increase, does my judgments, and follows my statutes.

He shall not die because of his father's guilt; he shall surely live. 18 His father, since he extorted and robbed a brother and did what was evil among his own people—look, he shall die in his guilt.
19 "Yet you ask, 'Why does the son not bear the guilt of his father?'
When the son has done what is just and right and has kept all my statutes and carried them out, he will surely live. 20 The soul that sins —that soul shall die. A son shall not carry his father's guilt, and a father shall not carry his son's guilt. On the righteous rests his own righteousness, and on the wicked rests his own wickedness.
21 "But should the wicked man turn back from all the sins he did, guard all my statutes, and practice justice and right, he shall surely live; he shall not die. 22 None of the transgressions he has committed will be remembered against him; because of the righteousness he has practiced, he will live. 23 Do I take any pleasure in the death of the wicked, declares the Lord Yahweh? Would I not rather that he turn from his ways and live? 24 "But if a righteous man abandons his righteousness and commits injustice, doing the same detestable things that the wicked do, will he live? None of the righteous things he did will be counted. Because of the treachery he has committed and the sins he has done, he will die for them.
25 "Still you say, 'The Lord's way does not measure up.' Hear now, house of Israel: Does my way not measure up? Is it not rather your ways that fail to measure up? 26 When a righteous person turns from his righteousness and does wrong, he will die for it; for the wrong he has done he will die. 27 And once the wicked man turns back from the wickedness he did and practices justice and right, he will keep his soul alive. 28 Because he considered and turned away from all the transgressions he had committed, he will surely live; he will not die. 29 Yet the house of Israel says, 'The Lord's way is not fair.' Are my ways unfair, house of Israel? Is it not your ways that are unfair?
30 "Therefore I will judge you, house of Israel, each according to his ways, declares the Lord Yahweh. Repent and turn away from all your transgressions, so that guilt will not be your downfall. 31 Cast away from you every rebellion of yours that you have done, and make for yourselves a heart that is new and a spirit that is new. Why will you die, house of Israel? 32 I take no delight in anyone's death, declares the Lord Yahweh. So repent, and live!"

Notes

- a (18:17) So the main Hebrew text; the Greek has "from injustice" (compare v. 8).

Chapter 19

1 "And you—raise a dirge over Israel's princes,
2 and say:
'What a lioness your mother was among the lions!
She lay down among young lions;
she reared her cubs.
3 She brought up one of her cubs;
he became a young lion.
He learned to tear prey;
he devoured people.
4 Nations got word of him;
in their pit he was taken.
With hooks they hauled him off to Egypt's land.[a] 5 "'When she saw that her hope was lost,
that what she had waited for had come to nothing,
she took another of her cubs
and made him a young lion.
6 He prowled among the lions;
he became a young lion.
He learned to tear prey;
he devoured people.
7 He knew their strongholds[b]
and laid waste their towns.
The land and all that filled it were appalled
at the sound of his roaring.
8 Then the nations set against him
the provinces on every side.

They spread their net over him;
he was caught in their pit.
9 They put hooks in him and locked him in a cage,
then brought him to the king of Babylon.[c]
They took him into strongholds
so his roar would never again be heard over the mountains of Israel.
10 "'Your mother was like a vine in your vineyard,[d]
planted beside the waters.
It was fruitful and full of branches
because of abundant water.
11 It had strong branches,
fit for rulers' scepters.
It towered high
among the thick foliage;
it was conspicuous for its height
and its many branches.
12 But in fury it was torn out
and flung to the earth.
Its fruit was parched by the east wind;
its mighty boughs broke away and dried;
fire devoured them.
13 Now it is planted in the wilderness,
in a dry and thirsty land.
14 Fire has gone out from its main branch and consumed its shoots and fruit,
so that it has no strong branch left,
no scepter for ruling.'
This is a lament, and it has become a lament."

Notes

- a (19:4) This was King Jehoahaz, taken to Egypt by Pharaoh Neco in 609 BC (2 Kgs 23:31–34).
- b (19:7) Hebrew: "He knew his widows"; a slight change gives "he broke down their strongholds" or "he ravaged their widows."
- c (19:9) Probably King Jehoiachin (2 Kgs 24:8–15) or Zedekiah (2 Kgs 25:7).

- d (19:10) Hebrew: “in your blood”; the text is uncertain, and many scholars emend it to “in a vineyard.”

Chapter 20

1 In the seventh year, on the tenth day of the fifth month (in July– August),[a] some of the elders of Israel came to consult Yahweh, and they sat down before me. 2 Then the word of Yahweh came to me: 3 “Son of man, speak to the elders of Israel and tell them, ‘This is what the Lord Yahweh says: Have you come to consult me? As I live, I will not let myself be consulted by you, declares the Lord Yahweh.’ 4 “Will you judge them? Will you judge them, son of man? Then make known to them the abominations of their ancestors. 5 Tell them, ‘The Lord Yahweh says this: On the day I chose Israel, I lifted my hand in oath to the seed of Jacob’s house, and in Egypt’s land I made myself known to them. I lifted my hand to them, saying, “I am Yahweh your God.” 6 That day I lifted my hand to them, swearing to lead them out of Egypt’s land to a land I had scouted for them, one flowing with milk and honey, the jewel of every land. 7 And I said to them, “Each of you, throw away the detestable things your eyes feast on, and do not defile yourselves with the idols of Egypt. I am Yahweh your God.” 8 “‘They rebelled against me and would not hear me. Not one cast away the vile things that held his eyes, and Egypt’s idols they did not abandon.
So I spoke of pouring my fury on them, of exhausting my anger on them right there in Egypt’s land. 9 Yet I acted for my name’s sake, to keep it from being profaned before the nations they lived among, before whose eyes I had revealed myself to them by leading them out of Egypt’s land. 10 So out of Egypt’s land I led them, and I brought them to the wilderness. 11 I gave them my statutes and made known to them my judgments, by which a person who carries them out will live. 12
My Sabbaths too I gave them, to be a sign between me and them, for knowing that I am Yahweh who sets them apart as holy. 13 “‘But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness. They did not walk in my statutes, and they rejected my judgments, by which a person who carries them out will live, and they utterly profaned my Sabbaths. So I resolved to pour out my fury on them in the wilderness to wipe them out. 14 Yet I acted for my name's sake, to keep it from being profaned before the nations, in whose view I had led them out. 15 And I, too, lifted my hand to them in the wilderness, swearing not to bring them into the land I had given, the land flowing with milk and honey, the jewel of every land, 16 because they rejected my judgments, did not walk in my statutes, and profaned my Sabbaths;

for their hearts went after their idols. 17 But my eye took pity on them, and I held back from destroying them; I did not make a full end of them in the wilderness.
18 "'I told their children in the wilderness, "Do not follow the rules of your parents, or observe their laws, or make yourselves unclean with their idols. 19 I am Yahweh your God. Walk in my statutes, keep my judgments, and carry them out. 20 Keep my Sabbaths holy, so that they will be a sign between me and you, and you will know that I am Yahweh your God." 21 "'But the children defied me. They did not follow my rules or carefully observe my laws, which give life to the one who obeys them, and they desecrated my Sabbaths. So I said I would pour out my rage on them and let my anger run its course against them in the wilderness. 22 Yet I drew back my hand and acted for my name's sake, to keep it from being profaned before the nations in whose view I had led them out. 23 In addition, I swore to them in the wilderness, with my hand raised, that I would scatter them among the nations and spread them across the lands, 24 because they had not carried out my judgments but had rejected my statutes and profaned my Sabbaths, and their eyes were fixed on their fathers' idols. 25 So I gave them rules that were not good and laws that could not give them life. 26 I made them unclean by their own gifts, as they made every firstborn pass through the fire,[b] that I might appall them, and that they might know that I am Yahweh.'
27 "Therefore, son of man, speak to the house of Israel and tell them,
'This is what the Lord Yahweh says: In this also your ancestors blas-phemed me by acting unfaithfully toward me. 28 For I brought them into the land that I had lifted my hand to give them, and wherever they saw a lofty hill or a leafy tree, they slaughtered their sacrifices there, there they set their offerings that provoked me, there they laid their soothing aromas, and there they poured out their drink offerings. 29 So I said to them, “What is this high place you go to?” And it is called Bamah[c] to this day.’

30 “Therefore tell the Israelites, ‘The Lord Yahweh says this: Are you going to make yourselves unclean as your ancestors did, and chase after their vile idols? 31 When you present your offerings and send your sons through the fire, you make yourselves unclean with all your idols even now. Am I to answer your inquiries, Israelites? As I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, I will not answer your inquiries. 32 What you have in mind will never happen—when you say, “Let us be like the nations, like the clans of the countries, serving wood and stone.” 33 “‘As I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, with a mighty hand, an outstretched arm, and outpoured fury I will rule as king over you. 34 I will bring you out from the peoples and gather you from the countries where you are scattered, with a mighty hand, an outstretched arm, and outpoured fury. 35 I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and there I will enter into judgment with you face to face. 36 Just as I put your ancestors on trial in the wilderness of Egypt, so I will put you on trial, declares the Lord Yahweh. 37 I will make you pass beneath my staff and bring you under the obligation of the covenant.[d] 38 I will sift out from you the rebels and those who revolt against me. From the land where they sojourn I will lead them out, but Israel’s soil they shall not enter. And you will know that I am Yahweh. 39 “‘And you, house of Israel, the Lord Yahweh says this: Go, every one of you, serve his idols! But afterward—surely you will listen to me, and my holy name you will profane no more with your gifts and idols. 40 For it is on my holy mountain, on Israel’s lofty mountain, declares the Lord Yahweh, that the entire house of Israel will serve me, all of it in the land. There I will welcome them with pleasure, and there I will ask for your contributions, the first and best of your gifts, and all your holy things. 41 Like a soothing aroma I will welcome you with pleasure when I lead you out of the peoples and collect you from the lands of your scattering; and through you I will show myself holy before the nations’ eyes. 42 Then you will know that I am Yahweh, when I bring you into the land of Israel, the land I raised my hand in an oath to give to your ancestors. 43 There you will remember how you lived and all the actions that made you unclean, and you will be disgusted with yourselves for all the evil you committed. 44 You will know that I am Yahweh when I act toward you for my name's sake and not according to your evil ways or your corrupt actions, Israelites, declares the Lord Yahweh.'"

45 The word of Yahweh came to me:[e] 46 "Son of man, set your face toward the south. Preach against the south and prophesy against the forest of the Negev.[f] 47 Say to the forest of the Negev, 'Hear Yahweh's word. The Lord Yahweh says this: Look, I am setting a fire in you; every tree in you, green or dry, it will devour. The fierce flame will not be put out, and from the Negev to the north every face will be seared by it. 48 All flesh will see that I, Yahweh, have kindled it; it will not be quenched.'" 49 Then I said, "Ah, Lord Yahweh! They are saying of me, 'Is he not just a maker of parables?'"

Notes

- a (20:1) Hebrew: "in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month," counting from the spring new year; this was the month later called Av, in 591 BC. The Greek has only "on the fifteenth of the month."
- b (20:26) Or "when they offered up every firstborn"; compare 16:21.
- c (20:29) Bamah means "high place." Ezekiel plays on the sound of the question "What (mah) is the high place to which you go (ba'im)?"
- d (20:37) The Greek has "and I will bring you in by number"; the meaning of the Hebrew word rendered "bond" is uncertain.
- e (20:45) In Hebrew, 20:45–49 is numbered 21:1–5, and 21:1–32 is numbered 21:6–37.
- f (20:46) The Negev is the dry region south of Judah; "south" here also represents Judah and Jerusalem (21:2).

Chapter 21

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 "Son of man, set your face toward Jerusalem and preach against the sanctuaries. Prophesy against the land of Israel 3 and say to Israel's land, 'Yahweh says this: Look, I am coming at you. My sword I will draw out of its sheath, and from you I will cut away righteous and wicked alike. 4 Because I am going to cut off from you both righteous and wicked, my sword will go out of its sheath against all flesh from south to north. 5 Then all flesh will know that I, Yahweh, have drawn my sword from its sheath; it will not return to it again.'

6 "As for you, son of man, groan! Groan before their eyes with breaking heart[a] and bitter grief. 7 When they ask you, 'Why are you groaning?' say, 'Because of the news that is coming. Every heart will melt, every hand go limp, every spirit grow faint, and every knee run with water. Look, it is coming, and it will happen, declares the Lord Yahweh.'"

8 The word of Yahweh came to me:

9 "Son of man, prophesy and say, 'This is what my Lord says: Say:

A sword, a sword is sharpened
and also polished—

10 sharpened for slaughter,
polished to flash like lightning!
Shall we rejoice? The scepter of my son despises every tree.[b]

11 He has handed it over for burnishing,
for the palm to grip;
sharpened is this sword, burnished too,
to be placed in the killer's hand.'

12 Shout and howl, son of man, for this sword is for my people, for every prince of Israel; they are tossed to it together with my people. So slap your thigh.[c]

13 For a testing has come—and what if the scepter that despises is no more? declares the Lord Yahweh.[d]

14 "And you, son of man, prophesy and strike your hands together.

Let the sword come down twice, even three times—
the sword of the dead,
the sword of the great slaughter,
closing in on them,

15 so that hearts may melt
and the stumbling may be many.
At all their gates I have set the slaughter of the sword.[e]
Ah! It is made to flash like lightning;
it is grasped for slaughter.

16 Cut hard to the right!
Turn and strike to the left,
wherever your blade is aimed.
17 I too will strike my hands together and let my rage be satisfied.
I, Yahweh, have spoken."
18 The word of Yahweh came to me: 19 "As for you, son of man, mark out two roads for the sword of the king of Babylon to take, both starting from the same land. Make a signpost and put it at the head of the road to a city. 20 Mark out a road for the sword to come to Rabbah of the Ammonites, and another to Judah, to fortified Jerusalem. 21 For Babylon's king has halted where the road parts, where the two ways begin, to seek an omen. He rattles the arrows, inquires of the household gods,[f] and examines a liver. 22 In his right hand he holds the divination lot for Jerusalem, directing him to position battering rams, to give the command to kill, to shout the war cry, to place battering rams against the gates, to build an earthen ramp, and to construct siege towers. 23 To those who have sworn solemn oaths,[g] it will seem a false divination; but he will bring their guilt to remembrance, so that they will be captured.
24 "Therefore the Lord Yahweh says this: Since you have made your guilt known through your open rebellion, revealing your sins in everything you do—since you have made yourselves known, you will be seized by force. 25 And you, defiled and wicked one, Israel's prince, your day has arrived, the hour when guilt reaches its end, 26 the Lord Yahweh says this: Take off the turban; lift away the crown! This will not stay this way. Raise up what is low; pull down what is high. 27 A ruin, a ruin, a ruin I will make it! This too will not happen until he comes to whom judgment belongs, and I will give it to him.[h]
28 "And you, son of man, prophesy and say, 'The Lord Yahweh says this about the Ammonites and their scorn:
A sword! A sword unsheathed for the slaughter, burnished to devour, to gleam like a lightning bolt—29 while they divine emptiness for you and see lying omens for you—to place you on the necks of the slain, the wicked,

whose day has arrived,
the hour when guilt reaches its end.
30 Return it to its sheath!
In the place where you were created,
in the land of your origin, I will judge you.
31 I will pour out my indignation on you;
I will blow on you with the fire of my wrath.
I will hand you over to brutal men,
skilled in destruction.
32 You will be fuel for the fire;
your blood will be in the midst of the land.
You will not be remembered,
for I, Yahweh, have spoken.'"

Notes

- a (21:6) Hebrew: "with breaking of loins."
- b (21:10) The Hebrew of this line is very obscure, and any rendering is a guess.
- c (21:12) A gesture of grief or alarm (Jer 31:19).
- d (21:13) The Hebrew of v. 13 is very obscure.
- e (21:15) The meaning of the Hebrew word rendered "slaughter" here is uncertain.
- f (21:21) Hebrew teraphim, figurines used in divination (Gen 31:19).
- g (21:23) The meaning of the Hebrew phrase is uncertain; it may refer to the oaths of loyalty sworn to the king of Babylon.
- h (21:27) Or "until he comes whose right it is." The wording echoes Gen 49:10.

Chapter 22

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 "As for you, son of man, will you judge? Will you judge the city of bloodshed? Then confront her with all her abominations. 3 Say, 'The Lord Yahweh says this: O city that sheds blood within her walls, bringing her day of doom, and that makes idols to make herself unclean! 4 You have become guilty by the blood you have shed and defiled by the idols you have made. You have brought your days near and arrived at the end of your years. Therefore I have made you a reproach to the nations and a mockery to all the countries. 5 Those near and those far from you will mock you, you of defiled name, full of turmoil.

6 "'Look, the princes of Israel within you, each according to his power, have been bent on shedding blood. 7 In you they have treated father and mother with contempt; in your midst they have oppressed the foreigner; in you they have wronged the fatherless and the widow.
8 You have despised my holy things and profaned my Sabbaths. 9 Men who peddle slander to spill blood are in you; men who feast at mountain shrines are in you; lewdness they practice in your midst.
10 A father's nakedness is uncovered[a] in you; a woman unclean in her impurity is forced in you. 11 With his neighbor's wife one man does abomination; another defiles his daughter-in-law by lewdness;
another in you forces his sister, his father's daughter. 12 Within you people accept bribes to shed blood. You charge interest and make a profit, and you get rich by cheating your neighbors. And you have forgotten me, declares the Lord Yahweh.
13 "'So look, I clap my hands over the profit you have plundered and over the blood that is shed within you. 14 Will your courage endure, or your hands stay strong, in the days when I deal with you? I, Yahweh, have spoken, and I will do it. 15 I will scatter you among the nations and spread you across the lands, and I will put an end to the filth in
you. 16 You will be profaned[b] through your own doing in the sight of the nations. Then you will know that I am Yahweh.'" 17 The word of Yahweh came to me: 18 "Son of man, the house of Israel has become dross to me. All of them are copper, tin, iron, and lead inside a furnace; they are the dross of silver. 19 Therefore the Lord Yahweh says this: Because every one of you has turned into scrap metal, I will gather you together inside Jerusalem. 20 As people gather silver, copper, iron, lead, and tin into a furnace to blow fire on it and melt it, so I will gather you in my anger and fury, put you inside, and melt you. 21 I will gather you and blow on you with the fire of my wrath, and you will be melted within the city. 22 As silver is melted in a furnace, so you will be melted inside it. Then you will know that I, Yahweh, have poured out my fury on you."
23 The word of Yahweh came to me: 24 "Son of man, say to her, 'You are a land that has not been cleansed or rained upon in the day of indignation.' 25 There is a conspiracy of her prophets[c] within her, like a roaring lion tearing its prey. They devour lives, seize treasure and precious things, and multiply the widows within her. 26 Her priests wrong my teaching and treat my holy things as profane. Between sacred and common they draw no line; the difference between unclean and clean they never make known. From my Sabbaths they hide their eyes, and among them I am made profane. 27 Her officials within her are like wolves tearing prey, shedding blood and destroying lives to get unjust gain. 28 Her prophets daub whitewash over all of it, seeing empty visions and divining lies, and declaring, 'The Lord Yahweh says this,' though Yahweh never spoke. 29 The common people have extorted and robbed; the poor and the needy they have mistreated, and the foreigner they have wronged without justice. 30 I looked among them for one man to repair the wall, to take his stand before me in the gap for the land so that I would not wreck it—and there was none. 31 So I have poured out my indignation on them; I have consumed them with the fire of my wrath. I have brought their conduct down on their own heads, declares the Lord Yahweh."

Notes

- a (22:10) That is, they have sexual relations with their fathers' wives (Lev 18:8).
- b (22:16) So the main Hebrew text. The Greek reads differently ("I will give inheritances in you").
- c (22:25) The Greek has "her princes," which many scholars prefer since prophets are treated in v. 28.

Chapter 23

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 "Son of man, there were two women, daughters of one mother. 3 They became prostitutes in Egypt; they played the prostitute in their youth. There their breasts were fondled, and there their virgin nipples were caressed. 4 The elder bore the name Oholah,[a] her sister the name Oholibah.[b] They became mine and gave birth to sons and daughters. Their names stand for this: Oholah is Samaria, and Oholibah is Jerusalem.

5 "Oholah went whoring though she was mine. She burned with desire for her lovers, for Assyria's warriors[c] 6 clothed in blue, governors and commanders, all of them desirable young men, horsemen riding on horses. 7 She bestowed her prostitution on them, all of them the elite of Assyria, and she defiled herself with all the idols of everyone she lusted after. 8 She did not abandon the prostitution she had begun in Egypt; in her youth men had slept with her, fondled her young breasts, and spilled out their lust on her. 9 So I gave her over into her lovers' hands, into the hands of the Assyrians she burned for. 10 They exposed her nakedness, took her sons and daughters, and killed her with the sword. She became a byword among women, and judgments were carried out on her.

11 "Her sister Oholibah saw this, yet in her lust she was more corrupt than her sister, and her prostitution exceeded her sister's. 12 She lusted
after the Assyrians—governors and commanders, warriors clothed in splendor, horsemen riding on horses, all of them desirable young men. 13 I saw that she too was defiled; the two of them went one road. 14 But she carried her prostitution further. She saw men carved on the wall, images of Chaldeans engraved in vermilion, 15 with belts around their waists and flowing turbans on their heads, all of them looking like officers, a portrait of Babylonians whose native land was Chaldea. 16 As soon as she saw them, she lusted after them and sent messengers to them in Chaldea. 17 Babylon's sons came in to her, to the bed of love, and made her unclean with their whoring; and when they had defiled her, she pulled herself away from them in revulsion.
18 When she flaunted her prostitution and exposed her nakedness, I turned from her in disgust, just as I had turned from her sister. 19 Yet she multiplied her prostitution, remembering the days of her youth when she played the prostitute in the land of Egypt. 20 She burned for her lovers there, men with flesh like a donkey's flesh and an issue like a stallion's issue. 21 So you longed for the lewdness of your youth, when the Egyptians caressed your nipples and fondled your young breasts.[d]
22 "So, Oholibah, the Lord Yahweh says this: Look, I am rousing against you the lovers from whom you pulled away in revulsion; from all around I will bring them against you— 23 Babylon's sons and every Chaldean, Pekod, Shoa, and Koa,[e] and with them all Assyria's sons —handsome young men every one, governors and prefects, captains and summoned men, every one mounted on horses. 24 They will attack

you with weapons,[f] chariots and carts, and with a huge assembly of peoples. On every side they will take their stand against you, armed with large shields, small shields and helmets. I will entrust the judgment to them, and they will sentence you by their own laws. 25 I will turn my jealous anger on you, and they will treat you furiously. They will slice off your nose and ears, and your survivors will die by the sword. They will carry off your sons and daughters, and your survivors will be burned up in the fire. 26 They will strip you of your clothes and take away your beautiful jewelry. 27 So I will put an end to your lewdness and the prostitution you brought from the land of Egypt. You will not lift your eyes to them or remember Egypt anymore.

28 "For the Lord Yahweh says this: Look, I am giving you into the hands of the ones you hate, the ones from whom you pulled away in revulsion.

29 They will treat you with hatred and take everything you earned, leaving you stripped and naked. Your shameful prostitution will be uncovered—your indecency and your prostitution.

30 These things will be done to you because you prostituted yourself with the nations and defiled yourself with their idols.

31 Your sister's road you have walked, so her cup I will set in your hand.

32 "The Lord Yahweh says:

Your sister's cup you will drink,
the cup that is deep and broad;
you will be laughed at and mocked,
for it holds so much.

33 With drunkenness and grief you will be filled;
a cup of ruin and desolation
is your sister Samaria's cup.

34 You will drink it and drain it,
gnaw its broken pieces,
and tear your breasts.
For I have spoken, declares the Lord Yahweh.

35 “Therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says: Because you have forgotten me and thrown me behind your back, you must bear the penalty of your lewdness and your prostitution.” 36 Yahweh said to me, “Son of man, will you judge Oholah and Oholibah? Then declare to them their abominations. 37 For they have committed adultery, and there is blood on their hands. They have committed adultery with their idols; they have even made the children they bore to me pass through the fire to them as food. 38
Moreover, they have done this to me: on that same day they defiled my sanctuary and profaned my Sabbaths. 39 For when they had slaughtered their children for their idols, on that same day they came into my sanctuary to profane it. That is what they did in the middle of my house. 40 “They even sent for men coming from far away; a messenger was sent to them, and they came. For them you bathed, painted your eyes, and adorned yourself with jewelry. 41 On a magnificent couch you sat, a table laid out in front of it, and on it you placed my incense and my oil. 42 The sound of a carefree crowd was around her, with men of the common sort brought in, drunkards[g] from the wilderness. They put bracelets on the women’s wrists and beautiful crowns on their heads. 43 Then I said of her who was worn out by adulteries, ‘Now they will commit prostitution with her, even her!’ 44
And they went in to her as one goes in to a prostitute. So they went in to Oholah and to Oholibah, the lewd women. 45 But righteous men will judge them with the sentence for adulteresses and the sentence for women who shed blood, because they are adulteresses and there is blood on their hands.
46 “For this is what the Lord Yahweh says: Bring up an assembly against them, and hand them over to terror and plunder. 47 The assembly will pelt them with stones and hack them with swords;
their sons and daughters will be killed and their houses burned down.
48 So I will put an end to lewdness in the land, and all women will take warning and not imitate your lewdness. 49 Your lewdness will be repaid on you, and you will bear the penalty for your sins with idols.
Then you will know that I am the Lord Yahweh.”

Notes

- a (23:4) Oholah means "her tent," perhaps alluding to Samaria's own shrines.
- b (23:4) Oholibah means "my tent is in her," alluding to Yahweh's temple in Jerusalem.
- c (23:5) Or "neighbors"; the Hebrew word can mean "near."
- d (23:21) The Hebrew of this line is difficult; "the Egyptians" is implied from v. 19.
- e (23:23) Pekod, Shoa, and Koa were peoples east of the Tigris; the names may also be wordplays on Hebrew words for "punishment" and "cry for help." The Greek has "Phacuc, Sue, and Hychue."
- f (23:24) The meaning of the Hebrew word rendered "weapons" is uncertain.
- g (23:42) Or "Sabeans," following the written Hebrew text; the meaning is uncertain.

Chapter 24

1 In the ninth year, on the tenth day of the tenth month (in December– January),[a] the word of Yahweh came to me:
2 "Son of man, record for yourself the date, this very day. On this exact day Babylon's king has closed in on Jerusalem.
3 Tell a parable to the rebellious house and say to them, 'This is what
the Lord Yahweh says:
    Set the pot on the fire, set it on;
    pour water into it as well.
4 Gather its pieces into it,
    every choice piece, the thigh and the shoulder;
    pack it full of the best bones.
5 Take the choicest of the flock;
    pile the bones[b] under it.
    Bring it to a rolling boil;
    let its bones seethe in it.
6 "'So the Lord Yahweh says this:
    Woe to the city of blood,
    the pot with corrosion[c] inside,
    whose corrosion will not come out!
    Take it out, piece after piece;
    cast no lot for it.[d]
7 For her blood remains inside her;
    on bare rock she set it.

She never spilled it on the soil
where dust might hide it.
8 To stir up fury, to take vengeance,
I have put her blood on the bare rock,
so that it would not be covered.
9 "'Therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says:
Woe to the city of bloodshed!
I too will make the pile great.
10 Pile up the wood, light the fire,
boil the meat through,
stir in the spices,[e]
and let the bones burn.
11 Then set the empty pot on the coals,
so that it grows hot and its copper glows,
its impurity melts within it,
and its corrosion is consumed.
12 It has exhausted my efforts;[f] its heavy corrosion will not leave it.
Let its corrosion go into the fire!
13 Your uncleanness is lewdness. I sought to make you clean, yet clean of your impurity you would not be; and clean you will not be again till I have brought my fury on you to rest.
14 I, Yahweh, have spoken. It will happen, and I will act. I will not hold back or show pity or change my mind. They will sentence you according to your conduct and your actions, declares the Lord Yahweh.'"
15 The word of Yahweh came to me: 16 "Son of man, I am about to take from you with a single blow the delight of your eyes. Yet you must not mourn or weep or let your tears flow. 17 Sigh, but silently; hold no mourning rites for the dead. Wrap your turban on and lace your sandals onto your feet. Leave your mustache uncovered, and do not eat the bread men bring to mourners."[g] 18 I spoke to the people at dawn; at dusk my wife died. And at dawn I did what I had been ordered to do. 19 Then the people said to me, "Won't you explain to us what these actions of yours have to do with us?" 20 I said to them,

“The word of Yahweh came to me: 21 ‘Say to the house of Israel, “This is what the Lord Yahweh says: I am about to profane my sanctuary, the pride of your strength, the delight of your eyes, and the longing of your soul. The sons and daughters you left behind will fall by the sword. 22 You will do as I have done: you will not cover your upper lip or eat the bread of mourners. 23 Your turbans will remain on your heads and your sandals on your feet. You will not mourn or weep, but you will waste away because of your guilt and groan to one another.
24 Ezekiel will be a sign to you; you will do everything he has done.
When this happens, you will know that I am the Lord Yahweh.”’ 25 “And you, son of man—on the day when I take away their fortress, their glorious joy, what delights their eyes and what their souls long for, their sons and their daughters— 26 on that day a fugitive will come to you to bring the news to your ears. 27 On that day your mouth will be opened to the fugitive; you will speak and no longer be mute. So you will be a sign to them, and they will know that I am Yahweh.”

Notes

- a (24:1) Hebrew: “in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month,” counting from the spring new year; this was the month later called Tevet, in January 588 BC by the usual reckoning (2 Kgs 25:1).
- b (24:5) Or “logs”; compare v. 10.
- c (24:6) Or “rust” or “scum”; the meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain; also in vv. 11–12.
- d (24:6) That is, no portion is set aside to be spared.
- e (24:10) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain; others render “pour out the broth.”
- f (24:12) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- g (24:17) Hebrew: “the bread of men”; many scholars, with a slight change, read “the bread of mourners”; also in v. 22.

Chapter 25

1 The word of Yahweh came to me: 2 “Son of man, turn your face toward the Ammonites[a] and prophesy against them. 3 Tell the Ammonites, ‘Hear the word of the Lord Yahweh. The Lord Yahweh says this: You said “Ha!” over my sanctuary when it was desecrated, over the land of Israel when it was ruined, and over the people of Judah when they went into exile. 4 so look, I am giving you to the sons of the east to own. They will set their camps in you and place their dwellings among you; they will be the ones to eat your fruit and drink your milk. 5 Rabbah I will turn into a grazing ground for camels, and Ammon's towns into a fold for sheep. And you will know that I am Yahweh. 6 For this is what the Lord Yahweh says: Because you clapped your hands and stamped your feet and rejoiced with all the contempt of your heart against the land of Israel, 7 therefore I have stretched out my hand against you and will give you as plunder to the nations. I will cut you off from the peoples and wipe you out from the countries; I will destroy you. Then you will know that I am Yahweh.'

8 "This is what the Lord Yahweh says: Because Moab and Seir[b] said, 'Look, the house of Judah is like all the other nations,' 9 therefore I am going to lay open the flank of Moab, stripping it of its towns, its frontier towns, the glory of the land—Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim.[c] 10 Together with Ammon I will give it to the sons of the east to own, that Ammon may not be remembered among the nations. 11 And I will carry out judgments on Moab. Then they will know that I am Yahweh.
12 "The Lord Yahweh says this: Since Edom took vengeance on Judah's house and became deeply guilty by avenging itself on them, 13 therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says: I will stretch out my hand against Edom and cut off from it both people and animals. I will make it a ruin; from Teman to Dedan[d] they will fall by the sword. 14 I will take my vengeance on Edom by the hand of my people Israel, and they will deal with Edom according to my anger and my fury. Then they will know my vengeance, declares the Lord Yahweh.
15 "The Lord Yahweh says this: The Philistines have acted in revenge and taken vengeance with malice in their hearts, aiming to destroy with never-ending hatred. 16 therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh says: I am going to stretch out my hand against the Philistines. I will cut off the Cherethites[e] and destroy the rest of the seacoast. 17 I will take terrible vengeance on them, punishing them in fury. Then they will know that I am Yahweh, when I take my vengeance on them."

Notes

- a (25:2) The Ammonites lived east of the Jordan; their capital was Rabbah (modern Amman).
- b (25:8) Seir is the mountain region of Edom. The Greek lacks “and Seir.”
- c (25:9) Beth-jeshimoth means “house of the wastelands”; Baal-meon, “lord of the dwelling”; Kiriathaim, “double city.”
- d (25:13) Teman was a region of Edom; Dedan was an Arabian oasis to the southeast.
- e (25:16) The Cherethites were a people associated with the Philistines, perhaps from Crete; the name plays on the verb “cut off” (karath).

Chapter 26

1 It was in the eleventh year, on the first of the month,[a] that Yahweh’s word came to me: 2 “Son of man, since Tyre[b] has said about Jerusalem, ‘Ha! She that was the door of the peoples is shattered; she has been flung open to me. Now that she is wasted, I will grow full,’ 3 the Lord Yahweh says this: Look, I am coming at you, Tyre. Many nations I will bring up against you, as the sea heaves up its breakers. 4 They will demolish the walls of Tyre and knock down her towers. I will sweep the dust off her and turn her into a bare rock. 5 She will become a place in the middle of the sea for spreading out fishing nets, for I have spoken, declares the Lord Yahweh. She will become plunder for the nations, 6 and her daughters[c] on the mainland will be killed by the sword. Then they will know that I am Yahweh.
7 “For the Lord Yahweh says this: Look, out of the north I am bringing Nebuchadrezzar[d] of Babylon against Tyre, king of kings, with horse and chariot, cavalry and a vast mob of troops. 8 He will kill your daughters on the mainland with the sword. He will build a siege wall against you, heap up a ramp against you, and raise a wall of shields against you. 9 His battering rams he will set against your walls, and your towers he will tear down with his iron tools. 10 So countless are his horses that their dust will bury you. At the din of cavalry, wheels, and chariots your walls will quake, when he comes in at your gates as men come into a city broken open. 11 His horses’ hoofs will tread every street of yours. Your people he will slay with the sword, and your strong pillars will crash down to the earth. 12 Your riches will be seized and your goods carried off as plunder. Your walls will be pulled down and your pleasant houses wrecked; your stones, your timbers, and your rubble will be dumped into the sea. 13 I will hush

the clamor of your songs; the music of your lyres will never sound again. 14 I will make you a bare rock; you will be a place for spreading nets. You will never be rebuilt, for I, Yahweh, have spoken, declares the Lord Yahweh.
15 "This is what the Lord Yahweh says to Tyre: Will not the coast-lands shake at the sound of your fall, when the wounded groan and slaughter is done within you?
16 Then all the rulers of the coast will come down from their seats, take off their robes, and remove their embroidered clothing. They will dress themselves in terror and sit on the ground, shaking continually and horrified over you.
17 They will raise a dirge for you and say to you:
'Ah, how you are lost,
you who were peopled from the seas,
the city held in honor,
strong upon the sea,
she and those who dwelt in her,
who laid their dread
on all her inhabitants!
18 Now the islands shake
on the day you fall;
the islands out in the sea
are terrified at your departure.'
19 "This is what the Lord Yahweh says: When I turn you into a ruined city, like cities where nobody lives any more, when I raise the ocean depths over you and the mighty waters cover you, 20 then I will bring you down with those who go down to the pit,[e] to the people of long ago. I will make you live in the land below, among ancient ruins, with those who go down to the pit, so that you will not be inhabited or take your place[f] in the land of the living. 21 I will make you a horror, and you will be no more. Though you are sought, you will never be found again, declares the Lord Yahweh."

Notes

- a (26:1) The month is not given in the Hebrew or the Greek. The eleventh year of Jehoiachin's exile was 587/586 BC, the year Jerusalem fell (v. 2).
- b (26:2) Tyre means "rock." It was the great Phoenician port, built largely on an island off the coast of modern Lebanon.
- c (26:6) That is, its dependent settlements; also in v. 8.
- d (26:7) Hebrew Nebuchadrezzar, a form closer to the Babylonian Nabu-kudurri-usur, "Nabu, protect my heir." His siege of Tyre lasted thirteen years (compare 29:18).
- e (26:20) That is, the realm of the dead.
- f (26:20) So the Greek ("nor stand"); the Hebrew has "and I will give glory."

Chapter 27

1 The word of Yahweh came to me:
2 "As for you, son of man, take up a lament over Tyre.
3 Say to Tyre, who sits at the gateways of the sea, merchant of the peoples to many coastlands, 'This is what the Lord Yahweh says:
Tyre, you have said,
"I am perfect in beauty."
4 Your borders were in the heart of the seas;
your builders perfected your beauty.
5 They fashioned all your planks of juniper from Senir;[a] they took a cedar from Lebanon
to make a mast for you.
6 They made your oars
from the oaks of Bashan;
they made your benches out of ivory
set in cypress[b] from the shores of Kittim.[c] 7 Your sail was of Egypt's embroidered linen, spread out to be your ensign;
your canopy was violet and purple
from the shores of Elishah.[d] 8 The people of Sidon and Arvad[e] were your rowers;
your skilled men, Tyre, were aboard as your sailors.
9 Gebal's[f] elders and its experts were in you,
mending your leaks.

Every seagoing ship and its crews
came to you to deal in your wares.
10 "'Persia, Lud and Put[g] served in your army as your soldiers. They hung their shields and helmets inside you; they gave you your glory.
11 Men of Arvad and your army were on your walls all around, and men of Gammad[h] were in your towers. They hung their shields on your walls all around; they perfected your beauty.
12 "'Tarshish[i] traded with you because of your great abundance of every kind of wealth; for your wares they gave silver, iron, tin, and lead.
13 Javan,[j] Tubal, and Meshech[k] were your dealers; for your wares they paid in human lives and in bronze utensils.
14 From Beth-togarmah[l] they gave horses, war horses, and mules for your wares.
15 The people of Dedan[m] traded with you; many coastlands were your markets. They paid you with ivory tusks and ebony.
16 Aram[n] traded with you because of your many products; for your wares they gave turquoise, purple, embroidered work, fine linen, coral, and rubies.
17 Judah and the land of Israel traded with you; for your merchandise they gave wheat from Minnith, millet,[o] honey, oil, and balm.
18 Damascus traded with you because of your many products and your great abundance of every kind of wealth, with wine from Helbon and wool from Zahar.[p] 19 Vedan and Javan from Uzal[q] gave wrought iron, cassia, and calamus for your wares.
20 Dedan traded with you in saddlecloths for riding.
21 Arabia and all the princes of Kedar[r] were your customers; in lambs, rams, and goats they traded with you.
22 The merchants of Sheba and Raamah[s] traded with you; for your wares they gave the finest of all spices, every kind of precious stone, and gold.
23 Haran, Canneh, Eden, the merchants of Sheba, Asshur, and Chilmad[t] traded with you.

24 They traded with you in choice garments, in cloaks of blue and embroidered work, and in carpets of many colors, bound with twisted cords, in your marketplace.
25 Ships of Tarshish transported your goods.
And so you were full and heavily laden
in the middle of the seas.
26 "'Your rowers have brought you out into the vast waters.
The east wind has shattered you
in the heart of the seas.
27 Your riches, your goods, your trade,
your sailors and your pilots,
your ship-menders and your merchants,
and all your soldiers within you,
together with the whole crowd in your midst,
will go down into the depths of the sea
the day you are wrecked.
28 At the sound of your sailors' cry
the open lands[u] will shake.
29 All who handle the oar
will come down from their ships;
the seamen and all the sailors of the sea
will stand on the shore.
30 Over you they will shout aloud
and wail with bitter cries;
dust they will toss on their heads,
and in ashes they will wallow.
31 They will shave their heads for you and put on sackcloth;
they will weep over you in bitterness of soul,
with bitter mourning.[v]
32 In their wailing they will take up a lament for you and chant over you:
"Who was like Tyre,
like her now silenced[w] in the midst of the sea?"

33 When your goods were unloaded from the seas,
you filled many nations;
by your enormous wealth and trade
you made earth's kings rich.
34 Now you are shattered by the seas,
in the depths of the waters;
your merchandise and all your company
have sunk with you.
35 All who live on the coasts
are shocked by you;
their kings bristle with fear;
their faces are twisted.
36 The merchants among the peoples hiss at you;
you have become a terror,
and you will be no more forever.'"

Notes

- a (27:5) Senir is another name for Mount Hermon (Deut 3:9).
- b (27:6) Hebrew bath-ashurim, traditionally "daughter of Assyrians"; with a different division of the letters, "in cypress" (bitashurim).
- c (27:6) Kittim is Cyprus, named after the city of Kition; the term was later used of western coastlands generally.
- d (27:7) Elishah is probably Alashiya, an ancient name for Cyprus or part of it.
- e (27:8) Arvad was a Phoenician island city north of Tyre.
- f (27:9) Gebal is Byblos, a Phoenician port north of Sidon.
- g (27:10) Lud is probably Lydia in Asia Minor; Put is probably Libya.
- h (27:11) The identity of Gammad is unknown; the Greek has "guards."
- i (27:12) Tarshish was a distant western port, probably in Spain (Tartessus); the Greek has "Carthaginians."
- j (27:13) Javan is Greece (Ionia).
- k (27:13) Tubal and Meshech were peoples of central Asia Minor (compare 38:2).
- l (27:14) Beth-togarmah was a region probably in eastern Asia Minor (Armenia).
- m (27:15) So the main Hebrew text; the Greek has "Rhodians," reflecting a reading "Rodan."
- n (27:16) Some ancient witnesses read "Edom"; in Hebrew the two names differ by one similar letter.
- o (27:17) The meaning of the Hebrew word rendered "millet" (pannag) is uncertain.
- p (27:18) Or "white wool."

- q (27:19) The Hebrew of v. 19 is uncertain; “from Uzal” may instead be read as part of the list of goods.
- r (27:21) Kedar was a tribe of the Arabian desert.
- s (27:22) Sheba and Raamah were peoples of southern Arabia.
- t (27:23) Chilmad is unidentified; the other names are trading centers of Mesopotamia and Arabia.
- u (27:28) Or “the pasturelands”; the meaning is uncertain.
- v (27:31) Verse 31 is not found in the Greek.
- w (27:32) The Hebrew word is uncertain; some read “like a ruin” or “like her destroyed one.”

Chapter 28

1 Yahweh’s word came to me:
2 “Son of man, tell the ruler of Tyre, ‘The Lord Yahweh says this: /
Your heart has grown lofty, / and you have said, “A god am I; / in the seat of gods I sit, / in the heart of the seas.” / Yet you are a mortal, not a god, / though you have made your mind like the mind of a god.
3 Look, you are wiser than Danel;[a] / no secret is too dark for you.
4 By your wisdom and your understanding / you have gained wealth for yourself, / and gold and silver you have amassed / in your treasure houses.
5 By your great skill in trade / you have multiplied your wealth, / and your heart has grown lofty / because of your wealth.
6 “‘So the Lord Yahweh says this: / Since you have made your mind / like the mind of a god,
7 look, I am bringing foreigners against you, / the most ruthless of nations. / They will bare their swords against the beauty your wisdom made / and defile your splendor.
8 Down to the pit[b] they will send you, / and you will die the death of the slain / in the heart of the seas.
9 Before the one who slays you,
will you go on saying, “I am a god”?
You will be a mortal, not a god,
in the grip of those who pierce you.
10 You will die the death of the uncircumcised[c] / at the hand of foreigners. / For I have spoken, declares the Lord Yahweh.’”

11 Yahweh's word came to me:
12 "Son of man, raise a dirge over the king of Tyre and say to him,
'The Lord Yahweh says this: / You were the seal of perfection,[d] / full of wisdom and flawless in beauty.
13 In Eden, God's garden, you lived;
gems of every kind adorned you:
carnelian, chrysolite, and moonstone,
beryl, onyx, and jasper,
lapis lazuli, turquoise, and emerald;[e]
and your settings and mountings were worked in gold.
On the day you were created they were made ready.
14 You were an anointed cherub, a guardian;[f] / I placed you there. / On God's holy mountain you were; / among stones of fire you walked about.
15 Blameless you were in your ways / from the day you were created, / until wrong was discovered in you.
16 Through the abundance of your trade / your insides filled with violence, / and you sinned. / So I banished you as profane from God's mountain, / and I destroyed you, guardian cherub, / from among the stones of fire.
17 Your heart grew lofty because of your beauty; / you ruined your wisdom for the sake of your splendor. / I hurled you to the earth; / before kings I set you out, / for them to feast their eyes on you.
18 By your many wrongs,
by your dishonest dealing,
you made your sanctuaries unclean.
So I brought out a fire from inside you;
it consumed you,
and I reduced you to ashes on the earth
in full view of everyone watching you.
19 All among the peoples who knew you / are appalled at you. / You have become a terror, / and you will be no more forever.'" 20 Yahweh's word came to me: 21 "Son of man, set your face toward Sidon[g] and prophesy against her. 22 Say, 'The Lord Yahweh says this:
Look, I am coming against you, Sidon, and I will win glory in your midst. They will know that I am Yahweh when I carry out judgments on her and show myself holy in her. 23 I will send plague into her and blood into her streets. The slain will fall within her, by the sword that comes against her from every side. And they will know that I am Yahweh. 24 "'No more will the house of Israel have a briar that pricks or a thorn that wounds from any of the neighbors around them who treat them with contempt. And they will know that I am the Lord Yahweh.

25 "'The Lord Yahweh says this: When I gather Israel's house from the peoples among whom they are scattered, and show myself holy through them before the nations' eyes, then they will live on their own soil, which I gave to my servant Jacob. 26 They will live on it in security, building houses and planting vineyards; in security they will live, when I carry out judgments on all their neighbors who treat them with contempt. And they will know that I am Yahweh their God.'"

Notes

- a (28:3) Hebrew Danel; see the note at 14:14.
- b (28:8) That is, the realm of the dead.
- c (28:10) That is, a shameful death without honorable burial; the phrase is used of the Phoenicians, who practiced circumcision, as a mark of disgrace.
- d (28:12) The Hebrew phrase is obscure; it may mean "sealer of proportion," that is, the model of a perfect design. The Greek has "a seal of likeness."
- e (28:13) The identification of many of these stones is uncertain. The Hebrew lists nine stones, all found among the twelve on the high priest's breastpiece (Exodus 28:17–20). The Greek lists all twelve of the breastpiece stones, adds silver and gold, and has a different final clause.
- f (28:14) Or "You were with an anointed guardian cherub." The Hebrew pronoun "you" has an unusual feminine form; the Greek reads "with the cherub" and lacks "anointed."
- g (28:21) Sidon, about 25 miles (40 kilometers) north of Tyre, was the other great Phoenician city.

Chapter 29

1 In the tenth year, on the twelfth day of the tenth month (in December–January),[a] Yahweh's word came to me: 2 "Son of man, set your face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him and against all Egypt. 3 Speak and say, 'The Lord Yahweh says this: / Look, I am coming against you, / Pharaoh, king of Egypt, / the great monster[b] sprawled / in the midst of his Nile channels, / who says, "My Nile is mine; / I made it for myself." 4 I will set hooks in your jaws / and cause the fish of your channels to stick to your scales. / Out of the middle of your channels I will drag you, / together with every fish of your channels / that clings to your scales. 5 I will fling you into the wilderness, / you and all the fish of your streams. / On the open field you will fall; / no one will gather you up or collect you. / To the beasts of the earth and the birds of the sky / I have given you as food. 6 Then all who live in Egypt will know / that I am Yahweh, / because they have been a staff of reed / to the house of Israel. 7 When they took hold of you by the hand,[c] you splintered / and tore open every shoulder of theirs; / when they leaned their weight on you, you snapped, / and made every one of their hips give way.[d] 8 "'So the Lord Yahweh says this: Look, I am bringing a sword upon you, and I will cut off from you human and beast. 9 Egypt will become a desolate wasteland, and they will know that I am Yahweh. He claimed, "The Nile belongs to me; I created it," 10 look, I am coming against you and against your streams. I will turn Egypt's land into an utter ruin, a desolation, from Migdol to Syene[e] and as far as the border of Cush.[f] 11 No human foot will cross it, and no animal's foot will cross it; for forty years it will be uninhabited. 12 I will make Egypt's land a desolation among desolate lands, and its cities will lie desolate among ruined cities for forty years. I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them through the lands.

13 "'Yet the Lord Yahweh says this: At the end of forty years I will gather the Egyptians from the peoples where they were scattered. 14
I will turn back Egypt's captivity and return them to Pathros,[g] their homeland, and they will be a lowly kingdom there. 15 It will be the lowliest of the kingdoms and will never again lift itself above the nations. I will make them so few that they will not rule over the nations. 16 Never again will Egypt be the trust of Israel's house; instead it will be a reminder of their guilt in turning to them for help. And they will know that I am the Lord Yahweh.'"

17 In the twenty-seventh year, on the first day of the first month
(in March–April),[h] Yahweh's word came to me: 18 "Son of man, Neb-uchadrezzar king of Babylon drove his army to hard labor against Tyre. Every head was rubbed bald and every shoulder rubbed raw.
Yet from Tyre neither he nor his army got any wages for the labor he spent on it. 19 So the Lord Yahweh says this: Look, I am giving Egypt's land to Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon. He will carry off its riches,[i] take its spoil, and seize its plunder, and that will be the wages for his army. 20 As payment for the work he labored at, I have given him Egypt's land, because they did it for me, declares the Lord Yahweh.
21 "On that day I will make a horn[j] sprout for Israel's house, and I will give you an open mouth among them. And they will know that I am Yahweh."

Notes

- a (29:1) Hebrew "in the tenth month, on the twelfth of the month." On the spring-start calendar used in Ezekiel, the tenth month is Tevet; the date falls in January 587 BC. The Greek reads "the twelfth year … on the first of the month."
- b (29:3) Hebrew tannim, a variant of tannin, "sea monster" or "dragon"; here a picture of the crocodile.
- c (29:7) So the Hebrew margin and the Greek; the Hebrew text has "by your palm."
- d (29:7) Probable reading; compare the Greek "crushed the loins of them all." The Hebrew reads "made all their hips stand."
- e (29:10) Migdol was in the northeast of Egypt and Syene (modern Aswan) in the far south; the phrase means "from one end of Egypt to the other."
- f (29:10) That is, the upper Nile region (Nubia, in modern Sudan).
- g (29:14) That is, Upper (southern) Egypt.
- h (29:17) Hebrew "in the first, on the first of the month." On the spring-start calendar the first month is Nisan; the date falls in April 571 BC, the latest dated oracle in the book.
- i (29:19) Or "its multitude."
- j (29:21) The horn is a symbol of strength.

Chapter 30

1 Yahweh's word came to me:
2 "Son of man, prophesy and say, 'The Lord Yahweh says this: / Howl,
"Alas for the day!"
3 For the day is near, / the day of Yahweh is near, / a day of cloud, / a time of doom for the nations.

4 A sword will come against Egypt, / and anguish will seize Cush, / when the slain fall in Egypt, / when her wealth is carried away / and her foundations torn down.
5 Cush, Put, and Lud, all the mixed peoples,[a] Cub,[b] and the people of the allied land[c] will fall by the sword with them.
6 "'Yahweh says this:
Egypt's supporters will fall,
and her proud strength will come down.
From Migdol all the way to Syene
the sword will cut them down within her,
declares the Lord Yahweh.
7 They will be desolate / among desolate lands, / and its cities will lie / among ruined cities.
8 They will know that I am Yahweh / when I set fire to Egypt / and all her helpers are crushed.
9 "'On that day messengers will go out from me in ships to terrify unsuspecting Cush. Anguish will take hold of them on Egypt's day—for look, it is coming!
10 "'The Lord Yahweh says this: / I will put an end to Egypt's horde /
by the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon.
11 He and his army with him, / the cruelest of all the nations, / will be brought to devastate the country. / They will draw their swords against Egypt / and cover the land with dead bodies.
12 I will turn the Nile channels into dry ground / and sell the land into the hands of evil men. / By the hand of foreigners I will make desolate / the land and everything in it. / I, Yahweh, have spoken.
13 "'The Lord Yahweh says this:
I will wipe out the idols
and make an end of Memphis's worthless gods.[d]
No prince will rise again
from Egypt's land,
and I will put fear in Egypt's land.
14 I will make Pathros desolate, / set fire to Zoan,[e] / and carry out judgments on Thebes.[f]

15 I will pour out my fury on Pelusium,[g] / Egypt's stronghold, / and cut off the horde of Thebes.
16 I will set Egypt ablaze;
Pelusium will writhe in pain,
Thebes will be split open,
and Memphis will meet foes in broad day.[h] 17 On's[i] youths and those of Pi-beseth[j]
will be cut down by the sword,
and the towns themselves[k] will go into captivity.
18 In Tehaphnehes[l] the daylight will be blocked[m] / when I smash the yoke bars of Egypt there, / and her arrogant power ends within her. / Clouds will cover her, / and her daughters will be taken captive.
19 So I will carry out judgments on Egypt, / and they will know that I am Yahweh.'"
20 In the eleventh year, on the seventh day of the first month (in March–April),[n] Yahweh's word came to me: 21 "Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt. Look, it has not been bound up for healing; no bandage has been put on to strengthen it so that it can grasp a sword. 22 So the Lord Yahweh says this: Watch out, I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt. I will break both his arms, the healthy one and the one already broken, and knock the sword out of his grasp. 23 I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them through the lands. 24 I will strengthen the arms of Babylon's king and put my sword into his hand, but Pharaoh's arms I will smash, and Pharaoh will moan in front of the king like a man who is fatally wounded. 25 I will strengthen the arms of Babylon's king, while Pharaoh's arms will drop. They will know that I am Yahweh when I put my sword into the hand of Babylon's king and he stretches it out against Egypt's land. 26 I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them through the lands. And they will know that I am Yahweh."

Notes

- a (30:5) Or "all Arabia"; the Hebrew consonants can be read either way. The Greek list differs (it has "Persians, and Cretans, and Lydians, and Libyans, and all the mixed multitude").

- b (30:5) Cub is otherwise unknown; many scholars read Lub, "Libya."
- c (30:5) Hebrew "the children of the land of the covenant"; the Greek has "the children of my covenant." The phrase may refer to allies of Egypt, or possibly to Judeans living in Egypt.
- d (30:13) Hebrew Noph, the ancient capital of Lower Egypt, near modern Cairo; also in v. 16. Instead of "the idols," the Greek has "the nobles."
- e (30:14) Zoan, called Tanis by the Greeks, was in the northeastern Nile delta.
- f (30:14) Hebrew No, the great city of Upper Egypt, modern Luxor; also in vv. 15–16.
- g (30:15) Hebrew Sin; also in v. 16. Pelusium was a frontier fortress in the northeastern delta. The Greek has "Sais" here and "Syene" in v. 16.
- h (30:16) The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain; the Greek reads "and waters will be poured out."
- i (30:17) Hebrew Aven ("wickedness"), a play on On, the city called Heliopolis, "city of the sun," northeast of modern Cairo.
- j (30:17) Pi-beseth, called Bubastis by the Greeks, was in the eastern delta.
- k (30:17) Hebrew "they"; the pronoun is feminine and probably refers to the towns. The Greek has "the women."
- l (30:18) Tehaphnehes (also spelled Tahpanhes) is Daphnae, a fortress in the northeastern delta (compare Jeremiah 43:7–9).
- m (30:18) So the Greek and some ancient witnesses; the main Hebrew text has "will hold back."
- n (30:20) Hebrew "in the first, on the seventh of the month." On the spring-start calendar the first month is Nisan; the date falls in April 587 BC.

Chapter 31

1 In the eleventh year, on the first day of the third month (in May–June),[a] Yahweh's word came to me: 2 "Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to his horde: / 'Whom are you like in your greatness? 3 Consider Assyria,[b] a cedar in Lebanon, / with lovely boughs and shade like a forest's, / towering in height, / its crown up among the clouds.[c] 4 The waters made it great; / the deep made it tall, / sending its streams / all around the place it was planted / and sending its channels / to all the trees of the field. 5 So it grew taller / than all the trees of the field; / its boughs multiplied / and its branches grew long / from the abundant water as it spread out. 6 In its boughs / every bird of the sky made its nest; / under its branches / every beast of the field gave birth; / and in its shade / all the great nations lived. 7 It was beautiful in its greatness, / in the length of its limbs, / for its roots went down / to abundant waters. 8 The cedars in God's garden /

could not rival it; / the junipers were nothing like its boughs, / and the plane trees[d] were nothing / to compare with its branches. / No tree in God's garden / matched it in beauty. 9 I made it beautiful / with its mass of limbs, / and all the trees of Eden, / those in God's garden, envied it.

10 "'So the Lord Yahweh says this: Because it[e] towered high and set its crown among the clouds, and its heart grew proud of its height, 11 I handed it over to the mightiest ruler of the nations, who will surely deal with it as its wickedness deserves. I have driven it out. 12 Foreigners, the most ruthless of nations, cut it down and left it lying. On the mountains and in every valley its limbs have fallen; its branches lie broken in every ravine of the land. All the peoples of the earth came out from its shade and left it. 13 On its fallen trunk all the birds of the sky settle, / and among its branches / all the beasts of the field take shelter. 14 This is so that no trees by the waters may tower to such a height or set their crowns among the clouds, and that no well-watered trees[f] may rise to equal them. For every one of them is given over to death, to the world below, among mortals, with those who descend to the pit.

15 "'The Lord Yahweh says this: On the day it went down to Sheol[g] I made the deep mourn for it and covered it over;[h] I held back its streams, and the great waters were checked. For its sake I dressed Lebanon in mourning, and every tree of the field wilted over it. 16 At the sound of its fall I made the nations quake, when I cast it down to Sheol with those who descend to the pit. And all Eden's trees, the choicest and best of Lebanon, all that drink water, were comforted in the world below. 17 They too went down with it to Sheol, to those slain by the sword—those who had been its arm,[i] who lived in its shade among the nations. 18 "'Whom are you like, then, in glory and greatness among the trees of Eden? Yet you too will be brought down with the trees of Eden to the world below. Among the uncircumcised you will lie, with the sword's slain. This is Pharaoh and all his horde, declares the Lord Yahweh.'"

Notes

- a (31:1) Hebrew “in the third, on the first of the month.” On the spring-start calendar the third month is Sivan; the date falls in June 587 BC.
- b (31:3) Some scholars, reading one letter differently, find here not “Assyria” but “a cypress” (te’ashshur), so that the cedar stands for Pharaoh himself. The Greek has “the Assyrian was a cypress in Lebanon.”
- c (31:3) So the Greek; the Hebrew word may mean “thick foliage”; also in vv. 10 and 14.
- d (31:8) The identification of these trees is uncertain.
- e (31:10) Hebrew “you”; the Hebrew shifts between “you” and “it.”
- f (31:14) Hebrew “all that drink water.”
- g (31:15) Sheol is the realm of the dead; also in vv. 16–17.
- h (31:15) Or “I closed the deep over it.” The Hebrew is difficult; the Greek has simply “the deep mourned for him.”
- i (31:17) The Hebrew is difficult; the Greek reads “his seed.”

Chapter 32

1 In the twelfth year, on the first day of the twelfth month (in February–March),[a] Yahweh’s word came to me:
2 “Son of man, raise a dirge over Pharaoh king of Egypt and say to him: / ‘Among the nations you likened yourself to a young lion, / but you are like a monster in the seas; / you burst out in your rivers, / churned the waters with your feet, / and fouled their streams.
3 “‘The Lord Yahweh says this: / I will cast my net over you / with a throng of many peoples, / and they will haul you up in my dragnet.
4 I will fling you onto the land; / on the open field I will hurl you down. / I will make every bird of the sky settle on you / and let the beasts of all the earth gorge themselves on you.
5 I will spread your flesh on the mountains / and fill the valleys with your carcass.[b]
6 I will water the land with what flows from you,
with your blood up to the mountains,
and the gullies will be full of you.
7 When I put out your light, I will veil the heavens
and blacken their stars;
a cloud will hide the sun,
and the moon will give no light.

8 Every shining light in the heavens / I will darken over you, / and I will set darkness over your land, / declares the Lord Yahweh.
9 "'I will trouble the hearts of many peoples / when I bring your shattering[c] among the nations, / to lands you have not known.
10 I will horrify many peoples because of you, / and their kings will be shaken with dread over you / when I wave my sword in front of them. / Every one of them will shake each moment for his own life /
on the day you fall.
11 "'For the Lord Yahweh says this: / The sword of Babylon's king / will come upon you.
12 By the swords of warriors / I will fell your horde— / the most ruthless of nations, every one. / They will ravage Egypt's pride, / and all her horde will be wiped out.
13 I will destroy all her cattle / from beside the abundant waters. /
No human foot will churn them again, / and no hoof of beast will churn them.
14 Then I will let their waters settle / and make their streams flow like oil, / declares the Lord Yahweh.
15 When I make Egypt's land a desolation,
a land stripped of all that filled it,
when I strike down every one of its inhabitants,
then they will know that I am Yahweh.
16 This is a dirge, and they will chant it; / the daughters of the nations will chant it. / Over Egypt and over all her horde they will chant it, /
declares the Lord Yahweh.'"
17 In the twelfth year, on the fifteenth day of the month,[d] Yahweh's word came to me: 18 "Son of man, mourn for the mob of Egypt, and send her down, along with the daughters of the powerful nations, into the underworld, to join those who descend into the pit. 19 'Are you lovelier than anyone? Down with you; lie among the uncircumcised!'[e] 20 They will fall among those slain by the sword. A sword has been handed over; drag her away with all her hordes.[f] 21 From inside Sheol
the strongest of the mighty ones will speak to him and to his allies:
'They have come down and lie motionless, the uncircumcised, killed by the sword.'

22 “Assyria is there with her whole army, her tombs surrounding him,[g] all of them killed, struck down by the sword. 23 Her graves are set in the remotest depths of the pit, and her company lies around her grave, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, they who once spread terror in the land of the living. 24 “Elam[h] is there with all her horde around her grave, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, who went down uncircumcised to the world below, they who once spread terror in the land of the living. Now they bear their disgrace with those who go down to the pit. 25 Among the slain they have made a bed for her with all her horde, their graves all around her, all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword. Because terror of them was spread in the land of the living, they bear their disgrace with those who go down to the pit;
she is laid among the slain. 26 “Meshech and Tubal[i] are there with all their multitudes; their tombs surround them. All are uncircumcised and run through with the sword, since they spread dread across the land of the living. 27 They do not lie beside the other fallen warriors, the uncircumcised,[j] who went down to Sheol equipped for war, with their swords laid under their heads and their shields[k] over their bones, since these heroes spread dread across the land of the living. 28 And you too will be broken among the uncircumcised and lie with those slain by the sword. 29 “Edom is there, her kings and all her chiefs, who for all their might are laid with those slain by the sword. With the uncircumcised they lie, and with those who descend to the pit.
30 “The rulers of the north are there, every one of them, and all the Sidonians, who went down in disgrace with the slain, though their power had inspired terror. They lie uncircumcised beside those killed by the sword and carry their shame together with those who descend to the pit. 31 “Pharaoh will see them and be consoled over all his horde
—Pharaoh and all his army, slain by the sword, declares the Lord Yahweh. 32 For I spread terror of him[l] in the land of the living, yet he will be laid among the uncircumcised, with those slain by the sword —Pharaoh and all his horde, declares the Lord Yahweh.”

Notes

- a (32:1) Hebrew “in the twelfth month, on the first of the month.” On the spring-start calendar the twelfth month is Adar; the date falls in March 585 BC. The Greek has “the tenth month.”
- b (32:5) Or “your heap of worms”; the Hebrew word is uncertain.
- c (32:9) So the Hebrew; the Greek reads “your captivity.”
- d (32:17) The Hebrew does not name the month. If the twelfth month of v. 1 is meant, the date is in March 585 BC. The Greek reads “in the first month” (Nisan, in March–April), which would place the oracle in April 586 BC.
- e (32:19) This verse is absent from the Greek, which has a differently arranged text in vv. 19–21.
- f (32:20) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult.
- g (32:22) Hebrew “him”; the Hebrew shifts between masculine and feminine references to Assyria in vv. 22–23.
- h (32:24) Elam was a kingdom east of Babylon, in what is now southwestern Iran.
- i (32:26) On Meshech and Tubal see the note at 27:13.
- j (32:27) The Greek has “with the giants that fell of old,” perhaps reading a slightly different Hebrew word for “of the uncircumcised.”
- k (32:27) Probable reading; the Hebrew has “their iniquities.”
- l (32:32) So the Hebrew text and the Greek; the Hebrew margin has “my terror.”

Chapter 33

1 Yahweh’s word came to me: 2 “Son of man, speak to your people’s children and tell them: Suppose I bring the sword against a land, and the people of that land pick one man from their ranks and make him their lookout. 3 He sees the sword coming against the land, sounds the ram’s horn,[a] and warns the people. 4 Then if anyone hears the horn’s blast and pays no heed, and the sword comes and takes him away, his blood will be on his own head. 5 He heard the horn’s blast and paid no heed; his blood is on himself. Had he heeded, he would have saved his life. 6 But suppose the lookout sees the sword coming and does not sound the horn, so the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes one of them. That person is taken away in his guilt, but I will hold the lookout to account for his blood.
7 “As for you, son of man, I have made you a lookout for Israel’s house.
Whenever you hear a word from my mouth, warn them for me. 8 If I tell the wicked person, ‘You wicked man, you are going to die,’ and you do not speak out to turn him from his way, then that wicked person will die for his guilt, but I will hold you accountable for his blood. 9 But if you do warn the wicked to turn from his course, and he does not turn from it, he will die in his guilt, but you will have rescued your own life.

10 "And you, son of man, say to Israel's house: This is what you keep saying: 'Our rebellions and our sins weigh on us, and we are wasting away under them. How then can we live?' 11 Tell them: 'As I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, I take no delight in the death of the wicked, but rather in the wicked turning from his course and living. Turn back, turn back from your evil ways! Why should you die, house of Israel?' 12 "And you, son of man, say to your people: The righteousness of a righteous person will not save him when he rebels, and the wickedness of a wicked person will not make him stumble when he turns away from it. A righteous person cannot live on the strength of his righteousness when he sins. 13 If I tell the righteous that he will surely live, and he trusts in his own righteousness and does wrong, none of his righteous acts will be remembered; he will die for the wrong he has done. 14 And if I tell the wicked, 'You will surely die,' and he turns from his sin and does what is just and right — 15 if the wicked man returns a pledge, pays back what he stole, and walks in the statutes that give life, doing no wrong—he will surely live; he will not die. 16 Not one sin of his will be remembered against him. Justice and right are what he has done; he will surely live. 17 "Yet your people's children say, 'The Lord's way is not fair,' when it is their own way that is not fair. 18 When a righteous person turns from his righteousness and does wrong, he will die for it. 19 And if the wicked one leaves his wickedness behind and practices justice and right, by these he will live. 20 Yet you say, 'The Lord's way is not fair.' House of Israel, I will judge each of you by your ways."
21 In the twelfth year of our exile, on the fifth day of the tenth month (in December–January),[b] someone who had fled from Jerusalem reached me with the news: "The city is struck down!" 22 Now the evening before the fugitive arrived, Yahweh's hand had come on me, and he opened my mouth before the man reached me at dawn. My mouth was opened, and I kept silent no longer.

23 Yahweh's word came to me: 24 "Son of man, those living in these ruins on Israel's soil are saying, 'Abraham was only one man, yet he took possession of the land. But we are numerous; to us the land is surely handed over to hold.' 25 So tell them: 'The Lord Yahweh says this: You eat meat with the blood in it, lift your eyes to your idols, and shed blood. Should you then possess the land? 26 You lean on your swords, you practice abominations, and every man of you defiles the wife of his neighbor. Should you then possess the land?'[c] 27 "Tell them this: 'The Lord Yahweh says: As surely as I live, those who are among the ruins will die by the sword, anyone out in the open I will give to the wild animals as food, and those in the fortresses and caves will die of disease. 28 I will turn the land into a waste and a horror, and the pride of its strength will cease. Israel's mountains will be so desolate that no one will pass through them. 29 Then they will know that I am Yahweh, when I turn the land into a waste and a horror for all the abominations they have done.'
30 "As for you, son of man, your people's children are talking about you by the walls and in the doorways of the houses. One says to another, every man to his brother, 'Let us go and hear what word comes from Yahweh.' 31 They come to you as people do, and sit before you as my people, and they hear your words, but they do not act on them. With their mouths they show much love,[d] but their hearts chase after their own gain. 32 To them you are like a love song, sung by one with a lovely voice who plays the instrument well. They hear your words, but they do not act on them. 33 Yet when this comes—and it is coming!
—they will know that a prophet has been among them."

Notes

- a (33:3) Hebrew shofar, also in vv. 4–6.
- b (33:21) Hebrew "in the tenth month, on the fifth of the month." On the spring-start calendar the tenth month is Tevet; the date falls in January 585 BC, about five months after the city fell. The Greek has "in the tenth year … in the twelfth month," and some ancient witnesses have "the eleventh year."
- c (33:26) The Greek lacks most of vv. 25–26, from "You eat meat" to the end of v. 26.
- d (33:31) Or "they act out lust"; the Hebrew is uncertain. The Greek has "falsehood is in their mouth."

Chapter 34

1 Yahweh's word came to me: 2 "Son of man, prophesy against Israel's shepherds. Prophesy, and say to them, to the shepherds: 'The Lord Yahweh says this: Woe to Israel's shepherds, who have been tending only themselves! Is it not the flock that shepherds ought to tend? 3 You eat the fat,[a] you dress in the wool, you slaughter the fatlings, but the flock you do not tend. 4 The weak you have not made strong, the sick
you have not healed, the injured you have not bandaged, the strays
you have not brought back, the lost you have not sought; with force and harshness you have ruled them. 5 So they were scattered for lack of a shepherd, and once scattered they became food for every wild beast. 6 My sheep wandered over every mountain and every high hill;
across the whole face of the earth my sheep were scattered, with no one searching or seeking for them.
7 "'So, you shepherds, hear Yahweh's word: 8 As I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, because my sheep have become plunder, because my sheep have become food for every wild beast for lack of a shepherd, since my shepherds did not search for my sheep but tended themselves and not my flock— 9 therefore, you shepherds, hear Yahweh's word. 10 The Lord Yahweh says: I am against the shepherds! I will take my flock back from them and stop them from feeding the flock, so the shepherds will no longer feed themselves. I will pull my sheep out of their mouths, and the sheep will no longer be their food.
11 "'For the Lord Yahweh says this: Here I am; I myself will search for my sheep and look after them. 12 Like a shepherd who goes looking for his flock when his sheep are scattered around him, I will go looking for my sheep. I will save them from all the places they were scattered during a day of clouds and gloom. 13 I will bring them out from the peoples, gather them from the lands, and bring them into their own soil. I will pasture them on Israel's mountains, by the ravines, and in every inhabited place in the land. 14 In good pasture I will feed them, and on the lofty mountains of Israel their grazing ground will be.
There they will lie down in a good fold and feed on rich pasture on Israel's mountains. 15 I myself will be the shepherd of my sheep, and I myself will give them rest, declares the Lord Yahweh. 16 I will look for the lost, return the strays, bandage the wounded and give strength to the weak; but the fat and the strong I will destroy.[b] I will tend them with justice.

17 "As for you, my flock, the Lord Yahweh says this: I will judge between one animal and another, between the rams and the male goats. 18 Is it not enough for you to feed on the best pasture? Must you also tread down with your feet whatever pasture is left? Or to drink clear water, that you must muddy the rest with your feet? 19 Must my sheep eat the ground your hooves have trodden and drink the water your hooves have fouled? 20 "'So the Lord Yahweh says this to them: Here I am; I myself will judge between the fat sheep and the lean. 21 Because you shove with flank and shoulder and butt all the weak ones with your horns until you have scattered them abroad, 22 I will save my flock; no longer will they be plunder. I will judge between one sheep and another. 23 Over them I will set up one shepherd, my servant David, to pasture them. He will feed them himself and be a shepherd to them. 24 I, Yahweh, will be their God, and my servant David will be prince among them. I, Yahweh, have spoken.

25 "'With them I will cut a covenant of peace and banish the wild beasts from the land, so that in the wilderness they can dwell in safety and in the woods they can sleep. 26 I will make them and the places around my hill a blessing.[c] I will send down the rain in its season; there will be showers of blessing. 27 The trees of the field will yield their fruit and the land its produce, and they will be secure on their own soil. They will know that I am Yahweh when I break the bars of their yoke and rescue them from the hand of those who enslaved them. 28 No longer will they be plunder for the nations, nor will the land's wild beasts devour them. They will live in safety, with no one to frighten them. 29 I will raise up for them a planting renowned for its yield,[d] and no longer will they be swept away by famine in the land or bear the scorn of the nations. 30 Then they will know that I, Yahweh their God, am with them, and that they, Israel's house, are my people, declares the Lord Yahweh. 31 You are my sheep, the flock that I feed; you are humans,[e] and I am your God, declares the Lord Yahweh.'"

Notes

- a (34:3) So the Hebrew vowels; with different vowels, and the Greek, “the milk.”
- b (34:16) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “the strong I will guard,” reading a similar Hebrew word.
- c (34:26) Or “I will make them a blessing around my hill.” The Greek reads “I will settle them around my mountain.”
- d (34:29) Hebrew “a planting for a name”; the Greek has “a plant of peace.”
- e (34:31) Hebrew adam, “humankind,” the word in the title “son of man” (ben adam; see the note at 2:1). The Greek lacks “you are human.”

Chapter 35

1 Yahweh’s word came to me: 2 “Son of man, turn your face toward Mount Seir[a] and prophesy against it. 3 Say to it: ‘The Lord Yahweh says this: I am coming against you, Mount Seir; I will stretch out my hand against you and make you a desolate waste. 4 Your towns I will turn into ruins, and you yourself will become a desolation. Then you will know that I am Yahweh. 5 “‘Because you nursed an age-old hatred and handed Israel’s people over to the power of the sword at the time of their disaster, the time of their final punishment, 6 therefore, as I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, I will deliver you up to bloodshed, and bloodshed will hound you. Since you did not hate bloodshed, bloodshed will hound you.[b] 7 Mount Seir I will turn into a waste and a horror, and from it I will cut off all who pass to and fro. 8 I will fill your mountains with the dead; those killed by the sword will fall on your hills, in your valleys and in all your gullies. 9 A desolation forever I will make you, and your towns will not be inhabited.[c] Then you will know that I am Yahweh. 10 “‘Because you said, “These two nations and these two lands will be mine, and we will take possession of them”— though Yahweh was there— 11 therefore, as surely as I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, I will treat you with the same anger and jealousy that you showed in your hatred toward them. I will reveal myself among them[d] when I judge you. 12 Then you will know that I am Yahweh.
I have heard every insult you spoke against the mountains of Israel
when you said, “They are laid waste; they were given to us to devour.” 13 With your mouths you made yourselves great against me and piled up your words against me. I heard it. 14 “‘The Lord Yahweh says this:
While the whole earth rejoices, I will make you a desolation. 15 As you rejoiced over the inheritance of Israel's house because it was made desolate, so I will deal with you. A desolation you will be, Mount Seir, you and all Edom, every bit of it. Then they will know that I am Yahweh.'"

Notes

- a (35:2) See the note at 25:8.
- b (35:6) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult; "blood" may also hint at Edom's name (compare Hebrew dam, "blood," and adom, "red").
- c (35:9) So the Hebrew margin; the Hebrew text may be read "will not return."
- d (35:11) The Greek has "to you."

Chapter 36

1 "And you, son of man, prophesy to Israel's mountains and say: 'Mountains of Israel, hear Yahweh's word. 2 The Lord Yahweh says this: Your enemy jeered over you, "Aha! Those age-old heights[a] are ours to hold now!" 3 So prophesy and say: The Lord Yahweh says this: Because they made you desolate and hounded you from every side, until the remaining nations owned you, and you have become the talk of gossiping tongues and the slander of the people, 4 therefore, mountains of Israel, listen to the word of the Lord Yahweh. To the mountains and hills, to the gullies and valleys, to the ruined wastes and abandoned cities that have been plundered and ridiculed by the other nations all around, the Lord Yahweh says this: 5 the Lord Yahweh says this: In the fire of my jealousy I have spoken against the rest of the nations and against all Edom, who with wholehearted glee and contempt claimed my land as their own possession, so as to drive out its pasture and plunder it.[b] 6 So prophesy concerning Israel's soil and tell the mountains and the hills, the ravines and the valleys: The Lord Yahweh says this: In my jealousy and my fury I speak, because you have endured the nations' scorn. 7 So the Lord Yahweh says this: I lift my hand and swear that the nations around you will themselves endure scorn.

8 "'But as for you, mountains of Israel, you will grow branches and produce fruit for my people Israel, because they will return home before long. 9 For see, I am for you; I will turn my face to you, and plowmen and sowers will work you. 10 I will multiply people upon you, the whole house of Israel, all of it. The towns will be inhabited and the ruins rebuilt. 11 I will multiply on you both human and beast; they will increase and be fruitful. I will settle you as you were in former times and treat you better than at your beginning. Then you will know that I am Yahweh. 12 I will make people walk upon you, my people Israel. They will possess you, and you will be their inheritance; never again will you rob them of their children. 13 "'The Lord Yahweh says this: Because people say to you, "You devour human beings and rob your nation of its children," 14 therefore you will devour people no more or rob your nation[c] of its children, declares the Lord Yahweh. 15 I will no longer let you hear the nations' taunts; you will bear the peoples' scorn no more, and you will no longer make your nation stumble,[d] declares the Lord Yahweh.'"

16 Yahweh's word came to me: 17 "Son of man, when Israel's house lived on their own soil, they defiled it by their conduct and their deeds. In my sight their conduct was like the impurity of a woman in her monthly period. 18 So I emptied out my wrath upon them, because of the blood spilled on the land and the idols that had polluted it. 19 I scattered them among the nations, and they were dispersed through the lands. By their conduct and their deeds I judged them. 20 But wherever they came among the nations, they profaned my holy name, for people said of them, 'These are Yahweh's people, yet they had to leave his land.' 21 I cared, though, for my holy name, which Israel's house profaned among the nations where they went.

22 "So say to Israel's house: 'The Lord Yahweh says this: Not for your sake am I about to act, house of Israel, but for my holy name, which you have profaned among the nations where you went. 23 I will demonstrate the holiness of my great name, which has been dishonored among the nations—the name you dishonored among them. Declares the Lord Yahweh: the nations will know that I am Yahweh when I show my holiness through you before their eyes.[e] 24 "'I will pick you up from among the nations, collect you out of every country, and bring you to your own land. 25 I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you will be clean from all your impurities; from all your idols I will cleanse you. 26 I will give you a new heart and place a new spirit inside you. From your body I will remove the heart of stone, and I will give you a heart of flesh. 27 I will put my Spirit[f] within you and cause you to walk in my statutes, and you will keep my rulings and carry them out. 28 In the land I granted to your fathers you will dwell; you will be a people to me, and I will be God to you. 29 I will save you from all your impurities. I will call to the grain and make it abound, and I will lay no famine on you. 30 I will multiply the fruit of the tree and the produce of the field, so that among the nations you will never again bear the shame of hunger. 31 Then you will remember your evil ways and your deeds that were not good, and you will loathe yourselves for your iniquities and your abominations. 32 Not for your sake am I doing this, declares the Lord Yahweh—be sure of that. Be ashamed and humiliated for your ways, house of Israel.

33 "'The Lord Yahweh says this: On the day I cleanse you from all your iniquities, I will resettle the towns, and the ruins will be rebuilt. 34 The desolate land will be worked, where once it lay a waste before the eyes of every passerby. 35 They will say, "This land that was desolate has become like the garden of Eden, and the towns that were ruined, desolate, and torn down are now fortified and inhabited." 36 Then the nations left around you will know that I, Yahweh, have rebuilt what was torn down and replanted what was desolate. I, Yahweh, have spoken, and I will do it. 37 "'The Lord Yahweh says this: Once more I will let Israel's house seek this from me, and I will do it for them: I will make their people as many as a flock. 38 Like the flock for sacrifices, like Jerusalem's flock at her appointed feasts, so will the ruined towns be filled with flocks of people. Then they will know that I am Yahweh.'"

Notes

- a (36:2) Or "the everlasting high places."
- b (36:5) The Hebrew of the last clause is difficult.
- c (36:14) So the Hebrew margin and the Greek; the Hebrew text has "make your nation stumble."
- d (36:15) The Greek lacks this clause.
- e (36:23) Papyrus 967, one of the earliest known Greek manuscripts of Ezekiel (about AD 200), is reported to lack the passage from here ("And the nations will know…") through 36:38, and to place chapter 37 after chapters 38–39. Some scholars see this as evidence of an earlier edition of the book; others think the passage was lost by accident. These details are given as reported in scholarly literature.

- f (36:27) Or “my spirit”; Hebrew ruach, also “wind” or “breath” (see 37:1–14).

Chapter 37

1 Yahweh’s hand came on me, and he carried me out by Yahweh’s Spirit[a] and set me down in the middle of the valley,[b] and it was full of bones. 2 He led me all around among them, and I saw a great many of them lying on the valley floor, and they were bone-dry. 3 He asked me, “Son of man, can these bones live again?” I replied, “Lord Yahweh, you alone know.” 4 Then he said to me, “Prophesy over these bones and tell them: Dry bones, hear Yahweh’s word! 5 The Lord Yahweh says this to these bones: I am going to bring breath[c] into you, and you will live. 6 I will attach tendons to you, bring flesh up over you, cover you with skin, and place breath inside you, and you will live. And you will know that I am Yahweh.”

7 So I prophesied as I had been commanded. While I prophesied a sound broke out, a clattering, and the bones drew together, bone joining bone. 8 As I watched, sinews were on them, flesh had grown, and skin covered them over, but there was no breath in them. 9 Then he said to me, “Prophesy to the breath; prophesy, son of man, and say to the breath: ‘The Lord Yahweh says this: From the four winds come, breath, and blow into these slain, so that they may live.’” 10 So I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath entered them; they came to life and rose to their feet, an exceedingly vast army.

11 Then he said to me, “Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. They keep saying, ‘Our bones are dried up, our hope has perished; we are cut off, every one of us.’ 12 So prophesy and say to them: ‘The Lord Yahweh says this: My people, I am going to open your graves and raise you up out of them, and I will bring you to Israel’s soil. 13 You will know that I am Yahweh, my people, when I open your graves and raise you up out of them. 14 I will place my Spirit inside you so that you live, and I will put you in your own land. Then you will know that I, Yahweh, have spoken and have acted, declares Yahweh.’”

15 Yahweh's word came to me: 16 "You, son of man, take a stick[d] and write on it, 'For Judah and for the Israelites joined with him.' Then take another stick and write on it, 'For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all Israel's house joined with him.' 17 Bring them together into one stick for yourself, so that they become one in your hand. 18 When your people's children ask you, 'Will you not explain to us what you mean by these?' 19 tell them, 'The Lord Yahweh says this: Look, I am taking the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, along with the tribes of Israel that are his companions, and I will add Judah's stick to it and make them into one stick, and in my hand they will be one.'[e] 20 Hold the sticks you wrote on in your hand where they can see them. 21 Then tell them: 'The Lord Yahweh says this: I am going to take the Israelites from among the nations where they have gone. I will gather them from every side and bring them to their own soil. 22 I will make them one nation in the land, on Israel's mountains, and one king will be king over all of them. They will no longer be two nations, never again divided into two kingdoms. 23 They will never again make themselves unclean with their idols, their vile images or any of their crimes. I will rescue them from all the unfaithful acts by which they sinned[f] and will cleanse them. In this way they will be my people, and I will be their God. 24 "'My servant David will be king over them, and there will be one shepherd for them all. They will walk in my rulings and keep my statutes and do them. 25 They will live in the land
I gave my servant Jacob, where your fathers lived. There they will dwell forever, they and their sons and their sons' sons, with David my servant as their prince for all time. 26 I will make a covenant of peace with them; an everlasting covenant it will be. I will establish them and multiply them,[g] and I will set my sanctuary among them forever.
27 My dwelling place will be with them; I will be their God, and they will be my people. 28 Then the nations will know that I, Yahweh, make Israel holy, when my sanctuary is among them forever.'"

Notes

- a (37:1) Or "by the spirit of Yahweh"; Hebrew ruach, which can mean "spirit," "breath," or "wind." The word plays through vv. 1–14.
- b (37:1) Or "plain"; the same word as in 3:22–23.

- c (37:5) Hebrew ruach, also in vv. 6, 8–10; in v. 9 it is also "the four winds."
- d (37:16) Or "a piece of wood," perhaps a wooden writing tablet; also in vv. 16–20.
- e (37:19) So the Hebrew; the Greek has "one stick in the hand of Judah."
- f (37:23) Probable reading, following the Greek; the Hebrew has "from all their dwelling places in which they sinned."
- g (37:26) The Greek lacks "I will establish them and multiply them."

Chapter 38

1 Yahweh's word came to me: 2 "Son of man, turn your face toward Gog,[a] of the land of Magog,[b] the chief prince[c] of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him. 3 Say: 'The Lord Yahweh says this: I am coming against you, Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. 4 I will turn you around, put hooks in your jaws, and lead you out with your whole army, horses and horsemen, all of them splendidly equipped, a vast company with large and small shields, every one of them wielding swords. 5 Persia, Cush, and Put[d] are with them, all with shield and helmet, 6 Gomer with all its battalions, Beth-togarmah[e] from the remotest north with all its battalions—a host of peoples go with you. 7 "'Be ready; make yourself ready, you and all the companies mustered around you, and be their guard.[f] 8 After many days you will be summoned.[g] In the latter years you will come against a land restored from the sword, whose people were gathered from many peoples onto Israel's mountains, which had long lain in ruins. Its people were brought out from the peoples, and now all of them live securely. 9 You will go up, advancing like a storm; like a cloud covering the land you will be, you and all your troops and many peoples with you.

10 "'The Lord Yahweh says this: On that day thoughts will rise in your mind, and you will devise an evil scheme. 11 You will say, "I will go up against a land of unwalled villages; I will fall on a quiet people who live in safety, all of them dwelling without walls, with neither bars nor gates," 12 to seize spoil and carry off plunder, to turn your hand against ruins now resettled and against a people gathered from the nations, who are acquiring livestock and goods and live at the center[h] of the earth. 13 Sheba and Dedan and the merchants of Tarshish[i] with all its young lions[j] will ask you, "Have you come to seize spoil? Have you assembled your company to carry off plunder, to take away silver and gold, to seize livestock and goods, to take great spoil?"' 14 "So prophesy, son of man, and say to Gog: 'The Lord Yahweh says this: On that day, when my people Israel are living securely, will you not take notice?[k] 15 You will come from your home in the remotest part of the north, you and a great many nations with you, all of them on horseback, an enormous crowd and a powerful army. 16 You will march against my people Israel like a cloud covering the earth. In the last days it will come about that I will lead you against my land, so that the nations will know me when I show my holiness through you, Gog, in front of them.

17 "'The Lord Yahweh says this: Are you the one I was talking about long ago, through my servants the prophets of Israel? For years in those days they prophesied that I would lead you against them. 18 On that day, the day Gog comes against Israel's land, declares the Lord Yahweh, my fury will flare up in my nostrils. 19 In my jealousy and in the fire of my wrath I declare: On that day there will surely be a great earthquake in Israel's land. 20 Fish in the ocean, birds in the sky, wild animals, all the crawling creatures of the ground, and every person on earth will shake because of me. Mountains will be toppled, the cliffs[l] will collapse, and every wall will crash to the ground. 21 I will call for a sword against Gog on all my mountains,[m] declares the Lord Yahweh; each man's sword will be turned against his brother. 22 With plague and bloodshed I will enter into judgment with him. I will rain down on him and on his troops and on the many peoples with him a torrential downpour, hailstones, fire, and sulfur. 23 Thus I will display my greatness and my holiness and reveal myself before the eyes of many nations. Then they will know that I am Yahweh.'

Notes

- a (38:2) Gog is otherwise unknown. Some link the name to Gyges (Gugu), a seventh-century BC king of Lydia in western Asia Minor; in Ezekiel he is a ruler of the far north who leads the nations against Israel in the last days (compare Rev 20:8).
- b (38:2) Magog appears among the sons of Japheth in Gen 10:2. Here it seems to mean "the land of Gog."

- c (38:2) Or “the prince of Rosh”; Hebrew nesi rosh. The Greek takes Rosh as a name (“Rhos”). Also in v. 3 and 39:1. On Meshech and Tubal, peoples of central Asia Minor, see the note at 27:13.
- d (38:5) Cush is the Upper Nile region, south of Egypt; Put is probably Libya.
- e (38:6) Gomer is usually identified with the Cimmerians, and Beth-togarmah with a region in eastern Asia Minor (compare 27:14).
- f (38:7) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “you will be a guard for me.”
- g (38:8) Or “mustered”; or “punished.”
- h (38:12) Hebrew “the navel”; compare 5:5.
- i (38:13) The Greek has “Carthaginian merchants.” On Tarshish see the note at 27:12.
- j (38:13) Or “its young warriors”; the Greek has “all their villages.”
- k (38:14) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “will you not rise up?”
- l (38:20) Or “the terraces”; the Hebrew word is rare.
- m (38:21) Hebrew uncertain; the Greek has “I will summon every terror against him.”

Chapter 39

1 “And you, son of man, prophesy against Gog and say: ‘The Lord Yahweh says this: I am coming against you, Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. 2 I will turn you around and drive you on,[a] bring you up from the far reaches of the north, and lead you against Israel’s mountains. 3 Then out of your left hand I will knock your bow, and out of your right I will dash your arrows. 4 On Israel’s mountains you will fall, you and all your troops and the peoples with you. I will hand you over as food to every winged scavenger and to the beasts of the field. 5 In the open field you will fall, for I have spoken, declares the Lord Yahweh. 6 Fire I will send on Magog[b] and on those who dwell at ease in the coastlands, and they will know that I am Yahweh. 7 “‘I will make my holy name known among my people Israel, and never again will I allow my holy name to be dishonored. Then the nations will know that I am Yahweh, the Holy One in Israel. 8 It is coming! It will surely happen, declares the Lord Yahweh. This is the day I have spoken of.
9 “‘Then those who live in Israel’s towns will go out and make fires of the weapons and burn them—small and large shields, bows and arrows, war clubs and spears. For seven years they will make fires of them. 10 They will not have to collect firewood from the countryside or cut it in the forests, because they will burn the weapons for fuel. They will rob those who robbed them and plunder those who plundered them, declares the Lord Yahweh.

11 "'On that day I will give Gog a grave site there in Israel, the Valley of the Travelers,[c] on the east side of the Sea.[d] It will bar the travelers' way, for there Gog and all his horde will be buried, and it will be called the Valley of Hamon-gog.[e] 12 For seven months Israel's house will be burying them, to cleanse the land. 13 All the land's people will take part in the burying, and the day I display my glory will win them a name, declares the Lord Yahweh. 14 They will set apart men to pass continually through the land, burying those[f] left lying on the ground, so as to cleanse it. At the end of seven months they will begin their search. 15 As they travel through the land, if any of them sees a human bone, he will put up a sign next to it, and it will stay until the gravediggers have buried it in the Valley of Hamon-gog. 16 A city too will be named Hamonah.[g] So they will cleanse the land.'
17 "As for you, son of man, the Lord Yahweh says this: Tell every kind of bird and every wild animal: 'Gather together and come! Assemble from every side for the sacrificial feast I am slaughtering for you, a huge feast on the mountains of Israel, where you will eat meat and drink blood. 18 You will eat the flesh of warriors and drink the blood of the rulers of the earth—rams, lambs, goats and bulls, every one of them well-fed animals from Bashan.[h] 19 At the feast I am slaughtering for you, you will eat fat until you are stuffed and drink blood until you are intoxicated. 20 At my table you will be filled with horses and riders,[i] with warriors and soldiers of every kind, declares the Lord Yahweh.'
21 "I will set my glory among the nations, and all the nations will see the judgment I carry out and the hand I lay on them. 22 From that day on, Israel's house will know that I am Yahweh their God. 23 And the nations will know that Israel's house went into exile for their iniquity, because they were unfaithful to me. So I hid my face from them and gave them into the hand of their foes, and all of them fell by the sword. 24 As their impurity and their rebellions deserved, I dealt with them and hid my face from them.

25 “So the Lord Yahweh says this: Now I will turn back the captivity[j] of Jacob and show mercy to all of Israel’s house, and I will be zealous for my holy name. 26 They will forget[k] their disgrace and all the unfaithfulness they showed me, when they live securely on their own soil with no one to frighten them. 27 When I bring them back from the peoples and gather them from their enemies’ lands, I will show myself holy through them in the sight of many nations. 28 Then they will know that I am Yahweh their God, who sent them into exile among the nations and then gathered them to their own soil, leaving none of them behind there any longer.[l] 29 Never again will I hide my face from them, for I will have poured out my Spirit on Israel’s house, declares the Lord Yahweh.”

Notes

- a (39:2) The Hebrew verb is found only here; the Greek has “guide you.”
- b (39:6) The Greek has “on Gog.”
- c (39:11) Hebrew Oberim; or, with a slight change, “the Valley of Abarim,” the mountain range east of the Dead Sea.
- d (39:11) That is, the Dead Sea.
- e (39:11) Meaning “Gog’s horde.”
- f (39:14) Meaning “horde.” The Hebrew of this clause is difficult; the Greek has “the name of the city will be Burial-place.”
- g (39:16) Hebrew “the passers-by, those left”; the Greek lacks “the passers-by.”
- h (39:18) Bashan, east of the Sea of Galilee, was famed for its cattle (compare Amos 4:1).
- i (39:20) Or “chariots.”
- j (39:25) Or “restore the fortunes.”
- k (39:26) So many interpreters, with a slight change of vowels; the Hebrew has “They will bear.”
- l (39:28) The Greek lacks the last part of this verse, from “and then gathered them.”

Chapter 40

1 In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month,[a] in the fourteenth year after the city was struck down, on that very day Yahweh’s hand came on me, and he brought me there. 2 In visions of God he brought me to Israel’s land and set me down on a very high mountain, on which there was something like the structure of a city, to the south.[b] 3 When he had brought me there, I saw a man whose appearance shone like bronze, holding a linen cord and a measuring reed, standing in the gateway.

4 The man said to me, “Son of man, look with your eyes and listen with your ears, and give your attention to everything I am going to show you, for you were brought here so that I could show it to you.
Tell Israel’s house everything you see.”
5 There was a wall surrounding the temple area[c] on all sides. In the man’s hand was a measuring reed 10.5 feet long, measured in long cubits, each a cubit and a handbreadth.[d] He measured the wall: it was 10.5 feet thick and 10.5 feet high.[e] 6 Then he came to the gate that faced east. He climbed its steps and measured the threshold[f] of the gate: 10.5 feet deep.[g] 7 Each guardroom[h] was 10.5 feet long and 10.5 feet wide, and between the guardrooms the space was 8.75 feet. The threshold of the gate beside the vestibule of the gate, on the inner side, was 10.5 feet.[i] 8 Then he measured the vestibule of the gate on the inner side: 10.5 feet.[jk] 9 He measured the vestibule of the gate: 14 feet;
and its jambs:[l] 3.5 feet.[m] The vestibule of the gate was on the inner side. 10 The guardrooms of the east gate were three on each side, all three with the same measurement, and the jambs on each side had the same measurement. 11 He measured the width of the gate’s entrance, 17.5 feet, and the length[n] of the gateway, about 23 feet.[o] 12 In front of the guardrooms was a barrier 21 inches wide on each side, and the guardrooms were 10.5 feet square on each side.[p] 13 He measured the gate from the back[q] of one guardroom to the back of the other: the width was about 44 feet,[r] from one doorway to the opposite doorway.
14 He also measured[s] the jambs: 105 feet;[t] the court reached up to the jamb all around the gateway. 15 The distance from the face of the outer gateway to the face of the gate’s inner vestibule was 87.5 feet.[u] 16 The guardrooms and their jambs had narrow[v] windows all around on the inside of the gateway, and the vestibules likewise had windows all around on the inside. On each jamb were palm-tree carvings.
17 Then he brought me into the outer court, and there were rooms and a pavement laid all around the court; thirty rooms faced the pavement. 18 The pavement ran alongside the gates, matching the length of the gates; this was the lower pavement. 19 He measured the distance from the front of the lower gate to the front of the inner court on the outside: 175 feet,[w] on the east and on the north.[x]

20 Next, the gate of the outer courtyard that faced north: he measured both its length and its width. 21 Its guardrooms, three on each side, its jambs, and its vestibule had the same measurements as the first gate: 87.5 feet long and about 44 feet wide.[y] 22 Its windows, its vestibule, and its palm carvings were measured like the east-facing gate. People climbed up to it by seven steps, with its vestibule in front of them. 23 Across from the north gate, just as on the east side, there was a gate leading to the inner courtyard. He measured the distance from one gate to the other: 175 feet.[z]
24 Then he brought me around to the southern side, where there was a gate facing south. He measured its doorposts and its porch, and they matched the dimensions of the others. 25 It and its vestibule had windows all around, like the other windows. It was 87.5 feet long and about 44 feet wide.[aa] 26 Seven steps went up to it, with its vestibule in front of them, and it had palm carvings on its jambs, one on each side. 27 The inner court too had a gate facing south, and he measured from gate to gate toward the south: 175 feet.[ab]
28 Next he took me by the south gate into the inner court and measured that gate; its dimensions were like these. 29 Its guardrooms, jambs, and vestibule had the same measurements as the others, and it and its vestibule had windows all around. It was 87.5 feet long and about 44 feet wide.[ac] 30 There were vestibules all around, about 44 feet long and 8.75 feet[ad] wide.[ae] 31 Its vestibule faced the outer court; its jambs bore palm carvings, and eight steps formed its ascent.
32 Then he brought me into the inner court on the east side, and measured the gate there; its dimensions were like these. 33 Its guardrooms, jambs, and vestibule had the same measurements as the others, and it and its vestibule had windows all around. It was 87.5 feet long and about 44 feet wide.[af] 34 Its vestibule faced the outer court; palm carvings were on its jambs on each side, and its stairway had eight steps.
35 He took me to the north gate and measured it by the same dimensions, 36 as did its guardrooms, jambs, and vestibule. It had windows all around. It was 87.5 feet long and about 44 feet wide.[ag] 37 Its jambs[ah] faced the outer court; palm carvings were on its jambs on each side,

and its stairway had eight steps.
38 There was a room with its doorway by the jambs of the gates;[ai]
there they would wash the burnt offering. 39 In the porch of the gate, on each side, stood two tables, to be used for slaughtering the burnt offering, the sin offering and the guilt offering. 40 On the outer side, as one goes up to the entrance of the north gate, were two tables, and on the other side of the gate's vestibule were two tables. 41 So there were four tables on one side and four on the other, beside the gate:
eight tables on which they slaughtered. 42 There were also four tables of dressed stone for the burnt offering, 31.5 inches long, 31.5 inches wide, and 21 inches high.[aj] On them they would lay the implements used for slaughtering the burnt offering and the sacrifices. 43 Ledges[ak] 3 inches wide were fastened all around inside,[al] and on the tables was the flesh of the offerings.
44 Outside the inner gate, in the inner court, there were rooms for the singers.[am] One was beside the north gate and faced south; the other was beside the south[an] gate and faced north. 45 He said to me, "This room facing south is for the priests who keep charge of the temple, 46 and the room facing north is for the priests who keep charge of the altar. These are the sons of Zadok,[ao] who alone among Levi's descendants may come near to Yahweh to minister to him." 47 He measured the court: 175 feet long and 175 feet wide,[ap] a square. The altar stood in front of the temple.
48 Then he brought me to the temple's vestibule and measured the jambs of the vestibule, 8.75 feet on each side. The width of the gateway was 24.5 feet, and its side walls were 5.25 feet[aq] on each side.[ar] 49 The vestibule was 35 feet wide[as] and 21 feet[at] deep.[au] It was reached by steps,[av] and there were pillars beside the jambs, one on each side.

Notes

- a (40:1) The Hebrew has rosh hashanah, "the beginning (head) of the year," without naming the month; the Greek has "in the first month." If the first month (Nisan) is meant, the date falls in March–April (April 573 BC); some interpreters think of the autumn new year (Tishri, September–October). The vision comes twenty-five years after King Jehoiachin's exile in 597 BC.

- b (40:2) The Greek has "opposite me."
- c (40:5) Hebrew "the house," Ezekiel's usual word for the temple.
- d (40:5) The "long cubit" used in Ezekiel's temple vision is a standard cubit (about 18 inches) plus a handbreadth (about 3 inches), so about 21 inches (53 cm). The reed of six long cubits is about 10.5 feet (3.2 m). All figures in chapters 40–48 are converted on this basis; they are approximate.
- e (40:5) Hebrew: 6 cubits (about 3.2 m); 1 reed (about 3.2 m); 1 reed (about 3.2 m).
- f (40:6) The Hebrew adds "and one threshold, one reed deep," probably an accidental repetition; the Greek lacks it.
- g (40:6) Hebrew: 1 reed (about 3.2 m).
- h (40:7) Or "alcove"; the small rooms lining the gate passage, three on each side (v. 10).
- i (40:7) Hebrew: 1 reed (about 3.2 m); 1 reed (about 3.2 m); 5 cubits (about 2.6 m); 1 reed (about 3.2 m).
- j (40:8) Hebrew: 1 reed (about 3.2 m).
- k (40:8) The Hebrew of vv. 7b–8 seems to repeat itself; the Greek has a different text here.
- l (40:9) Or "pilasters"; the Hebrew word may refer to projecting door-posts.
- m (40:9) Hebrew: 8 cubits (about 4.2 m); 2 cubits (about 1.1 m).
- n (40:11) Or "depth"; possibly the length of the passage.
- o (40:11) Hebrew: 10 cubits (about 5.3 m); 13 cubits (about 6.8 m).
- p (40:12) Hebrew: 1 cubit (about 53 cm); 6 cubits (about 3.2 m).
- q (40:13) Hebrew "roof," probably the outer wall of each room.
- r (40:13) Hebrew: 25 cubits (about 13 m).
- s (40:14) Hebrew "he made"; the verse is difficult. The Greek has "the open space of the porch of the gate outside was twenty cubits."
- t (40:14) Hebrew: 60 cubits (about 32 m).
- u (40:15) Hebrew: 50 cubits (about 26 m).
- v (40:16) Or "latticed"; the Hebrew word is uncertain.
- w (40:19) Hebrew: 100 cubits (about 53 m).
- x (40:19) The last phrase in the Hebrew is difficult; the Greek joins "and he brought me to the north" to v. 20.
- y (40:21) Hebrew: 50 cubits (about 26 m); 25 cubits (about 13 m).
- z (40:23) Hebrew: 100 cubits (about 53 m).
- aa (40:25) Hebrew: 50 cubits (about 26 m); 25 cubits (about 13 m).
- ab (40:27) Hebrew: 100 cubits (about 53 m).
- ac (40:29) Hebrew: 50 cubits (about 26 m); 25 cubits (about 13 m).
- ad (40:30) Hebrew: 25 cubits (about 13 m); 5 cubits (about 2.6 m).
- ae (40:30) The Greek lacks this verse.
- af (40:33) Hebrew: 50 cubits (about 26 m); 25 cubits (about 13 m).

- ag (40:36) Hebrew: 50 cubits (about 26 m); 25 cubits (about 13 m).
- ah (40:37) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “Its vestibule.”
- ai (40:38) The Hebrew of this verse is uncertain; the Greek is quite different.
- aj (40:42) Hebrew: 1 and a half cubits (about 79 cm); 1 and a half cubits (about 79 cm); 1 cubit (about 53 cm).
- ak (40:43) Or “Rims”; the Hebrew word is uncertain.
- al (40:43) Hebrew: 1 handbreadth (about 8 cm).
- am (40:44) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “two rooms.”
- an (40:44) So the Greek; the Hebrew has “east.”
- ao (40:46) Zadok means “righteous.” He served as priest under David and Solomon (2 Samuel 8:17; 1 Kings 1–2).
- ap (40:47) Hebrew: 100 cubits (about 53 m); 100 cubits (about 53 m).
- aq (40:48) Hebrew: 5 cubits (about 2.6 m); 3 cubits (about 1.6 m).
- ar (40:48) The Greek adds “and the width of the door was fourteen cubits” (long cubits; about 24.5 feet; 7.4 m), which is supplied here; the Hebrew lacks the width of the gateway.
- as (40:49) Hebrew “long.”
- at (40:49) Hebrew: 20 cubits (about 11 m); 12 cubits (about 6.3 m).
- au (40:49) So the Greek; the Hebrew has “eleven cubits.”
- av (40:49) The Greek has “ten steps.”

Chapter 41

1 Then he brought me into the nave[a] and measured the jambs: 10.5 feet[b] wide on each side was the width of the jambs.[c] 2 The entrance was 17.5 feet wide, and the side walls of the entrance were 8.75 feet on each side. He measured the nave: 70 feet long and 35 feet wide.[d] 3 Then he went on inside and measured the jambs of the entrance, 3.5 feet; the entrance itself, 10.5 feet; and the width[e] of the entrance, about 12 feet.[f] 4 He measured its length, 35 feet, and its width, 35 feet,[g] facing the nave. And he said to me, “This is the most holy place.”

5 Then he measured the temple’s wall: 10.5 feet thick. The side rooms all around the temple were each 7 feet wide.[h] 6 The side rooms were in three stories, one above another, thirty in each story.[i] Offsets ran around the house’s wall, entering it to hold the rooms up, yet without the rooms being fastened into the house’s wall. 7 The side rooms grew wider as they rose, story by story, for the structure surrounding the temple went up by stages all around it. So the temple was broader toward the top, and one went up from the lowest story through the middle story to the highest.[j] 8 Looking, I saw a raised base encircling

the house; the footings of the side rooms measured a full reed, 10.5 feet[k] to the joint.[l] 9 The outer wall of the side rooms was 8.75 feet thick.[m] The open area between the temple's side rooms 10 and the priests' rooms[n] was 35 feet wide all around the temple.[o] 11 The doors of the side rooms opened onto the free space, one door on the north and one on the south; and the free space was 8.75 feet wide all the way around.[p]
12 The building facing the temple yard[q] on the west side was about 123 feet wide, its wall was 8.75 feet thick all around, and it was about 158 feet long.[r]
13 Then he measured the temple: 175 feet long; and the yard and the building with its walls: 175 feet long.[s] 14 The width of the temple's front, together with the yard on the east, was 175 feet.[t]
15 He measured the length of the building facing the yard at the rear, with its galleries[u] on either side: 175 feet.

¶The nave, the inner room,[v] and the vestibules of the court, 16 the thresholds, the narrow windows, and the galleries round the three of them opposite the threshold, had wood overlaying them on every side, from ground level as far as the windows (the windows were covered),[w]
17 to the space above the entrance, and on into the inner room and on the outside. On every wall all around, inside and out, were carvings in measured panels:[x] 18 cherubim alternating with palm trees, a palm standing between cherub and cherub. Every cherub had two faces:
19 a human face turned toward the palm tree on one side, and a young lion's face turned to the palm on the far side. So it was carved over the entire house, round and round.
20 From ground level up over the entrance the cherubim and palms
were carved, and on the nave's wall.[y] 21 The nave had squared doorposts. Before the holy place stood what appeared to be 22 an altar of wood, 5.25 feet high and 3.5 feet[z] long.[aa] Its corners, its base,[ab] and its sides were of wood. He told me, "This is the table that stands before Yahweh." 23 The nave and the holy place each had a double door. 24 Each door had two leaves, two swinging leaves, two for one door and two for the other. 25 Cherubim and palm trees were carved on the doors of the main hall, just as they were on the walls, and a wooden canopy[ac] stood over the front of the porch outside. 26 There were narrow windows and palm trees on both sides of the vestibule, on its side walls, and on the temple's side rooms and canopies.

Notes

- a (41:1) Hebrew hekal, the main hall of the temple, also called "the holy place."
- b (41:1) Hebrew: 6 cubits (about 3.2 m).
- c (41:1) The Hebrew adds "the width of the tent"; the Greek differs here.
- d (41:2) Hebrew: 10 cubits (about 5.3 m); 5 cubits (about 2.6 m); 40 cubits (about 21 m); 20 cubits (about 11 m).
- e (41:3) So the Hebrew; the Greek has "and the side walls of the entrance were seven cubits on each side."
- f (41:3) Hebrew: 2 cubits (about 1.1 m); 6 cubits (about 3.2 m); 7 cubits (about 3.7 m).
- g (41:4) Hebrew: 20 cubits (about 11 m); 20 cubits (about 11 m).
- h (41:5) Hebrew: 6 cubits (about 3.2 m); 4 cubits (about 2.1 m).
- i (41:6) Hebrew "side room upon side room, three and thirty times," usually understood as three stories of thirty rooms; the Greek has "twice ninety."
- j (41:7) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult.
- k (41:8) Hebrew: 6 cubits (about 3.2 m).
- l (41:8) Or "a full reed of six great cubits." The Hebrew word atsilah is uncertain.
- m (41:9) Hebrew: 5 cubits (about 2.6 m).
- n (41:10) Probably the rooms described in 42:1–14.
- o (41:10) Hebrew: 20 cubits (about 11 m).
- p (41:11) Hebrew: 5 cubits (about 2.6 m).
- q (41:12) Hebrew gizrah, "the separate place," a restricted open area behind the temple; also in vv. 13–15.
- r (41:12) Hebrew: 70 cubits (about 37 m); 5 cubits (about 2.6 m); 90 cubits (about 47 m).
- s (41:13) Hebrew: 100 cubits (about 53 m); 100 cubits (about 53 m).
- t (41:14) Hebrew: 100 cubits (about 53 m).
- u (41:15) The Hebrew word, also in v. 16 and 42:3, 5, is of uncertain meaning; it may mean "terraces" or "passages."
- v (41:15) Hebrew "the inner nave," the most holy place.
- w (41:16) The Hebrew of vv. 15b–17 is difficult.

- x (41:17) Hebrew “measures,” perhaps meaning “panels” or “(were) measured”; the sense is uncertain.
- y (41:20) The Hebrew of the last words is uncertain.
- z (41:22) Hebrew: 3 cubits (about 1.6 m); 2 cubits (about 1.1 m).
- aa (41:22) The Greek adds “and two cubits wide” (about 1.1 m).
- ab (41:22) So the Greek; the Hebrew has “its length.”
- ac (41:25) Or “threshold”; the Hebrew word is uncertain.

Chapter 42

1 Then he led me out into the outer court by the road going north and brought me to the rooms that lay opposite the restricted yard and opposite the building on the north. 2 Along its length of 175 feet was the north door,[a] and the width was 87.5 feet.[b] 3 Across from the 35-foot area[c] that belonged to the inner courtyard, and across from the paving that belonged to the outer courtyard, the galleries faced each other on three levels. 4 Before the rooms was a passage 17.5 feet wide on the inner side, a way of 21 inches;[de] their doors faced north.
5 The uppermost rooms were cut short, since the galleries ate into them more than into the building’s lowest and middle rooms. 6 For they were in three stories and had no pillars like the courts’ pillars; so the upper rooms were set back from the ground more than the lower and the middle ones. 7 There was a wall outside, parallel to the rooms, toward the outer court, in front of the rooms; its length was 87.5 feet.[f] 8 For the rooms on the outer court’s side were 87.5 feet long, while those facing the nave were 175 feet.[g] 9 Below these rooms was the entrance[h] from the east, as one comes into them from the outer court.
10 In the thickness of the court’s wall on the east side,[i] facing the restricted yard and facing the building, there were rooms too, 11 with a passage before them. They looked like the rooms on the north, with the same length and width, and with all the same exits, arrangements, and doors. 12 Matching the doors of the rooms on the south side there was a door at the head of the passage, the way in front of the matching wall eastward, where one enters them.[j] 13 Then he told me, “The north rooms and the south rooms that face the restricted yard are the holy rooms, where the priests who draw near to Yahweh will eat the most holy offerings. There they will lay down the most holy offerings: the grain offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering, for the place is holy. 14 Once the priests have gone in, they must not go out from the holy place into the outer court until they lay aside there the garments in which they minister, for these are holy. They must put on other clothes before they approach the area belonging to the people."

15 When he had finished measuring the inner temple, he led me out by the gate facing east and measured the whole area round about. 16 With the measuring reed he measured the east side:[k] 5,250 feet by the measuring reed,[l] all around. 17 He measured the north side: 5,250 feet by the reed,[m] all around. 18 The south side he measured: 5,250 feet by the measuring reed.[n] 19 He turned to the west side and measured 5,250 feet by the measuring reed.[o] 20 On all four sides he measured it. It had a wall around it, 5,250 feet long and 5,250 feet wide,[p] to separate what is holy from what is common.

Notes

- a (42:2) The Hebrew is difficult; it may mean "the rooms whose door faced north were 175 feet long." The Greek has "a hundred cubits in length toward the north."
- b (42:2) Hebrew: 100 cubits (about 53 m); 50 cubits (about 26 m).
- c (42:3) Hebrew "the twenty," that is, 20 cubits (about 10.5 m), the open area described in 41:10.
- d (42:4) Hebrew: 10 cubits (about 5.3 m); 1 cubit (about 53 cm).
- e (42:4) So the Hebrew; the Greek has "the length reaching to a hundred cubits."
- f (42:7) Hebrew: 50 cubits (about 26 m).
- g (42:8) Hebrew: 50 cubits (about 26 m); 100 cubits (about 53 m).
- h (42:9) So the written Hebrew text; the Hebrew margin has "the one who brings in."
- i (42:10) So the Greek; the Hebrew has "east."
- j (42:12) The Hebrew of v. 12 is difficult.
- k (42:16) So the Hebrew margin; the written Hebrew text has "five cubits, reeds." The Greek has "five hundred cubits" here and in vv. 17–20, which would make the area about 875 feet (263 m) on each side.
- l (42:16) Hebrew: 500 reeds (about 1.6 km).
- m (42:17) Hebrew: 500 reeds (about 1.6 km).
- n (42:18) Hebrew: 500 reeds (about 1.6 km).
- o (42:19) Hebrew: 500 reeds (about 1.6 km).
- p (42:20) Hebrew "five hundred long and five hundred wide," without a unit; reeds are presumed from vv. 16–19. Five hundred reeds is about 5,250 feet (about 1.6 km).

Chapter 43

1 Then he led me to the gate, the gate facing east. 2 And there was the glory of Israel's God, coming from the east! Its sound was like the roar of many waters,[a] and the earth was lit up by his glory. 3 The vision was like the one I saw when I[b] came to destroy the city, and like the visions I saw beside the Kebar River; and I fell facedown. 4 Yahweh's glory entered the temple by way of the gate that faced east.
5 Then the Spirit lifted me and brought me into the inner court, and there the glory of Yahweh had filled the temple!
6 I heard one addressing me out of the house, while the man was standing at my side. 7 He told me, "Son of man, here is my throne's place, the spot where my feet rest, where I will make my home amid Israel's people for all time. Never again will Israel's house defile my holy name, neither they nor their kings, through their whoring and through their kings' corpses[c] at their high places.[d] 8 They placed their doorsill next to my doorsill and their doorpost right beside my doorpost, with just a wall separating me from them. By the detestable things they did they made my holy name unclean, so I destroyed them in my anger. 9 Now let them put far from me their prostitution and the corpses of their kings,[e] and I will dwell among them forever.
10 "As for you, son of man, describe the temple to Israel's house, so that they may be ashamed of their iniquities, and let them measure its plan. 11 If they are ashamed[f] of everything they have done, show them the temple's plan and arrangement: its exits and entrances, all its forms, all its regulations and all its instructions. Write this down while they watch, so they can follow its complete plan and all its regulations and carry them out. 12 This is the law of the temple: on the mountaintop its whole territory all around will be most holy. Look, this is the law of the temple.
13 "These are the measurements of the altar in cubits (the cubit here is a cubit and a handbreadth[g]): its base[h] measures 21 inches in depth and 21 inches across, and the lip at its edge, all around, is 10.5 inches.[i]
And this is the altar's height:[j] 14 from the base on the ground up to the lower ledge, 3.5 feet, with a width of 21 inches; and from the smaller ledge to the larger ledge, 7 feet, with a width of 21 inches.[k]

15 The altar hearth[l] is 7 feet high,[m] and from the hearth four horns project upward.[n] 16 Four-square is the hearth: 21 feet in length, 21 feet in width,[o] on all four sides. 17 The ledge is also square, 24.5 feet long by 24.5 feet wide on its four sides, with a rim of 10.5 inches around it and a base of 21 inches all around.[p] Its steps face east."
18 Then he said to me, "Son of man, this is what Lord Yahweh says:
Here are the altar's rules for the day it is made, for offering burnt offerings on it and for splashing blood on it. 19 You are to give to the Levitical priests of Zadok's line, who come near to me to minister to me, declares Lord Yahweh, a young bull for a sin offering. 20 You will take some of its blood and put it on the four horns of the altar, on the four corners of the ledge, and on the rim all around; so you will purify it and make atonement for it. 21 You are then to take the bull for the sin offering and burn it at the designated place in the temple area, outside the holy place. 22 On the second day you will offer a male goat without defect[q] for a sin offering, and they will purify the altar as they purified it with the bull. 23 Once you have completed the cleansing, present an unblemished young bull and an unblemished ram from the flock. 24 You will present them before Yahweh, and the priests will throw salt on them and offer them as a burnt offering to Yahweh. 25 For seven days you will provide a goat each day as a sin offering; a young bull and a ram from the flock, both without defect, are also to be provided. 26 For seven days they are to make atonement for the altar and purify it; in this way they will dedicate it.[r] 27 When these days are over, from the eighth day onward the priests will offer your burnt offerings and your fellowship offerings on the altar, and I will accept you, declares Lord Yahweh."

Notes

- a (43:2) The Greek has "a voice of an army, as the sound of many redoubling their shouts."
- b (43:3) So the Hebrew; some ancient witnesses have "he." The Greek has "when I went in to anoint the city."
- c (43:7) Or "memorial monuments"; the Hebrew word can mean both.
- d (43:7) So the Hebrew; some ancient witnesses read "at their death."
- e (43:9) The Greek has "the murders of their princes."
- f (43:11) The Greek has "and they will bear their punishment."

- g (43:13) See the note at 40:5. A handbreadth is about 3 inches (7.5 cm).
- h (43:13) Hebrew "bosom," the gutter or base around the altar's foot; also in vv. 14, 17.
- i (43:13) Hebrew: 1 cubit (about 53 cm); 1 cubit (about 53 cm); 1 span (about 26 cm).
- j (43:13) So the Greek; the Hebrew has "its back" or "its mound."
- k (43:14) Hebrew: 2 cubits (about 1.1 m); 1 cubit (about 53 cm); 4 cubits (about 2.1 m); 1 cubit (about 53 cm).
- l (43:15) Hebrew har'el, perhaps "mountain of God"; in v. 15b and v. 16 the written Hebrew text has ari'el, which may mean "hearth of God" (compare Isaiah 29:1).
- m (43:15) Hebrew: 4 cubits (about 2.1 m).
- n (43:15) The Greek has "and above the horns, a cubit."
- o (43:16) Hebrew: 12 cubits (about 6.3 m); 12 cubits (about 6.3 m).
- p (43:17) Hebrew: 14 cubits (about 7.4 m); 14 cubits (about 7.4 m); half a cubit (about 26 cm); 1 cubit (about 53 cm).
- q (43:22) The Greek has "two kids of the goats without defect."
- r (43:26) Hebrew "fill its hand," an idiom for consecration; the Greek has "and they will consecrate themselves."

Chapter 44

1 Then he brought me back toward the sanctuary's outer gate, the one facing east, and it was shut. 2 Yahweh told me, "This gate is to stay shut. It must not be opened, and no one may go in through it, because Yahweh, Israel's God, has entered by it. So it must remain shut. 3 Only the prince[a] may sit in it, as prince, to eat bread before Yahweh. By the gate's vestibule he will come in, and by the same way he will go out."
4 Next he led me through the north gate to the house's front. As I looked, there was Yahweh's glory filling Yahweh's house! I fell on my face. 5 Yahweh said to me, "Son of man, set your mind on this; look with your eyes and listen with your ears to all I am telling you about every statute of Yahweh's house and all its laws. Take careful note of who may enter the house and of all who must be kept out of the sanctuary.[b] 6 Say to the rebellious ones,[c] to Israel's house, 'This is what Lord Yahweh says: Enough of all your detestable practices, house of Israel! 7 You brought in outsiders, people uncircumcised in heart and in body, to occupy my sanctuary and make my house unclean, while you presented my food—the fat and the blood. And they[d] violated my covenant, in addition to all your detestable practices. 8 You did not keep charge of my holy things yourselves, but you set them[e] as keepers of my charge in my sanctuary for yourselves. 9 This is what Lord Yahweh says: No foreigner uncircumcised in heart and flesh may enter my sanctuary, not one of the foreigners living among the Israelites.

10 "'As for the Levites who went far from me when Israel strayed, who wandered from me after their idols,[f] they will bear their guilt. 11 They will be servants in my sanctuary, overseeing the gates of the house and serving the house. They will slaughter the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and they will stand before the people to serve them. 12 Because they served them before their idols and became a stumbling block of guilt for Israel's house, I have raised my hand in an oath against them, declares Lord Yahweh, that they will bear their guilt. 13 They must not come near me to serve me as priests, nor approach anything of mine that is holy, nor the most holy things. Their shame they must carry, and the detestable acts they committed.[g] 14 I will make them caretakers of the house's duties, for all its work and all that is to be done in it.
15 "'But the Levitical priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept charge of my sanctuary when the Israelites strayed from me, will come near me to serve me. They will stand before me to offer me fat and blood, declares Lord Yahweh. 16 They will enter my sanctuary, and they will come near my table to serve me and keep my charge. 17 When they come through the gates of the inner courtyard, they are to put on linen clothing. They must wear nothing made of wool while they are on duty at those gates or inside the courtyard. 18 Linen turbans will be on their heads and linen undergarments on their waists. They must not bind on anything that causes sweat.[h] 19 When they go out into the outer courtyard where the people are,[i] they must take off the clothing they served in, store it in the sacred chambers, and put on different clothing, so that they will not transmit holiness to the people by their clothing. 20 They must not shave their heads or let their hair grow long; they must keep their hair trimmed. 21 Wine is not for any priest to drink on entering the inner court. 22 They must not marry a widow or a divorced woman, but only virgins from the descendants of Israel's house, or a widow who is a priest's widow.[j] 23 They will teach my people the difference between holy and common, and show them how to tell unclean from clean. 24 In a dispute,[k] they will stand to judge, and they will judge it by my judgments. They will keep my laws and my statutes at all my appointed feasts, and they will keep my Sabbaths holy. 25 A priest must not go near a dead person and so become unclean. For a father or mother, son or daughter, brother or unmarried sister, however, they may make themselves unclean.

26 After he is cleansed, seven days are to be counted for him.[l] 27 On the day he enters the sanctuary, into the inner courtyard, to serve in the holy place, he is to present his own sin offering, declares Lord Yahweh.
28 "'This will be their inheritance:[m] I am their inheritance. Grant them no holding in Israel; their holding is me. 29 They will eat the grain offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering, and everything devoted[n] in Israel will be theirs. 30 The priests will have the best of all the firstfruits of everything, and of each gift you set apart, whatever it is. The first of your dough[o] you are to hand to the priest, and blessing will come to rest upon your household. 31 No carcass, nothing mauled, whether bird or beast, may the priests eat.

Notes

- a (44:3) Hebrew nasi', a leader or chief; Ezekiel uses this title rather than "king" for Israel's ruler in chapters 40–48.
- b (44:5) The Hebrew is difficult; literally "to the entrance of the house with all the exits of the sanctuary."
- c (44:6) So the Hebrew; the Greek lacks "the rebellious ones" and has "the provoking house."
- d (44:7) So the Hebrew; the Greek has "you."
- e (44:8) So the Hebrew; the Greek has "you appointed others."
- f (44:10) Hebrew gillulim, a scornful word for idols, perhaps "dung pellets."
- g (44:13) So the Hebrew; the Greek has "for the error in which they erred."
- h (44:18) The Greek has "they must not tightly gird themselves."
- i (44:19) The Hebrew repeats "to the outer court"; the Greek has it once.
- j (44:22) Hebrew "a widow who is a widow from a priest."
- k (44:24) The Greek has "in a judgment of blood."
- l (44:26) The Hebrew has "for him"; the sense is that he waits seven more days after his cleansing.

- m (44:28) So the Hebrew; some ancient witnesses read “They will have no inheritance.”
- n (44:29) Hebrew cherem, anything set apart irrevocably for God.
- o (44:30) The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain; it may mean “coarse meal.”

Chapter 45

1 “When you allot the land as an inheritance, you are to set apart a contribution for Yahweh, a holy portion of the land, about 8.3 miles long and about 3.3 miles[a] wide.[b] It will be holy throughout its whole area.[c] 2 Of this, a square plot 875 feet by 875 feet will belong to the sanctuary, with 87.5 feet of open land around it.[d] 3 From this measured area you are to measure off a strip about 8.3 miles long and about 3.3 miles wide;[e] in it will stand the sanctuary, the most holy place. 4 It is a holy portion of the land, and it will belong to the priests who minister in the sanctuary, who come near to serve Yahweh. It will be a place for their houses and a holy place for the sanctuary. 5 A strip about 8.3 miles long and about 3.3 miles wide will belong to the Levites who serve the house,[f] as their possession for towns to live in.[g] 6 “Alongside the holy contribution you are to assign as the city’s property an area about 1.7 miles wide and about 8.3 miles long.[h] It will belong to the whole house of Israel.
7 “The prince will have land on both sides of the holy contribution and the city’s property, bordering the holy contribution and the city’s property, on the west side westward and on the east side eastward, matching one of the tribal portions in length from the western border to the eastern border. 8 This land will be his possession in Israel. My princes will no longer oppress my people, but they will let Israel’s house have the land according to their tribes.
9 “This is what Lord Yahweh says: Enough, you princes of Israel!
Put away violence and plunder, and do what is just and right. Stop evicting my people, declares Lord Yahweh. 10 Let your balances be true, your dry measure true, and your liquid measure true.[i] 11 The dry measure and the liquid measure are to be the same: the liquid measure is to hold a tenth of a homer, and the dry measure a tenth of a homer. Its standard will be set by the homer.[j] 12 The shekel is to be twenty gerahs, about 0.4 ounce. Twenty shekels, twenty-five shekels, and fifteen shekels are to make your mina, about 1.5 pounds.[k] 13 "This is the contribution you are to set apart: one-sixtieth of your wheat and one-sixtieth of your barley.[l] 14 The fixed share of oil is one-hundredth of your oil.[m] 15 And one sheep from every flock of two hundred from Israel's well-watered pastures.[n] All this serves for grain offering, for burnt offering, and for fellowship sacrifices, to atone for them, declares Lord Yahweh. 16 The land's whole population is to share in giving this gift to Israel's prince. 17 On the prince will fall the duty of burnt offering, grain offering, and drink offering at festivals, at new moons, on Sabbaths, at all the appointed feasts of Israel's house. He is to provide the sin offering, the grain offering, the burnt offering,

and the fellowship offerings to make atonement for Israel's house.
18 "Lord Yahweh says this: In the first month, on the first day of the month (in March–April),[o] take an unblemished young bull and cleanse the sanctuary. 19 The priest will take some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the temple's doorposts, on the four corners of the altar's ledge, and on the posts of the gate of the inner court. 20
Repeat this on the month's seventh day[p] on behalf of whoever errs without intent or is simple; thus you will make atonement for the temple.
21 "On the fourteenth day of the first month (in March–April)[q] you will celebrate the Passover, a feast of seven days,[r] when bread made without yeast is to be eaten. 22 On that day the prince is to provide for himself and for all the people of the land a bull for a sin offering. 23
During the seven days of the feast he is to provide as a burnt offering to Yahweh seven bulls and seven rams without defect each day for the seven days, and a male goat each day as a sin offering. 24 As a grain offering he is to provide about 3/5 bushel of flour for each bull and the same for each ram, with about a gallon of oil for each measure of flour.[s]
25 "On the fifteenth day of the seventh month (in September–October),[t] at the feast, he is to provide likewise through seven days, matching the sin offering, the burnt offering, the grain offering, and the oil.

Notes

- a (45:1) Hebrew: “25,000” (about 13.1 km); “10,000” (about 5.3 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- b (45:1) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “twenty thousand.” Many interpreters follow the Greek, since vv. 3 and 5 give the priests and the Levites ten thousand each.
- c (45:1) For the land allotments in 45:1–8 and 48:8–35, Ezekiel gives the numbers without naming the unit. Some take the unit to be the reed (as in 42:16–20 and in the Greek of 45:1–2), which would make the figures six times larger. See the note at 40:5.
- d (45:2) Hebrew “five hundred by five hundred,” without a unit; if cubits, about 875 feet (263 m). The Greek has “five hundred reeds.” The open land is “fifty cubits,” about 87.5 feet (26 m).
- e (45:3) Hebrew: “25,000” (about 13.1 km); “10,000” (about 5.3 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- f (45:5) Hebrew: “25,000” (about 13.1 km); “10,000” (about 5.3 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- g (45:5) So the Greek; the Hebrew has “as their possession, twenty rooms.” The difference is a matter of a few letters.
- h (45:6) Hebrew: “5,000” (about 2.6 km); “25,000” (about 13.1 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- i (45:10) Hebrew “an honest ephah and an honest bath.” The ephah was a dry measure, and the bath a liquid measure of the same size, about 3/5 bushel or 6 gallons (22 liters). Ancient standards varied.
- j (45:11) Hebrew “The ephah and the bath are to be one measure, so that the bath holds a tenth of a homer and the ephah a tenth of a homer; its measure is to be according to the homer.” A homer was about 6 bushels (220 liters).
- k (45:12) A shekel was about 0.4 ounce (11.5 grams), and a gerah one-twentieth of a shekel; the mina here is sixty shekels, about 1.5 pounds (690 grams). The Greek has “your mina is to be five shekels, fifteen shekels, and fifty shekels.” Ancient standards varied.
- l (45:13) Hebrew “a sixth of an ephah from a homer of wheat, and a sixth of an ephah from a homer of barley.”
- m (45:14) Hebrew “a tenth of a bath from the kor; ten baths are a homer, for ten baths are a homer.” A kor was the same as a homer, about 6 bushels (220 liters).
- n (45:15) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “one sheep from the flock out of ten, as an offering from all the tribes of Israel.”
- o (45:18) The Hebrew has “in the first (month), on the first of the month.” The first month is Nisan in the spring-start calendar; this would fall in March–April.
- p (45:20) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “in the seventh month, on the first day of the month” (September–October).
- q (45:21) The Hebrew has “in the first (month), on the fourteenth day of the month,” Nisan in the spring-start calendar.

- r (45:21) So the Greek; the Hebrew has “a feast of weeks of days,” perhaps a copying slip for “seven days.”
- s (45:24) Hebrew “an ephah for the bull and an ephah for the ram, and a hin of oil for the ephah.” An ephah was about 3/5 bushel (22 liters), and a hin about 1 gallon (3.7 liters).
- t (45:25) The Hebrew has “in the seventh (month), on the fifteenth day of the month,” Tishri in the spring-start calendar. This is the Feast of Booths (Leviticus 23:34).

Chapter 46

1 “This is what Lord Yahweh says: The inner court’s east-facing gate is to stay shut on the six working days, but on the Sabbath day it is to be opened, and on the day of the new moon it is to be opened. 2 The prince will come in from outside by way of the gate’s vestibule and take his stand at the gate’s doorpost. The priests will present his burnt offering and his fellowship offerings, and he will bow in worship on the gate’s threshold and then go out; but the gate is not to be shut until evening. 3 The people of the land will likewise bow in worship before Yahweh at that gate’s entrance on Sabbaths and new moons. 4
The burnt offering the prince brings to Yahweh on the Sabbath day is to be six lambs without defect and a ram without defect. 5 The grain offering is to be about 3/5 bushel of flour with the ram, and with the lambs whatever he is willing to give, with about a gallon of oil for each 3/5 bushel.[a] 6 On the new moon it is to be a young bull without defect, and six lambs and a ram, all without defect. 7 With the bull
he is to provide a grain offering of about 3/5 bushel, with the ram the same, and with the lambs as much as he can afford, with about a gallon of oil for each 3/5 bushel.[b] 8 Whenever the prince comes in, his route is through the vestibule of the gate, and by that route he departs.
9 “When the people of the land come before Yahweh at the appointed feasts, whoever enters by the north gate to worship must leave by the south gate, and whoever enters by the south gate must leave by the north gate. No one is to go back through the gate he came in by; each must go straight out ahead.[c] 10 As for the prince, he will be in their midst: in with them as they enter, out with them as they leave.[d]

11 At the festivals and the appointed feasts the grain offering is to be about 3/5 bushel with a bull and the same with a ram, and with the lambs whatever he is willing to give, with about a gallon of oil for each 3/5 bushel.
12 "When the prince provides a freewill offering for Yahweh, be it burnt offering or fellowship sacrifices, someone must open for him the east-facing gate, and he will present his burnt offering and fellowship offerings as he does on the Sabbath day. Then he will go out, and after he has gone out the gate is to be shut.
13 "You[e] are to provide a year-old lamb without defect each day as a burnt offering to Yahweh; morning by morning you are to provide
it. 14 With it you are to provide a grain offering morning by morning:
about a gallon of flour, with about 1.25 quarts of oil to moisten the fine flour.[f] This is a grain offering to Yahweh, a lasting statute for all time. 15 So they[g] are to provide the lamb, the grain offering, and the oil morning by morning as a regular burnt offering.
16 "Lord Yahweh says this: Suppose the prince makes a gift from his own inheritance[h] to one of his sons; it will belong to his sons, and it will be their possession by inheritance. 17 But if he gives a gift from his inheritance to one of his servants, it will be the servant's until the year of release;[i] then it will go back to the prince. His inheritance is for his sons alone; it will remain theirs. 18 The prince must not take any of the people's inheritance, driving them off their property. From his own property he is to give his sons their inheritance, so that none of my people will be scattered from their property." 19 Then he brought me through the entrance at the side of the gate to the holy rooms facing north, which belonged to the priests. There I saw a place at the far western end.[j] 20 He told me, "Here the priests will boil the guilt offering and the sin offering, and here they will bake the grain offering, so that nothing has to be carried out into the outer courtyard, where it would transmit holiness to the people." 21 Next he took me out into the outer court and walked me around to its four corners, and in each corner of the court there was a smaller court. 22 In the four corners of the court were enclosed[k] courts, 70 feet long and 52.5 feet wide;[l] all four corner courts[m] were the same size. 23 A row of stonework ran around each of the four, and hearths for cooking were made under the rows all around. 24 He said to me, “These are the kitchens where those who serve the temple will boil the people’s sacrifices.”

Notes

- a (46:5) Hebrew “an ephah for the ram … and a hin of oil for the ephah.” An ephah was about 3/5 bushel (22 liters), and a hin about 1 gallon (3.7 liters). Ancient standards varied. The same measures are used in vv. 7 and 11.
- b (46:7) The Greek has “and a hin of oil for the cake.”
- c (46:9) So the Hebrew margin and the Greek; the written Hebrew text has “they must go out.”
- d (46:10) So the Greek; the Hebrew has “and when they go out, they will go out.”
- e (46:13) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “he.” The Greek also lacks “morning by morning” here and has “in the morning.”
- f (46:14) Hebrew “a sixth of an ephah, and a third of a hin of oil,” about 3.7 liters of flour and 1.2 liters of oil.
- g (46:15) So the Hebrew; the Greek has “you.”
- h (46:16) So the Greek; the Hebrew has “it is his inheritance.”
- i (46:17) Hebrew deror, the year of liberty, the Jubilee (Leviticus 25:10).
- j (46:19) The Greek has “a place set apart.”
- k (46:22) The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain; the Greek has “small.”
- l (46:22) Hebrew: “40” (about 21 m); “30” (about 16 m); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- m (46:22) The Hebrew word here is marked with dots in the traditional text, which may indicate doubt; the meaning is uncertain.

Chapter 47

1 He brought me back to the temple’s entrance, and I saw water flowing out from beneath the temple’s threshold toward the east, since the temple faced east. The water was running down from under the south side of the temple, south of the altar. 2 Then he led me out through the north gate and around by the outside route to the outer gate facing east, and I saw the water trickling out from the south side.
3 As the man went out eastward with a measuring line in hand, he measured off 1,750 feet and led me through the water,[a] and it came up to my ankles. 4 He measured off another 1,750 feet[b] and led me through, and the water reached my knees.[c] He measured off another 1,750 feet and led me through, and it reached my waist. 5 Again he measured off 1,750 feet, and by then it had become a stream too much for me to ford; the water had swelled into swimming depth, a torrent beyond any wading. 6 "Son of man," he said, "have you taken this in?" After that he walked me back to the edge of the river. 7 When I came back, I saw a great many trees along the bank, on both sides of the river. 8 He said to me, "Out to the eastern district these waters stream, descending into the Arabah;[d] once they pour into the sea, the sea of foul water,[e] its water turns wholesome. 9 Wherever the river[f] goes, every living creature that swarms there will live. There will be a great abundance of fish, since these waters arrive there and the brine is healed; everything will live wherever the river goes. 10 Fishermen will stand beside it from En-gedi[g] as far as En-eglaim;[h] it will be a place where nets are spread to dry. Its fish will be of many kinds, like the fish of the Great Sea,[i] very many. 11 But its marshes and pools will not be made fresh; they will be left for salt. 12 By the river, on both of its banks, all kinds of fruit trees will grow. Their leaves will never wither and their fruit will never run out. Every month they will produce new fruit, because the water for them flows out of the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food and their leaves for healing."

13 This is what Lord Yahweh says: "These[j] are the boundaries by which you are to divide the land as an inheritance among the twelve tribes of Israel, with Joseph receiving two portions.[k] 14 You are to share it equally, each the same as his brother. I raised my hand in oath to give it to your ancestors, and this land will fall to you as your inheritance. 15 "This is the land's boundary. Northward, starting at the Great Sea, it follows the Hethlon road to Lebo-hamath[l] and Zedad,[m] 16 Berothah and Sibraim (which lie on the boundary between Damascus and Hamath), reaching as far as Hazer-hatticon,[n] by the border of Hauran. 17 So the boundary will run from the sea to Hazar-enon,[o] with the territory of Damascus and the territory of Hamath lying to the north. This is[p] the north side. 18 "On the east side the line runs between Hauran and Damascus, and along the Jordan between Gilead and the land of Israel, from the northern border down to the eastern sea and as far as Tamar.[q] This is the east side. 19 "The southern side will run southward from Tamar to the waters of Meribath-kadesh,[r] and then follow the Wadi of Egypt[s] to the Great Sea. That is the southern side, facing the Negev. 20 "On the west side the Great Sea is the boundary up to a point opposite Lebo-hamath. This is the west side.

21 "You are to divide this land among yourselves by the tribes of Israel.
22 You are to allot it by lot as an inheritance for yourselves and for the foreigners who live among you and have had children among you. They are to count as natives among the Israelites, receiving shares by lot together with you within Israel's tribes. 23 In whatever tribe a foreigner lives, there you are to give him his inheritance," declares Lord Yahweh.

Notes

- a (47:3) Hebrew: 1,000 cubits (about 525 m).
- b (47:4) Hebrew "a thousand," that is, 1,000 cubits (about 525 m). So also in v. 5.
- c (47:4) The Greek has "thighs."
- d (47:8) The Arabah is the deep rift valley of the Jordan and the Dead Sea.
- e (47:8) The Hebrew of this phrase is difficult, perhaps "to the sea of the waters brought out"; the Greek has "to the outlet of the water." The sea is the Dead Sea.
- f (47:9) So the Greek; the Hebrew has "two rivers."
- g (47:10) En-gedi means "spring of the young goat." It is an oasis on the west shore of the Dead Sea.
- h (47:10) En-eglaim means "spring of two calves." Its location is uncertain.
- i (47:10) That is, the Mediterranean.
- j (47:13) So the Greek and some ancient witnesses; the Hebrew has an unusual word, probably a scribal slip for "this."
- k (47:13) Hebrew "Joseph, portions," that is, two shares for Ephraim and Manasseh.
- l (47:15) Lebo-hamath means "the entrance of Hamath." The Hebrew order is "Hethlon, to come to Zedad, Hamath"; the reading here follows 48:1. The Greek has very different forms of these names.
- m (47:15) Zedad probably means "side" or "slope." Here begins a list of northern places whose locations are mostly uncertain.
- n (47:16) Hazer-hatticon means "the middle village."
- o (47:17) Hazar-enon means "village of springs."
- p (47:17) So the Greek; the Hebrew has "and." So also in vv. 18 and 19.
- q (47:18) So the Greek; the Hebrew has "you will measure." Tamar means "palm tree"; the Greek translates it "the city of palm trees."
- r (47:19) Meribath-kadesh means "the quarrel at Kadesh" (Numbers 20:13; 27:14).
- s (47:19) The Hebrew has only "the wadi" here; it is the stream that marks the border with Egypt (Numbers 34:5).

Chapter 48

1 “These are the tribes by name. At the far north, beside the Hethlon road to Lebo-hamath, as far as Hazar-enan[a] at Damascus’s border, Hamath lying northward, running from the east side to the west side,[b]
Dan will have one portion. 2 Asher’s share comes next, bordering Dan, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western. 3 Naphtali’s share comes next, bordering Asher, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western. 4 Manasseh’s share comes next, bordering Naphtali, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western. 5 Ephraim’s share comes next, bordering Manasseh, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western. 6 Reuben’s share comes next, bordering Ephraim, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western. 7 Judah’s share comes next, bordering Reuben, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western.

8 “Bordering the territory of Judah, running from the east side to the west side, will be the sacred district that you are to set aside. It will be about 8.3 miles wide[c] and as long as any of the tribal sections from east to west, and the sanctuary will stand in the center of it. 9 The contribution you set apart for Yahweh is to be about 8.3 miles long and about 3.3 miles[d] wide.[e] 10 This holy contribution will belong to the priests. It will measure about 8.3 miles on the north, about 3.3 miles in width on the west, about 3.3 miles in width on the east, and about 8.3 miles on the south,[f] with Yahweh’s sanctuary in the middle of it.
11 It is for the consecrated priests, the sons of Zadok, who faithfully guarded what I entrusted to them and refused to wander off with the Israelites, unlike the Levites who wandered. 12 It will be their own special contribution out of the land’s contribution, most holy, next to the Levites’ territory.

13 “Alongside the priests’ territory the Levites will have a portion about 8.3 miles long and about 3.3 miles wide. The whole length will be about 8.3 miles and the width about 3.3 miles.[gh] 14 None of it may be sold or exchanged, and this choicest part of the land must not pass to others,[i] for it is holy to Yahweh.

15 “The remaining strip, about 1.7 miles wide and about 8.3 miles long,[j] will be for common use by the city, for homes and for open land.

The city will stand in the middle of it. 16 These are its dimensions: the north side about 1.5 miles, the south side about 1.5 miles,[k] the east side about 1.5 miles, and the west side about 1.5 miles.[l] 17 The city's open land will be about 438 feet on the north, about 438 feet on the south, about 438 feet on the east, and about 438 feet on the west.[m] 18 What remains of the length alongside the holy contribution will be about 3.3 miles on the east and about 3.3 miles on the west.[n] It will lie alongside the holy contribution, and its produce will be food for the city's workers. 19 The city's workers, drawn from all the tribes of Israel, will farm it. 20 The whole contribution will be a square, about 8.3 miles on each side.[o] You are to set apart the holy contribution together with the city's property.[p]

21 "What remains on both sides of the holy contribution and the city's property will belong to the prince. It will extend east from the about 8.3 miles of the contribution to the eastern border, and west from the about 8.3 miles to the western border,[q] alongside the tribal portions; it will belong to the prince. The holy contribution, with the temple's sanctuary, will be in the middle of it. 22 So the Levites' property and the city's property will lie in the middle of what belongs to the prince; the prince's land will lie between Judah's territory and Benjamin's territory.

23 "As for the rest of the tribes: from the east side to the west side, Benjamin will have one portion. 24 Simeon's share comes next, bordering Benjamin, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western. 25 Issachar's share comes next, bordering Simeon, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western. 26 Zebulun's share comes next, bordering Issachar, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western. 27 Gad's share comes next, bordering Zebulun, and stretches from the eastern edge to the western. 28 The southern boundary of Gad's territory will run from Tamar to the waters of Meribath-kadesh, and then follow the Wadi of Egypt to the Great Sea. 29 "This is the land you will allot to the tribes of Israel as their possession, and those are their shares," declares Lord Yahweh.

30 "These are the city's exits. On the north side, measuring about 1.5 miles,[r] 31 the city's gates will be named for the tribes of Israel: three gates on the north, one for Reuben, one for Judah, and one for Levi.

32 On the east side, about 1.5 miles long,[s] there will be three gates:
one for Joseph, one for Benjamin, and one for Dan. 33 On the south side, measuring about 1.5 miles,[t] there will be three gates: one for Simeon, one for Issachar, and one for Zebulun. 34 On the west side, about 1.5 miles long,[u] there will be three gates: one for Gad, one for Asher, and one for Naphtali. 35 The distance around the city will be about 6 miles.[v] And from that day on, the city's name will be Yahweh-shammah, Yahweh Is There."[w]

Notes

- a (48:1) Hazar-enan, also spelled Hazar-enon (47:17), means "village of springs."
- b (48:1) So some ancient witnesses; the Hebrew has "and it will be his: the east side, the sea," which seems disordered.
- c (48:8) Hebrew: "25,000" (about 13.1 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- d (48:9) Hebrew: "25,000" (about 13.1 km); "10,000" (about 5.3 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- e (48:9) So the Hebrew; the Greek has "25,000 wide." Some scholars read "20,000," counting the Levites' strip in v. 13.
- f (48:10) Hebrew: "25,000" (about 13.1 km); "10,000" (about 5.3 km); "10,000" (about 5.3 km); "25,000" (about 13.1 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- g (48:13) Hebrew: "25,000" (about 13.1 km); "10,000" (about 5.3 km); "25,000" (about 13.1 km); "10,000" (about 5.3 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- h (48:13) So the Hebrew; the Greek ends "and the width 20,000."
- i (48:14) So the Hebrew margin; the written Hebrew text has "must not cause to pass."
- j (48:15) Hebrew: "5,000" (about 2.6 km); "25,000" (about 13.1 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- k (48:16) So the Hebrew margin and the Greek; the written Hebrew text repeats "five."
- l (48:16) Hebrew: "4,500" (about 2.4 km); "4,500" (about 2.4 km); "4,500" (about 2.4 km); "4,500" (about 2.4 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- m (48:17) Hebrew: "250" (about 131 m); "250" (about 131 m); "250" (about 131 m); "250" (about 131 m); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- n (48:18) Hebrew: "10,000" (about 5.3 km); "10,000" (about 5.3 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- o (48:20) Hebrew: "25,000" (about 13.1 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.

- p (48:20) Hebrew “you are to set apart the holy contribution with the city’s property as a fourth.” The meaning is uncertain; the Greek has “you shall separate again part of it.”
- q (48:21) Hebrew: “25,000” (about 13.1 km); “25,000” (about 13.1 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- r (48:30) Hebrew: “4,500” (about 2.4 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- s (48:32) Hebrew: “4,500” (about 2.4 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- t (48:33) Hebrew: “4,500” (about 2.4 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- u (48:34) Hebrew: “4,500” (about 2.4 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- v (48:35) Hebrew: “18,000” (about 9.5 km); the unit is not stated but is probably the long cubit.
- w (48:35) Hebrew YHWH shammah. The Greek reads the same consonants differently: “from the day it comes to be, that will be its name.”

Daniel

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah,[a] Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and laid siege to it. 2 And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, together with part of the vessels of God's house. These he brought to the land of Shinar,[b] to the house of his god, placing the vessels in his god's treasure house.
3 Then the king told Ashpenaz, the chief of his court officials,[c] to bring some of the Israelites, both of the royal family and of the nobility—4 young men without any defect, good-looking, skilled in every kind of wisdom, well informed, quick to understand, and able to serve in the king's palace—and to teach them the literature and language of the Chaldeans.[d] 5 The king allotted them a daily portion of the royal food and of his own wine. Their education was to last three years, after which they would stand before the king.
6 Among them, from the people of Judah, were Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah.[e] 7 The chief official gave them new names:
to Daniel he gave the name Belteshazzar, to Hananiah Shadrach, to Mishael Meshach, and to Azariah Abednego.[f]
8 But Daniel made up his mind not to defile himself with the royal food or with the king's wine, and he sought leave from the chief official not to defile himself. 9 God had caused the chief official to show Daniel favor and compassion, 10 and the chief official told Daniel, "I fear my lord the king, who has appointed what you eat and drink. If he sees your faces thinner than those of the youths of your own age, why should that be? You would put my head in danger with the king." 11 Then Daniel spoke to the steward[g] whom the chief official had put in charge of Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: 12 "Test your servants, I beg you, for ten days. Have them give us vegetables to eat and water to drink. 13 Then look at our faces and at the faces of the youths who eat the royal food, and treat your servants as you find." 14 So he consented to them in this matter and proved them for ten days. 15 When the ten days were over, their faces looked better and they were fuller in flesh than any of the youths who ate the royal food. 16 From then on the steward kept taking away their food and the wine meant for them to drink and gave them vegetables.

17 To these four young men God gave knowledge and skill in all literature and wisdom, and Daniel could understand visions and dreams of every kind. 18 At the end of the time the king had set for them to be brought in, the chief official brought them before Nebuchadnezzar. 19 The king talked with them, and among them all no one was found equal to Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. So they entered the king's service. 20 In every matter of wisdom and understanding about which the king asked them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters in his whole kingdom. 21 Daniel continued there until the first year of King Cyrus.[h]

Notes

- a (1:1) That is, 605 BC. Jeremiah 25:1 and 46:2 date Nebuchadnezzar's first year to Jehoiakim's fourth year; the difference probably reflects different ways of counting a king's first year (Babylonian versus Judean reckoning).
- b (1:2) An ancient name for Babylonia (compare Genesis 10:10; 11:2).
- c (1:3) Hebrew saris, often "eunuch," but also used of high court officials in general; likewise in verses 7–11 and 18.
- d (1:4) In Daniel "Chaldeans" usually means a class of learned men skilled in astrology and divination, as well as the people of Babylonia.
- e (1:6) The Hebrew names mean: Daniel, "God is my judge"; Hananiah, "Yahweh has been gracious"; Mishael, probably "Who is what God is?"; Azariah, "Yahweh has helped."
- f (1:7) The new names are Babylonian. Belteshazzar probably represents Akkadian Balaṭ-šarri-uṣur, "protect the king's life" (Daniel 4:8 connects it with the god Bel). Shadrach and Meshach are of uncertain meaning. Abednego probably means "servant of Nego," perhaps a deliberate alteration of Nabu, the Babylonian god of wisdom. In the Aramaic chapters the king and others usually call Daniel by his Babylonian name.
- g (1:11) Hebrew melzar, probably a title ("guardian, steward") rather than a personal name; the KJV took it as a name, "Melzar."

- h (1:21) 539 BC, when Cyrus of Persia took Babylon. Daniel 10:1 records a vision in Cyrus's third year.

Chapter 2

1 In the second year of his reign,[a] Nebuchadnezzar had dreams; his spirit was troubled, and his sleep left him. 2 So the king gave orders to summon the magicians, the enchanters, the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans to tell the king his dreams. They came in and stood before the king. 3 The king said to them, "I have had a dream, and my spirit is troubled to know what the dream was." 4 Then the Chaldeans spoke to the king in Aramaic:[b] "O king, live forever! Tell your servants the dream, and we will give its interpretation." 5 The king replied to the Chaldeans, "The matter is settled on my part:[c] unless you make known to me both the dream and what it means, you will be cut to pieces and your houses made a dunghill. 6 But if you tell me the dream and its interpretation, you will receive from me gifts and rewards and great honor. So tell me the dream and its interpretation." 7 They answered a second time, "Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will give its interpretation." 8 The king answered, "I know for certain that you are trying to gain time, because you see that my decision is firm: 9 Unless you make the dream known to me, there is just one law for you. You have plotted to speak lying and corrupt words before me until the times change. So tell me the dream, and I will know that you can show me its interpretation." 10 The Chaldeans replied before the king, "No one on earth can show what the king demands! No king, however great and mighty, has asked anything like this of any magician, enchanter, or Chaldean. 11 What the king asks is too difficult, and there is no one who can reveal it to the king except the gods, whose dwelling is not with mortals." 12 At this the king became furious and very angry and ordered all the wise men of Babylon to be destroyed. 13 The order was issued that the wise men be executed, and officers searched for Daniel and his friends so they could be executed too.

14 Daniel responded with tact and good judgment to Arioch, commander of the royal guard, who had set out to execute Babylon's wise men.
15 He said to Arioch, the king's captain, "Why is the king's decree so urgent?" And Arioch told Daniel the matter.
16 Daniel went in and requested of the king that he would grant him time to show the king the interpretation.
17 Then Daniel went to his house and told the matter to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions,
18 and urged them to ask for mercy from the God of heaven concerning this mystery, so that Daniel and his companions would not be destroyed with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.
19 Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a vision of the night, and Daniel blessed the God of heaven.
20 Daniel spoke and said:
"Blessed be the name of God
forever and ever,
for wisdom and might are his.
21 He changes times and seasons;
he removes kings and sets up kings;
he gives wisdom to the wise
and knowledge to those who have understanding.
22 He uncovers deep and secret matters;
he knows what is hidden in darkness,
and light lives with him.
23 God of my ancestors,
I thank you and praise you,
because you gave me wisdom and strength,
and now you have shown me what we begged of you;
you have revealed to us the king's concern."
24 Daniel then went in to Arioch, the man the king had appointed to execute Babylon's wise men. He said to him, "The wise men of Babylon must not be killed. Bring me before the king, and the meaning of his dream is what I will give him." 25 Arioch hurried Daniel in before the king and told him, "I have found among the exiles of Judah a man who will make the interpretation known to the king."

26 The king said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, "Are you able to make known to me the dream I saw and its interpretation?" 27 Daniel replied to the king, "The mystery the king is asking about is something no wise man, sorcerer, magician or astrologer can explain to the king. 28 But there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has made known to King Nebuchadnezzar what will happen in the latter days. Your dream and the visions of your head as you lay on your bed were these: 29 As for you, O king, as you lay on your bed, your thoughts turned to what would happen after this, and the Revealer of mysteries has made known to you what is to come. 30 But as for me, this mystery was not revealed to me because of any wisdom in me greater than that of all living, but in order that the king might be told the interpretation, and that you might know the thoughts of your heart.
31 "You were watching, O king, and there before you was a great statue.
That statue was huge and its brilliance extraordinary; it stood in front of you, and its appearance was terrifying. 32 The head of this statue was of fine gold, its chest and arms of silver, its belly and thighs of bronze, 33 its legs were iron, and its feet part iron and part clay.[d] 34 You kept watching until a stone was cut out without hands. It struck the image on its iron and clay feet and broke them in pieces. 35 At that moment the iron, clay, bronze, silver and gold were broken to pieces together and became like the chaff on a summer threshing floor. The wind carried them off, leaving no trace of them. But the rock that hit the statue grew into an immense mountain and covered the entire earth.
36 "Such was the dream; its interpretation we will now tell before the king. 37 You, O king, are the king of kings, to whom the God of heaven has given the kingdom, the power, the might, and the glory.
38 Wherever people live, he has given into your hand the beasts of the field and the birds of the sky, and has made you ruler over them all.
You are that head of gold. 39 After you another kingdom will arise, inferior to yours, and then a third kingdom, of bronze, which will rule over the whole earth. 40 After that, a fourth kingdom will arise, as hard as iron; iron crushes and breaks everything, and like iron that smashes, this kingdom will crush and break all the others.[e] 41 And as you saw the feet and the toes, part potter's clay and part iron, it will be a divided kingdom; yet some of the iron's firmness will be in it, since you saw iron mixed with miry clay. 42 As the toes of the feet were partly iron and partly clay, so the kingdom will be partly strong and partly brittle. 43 And as you saw the iron mixed with miry clay, they will mingle with one another by marriage,[f] but they will not cling together, even as iron does not mix with clay. 44 In the days of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that will never be destroyed; its rule will not pass to another people. It will break in pieces and make an end of all these kingdoms, but it will itself stand forever— 45 It is as you saw: a rock was chiseled from a mountain, though no human hand was involved, and it pulverized the iron, bronze, clay, silver and gold. The great God is informing the king about what will occur afterward. The dream is true, and its interpretation can be trusted."

46 Then King Nebuchadnezzar bowed down with his face to the ground and honored Daniel, and he gave orders to present a grain offering and incense to him. 47 The king answered Daniel, "Truly your God is God of gods and Lord of kings and the revealer of mysteries, since you could reveal this mystery." 48 The king then gave Daniel a high position and many generous gifts. He made him governor of the entire province of Babylon and head over all of Babylon's wise men. 49 Daniel asked the king to appoint Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego to manage the province of Babylon, and the king did so; Daniel himself remained at the king's court.[g]

Notes

- a (2:1) About 603 BC. This seems to fall within the three years of training in 1:5; by inclusive reckoning, part-years may have been counted as whole years, and 1:18–20 need not come after 2:1 in time.
- b (2:4) Hebrew 'aramit, "in Aramaic." From here through 7:28 the book is written in Aramaic, the common language of the Babylonian and Persian empires; at 8:1 it returns to Hebrew. The word "in Aramaic" may originally have been a scribal notice marking the change of language. The Qumran fragments that cover these passages show the same switches of language. Why the book is bilingual is debated; the Aramaic section (2:4b–7:28) is arranged as a unit, with chapters 2 and 7 (four kingdoms), 3 and 6 (deliverance from death), and 4 and 5 (the humbling of kings) matching each other.

- c (2:5) Or "The word has gone out from me." The Aramaic azda is a Persian loanword, "certain, publicly known."
- d (2:33) Aramaic khasaf, baked clay or earthenware, as in potters' ware (verse 41); likewise in verses 34–35 and 41–45.
- e (2:40) The identity of the four kingdoms is much discussed. The traditional Jewish and Christian view is Babylon, Media-Persia, Greece, and Rome; many modern scholars hold Babylon, Media, Persia, and Greece (Alexander and his successors), which fits the later visions (compare 5:28, 31; 8:20–21). Compare chapter 7.
- f (2:43) Aramaic "by the seed of men," probably referring to marriage alliances between ruling houses (compare 11:6, 17).
- g (2:49) Aramaic "in the gate of the king," the place of royal administration.

Chapter 3

1 King Nebuchadnezzar made a statue of gold, about 90 feet high and 9 feet wide,[a] and set it up on the plain of Dura in the province of Babylon. 2 Then King Nebuchadnezzar sent to gather the satraps, prefects, governors, counselors, treasurers, judges, magistrates, and every official of the provinces, that they should come to the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.[b] 3 Then the satraps, prefects, governors, counselors, treasurers, judges, magistrates, and every official of the provinces gathered to the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up, and they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up. 4 Then the herald called out loudly, "People of every nation and language, you are commanded:
5 that whenever you hear the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe,[c] and all kinds of music, you shall fall down and worship the golden image that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up. 6 Whoever does not fall down and worship shall in that same hour be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace." 7 So as soon as all the peoples heard the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, and every kind of music, all the people of every nation and language fell down and worshiped the statue of gold that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.
8 At that time certain Chaldeans came near and maliciously accused the Jews.[d] 9 They said to King Nebuchadnezzar, "O king, live forever! 10

You, O king, have made a decree that every man who hears the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and all kinds of music shall fall down and worship the golden image, 11 and whoever does not fall down and worship shall be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace. 12 There are certain Jews whom you appointed over the affairs of the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. These men, O king, have not regarded you; your gods they do not serve, and the golden image you set up they do not worship."
13 Then Nebuchadnezzar, in a furious rage, ordered Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego to be brought in. So these men were brought before the king. 14 Nebuchadnezzar spoke to them: "Is it on purpose, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, that you do not serve my gods nor worship the golden image I have set up? 15 Now, if you are prepared, then when you hear the sound of the horn, flute, zither, lyre, harp, pipes and every other instrument, you must bow down and worship the statue I made; that will be fine. But if you refuse to worship, you will be thrown at once into the blazing furnace. And what god can rescue you from my power?" 16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered the king, "Nebuchadnezzar, we have no need to give you an answer on this matter. 17 If it is so,[e] our God whom we serve is able to rescue us from the blazing fiery furnace, and he will rescue us from your hand, O king. 18 But even if he does not, you should know, Your Majesty, that we will not serve your gods or worship the golden statue you set up."
19 Then Nebuchadnezzar was filled with rage, and his face was distorted with anger at Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. He gave orders to heat the furnace seven times hotter than it was usually heated, 20 and he ordered some of the strongest men in his army to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego and throw them into the blazing fiery furnace. 21 So these men were bound in their cloaks, their trousers, their caps, and their other garments,[f] and were thrown into the blazing fiery furnace. 22 The king's command was so strict and the furnace so extremely hot that the flames killed the men who lifted up Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. 23 And these three men, Shadrach,

Meshach, and Abednego, fell bound into the middle of the blazing fiery furnace.[g]

24 Then King Nebuchadnezzar leaped to his feet in astonishment.
"Weren't there three men that we bound and threw into the fire?"
he asked his counselors. "Certainly, Your Majesty," they answered.
25 He said, "Look, I see four men walking around loose in the fire, and they are not hurt at all; and the fourth looks like a son of the gods."[h] 26 Nebuchadnezzar approached the door of the blazing furnace and called, "Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, you servants of the Most High God, come out and come here!" Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego then came out of the fire. 27 And the satraps, prefects, governors, and the king's counselors gathered and saw these men, that the fire had no power over their bodies; not a hair of their heads was singed, their cloaks were unchanged, and no smell of fire had come upon them.

28 Nebuchadnezzar declared, "Praise to the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, who sent his angel and saved his servants! They trusted in him, disobeyed the king's order, and risked their lives rather than serve or worship any god other than their own God. 29 I therefore decree that any person of any people, nation or language who speaks against the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego will be cut into pieces and his house reduced to a heap of ruins, since no other god can rescue people in this way." 30 Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in the province of Babylon.

Notes

- a (3:1) Aramaic "sixty cubits high and six cubits wide" (about 27 by 2.7 meters). The tall, narrow proportions suggest an image on a high pedestal or an obelisk-like monument. The Septuagint dates the event to Nebuchadnezzar's eighteenth year (compare Jeremiah 52:29).
- b (3:2) Several of these titles are Persian loanwords, and the exact functions of some are uncertain.
- c (3:5) The identification of several instruments is uncertain. Three of the names (qitharos "lyre," pesanterin "harp," and sumponyah, perhaps "bagpipe" or "drum," or "playing together") are Greek loanwords.
- d (3:8) Aramaic "ate the pieces of the Jews," an idiom for slander or malicious accusation.

- e (3:17) Or "If our God whom we serve is able to rescue us, he will rescue us…" The Aramaic can be read either way.
- f (3:21) The exact meaning of these words for clothing is uncertain.
- g (3:23) At this point the Greek versions (both the Old Greek and Theodotion) add 68 verses not found in the Hebrew-Aramaic text: the Prayer of Azariah, a short prose account of the fire and of the angel who came down into the furnace, and the Song of the Three Young Men ("Bless the Lord, all you works of the Lord…"). These additions are part of Daniel in Catholic and Orthodox Bibles and appear among the Apocrypha in Protestant Bibles. They will be translated in the CJT's Apocrypha, together with the other Greek additions to Daniel, Susanna and Bel and the Dragon.
- h (3:25) Or "a divine being." In Aramaic "son of the gods" means a being of the divine class; verse 28 calls him God's "angel." The KJV's "the Son of God" reads the phrase in the light of later Christian interpretation.

Chapter 4

1 King Nebuchadnezzar, to all peoples, nations, and languages that dwell in all the earth:[a] May your peace abound!

2 It has seemed good to me to make known the signs and wonders that the Most High God has done for me.

3 How great are his signs,
how mighty his wonders!
His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom,
and his dominion is from generation to generation.

4 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was living at ease in my house, flourishing in my palace.

5 I saw a dream that made me afraid; the imaginings on my bed and the visions of my head alarmed me.

6 So I issued a decree that all the wise men of Babylon should be brought in before me to make known to me the dream's interpretation.

7 Then the magicians, sorcerers, Chaldeans and astrologers came in. I described the dream to them, but they could not tell me what it meant.

8 Finally Daniel came before me—his name is Belteshazzar, after the name of my god,[b] and he has the spirit of the holy gods in him—and I described the dream to him:

9 “Belteshazzar, chief of the magicians, I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in you and that nothing puzzling is beyond you. Listen to the visions I saw in my dream, and give me the interpretation.
10 These were the visions in my mind as I lay in bed:
I looked, and there in the middle of the earth stood a tree,
and it was very tall.
11 The tree grew large and strong,
its top reached to heaven,
and it could be seen to the ends of the whole earth.
12 Its leaves were lovely and its fruit abundant,
and in it was food for all.
Under it the beasts of the field found shade,
in its branches the birds of the sky lived,
and from it all flesh was fed.
13 “In the visions of my head upon my bed I watched, and look—a watcher, a holy one,[c] descending from heaven.
14 He called out loudly, saying:
‘Hew the tree down and cut away its branches,
shake off its foliage and scatter its fruit.
Let the animals run from beneath it,
the birds from its boughs.
15 But leave the stump with its roots in the ground,
wrapped in a band of iron and bronze,
among the fresh grass of the field.
Let him be soaked with the dew of the sky,
and let him share the plants of the earth with the animals.
16 Let his mind be changed from a man’s,
and let the mind of a beast be given to him,
and let seven times[d] pass over him.
17 This sentence is announced by the watchers,
this verdict is given by the holy ones,
so that everyone alive will recognize that the Most High is ruler over human kingdoms, gives them to anyone he chooses,
and puts the lowest of people in charge of them.’

18 This is the dream I, King Nebuchadnezzar, have seen. You, Belteshazzar, declare its meaning, because all the wise men in my kingdom are unable to make the interpretation known to me; but you can, for a spirit of the holy gods is in you."
19 Then Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, was dismayed for a time, and his thoughts alarmed him. The king said, "Belteshazzar, let neither the dream nor its meaning trouble you." Belteshazzar replied,
"My lord, would that the dream were for your haters, and its meaning for your foes! 20 The tree that you saw grow great and strong, its top reaching to heaven, visible to all the earth, 21 It had beautiful leaves and plenty of fruit, with food on it for everyone; animals of the field lived in its shade, and birds of the sky nested in its branches— 22 it is you, O king, who have grown great and strong. Your greatness has grown and reaches to heaven, and your dominion to the end of the earth. 23 You saw a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven and announcing, 'Chop down the tree and destroy it, but leave the stump with its roots in the ground, wrapped in a band of iron and bronze, among the fresh grass of the field; let it be soaked with the dew of the sky and share the plants of the field with the animals, until seven periods of time go by for him.' 24 Here is the interpretation, Your Majesty: this is a decree of the Most High, and it concerns my lord the king. 25 People will drive you away, and you will make your home with the wild animals. You will graze on grass like cattle, with the dew of the sky soaking you. Seven periods of time will go by over you before you acknowledge that the Most High rules over the kingdoms of humankind and hands them to whomever he chooses. 26 And as it was commanded to leave the stump of the tree's roots, your kingdom will be restored to you from the time you know that Heaven[e] rules. 27 Therefore, Your Majesty, please accept my advice: put an end to your sins by doing what is right, and to your wrongdoing by being kind to the poor. Then perhaps your well-being will last."
28 All this came upon King Nebuchadnezzar. 29 Twelve months later, as he walked upon the royal palace of Babylon, 30 and the king said,
"Is not this great Babylon, which I have built as a royal residence by the might of my power and for the glory of my majesty?" 31 While the words were still in the king's mouth, a voice fell from heaven: "To you it is spoken, King Nebuchadnezzar: the kingdom has departed from you! 32 People will drive you away, and you will make your home with the wild animals. You will graze on grass like cattle. Seven periods of time will go by over you before you acknowledge that the Most High rules over the kingdoms of humankind and hands them to whomever he chooses." 33 Right at that moment the word about Nebuchadnezzar came true. He was driven away from people and ate grass like cattle, and his body was soaked with the dew of the sky, until his hair grew as long as eagle feathers and his nails like the claws of a bird.[f]

34 At the end of the days I, Nebuchadnezzar, raised my eyes to heaven, and my understanding came back to me. Then I blessed the Most High; I praised and honored the one who lives forever:

For his dominion is an everlasting dominion,
and his kingdom from generation to generation.

35 All who dwell on the earth are reckoned as nothing,
and he does according to his will in heaven's army
and among earth's inhabitants;
none can stay his hand
or ask him, "What are you doing?"

36 At that same time my understanding came back to me, and for the glory of my kingdom my majesty and brightness returned to me. My counselors and my nobles came looking for me; I was established again in my kingdom, and surpassing greatness was added to me.

37 Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, offer praise, glory and honor to the King of heaven. All that he does is true, his ways are just, and he has the power to humble those who walk in arrogance.

Notes

- a (4:1) Verses 1–3 are 3:31–33 in the Aramaic text, and verses 4–37 are 4:1–34. The Old Greek of chapter 4 is considerably longer and differently arranged, placing this proclamation at the end of the chapter; Theodotion follows the Aramaic.
- b (4:8) That is, Bel (Marduk), chief god of Babylon. The king connects the name with Bel by popular association (compare the note at 1:7).
- c (4:13) Aramaic ʿir, "wakeful one," a heavenly being who keeps watch; elsewhere in the Bible only in verses 17 and 23. The term became common in later Jewish writings such as 1 Enoch.

- d (4:16) Probably seven years (so the Old Greek), though the word means simply "periods of time."
- e (4:26) This is the only place in the Old Testament where "Heaven" stands for God, a usage common in later Judaism (compare "the kingdom of heaven" in Matthew).
- f (4:33) No Babylonian record mentions such an illness of Nebuchadnezzar. A fragmentary Aramaic text from Qumran, the Prayer of Nabonidus (4Q242), as reported tells of Nabonidus, the last king of Babylon, being stricken for seven years in Teima and being healed when a Jewish exile urged him to honor God. Many scholars think the story in Daniel is related to such a tradition.

Chapter 5

1 King Belshazzar[a] made a great feast for a thousand of his nobles, and he drank wine in front of the thousand. 2 Under the influence of the wine, Belshazzar gave an order to bring the gold and silver vessels that his father Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the temple in Jerusalem, so that the king, his nobles, his wives and his concubines could drink from them. 3 So they brought in the golden vessels taken from the temple, God's house at Jerusalem, and the king drank from them, with his nobles, his wives, and his concubines. 4 While drinking the wine, they praised the gods made of gold, silver, bronze, iron, wood and stone.
5 Suddenly the fingers of a human hand appeared and began writing on the plaster of the royal palace wall, across from the lampstand;
and the king watched the hand as it wrote. 6 Then the king's color changed, and his thoughts alarmed him; the joints of his hips gave way, and his knees knocked against each other. 7 The king shouted for the sorcerers, Chaldeans and astrologers to be brought in. He told Babylon's wise men, "Anyone who can read this inscription and explain it to me will be dressed in purple, have a gold chain placed on his neck, and be made the third highest ruler in the kingdom."[b] 8 So all the king's wise men came in, but none of them could read the inscription or explain its meaning to the king. 9 So King Belshazzar was greatly alarmed, his color changed, and his nobles were perplexed.
10 Because of what the king and his nobles had said, the queen[c] came into the banquet house. The queen spoke: "O king, live forever!
Let not your thoughts alarm you, nor your color change. 11 There is a man in your kingdom who has the spirit of the holy gods.

During your father's reign he showed brightness, understanding and wisdom comparable to the wisdom of the gods, and your father King Nebuchadnezzar appointed him chief of the magicians, sorcerers, Chaldeans and astrologers—yes, your father the king did so— 12 since an excellent spirit, with knowledge and insight for interpreting dreams, explaining riddles, and solving problems,[d] was found in him —in Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar. Let Daniel be summoned now, and he will declare the interpretation." 13 Then they brought Daniel in before the king, who said to him, "So you are Daniel, one of the captives from Judah that my father the king brought out of Judah? 14 I have heard of you, that a spirit of the gods is in you, and that light and understanding and extraordinary wisdom are found in you. 15 Just now the wise men, the enchanters, were brought in before me to read this writing and make known to me its interpretation, but they could not show the interpretation of the matter. 16 But I have heard that you can give interpretations and solve problems. Now if you can read the writing and make known to me its interpretation, you will be clothed in purple, with a chain of gold around your neck, and will rule as third in the kingdom."
17 Then Daniel answered before the king, "Keep your gifts for yourself, and give your rewards to someone else. Nevertheless I will read the writing to the king and make known to him the interpretation. 18
Your Majesty, the Most High God gave your father Nebuchadnezzar a kingdom, greatness, glory and splendor. 19 Because of the greatness God gave him, people of every nation and language shook with fear in front of him. He put to death anyone he wished and spared anyone he wished; he promoted anyone he wished and demoted anyone he wished. 20 But when his heart was lifted up and his spirit grew hard so that he acted proudly, he was brought down from his royal throne, and his glory was taken from him. 21 He was expelled from human company; his mind became like an animal's, and he lived among the wild donkeys. He grazed on grass like cattle, with the dew of the sky soaking his body, until he acknowledged that the Most High God rules over the kingdoms of humankind and puts in charge whomever he chooses. 22 And you, his son, Belshazzar, have not humbled your heart, though you knew all this. 23 You have set yourself up against the Lord of heaven. The vessels from his house were brought to you, and with them you, your nobles, your wives and your concubines drank your wine. You sang praises to gods of silver, gold, bronze, iron, wood and stone, which neither see nor hear nor know; but the God who holds your very breath in his hand, and owns all your paths, you did not glorify. 24 That is why the hand was sent out from him, and this writing was written.

25 "This is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, and PARSIN.[e] 26 Here is what the words mean: MENE—God has numbered your kingdom and finished it. 27 TEKEL, you have been weighed in the scales and found lacking. 28 PERES, your kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians."

29 Then at Belshazzar's command they clothed Daniel in purple, put a chain of gold around his neck, and proclaimed concerning him that he should rule as third in the kingdom. 30 That very night Belshazzar the Chaldean king was killed. 31 And Darius the Mede received the kingdom, being about sixty-two years old.[f]

Notes

- a (5:1) Belshazzar (Babylonian Bel-šarra-uṣur, "Bel, protect the king") was the son of Nabonidus, the last king of Babylon, and ruled as regent in Babylon during his father's long absence in Arabia. Nebuchadnezzar is called his "father" (verses 2, 11, 13, 18) in the sense of predecessor, as often in ancient usage. Babylon fell to the Persians in October 539 BC.
- b (5:7) That is, after Nabonidus and Belshazzar himself; or "as one of three rulers" (compare 6:2).
- c (5:10) Probably the queen mother, since the king's wives are already at the feast (verses 2–3).
- d (5:12) Aramaic "loosen knots," perhaps also an allusion to undoing spells; likewise in verse 16.
- e (5:25) These words are Aramaic names of weights or monetary units: the mina (about 1¼ pounds or 570 grams), the shekel (about 0.4 ounce or 11.5 grams), and half-minas (peres, plural parsin). Daniel reads them as verbs: mene, "numbered"; tekel, "weighed"; peres, "divided," with a further play on Paras, "Persia." The Old Greek and Theodotion and Josephus have only three words (mene, tekel, peres).
- f (5:31) This verse is 6:1 in the Aramaic text. Darius the Mede is not known from sources outside the Bible. He has been identified with Gubaru (Gobryas), Cyrus's governor of Babylon, or with Cyrus himself (reading 6:28 as "Darius, that is, Cyrus the Persian"); many scholars think the book reflects a scheme in which a Median kingdom followed Babylon (compare 2:39; 7:5; 8:20).

Chapter 6

1 It pleased Darius to set over the kingdom a hundred and twenty satraps,[a] to be throughout the whole kingdom, 2 and over them three chief ministers, of whom Daniel was one, so that the satraps might give account to them and the king might suffer no loss. 3 Soon this Daniel was outperforming the other administrators and the satraps, because he had an outstanding spirit, and the king intended to appoint him over the entire kingdom.

4 Then the ministers and satraps tried to find a pretext against Daniel in regard to the kingdom, but they could find neither pretext nor fault, since he was trustworthy; no error or fault could be found in him. 5 So these men said, "We will find no pretext against this Daniel except in connection with the law of his God."

6 Then these ministers and satraps came thronging[b] to the king and said to him, "King Darius, live forever! 7 All the ministers of the kingdom, the prefects and satraps, the counselors and governors, have agreed that the king should issue a statute and make a firm prohibition: whoever asks a petition of any god or man for thirty days, except of you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions. 8 Now, O king, establish the prohibition and sign the writing, that it may not be altered, by the law of the Medes and Persians, which is never repealed." 9 Therefore King Darius signed the document and the interdict.

10 When Daniel knew that the document had been signed, he went into his house. In his upper room he had windows open toward Jerusalem, and three times a day he knelt on his knees and prayed and gave thanks before his God, as he had done before.[c] 11 Then these men came thronging and found Daniel making petition and supplication before his God. 12 Then they approached and spoke before the king concerning the king's prohibition: "Have you not signed a prohibition that anyone who asks a petition of any god or man within thirty days, except of you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions?" The king replied, “That is certain, by the law of the Medes and Persians, which is never repealed.” 13 Then they said before the king, “That Daniel, one of the exiles of Judah, has no regard for you, O king, nor for the prohibition you signed; three times a day he makes his petition.” 14 When the king heard these words, he was much distressed, and set his mind on delivering Daniel; and until the sun went down he labored to rescue him. 15 Then the men rushed in to the king and told him, “Remember, Your Majesty, that under the law of the Medes and Persians no decree or edict the king issues can be altered.” 16 So the king commanded, and Daniel was brought and thrown into the lions’ den. The king spoke to Daniel: “Your God, whom you serve without ceasing, will deliver you!” 17 A stone was brought and laid on the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his own signet and with the signet of his nobles, so that nothing might be changed concerning Daniel. 18 Then the king returned to his palace and passed the night fasting; no diversions[d] were brought before him, and sleep fled from him.

19 Then at dawn, at first light, the king arose and went in haste to the den of lions. 20 When he drew near the den, he called to Daniel with a voice full of anguish. The king said, “Daniel, servant of the living God, your God whom you serve without ceasing—has he been able to deliver you from the lions?” 21 Then Daniel said to the king, “O king, live forever! 22 My God has sent his angel and closed the lions’ mouths, and they have not hurt me, for I was found blameless before him; and before you too, O king, I have committed no crime.” 23 Then the king was overjoyed and gave orders to lift Daniel up out of the den. So Daniel was lifted out of the den, and no injury of any kind was found on him, for he had trusted in his God. 24 Then the king gave orders, and those who had maliciously accused Daniel[e] were brought in and cast into the den of lions, together with their children and their wives. Before they reached the floor of the den, the lions seized them and crushed all their bones.
25 Then King Darius wrote to all the peoples, nations, and languages that dwell in all the earth: “May your peace abound!

26 I issue a decree that throughout all the dominion of my kingdom people shall tremble and fear before Daniel's God,
for he is the living God,
and he endures forever;
his kingdom is one that will not be destroyed,
and his rule will last to the end.
27 He rescues and he delivers;
he performs signs and wonders
in the heavens and on the earth,
for he has delivered Daniel
from the paw of the lions."
28 So this Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius and in the reign of Cyrus the Persian.[f]

Notes

- a (6:1) Verses 1–28 are 6:2–29 in the Aramaic text. The number of satrapies under the Persian kings varied; compare Esther 1:1 (127 provinces).
- b (6:6) Or "came by agreement"; the Aramaic verb is used again in verses 11 and 15.
- c (6:10) On praying toward Jerusalem compare 1 Kings 8:35, 44, 48; on three times a day compare Psalm 55:17.
- d (6:18) The meaning of the Aramaic word is uncertain; suggestions include "musicians," "concubines," and "food."
- e (6:24) Aramaic "had eaten the pieces of Daniel"; see the note at 3:8.
- f (6:28) Or "in the reign of Darius, that is, in the reign of Cyrus the Persian." See the note at 5:31.

Chapter 7

1 In the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon,[a] Daniel saw a dream and visions of his head as he lay on his bed. He then wrote down the dream, telling the sum of the matters. 2 Daniel declared: "I was looking in my vision by night, and there were the four winds of heaven stirring up the great sea.[b] 3 Four great beasts came up out of the sea, each different from the others. 4 The first was like a lion, with an eagle's wings. I watched until its wings were plucked away; it was raised up from the earth and made to stand on two feet like a human being, and a human heart was given to it. 5 And there was another beast, a second one, that looked like a bear. It was raised up on one side, with three ribs between its teeth in its mouth, and these words were spoken to it: ‘Get up and eat plenty of meat!’ 6 After this I kept looking, and there was another, like a leopard, with four bird’s wings on its back; the beast had four heads, and dominion was given to it. 7 After this I kept looking in the night visions, and there was a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible and exceedingly strong. It had great teeth of iron; it devoured and crushed, and what was left it trampled with its feet. It was unlike all the beasts before it, and it had ten horns. 8 While I was pondering the horns, another horn, a little one, came up among them, and three of the first horns were plucked up by the roots before it. In this horn were eyes like a man’s eyes and a mouth speaking great things.

9 “I kept watching
until thrones were placed,
and the Ancient of Days[c] sat down.
His garment was as white as snow,
and the hair of his head like clean wool;
his throne was fiery flames,
and its wheels blazing fire.
10 A stream of fire was pouring out from before him.
Thousands upon thousands waited on him,
and myriads upon myriads stood in front of him.
The court took its seat,
and the books were opened.

11 “Then I kept watching because of the sound of the great words the horn was speaking. I watched until the beast was killed, and its body destroyed and given over to be burned with fire. 12 As for the rest of the beasts, their dominion was taken away, but their lives were prolonged for a season and a time.

13 “In the night visions I kept watching,
and look, coming with the clouds of heaven
was someone like a son of man.[d]
He approached the Ancient of Days
and was led into his presence.

14 He was given authority,
glory and a kingdom,
so that every people, nation and language
would serve him.
His authority is eternal authority
that will not fade,
and his kingdom is one
that will never be destroyed.

15 "I, Daniel, was troubled in my spirit within me,[e] and the visions in my mind frightened me. 16 I went up to one of the attendants standing there and inquired of him the truth of all this. He spoke to me and let me know what these things meant: 17 'These four great beasts are four kings who will arise from the earth. 18 But the holy ones of the Most High[f] will receive the kingdom and possess the kingdom forever, forever and ever.'

19 "Then I wanted to learn the truth about the fourth beast, which differed from all the rest and was terrifying, with iron teeth and bronze claws, and which ate and crushed and stamped on whatever remained with its feet, 20 and about the ten horns on its head, and the other horn that grew up and made three fall—the horn that had eyes and a mouth that spoke boastfully, and that looked bigger than the rest. 21 As I looked, this horn was waging war against the holy ones and prevailing over them, 22 until the Ancient of Days arrived, and a verdict was given in favor of the holy ones of the Most High, and the moment came when the holy ones took over the kingdom.

23 "He spoke thus:
'As for the fourth beast, there will be a fourth kingdom on earth,
unlike every other kingdom;
it will devour the whole earth,
tread it down and break it in pieces.
24 The ten horns:
from this kingdom ten kings will rise,
and after them yet another will rise.
He will differ from those before him,
and three kings he will humble.

25 He will say hostile words against the Most High and wear out the holy ones who belong to the Most High;
he will intend to change the seasons and the law,
and for a time, times and half a time
the holy ones will be under his control.[g] 26 Then the court will sit,
and his dominion will be removed,
to be consumed and brought to ruin forever.
27 Then the kingdom, the authority and the greatness of all the kingdoms under heaven will be given to the people who are the holy ones of the Most High.
Their kingdom is an eternal kingdom,
and every ruler will serve and obey them.'[h]
28 "Here the account ends. As for me, Daniel, my thoughts troubled me greatly and my face grew pale, but I kept the matter to myself."[i]

Notes

- a (7:1) About 553 BC, if Belshazzar's regency is counted from Nabonidus's departure for Teima. Chapters 7–12 are visions told in the first person, arranged by date; chapter 7 is earlier than chapters 5–6.
- b (7:2) In the Bible the sea often stands for the forces of chaos opposed to God (compare Isaiah 27:1; Job 26:12; Revelation 13:1).
- c (7:9) Aramaic ʿattiq yomin, "one advanced in days," that is, an aged one, a picture of God as eternal judge.
- d (7:13) Aramaic kebar ʾenash, "one like a human being." In contrast to the beasts from the sea, a humanlike figure comes with the clouds of heaven, which elsewhere in the Bible accompany God himself. In verses 18, 22, and 27 the kingdom is given to "the holy ones of the Most High," and many interpreters take the figure as representing them; others identify him as a heavenly being, perhaps the angel Michael (compare 10:13, 21; 12:1). Later Jewish texts (1 Enoch, 4 Ezra) and the Gospels understand him as an individual, messianic figure, and Jesus uses "the Son of Man" of himself with direct reference to this verse (Mark 13:26; 14:62).
- e (7:15) Aramaic "in the midst of its sheath," that is, within my body.
- f (7:18) The holy ones are probably God's faithful people (compare verse 27, "the people of the holy ones of the Most High"), though some take them as angels. The Aramaic word for "Most High" here and in verses 22, 25, and 27 is plural in form (ʿelyonin), a plural of majesty.
- g (7:25) That is, probably three and a half years (compare 9:27; 12:7; Revelation 12:14). Many interpreters see a reference to the persecution of the Jews by Anti-ochus IV Epiphanes, who in 167 BC banned the observance of the Sabbath and festivals and the keeping of the law (1 Maccabees 1:41–64).

- h (7:27) Or "Their kingdom … serve and obey them," referring to the people. The Aramaic pronoun is singular and can refer either to the people or to the Most High.
- i (7:28) This is the end of the Aramaic section that began at 2:4b. From 8:1 the book is again written in Hebrew.

Chapter 8

1 In the third year of King Belshazzar's reign, I, Daniel,[a] saw a vision, following the one I had seen earlier. 2 I looked in the vision, and as I looked I was at Susa the citadel, in the province of Elam; and in the vision I was by the Ulai Canal.[b] 3 Lifting up my eyes, I saw a ram standing before the canal. It had two horns, both of them high, but one higher than the other, and the higher one came up last. 4 I watched the ram charging westward, northward, and southward. No beast could stand against it, nor could anyone deliver from its hand.
It did whatever it wished and grew great.
5 While I was thinking about this, a male goat came from the west, covering the whole earth without its feet touching the ground.
Between its eyes the goat had a prominent horn. 6 It approached the ram with two horns that I had seen standing beside the canal, and charged at it with all its furious power. 7 I saw it reach the ram; it was enraged against it, struck the ram, and broke its two horns, and the ram had no strength to stand before it. It threw the ram down to the ground and trampled on it, and there was no one to rescue the ram from its power. 8 The male goat became enormously powerful.
But when it was at its strongest, the large horn snapped off, and four prominent horns grew in its place, pointing toward the four winds of the sky.
9 Out of one of them came forth a single horn, a small one,[c] which grew exceedingly great toward the south, toward the east, and toward the Beautiful Land. 10 It grew great, even to heaven's host, and cast down to earth some of the host and some of the stars, and trampled them. 11 It even made itself as great as the Prince of the host; from him the regular burnt offering[d] was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was overthrown. 12 Because of transgression a host was given over to it together with the regular burnt offering,[e] and it cast truth to the ground; it acted and prospered. 13 Then I heard a certain holy one speak, and another holy one asked the one speaking, "How long is the vision about the regular burnt offering, and the desolating transgression,[f] and the trampling of sanctuary and host that has been permitted?" 14 He said to me,[g] "For two thousand three hundred evenings and mornings; then the sanctuary will be restored to its right state."

15 When I, Daniel, had seen the vision, I sought to understand it; and there before me stood one who looked like a man. 16 And I heard a human voice between the banks of the Ulai, which called out, "Gabriel,[h] make this man understand the vision." 17 He came beside the place where I was standing, and at his coming I was terrified and fell on my face. He said to me, "Understand, son of man,[i] that the vision belongs to the time of the end." 18 While he was speaking with me, I fell into a deep sleep with my face to the ground; but he touched me and set me on my feet. 19 He said, "I am going to make known to you what will happen in the latter part of the wrath, for it concerns the appointed time of the end. 20 The two-horned ram that you saw stands for the kings of Media and Persia. 21 The hairy goat is the king of Greece,[j] and the large horn between its eyes is the first king. 22 As for the horn that was broken, in whose place four arose, four kingdoms will arise from his nation, but not with his power. 23 Near the end of their rule, when the rebels have done their worst, a king will appear, hard-faced[k] and skilled in trickery. 24 His power will be mighty, but not by his own power.[l] He will cause astounding destruction and will succeed in what he does. He will destroy mighty men and the people of the holy ones. 25 Through his cleverness he will make deception succeed under his control, and in his mind he will think himself great. He will destroy many people who feel secure, and he will even challenge the Prince of princes; yet he will be shattered, though not by human power. 26 The vision of the evenings and the mornings that was told is true. But you are to seal up the vision, for it concerns days far off."

27 I, Daniel, was exhausted and was ill for several days. Afterward I got up and attended to the king's affairs; yet I was dismayed at the vision, and no one could make it plain.[m]

Notes

- a (8:1) From here to the end of the book the text is in Hebrew. The Qumran manuscripts 4QDan-a and 4QDan-b, as reported, preserve this change from Aramaic back to Hebrew.
- b (8:2) Or "the Ulai Gate." Susa was the Persian royal winter capital (compare Nehemiah 1:1; Esther 1:2). The Ulai was a watercourse near the city.
- c (8:9) The little horn is generally identified as Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 BC), of the Seleucid dynasty, one of the four kingdoms into which Alexander's empire was divided. "The Beautiful Land" is Israel (compare 11:16, 41; Jeremiah 3:19).
- d (8:11) Hebrew hattamid, "the continual (offering)," the burnt offering presented every morning and evening (Exodus 29:38–42); likewise in verses 12–13 and at 11:31; 12:11. Antiochus stopped the temple sacrifices in December 167 BC (1 Maccabees 1:45, 54).
- e (8:12) The Hebrew of this verse is very difficult, and the translation is uncertain.
- f (8:13) Hebrew happesha' shomem. Compare "the abomination that makes desolate" at 9:27; 11:31; 12:11, and the note at 9:27.
- g (8:14) Most Hebrew manuscripts read "to me"; the Old Greek, Theodotion, and the Syriac read "to him." The 2,300 evenings and mornings may mean 2,300 days or, counting the evening and morning sacrifices separately, 1,150 days, roughly the period from the stopping of the sacrifices to the rededication of the temple in December 164 BC.
- h (8:16) The name means "God is my mighty one" or "man of God." Gabriel and Michael (10:13) are the only angels named in the Old Testament.
- i (8:17) Hebrew ben-'adam, "human being," as in Ezekiel.
- j (8:21) Hebrew Yavan (Ionia), the usual Hebrew name for the Greeks. The first king is Alexander the Great (336–323 BC).
- k (8:23) Hebrew "strong of face," that is, insolent, shameless. "Skilled in intrigue" is literally "understanding riddles."
- l (8:24) The phrase "but not by his own power" may have been copied by mistake from verse 22.
- m (8:27) Or "and did not understand it."

Chapter 9

1 In the first year of Darius son of Ahasuerus,[a] a Mede by descent, who was made king over the realm of the Chaldeans— 2 in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, understood from the books the number of years that the word of Yahweh to the prophet Jeremiah said would have to pass before the desolation of Jerusalem ended: seventy years.[b] 3 Then I set my face toward the Lord God to seek him with prayer and supplications, fasting in sackcloth and ashes. 4 I prayed to Yahweh my God and confessed: "Lord, great and awe-inspiring God, you who keep your covenant and faithful love toward those who love you and obey your commands: 5 We have sinned; we have committed iniquity and done wickedly; we have rebelled and departed from your commands and your rulings. 6 We have not listened to your servants the prophets, who spoke in your name to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land. 7 You, Lord, are in the right, but we are covered with shame,[c] as we are today—the people of Judah, the residents of Jerusalem, and all Israel, both nearby and far away, in every country where you scattered them because of their unfaithfulness to you. 8 Yahweh, open shame belongs to us, to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, because we have sinned against you. 9 To the Lord our God belong compassion and forgiveness, for we rebelled against him 10 and did not obey the voice of Yahweh our God by following the laws he gave us through his servants the prophets. 11 All Israel has transgressed your law and turned aside, refusing to listen to your voice. So the curse and the oath written in the law of Moses the servant of God have been poured out on us,[d] because we have sinned against him. 12 He has carried out his words that he spoke against us and against our rulers who ruled us,[e] by bringing on us a great calamity; for under the whole heaven nothing has been done like what has been done against Jerusalem. 13 Just as it stands written in the law of Moses, all this disaster has come upon us; still we have not sought the favor of Yahweh our God, turning from our iniquities and paying heed to your truth. 14 Therefore Yahweh kept watch over the calamity and brought it upon us, for Yahweh our God is righteous in all the works he has done, and we have not listened to his voice. 15 And now, Lord our God, you brought your people out of Egypt with a strong hand and made yourself famous, as you are today: but we have sinned and done evil. 16 Lord, in line with all your acts of justice, turn your anger and fury away from Jerusalem, your city and your holy mountain; for because of our sins and the wrongdoing of our ancestors, all our neighbors scorn Jerusalem and your people. 17 So now, our God, listen to your servant's prayer and his requests for mercy, and for the sake of the Lord[f] let your face shine on your devastated sanctuary. 18 Incline your ear, my God, and hear; open your eyes and look upon our desolations and upon the city that bears your name. It is not on the ground of our righteous deeds that we lay our supplications before you, but on the ground of your abundant mercies. 19 Lord, listen! Lord, pardon! Lord, pay attention and act! Do not wait, for your own sake, my God, because your city and your people carry your name."

20 While I was still speaking and praying, confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my plea before Yahweh my God on behalf of the holy mountain of my God— 21 yes, while I was still speaking in prayer, Gabriel—the man I had seen in the earlier vision —came close to me in swift flight[g] around the hour of the evening offering. 22 He gave me understanding and said to me, "Daniel, I have come out now to give you wisdom and understanding. 23 At the beginning of your pleas a word went out, and I have come to tell it, for you are greatly treasured.[h] So consider the word and understand the vision:

24 "Seventy weeks[i] have been determined for your people and your holy city:

to end rebellion,
to finish with sin,[j]
to make atonement for wrongdoing,
to bring in eternal righteousness,
to seal up vision and prophecy,
and to anoint the most holy place.[k]

25 Know and understand: from the going out of the word to restore and rebuild Jerusalem until an anointed one, a prince,[l] there will be seven weeks; and for sixty-two weeks it will be rebuilt, with plaza and moat, but in a time of distress.

26 After the sixty-two weeks an anointed one will be cut off, with nothing left to him.[m] The people of the coming prince will destroy the city and the sanctuary. The end will come like a flood, and war will continue until the end; devastations have been determined.

27 He will confirm a covenant with many for one week; in the middle of the week he will stop sacrifice and grain offering. On a wing of abominations will come one who devastates,[n] until the determined end is poured out on the one who devastates."

Notes

- a (9:1) Hebrew ʾAḥashwerosh, the name elsewhere used of Xerxes (Esther 1:1). On Darius the Mede see the note at 5:31.
- b (9:2) See Jeremiah 25:11–12; 29:10; compare 2 Chronicles 36:21.
- c (9:7) Hebrew "shame of face"; likewise in verse 8.
- d (9:11) See Leviticus 26:14–39; Deuteronomy 28:15–68.
- e (9:12) Hebrew "our judges who judged us."
- f (9:17) Theodotion reads "for your sake, Lord."
- g (9:21) Or "when I was utterly weary"; the Hebrew is uncertain. The evening offering was made in the late afternoon (compare Exodus 29:39–41; Ezra 9:4–5).
- h (9:23) Hebrew ḥamudot, "precious things, a treasure"; likewise at 10:11, 19.
- i (9:24) Hebrew shavuʿim shivʿim, "seventy sevens," that is, seventy periods of seven, generally understood as weeks of years, 490 years in all, an expansion of Jeremiah's seventy years (verse 2; compare Leviticus 25:8; 26:18). The interpretation of verses 24–27 is among the most debated in the Bible. Many modern interpreters take the final week to be the period of the persecution under Antiochus IV (171–164 BC); traditional Christian interpretation has generally related the anointed one and the final week to Christ, and traditional Jewish interpretation to the destruction of the second temple in AD 70. The schemes differ in their starting points and in how literally they take the numbers.
- j (9:24) So the written text (Kethiv), "to seal up sin"; the reading tradition (Qere) has "to bring sin to an end."
- k (9:24) Or "a most holy one." The phrase qodesh qodashim, "holy of holies," is used elsewhere of the sanctuary, its altar, or its holy things, never clearly of a person.
- l (9:25) Or "the Anointed One, the Prince" or "Messiah the Prince" (so the KJV). Hebrew mashiaḥ, "anointed," is used of kings, priests, and once of Cyrus (Isaiah 45:1); there is no article. The Masoretic punctuation separates the "seven weeks" from the "sixty-two weeks," as here; Theodotion and the KJV join them ("seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks"). Candidates for the anointed one of this verse include Zerubbabel, the high priest Joshua, and Cyrus (compare Ezra 1:1–4; 3:2), and, on the other punctuation, Christ.
- m (9:26) Or "and there will be no one for him." Many see here the murder of the high priest Onias III in 171 BC (compare 11:22; 2 Maccabees 4:33–38); traditional Christian interpretation sees the death of Christ.

- n (9:27) Hebrew shiqquṣim meshomem; compare 11:31 (“the abomination that makes desolate”) and 12:11. The phrase is probably a deliberate distortion of a title of the god Baal Shamem, “Lord of heaven,” the Syrian equivalent of Olympian Zeus, to whom Antiochus IV dedicated the Jerusalem temple and set up an altar or image on the altar of burnt offering in December 167 BC (1 Maccabees 1:54, “a desolating sacrilege”; 2 Maccabees 6:2). Jesus speaks of “the abomination of desolation” as a sign of the future (Matthew 24:15; Mark 13:14), and many Christian interpreters have referred this verse to the Roman destruction of the temple in AD 70 or to events still to come. “The wing” may mean a wing or pinnacle of the temple.

Chapter 10

1 In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia[a] a word was revealed to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar. True was the word, and it concerned a great conflict.[b] He grasped the word, and understanding of the vision was given him.
2 In those days I, Daniel, was mourning for three whole weeks. 3 I ate no delicacies; no meat or wine entered my mouth, and I did not anoint myself at all until the three weeks were over. 4 On the twenty-fourth day of the first month (in March–April),[c] as I was on the bank of the great river, the Tigris,[d] 5 I raised my eyes and looked, and behold, a man dressed in linen, his waist girded with gold of Uphaz.[e] 6 His body was like chrysolite,[f] his face had the appearance of lightning, his eyes were like torches of fire, his arms and feet gleamed like polished bronze, and his words sounded like the noise of a crowd. 7 I, Daniel, alone saw the vision; the men who were with me did not see it, but a great trembling fell on them, and they fled to hide themselves. 8 So I was left alone and saw this great vision. No strength remained in me; my vigor was turned to pallor,[g] and I kept no strength. 9 Yet I heard the sound of his words; and on hearing them I sank into a deep sleep upon my face, my face toward the ground.
10 Then a hand touched me and set me trembling on my knees and the palms of my hands. 11 He said to me, “Daniel, you are highly esteemed;
understand the words I am about to tell you, and stand up straight, because I have now been sent to you.” When he had said this, I rose to my feet, shaking. 12 He said to me, “Do not fear, Daniel, for from the first day that you set your heart to understand and to humble yourself before your God, your words were heard, and I have come because of your words. 13 The prince of the kingdom of Persia[h] withstood me twenty-one days, but Michael,[i] one of the chief princes, came to help me, and I left him there with the kings of Persia.[j] 14 I have come to make you understand what will happen to your people in the latter days, for there is yet a vision for those days."

15 While he was speaking these words with me, I turned my face toward the ground and was speechless. 16 Then one in the likeness of the sons of men touched my lips, and I opened my mouth and spoke. I said to the one standing before me, "My lord, because of the vision pains have come upon me,[k] and I have kept no strength. 17 How can my lord's servant, such as I am, talk with my lord? As for me, no strength remains in me now, and no breath is left in me."

18 Again one who looked like a man touched me, and he gave me strength. 19 He said, "Do not fear, man greatly treasured. Peace be with you; be strong, be strong!" As he spoke with me I was strengthened, and I said, "Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me." 20 Then he said, "Do you know why I have come to you? Now I will return to fight against the prince of Persia; and when I go out, behold, the prince of Greece will come. 21 Yet I will declare to you what is written in the book of truth. Not one stands firm beside me against these but Michael, your prince.

Notes

- a (10:1) That is, 536 BC.
- b (10:1) Or "and of great hardship"; Hebrew tsava' gadol, "a great host" or "a hard service."
- c (10:4) Hebrew "the first month," Nisan. The fast of verses 2–3 would have included Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread (the 14th to the 21st of the month).
- d (10:4) Hebrew Ḥiddeqel. The Syriac reads "the Euphrates," which is usually called "the great river" (Genesis 15:18).
- e (10:5) An unknown place; perhaps a corruption of Ophir (compare Jeremiah 10:9).
- f (10:6) Hebrew tarshish, a precious stone of uncertain identity, perhaps yellow jasper or topaz.
- g (10:8) Hebrew "my splendor was changed upon me to ruin."
- h (10:13) A heavenly being who represents and champions Persia, as Michael does Israel (verse 21; 12:1); compare Deuteronomy 32:8 in the Septuagint and Qumran readings ("according to the number of the sons of God").
- i (10:13) The name means "Who is like God?"

- j (10:13) So the Hebrew; the Old Greek and Theodotion read "I left him there with the prince of the kingdom of Persia."
- k (10:16) Hebrew "my pangs are turned upon me," the word used of a woman's labor pains.

Chapter 11

1 "And as for me, in the first year of Darius the Mede, I stood up to confirm and strengthen him.[a] 2 Now I will declare the truth to you.
Three more kings will arise in Persia, and a fourth will be far richer than all of them. When he has grown strong through his riches, he will stir up everyone against the kingdom of Greece.[b] 3 Then a warrior king will stand up and hold sway over a vast dominion, doing whatever he wishes.[c] 4 But as soon as he has arisen, his kingdom will be broken and parceled out toward the four winds of heaven, but not to his descendants, nor with the dominion that he wielded; for his kingdom will be uprooted and go to others besides these.
5 "Then the king of the south will grow strong, but one of his commanders will grow stronger than he and will rule a dominion greater than his.[d] 6 Some years later they will make a pact: the daughter of the king of the south will go to the king of the north to establish an agreement. But she will not keep her power, and neither he nor his power will last; she will be handed over, along with her escorts, her child[e] and the one who backed her in those days. 7 But a branch from her family line will rise to take his place.[f] He will attack the army and enter the stronghold of the king of the north, and he will fight them and win. 8 He will even seize their gods, along with their cast idols and their valuable articles of silver and gold, and take them off as plunder to Egypt; and for some years he will stay away from the king of the north. 9 Then the king of the north will attack the kingdom of the king of the south, but will return to his own country.
10 "His sons will wage war and gather a multitude of great forces, which will keep coming on and overflow like a flood and pass through, and again carry the war as far as his fortress.[g] 11 Then the king of the south, moved with rage, will go out and fight against him, the king of the north, who will raise a great multitude; but the multitude will be given into the hand of his enemy.[h] 12 When the multitude is carried off, his heart will be exalted; he will bring down tens of thousands, but he will not prevail. 13 For the king of the north will raise another army, larger than the first, and after some years[i] he will march out with a huge force and plenty of equipment. 14 In those times many will rise up against the king of the south, and the violent men among your own people will lift themselves up to fulfill the vision, but they will stumble. 15 Then the king of the north will come and throw up siege mounds and capture a well-fortified city.

The forces of the south will not stand, nor even his choice troops;
there will be no strength to stand.[j] 16 But he who comes against him will do as he wills, and no one will stand before him. He will take his stand in the Beautiful Land, with destruction in his hand. 17 He will set his face to come with the strength of his whole kingdom, and he will make an agreement with him and give him a daughter in marriage[k] to destroy the kingdom;[l] but it will not stand or serve his purpose. 18
After that he will turn his attention to the coastlands and take many of them. But a commander will stop his insolence; yes, he will repay him for his insolence.[m] 19 Then he will turn his face back toward the fortresses of his own land, but he will stumble and fall and be found no more. 20 Then there will arise in his place one who will send out an exactor of tribute through the glory of the kingdom;[n] but within a few days he will be broken, neither in anger nor in battle.
21 "A despicable person[o] will take his place, someone who was never given the honor of royalty. He will arrive when no one expects it and take over the kingdom through trickery. 22 Armies will be utterly swept away before him like a flood and broken, and the prince of the covenant[p] as well. 23 From the time an alliance is made with him he will practice deceit; he will go up and become strong with only a few people. 24 Stealthily he will invade the richest places of the province and do what none of his fathers or his fathers' fathers ever did, distributing among them plunder, spoil, and goods. Against fortresses he will devise his schemes, but only for a time. 25 He will stir up his power and his heart against the king of the south with a great army.
The king of the south will wage war with an exceedingly great and mighty army, but he will not stand, for they will devise plans against him.[q] 26 Those who eat his rich food will break him; his army will be swept away, and many will fall slain. 27 As for the two kings, their hearts will be set on evil; at one table they will speak lies. But it will not succeed, for the end is yet to be at the appointed time. 28 Then he will go back to his land laden with riches, his heart opposed to the holy covenant. He will work his will and return to his own land.[r] 29 "At the appointed time he will come back into the south, but this time it will not be as it was before. 30 Ships from Kittim[s] will oppose him, and he will lose courage and turn back. He will be furious at the holy covenant and act against it; he will return and show favor to those who abandon the holy covenant. 31 His armed forces will rise up and defile the sanctuary fortress. They will remove the daily burnt offering and set up the abomination that causes devastation.[t] 32 Those who act wickedly against the covenant he will corrupt with smooth words, but the people who know their God will stand firm and take action. 33 The wise among the people[u] will give understanding to many, though for some days they will fall by sword and flame, by captivity and plunder. 34 As they fall, a little help will come to them,[v] and many will attach themselves to them with flattery. 35 Some of the wise will fall, so that refining, purifying, and cleansing may be done among them until the time of the end, for it is still to come at the appointed time.

36 "The king will do whatever he pleases. He will lift himself up and make himself greater than any god, and he will say astonishing things against the God of gods. He will do well until the time of wrath ends, because what has been decided will take place. 37 He will ignore the gods of his ancestors and the one women desire,[w] and he will ignore every other god, because he will make himself greater than all of them. 38 Instead, he will honor the god of fortresses—a god his fathers did not know he will honor with gold and silver, with precious stones and costly things.[x] 39 He will attack the most heavily defended strongholds with the aid of a foreign god. He will shower honor on those who recognize him, put them in authority over many, and distribute land in return for payment.

40 “At the time of the end the king of the south will clash with him, and the king of the north will storm against him with chariots and horsemen and many ships. He will enter countries and overflow and pass through.[y] 41 He will enter the Beautiful Land, and many[z] will stumble; but these will be rescued from his hand: Edom, Moab, and the chief part of the Ammonites. 42 He will stretch out his hand against countries, and the land of Egypt will not escape. 43 He will gain control of the treasures of gold and silver and of all the precious things of Egypt, and the Libyans and Cushites[aa] will follow in his train. 44 But news from the east and the north will terrify him, and in a great rage he will set out to destroy and to devote many to destruction. 45 He will pitch his royal tents between the sea and the beautiful holy mountain.
Yet his end will come, and no one will help him.

Notes

- a (11:1) The Hebrew is abrupt; “him” is probably Michael (10:21). The Old Greek and Theodotion read “in the first year of Cyrus.” Chapter 11 surveys, in the form of prophecy and without naming names, the history of the Persian kings, Alexander the Great, and the wars between the Ptolemies of Egypt (“the king of the south”) and the Seleucids of Syria (“the king of the north”), culminating in Antiochus IV Epiphanes (verses 21–45). The identifications given in these notes are those commonly proposed.
- b (11:2) The fourth king is probably Xerxes I (486–465 BC), who invaded Greece in 480 BC.
- c (11:3) Alexander the Great.
- d (11:5) Ptolemy I of Egypt and his former general Seleucus I, founder of the Seleucid kingdom.
- e (11:6) So the ancient versions; the Hebrew reads “the one who fathered her.” Berenice, daughter of Ptolemy II, married Antiochus II (about 252 BC); she, her son, and her attendants were murdered after his death.
- f (11:7) Ptolemy III, Berenice’s brother, who invaded the Seleucid kingdom in 246 BC.
- g (11:10) The sons of Seleucus II: Seleucus III and Antiochus III “the Great.”
- h (11:11) The battle of Raphia (217 BC), where Ptolemy IV defeated Antiochus III.
- i (11:13) Hebrew “at the end of the times, years.”
- j (11:15) Probably the capture of Sidon by Antiochus III in about 199 BC.
- k (11:17) Hebrew “the daughter of women.” Antiochus III gave his daughter Cleopatra I in marriage to Ptolemy V in 194/193 BC.
- l (11:17) Or “to destroy him”; the Hebrew is literally “to destroy her.”

- m (11:18) The Roman consul Lucius Scipio defeated Antiochus III at Magnesia in 190 BC. The Hebrew of the last clause is difficult.
- n (11:20) Seleucus IV (187–175 BC), whose minister Heliodorus tried to seize the temple treasury (2 Maccabees 3); "the glory of the kingdom" is probably Jerusalem or its temple.
- o (11:21) Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 BC), who took the throne in place of the legitimate heir, his nephew Demetrius.
- p (11:22) Probably the high priest Onias III, deposed in 175 BC and murdered in 171 BC (compare 9:26).
- q (11:25) Antiochus IV's first invasion of Egypt (170–169 BC) against Ptolemy VI.
- r (11:28) In 169 BC Antiochus plundered the temple in Jerusalem (1 Maccabees 1:20–24).
- s (11:30) Kittim originally meant Cyprus, then the western lands generally; here the Romans, whose envoy Popillius Laenas forced Antiochus to leave Egypt in 168 BC. The Old Greek reads "Romans."
- t (11:31) Hebrew hashshiqquṣ meshomem. See the note at 9:27, and compare 8:13; 12:11; 1 Maccabees 1:54; Matthew 24:15; Mark 13:14.
- u (11:33) Hebrew maskilim, "those who have insight" or "who make others wise"; likewise in verse 35 and at 12:3, 10.
- v (11:34) Often taken as a reference to the Maccabean revolt, which began in 167 BC.
- w (11:37) Probably the god Tammuz-Adonis (compare Ezekiel 8:14).
- x (11:38) Probably Olympian Zeus, whose cult Antiochus promoted, or Jupiter Capitolinus of Rome.
- y (11:40) Verses 40–45 do not correspond to any known events of Antiochus's last years; he died in Persia in 164 BC, not between the sea and Jerusalem (verse 45). Many scholars therefore think that the author's historical survey ends at verse 39 and that what follows is genuine prediction; others apply these verses to a figure of the last days.
- z (11:41) Or, with a slight change of vowels, "tens of thousands."
- aa (11:43) That is, the people of the upper Nile region (ancient Nubia).

Chapter 12

[1] "At that time Michael will arise,
the great prince who stands guard over your people.
There will be a time of distress
such as has not been since there was a nation
until that time.
But at that time your people will be delivered,
everyone who is found written in the book.

2 And many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth will awake,
some to everlasting life,
and some to disgrace and everlasting contempt.[a] 3 The wise will be radiant like the shining of the firmament,[b] and those who bring many to righteousness will be as the stars, forever and ever.
4 But you, Daniel, keep the words secret and seal the book until the time of the end. Many will run to and fro, and knowledge will increase."[c]
5 Then I, Daniel, looked, and two more figures were standing there, one on this side of the river and the other on the opposite side. 6 One of them asked the man dressed in linen, who was above the water of the river, "How long will it be before these amazing events end?" 7 I heard the man dressed in linen, who was above the water of the river, raise both his right and left hands to heaven and swear by the one who lives forever that it would be a time, times and half a time;[d] and when the breaking of the holy people's power is complete, all these things will be finished. 8 I heard, but I did not understand. So I said, "My lord, what will be the outcome of these things?" 9 He said, "Go your way, Daniel, for the words are kept secret and sealed until the time of the end. 10 Many will purify themselves, make themselves white, and be refined, but the wicked will act wickedly. None of the wicked will understand, but the wise will understand. 11 From the time the daily burnt offering is stopped and the abomination that causes devastation[e] is set up, there will be 1,290 days. 12 Blessed is the one who waits and reaches 1,335 days. 13 But you, go your way until the end. You will rest, and you will rise to your allotted place at the end of the days."[f]

Notes

- a (12:2) This is the clearest statement in the Old Testament of a resurrection of the dead to judgment (compare Isaiah 26:19). Hebrew dera'on, "contempt, abhorrence," occurs elsewhere only in Isaiah 66:24.
- b (12:3) Hebrew raqia', the "expanse" or "firmament" of Genesis 1:6–8.
- c (12:4) The Old Greek reads "until many go mad and the earth is filled with wrongdoing."

- d (12:7) See the note at 7:25.
- e (12:11) See the notes at 9:27 and 11:31. The figures of 1,290 days here and 1,335 days in verse 12 both slightly exceed three and a half years (compare 7:25; 8:14); they may be successive recalculations of the expected end.
- f (12:13) Here the Hebrew-Aramaic book of Daniel ends. The Greek versions add the stories of Susanna (placed before chapter 1 in Theodotion) and of Bel and the Dragon (after chapter 12); see the note at 3:23 and the source note.

Hosea

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The word of Yahweh that came to Hosea[a] son of Beeri in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joash,[b] king of Israel.
2 When Yahweh first spoke through Hosea, he told him, "Go and marry a promiscuous woman, and have children who share her unfaithfulness,[c] because the land is guilty of terrible unfaithfulness in abandoning Yahweh." 3 So he went and took Gomer daughter of Diblaim, and she conceived and bore him a son. 4 Yahweh said to him,
"Name him Jezreel,[d] because a little while more and I will avenge the blood of Jezreel upon the house of Jehu, and I will bring the kingdom of the house of Israel to an end. 5 On that day I will break the bow of Israel in the Valley of Jezreel."
6 She conceived again and bore a daughter, and he said to him, "Call her name Lo-ruhamah,[e] for I will no longer show compassion to the house of Israel, that I should in any way forgive them. 7 But to the house of Judah I will show compassion, and I will save them by Yahweh their God; I will not save them by bow or sword or warfare, by horses or horsemen."
8 When she had weaned Lo-ruhamah, she conceived and bore a son.
9 And he said, "Call his name Lo-ammi,[f] for you are not my people,
and I am not your I AM."[g]
10 Yet the number of the children of Israel[h] shall be like sand by the sea, which no one can measure or count; and in the very place where they were told, "You are not my people," they shall be called, "Children of the living God."[i] 11 The people of Judah and the people of Israel will be united again; they will name one leader for themselves and go up out of the land, because Jezreel's day will be a mighty one.

Notes

- a (1:1) The name means “salvation” or “he has saved,” from the same root as Joshua and Isaiah.
- b (1:1) Hebrew Yo’ash, a variant spelling of Jehoash. Jeroboam II reigned about 786–746 BC; Hosea’s ministry began in his last years and continued after the fall of his dynasty (compare 1:4).
- c (1:2) Hebrew zenunim, “promiscuity, fornication,” used throughout Hosea as a figure for Israel’s worship of other gods (especially Baal) and for its political alliances. Whether Gomer was unfaithful before the marriage or only afterward (looking back from its outcome) is debated.
- d (1:4) The name means “God sows.” Jezreel was the town and valley where Jehu wiped out the house of Ahab (2 Kings 9–10). Jehu’s dynasty ended when his great-great-grandson Zechariah, son of Jeroboam II, was assassinated in about 746 BC (2 Kings 15:8–12). In 2:22–23 the name is turned to promise: God will “sow” Israel in the land.
- e (1:6) The name means “not pitied” or “shown no compassion.”
- f (1:9) The name means “not my people.”
- g (1:9) Hebrew lo’-’ehyeh lakem, “I am not ‘I AM’ to you,” echoing the divine name revealed in Exodus 3:14 (“I AM WHO I AM”). Most translations render “I am not your God,” following the sense.
- h (1:10) Verses 10–11 are 2:1–2 in the Hebrew text.
- i (1:10) Quoted in Romans 9:26.

Chapter 2

1 Say to your brothers, “Ammi,”[a] and to your sisters, “Ruhamah.”
2 “Contend with your mother, contend—for she is no wife of mine,
and I am no husband of hers—
and let her remove her harlotry from her face,
her adulteries from between her breasts,
3 lest I strip her bare and set her out as on the day of her birth,
make her like the wilderness,
leave her like a land of drought,
and let her die of thirst.
4 Upon her children also I will have no compassion,
because they are children of whoredom.
5 For their mother has been unfaithful;
the one who bore them has behaved shamefully.
She said, ‘I will chase after my lovers,

who supply my food and drink,
my wool and linen, my oil and my wine.'
6 Therefore I am going to hedge up her[b] way with thorns, and I will build a wall against her,
so that she cannot find her paths.
7 She will pursue her lovers but not overtake them;
she will search for them but not find them.
Then she will say, 'Let me go back to my first husband,
for it was better with me then than it is now.'
8 She never realized that I was the one who gave her grain, new wine, and oil,
and piled up silver for her,
and the gold they used for Baal.[c] 9 So I will repossess my grain at harvest and my new wine in its season;
I will rip away my wool and linen,
which were meant to hide her nakedness.
10 Now I will uncover her shame[d] in the sight of her lovers,
and no one will rescue her out of my hand.
11 I will make all her merriment cease,
her feasts, her new moons, and her Sabbaths,
every one of her appointed times.
12 I will devastate her vines and fig trees,
about which she said, 'These are my pay
from my lovers.'
I will turn them into a jungle,
and wild animals will eat them.
13 I will call her to account for the days of the Baals,
when she offered incense to them,
decked herself with her ring and her necklace,
and went after her lovers,
but forgot me," declares Yahweh.
14 "Therefore, look, I am going to allure her and lead her into the wilderness,
and speak to her heart.

15 From there I will give back her vineyards to her,
and make the Valley of Achor[e] a doorway of hope.
And there she shall respond as in the days of her youth,
as in the day when she came up out of the land of Egypt.
16 "On that day," announces Yahweh,
"you will address me as 'My husband,'
and you will no more say 'My Baal.'[f] 17 For I will remove the names of the Baals from her mouth, and they will be remembered by name no more.
18 On that day I will make a treaty for them with the wild animals, the birds of the sky,
and the crawling creatures.
I will shatter bow, sword, and warfare and remove them from the land,
and I will let everyone rest in safety.
19 I will take you as my bride for all time;
I will take you as my bride with righteousness and justice,
with faithful love and mercy.
20 I will betroth you to me in faithfulness,
and you will know Yahweh.
21 "On that day I will answer," declares Yahweh,
"I will answer the heavens,
and they will answer the earth;
22 the earth will answer the grain, the new wine, and the oil,
and they will answer Jezreel.[g] 23 I will sow her for myself in the land;
on Lo-ruhamah I will have mercy,
and to Lo-ammi I will say, 'You are my people';
and he shall say, 'My God.' "[h]

Notes

- a (2:1) That is, "my people" and "pitied." Verses 1–23 are 2:3–25 in the Hebrew text.
- b (2:6) Hebrew "your"; the Septuagint and Syriac read "her."
- c (2:8) Or "that they used for Baal." Baal was the Canaanite storm god, believed to give rain and fertility.
- d (2:10) Hebrew naḇluth, a rare word, perhaps "lewdness" or "genitals."

- e (2:15) The name means “trouble,” recalling the sin of Achan (Joshua 7:24–26).
- f (2:16) Hebrew ʾishi, “my man, my husband,” and baʿli, “my master, my husband,” a word identical with the name of the god Baal.
- g (2:22) Here the name keeps its meaning, “God sows.”
- h (2:23) Quoted in Romans 9:25 and echoed in 1 Peter 2:10.

Chapter 3

1 Yahweh said to me, “Go once more and love a woman, loved by a lover[a] and committing adultery, even as Yahweh loves the children of Israel, though they look to other gods and love raisin cakes.”[b] 2 So I bought her for myself for fifteen pieces of silver and about nine bushels of barley.[c] 3 I said to her, “For many days you will live with me as mine. You will not be a prostitute or belong to any other man, and I will be the same toward you.”[d] 4 For many days the children of Israel shall remain with no king and no prince, with no sacrifice and no pillar, with no ephod and no household gods.[e] 5 Afterward the people of Israel will return and seek Yahweh their God and David their king, and they will come trembling to Yahweh and to his goodness in the latter days.

Notes

- a (3:1) Or “loved by a husband” or “loves a companion.” Most take the woman to be Gomer; some think she is another woman.
- b (3:1) Probably offerings used in pagan worship (compare Jeremiah 7:18; 44:19).
- c (3:2) Hebrew “a homer of barley and a lethech of barley,” a homer and a half-homer (about 330 liters). The silver was probably fifteen shekels (about 6 ounces or 170 grams). The Septuagint has “a homer of barley and a skin of wine.”
- d (3:3) The Hebrew is terse; it may mean “so will I also be to you” or “and I too will not come to you.”
- e (3:4) Hebrew teraphim. The pillar (matsseḇah) was a standing stone used in worship; the ephod was a priestly garment used to seek oracles.

Chapter 4

1 Hear the word of Yahweh, children of Israel, for Yahweh has a dispute[a] with those who live in the land:
no truth is there, no steadfast love,
no knowledge of God in the land.

2 Swearing and deceiving, killing and theft and adultery—they burst all bounds,
and blood touches blood.
3 That is why the land mourns,
and all its residents are wasting away,
together with the creatures of the wild and the flying birds;
even the ocean's fish are vanishing.
4 Yet let no one bring a charge,
let no one rebuke;
for with you is my contention, O priest.[b] 5 By day you shall stumble,
and by night the prophet shall stumble beside you,
and I will make your mother perish.
6 My people perish for want of knowledge.
Since you have spurned knowledge,
I spurn you from serving me as priest;
since you forgot your God's instruction,
your sons I too will forget.
7 The more they increased, the more they sinned against me;
I will change their glory into disgrace.[c]
8 On my people's sin they feed,
and to their iniquity they lift up their appetite.
9 And it will be: like people, like priest.
I will punish them for their ways
and repay them for their deeds.
10 They will eat but never be full;
they will be promiscuous but never increase;
because they have deserted Yahweh
to give themselves to 11 to whoredom.
Wine and new wine take away the understanding.[d] 12 My people ask advice of their wooden thing,
and their rod answers them;
for a spirit of harlotry has misled them,
and they have played the harlot out from under their God.

13 On the tops of the mountains they sacrifice,
and on the hills they burn offerings,
under oak, poplar, and terebinth,
because their shade is good.
Therefore your daughters play the whore,
and your daughters-in-law commit adultery.
14 I will not punish your daughters for their harlotry,
or your daughters-in-law for their adulteries;
for the men themselves go off with harlots
and offer sacrifices with the shrine women;[e]
so a people that does not discern is thrown down.
15 Though you, Israel, play the harlot,
do not let Judah incur guilt.
Do not come to Gilgal;
do not go up to Beth-aven;[f]
do not swear, "As Yahweh lives."
16 For like a stubborn heifer,
Israel is stubborn;
can Yahweh now pasture them
like a lamb in a broad meadow?
17 Ephraim is joined to idols;
leave him alone.
18 When their drinking is over,[g] they give themselves to whoring;
her rulers dearly love shame.
19 A wind has bundled them[h] in its wings,
and their sacrifices will bring them shame.

Notes

- a (4:1) Hebrew rib, a legal dispute or lawsuit.
- b (4:4) The Hebrew is difficult; literally "and your people are like those who contend with a priest."
- c (4:7) An ancient scribal tradition (one of the "corrections of the scribes") says the original read "they exchanged my glory for disgrace."
- d (4:11) Hebrew "the heart," the seat of thought.
- e (4:14) Hebrew qedeshot, "consecrated women," probably women attached to a shrine; the exact nature of their role is debated.

- f (4:15) Beth-aven, “house of wickedness,” is a mocking name for Bethel, “house of God” (compare 5:8; 10:5; Amos 5:5).
- g (4:18) Or “Their liquor is gone” or “Their drink has turned sour.” The Hebrew of verse 18 is very uncertain.
- h (4:19) Hebrew “her.”

Chapter 5

1 Hear this, you priests!
Pay heed, house of Israel!
Give ear, house of the king!
For the judgment concerns you;
for you have been a snare at Mizpah,
and a net spread out upon Tabor.
2 Rebels have gone deep into slaughter,[a]
but I am a rebuke to them all.
3 I know Ephraim,[b]
and Israel is not hidden from me;
for now, Ephraim, you have played the harlot;
Israel is defiled.
4 Their actions will not let them
turn back to their God;
a spirit of prostitution lives inside them,
and they do not know Yahweh.
5 Israel’s arrogance testifies against him;
Israel and Ephraim will fall through their guilt;
Judah too will fall with them.
6 With their flocks and their herds they shall go to seek Yahweh, but they shall not find him;
he has withdrawn from them.
7 Toward Yahweh they have been treacherous,
for they have fathered children of strangers.
Now a new moon will eat them up, them and their portions.[c]
8 Blow the horn in Gibeah,
the trumpet in Ramah!
Raise the cry at Beth-aven:
“Behind you, Benjamin!”[d]

9 Ephraim will become a wasteland
on the day of punishment;
I announce to Israel's tribes
what is certain.
10 The princes of Judah have become like those who shift the boundary stone;
on them I will pour out my wrath like water.
11 Ephraim is crushed and oppressed, broken by judgment,
for he willingly walked after filth.[e] 12 So I am like a moth to Ephraim,
and like rot to the house of Judah.
13 When Ephraim noticed his illness,
and Judah his injury, Ephraim turned to Assyria
and appealed to the great king.[f]
But he cannot cure you
or heal your injury.
14 For I will be like a lion to Ephraim,
and like a young lion to the house of Judah.
I, even I, will tear and go away;
I will carry off, and none shall rescue.
15 I will return to my home
until they admit their guilt and look for me;
in their misery they will seek me eagerly.

Notes

- a (5:2) The Hebrew of this line is obscure; some, with a change of letters, read "they have made deep the pit of Shittim."
- b (5:3) Ephraim, the largest tribe of the north, is Hosea's usual name for the northern kingdom of Israel.
- c (5:7) Or "a month shall devour them with their portions." The meaning is uncertain.
- d (5:8) Verses 8–14 probably reflect the Syro-Ephraimite war of about 734–732 BC (2 Kings 16:5–9; Isaiah 7).
- e (5:11) Hebrew tsaw, of uncertain meaning; perhaps "a command" or a mocking word for idols. The Septuagint reads "vanities."
- f (5:13) Hebrew melek yareḇ, traditionally "King Jareb." With a different division of the letters, malki raḇ, it is the Assyrian royal title "the great king." Likewise at 10:6.

Chapter 6

1 “Come, let us go back to Yahweh;
he has ripped us apart, but he will heal us;
he has wounded us, but he will bandage us.
2 After two days he will revive us;
on the third day he will raise us up,[a]
that we may live before him.
3 Let us know, let us press on to know Yahweh;
his going out is as certain as the dawn;
he will come to us like the showers,
like the spring rain that waters the earth.”
4 Ephraim, what am I to do with you?
Judah, what am I to do with you?
Your loyalty is like mist at morning,
like dew that vanishes early.
5 Therefore I have hewn them by the prophets;
I have slain them by the words of my mouth,
and my judgment goes out like light.[b]
6 For I delight in steadfast love[c] and not sacrifice, in the knowledge of God rather than burnt offerings.
7 But they, like Adam,[d] broke the covenant;
there they betrayed me.
8 Gilead is a town of evildoers,
tracked with blood.
9 As robbers lie in wait for a man,
so a band of priests murders on the road to Shechem;
indeed they commit villainy.
10 In the house of Israel I have seen a horrible thing;
Ephraim’s harlotry is there; Israel is defiled.
11 For you also, Judah, a harvest is appointed,
when I restore the fortunes of my people.

Notes

- a (6:2) A poetic way of saying “very soon.” Early Christian writers saw here a foreshadowing of the resurrection of Christ on the third day (compare 1 Corinthians 15:4).

- b (6:5) So the Septuagint and Syriac, by a different division of the letters; the Hebrew reads “and your judgments are light that goes out.”
- c (6:6) Hebrew ḥeseḏ, loyal, covenant love. The Septuagint has “mercy”; Jesus quotes this verse in Matthew 9:13 and 12:7.
- d (6:7) Or “like mortals” or (with a change of one letter) “at Adam,” a town in the Jordan valley (Joshua 3:16), which would suit “there.”

Chapter 7

1 When I would bring healing to Israel,
then Ephraim’s guilt comes to light,
and Samaria’s wicked acts;
for they deal in falsehood;
thieves break in,
and raiders plunder in the streets.
2 Yet it never occurs to them
that I keep in mind all their evil.
Their own deeds now hem them in;
they stand right in front of me.
3 By their evil they cheer the king,
and by their lies, the officials.
4 They are all adulterers;
they are like an oven heated by the baker,
who ceases to stir the fire
from the kneading of the dough until it is leavened.
5 On the day of our king the princes made themselves sick with the heat of wine;
he stretched out his hand with scoffers.
6 For they draw near; their heart is like an oven in their ambush;
all night their anger[a] sleeps;
in the morning it blazes like a flaming fire.
7 Every one of them is hot like an oven;
they consume those who judge them.[b]
Their kings fall, one after another,
and not one among them calls to me.
8 Ephraim mixes himself among the peoples;
Ephraim is a flat cake not turned.

9 Strangers devour his strength,
and he does not know it;
gray hairs are sprinkled upon him,
and he does not know it.
10 The pride of Israel testifies to his face;
yet they do not return to Yahweh their God,
nor seek him for all this.
11 Ephraim has become like a dove,
gullible and senseless;
to Egypt they call, to Assyria they go.
12 Wherever they go I will cast my net upon them;
like birds of the sky I will pull them down;
I will chasten them as their congregation has heard.[c]
13 Woe to them, for they have wandered away from me!
Ruin upon them, for they have revolted against me!
I would ransom them,
yet they tell lies about me.
14 They do not call to me with their heart
when they howl on their beds;
for the sake of grain and wine they slash themselves;[d]
they turn their backs on me.
15 Though I trained and strengthened their arms,
yet against me they devise evil.
16 They turn, but not toward heaven;[e]
they are like a warped bow.
Their officials will die by the sword
for their insolent speech.
This will make them a laughingstock in Egypt.

Notes

- a (7:6) So the Syriac and Targum; the Hebrew reads "their baker."
- b (7:7) Hebrew "their judges." In the last years of the northern kingdom four of its six kings were assassinated (2 Kings 15).
- c (7:12) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- d (7:14) So some Hebrew manuscripts and the Septuagint; most manuscripts read "they gather themselves together." Gashing the body was a rite of Baal worship (1 Kings 18:28).

- e (7:16) Hebrew lo' 'al, "not up," obscure; perhaps "not to the Most High" or "to what does not profit."

Chapter 8

1 Set the horn to your mouth!
  Like a vulture[a] one comes upon Yahweh's house,
  since they have broken my covenant
  and defied my instruction.
2 To me they cry,
  "My God, we—Israel—know you."
3 Israel has spurned what is good;
  the enemy shall pursue him.
4 They have crowned kings, but not by my will;
  they have appointed princes, but without my knowledge.
  Of their silver and gold they have fashioned idols
  to their own cutting off.
5 Your calf is rejected, Samaria;[b]
  my anger burns against them.
  How long will they be incapable of innocence?
6 For this thing too is out of Israel;
  a workman fashioned it,
  and it is not God.
  Samaria's calf
  will be smashed to pieces.
7 For they sow the wind,
  and they shall reap the whirlwind.
  The standing grain has no head;
  it shall yield no flour;
  and if it should yield,
  strangers would devour it.
8 Israel is swallowed up;
  already they are among the nations
  like a vessel no one wants.

9 For they have gone to Assyria,
like a wild donkey off by itself;
Ephraim has paid for lovers.
10 Though they hire them among the nations,
now I will gather them up.
And they shall soon writhe
under the burden of the king of princes.[c] 11 Ephraim made many altars to take away sin, but they became altars for committing sin.
12 Though I write for him my laws by the ten thousand,
they are regarded as a strange thing.
13 As for my sacrificial gifts,
they sacrifice meat and eat it;
Yahweh does not accept them.
Now he will remember their iniquity
and punish their sins;
they shall return to Egypt.
14 For Israel has forgotten his Maker
and built palaces,
and Judah has multiplied fortified cities;
but I will send a fire upon his cities,
and it shall devour her strongholds.

Notes

- a (8:1) Or "eagle." "The house of Yahweh" here may mean the land or people of Israel.
- b (8:5) The golden calf set up by Jeroboam I at Bethel (1 Kings 12:28–30). The Hebrew may also be read as a command: "Reject your calf, Samaria."
- c (8:10) Probably the Assyrian king. The Septuagint reads "they shall cease for a little while from anointing a king and princes."

Chapter 9

1 Do not celebrate, Israel,
do not rejoice as other peoples do;
you have been faithless to your God.
You have loved a prostitute's fee
on every threshing floor where grain is beaten.

2 Threshing floor and winepress shall not feed them,
and the new wine shall fail her.
3 They will not stay on Yahweh's land;
Ephraim will go back to Egypt,
and eat what is unclean in Assyria.
4 They will pour out no wine for Yahweh,
and their sacrifices will not please him.
Their meals will resemble funeral food;
anyone who eats it will be defiled;
their bread will only satisfy their hunger;
it will not enter Yahweh's house.
5 What will you do on the solemn day,
the day of Yahweh's festival?
6 For look, they have gone, fleeing from ruin;
Egypt will gather them up,
Memphis[a] will bury them.
Their treasures of silver will be overrun by nettles;
brambles will grow in their tents.
7 The days of reckoning have come,
the days of payment are here;
let Israel know it!
"The prophet is a fool,
the man of the spirit is out of his mind!"—
so great is your iniquity,
so great your hostility.
8 Ephraim is a watchman with my God—the prophet;
yet a bird-catcher's trap lies on all his paths,
and enmity in the house of his God.
9 They have deeply corrupted themselves
as in the days of Gibeah;[b]
he will remember their iniquity;
he will punish their sins.
10 I found Israel
like grapes in the desert;
like the early fruit on a fig tree

at its first bearing
I looked on your ancestors.
But they went to Baal-peor[c]
and dedicated themselves to the Shameful Thing,
and they became as loathsome as the thing they loved.
11 Like a bird Ephraim's glory will fly off—
no childbirth, no womb, no conceiving!
12 Though they raise sons,
I will rob them of them until not one remains.
Woe to them indeed
when I turn away from them!
13 Ephraim, as I have seen, was like Tyre,[d] planted in a meadow;
but Ephraim must lead out his children to slaughter.
14 Give them, Yahweh—
what will you give?
Give them a miscarrying womb
and dry breasts.
15 All their evil is at Gilgal;[e]
there I came to hate them.
Because of the wickedness of their deeds
I will drive them out of my house.
I will love them no more;
all their princes are rebels.
16 Ephraim is stricken;
their root is dried up;
they shall bear no fruit.
Even though they give birth,
I will put to death their cherished offspring.
17 My God will cast them off,
for they have not obeyed him,
and among the nations they will be wanderers.

Notes

- a (9:6) Hebrew Moph, the ancient capital of Lower Egypt, near modern Cairo, famous for its necropolis.
- b (9:9) See Judges 19–21.

- c (9:10) See Numbers 25:1–5. “The Shameful Thing” (Hebrew bosheth) is a common substitute for the name Baal.
- d (9:13) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- e (9:15) Gilgal was a major sanctuary (4:15; 12:11; Amos 4:4) and the place where Saul was made king (1 Samuel 11:15).

Chapter 10

1 Israel is a rambling vine[a]
that puts forth fruit for itself.
As his fruit grew plentiful,
so he added altars;
as his land grew good,
so he made his pillars handsome.
2 Their heart is false;[b]
now they must bear their guilt.
He himself will break down their altars
and wreck their pillars.
3 For soon they will say,
“We have no king,
because we did not fear Yahweh;
and a king—what could he do for us?”
4 They speak mere words;
with empty oaths they cut covenants;
so judgment springs up like poisonous weeds
in the furrows of the field.
5 For the calf[c] of Beth-aven
the people of Samaria tremble.
Its people mourn over it,
and its idol-priests[d] writhe over it,
over its glory, because it has departed from them into exile.
6 The thing itself will be carried to Assyria
as tribute to the great king.[e] Ephraim will be put to shame,
and Israel will be disgraced for his counsel.
7 Samaria and her king are swept off[f]
like a chip on the face of the waters.

8 The high places of Aven,[g] the sin of Israel,
will be wiped out.
Thorn and thistle will climb over their altars,
and they will say to the mountains, “Cover us,”
and to the hills, “Fall on us.”[h] 9 Since the days of Gibeah you have sinned, Israel;
there they have stood fast.[i]
Will not war overtake them in Gibeah, against the children of injustice?
10 When I please, I will chasten them,
and peoples will be gathered against them
when they are bound for their double iniquity.[j] 11 Ephraim was a heifer well taught,
fond of threshing,
and I passed over her fair neck;[k]
but now I will harness Ephraim;
Judah shall drag the plow;
Jacob shall break the clods for himself.
12 Plant righteousness for yourselves;
harvest the fruit of faithful love;
plow your fallow ground,
for it is time to seek Yahweh,
until he comes
and showers righteousness on you.[l] 13 You have plowed wickedness;
you have reaped injustice;
you have eaten falsehood’s fruit.
Since you relied on your own way,[m]
on your multitude of warriors, 14 the din of war shall rise against your people,
and every fortress of yours shall be ruined,
as Shalman[n] ruined Beth-arbel in the day of battle,
when the mother was dashed to pieces upon her children.
15 So it shall be done to you, Bethel,
because of your utter wickedness.

At daybreak the king of Israel
will be cut off completely.

Notes

- a (10:1) Or "a luxuriant vine"; the Hebrew boqeq can also mean "empty" or "ravaged."
- b (10:2) Or "divided" or "slippery."
- c (10:5) So the Septuagint; the Hebrew has the feminine plural, "calves," perhaps in mockery.
- d (10:5) Hebrew kemarim, a word used only of priests of false gods (2 Kings 23:5; Zephaniah 1:4).
- e (10:6) See the note at 5:13.
- f (10:7) Or "Samaria's king is destroyed."
- g (10:8) That is, Beth-aven (Bethel); aven means "wickedness."
- h (10:8) Quoted in Luke 23:30 and echoed in Revelation 6:16.
- i (10:9) The Hebrew of this line is obscure.
- j (10:10) So a Hebrew reading (Qere); the written text (Kethiv) may mean "their two springs" or "their two eyes."
- k (10:11) Hebrew "I passed over the goodness of her neck." Threshing was light work, and the ox was free to eat while it worked (Deuteronomy 25:4).
- l (10:12) Or "teaches you righteousness"; the Hebrew verb yarah can mean both "to rain" and "to teach." The Septuagint reads "until the fruits of righteousness come to you."
- m (10:13) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "in your chariots."
- n (10:14) Perhaps Shalmaneser V of Assyria (727–722 BC) or Salamanu, a king of Moab mentioned in Assyrian records. Neither the event nor the location of Beth-arbel is otherwise known.

Chapter 11

1 When Israel was a youth, I loved him,
and from Egypt I summoned my son.[a] 2 The more they[b] called them,
the farther they went from them;[c]
they kept sacrificing to the Baals
and burning offerings to carved images.
3 But I myself taught Ephraim to walk,
lifting them in my[d] arms;
yet they never knew that it was I who healed them.
4 I drew them with human ties,
with bonds of love;

I was like someone who lifts the yoke from their necks,[e]
and I stooped down and fed them.
5 They will not[f] go back to Egypt;
Assyria will rule them,
because they refuse to come back to me.
6 The sword will whirl through their cities;
it will make an end of their gate bars[g]
and devour them because of their schemes.
7 My people are bent on turning from me;
though they call to the Most High,[h]
he will by no means raise them up.
8 How can I give you up, Ephraim?
How can I hand you over, Israel?
How can I make you like Admah?
How can I treat you like Zeboiim?[i]
My heart turns over within me;
all my compassion grows warm and tender.
9 I will not act on my burning anger;
I will not turn back to destroy Ephraim;
for I am God and not a man,
the Holy One in your midst,
and I will not come in wrath.[j] 10 They will walk after Yahweh;
he will roar like a lion;
when he roars,
his children will come trembling from the west.
11 Like birds they will come trembling out of Egypt,
and like doves from the land of Assyria;
and I will settle them in their homes, declares Yahweh.
12 Ephraim has surrounded me with lies,[k]
and the house of Israel with deceit;
but Judah still wanders with God,[l]
and is faithful to the Holy One.[m]

Notes

- a (11:1) Israel as God's son recalls Exodus 4:22–23. The Septuagint reads "I called his children." Matthew 2:15 quotes the line, following the Hebrew, of the return of the child Jesus from Egypt, seeing in Jesus the one who sums up and fulfills Israel's history.
- b (11:2) The Septuagint reads "I."
- c (11:2) The Septuagint reads "from me."
- d (11:3) So the Septuagint, Syriac, and Vulgate; the Hebrew reads "his."
- e (11:4) Or, with different vowels, "as those who lift an infant to their cheeks."
- f (11:5) Or, joining the word to verse 4, "to him. They will return…"
- g (11:6) Or "their boasters" or "their oracle-priests"; Hebrew baddim.
- h (11:7) Or "they are called to the yoke"; the Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- i (11:8) Two cities destroyed together with Sodom and Gomorrah (Deuteronomy 29:23).
- j (11:9) Or "I will not come into the city."
- k (11:12) Verse 12 is 12:1 in the Hebrew text.
- l (11:12) Or "roams unruly against God." The Hebrew verb is uncertain.
- m (11:12) Or "holy ones."

Chapter 12

1 Ephraim feeds on wind,[a]
and chases the scorching east wind all day;
he piles up lies and violence;
they sign a treaty with Assyria,
and olive oil is shipped to Egypt.
2 Yahweh has a dispute with Judah too;
he will punish Jacob for his conduct and pay him back for what he has done.
3 In the womb he grabbed his brother's heel,[b] and in his manhood he strove with God.
4 He strove with the angel and prevailed;
he wept and sought his favor.
At Bethel he found him,[c]
and there he spoke with us[d]— 5 Yahweh, the God of Armies,[e]
Yahweh is his name![f]
6 As for you, return to your God;
keep steadfast love and justice,
and wait on your God continually.

7 A trader, with false scales in his hand,
he loves to defraud.[g]
8 Ephraim boasts, "I have become rich;
I have acquired wealth for myself;
nothing they find in all my work will count as sin against me."
9 I am Yahweh your God
since the land of Egypt;
once more I will make you dwell in tents,
as in the days of the festival.[h]
10 I spoke through the prophets;
I gave vision upon vision,
and through the prophets I spoke in likenesses.
11 If Gilead is wickedness,
they are surely worthless;
in Gilgal they sacrifice bulls;
their altars also will be like stone heaps on the furrows of the field.[i] 12 Jacob fled to the open country of Aram;[j]
there Israel served for a wife,
and for a wife he kept sheep.
13 By a prophet Yahweh brought Israel up from Egypt,
and by a prophet he was kept.[k]
14 Ephraim has given bitter provocation;
therefore his Lord will let his blood remain upon him
and pay him back for his contempt.

Notes

- a (12:1) Verses 1–14 are 12:2–15 in the Hebrew text.
- b (12:3) The name Jacob sounds like the Hebrew word for "heel" (Genesis 25:26). For the struggle with God, see Genesis 32:22–32; the name Israel was explained as "he strives with God."
- c (12:4) Or "He found him at Bethel" (Genesis 28:10–22; 35:1–15).
- d (12:4) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint and Syriac read "with him."
- e (12:5) Hebrew YHWH ʾelohe hatstseḇaʾoth, traditionally "the LORD God of hosts," the God who commands the armies of heaven and of Israel.

- f (12:5) Hebrew zikro, “his memorial,” the name by which he is to be remembered (Exodus 3:15).
- g (12:7) Hebrew kenaʿan, “Canaan,” which also means “merchant.”
- h (12:9) Probably the Feast of Booths, when Israel lived in temporary shelters (Leviticus 23:42–43).
- i (12:11) There are wordplays in Hebrew between Gilead, Gilgal, and gallim, “heaps.”
- j (12:12) See Genesis 28:5; 29:1–30.
- k (12:13) That is, Moses (Deuteronomy 18:15; 34:10).

Chapter 13

1 Once when Ephraim spoke, men trembled;
he was lifted high in Israel;
but he became guilty through Baal, and he died.
2 Now they sin more and more;
they make themselves cast images,
idols from their silver according to their skill,
every one a craftsman’s product.
Of these they say,
“Men who sacrifice kiss calves!”[a]
3 Therefore they will be like the morning mist,
like dew that soon passes away,
like chaff swirled from the threshing floor,
like smoke from a window.[b] 4 But I am Yahweh your God
from the land of Egypt;
you know no God but me,
and besides me there is no savior.[c]
5 It was I who knew you[d] in the wilderness,
in the land of burning drought.
6 As they grazed, they were sated;
sated, their hearts grew proud;
and so they forgot me.
7 So to them I am become a lion;
I will watch by the way like a leopard.

8 Like a bear bereft of her young I will meet them and rip apart the covering of their heart;[e]
there like a lioness I will consume them;
the beast of the field shall tear them.
9 It is your destruction, Israel,
that you are against me, against your help.[f]
10 Where is your king now, to rescue you in every town?
Where are your rulers,[g]
the ones you asked for:
"Give me a king and officials"?
11 I keep giving you a king in my anger
and taking him away in my fury.
12 The iniquity of Ephraim is tied up in a bundle;
his sin is stored away.
13 Labor pains are coming upon him,
yet he is a son without wisdom,
for at the right time he does not come forth
to the place where children are born.
14 Shall I ransom them from the power of Sheol?[h]
Shall I redeem them from Death?
O Death, where are your plagues?
O Sheol, where is your sting?[i]
Compassion is hidden from my eyes.
15 Though he flourishes among his brothers,[j] an east wind will come,
the wind of Yahweh rising from the desert,
and his spring will dry up,
his fountain run dry;
it will plunder his treasury
of every precious thing.
16 Samaria will bear her guilt,[k]
because she has rebelled against her God;
they will fall by the sword;
their little ones will be dashed in pieces,
and their pregnant women ripped open.

Notes

- a (13:2) Or "They say to them, 'Sacrifice!' Men kiss calves." The Hebrew is uncertain; kissing an idol was an act of homage (1 Kings 19:18).
- b (13:3) That is, from an opening in the roof or wall through which smoke escaped.
- c (13:4) The Septuagint here adds a long passage on God as creator of heaven and earth.
- d (13:5) The Septuagint and Syriac read "who fed you," a difference of one letter.
- e (13:8) Hebrew "the enclosure of their heart."
- f (13:9) The Hebrew is uncertain. The Septuagint and Syriac read "I will destroy you, Israel; who will help you?"
- g (13:10) Hebrew "your judges." For the request, see 1 Samuel 8:5–6.
- h (13:14) The realm of the dead. The first two lines may also be read as statements: "I will ransom them … I will redeem them."
- i (13:14) Paul quotes these lines, following the Septuagint, in 1 Corinthians 15:55: "O death, where is your victory? O death, where is your sting?"
- j (13:15) There is a wordplay between yaphri', "flourishes," and the name Ephraim.
- k (13:16) Verse 16 is 14:1 in the Hebrew text. Samaria fell to the Assyrians in 722 BC (2 Kings 17:5–6).

Chapter 14

1 Return, Israel, to Yahweh your God,[a]
for your iniquity has made you stumble.
2 Bring words with you
as you return to Yahweh.
Say to him:
"Take every iniquity away,
receive us graciously,
and we will offer the fruit of our lips.[b] 3 Assyria will not save us;
we will not ride on horses;
and we will no more say 'Our God'
to the work of our hands.
In you the orphan finds mercy."
4 I will heal their faithlessness;
I will love them freely,
for my anger has turned away from them.

5 I will be like the dew to Israel;
he will blossom like the lily
and strike root like the trees of Lebanon.[c] 6 His shoots will spread;
his splendor will be like the olive,
and his fragrance like Lebanon.
7 Those who live in his shade will return;
they will grow grain[d]
and blossom like the vine;
their renown will be like the wine of Lebanon.
8 Ephraim, what have I to do with idols anymore?[e]
I answer him, I look after him.
I am like an evergreen cypress;
your fruit is found from me.
9 Who is wise? Let him grasp these things.
Who is discerning? Let him know them.
For straight are the ways of Yahweh;
the righteous walk in them,
but in them transgressors stumble.

Notes

- a (14:1) Verses 1–9 are 14:2–10 in the Hebrew text.
- b (14:2) So the Septuagint and Syriac; the Hebrew reads "we will pay bulls, our lips," meaning that praise will take the place of sacrifices (compare Hebrews 13:15).
- c (14:5) Hebrew "like Lebanon"; likewise in verses 6 and 7.
- d (14:7) Or "they will revive like grain."
- e (14:8) Or "Ephraim will say, 'What more have I to do with idols?' "

Joel

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The word of Yahweh that came to Joel[a] son of Pethuel.
2 Listen to this, you elders;
hear me, everyone in the land!
Has anything like it occurred in your lifetime,
or in your ancestors' time?
3 Recount it to your children,
and let your children recount it to theirs,
and their children to the generation after.
4 What the cutter left, the swarmer has eaten;
what the swarmer left, the hopper has eaten;
and what the hopper left, the stripper has eaten.[b] 5 Wake up, you drunkards, and weep;
wail, all you who drink wine,
over the sweet wine,
for it is snatched from your mouth.
6 For a nation has come up against my land, mighty and past counting;
its teeth are a lion's teeth,
and it has the fangs of a lioness.
7 It has turned my vine into a waste
and splintered my fig tree;
it has peeled it bare and thrown it down;
its branches are bleached white.
8 Mourn like a young bride[c] in sackcloth
weeping for the husband of her youth.
9 No grain gift or wine offering reaches the house of Yahweh.

The priests are in mourning,
Yahweh's servants.
10 The fields are ruined;
the ground mourns;
for the grain is destroyed,
the new wine dries up,
the oil fails.
11 Hang your heads, you tillers of the soil;
howl, you who tend the vines,
for wheat and for barley,
since the field's harvest is lost.
12 The vine has withered;
the fig tree droops;
pomegranate, palm, and apple,[d]
every tree of the field is dried up;
and gladness has withered away
from the children of mankind.
13 Gird on sackcloth and beat your breasts, you priests;
howl, you servants of the altar.
Come, lie all night in sackcloth,
you who serve my God!
For grain offering and drink offering are kept back from your God's house.
14 Declare a fast;
proclaim a sacred gathering.
Assemble the elders
and every resident of the land
at the house of Yahweh your God,
and call to Yahweh for help.
15 Alas for the day!
For the day of Yahweh is near,
and as destruction from the Almighty it comes.[e] 16 Is not the food cut off
before our very eyes,

joy and gladness
from the house of our God?
17 The seeds shrivel beneath the clods;[f]
the storehouses are desolate;
the granaries are torn down,
for the grain has dried up.
18 How the beasts groan!
The herds of cattle wander in confusion
because they have no pasture;
even the flocks of sheep are made to suffer.[g] 19 To you, Yahweh, I call,
for fire has consumed
the pastures of the wilderness,
and flame has scorched
all the trees of the field.
20 Even the wild beasts pant for you,
for the streams of water have dried up,
and fire has consumed
the pastures of the wilderness.

Notes

- a (1:1) The name means "Yahweh is God."
- b (1:4) Four Hebrew words for locusts (gazam, ʾarbeh, yeleq, ḥasil), perhaps different species or stages of growth, perhaps simply poetic synonyms; the renderings here follow their probable root meanings. Compare 2:25.
- c (1:8) Hebrew bethulah, often "virgin," here probably a young bride whose husband has died before or soon after the marriage.
- d (1:12) Hebrew tappuaḥ, perhaps the apricot or quince.
- e (1:15) There is a wordplay in Hebrew: keshod mishshadday, "like destruction (shod) from Shaddai." Compare Isaiah 13:6.
- f (1:17) The Hebrew of this line contains three words found nowhere else, and its meaning is uncertain.
- g (1:18) Or "bear the guilt." The Septuagint reads "have perished."

Chapter 2

1 Blow the horn in Zion;
sound the alarm on my holy mountain!

Let all who live in the land tremble,
for the day of Yahweh is coming; it is near—2 a day of darkness and deep gloom,
a day of cloud and heavy darkness!
Like the dawn spread upon the mountains
a people comes, vast and strong;
there has never been anything like it from ancient times,
nor will there be again after it
for years, from generation to generation.
3 Ahead of them fire consumes,
behind them flames burn.
Before them the land is a paradise like Eden,
behind them a barren desert;
nothing gets away.
4 They look like horses,[a]
and they gallop like steeds of war.
5 With a noise like chariots
they leap on the mountaintops,
like the crackle of a flame of fire
consuming stubble,
like a mighty people
drawn up for battle.
6 Before them peoples writhe in anguish;
every face grows pale.[b]
7 Like mighty men they run;
like men of war they climb the wall.
They march each in his own line;
they do not break their ranks.
8 None crowds his neighbor;
each goes in his own path.
Through the weapons[c] they burst
and do not break off.
9 Upon the city they spring;
along the wall they run;

into the houses they climb;
in through the windows they come like a thief.
10 The earth quakes before them;
the heavens shake.
Sun and moon grow dark,
and the stars withdraw their shining.
11 Yahweh utters his voice
before his army,
for his host is exceedingly great;
mighty is he who carries out his word.
For the day of Yahweh is great and very fearsome;
who can endure it?
12 "Yet even now," declares Yahweh,
"turn back to me with your whole heart,
with fasting, with weeping, and with mourning."
13 Rend your heart and not your garments,
and turn back to Yahweh your God;
for he is gracious and merciful,
slow to anger and great in steadfast love,
and he repents of the harm.[d]
14 Who knows whether he will turn and relent
and leave a blessing behind him,
a grain offering and a drink offering for Yahweh your God?
15 Blow the horn in Zion;
set apart a fast;
call a solemn assembly;
16 gather the people.
Make the assembly holy;
bring together the elders;
gather the little ones,
even babies who nurse at the breast.
Let the bridegroom come out of his chamber,
and the bride from her canopy.

17 Between the porch and the altar[e]
let the priests who serve Yahweh weep
and say, “Have pity on your people, Yahweh,
and do not give your inheritance over to reproach,
for the nations to mock.
Why should they say among the peoples,
‘Where is their God?’ ”
18 Then Yahweh was zealous for his land and had compassion on his people.
19 Yahweh answered and said to his people,
“Look, I am sending you
grain, new wine, and oil,
and you will be filled with them;
and I will no more make you
a reproach among the nations.
20 The northerner I will drive far from you,
banish him into a land dry and desolate,
his front ranks into the eastern sea,
his hindmost into the western sea.[f]
His stink will go up,
his reek will rise,
for he has done great things.
21 Do not be afraid, O land;
be glad and rejoice,
for Yahweh has done great things!
22 Do not fear, wild animals,
for the desert pastures are turning green;
trees are bearing fruit;
fig and vine are producing richly.
23 Be glad, children of Zion,
and rejoice in Yahweh your God,
for he has given you the early rain in righteousness;[g]
he has poured down showers for you,
the early and the latter rain, as before.

24 The threshing floors will be full of grain,
and the vats will overflow with new wine and oil.
25 I will repay you for the years
that the swarmer has eaten,
the hopper, the stripper, and the cutter,[h]
my great army, which I sent among you.
26 You will eat your fill and be satisfied,
and praise the name of Yahweh your God,
who has dealt wondrously with you.
And my people will never again be put to shame.
27 You will realize that I am present in Israel,
that I am Yahweh your God, and no other exists.
My people will never again be disgraced.
28 "And afterward[i]
I will pour out my Spirit on all flesh;
your sons and your daughters will prophesy;
your old men will dream dreams,
and your young men will see visions.
29 Even upon servants, men and women,
I will pour out my Spirit in those days.
30 I will show wonders in the heavens and on the earth:
blood and fire and columns of smoke.
31 The sun will be turned to darkness
and the moon to blood,
before the day of Yahweh comes,
the great and fearsome day.
32 Everyone who invokes Yahweh's name will be rescued.[j]
On Mount Zion and in Jerusalem
some will escape,
just as Yahweh promised,
and among the survivors
will be those Yahweh summons."

Notes

- a (2:4) The head of a locust resembles that of a horse; compare Revelation 9:7–9. Whether chapter 2 describes a second locust plague, an invading army pictured as locusts, or the apocalyptic army of the day of Yahweh is debated.
- b (2:6) Or "gathers a glow"; the Hebrew is uncertain (compare Nahum 2:10).
- c (2:8) Or "through the water channels."
- d (2:13) Compare Exodus 34:6–7; Jonah 4:2.
- e (2:17) That is, in the court of the priests, between the entrance porch of the temple and the altar of burnt offering.
- f (2:20) The eastern sea is the Dead Sea; the western sea is the Mediterranean.
- g (2:23) Or "the teacher of righteousness." The Hebrew hammoreh can mean either "the early rain" or "the teacher"; the second sense was taken up at Qumran, whose leader was called "the Teacher of Righteousness." The early rain falls in October–November; the latter rain in March–April.
- h (2:25) See the note at 1:4.
- i (2:28) Verses 28–32 are 3:1–5 in the Hebrew text. Peter quotes them at Pentecost (Acts 2:17–21), following the Septuagint with some changes ("in the last days," and "my servants … my maidservants" in verse 29). Compare also Numbers 11:29.
- j (2:32) Quoted in Romans 10:13, where Paul applies "the name of the Lord" to Jesus.

Chapter 3

1 "For look, in those days and at that time,
when I restore the fortunes of Judah and Jerusalem,[a] 2 I will assemble all the nations and lead them down into the Valley of Jehoshaphat.[b]
There I will go to law with them
for my people and my inheritance Israel,
whom they dispersed among the nations;
and they parceled out my land.
3 They gambled for my people,
gave a boy in exchange for a prostitute,
and sold a girl for wine to drink.
4 "What do you want with me, Tyre and Sidon, and all the districts of Philistia? Are you taking revenge on me? If so, I will quickly and swiftly return your actions upon your own heads. 5 For you took my silver and my gold and carried my rich treasures into your temples.[c] 6 The people of Judah and of Jerusalem you have sold off to the Greeks,[d] to remove them far from their own borders. 7 I am going to stir them up from where you sold them, and bring your actions back upon your own heads. 8 I will sell your sons and daughters to the people of Judah, who will trade them to the Sabeans,[e] a faraway nation; Yahweh has spoken."

9 Proclaim this among the nations:
Prepare for war;[f]
stir up the warriors.
Let all the fighting men draw near;
let them come up.
10 Hammer your plowshares into swords
and your pruning hooks into spears;[g]
let the weakling say, "I am a warrior."
11 Come quickly, all you surrounding nations, assemble in that place.
Yahweh, bring down your warriors!
12 Let the nations rouse themselves and come up to the Valley of Jehoshaphat;
for there I will sit to judge
all the nations round about.
13 Put in the sickle,
for the harvest is ripe.
Come, tread,
for the winepress is full.
The vats overflow,
for their wickedness is great.[h] 14 Multitudes, multitudes
in the valley of decision!
For the day of Yahweh is near
in the valley of decision.
15 Sun and moon grow dark,
and the stars withdraw their shining.
16 Yahweh roars from Zion
and utters his voice from Jerusalem,
and the heavens and the earth shake.

But Yahweh is a refuge for his people,
a stronghold for the children of Israel.
17 "So you will know that I am Yahweh your God, dwelling in Zion, my holy mountain.
Jerusalem will be holy,
and strangers will never again pass through it.
18 "On that day
the mountains will drip new wine,
the hills will run with milk,
and all the dry riverbeds of Judah
will carry water.
A spring will rise from Yahweh's house and irrigate the Valley of Shittim.[i] 19 Egypt will be made a desolation, Edom a wasted wilderness,
because of the violence against Judah's people,
whose innocent blood they shed in their land.
20 But Judah will be inhabited forever,
and Jerusalem from generation to generation.
21 I will avenge their blood, which I have not yet avenged;[j]
for Yahweh dwells in Zion."

Notes

- a (3:1) Chapter 3 is chapter 4 in the Hebrew text.
- b (3:2) The name means "Yahweh judges" (compare "the valley of decision" in verse 14). Since at least the fourth century AD it has been identified with the Kidron Valley east of Jerusalem, but the name may be symbolic.
- c (3:5) Or "palaces."
- d (3:6) Hebrew "the sons of the Yevanim," the Ionians (compare Daniel 8:21).
- e (3:8) The people of Sheba in southwest Arabia, traders on the incense routes.
- f (3:9) Hebrew "Sanctify war," since battle was begun with religious rites.
- g (3:10) The reverse of Isaiah 2:4 and Micah 4:3.
- h (3:13) Compare Revelation 14:14–20.
- i (3:18) The name means "acacias." Perhaps the dry wadi running from Jerusalem toward the Dead Sea (compare Ezekiel 47:1–12; Zechariah 14:8).

- j (3:21) Or “I will declare innocent their blood that I had not declared innocent.” The Septuagint and Syriac read “I will avenge their blood and will not leave it unpunished.”

Amos

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The words of Amos, one of the sheep breeders[a] of Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel in the days of Uzziah king of Judah and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joash, king of Israel, two years before the earthquake.[b]
2 He said:
"Yahweh roars from Zion
and from Jerusalem lifts his voice;
the shepherds' pastures mourn,
and the summit of Carmel withers."
3 This is what Yahweh says:
"For three transgressions of Damascus,
yes, for four,[c] I will not turn it back;
because with sledges of iron
they threshed Gilead.
4 So I will hurl a fire at Hazael's dynasty,
and it will devour Ben-hadad's strongholds.[d] 5 I will smash Damascus's gate bolt, and remove the king[e] who sits in the Valley of Aven
and the scepter-bearer in Beth-eden;
and Aram's population will be deported to Kir,"
says Yahweh.
6 This is what Yahweh says:
"For three transgressions of Gaza,
yes, for four, I will not turn it back;
because they carried off whole communities[f] as captives
to hand them over to Edom.
7 So I will send a fire upon the wall of Gaza,
and it will consume her fortresses.

8 I will remove the king of Ashdod,
and the scepter-bearer of Ashkelon;
I will strike Ekron with my hand,
and the Philistines who remain will die,"
says the Lord Yahweh.
9 This is what Yahweh says:
"For three transgressions of Tyre,
yes, for four, I will not turn it back;
because they delivered up whole communities to Edom
and did not remember the covenant of brothers.
10 So I will send a fire upon the wall of Tyre,
and it will consume her fortresses."
11 This is what Yahweh says:
"For three transgressions of Edom,
yes, for four, I will not turn it back;
because he hunted his brother[g] with the sword
and stifled all compassion;
his anger tore without ceasing,
and he kept his fury forever.
12 So I will send a fire upon Teman,
and it will consume the fortresses of Bozrah."
13 This is what Yahweh says:
"For three transgressions of the Ammonites,
yes, for four, I will not turn it back;
because they ripped open the pregnant women of Gilead
to widen their own border.
14 So I will set Rabbah's[h] wall ablaze,
and the fire will devour her strongholds,
amid war cries on the day of combat,
amid a gale on the day of the tempest.
15 Into exile their king[i] shall go,
he and his princes with him,"
says Yahweh.

Notes

- a (1:1) Hebrew noqedim, used also of Mesha king of Moab (2 Kings 3:4); perhaps an owner or manager of flocks rather than a simple herdsman (compare 7:14). Tekoa was a village about 10 miles (16 kilometers) south of Jerusalem.
- b (1:1) A major earthquake remembered long afterward (Zechariah 14:5); archaeological evidence at several sites, including Hazor, suggests a date of about 760 BC.
- c (1:3) A numerical saying meaning "for sin upon sin," building to a climax (compare Proverbs 30:15–31). "It" is probably the punishment.
- d (1:4) Hazael and his son Ben-hadad were kings of Aram (Syria) in the ninth century BC (2 Kings 8:7–15; 13:3, 24).
- e (1:5) Or "the inhabitants." Aven ("wickedness") and Beth-eden ("house of delight") may be mocking names. Kir was the original homeland of the Arameans (9:7); they were exiled there by Tiglath-pileser III in 732 BC (2 Kings 16:9).
- f (1:6) Hebrew "a complete exile," sparing no one; likewise in verse 9.
- g (1:11) Edom descended from Esau, the brother of Jacob (Genesis 25:19–34; 36:1).
- h (1:14) The capital of Ammon, the site of modern Amman in Jordan.
- i (1:15) Or "Milcom," the god of the Ammonites (so some Greek manuscripts; compare Jeremiah 49:3).

Chapter 2

1 This is what Yahweh says:
"For three transgressions of Moab,
yes, for four, I will not turn it back;
because he burned the bones of the king of Edom
to lime.[a] 2 So I will send a fire upon Moab, and it will consume the fortresses of Kerioth;[b]
Moab will die amid tumult,
with shouting and the blast of the horn.
3 From among them I will cut off the judge[c]
and slay all her princes along with him,"
says Yahweh.
4 This is what Yahweh says:
"For three transgressions of Judah,
yes, for four, I will not turn it back;
because they have rejected the law of Yahweh
and have not kept his statutes,
and their lies[d] have led them astray,
the lies after which their fathers walked.

5 So I will send a fire upon Judah,
and it will consume the fortresses of Jerusalem."
6 This is what Yahweh says:
"For three transgressions of Israel,
yes, for four, I will not turn it back;
because they sell the righteous for silver,
and the needy for a pair of sandals—7 They trample the heads of the poor into the dirt[e]
and shove the humble aside;
a man and his father visit the same girl,
and so profane my holy name;
8 they stretch out beside every altar
on garments taken in pledge,[f]
and in the house of their God they drink
the wine of those who have been fined.
9 "Yet I was the one who wiped out the Amorites ahead of them,
though they stood as tall as cedars
and were as sturdy as oak trees;
I wiped out their fruit on top
and their roots below.
10 And it was I who brought you up out of the land of Egypt and led you forty years in the wilderness,
to take possession of the land of the Amorite.
11 I raised up prophets from among your sons,
and Nazirites from among your young men.[g]
Is that not so, people of Israel?"
declares Yahweh.
12 "But you gave the Nazirites wine to drink,
and you ordered the prophets,
'You shall not prophesy.'
13 Look, I am going to make you groan where you are,[h] as a wagon groans
that is loaded with sheaves.

14 Speed will not help the swift escape;
the strong will not summon their power,
and the warrior will not rescue his life.
15 The one who handles the bow will not hold firm;
the fleet-footed will not get away,
and the one who rides the horse will not save his life.
16 The stoutest-hearted among the mighty shall run away naked in that day,"
declares Yahweh.

Notes

- a (2:1) A desecration of the dead, denying the king rest in his grave.
- b (2:2) A city of Moab, mentioned also on the Mesha Stone (about 840 BC).
- c (2:3) That is, the king or chief ruler.
- d (2:4) That is, their false gods.
- e (2:7) Or "who pant after the dust of the earth on the head of the poor," that is, who covet even the dust the poor put on their heads in mourning.
- f (2:8) The law required that a cloak taken in pledge be returned by nightfall (Exodus 22:26–27; Deuteronomy 24:12–13).
- g (2:11) People under a vow of separation to God, who abstained from wine (Numbers 6:1–21; Judges 13:4–5).
- h (2:13) The meaning of the Hebrew verb is uncertain; perhaps "I will make you totter" or "I will split the ground beneath you."

Chapter 3

1 Listen to this message Yahweh has announced against you, Israelites, against the entire clan I led out of Egypt:
2 "You alone have I known[a]
of all the families of the earth;
therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities."
3 Do two walk together
unless they have arranged to meet?
4 Does a lion roar in the forest
when he has no prey?
Does a young lion cry out from his den
unless he has caught something?

5 Does a bird fall into a snare on the ground
when there is no bait[b] for it?
Does a trap spring up from the ground
when it has taken nothing?
6 Is a horn blown in a city
and the people not tremble?
Does disaster come to a city
unless Yahweh has done it?
7 Surely the Lord Yahweh will not do a thing unless he has disclosed his counsel[c]
to his servants the prophets.
8 The lion has roared;
who will not fear?
The Lord Yahweh has spoken;
who can but prophesy?
9 Announce to the strongholds of Ashdod[d]
and to the strongholds of Egypt,
"Gather on Samaria's hills and witness the great panic inside her and the cruelty within her."
10 "They do not know how to do right," declares Yahweh,
"those who store up violence and robbery in their fortresses."
11 Therefore this is what the Lord Yahweh declares:
"An enemy will encircle the country;
he will pull down your defenses,
and your strongholds will be looted."
12 This is what Yahweh says:
"As a shepherd snatches out of the lion's mouth
a pair of legs or a piece of an ear,[e]
so will the children of Israel be snatched away, those who sit in Samaria on the edge of a couch
and on the cushions[f] of a bed."
13 "Hear and testify against the house of Jacob," declares the Lord Yahweh, the God of Armies,[g]

14 “For in the day I call Israel to account for his crimes,
I will also deal with the altars of Bethel;
the altar’s horns[h] will be lopped off
and drop to the ground.
15 I will strike the winter house along with the summer house,
and the houses of ivory[i] will perish,
and the great houses will come to an end,”
declares Yahweh.

Notes

- a (3:2) That is, chosen and cared for (compare Genesis 18:19).
- b (3:5) Or “no trap.”
- c (3:7) Hebrew sod, the confidential deliberation of a council (compare Jeremiah 23:18, 22).
- d (3:9) The Septuagint reads “Assyria.”
- e (3:12) A shepherd brought such remains to prove that an animal had been killed by a wild beast and not stolen (Exodus 22:13).
- f (3:12) The meaning of the Hebrew word (demesheq) is uncertain; traditionally “Damascus,” perhaps “damask” or “the leg.”
- g (3:13) Hebrew ʾelohe hatstseḇaʾoth, traditionally “God of hosts,” the God who commands the armies of heaven and of Israel.
- h (3:14) The projections at the four corners of the altar, which a fugitive might grasp for sanctuary (1 Kings 1:50).
- i (3:15) Houses with ivory inlay; many carved ivories of this period have been excavated at Samaria.

Chapter 4

1 Hear this word, you cows of Bashan[a]
who are on the mountain of Samaria,
who oppress the poor, who crush the needy,
who say to your lords,[b] “Bring, and let us drink!”
2 The Lord Yahweh has sworn by his holiness that the days are surely coming upon you when they will take you away with hooks,
the last of you with fishhooks.
3 And you will go out through the breaches,
each straight ahead,

and you will be cast out toward Harmon,”[c]
declares Yahweh.
4 “Enter Bethel and rebel;
enter Gilgal and rebel more;
bring sacrifices at dawn each day,
and your tithes every third day;[d] 5 burn leavened bread as a thank offering,
and announce your freewill offerings, make them known;
for that is what you love, people of Israel!”
declares the Lord Yahweh.
6 “I gave you cleanness of teeth[e] in all your cities,
and lack of bread in all your places;
but you have not come back to me,”
declares Yahweh.
7 “I also held back the rain from you while there were three months yet until harvest;
on one town I made it rain,
and on another town I made it not rain;
one plot was rained on,
and the plot that got no rain dried up.
8 Two or three towns staggered to another town
to drink water and could not get enough;
but you have not come back to me,”
declares Yahweh.
9 “I struck you with scorching and mildew;
the locust ate your gardens and your vineyards,
your figs and your olives, many as they were;
but you have not come back to me,”
declares Yahweh.
10 “I sent pestilence on you in the way of Egypt;
with the sword I slew your young men,
and your horses were taken captive,
and I made the stink of your camps go up even into your nostrils;
but you have not come back to me,”
declares Yahweh.

11 "I overthrew some of you,
as God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah,
and you were like a burning stick snatched from the fire;
but you have not come back to me,"
declares Yahweh.
12 "Therefore this is what I will do to you, Israel;
because I will do this to you,
prepare to meet your God, Israel!"
13 For look—the one who shapes the mountains and creates the wind, who tells mankind what he is thinking,[f]
who turns dawn to darkness
and strides upon the high places of the earth—
Yahweh, the God of Armies, is his name!

Notes

- a (4:1) Bashan, east of the Sea of Galilee, was famous for its rich pastures and well-fed cattle (Deuteronomy 32:14; Psalm 22:12). The phrase is addressed to the wealthy women of Samaria.
- b (4:1) Hebrew ʾadonehem, "their lords," that is, their husbands (compare Genesis 18:12).
- c (4:3) The meaning is uncertain; perhaps a place name, or (with a slight change) "Mount Hermon."
- d (4:4) The law required tithes yearly or every three years (Deuteronomy 14:22–29); Amos mocks their zeal.
- e (4:6) That is, nothing to eat.
- f (4:13) Or "what his own (God's) thought is." Verse 13 is the first of three hymn fragments in Amos (compare 5:8–9; 9:5–6).

Chapter 5

1 Hear this word, which I lift up over you as a lament, house of Israel:
2 "Fallen, no more to rise,
is the young woman Israel;[a] forsaken on her own soil,
with no one to raise her up."
3 For this is what the Lord Yahweh says:
"The city that marched out a thousand strong will have a hundred left,

and the one that marched out a hundred strong will have ten left, for the house of Israel."
4 For this is what Yahweh says to the house of Israel:
"Seek me and live;
5 Do not go seeking Bethel;
do not enter Gilgal;
do not pass over to Beersheba;
for Gilgal shall go off into exile,[b] and Bethel shall become nothing."[c] 6 Look for Yahweh, and you will live, or he will sweep through Joseph's house like a blaze,
and it will burn with nobody able to put it out at Bethel—7 you who turn justice into wormwood[d]
and fling righteousness to the ground!
8 He who made the Pleiades and Orion,[e]
who turns deep darkness into morning
and darkens day into night,
who calls for the waters of the sea
and pours them out on the face of the earth—
Yahweh is his name—
9 who flashes destruction upon the strong,
so that destruction comes upon the fortress.
10 They hate the one who reproves in the gate,[f]
and they loathe the one who speaks with integrity.
11 Because you stamp on the poor and extract grain taxes from them,
you have built mansions of carved stone,
yet you will never live in them;
you have set out lovely vineyards,
yet you will never drink the wine.
12 For I am aware of your many rebellions
and your enormous sins—
you oppress the innocent, accept payoffs,
and push the poor aside in court.

13 So the wise keep quiet at such a time,
because the times are wicked.
14 Seek good and not evil,
that you may live;
and so Yahweh, the God of Armies, will be with you,
as you have said.
15 Hate evil and love good,
and establish justice in the gate;
it may be that Yahweh, the God of Armies,
will be gracious to the remnant of Joseph.
16 So this is what Yahweh, the God of Armies, the Lord, says:
"Wailing will fill every plaza,
and in every street they will cry, 'Oh no! Oh no!'
Farmers will be summoned to grieve,
and professional mourners[g] to wail;
17 and in all vineyards there will be wailing,
for I will pass through your midst,"
says Yahweh.
18 Disaster for you who yearn for Yahweh's day!
What will Yahweh's day mean for you?
It will be dark, not bright—19 as when a man escapes a lion
only to be met by a bear,
or goes indoors, rests a hand on the wall,
and is bitten by a snake.
20 Is not the day of Yahweh darkness, not light, gloom with no brightness in it?
21 "I hate, I reject your festivals,
and I take no delight in your solemn assemblies.[h] 22 Though you bring me whole burnt offerings and your gifts of grain,
they will not please me;
the fat beasts of your peace offerings
I will not regard.
23 Remove from my presence the clamor of your songs;
I will not hear the music of your lyres.

24 Instead, let justice surge like the waters,
and righteousness like a stream that never fails.[i] 25 "Was it sacrifices and grain offerings that you brought me
those forty years in the wilderness, house of Israel?
26 Now you shall carry off Sakkuth your king and Kaiwan, your star god,[j] your idols
that you fashioned for yourselves;
27 therefore I will send you into exile beyond Damascus," says Yahweh, whose name is the God of Armies.

Notes

- a (5:2) Hebrew "the virgin Israel," a poetic personification of the nation. Verse 2 is in the limping rhythm of the Hebrew funeral lament (qinah).
- b (5:5) A wordplay in Hebrew: haggilgal galoh yigleh.
- c (5:5) Hebrew "will become aven (wickedness, nothingness)," alluding to the name Beth-aven (see the note at Hosea 4:15).
- d (5:7) A bitter-tasting plant, used figuratively for what is poisonous (compare 6:12).
- e (5:8) Hebrew kimah and kesil, two constellations, probably the Pleiades and Orion (compare Job 9:9; 38:31).
- f (5:10) The open area at the city gate where the elders sat to hear legal cases; likewise in verses 12 and 15.
- g (5:16) Professional mourners, often women (Jeremiah 9:17–20).
- h (5:21) Hebrew "I will not smell," alluding to the pleasing aroma of sacrifice (Leviticus 26:31).
- i (5:24) Hebrew naḥal ʾethan, a wadi that does not dry up in summer.
- j (5:26) Sakkuth and Kaiwan are Mesopotamian names for the planet Saturn, worshiped as a god. The Hebrew vowels (Sikkuth, Kiyyun) may be a deliberate distortion modeled on shiqquts, "detestable thing." The Septuagint reads "the tent of Moloch and the star of your god Raiphan," and is quoted in Acts 7:42–43. The verse may also be read as past: "You carried Sakkuth…"

Chapter 6

1 Disaster for those lounging comfortably in Zion
and those feeling safe on Samaria's mountain,
the famous leaders of the foremost nation,
the ones Israel's people turn to!
2 Cross over to Calneh and see;
go from there to Hamath the great;

then go down to Gath of the Philistines.
Are you better than these kingdoms?
Or is their territory greater than your territory?[a] 3 You who put off the day of disaster
bring near the seat of violence.
4 They lie on beds of ivory
and sprawl on their couches;
they eat lambs from the flock
and calves from the stall.
5 They improvise[b] to the sound of the harp;
like David they devise for themselves instruments of song.
6 They drink wine from bowls
and anoint themselves with the finest oils,
but they do not grieve over the ruin of Joseph.
7 So now they shall go into exile at the head of the exiles,
and the feasting of the loungers shall be gone.[c]
8 The Lord Yahweh has sworn by himself, declares Yahweh, the God of Armies:
"I abhor the pride of Jacob
and hate his fortresses;
and I will hand over the city and everything in it."
9 If ten men remain in one house, they will die.
10 And when a relative,[d] the one who burns the dead, picks up the body to carry it out of the house, he will say to whoever is in the innermost parts of the house, "Is anyone else with you?" and he will say, "No." Then he will say, "Hush! We must not mention the name of Yahweh."
11 For look, Yahweh commands,
and the great house will be struck into fragments,
and the small house into splinters.
12 Do horses run on rocks?
Does one plow the sea with oxen?[e]
But you have turned justice into poison
and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood—

13 you who rejoice in Lo-debar,[f]
who say, “Was it not by our own strength that we took Karnaim for ourselves?”
14 “For look, I am raising up against you a nation, house of Israel,” declares Yahweh, the God of Armies, “and they will oppress you from Lebo-hamath[g]
to the Brook of the Arabah.”

Notes

- a (6:2) Calneh and Hamath, cities in northern Syria, and Gath, a Philistine city, were all conquered in the eighth century BC. Some reverse the last line: “Is your territory greater than theirs?”
- b (6:5) The meaning of the Hebrew verb is uncertain; perhaps “strum” or “babble.”
- c (6:7) Hebrew marzeaḥ, a feast or banqueting association, often connected with funerary rites (compare Jeremiah 16:5).
- d (6:10) Hebrew dod, “uncle” or “kinsman.” The phrase that follows (meśarepho) is usually understood as “the one who burns him,” whether in cremation (unusual in Israel) or burning spices in his honor; the Hebrew of the verse is difficult.
- e (6:12) So by a different division of the Hebrew letters (babbaqar yam); the Hebrew text reads “Does one plow there with oxen?”
- f (6:13) Lo-debar means “nothing,” and Karnaim means “a pair of horns,” a symbol of strength; both were towns in Gilead, apparently recaptured by Jeroboam II (2 Kings 14:25).
- g (6:14) Hebrew “the entrance of Hamath,” the ideal northern border of Israel. The Brook of the Arabah was probably at the southern end of the Dead Sea. Compare 2 Kings 14:25.

Chapter 7

1 This is what the Lord Yahweh showed me: he was forming locusts when the late crop[a] was beginning to sprout, the late crop after the king’s mowing. 2 When the locusts had eaten every green thing in the country, I cried, “Lord Yahweh, please pardon! How will Jacob survive? He is so tiny.” 3 Yahweh relented concerning this. “It shall not be,” said Yahweh.

4 The Lord Yahweh showed me this: he was summoning a judgment of fire, and it consumed the vast deep[b] and began to consume the land. 5 Then I said, “Lord Yahweh, please stop! How can Jacob stand? He is so small.” 6 Yahweh relented concerning this. “This also shall not be,” said the Lord Yahweh.

7 He showed me this: there stood the Lord by a wall made true by a plumb line,[c] and a plumb line was in his hand.
8 Yahweh asked me, "What are you looking at, Amos?" I answered,
"A plumb line." Then the Lord said, "Look, I am placing a plumb line among my people Israel; I will no longer overlook them.
9 The high places of Isaac will be laid waste,
and the sanctuaries of Israel will be ruined,
and I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword."
10 Then Amaziah, priest of Bethel, sent this message to Jeroboam, Israel's king: "Amos is plotting against you right in the heart of Israel.
The country cannot endure everything he says. 11 For this is what Amos has said: 'Jeroboam will die by the sword, and Israel will surely go into exile away from its land.' " 12 And Amaziah said to Amos,
"Seer, go, run off to the land of Judah, and earn your bread there, and prophesy there; 13 but never again prophesy at Bethel, for it is the king's sanctuary and a royal house." 14 Amos answered Amaziah,
"I am no prophet, nor a prophet's son;[d] I am a herdsman and a dresser of sycamore figs.[e] 15 But Yahweh took me from following the flock, and Yahweh said to me, 'Go, prophesy to my people Israel.' 16 Now hear the word of Yahweh. You are saying, 'Prophesy no more against Israel; stop dripping words[f] against Isaac's house.' 17 Therefore Yahweh says: 'Your wife will become a prostitute in town; your children will be killed by the sword; your land will be surveyed and divided; you yourself will die in a foreign, unclean country,[g] and Israel will certainly be taken from its homeland into exile.' "

Notes

- a (7:1) The crop that grew after the spring rains, in about March–April. The king apparently took the first cutting as a tax.
- b (7:4) Hebrew tehom, the subterranean waters thought to feed springs and rivers (Genesis 7:11).
- c (7:7) Hebrew ʾanak, a word occurring only here (four times). Traditionally "plumb line," but it is the Akkadian word for "tin," and some interpret "a wall of tin" as a symbol of weakness or of military defense; the meaning remains debated.
- d (7:14) Or "I was no prophet, nor a prophet's son." The Hebrew has no verb. "A prophet's son" means a member of a prophetic guild (compare 2 Kings 2:3–7).

- e (7:14) The fruit of the sycamore fig had to be slit or pinched to ripen; it grew in the lowlands, not at Tekoa itself.
- f (7:16) Hebrew "drip," that is, let words fall.
- g (7:17) That is, a foreign land.

Chapter 8

1 The Lord Yahweh showed me this: a basket of ripe fruit. 2 He asked,
"What are you looking at, Amos?" I answered, "A basket of ripe fruit."
Then Yahweh told me, "The end[a] has arrived for my people Israel; I will no longer overlook them. 3 The songs of the temple[b] will become wailings on that day," declares the Lord Yahweh. "The dead bodies will be many, thrown out everywhere. Hush!"
4 Hear this, you who trample the needy and would bring the poor of the land to an end, 5 who say, "When will the new moon pass,
so we can sell our grain?
When will the Sabbath be done,
so we can set out our wheat,
shrinking the measure and inflating the price,[c]
and tipping deceitful balances, 6 buying the poor with silver and the destitute for a pair of sandals,
and selling even the wheat sweepings?"
7 Yahweh has sworn by the pride of Jacob:[d]
"Surely I will never forget any of their deeds.
8 Will not the land quake because of this,
and all its inhabitants mourn?
Will it not all rise up like the Nile,
heave, and subside like the river of Egypt?"
9 "In that day," declares the Lord Yahweh,
"I will bring the sun down at midday
and cover the earth with darkness while it is still day.[e] 10 I will convert your festivals into funerals
and all your songs into laments;
I will make everyone wear sackcloth
and shave every head;

I will make it a time of grieving, as for an only son,
and its finish will be a bitter day.
11 "Look, the days are coming," declares the Lord Yahweh,
"when I will send a famine on the land—
not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water,
but of hearing the words of Yahweh.
12 They will wander from sea to sea,
and from north to east they will run about seeking the word of Yahweh,
but they will not find it.
13 On that day the lovely young women and the young men will faint for thirst.
14 Those who swear by the guilt of Samaria,[f]
and say, 'As your god lives, Dan,'
and, 'As the way of Beersheba lives,'
will fall and never rise again."

Notes

- a (8:2) A wordplay in Hebrew between qayits, "summer fruit," and qets, "end." The fruit was gathered in August–September.
- b (8:3) Or "palace."
- c (8:5) Hebrew "making the ephah small and the shekel great," that is, giving short measure (the ephah was a dry measure of about two-thirds of a bushel, or 22 liters) and weighing the buyer's silver with an overweight shekel (normally about two-fifths of an ounce, or 11.5 grams).
- d (8:7) Perhaps a title of God himself (compare 1 Samuel 15:29), or spoken in irony of Israel's arrogance (6:8).
- e (8:9) A total eclipse of the sun was visible in the region on June 15, 763 BC, and is recorded in Assyrian sources.
- f (8:14) Or "by Ashimah of Samaria," a goddess (compare 2 Kings 17:30). Dan and Beersheba were sanctuaries at the northern and southern ends of the land.

Chapter 9

1 I saw the Lord standing by[a] the altar, and he said:
"Strike the tops of the pillars so the doorframes tremble,
and smash them down on everyone's heads;
the survivors I will slaughter with the sword.

No one will get away;
no one will escape.
2 Though they burrow into Sheol,
my hand will take them from there;
though they mount to the heavens,
I will pull them down from there.
3 Though they hide on Carmel's peak,
I will hunt them out and seize them there;
though they hide from my eyes on the floor of the sea,
I will command the serpent there to bite them.
4 And if they go into captivity before their enemies,
there I will command the sword, and it will kill them;
I will fix my eyes upon them
for harm and not for good."
5 The Lord Yahweh of Armies[b]— at his touch the earth melts,
and all its inhabitants mourn;
the whole of it rises like the Nile
and falls back like the river of Egypt;
6 He constructs his upper chambers in the sky
and sets his dome[c] over the earth;
he summons the sea's waters
and pours them over the land's surface—
Yahweh is his name.
7 "Are you not like the Cushites[d] to me,
people of Israel?" declares Yahweh.
"Did I not bring Israel up from the land of Egypt,
and the Philistines from Caphtor,[e]
and the Arameans from Kir?
8 Look, the eyes of the Lord Yahweh are upon the sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it from the face of the ground, except that I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob,"
declares Yahweh.
9 "For I am giving the command,
and I will sift Israel's house among all the nations,

as grain is sifted in a sieve,
and not one pebble will drop to the ground.
10 All the sinners of my people will die by the sword, who say, 'Disaster will not overtake or meet us.'
11 "On that day I will lift up David's collapsed shelter,[f]
mend its cracks,
restore its ruins,
and rebuild it as it was long ago,
12 so that they may take over what is left of Edom
and every nation that bears my name,"[g]
announces Yahweh, who will do this.
13 "See, days are coming," announces Yahweh,
"when the plowman will catch up with the harvester,
and the grape stomper with the one who sows seed;
the mountains will trickle with new wine,
and all the hills will run with it.[h]
14 I will bring back the captivity[i] of my people Israel;
they shall build the wasted cities and dwell in them;
they shall plant vineyards and drink the wine from them,
and lay out gardens and eat the fruit from them.
15 I will plant them on their land,
and they will never again be uprooted
from the land that I have given them," says Yahweh your God.

Notes

- a (9:1) Or "upon." The altar is probably that of Bethel.
- b (9:5) Hebrew YHWH hatstseḇaʾoth, traditionally "the LORD of hosts," the God who commands the armies of heaven and of Israel.
- c (9:6) Or "his band" or "his bundle"; the meaning of the Hebrew ʾaguddah is uncertain here.
- d (9:7) The people of the upper Nile region (ancient Nubia).
- e (9:7) Probably Crete.
- f (9:11) Hebrew sukkah, a hut or shelter, here a figure for the dynasty or kingdom of David in its weakened state.

- g (9:12) Hebrew “over whom my name is called,” marking them as his possession. The Septuagint, reading ʾadam (“humankind”) for ʾedom and yidreshu (“seek”) for yirshu (“possess”), has “so that the remnant of humankind, and all the nations upon whom my name is called, may seek me.” James quotes the verses in this Greek form at the Jerusalem council (Acts 15:16–17) to support the inclusion of the Gentiles.
- h (9:13) Hebrew “will melt.”
- i (9:14) Or “restore the fortunes.”

Obadiah

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The vision of Obadiah.[a]
This is what the Lord Yahweh says about Edom—
a report we have heard from Yahweh,
and a messenger is sent out among the nations:
"Up! Let us go to war against her!"— 2 "Look, I am making you small among the nations;
you will be utterly despised.
3 The arrogance of your heart has deceived you,
you who dwell in the clefts of the rock,[b]
whose dwelling is on the heights,
who say in your heart,
'Who can bring me down to the ground?'
4 Though you fly high as the eagle,
though you place your nest among the stars,
even from there I will pull you down,"
declares Yahweh.
5 "Had thieves come to you,
or robbers in the night—
how you are ruined!—
would they not have stolen just enough for themselves?
Had grape pickers come to you,
would they not have left some gleanings?
6 How Esau has been ransacked,
his hidden treasures sought out!
7 Your confederates have pushed you to the frontier;
your friends have tricked you and prevailed against you;
your table companions lay a snare[c] under you—
he has no discernment.

8 On that day, declares Yahweh,
will I not destroy the wise men out of Edom,
and understanding out of the mount of Esau?[d] 9 Your warriors will be dismayed, Teman,[e]
so that every man will be cut off from the mount of Esau
by slaughter.
10 "Because of the violence done to your brother Jacob,
shame will cover you,
and you will be cut off forever.
11 In the day you stood by, at a distance,
in the day aliens took away his riches,
when foreigners passed through his gates and threw lots over Jerusalem,
you as well were one of them.
12 But you should not have stared in glee[f] on your brother's day,
on the day of his disaster;
you should not have exulted over Judah's people
in the day of their destruction,
nor opened wide your mouth
in the day of trouble.
13 You should not have entered my people's gate
in the day of their calamity;
you, of all people, should not have gazed on his misery
in the day of his calamity;
you should not have reached for his goods
in the day of his calamity.[g] 14 You should never have waited at the fork in the road[h]
to kill his escaping refugees, or surrendered his survivors
on the day of disaster.
15 "For the day of Yahweh is near
upon all the nations.
As you have done, it will be done to you;
your deeds will return on your own head.

16 For as you have drunk on my holy mountain,[i] so all the nations will drink continually;
they will drink and swallow,
and will be as though they had never been.
17 But on Mount Zion there will be those who escape,
and it will be holy,
and the house of Jacob will possess its own possessions.[j] 18 Jacob's family will become a blaze,
Joseph's family a flame,
and Esau's family dry straw;
they will ignite it and burn it up,
and no one in Esau's family will survive.
Yahweh has said so.
19 "The people of the Negev[k] shall take the mount of Esau as their own,
and those of the Shephelah[l] the Philistines' land;
Ephraim's fields and Samaria's fields they shall possess,
and Benjamin shall have Gilead.
20 The exiles of this army of Israel's children shall own Canaanite land up to Zarephath,[m] and Jerusalem's exiles in Sepharad[n]
shall have the towns of the Negev.
21 Deliverers[o] will go up on Mount Zion
to rule the mount of Esau,
and the kingdom will be Yahweh's.

Notes

- a (1:1) The name means "servant of Yahweh." Nothing else is known of the prophet; he is not to be identified with the Obadiah of 1 Kings 18.
- b (1:3) Hebrew sela[ʿ], "rock," perhaps also alluding to Sela, an Edomite stronghold (2 Kings 14:7). Edom's mountain strongholds, south and east of the Dead Sea, were hard to reach.
- c (1:7) The meaning of the Hebrew mazor is uncertain; perhaps "a net" or "a wound." The Hebrew text reads "your bread"; some, with a small addition, read "those who eat your bread."
- d (1:8) Edom was proverbial for its wisdom (Jeremiah 49:7; compare Job 2:11, where Eliphaz is from Teman).
- e (1:9) A region or chief city of Edom.

- f (1:12) Hebrew “do not gloat.” The eight prohibitions in verses 12–14 have the force of a reproach for what Edom has already done.
- g (1:13) Hebrew ʾed, “calamity,” here three times, sounds like the name Edom.
- h (1:14) The meaning of the Hebrew pereq is uncertain; perhaps “the breach” or “the mountain pass.”
- i (1:16) “You” is plural here, perhaps addressing Judah, which drank the cup of God’s wrath (compare Jeremiah 25:15–29), or Edom, which caroused on Mount Zion after its fall.
- j (1:17) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint and Vulgate, with different vowels, read “will dispossess those who dispossessed them.”
- k (1:19) The dry southern region of Judah.
- l (1:19) The low hills between the Judean highlands and the coastal plain.
- m (1:20) A Phoenician town between Tyre and Sidon (1 Kings 17:9). The Hebrew of the first two lines is difficult.
- n (1:20) Probably Sardis in Asia Minor. In later Jewish usage the name was applied to Spain, hence “Sephardic” Jews.
- o (1:21) Or “Those who have been delivered,” following the Septuagint and Syriac.

Jonah

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The word of Yahweh came to Jonah[a] son of Amittai: 2 "Up! Go to Nineveh,[b] the great city, and denounce it, for their evil has risen up before my face." 3 But Jonah got up to run away to Tarshish,[c] away from the presence of Yahweh. He went down to Joppa[d] and found a ship bound for Tarshish. He paid its fare and went down into it, to go with them to Tarshish, away from Yahweh's presence.
4 Yahweh, however, hurled a great wind onto the sea, and so mighty a storm arose on the sea that the ship was about to break apart.[e] 5
The sailors were terrified, and each man cried out to his own god.
They hurled the cargo on board into the sea to lighten the ship for themselves. Jonah, though, had gone down into the hold of the vessel, lain down, and fallen fast asleep. 6 The captain came to him and said,
"How can you be sleeping? Get up, call on your god! Perhaps that god will give a thought to us, and we will not perish." 7 The sailors said to one another, "Let's cast lots to determine who is responsible for this calamity." The lot was cast, and it landed on Jonah.
8 "Explain," they demanded, "who is responsible for this calamity?
What work do you do? Where is your home? What land are you from,
and who are your people?" 9 He told them, "I am a Hebrew, and I fear Yahweh, the God of heaven, who made the sea and the dry land." 10
At this the men were seized with a great fear, and said to him, "What is this that you have done?" For the men knew he was fleeing from Yahweh's presence, because he had told them.
11 So they said to him, "What must we do with you to make the sea grow quiet around us?" For the sea kept getting rougher. 12 He told them, "Lift me up and hurl me into the sea; then the sea will quiet down around you. I know that it is my fault this mighty storm has struck you." 13 Still the men rowed hard[f] to get back to land, but they could not, for the sea was raging against them more and more. 14 So they cried out to Yahweh: "Please, Yahweh, do not let us perish for this man's life, and do not lay innocent blood on us; for you, Yahweh, have done just as you pleased." 15 Then they picked Jonah up and hurled him into the sea, and the sea stopped its raging. 16 And the men feared Yahweh with a great fear; they offered a sacrifice to Yahweh and made vows.

17 Yahweh appointed[g] a great fish[h] to swallow Jonah, and Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.[i]

Notes

- a (1:1) The name means "dove." He is the prophet of 2 Kings 14:25, from Gath-hepher in Galilee.
- b (1:2) The capital of Assyria, on the east bank of the Tigris opposite modern Mosul, Iraq. Assyria was Israel's most feared enemy; it destroyed the northern kingdom in 722 BC.
- c (1:3) A distant port in the far west, probably Tartessus in southern Spain—the opposite direction from Nineveh.
- d (1:3) Modern Jaffa, part of Tel Aviv, on the Mediterranean coast.
- e (1:4) Hebrew "the ship thought to be broken." The verb "hurl" recurs in verses 5, 12, and 15.
- f (1:13) Hebrew "dug," a vivid word for straining at the oars.
- g (1:17) Hebrew manah, "appoint, assign." God likewise "appoints" the plant, the worm, and the east wind in chapter 4.
- h (1:17) Hebrew dag gadol, "a great fish." The Hebrew does not say "whale"; the Septuagint has kētos, "sea creature," the word used in Matthew 12:40, which older English versions rendered "whale." Jesus cites Jonah's three days and nights in the fish as "the sign of Jonah" (Matthew 12:39–41; Luke 11:29–32).
- i (1:17) English 1:17 is Hebrew 2:1.

Chapter 2

1 Then Jonah prayed to Yahweh his God from the belly of the fish.[a]

2 He said,

"In my distress I called out to Yahweh,
and he responded;
from the belly of Sheol[b] I screamed for help,
and you listened to my voice.

3 You flung me into the depths,
into the heart of the seas,

and the current swirled around me;
all your breakers and your billows
swept over me.
4 And I said, 'I am driven away
from before your eyes;
yet I will look again[c]
toward your holy temple.'
5 The waters closed over me up to the throat;[d]
the deep was all around me;
seaweed wrapped itself around my head.
6 To the roots of the mountains I went down;
the earth with its bars shut behind me forever;
yet you brought my life up from the pit,
Yahweh my God.
7 As my life was ebbing away,
I remembered Yahweh,
and my prayer came to you,
into your holy temple.
8 Those who cling to empty idols[e]
abandon their loyalty.[f] 9 But I will offer sacrifice to you with a song of thanks;
the vow I made I will fulfill.
Deliverance belongs to Yahweh!"
10 Then Yahweh spoke to the fish, and it vomited Jonah out onto the dry land.

Notes

- a (2:1) English 2:1–10 is Hebrew 2:2–11. In 2:1 the Hebrew uses the feminine form dagah for "fish," elsewhere the masculine dag; the difference is probably only stylistic.
- b (2:2) The realm of the dead.
- c (2:4) So the Hebrew; with a slight change, "how shall I look again," as in Theodotion's Greek.
- d (2:5) Or "threatened my life." Hebrew nefesh can mean both "throat" and "life."
- e (2:8) Hebrew "worthless vanities."
- f (2:8) Or "forsake the one who is loyal to them," that is, God; Hebrew ḥesed.

Chapter 3

1 A second time the word of Yahweh came to Jonah: 2 "Up! Go to Nineveh, the great city, and announce to it the word I am giving you."
3 So Jonah got up and went to Nineveh, as Yahweh had said. Now Nineveh was a city great even to God,[a] a walk of three days across.[b] 4 Jonah began going into the city, one day's walk, and he called out,
"Forty days more, and Nineveh will be overturned!"[c] 5 The people of Nineveh believed God. They called a fast and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them to the least. 6 The news reached Nineveh's king, who stood up from his throne, removed his royal robe, wrapped himself in sackcloth, and sat in the dust. 7 And he had a proclamation cried through Nineveh: "By decree of the king and his nobles: Let neither human nor beast, herd nor flock, taste anything. Let them not graze or drink water. 8 Let human and beast alike be covered with sackcloth, and let them call to God with all their strength. Let each one turn from his evil ways and from the violence that is in his hands. 9 Who can tell? Perhaps God will turn back and relent,[d] and turn away from the heat of his anger, and we will not perish."
10 God saw their deeds—that they had turned back from their wicked conduct—and God relented of the harm he had threatened to do to them, and did not do it.

Notes

- a (3:3) Hebrew "a great city to God," possibly an idiom for "an exceedingly great city."
- b (3:3) Hebrew "a journey of three days," about 60 miles (100 kilometers); perhaps the circuit of greater Nineveh and its districts, or the time needed to visit it all. The walls of ancient Nineveh enclosed about 1,850 acres (750 hectares).
- c (3:4) Hebrew haphak, the word used of the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah (Genesis 19:25), but which can also mean "turned around, changed."
- d (3:9) Or "change his mind." Compare Joel 2:14.

Chapter 4

1 But to Jonah this seemed a great evil, and he was furious.[a] 2 He prayed to Yahweh and said, "Ah, Yahweh, is this not just what I said when I was still back home? That is why I made haste to run off to Tarshish.

For I knew you were a God gracious and merciful, long-suffering and rich in steadfast love,[b] who relents over calamity. 3 So now, Yahweh, please take my life from me, for I am better off dead than alive." 4 And Yahweh said, "Is it right for you to be so angry?"

5 Jonah went out of the city and settled on its east side. There he made himself a shelter and sat in its shade to watch what would happen to the city. 6 Then Yahweh God appointed a plant[c] and made it grow up over Jonah, to be shade over his head, to rescue him from his misery.[d] Jonah was very glad because of the plant. 7 At daybreak the next day God sent a worm that gnawed the plant, and it dried up. 8 When the sun rose, God sent a sweltering east wind, and the sun beat on Jonah's head until he nearly fainted. He wished he were dead and said, "Death is better for me than life." 9 God asked Jonah, "Is your anger over the plant justified?" "It is," he replied. "I am so angry I could die." 10 Then Yahweh said, "You took pity on the plant, though you did not labor over it or make it grow. It came up in a night and perished in a night. 11 And may I not pity Nineveh, the great city, where there live over a hundred and twenty thousand human beings who cannot tell their right hand from their left,[e] and a great many beasts besides?"[f]

Notes

- a (4:1) Hebrew "it was evil to Jonah, a great evil, and it burned to him." The word "evil" echoes 3:8 and 3:10.
- b (4:2) Hebrew ḥesed. This confession echoes Exodus 34:6–7; compare Joel 2:13.
- c (4:6) Hebrew qiqayon, perhaps the castor-oil plant, which grows quickly and has broad leaves; older versions have "gourd."
- d (4:6) Hebrew raʿah, "evil," the same word as in 4:1.
- e (4:11) Perhaps meaning small children, or people without moral or religious understanding.
- f (4:11) The book ends with God's question unanswered.

Micah

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The word of Yahweh that came to Micah[a] of Moresheth[b] in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah,[c] which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 Listen, you peoples, all of you;
pay attention, earth, and all that fills it;
and let the Lord Yahweh be witness against you,
the Lord from his holy temple.

3 For look: Yahweh is coming out from his place;
he will come down and tread on the high places of the earth.

4 The mountains will melt beneath him,
and the valleys split open,
like wax in front of the fire,
like water poured down a slope.

5 All this is for Jacob's rebellion,
for the sins of the house of Israel.
What is Jacob's rebellion?
Is it not Samaria?
And what are Judah's high places?[d]
Are they not Jerusalem?

6 "So I will make Samaria a rubble heap in the open country,
a place for planting vines;
I will tumble her stones down into the valley
and lay bare her foundations.

7 All her carved idols will be smashed to bits,
all her earnings[e] burned with fire,
and all her images I will make a desolation;
for from a prostitute's fee she gathered them,
and to a prostitute's fee they will return."

8 Because of this I will mourn and howl;
I will walk around barefoot and stripped;
I will cry like the jackals
and moan like the owls.
9 Her wound is incurable;
it has spread to Judah;
it has arrived at my people's gate,
at Jerusalem itself.
10 Tell it not in Gath;[f]
weep not at all.
In Beth-leaphrah[g]
roll yourself in the dust.
11 Pass on your way,
inhabitants of Shaphir,[h] in shameful nakedness;
the inhabitants of Zaanan[i] do not come out;
Beth-ezel is wailing,
it will take away from you its support.[j] 12 For the inhabitants of Maroth[k] writhe, waiting for good, because disaster has come down from Yahweh
to the gate of Jerusalem.
13 Hitch the horses to the chariot,
you residents of Lachish![l]
She was where Daughter Zion's sin began,
for Israel's rebellions were found in you.
14 So you will give parting gifts[m]
to Moresheth-gath;
the houses of Achzib[n] will be a deception
to Israel's kings.
15 Again I will bring a conqueror[o] upon you,
inhabitants of Mareshah;
the glory of Israel
will come to Adullam.[p] 16 Make yourself bald, shear your hair, for the children you delight in;

widen your baldness like the vulture's,
since they are carried away from you as captives.

Notes

- a (1:1) The name is a short form of Micaiah, "Who is like Yahweh?" Compare 7:18.
- b (1:1) Moresheth-gath (1:14), a town in the Shephelah about 22 miles (35 kilometers) southwest of Jerusalem.
- c (1:1) Jotham reigned about 750–735 BC, Ahaz about 735–715 BC, and Hezekiah about 715–686 BC.
- d (1:5) So the Hebrew; the Septuagint and Targum read "what is the sin of the house of Judah?"
- e (1:7) Hebrew "hire," the wage of a prostitute, a figure for the wealth gained through idolatrous worship.
- f (1:10) An echo of David's lament in 2 Samuel 1:20. In verses 10–15 each town's name is the basis for a play on words, most of which cannot be carried into English.
- g (1:10) "House of dust."
- h (1:11) "Beautiful town."
- i (1:11) Sounds like the Hebrew for "come out."
- j (1:11) The meaning of the last line is uncertain.
- k (1:12) Sounds like the Hebrew for "bitterness."
- l (1:13) Lachish sounds like the Hebrew rekesh, "steeds." It was Judah's second city, besieged and taken by the Assyrian king Sennacherib in 701 BC.
- m (1:14) Or "a dowry," as for a bride leaving home.
- n (1:14) Achzib sounds like ʾakzab, "deceptive," a stream that dries up.
- o (1:15) Hebrew yoresh, "one who takes possession," a play on Mareshah.
- p (1:15) The cave where David hid from Saul (1 Samuel 22:1); Israel's leaders will be fugitives again.

Chapter 2

1 Woe to those who plan iniquity
and work out evil upon their beds!
When morning dawns they carry it out,
because it is in the power of their hand.
2 They covet fields and seize them,
and houses, and take them away;
they defraud a man and his household,
a man and his inheritance.
3 So this is what Yahweh says:
"See, I am devising evil against this clan,
and you will not slip your necks out from under it,

nor stride along with heads held high;
it will be a time of calamity.
4 In that day they will take up a taunt against you and wail a bitter lament, saying,
'We are utterly ruined;
he exchanges the portion of my people.
How he takes it away from me!
To traitors he divides our fields.'
5 Therefore you will have no one to cast the measuring line by lot[a] in the assembly of Yahweh.
6 "Stop your preaching," so they preach.[b]
"No one should preach about these things;
shame will never catch up with us."
7 Is this what you say, house of Jacob?
"Has Yahweh's Spirit run out of patience?
Is this how he acts?"
Do my words not benefit
the person who lives honestly?
8 But lately my people have risen up as an enemy.
You strip the robe off the cloak from those who pass by trustingly,
like men returning from war.
9 The women of my people you drive out
from their pleasant houses;
from their young children you take away
my splendor forever.
10 Get up and go,
for this is no place of rest;
because of uncleanness it will destroy,
with a grievous destruction.
11 If a man walking in wind and falsehood should lie, saying,
"I will preach to you of wine and beer,"
he would be the preacher for this people!
12 "I will surely gather every one of you, Jacob;
I will assemble the survivors of Israel;

I will crowd them together like sheep in a fold,[c]
like livestock in their meadow;
the place will buzz with crowds.
13 The one who breaks open the way goes up ahead of them;
they burst out, they go through the gate
and leave by it.
Their king goes on in front of them,
Yahweh at their head."

Notes

- a (2:5) That is, no share when the land is divided again.
- b (2:6) Hebrew naṭaph, "drip," used of prophetic speech, as in Amos 7:16. The Hebrew of verses 6–11 is difficult in places.
- c (2:12) Hebrew Bozrah, here probably "an enclosure," though Bozrah was also a city of Edom famous for its sheep.

Chapter 3

1 Then I said:
Hear me, you chiefs of Jacob,
you governors of Israel's house!
Shouldn't you understand justice?
2 You despise good and adore evil;
you peel the hide from my people[a]
and the meat from their bones, 3 you devour my people's flesh,
skin them alive,
smash their bones,
and carve them up like cuts for the pot,
like meat for a kettle.
4 Then they will cry to Yahweh,
but he will not answer them;
he will hide his face from them at that time,
because they have made their deeds evil.
5 This is what Yahweh says concerning the prophets who lead my people astray,
who, when they have something to chew,
cry "Peace!"

but declare holy war against anyone who puts nothing in their mouths:
6 So night will fall on you, and no vision come;
dark will it be for you, and no divining;
the sun will set upon the prophets,
and the daylight turn black above them.
7 Shamed will be the seers
and abashed the diviners;
all of them will cover their lips,[b]
for God gives no answer.
8 But as for me, I am filled with power,
with the Spirit of Yahweh,
with justice and with might,
to declare to Jacob his rebellion
and to Israel his sin.
9 Hear this, heads of the house of Jacob and rulers of the house of Israel,
who abhor justice
and twist all that is straight, 10 who build Zion with bloodshed
and Jerusalem with wrong.
11 Her heads give judgment for a bribe,
her priests teach for a fee,
her prophets divine for money;
yet they lean on Yahweh and say,
"Is not Yahweh in our midst?
No disaster will come upon us."
12 So on your account
Zion will be plowed like a field,
Jerusalem made a mound of rubble,
and the mountain of the house a forest height.[c]

Notes

- a (3:2) Hebrew "from them."
- b (3:7) Hebrew "mustache," a gesture of mourning or shame (Leviticus 13:45).

- c (3:12) This verse is quoted in Jeremiah 26:18, about a century later, where the elders recall that Hezekiah heeded it and sought Yahweh's favor.

Chapter 4

1 In the days to come[a]
the mountain of Yahweh's house shall stand firm as the highest of the mountains,
lifted up above the hills,
and peoples shall stream to it.
2 Many nations will come, saying,
"Come, let's go up Yahweh's mountain,
to the temple of Jacob's God,
that he may teach us his ways
and we may follow his paths."
Teaching[b] will come out of Zion,
and Yahweh's word from Jerusalem.
3 He will arbitrate among many peoples and settle quarrels among powerful distant nations;
they will beat their swords into plowshares
and their spears into pruning hooks;
nation will not lift a sword at nation,
and they will no longer learn how to fight.
4 Everyone will sit under their own grapevine and fig tree,
unafraid,
for Yahweh of Armies[c] has promised it.
5 Though every people marches
in the name of its own god,
we will march in the name of Yahweh our God
for all time.
6 "In that day," declares Yahweh,
"I will gather the lame
and assemble the scattered,
those whom I have afflicted.
7 The lame I will make a remnant,
and the outcast a mighty nation;

and Yahweh will reign over them on Mount Zion
from now on and forever.
8 And you, tower of the flock,[d]
hill[e] of Daughter Zion,
to you it will come—
the former dominion will return,
the kingdom of Daughter Jerusalem."
9 Why do you cry out now?
Have you no king?
Has your adviser died,
that agony seizes you like a woman giving birth?
10 Writhe and groan,[f] Daughter Zion,
like a woman giving birth;
for now you must go out from the town
and lodge in the countryside;
you will go to Babylon.
There you will be rescued;
there Yahweh will redeem you from the grip of your enemies.
11 Now many nations
have assembled against you,
saying, "Let her be desecrated,
and let us feast our eyes on Zion."
12 But they do not know
the thoughts of Yahweh;
they do not grasp his purpose,
how he has bundled them like sheaves for the threshing floor.
13 Rise up and thresh, Daughter Zion,
for I will make your horn iron and your hoofs bronze;
you will crush many peoples,
and devote their gain to Yahweh,[g]
their wealth to the Lord of all the earth.

Notes

- a (4:1) Verses 1–3 are nearly identical to Isaiah 2:2–4; Micah and Isaiah were contemporaries.
- b (4:2) Hebrew torah.
- c (4:4) Hebrew YHWH tsebaʾot, traditionally "the Lord of hosts": Yahweh as commander of the armies of heaven and of Israel.
- d (4:8) Hebrew Migdal-eder, perhaps a watchtower over Jerusalem; compare Genesis 35:21.
- e (4:8) Hebrew Ophel, the fortified hill south of the temple mount.
- f (4:10) The meaning of the Hebrew verb is uncertain; perhaps "push."
- g (4:13) Hebrew "devote to destruction" (ḥerem), here meaning to dedicate the plunder wholly to God.

Chapter 5

1 Now muster your troops, daughter of troops;[a]
a siege is laid against us;
with a rod they strike on the cheek
the judge of Israel.
2 But you, Bethlehem Ephrathah,[b]
small among Judah's clans,
from you will come out for me
the future ruler of Israel,
whose roots reach back
to ancient times.[c]
3 Therefore he will give them up until the time
when she who is in labor has given birth;
then the rest of his brothers will return to the people of Israel.
4 He will stand and shepherd his flock in the strength of Yahweh,
in the majesty of the name of Yahweh his God.
And they will dwell secure, for now he will be great
to the ends of the earth.
5 And he shall be our peace.[d]
When Assyria invades our land and marches over our citadels,
we will set up seven shepherds against it,
yes, eight princes of the people.[e]

6 They will shepherd the land of Assyria with the sword, the land of Nimrod[f] at its gates;[g]
he will deliver us from Assyria
when it comes into our land
and treads within our borders.
7 Then the remnant of Jacob will be among many peoples
like dew from Yahweh,
like showers on the grass,
which wait for no one
and do not linger for mortals.
8 And the remnant of Jacob will be among the nations,
in the midst of many peoples,
like a lion among the animals of the woods,
like a young lion among the sheepfolds,
which, when it goes through, treads down and mauls,
and none can deliver.
9 Let your hand be lifted over your foes,
and may all your enemies be cut off!
10 "In that day," declares Yahweh,
"I will cut off your horses from among you
and destroy your chariots;
11 I will cut off the cities of your land
and tear down all your strongholds;
12 I will cut off the sorceries in your hand,
and soothsayers you will have no more;
13 I will cut off your carved images and your sacred pillars from among you,
and never again will you bow
before what your own hands have made; 14 I will tear out your Asherah poles[h] from your midst and demolish your towns.[i] 15 In anger and fury I will take revenge on the nations that did not listen."

Notes

- a (5:1) English 5:1 is Hebrew 4:14. The meaning of the first line is uncertain; perhaps "gash yourself, daughter of raiders."
- b (5:2) English 5:2–15 is Hebrew 5:1–14; this verse is Hebrew 5:1. Ephrathah is the clan district around Bethlehem, the hometown of David (Ruth 4:11; 1 Samuel 17:12), about 6 miles (9 kilometers) south of Jerusalem. Matthew 2:6 quotes this verse, in a free form, as fulfilled in the birth of Jesus at Bethlehem; compare John 7:42.
- c (5:2) Or "from days of eternity." The phrase may refer to the ancient line of David or, as Christian interpreters have understood it, to the ruler's origin before time.
- d (5:5) Or "This one will be peace," or "This will be our peace."
- e (5:5) "Seven… eight" is a Hebrew idiom for "more than enough."
- f (5:6) The legendary founder of Mesopotamian cities (Genesis 10:8–12).
- g (5:6) So the Hebrew; with a slight change, "with the drawn sword."
- h (5:14) Wooden cult objects associated with the goddess Asherah.
- i (5:14) Or, with a slight change, "your idols."

Chapter 6

1 Hear now what Yahweh is saying:
"Rise, plead your case before the mountains,
and let the hills hear your voice."
2 Hear, you mountains, Yahweh's lawsuit,[a]
you enduring foundations of the earth;
for Yahweh has a case against his people,
and with Israel he will argue it.
3 "My people, what have I done to you?
How have I worn you out? Answer me!
4 I brought you out of Egypt and freed you from the land of slavery;
I sent Moses ahead of you,
with Aaron and Miriam.
5 My people, recall now
what Balak, Moab's king, schemed,
what reply Balaam son of Beor gave him,[b] and all that took place between Shittim and Gilgal,[c]
that you may know the righteous acts[d] of Yahweh."
6 With what shall I come before Yahweh
and bow down to God on high?

Shall I come before him with burnt offerings,
with calves a year old?
7 Is Yahweh delighted by rams in their thousands,
by oil flowing in ten thousand streams?
Shall I give my firstborn for my rebellion,
the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?
8 He has shown you, human being,[e] what is good;
what does Yahweh require of you except to act justly, to cherish loyal love,[f]
and to live humbly[g] with your God?
9 Yahweh's voice cries out to the city—
and it is wise to revere your name:[h]
"Hear this, tribe, and the one who assigned it![i] 10 Can I forget[j] the treasures gained by wickedness
in the house of the wicked,
and the short measure[k] that is accursed?
11 Shall I acquit the one with crooked scales,
with a bag of false weights?
12 Her rich are full of violence;
her inhabitants speak lies,
and their tongue is deceit in their mouths.
13 So I in turn have begun to strike you,[l]
to lay you waste because of your sins.
14 You will eat but not be satisfied,
and hunger[m] will remain within you;
you will put things aside but not save them,
and what you save I will give to the sword.
15 You will plant but never harvest;
you will press olives but never rub on the oil,
and crush grapes but never drink wine.
16 For you have kept the statutes of Omri[n]
and all the practices of Ahab's house,
and you have walked in their counsels;
so I will turn you into a wasteland

and your[o] people into something to hiss at;
you will bear the scorn of my people."

Notes

- a (6:2) Hebrew rib, a formal legal complaint; the mountains and the foundations of the earth are summoned as witnesses (compare Deuteronomy 32:1; Isaiah 1:2).
- b (6:5) See Numbers 22–24.
- c (6:5) Shittim was Israel's last camp east of the Jordan (Numbers 25:1; Joshua 3:1); Gilgal its first camp west of it (Joshua 4:19).
- d (6:5) Or "saving acts."
- e (6:8) Hebrew ʾadam, "human being."
- f (6:8) Hebrew ḥesed, loyal and steadfast love.
- g (6:8) Or "carefully, attentively."
- h (6:9) So the Septuagint, reading the Hebrew with different vowels; the Masoretic Text reads "sees."
- i (6:9) The meaning of the Hebrew of this line is uncertain; perhaps "Hear, tribe and assembly of the city."
- j (6:10) The Hebrew of this line is uncertain.
- k (6:10) Hebrew "the lean ephah." The ephah was a dry measure of about two-thirds of a bushel (22 liters); merchants used undersized measures to cheat buyers.
- l (6:13) Or, following the Septuagint, "I have made you sick by striking you."
- m (6:14) The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain.
- n (6:16) Omri and his son Ahab, kings of Israel in the ninth century BC, were remembered for Baal worship and injustice (1 Kings 16–21).
- o (6:16) Hebrew "her."

Chapter 7

1 Woe is me! For I have become like one at the gathering of summer fruit, like the gleaning after the grape harvest:
no cluster to eat,
no early fig that I crave.
2 The faithful have perished from the land,
and there is no one upright among humankind;
all of them lie in ambush for blood;
each hunts his brother with a net.
3 Their hands are skilled at evil;
the official asks for gifts,
the judge for a bribe,

and the great man speaks out what his greed desires—
so they weave it together.
4 The best of them is like a briar,
the most upright worse than a thorn hedge.
The day of your watchmen,[a] your punishment, has come;
now will be their confusion.
5 Do not rely on a companion;
do not lean on a close friend;
even from her who lies in your arms
keep watch over the door of your lips.
6 For the son treats his father with contempt,
the daughter rises against her mother,
the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;
a man's enemies are those of his own house.[b]
7 But as for me, I will watch for Yahweh;
I will wait for the God of my salvation;
my God will hear me.
8 Rejoice not over me, you my foe!
I have fallen, yet I will get up;
I sit in the dark,
yet Yahweh is a light to me.
9 I will bear Yahweh's anger,
because I have sinned against him,
until he takes up my case
and brings about justice for me.
He will lead me out to the light;
I will see his saving righteousness.
10 Then my enemy will see it,
and disgrace will cover her,
the one who taunted me,
"Where is Yahweh your God?"
My eyes will gloat over her;
she will be trampled
like street mud.

11 A day to rebuild your walls!
On that day your borders will be pushed far outward.[c] 12 On that day they will come to you from Assyria and the cities of Egypt,[d]
and from Egypt to the River,[e]
from sea to sea and from mountain to mountain.
13 Yet the land will lie waste
on account of those who dwell in it,
the outcome of their doings.
14 Shepherd your people with your staff,
the flock that is your inheritance,
who live alone in a forest
in the midst of a fruitful land;[f]
let them graze in Bashan and Gilead
as in days long ago.
15 As in the days when you came out of the land of Egypt,
I will show them[g] marvelous things.
16 The nations will see and be ashamed of all their might;
they will lay their hands on their mouths;
their ears will be deaf.
17 They will lick the dust like serpents,
like creatures that crawl on the ground;
they will shake as they leave their fortresses;
they will turn in terror to Yahweh our God,
and they will fear you.
18 Who is a God like you,[h]
pardoning iniquity
and passing over the rebellion
of the remnant of his inheritance?
He does not cling to his wrath for all time,
for faithful love is his delight.
19 He will once more show us mercy;
he will trample down our guilt.

You will hurl all our[i] sins
into the ocean's depths.
20 You will show faithfulness to Jacob,
steadfast love to Abraham,
as you swore to our ancestors
from the days of old.

Notes

- a (7:4) That is, the day the prophets warned of.
- b (7:6) Jesus quotes this verse in Matthew 10:35–36; compare Luke 12:53.
- c (7:11) Or "the decree will be far removed." The meaning is uncertain.
- d (7:12) Hebrew matsor, "Egypt" or "fortress," a play on words.
- e (7:12) The Euphrates.
- f (7:14) Hebrew Carmel, "garden land," perhaps also the mountain of that name.
- g (7:15) Hebrew "him."
- h (7:18) A play on Micah's name, "Who is like Yahweh?" (1:1).
- i (7:19) So the Septuagint, Syriac, and Vulgate; Hebrew "their."

Nahum

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 An oracle concerning Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum the Elkoshite.[a]
2 Yahweh is a jealous God and an avenger;[b]
Yahweh avenges, and is a master of wrath.
Yahweh takes vengeance on his adversaries,
and he keeps wrath for his enemies.
3 Yahweh is patient and mighty,
but he never lets the guilty go unpunished.
He travels in the whirlwind and the tempest,
and the clouds are the dust kicked up by his feet.
4 He rebukes the sea and dries it,
and all the rivers he makes dry.
Bashan languishes, and Carmel,
and the flower of Lebanon fades.
5 The mountains quake because of him,
and the hills melt away.
The earth heaves at his presence,
the world and all who dwell in it.
6 Who can stand before his indignation?
And who can rise up in the heat of his anger?
His wrath is poured out like fire,
and the rocks are torn apart by him.
7 Yahweh is kind,
a refuge when trouble comes;
he cares for those who shelter in him.
8 But with an overflowing flood
he will make a full end of her place,[c]
and darkness shall pursue his enemies.

9 What do you devise against Yahweh?
He will make a full end;
distress shall not rise up a second time.
10 For though they are tangled like thorns
and drunk as with their drink,
they shall be devoured like stubble fully dried.[d] 11 From you has gone out one who devises evil against Yahweh,
a counselor of worthlessness.[e]
12 Thus says Yahweh:
"Though they are at full strength and many as well,
even so they shall be cut down and pass away.
Though I have afflicted you,
I will afflict you no more.
13 And now I will break his yoke from off you,
and I will tear your bonds apart."
14 And Yahweh has given command concerning you:
"No more of your name shall be sown;
out of the house of your gods I will cut off
the graven image and the molten image.
I will prepare your grave, for you are vile."
15 Behold, upon the mountains the feet of him who brings good news,
who proclaims peace![f]
Celebrate your feasts, O Judah;
pay your vows;
for the worthless one shall not again pass through you;
he is cut off completely.

Notes

- a (1:1) "Oracle": Hebrew massa', which can also mean "burden." The name Nahum means "comfort" or "comforter." Where Elkosh was is not known.
- b (1:2) Hebrew El qanno'. The poem in verses 2–8 seems partly to follow the order of the Hebrew alphabet (an acrostic), though the pattern is incomplete. In the next line, "a master of wrath" is literally "a lord (ba'al) of wrath," meaning one full of wrath.

- c (1:8) “Her place” refers to Nineveh. The Septuagint has “those that rise up against him,” reading the Hebrew letters differently. The next line can also be translated “and he will pursue his enemies into darkness.”
- d (1:10) The Hebrew of this verse is obscure, and the translation is uncertain.
- e (1:11) Hebrew beliyya‘al, “worthlessness, wickedness.” The same word is translated “the worthless one” in verse 15.
- f (1:15) Compare Isaiah 52:7, which Romans 10:15 quotes. In Hebrew this verse is 2:1, so English 2:1–13 is Hebrew 2:2–14.

Chapter 2

1 One who scatters has come up against your face.[a] Guard the rampart;
watch the road;
brace your loins;
gather all your strength.
2 For Yahweh is restoring the majesty of Jacob like the majesty of Israel,
for the emptiers have emptied them out and destroyed their vine branches.
3 The shield of his mighty men is made red;
the warriors are clothed in scarlet;
the chariots gleam with the fire of steel
on the day he prepares for battle,
and the spears of cypress are brandished.[b] 4 The chariots rage in the streets;
they rush to and fro in the squares;
their appearance is like torches;
they dart about like the lightning.
5 He calls to mind his nobles;
they stumble as they march;
they hurry to her wall,
and the siege shield is set up.
6 The gates of the rivers are opened,
and the palace melts away.

7 It is decided: she is stripped; she is carried off,[c]
and her maidservants moan like the sound of doves, beating upon their breasts.
8 Nineveh has been like a pool of water all her days,[d]
and now they flee.
"Stand! Stand!" they cry,
but no one turns back.
9 Take the spoil of silver, take the spoil of gold!
For the store has no end,
wealth of every precious thing.
10 Emptiness, desolation, and ruin!
Hearts melt and knees give way;
anguish is in all loins,
and all their faces grow pale.
11 Where now is that lions' lair,
the place where young lions fed,
where lion and lioness walked,
and cubs played unafraid?
12 The lion ripped up plenty for his young and choked the kill for his mates;
he stocked his caves with victims
and his lairs with mangled meat.
13 "I am your enemy," announces Yahweh of Armies,[e]
"and I will set your chariots ablaze,[f]
the sword will eat up your young lions,
I will remove your prey from the land,
and the cry of your envoys will never again be heard."

Notes

- a (2:1) Hebrew 2:2. "One who scatters" can also be translated "a shatterer." The Septuagint differs: "one who has been delivered from affliction has come up panting into your presence."
- b (2:3) Literally "and the cypresses are made to quiver." The Septuagint has "and the horsemen shall be thrown into confusion," reading parashim ("horsemen") for beroshim ("cypresses"). The Hebrew word translated "steel" (peladot) is rare, and its meaning is uncertain; some take it to mean "torches."

- c (2:7) The Hebrew word translated “It is decided” (hutstsav) is obscure. Some older translations treat it as a name (“Huzzab”); others take it to mean the queen or a goddess’s image.
- d (2:8) The Hebrew phrase translated “all her days” is difficult. The Septuagint has “her waters shall be as a pool of water.”
- e (2:13) Hebrew YHWH Tseva’ot, traditionally “the LORD of hosts.” The “armies” are the forces of heaven (the angels and the stars) and sometimes the armies of Israel. The title is given as “Yahweh of Armies” throughout. In Hebrew this verse is 2:14.
- f (2:13) Hebrew “her chariots.” The Septuagint has “your multitude.”

Chapter 3

1 Woe to the city of blood,
all of it full of lies and plunder;
the prey never departs!
2 The crack of the whip and the rumble of the wheel,
the galloping horse and the bounding chariot!
3 Horsemen charging, the flashing sword and the glittering spear,
a multitude of slain, a mass of corpses,
dead bodies without end;
they stumble over their dead.
4 All for the countless harlotries of the harlot,
graceful and charming, a mistress of sorceries, who sells nations by her harlotries
and peoples by her sorceries.
5 “I am your enemy,” announces Yahweh of Armies,
“and I will pull your skirts up over your face,
show the nations your nakedness
and the kingdoms your disgrace.
6 I will cast filth upon you
and disgrace you,
and set you up as a gazingstock.
7 And it shall come to pass that all who look on you shall shrink from you and say, ‘Nineveh is laid waste; who will grieve for her?’
Where shall I seek comforters for you?”[a]

8 Are you better than No-amon,[b]
that sat by the Nile channels,
with water all around her,
whose rampart was the sea,
and water her wall?[c]
9 Cush was her strength, and Egypt, without limit;
Put and the Libyans were your helpers.[d] 10 Yet she too went into exile;
she went into captivity;
her little ones also were dashed to pieces
at the head of every street;
they cast lots for her honored men,
and all her great men were bound in chains.
11 You also shall be drunk;
you shall go into hiding;
you also shall seek a refuge from the enemy.
12 All your strongholds are fig trees with the firstfruits:
if they are shaken,
they fall into the mouth of the eater.
13 Behold, your troops in your midst are women.
The gates of your land are thrown wide open to your enemies;
fire has devoured your bars.
14 Draw water for the siege;
strengthen your fortresses;
go into the clay and tread the mortar;
take hold of the brick mold!
15 There the fire shall devour you;
the sword shall cut you off;
it shall devour you as the young locust devours.
Multiply yourself like the young locust;
multiply yourself like the locust swarm![e] 16 You have multiplied your merchants
more than the stars of the heavens;
the young locust strips and flies away.

17 Your guardsmen are like the locust swarm,
and your officials like clouds of grasshoppers
that settle in the walls on a cold day;
when the sun rises, they flee,
and no one knows the place where they are.[f] 18 Your shepherds slumber, O king of Assyria;
your nobles lie still.
Your people are scattered on the mountains,
with no one to gather them.
19 Nothing can ease your injury;
your wound is fatal.
Everyone who learns of you
applauds your fall.
For who has escaped your endless cruelty?

Notes

- a (3:7) "Comforters" (menahamim) plays on the name Nahum ("comfort").
- b (3:8) No-amon, "city of Amon," is Thebes in Upper Egypt. The Assyrians sacked it about 663 BC.
- c (3:8) Here "the sea" (yam) means the broad waters of the Nile. "And water her wall" is literally "from the sea her wall." The Septuagint has "and whose walls are water."
- d (3:9) Cush is the upper Nile region (ancient Nubia). Put was probably in Libya, though some place it on the African coast of the Red Sea. The Hebrew has "your helpers," but the Septuagint has "her helpers."
- e (3:15) The Hebrew uses several words for locusts (yeleq, 'arbeh, and gov in verse 17). The kinds or stages of locust they refer to are uncertain.
- f (3:17) The words translated "guardsmen" (minzarim) and "officials" (tifsarim) are rare. The second may be a loanword from Akkadian, and the precise meaning of both is uncertain.

Habakkuk

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The oracle that Habakkuk the prophet saw.[a] 2 Yahweh, how long must I plead for help while you refuse to listen?
I shout to you, “Violence!”
yet you do not rescue.
3 Why do you make me see iniquity,
and why do you look upon trouble?
Ruin and violence are before me;
there is strife, and contention arises.
4 So the law grows numb,
and justice never goes forth;
for the wicked hem in the righteous;
so justice goes forth twisted.
5 “Look among the nations, and see;[b]
be astonished and amazed!
For I am doing a work in your days
that you would not believe if it were told.
6 For behold, I am raising up the Chaldeans,[c]
that bitter and impetuous nation, which marches through the breadth of the earth
to seize dwellings that are not its own.
7 It is dreadful and fearsome;
its justice and its dignity go forth from itself.
8 Its horses are swifter than leopards,
and keener than wolves at evening.
Its horsemen gallop proudly;
its horsemen come from far away;
they fly like an eagle swooping to devour.

9 They all come for violence;
the set of their faces is forward;[d]
they gather captives like sand.
10 At kings they scoff,
and rulers are a laughingstock to them.
They laugh at every fortress,
for they heap up earth and capture it.
11 Then they sweep on like the wind and pass by,
and become guilty, they whose own strength is their god."[e] 12 Are you not eternal,
Yahweh my God, my Holy One?
We will not perish.[f]
Yahweh, you have set them in place to punish us;
Rock, you have established them to correct us.
13 Your eyes are too pure to look upon evil,
and you cannot gaze upon wrong.
Why then do you look on the treacherous[g]
and keep silent when the wicked swallows up
one more righteous than he?
14 You make mankind like the fish of the sea,
like creeping things that have no ruler.
15 He lifts them all up with the angle;
he hauls them away in his net
and gathers them in his dragnet;
therefore he rejoices and exults.
16 Therefore he sacrifices to his net
and burns incense to his dragnet;
for by them his portion is rich
and his food is plentiful.
17 Shall he therefore keep emptying his net,[h]
and slaying nations continually without pity?

Notes

- a (1:1) "Oracle": Hebrew massa', which can also mean "burden." The meaning of the name Habakkuk is uncertain. It may come from a Hebrew root meaning "embrace," or it may be related to the Akkadian name of a garden plant (hambaququ).

- b (1:5) The Septuagint has “Behold, you despisers,” apparently reading bogedim (“traitors, the treacherous”) for baggoyim (“among the nations”). Acts 13:41 quotes the verse in that form. The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran (1QpHab) quotes the line as “among the nations,” as the Masoretic Text has it. Its commentary, however, applies the passage to “the traitors.”
- c (1:6) The Chaldeans were the Neo-Babylonian dynasty and its people. They overthrew Assyria and conquered Judah, taking Jerusalem in 597 and 586 BC.
- d (1:9) The Hebrew phrase translated “the set of their faces” is obscure.
- e (1:11) Literally “and he shall be guilty, he whose strength is his god.” The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran reads “and he makes his strength his god” (wayyasem instead of we’ashem).
- f (1:12) According to an ancient Jewish tradition, this is one of the places where the scribes altered the wording out of reverence, and the original was “You shall not die.” The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran and the Septuagint both read “we.”
- g (1:13) The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran has a plural, “Why do you look on, you treacherous ones?”
- h (1:17) The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran reads “Therefore he keeps drawing his sword” (harbo, instead of hermo, “his net”).

Chapter 2

1 Upon my watch I will stand,
and set myself upon the tower;
I will look out to see what he will speak with me,
and what reply I shall make to my complaint.[a] 2 And Yahweh answered me and said:
“Write the vision;
make it plain upon tablets,
so that one may run who reads it.[b] 3 For the vision is still for the appointed time;
it hastens toward the end, and it will not lie.
If it seems slow, wait for it;
for it will surely come; it will not delay.[c] 4 “Behold, the one who is puffed up, his soul is not upright within him;
but the righteous shall live by his faithfulness.[d] 5 “Wine, moreover, is a traitor;[e]
the proud man never rests at home.
His appetite gapes wide as Sheol,[f]

and like death he is never full.
He rakes in every nation
and gathers up all peoples."
6 Shall not all these take up a taunt against him,
with mocking riddles about him, and say,
"Woe to him who multiplies what does not belong to him—
how long?—
and makes himself heavy with pledges!"
7 Shall not those who bite you rise up in a moment,
and those wake who shake you violently?
And you shall become plunder to them.
8 Because you plundered so many nations,
the rest of the peoples will plunder you,
for human bloodshed and violence to the land,
to cities and everyone who lives in them.
9 Woe to him who gets evil gain for his house,
to set his nest on high,
to be delivered from the grasp of evil!
10 You have devised shame for your house
by cutting off many peoples;
you have sinned against your own soul.
11 For out of the wall the stone shall cry,
and out of the timber the rafter shall answer it.
12 Doom to the man who constructs a town by murder
and establishes a city on injustice!
13 Behold, is it not from Yahweh of Armies[g]
that peoples toil only for the fire,
and nations weary themselves for nothing?
14 For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of Yahweh,
as the waters cover the sea.[h]
15 Woe to him who makes his neighbors drink,
pouring out your wrath and making them drunk,
in order to look upon their nakedness![i]

16 You will be sated with shame instead of glory.
Drink, you also, and be exposed as uncircumcised![j]
The cup in Yahweh's right hand will come around to you,
and utter disgrace will be upon your glory.
17 The violence you did to Lebanon will overwhelm you,
and the slaughter of its animals will terrify you,[k]
for human bloodshed and violence to the land,
to cities and everyone who lives in them.
18 What profit is an idol
when its maker has carved it,
a molten image and a teacher of falsehood,
that the one who shapes it should trust in what he has shaped,
making idols that cannot speak?
19 Woe to him who says to a piece of wood, "Wake up!"
or to a mute stone, "Arise!"
Can this teach?
Behold, it is plated with gold and silver,
and there is no breath at all within it.
20 But Yahweh is in his holy temple;
let all the earth keep silence before him.

Notes

- a (2:1) Or "concerning my reproof."
- b (2:2) Or "so that a herald may run with it."
- c (2:3) Hebrews 10:37 quotes verses 3–4 in their Septuagint form. Compare "the end" here with 2 Peter 3:9.
- d (2:4) Or "by his faith." Hebrew be'emunato: 'emunah is steadfastness, faithfulness, and trust. The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran quotes the line as it stands in the Masoretic Text, and its commentary applies it to those whom God will deliver "because of their toil and their faith in the Teacher of Righteousness." The Septuagint reads "by my faith" (or "by my faithfulness," meaning God's). Some Septuagint manuscripts read "my righteous one shall live by faith," the form that Hebrews 10:38 follows. The Greek Minor Prophets Scroll from Nahal Hever is reported to read "by his faith," agreeing with the Hebrew. Paul quotes the line, without a pronoun, in Romans 1:17 and Galatians 3:11.
- e (2:5) The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran reads "wealth (hon) is treacherous" instead of "wine (hayyayin)." The Septuagint has "the arrogant man and the scorner."

- f (2:5) Sheol is the realm of the dead, the grave.
- g (2:13) Compare Isaiah 11:9.
- h (2:14) Hebrew YHWH Tseva'ot, traditionally "the LORD of hosts." The "armies" are the forces of heaven (the angels and the stars) and sometimes the armies of Israel.
- i (2:15) The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran reads "to look upon their festivals" (mo'adehem instead of me'orehem, "their nakedness"). Its commentary applies the verse to an attack by "the Wicked Priest" on the Teacher of Righteousness on the Day of Atonement.
- j (2:16) The Hebrew he'arel means "show your foreskin, be exposed as uncircumcised." The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran reads hera'el, "and stagger," with two letters reversed. The Septuagint ("shake… and quake") and other ancient versions point the same way, and many translations follow that reading.
- k (2:17) "Will terrify you" follows the Septuagint. The Masoretic Text has a form usually read as "will terrify them," and the Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran has another spelling of the word.

Chapter 3

1 A prayer of Habakkuk the prophet, according to Shigionoth.[a] 2 Yahweh, I have heard of your fame,
and I am awestruck.
Yahweh, renew your deeds in our own time;
make them known in these years;
in your anger, remember compassion.[b] 3 God came from Teman,
the Holy One from Mount Paran. Selah[c]
His glory blanketed the skies,
and the earth overflowed with his praise.
4 His shining was as the light of day;
rays came forth from his hand,[d]
and there was the hiding of his power.
5 Pestilence went before his face,
and plague went out at his feet.[e] 6 He stood and measured the earth;[f]
he looked and made the nations tremble.
The everlasting mountains were shattered;
the ancient hills sank low.
His goings are as of old.

7 Under affliction I saw the tents of Cushan;[g]
the curtains of Midian's land were shaking.
8 Was Yahweh angry with the rivers?
Was your anger against the rivers,
or your fury against the sea,
when you rode upon your horses,
your chariots of salvation?
9 Your bow was laid bare;
the arrows were sworn by your word.[h] Selah
You split the earth with rivers.
10 The mountains saw you and writhed;
the torrent of waters swept by;[i]
the deep uttered its voice
and raised its hands on high.
11 Sun and moon stood still in their dwelling at the light of your arrows as they flew,
at the gleam of your flashing spear.
12 In fury you strode over the earth;
in wrath you threshed the nations.
13 You went forth for the salvation of your people,
for the salvation of your anointed.
You crushed the head of the house of the wicked,
laying bare the foundation to the neck. Selah 14 With his own spears you stabbed the heads of his warriors,[j] who rushed out like a storm to scatter me,
gloating as though devouring the helpless in hiding.
15 You trampled the sea with your horses,
the heaving of many waters.
16 I heard, and my body trembled;
my lips quivered at the sound;
rottenness entered into my bones;
I trembled where I stood,
because I must wait quietly for the day of distress
to come upon the people who invade us.

17 Though the fig tree does not blossom,
and no grapes grow on the vines;
though the olive harvest fails,
and the fields yield no grain;
though the sheep vanish from the pen,
and no cattle stand in the barns,
18 yet I will rejoice in Yahweh;
I will exult in the God of my salvation.
19 Yahweh, the Lord, is my strength;[k]
he makes my feet like the feet of deer,
and makes me tread upon my high places.
For the choir director: on my stringed instruments.[l]

Notes

- a (3:1) Shigionoth is probably a musical or liturgical term. Its meaning is unknown; compare the title of Psalm 7. The Habakkuk Commentary from Qumran comments only on chapters 1–2.
- b (3:2) The Septuagint has a very different text here, beginning "You shall be known between the two living creatures."
- c (3:3) Teman (in Edom) and Mount Paran (in the Sinai peninsula) lie to the south of Judah. Compare Deuteronomy 33:2 and Judges 5:4. Selah is a term of uncertain meaning, probably musical or liturgical; it occurs here and in verses 9 and 13.
- d (3:4) Hebrew qarnayim, literally "horns," used here of rays of light.
- e (3:5) Hebrew dever ("pestilence") and reshef ("plague, burning fever"). Reshef is also the name of a Canaanite god of plague, and here it may picture plague as one of God's attendants.
- f (3:6) Or "and shook the earth."
- g (3:7) Cushan appears only here. It may be a poetic name for Cush, or the name of a tribe connected with Midian (compare Numbers 12:1).
- h (3:9) The Hebrew of this line is notoriously obscure. Literally it is "sworn were the rods (or tribes) of the word."
- i (3:10) The Wadi Murabba'at Minor Prophets scroll reads "the clouds poured out water," as in Psalm 77:17. The Masoretic Text has "the torrent of waters swept by."
- j (3:14) The Hebrew of verse 14 is difficult, and the translation is uncertain.
- k (3:19) Hebrew YHWH Adonai. "My high places" are the heights.
- l (3:19) This note is addressed to the leader of the temple music, like the titles of many psalms.

Zephaniah

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 The word of Yahweh that came to Zephaniah the son of Cushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hezekiah, in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah.[a] 2 "I will utterly sweep away everything from upon the face of the ground," declares Yahweh.
3 "I will remove people and livestock;
I will remove the birds that fly in the sky
and the fish of the ocean,
and the idols[b] along with the wicked.
I will eliminate humanity
from the face of the earth," declares Yahweh.
4 "I will raise my hand against Judah
and all who live in Jerusalem;
from this place I will eliminate every trace of Baal,
the names of the pagan priests along with the temple priests,[c] 5 those who worship the stars of heaven
from their rooftops;
those who kneel and swear loyalty to Yahweh
while also swearing by Milcom;[d] 6 those who have turned back from following Yahweh, who have not sought Yahweh nor inquired of him."
7 Hush in the presence of the Lord Yahweh!
The day of Yahweh is close;
Yahweh has made ready a slaughter
and set apart those he has invited.
8 "And it shall come to pass on the day of Yahweh's sacrifice that I will punish the princes and the sons of the king, and all who are clothed in foreign clothing.

9 On that day I will punish all who leap across the threshold,[e]
and those who load their lords' houses with violent loot and lies.
10 "On that day," declares Yahweh,
"there shall be the sound of a cry from the Fish Gate,
a wail from the Second Quarter,[f]
and a great crash from the hills.
11 Howl, you who dwell in the Mortar![g]
For all the people of Canaan are brought to silence;
all who weigh out silver are cut off.
12 At that time I will search Jerusalem with lamps,
and I will punish the men who are thickening on their dregs,[h]
who say in their heart,
'Yahweh will not do good,
nor will he do evil.'
13 Their wealth shall become plunder
and their houses a waste.
Though they build houses, they shall not dwell in them;
though they plant vineyards, they shall not drink their wine."
14 The great day of Yahweh is near,
it is near and hurries greatly.
Hark, the day of Yahweh! It is bitter;
the mighty man cries aloud there.
15 That day will be a day of rage,[i] a time of anguish and misery,
a time of wreckage and waste,
a time of darkness and dimness,
a time of storm clouds and blackness, 16 a day of the ram's horn and of the war cry
against the walled cities
and against the high corner towers.
17 "I will bring distress upon mankind,
and they shall walk like the blind,

because they have sinned against Yahweh;
their blood shall be poured out like dust,
and their flesh like dung."
18 Neither their silver nor their gold will have power to save them
on the day of Yahweh's fury.
His blazing jealousy will consume
the whole earth,
for he will bring a sudden, terrifying end
to everyone living on the planet.

Notes

- a (1:1) Zephaniah means "Yahweh has hidden" or "Yahweh has treasured up"; Cushi means "Cushite"; Gedaliah, "Yahweh is great"; Amariah, "Yahweh has spoken"; and Hezekiah, "Yahweh strengthens." This Hezekiah may be the king of that name (reigned about 715–686 BC), though the text does not say so. Josiah reigned about 640–609 BC.
- b (1:3) The Hebrew phrase "and the stumbling blocks" (perhaps meaning idols) is obscure, and the Septuagint lacks it.
- c (1:4) Hebrew kemarim, a word used for priests of foreign gods (compare 2 Kings 23:5 and Hosea 10:5). The Septuagint has "the names of the priests."
- d (1:5) Malcam means "their king." It probably refers to Milcom, the god of the Ammonites (1 Kings 11:5), and some ancient versions read "Milcom." The Septuagint has "their king."
- e (1:9) This may refer to a pagan custom (compare 1 Samuel 5:5), or to palace servants rushing in to seize the goods of others.
- f (1:10) The Fish Gate and the Second Quarter (Hebrew Mishneh) were in the northern part of Jerusalem.
- g (1:11) Hebrew Makhtesh, "mortar" or "hollow," probably a district of Jerusalem. "The people of Canaan" may also be translated "the merchants."
- h (1:12) That is, like wine left too long on its sediment: complacent and stagnant (compare Jeremiah 48:11).
- i (1:15) In the Latin Vulgate, the opening words of this verse are Dies irae, dies illa ("A day of wrath, that day"). They gave the medieval hymn Dies irae its name.

Chapter 2

1 Gather yourselves together and gather,[a]
O nation without shame,
2 before the decree brings forth—like chaff the day passes by—

before the fierce anger of Yahweh comes upon you,
before there comes upon you
the day of the anger of Yahweh.
3 Seek Yahweh, all you humble of the land,
who do his justice;
seek righteousness; seek humility;
perhaps you will be hidden
on the day of the anger of Yahweh.[b] 4 For Gaza shall be forsaken,
and Ashkelon a desolation;
Ashdod they shall drive out at noon,
and Ekron shall be uprooted.[c] 5 Disaster for those living along the coast,
you nation of Cretans![d]
Yahweh's message is aimed at you,
Canaan, land of the Philistines:
I will wipe you out, leaving no one living there.
6 And the land by the sea shall become pastures,
caves for shepherds, and pens for sheep.[e] 7 The coast shall belong to the remnant of the house of Judah;
on it they shall graze;
in the houses of Ashkelon
they shall lie down at evening.
For Yahweh their God will visit them
and restore their fortunes.
8 "I have listened to Moab's insults and the abuse of the Ammonites,
who have mocked my people
and boasted over their borders.
9 Therefore, as surely as I live," announces Yahweh of Armies, the God of Israel,[f]
"Moab will end up like Sodom,
and Ammon like Gomorrah,
overgrown with weeds, pits of salt,

and permanent ruin.
The rest of my people will loot them;
those of my nation who are left will take their land."
10 This is what they get for their arrogance, for scorning and boasting against the people of Yahweh of Armies.
11 Yahweh will terrify them,
for he will wither all the earth's gods;[g]
and every distant shore of the nations will worship him, each in its own place.
12 You also, O Cushites,[h]
shall be slain by my sword.
13 And he will stretch out his hand against the north and destroy Assyria,
and he will make Nineveh a desolation,
dry as the wilderness.
14 Flocks will bed down in her center,
every kind of creature;[i]
the desert owl and the porcupine
will roost on her capitals;
hooting will sound from the windows,
rubble will fill the doorways,
because he has stripped her cedar paneling bare.
15 This is the exultant city
that dwelt securely,
that said in her heart,
"I am, and there is none else."
How she has become a desolation,
a lair for wild beasts!
Everyone who passes by her
hisses and shakes his fist.

Notes

- a (2:1) The Hebrew of verses 1–2 is difficult. The verb in verse 1 may mean "gather like stubble," and the phrase translated "before the decree takes effect" is literally "before the decree gives birth."

- b (2:3) "Hidden" (Hebrew sathar) may echo the name Zephaniah ("Yahweh has hidden"), though the verb is different.
- c (2:4) The verse plays on the Hebrew names: Gaza (ʻAzzah) will be forsaken (ʻazuvah), and Ekron (ʻEqron) will be uprooted (teʻaqer).
- d (2:5) The Cherethites were a people of the coast, closely linked with the Philistines and probably from Crete (Kaphtor).
- e (2:6) The Hebrew word translated "meadows" (keroth) is uncertain. It may refer to wells or to shepherds' huts, and it may echo "Cherethites" in verse 5.
- f (2:9) Hebrew YHWH Tseva'ot, traditionally "the LORD of hosts." The "armies" are the forces of heaven (the angels and the stars) and sometimes the armies of Israel. The title is translated "Yahweh of Armies" throughout.
- g (2:11) Or "he will make lean," that is, cut off the offerings by which the gods were thought to be fed.
- h (2:12) Cush is the upper Nile region (ancient Nubia). Egypt was ruled by a Cushite dynasty until 656 BC.
- i (2:14) "Nation" may refer to any kind of creature ("every kind of beast"). The birds and animals named in this verse cannot be identified with certainty. The Septuagint differs in several places, for example "ravens in her porches."

Chapter 3

1 Woe to her who is rebellious and defiled,
the oppressing city![a] 2 She has not obeyed his call;
she has refused discipline.
She has not put her trust in Yahweh;
she has not come close to her God.
3 Her officials within her are roaring lions;
her judges are wolves of the evening
that leave nothing until the morning.
4 Her prophets are reckless,
men of treachery;
her priests have profaned what is holy;
they have done violence to the law.
5 Yahweh within her is righteous;
he does no injustice;
morning by morning he brings his justice to light;
he does not fail;
but the unjust knows no shame.

6 “I have destroyed nations;
their watchtowers lie in ruins;
I have emptied their streets
so that nobody walks there;
their cities are devastated,
with no people, no inhabitants.
7 I said, ‘Surely you will fear me;
you will accept correction.’
Then her dwelling would not be cut off,
for all that I appointed against her.
But they rose early and made all their deeds corrupt.
8 “Therefore wait for me,” declares Yahweh,
“until the day that I rise up for the prey.[b]
For my judgment is to gather the nations,
that I may assemble the kingdoms,
to pour my indignation on them,
even all my fierce anger;
for all the earth shall be devoured
by the fire of my zeal.
9 “For then I will turn to the peoples a purified lip,[c]
that they may all call upon Yahweh’s name
and serve him with one shoulder.[d]
10 From beyond the rivers of Cush
my worshipers, the daughter of my scattered ones, shall bring my offering.[e] 11 In that day you will not be ashamed for any of your doings
in which you transgressed against me;
for then I will take away from among you
those who exult in their pride, and you shall no longer be haughty
on my holy mountain.
12 Instead I will leave among you
a poor and humble people,
who will find shelter in Yahweh’s name.

13 The remnant of Israel shall do no injustice
and speak no lies,
nor shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth;
for they shall graze and lie down,
and none shall make them afraid."
14 Shout for joy, daughter of Zion;
sing out, Israel!
Rejoice and celebrate with your whole heart,
daughter of Jerusalem!
15 Yahweh has removed your judgments;
he has turned back your enemy.
The King of Israel, Yahweh, is in your midst;
you shall never again fear evil.
16 On that day Jerusalem will be told:
"Zion, do not be afraid;
do not let your hands go limp.
17 Yahweh your God lives among you,
a warrior who gives victory;
he will take delight in you,
renew you by his love,[f]
and celebrate over you with songs." 18 "I will gather those who grieve for the appointed feasts;
they were from you,
a burden of reproach upon her.[g]
19 Behold, at that time I will deal with all who afflict you, and I will rescue the limping
and gather those who were driven away,
and I will make them a praise and a name
in every land where they were put to shame.[h] 20 At that time I will lead you home,
and at that time I will assemble you;
I will make you famous and honored
among every people on earth,
when I reverse your misfortunes before your very eyes," says Yahweh.

Notes

- a (3:1) Hebrew mor'ah, "rebellious," may play on mar'ah, "seen," or on Moriah, the temple mount. The city is Jerusalem.
- b (3:8) Hebrew la'ad, "for the prey." The Septuagint has "for a witness," reading the same letters as le'ed.
- c (3:9) Literally "I will turn to the peoples a pure lip." The Wadi Murabba'at Minor Prophets scroll reads "upon the peoples."
- d (3:9) That is, "side by side, with one accord."
- e (3:10) The Hebrew of the second line is difficult. Some take "the daughter of Putsai" as a place name. The Septuagint has "I will receive my dispersed ones; they shall offer sacrifices to me."
- f (3:17) Literally "he will be silent in his love," perhaps meaning that he will no longer speak of their sins. The Septuagint has "and shall renew you in his love," reading yehaddesh for yaharish.
- g (3:18) The Hebrew of this verse is obscure, and the translation is uncertain. The Septuagint has "And I will gather your afflicted ones. Alas! who has taken up a reproach against her?"
- h (3:19) Literally "in all the earth, their shame."

Haggai

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 On the first day of the sixth month of King Darius's second year (in August–September),[a] a message from Yahweh came through the prophet Haggai[b] for Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, who governed Judah, and for the high priest Joshua son of Jehozadak:[c] 2 "Thus says Yahweh of Armies:[d] This people says, 'The time has not come, the time for the house of Yahweh to be rebuilt.'" 3 Then Yahweh's message came through the prophet Haggai: 4 "Is it a time for you yourselves to dwell in your paneled houses, while this house lies in ruins?[e] 5 Now therefore, thus says Yahweh of Armies: Set your heart on your ways. 6 You have sown much and brought in little;
you eat, but never to fullness; you drink, but never to drunkenness;
you clothe yourselves, but no one is warm. And he who earns wages earns them for a bag pierced with holes.
7 "Thus says Yahweh of Armies: Set your heart on your ways. 8 Go up into the hills, bring timber, and rebuild the house, so I can enjoy it and be honored there, says Yahweh. 9 You expected a large harvest, but it turned out small; whatever you brought home, I blew away.
Why? announces Yahweh of Armies. Because my house remains a ruin, while every one of you hurries off to his own house. 10 Therefore over you the heavens have held back the dew, and the earth has held back its produce. 11 I have summoned a drought[f] over the land and the hills, over the grain, the new wine, the oil, whatever the soil produces, over people and livestock, and over everything they work for."
12 Then Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed
the voice of Yahweh their God and the words of Haggai the prophet, as Yahweh their God had sent him. And the people feared before Yahweh. 13 Then Haggai, the messenger of Yahweh, spoke to the people with Yahweh's message,[g] saying, "I am with you, declares Yahweh." 14 And Yahweh stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people. And they came and did work on the house of Yahweh of Armies, their God, 15 on the twenty-fourth day of the month, in the sixth month (in August–September), in the second year of Darius the king.[h]

Notes

- a (1:1) Hebrew "in the sixth month," that is, Elul, in the calendar whose year begins in the spring. The second year of Darius I (who reigned 522–486 BC) is 520 BC. As the dates are commonly reckoned, this day was about August 29, 520 BC. Because the Hebrew months were lunar, each corresponds to parts of two modern months.
- b (1:1) Haggai probably means "festal" (from hag, "feast"). The Septuagint has "Speak to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, of the tribe of Judah."
- c (1:1) Zerubbabel probably means "seed of Babylon"; Shealtiel, "I have asked God"; Joshua, "Yahweh saves" (in Greek, Iēsous, "Jesus"); Jehozadak, "Yahweh is righteous." Joshua is called Jeshua in Ezra and Nehemiah.
- d (1:2) Hebrew YHWH Tseva'ot, traditionally "the LORD of hosts." The "armies" are the forces of heaven (the angels and the stars) and sometimes the armies of Israel. The title is translated "Yahweh of Armies" throughout.
- e (1:4) Hebrew harev, "in ruins." The same word appears in verse 9.
- f (1:11) Hebrew horev, "drought," plays on harev, "in ruins" (verses 4 and 9): because the house lies in ruins (harev), Yahweh calls a drought (horev).
- g (1:13) Or "with Yahweh's commission." The word "messenger" (mal'akh) is the same word as in Malachi ("my messenger").
- h (1:15) About September 21, 520 BC. Some scholars attach the date to the beginning of 2:1.

Chapter 2

1 On the twenty-first day of the seventh month (in September–October),[a] Yahweh's message came through the prophet Haggai:[b] 2 "Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and to the remnant of the people, saying, 3 'Who is left among you who saw this house in its former glory? And how do you see it now? Is it not as nothing in your eyes? 4 Yet now be strong, O Zerubbabel, declares Yahweh. Be strong, O Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest. Be strong, all you people of the land, declares Yahweh. Work, for I am with you, declares Yahweh of Armies, 5 This is the promise I made you when you left Egypt.[c] My Spirit remains among you. Do not be afraid.

6 "'For thus says Yahweh of Armies: Yet once more, in a little while, I will shake the heavens and the earth and the sea and the dry land.[d] 7
And I will make all nations tremble, and the desirable things of every nation shall come,[e] and I will fill this house with glory, says Yahweh of Armies. 8 The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, declares Yahweh of Armies. 9 The latter glory of this house shall be greater than the former, says Yahweh of Armies. And in this place I will give peace, declares Yahweh of Armies.'"[f]
10 On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month (in November– December) of Darius's second year,[g] Yahweh's message came to the prophet Haggai: 11 "Thus says Yahweh of Armies: Ask the priests for a ruling:[h] 12 'If a man carries holy meat in the fold of his garment, and with his fold touches bread or pottage or wine or oil or any food, will it be made holy?'" And the priests answered, "No." 13 Then Haggai said, "If someone defiled by a corpse touches any of these, will it be defiled?" And the priests answered, "It will be defiled." 14 Then Haggai answered and said, "So is this people, and so is this nation before me, declares Yahweh, and so is every work of their hands; and what they offer there is unclean.[i] 15 "And now, set your heart on it from this day onward.[j] Before stone was laid upon stone in the temple of Yahweh, 16 how did you fare?
When one came to a heap of twenty measures, there were but ten;
when one came to the wine vat to draw fifty measures, there were but twenty.[k] 17 I struck you with blight and with mildew and with hail in all the work of your hands, yet you did not turn to me,[l] declares Yahweh. 18 Set your heart from this day onward, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month (in November–December), from the day that the foundation of the temple of Yahweh was laid—set your heart on it: 19 Is the seed yet in the barn? As for the vine, the fig tree, the pomegranate, and the olive tree, they have borne nothing. From this day on I will bless you."
20 And the word of Yahweh came a second time to Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the month, saying, 21 "Tell Zerubbabel, governor of Judah: I am about to shake the sky and the earth, 22 and I will topple royal thrones and break the power of the foreign kingdoms. I will overturn chariots and their drivers; horses and riders will fall, each killed by his comrade's sword. 23 On that day, declares Yahweh of Armies, I will take you, O Zerubbabel my servant, the son of Shealtiel, declares Yahweh, and I will make you like a signet ring,[m] for I have chosen you, declares Yahweh of Armies."

Notes

- a (2:1) Tishri, the seventh month. The twenty-first day was the last day of the Feast of Booths (Leviticus 23:34–36). As commonly reckoned, it was about October 17, 520 BC.
- b (2:1) The Wadi Murabba'at Minor Prophets scroll reads "came to Haggai."
- c (2:5) The Septuagint lacks the first clause, "according to the word that I covenanted with you when you came out of Egypt."
- d (2:6) Quoted in Hebrews 12:26–27. The Septuagint has "Yet once I will shake the heaven, and the earth."
- e (2:7) Or "the desire of all nations shall come." The Hebrew noun is singular ("desire," "what is desired"), but the verb is plural, which suggests valued things. The Latin Vulgate's "the desired one of all nations will come" gave rise to a messianic reading. The Septuagint has "the choice portions of all the nations."
- f (2:9) The Septuagint adds "even peace of soul for a possession to everyone who builds, to raise up this temple."
- g (2:10) About December 18, 520 BC. Kislev is the ninth month.
- h (2:11) Hebrew torah, "instruction" or "law."
- i (2:14) The Septuagint adds "and whoever approaches them shall be defiled because of their early burdens; they shall be pained because of their toils; and you have hated him who reproved in the gates" (compare Amos 5:10).
- j (2:15) Hebrew "upward," meaning either "from this day forward" or "backward from this day." The same expression appears in verse 18.
- k (2:16) The measures are not named in the Hebrew. The Septuagint has "twenty measures of barley." In the second clause, the Hebrew "fifty" is literally "fifty of the winepress" (purah).
- l (2:17) Compare Amos 4:9. The Hebrew is literally "yet there was not you to me." The Septuagint has "yet you did not return to me."
- m (2:23) A signet ring was a royal seal, a sign of authority. This reverses the word against Zerubbabel's grandfather Jehoiachin (Coniah) in Jeremiah 22:24.

Zechariah

Old Testament

Chapter 1

1 In the eighth month (October–November) of Darius's second year,[a] Yahweh's word came to the prophet Zechariah, son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, saying,[b] 2 "Yahweh was very angry with your fathers.
3 Therefore say to them, Thus says Yahweh of Armies:[c] Return to me, declares Yahweh of Armies, and I will return to you, says Yahweh of Armies. 4 Do not be like your ancestors, whom the earlier prophets called out to: 'This is what Yahweh of Armies says: Turn away at once from your wicked paths and your wicked actions.' But they would not listen or give me any notice, says Yahweh. 5 Your fathers—where are they? And the prophets—do they live forever? 6 But the warnings and decrees I commissioned my servants the prophets to deliver, did they not overtake your ancestors? They repented and said, 'Yahweh of Armies has done to us exactly what he planned for our paths and actions.'"
7 On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, the month of Shebat (January–February), in Darius's second year,[d] Yahweh's word came to the prophet Zechariah, son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, saying, 8 In the night I had a vision: a man riding a red horse, who halted among the myrtle trees in the glen;[e] behind him were red, chestnut, and white horses.[f] 9 Then I said, "What are these, my lord?" And the angel who talked with me said to me, "I will show you what these are."
10 The man standing among the myrtles replied, "These are the ones Yahweh has sent to patrol the earth." 11 They reported to Yahweh's angel, who stood among the myrtles, "We have patrolled the earth, and look, the whole earth is calm and quiet." 12 Then the angel of Yahweh answered, "O Yahweh of Armies, until when will you withhold compassion from Jerusalem and from the cities of Judah, with which you have been indignant now seventy years?"[g] 13 And Yahweh answered the angel who talked with me with good words, words of comfort. 14 So the angel who talked with me said to me, "Cry out, saying, 'Thus says Yahweh of Armies: I am jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion with a great jealousy. 15 And with great anger I am angry with the nations at ease; for I was only a little angry, but they furthered the evil. 16 Therefore this is Yahweh's word: I have come back to Jerusalem in mercy; my house will be rebuilt there, declares Yahweh of Armies, and the surveyor's cord will be stretched across Jerusalem.' 17 Proclaim once more: 'This is what Yahweh of Armies says: My towns will again brim with prosperity, and Yahweh will again console Zion and once more select Jerusalem.'"[h]

18 And I lifted up my eyes and saw, and behold, four horns![i] 19 And I said to the angel who talked with me, "What are these?" And he said to me, "These are the horns that have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem." 20 Then Yahweh showed me four craftsmen. 21 I asked, "What have these come to do?" He replied, "These are the horns that dispersed Judah so that nobody could lift up his head. But these craftsmen have come to frighten them and to hurl down the horns of the nations that raised a horn against Judah's land in order to scatter its people."

Notes

- a (1:1) Hebrew "in the eighth month," that is, Marcheshvan (later Heshvan), in the calendar whose year begins in the spring, in 520 BC. No day is given. Because the Hebrew months were lunar, each corresponds to parts of two modern months.
- b (1:1) Zechariah means "Yahweh remembers"; Berechiah, "Yahweh blesses"; Iddo perhaps "timely." Ezra 5:1 and 6:14 call Zechariah "the son of Iddo," that is, his grandson or descendant. Compare Matthew 23:35.
- c (1:3) Hebrew YHWH Tseva'ot, traditionally "the LORD of hosts." The "armies" are the forces of heaven (the angels and the stars) and sometimes the armies of Israel. The title is translated "Yahweh of Armies" throughout.
- d (1:7) Shebat (Shevat) is the eleventh month. As commonly reckoned, this was about February 15, 519 BC.
- e (1:8) Or "in the deep place." The Septuagint has "between the shady mountains" (also in verses 10–11), reading harim, "mountains," for hadassim, "myrtles."
- f (1:8) The color of the second group (Hebrew seruqqim) is uncertain: perhaps "sorrel," "bay," or "speckled." The Septuagint has four colors: "red, and grey, and piebald, and white."
- g (1:12) Compare Jeremiah 25:11–12 and 29:10. From the destruction of the temple in 586 BC to this vision is about seventy years (counted inclusively).

- h (1:17) Hebrew tov, “good,” also “prosperity.”
- i (1:18) English 1:18–21 is Hebrew 2:1–4.

Chapter 2

1 And I lifted up my eyes and saw, and behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand![a] 2 I asked, “Where are you headed?” He told me, “To measure Jerusalem, to find out its width and its length.” 3 And behold, the angel who talked with me went out, and another angel went out to meet him 4 and he said to him, “Run, speak to this young man, saying, ‘Jerusalem will be settled like unwalled villages, because of the great number of men and cattle in her midst. 5 And I myself will be to her a wall of fire all around, declares Yahweh, and I will be the glory in her midst.’”
6 Up! Up! Flee from the land of the north, declares Yahweh, for I have spread you out like the four winds of the heavens, declares Yahweh.[b] 7 Up, O Zion! Escape, you who dwell with the daughter of Babylon.
8 For this is what Yahweh of Armies says: after glory he sent me[c] against the nations that plundered you—for whoever touches you touches the apple of his eye:[d] 9 “For see, I am swinging my hand over them, and they shall be spoil to their own servants; and you will know that Yahweh of Armies has sent me.
10 Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion, for behold, I come, and I will dwell in your midst, declares Yahweh. 11 And many nations shall join themselves to Yahweh in that day and shall be my people. And I will dwell in your midst, and you shall know that Yahweh of Armies has sent me to you. 12 And Yahweh will take possession of Judah as his portion in the holy land,[e] and will again choose Jerusalem. 13 Be silent, all flesh, before Yahweh, for he has roused himself from his holy dwelling.”

Notes

- a (2:1) English 2:1–13 is Hebrew 2:5–17.
- b (2:6) The Septuagint has “for I will gather you from the four winds of heaven.”
- c (2:8) The Hebrew of this phrase is obscure. It may mean “after the glory (that is, the vision) he sent me,” or “with glory he sent me,” or “for his glory’s sake.”

- d (2:8) Hebrew "his eye." Jewish tradition lists this as one of the "corrections of the scribes" (tiqqune sopherim), and it reports that the original reading was "my eye." The word translated "pupil" (bavah) is literally "gate" or "little one" of the eye.
- e (2:12) This is the only place in the Hebrew Bible where the land is called "the holy land."

Chapter 3

1 Then he showed me Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of Yahweh, and the Accuser[a] standing at his right hand to accuse him.
2 And Yahweh said to the Accuser, "Yahweh rebuke you, O Accuser!
[b] Yahweh who has chosen Jerusalem rebuke you! Is not this a brand plucked from the fire?" 3 Now Joshua was clothed in filthy garments, and he was standing before the angel. 4 And he spoke up and said to those standing in front of him, "Take the filthy clothes off him."
And to him he said, "See, I have made your iniquity pass away from you, and I will clothe you in fine robes." 5 And I said, "Let them put a clean turban on his head." So they put a clean turban on his head and clothed him with garments. And the angel of Yahweh was standing by.
6 And the angel of Yahweh solemnly charged Joshua, saying, 7 "This is what Yahweh of Armies says: If you follow my paths and observe my requirements, then you will govern my house and guard my courtyards, and I will grant you free passage among these attendants.
8 Listen, Joshua the high priest, you and your colleagues seated before you, for they are men who serve as a sign: I am about to bring my servant, the Branch.[c] 9 For behold, the stone that I have set before Joshua: on one stone are seven eyes.[d] Behold, I will engrave its inscription, declares Yahweh of Armies, and I will remove the iniquity of this land in a single day. 10 In that day, declares Yahweh of Armies, you shall call each man to his neighbor, beneath the vine and beneath the fig tree."

Notes

- a (3:1) Hebrew hassatan, "the adversary" or "the accuser." With the article, it is a title (compare Job 1–2), not yet a personal name. The verb "to accuse him" (lesitno) comes from the same root. The Septuagint has "the Devil."
- b (3:2) Compare Jude 9. The Septuagint has "The Lord rebuke you, O Devil."

- c (3:8) Hebrew tsemah, “sprout” or “shoot,” a title of the coming king from David’s line (Jeremiah 23:5 and 33:15). See also 6:12.
- d (3:9) Or “seven facets.” The verb translated “engrave” is used for cutting gems; the Septuagint has “I am digging a trench.”

Chapter 4

1 Then the angel who had spoken to me before came back and woke me, like someone woken from sleep. 2 And he said to me, “What do you see?” And I said, “I have looked, and there is a lampstand entirely of gold, and its bowl upon its top, and its seven lamps upon it, seven and seven pipes for the lamps that are upon its top.[a] 3 And there are two olive trees by it, one on the right of the bowl and the other on its left.” 4 And I answered and said to the angel who talked with me, “What are these, my lord?” 5 Then the angel who talked with me answered and said to me, “Do you not know what these are?” I said, “No, my lord.” 6 Then he answered and said to me, “This is the word of Yahweh to Zerubbabel: Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, says Yahweh of Armies. 7 What are you, great mountain? In front of Zerubbabel you will become level ground. He will bring out the capstone to shouts of ‘Blessing, blessing on it!’”[b] 8 Moreover, the word of Yahweh came to me, saying, 9 “Zerubbabel’s hands have laid this house’s foundation; his hands will also finish it.
Then you will recognize that Yahweh of Armies sent me to you. 10
For who has despised the day of small things? For these seven shall rejoice and shall see the plumb stone in the hand of Zerubbabel.[c]
These are the eyes of Yahweh, which range through the whole earth.” 11 Then I answered and said to him, “What are these two olive trees on the right and the left of the lampstand?” 12 A second time I asked him, “What are the two olive branches next to the two golden spouts that empty out the golden oil?”[d] 13 He answered me, “Do you not know what these things are?” And I said, “No, my lord.” 14 Then he said, “These are the two sons of oil[e] who stand by the Lord of all the earth.”[f]

Notes

- a (4:2) That is, perhaps seven pipes to each lamp (forty-nine in all), or fourteen in all. The Septuagint has “and seven oil funnels to the lamps.”

- b (4:7) Or “Beauty, beauty to it!” (Hebrew hen hen). The Septuagint differs: “I will bring out the stone of the inheritance, the grace of it the equal of my grace.”
- c (4:10) Hebrew “the stone, the tin” (ha’even habbedil), probably a plumb weight or a separating stone. The Septuagint has “the plummet of tin.” In the Hebrew, “these seven” are the eyes of Yahweh (compare 3:9).
- d (4:12) The Hebrew of this verse is difficult. The word translated “pipes” is unique, and the last phrase is literally “that empty the gold out of themselves.”
- e (4:14) Hebrew bene hayyitshar, “sons of fresh oil,” that is, the anointed ones. They are probably Zerubbabel and Joshua. Compare Revelation 11:4.
- f (4:14) Hebrew adon, “lord,” not the divine title Adonai. This title also appears at 6:5.

Chapter 5

1 Again I lifted up my eyes and saw, and behold, a flying scroll![a] 2 And he said to me, “What do you see?” I answered, “I see a flying scroll. Its length is thirty feet, and its breadth fifteen feet.”[b] 3 He told me, “This is the curse sweeping over the surface of the whole land. Everyone who steals will be removed, as the one side of the scroll declares, and everyone who swears falsely will be removed, as the other side declares.[c] 4 I will send it out, declares Yahweh of Armies, and it shall enter the house of the thief and the house of him who swears falsely by my name. And it shall lodge in the midst of his house and consume it, both its timber and its stones.”
5 Then the angel who was speaking with me stepped forward and told me, “Look up and notice what is appearing.” 6 And I said, “What is it?” He said, “This is the measuring basket that is going out.”[d] And he said, “This is their eye in all the land.”[e] 7 And behold, a round cover of lead was lifted,[f] and this was a woman sitting in the basket! 8 And he said, “This is Wickedness.” And he cast her down into the middle of the basket, and cast the lead weight upon its opening. 9 Then I raised my eyes and looked, and there came out two women, with wind in their wings; and they had wings like a stork’s wings, and they raised the basket up between the earth and the heavens. 10 Then I said to the angel who talked with me, “Where are they taking the basket?” 11 He said to me, “To build a house for it in the land of Shinar.[g] And when it is prepared, it will be set down there on its base.”

Notes

- a (5:1) The Septuagint has “a flying sickle,” reading maggal for megillah.
- b (5:2) Hebrew “twenty cubits … ten cubits,” about 9 by 4.5 meters. A cubit is about 18 inches (45 centimeters).
- c (5:3) Or “shall be cleaned out” or “shall go unpunished.” The Hebrew word (niqqah) is ambiguous. Each side of the scroll apparently bore one of the two curses.
- d (5:6) Hebrew ephah, a dry measure of about 3/5 bushel (22 liters). Here it is the container that held that amount, a basket or barrel; so also in verses 7–11. It could not normally hold a person, which marks this as a vision.
- e (5:6) Hebrew “their eye.” The Septuagint has “their iniquity,” reading ʿawonam for ʿenam, a difference of one letter. Many translators follow it.
- f (5:7) Hebrew kikkar, “round thing,” the same word used for a talent, a weight of about 75 pounds (34 kilograms). Literally “a talent of lead”; the Septuagint has the same.
- g (5:11) Shinar is Babylonia (Genesis 10:10 and 11:2, the land of the tower of Babel). The Septuagint has “the land of Babylon.”

Chapter 6

1 And again I lifted up my eyes and saw, and behold, four chariots coming out from between two mountains! And the mountains were mountains of bronze. 2 With the first chariot were red horses, and with the second chariot black horses, 3 in the third chariot white horses, and in the fourth chariot spotted, strong horses.[a] 4 Then I answered and said to the angel who talked with me, “What are these, my lord?” 5 The angel replied, “These are heading out to the four winds of heaven, after standing in the presence of the Lord of the whole earth.[b] 6 The one with the black horses is going out to the land of the north, and the white have gone out after them,[c] and the dappled have gone out to the land of the south.” 7 And the strong ones went out and sought to go and walk to and fro through the earth. And he said, “Go, walk to and fro through the earth.” So they walked to and fro through the earth. 8 Then he called to me and said, “Look, those heading to the northern land have settled my Spirit in the northern land.”[d]

9 And the word of Yahweh came to me, saying, 10 “Take from the captivity, from Heldai, from Tobijah, and from Jedaiah, and come yourself on that same day; come to the house of Josiah son of Zephaniah, where they have arrived from Babylon.[e] 11 Take from them silver and gold, and make crowns,[f] and set it on the head of Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest. 12 And speak to him, saying, ‘Thus says Yahweh of Armies: See, a man whose name is Branch! From his place he shall sprout up,[g] and he shall build the temple of Yahweh. 13 He is the one who will construct Yahweh’s temple and wear majesty, and sit and govern from his throne. There will also be a priest at his throne,[h] and the two will share a peaceful understanding.’ 14 And the crown shall be for Helem and for Tobijah and for Jedaiah and for Hen son of Zephaniah, as a memorial in the temple of Yahweh.[i] 15 People from far away will come and help build Yahweh’s temple. Then you will recognize that Yahweh of Armies sent me to you. All this will happen if you faithfully listen to Yahweh your God.”

Notes

- a (6:3) The colors are uncertain. The Hebrew of the fourth group has two words (“dappled” and “strong”); the Septuagint has “piebald and ash-coloured.” In verse 7, “strong” (amutstsim) may be another color.
- b (6:5) Or “These are the four spirits of heaven.” The Hebrew ruhot means both “winds” and “spirits.”
- c (6:6) Or “toward the west” (literally “behind them”). The Hebrew does not mention a group going east.
- d (6:8) Or “have set my anger at rest.” The Hebrew is literally “have caused my spirit to rest.” The Septuagint has “my anger.”
- e (6:10) Heldai means “mole” or “enduring”; Tobijah, “Yahweh is good”; Jedaiah, “Yahweh knows”; Josiah, “Yahweh supports.” The Septuagint translates the names as common nouns: “from the chief men, and from the useful men of it, and from them that have understood it.”
- f (6:11) Hebrew ʿatarot is plural (“crowns”), but the verb “set” and the verb in verse 14 are singular. It may mean a single elaborate crown.
- g (6:12) Hebrew yitsmah, “he shall sprout,” a play on Tsemah, “Branch.” Compare 3:8.
- h (6:13) The Septuagint has “and there shall be a priest on his right hand.”
- i (6:14) Helem is probably Heldai (verse 10), and Hen (“grace”) is probably Josiah. Hen may also be translated “as a kindness to the son of Zephaniah.” The Septuagint has “to them that wait patiently … and for the favour of the son of Sophonias, and for a psalm in the house of the Lord.”

Chapter 7

1 In King Darius’s fourth year, Yahweh’s word came to Zechariah on the fourth day of the ninth month, Kislev (November–December).[a] 2 Now Bethel had sent Sharezer and Regem-melech and their men to entreat the favor of Yahweh,[b] 3 saying to the priests of the house of Yahweh of Armies and to the prophets, "Shall I weep in the fifth month (in July–August), abstaining as I have done these many years?"[c]

4 Then the word of Yahweh of Armies came to me, saying, 5 "Speak to everyone in the land and to the priests: In the fifth and seventh months (September–October) of these seventy years, when you fasted and mourned, was it really for me that you fasted, for me?[d] 6 And when you eat and when you drink, is it not you who eat and you who drink? 7 Were not these the words that Yahweh proclaimed by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and at ease, with her cities around her, and the Negev and the lowland were inhabited?"[e]

